INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

Translations of the SCRIPTURE in General,

A N D

The following One in Particular.

A X I O M I.

A TRANSLATION ought to be TRUE to the ORIGINAL.

THIS must necessarily be allowed; and the Terms of our Law enjoining a Witness to speake the Truth, the whole Truth, and Nothing but the Truth, are applicable with great Propriety to Translators. This is so much the more requisite in a Translation of the holy Scripture, as these Books are of more Value and Importance than others, and the wrong translating them of worse Consequence.

Translators have sometimes grievously missed of speaking Truth, or rendering truly, by putting a Truth instead of the Truth; as for Instance in Job x. 8. made for grieve, it being true that the Hands of God made Job, but not true that he says so by that Hebrew Word, which has no such Meaning: this Way of translating I have observed them apt to fall into, when they come to difficult Passages, for the Conveniency as it seems of getting on, and appears especially to have been the Case with those who have not taken Time enough for doing it.

It is an excellent Direction I have somewhere read, in Relation to the Classics, that one should first study an Author or Passage well, to know the right Meaning from the Writer himself, and then examine Commentators, &c. for there is no small Danger in being misled by others, who did not use the Care they ought to have done.

Had Doddridge lately and others before him taken this Method, they and their Readers might not have been perplexed with Notions and Distinctions, which the first Penmen never thought of, and have been led into Labyrinths from which they could not extricate themselves; while the original Words alone would explain themselves rightly and clearly, to common Understanding.

Many are ready to take Things upon Trust, some are fond of new Discoveries, both which a judicious Person should keep clear of, and by the Method above proposed the very Temptation to either may be avoided; nay he may thus inform himself (what he ought to know) how capable he is for his Undertaking. For the sake also of an elegant Expression, to please himself and his ignorant Readers, how often does an arbitrary Translator treat his Author like the Tyrant that cut or stretched People to the Length of his own Bed?

Another prevailing Motive may also be the Prejudice of particular Opinions, which will operate marvellously, and like a Bribe blind the Eyes of the Wise, Deut. xvi. 19. Hence the Popish ipsa conteret, she shall bruise, Gen. iii. 15. in Honour of the Virgin Mary and Dishonour to Christ; hence the Predestinarian in very deed for this cause have I raised thee up, Exod. ix. 16.

But why should I stand pointing to the wrong Ways, and not rather describe the right, if that be it which I have gone in, and know how to describe? The Hebrew Tongue has an excellent Property and Peculiarity, of taking its Signification from a few Primitive Words called Roots; which indeed it has Need of, as the Scripture of the Old Testament is the only ancient genuine Hebrew in Being: wherein the Divine Prescience may be observed, if we suppose God thus formed it, and that for the Scripture is the principal Use of it. Here an Interpreter should use his Skill and Diligence, regularly to trace every doubtful Word up to the Fountain; and let him copy after none, till he sees himself it is faithfully traced so already.

To some few Words it must be confessed, there are no Hebrew Roots now extant; but consult then others with homogeneous Letters or those transposed, as likewise the Chaldee and Arabick Languages, which will several times supply that; and the latter is happily of late brought into Use for this Purpose, by very learned Men, our Hyde, Pocock, &c. Of this also Ab. Ezra, who was well acquainted with it, says on Gen. i. 1. כִּן בְּלִשׁוֹן יִשְׁמַעֵל שְׂרֹבָה so in the Arabick Tongue, much of which is in the Order of the Hebrew; and on Cant. viii. 11. יוֹתֵר מִחֲצִי הַלִּשׁוֹן יִצְאָ כְּמִצְרֵי בְּלִשׁוֹן הַקֹּדֶשׁ more than half of the Arabick may have what is like it found in the Hebrew Tongue; consequently the Hebrew must agree much with the other.

If these fail, with the Syriack and other eastern Tongues, examine whether the Context, that is the rest of the Words belonging to this whose Meaning is sought, does not determine it. Otherwise, which will seldom be the Case, call to Council the ancient Interpreters, particularly the Greek, Chaldee, and old Latin Translators, as also Jerome (who among those called the Fathers understood Hebrew) and the Rabbies of the Jews; since they might possibly have some Helps, that are now lost.

Their Expositions compared carefully with the Context, by a Person of good Capacity, and well acquainted with those Matters, are to serve, for Necessity's sake, instead of the other. Not that these Authors, no nor the modern Translators and Commentators, are to be neglected, even when we can do without them: they claim a Right to be heard, and may be useful in the happy Choice of a Word or Expression.

And let not the Reader wonder I so often quote Junius and Tremellius, since these above all others seem to have investigated the Hebrew Roots; but they scarce give any Account of it in the Annotations, as if their Readers knew it as well as themselves, or were to take their mere Assertion for Certainty; which differing so much from other Translations, may be apt to startle and offend many: and indeed they sometimes overstrained the Matter, too fond perhaps of Something new; though they altered several Things in latter Editions of their Version, and as I observe to be generally more consonant to the Hebrew.

Nor are the Jewish Writers to be slighted, as they are by some that cannot read them, because they have heard what idle Stuff of their own Traditions there is intermixed, and the Labour is too great to get at the golden Treasure therein contained: such Reasons as might deter Men from digging deep to find Gold it self, and separating it from the Earth.

What the Jews expound is the holy Scripture it self; under the Pretence of which you have commonly from others but some Translation explained, nay often obscured; and that Translation uncertain perhaps to the Makers themselves whether right or wrong, as they but superficially or not at all examined the Original: so that if true, yet the Text, and consequently the Comment, is not to be depended on; and if the former be false, what Injury does the latter do, by strengthening it, and drawing Inferences from the same? Whereas the Jews handle the very Scripture of Truth, as the Angel calls it, Dan. x. 21. nay it is their Practice to take the Words of it literally, and fetch their Meaning, with their Derivation, from their Roots or similar ones: their Rabbies too were good Grammarians in the Hebrew Tongue, and who but such can sufficiently understand it? see also Gill's Preface to his Exposition of the New Testament, 1746.

However when they exceed this, and run into Imaginations, often opposite to one another, taking the Signification of Words from others which do not belong to them, and straining them ridiculously (as they often do) a Translator is to let them go by themselves; and and not follow them, as Munster too much did; though of all the Latin Translators I know, he alone is highly commendable for extracting many valuable Things from them, and yet confuting their Cavils against Christ and Christianity.

Ainsworth likewise, in his Annotations on the Pentateuch, has with laudable Industry, rendered much into English from some celebrated Jewish Writers, especially Maimonides, a valuable discreet Epitomizer of their voluminous Commentaries; and from Ainsworth have the great Dr. Lightfoot and others silently conveyed it. The learned Mercer also, in his Commentary on several Books, has been more full and particular in this Respect, than either of the other; with whom, out of the Originals, the intrinsic Value of the Jewish Interpretations seems best displayed. However I confess, I have not found so many valuable Expositions among the Jews, as I did and might expect.

As the Words of the Original are to be rendered in their right true Meaning, concerning which particularly in the common Translation and this, see the Notes throughout; so none should be overlooked or neglected, though they are not very material, there being such an Esteem and Reverence due to the holy Scripture. But it would have too much incumbered the Notes, to have been continually remarking what our last Translators omitted or added in the present English Bible; as the Driness and less Value of it would have debased the rest. It may be fit however to give the Reader some Instances together, as occasionally noted without seeking for them, first of Words, or such Parts of them as are for our Words, in the Original left untranslated, see the Appendix (A).

To these may be added the frequent Repetition of Verbs in the infinite Mood, which our Translators usually omitted.

Next I have observed, that though our Translators make the Italick Character a Sign of what they have added to the Original, with the Appearance of being very minute and exact in it, yet there are divers other additional Words not so marked, and particularly those in the Appendix (B).

And on the other hand several Words are put in Italick, which should not; as also Additions made where they are not wanted; see 2 Sam. iii. 7. & v. 8. John xx. 5, 11.

And it ought to be remarked, that these Instances were taken (and so the more unexceptionable) from the common Bibles now in Use; whereas Scott on his Version of Matthew v. 12. writes, 'Compare the first Ed. of our present. Engl. Version of the Bible with the later ones, and you'll find Hundreds, I believe some Thousands, of Words now printed in Italic, as Supplements, which at first were printed in the same Character with the Body of the Text.' So that this falls still more on the Translators themselves; and for Instance see [him] twice in Mar. xii. 3. and [it] thrice in Luke viii. 15, 16. none being Italick in the early Editions, but one of the latter now. In Spelling too they had *y*le for isle, creeple for cripple, yce for ice, yer for ere, roul for roll, ynk for ink, kall and then cawle, for caul, bin, bene and beene, Deut. iv. 32. strake, stroke and strooke for struck, for which also some later Oxford Editions have strook, 2 Cbr. xiii. 20. shrich-owle for screech-owl, in the Oxford Bibles shrichowl, Isa. xxxiv. 14. thorow and thorough sometimes for through, astrologians for astrologers, Dan. ii. 27. bee for be, &c. —*ness*e or —nes for —ness, with e frequently redundant at the End, as waxe warme, Job vi. 17. add eies and eyes, childe and child in 2 King. iv. 34. nay flie for flee, Pro. xxviii. 17. Psa. cxxxix. 7. & cxliii. 9. which is another Thing. And many of the Italick Supplements are unnecessary, several improper.

Some perhaps may be ready to say, What small Matters are these! as if they could expect whole Verses or Expressions. But certainly these are fit to be taken notice of, since our Translators undertook, and pretended, minutely to describe all such as the latter Sort in a different Character, which have passed hitherto as authentick.

There are also divers Instances of wrong translating, several of them to the Injury of the Sense, in less and even the least Words, the Articles, Auxiliaries, &c. of Verbs, for which see the Appendix (C).

But farther Observation will be made on some of the Particles, in a more proper Place.
According

According to the preceding Axiom, a Translator should follow the Original Copy that is extant, which may be done here with this Advantage, that while those who translate other Books have the Difficulty of choosing the best, the Hebrew Bible is almost invariable, and fixed to be so, whatever Faults may fall out in printing or transcribing, by the Masoretical Notes; in which the Words are numbered, and even the Peculiarities of Pointing, with the Places where they are throughout the Scripture.

It is an unhappy Work that our infidel critical Age is fallen into, of picking Faults in the holy Scripture, while they seem defective in the Knowledge of the Original. How many turn Hebrew Criticks of this Sort, that are ignorant of the Grammar, and even the right Reading of it? Nay how have I evidently seen in some of their Writings, that they did not know Hebrew Letters one from another! Those pretended Errors in the Hebrew Text, that rise and break like Bubbles on the Water, and cannot establish themselves for solid Truths, as the Discoveries of Truth in other Cases do, I have strictly endeavoured to avoid, unless to expose and condemn them; many being too silly or wide to deserve any Notice, especially as it was not my particular Business. Where the Dirt may seem to stick, I have wiped it off; and thou hast Divine Writ here presented to thee, Reader, pure as it is in great Measure, I hope, in the present English Tongue.

The Hebrew Idioms, or Manner of Expression, as being very different from ours, should be carefully observed, and well understood; otherwise the right Meaning, as well as Propriety of Language, may be missed. The Hebrew doubles finite Verbs in the infinite Mood, instead of our Adverbs; and not unaptly, since Verbs can only have Adverbs suitable to themselves. And such are to be used in a Translation, as the respective Verbs and Expressions require: not as often in the common English that general one surely, as if the Verbs signified not surely without being repeated, or oftener none, as though by those infinite Verbs Nothing was meant; or otherwise what is foreign to the Verb, from whence the Meaning must arise, as for Instance at once, Num. xiii. 30. which Gell would have be not all at once, Essay, p. 467. both without any Relation to go up; nor as in Pro. xxvii. 23. Be thou diligent to know (for know fully) by another Verb. I have rendered them in the following Manner, when the Infinite is put first; earnestly ask, bind fast, utterly blot out, quite consume, draw or eat plentifully, do exceeding well or ill, quite die or be put to death, go apace, quite out or away, be exceeding crafty, glad or gracious, hearken attentively, firmly hire, fully hear or know, be highly incensed or displeased, earnestly long, multiply abundantly, diligently observe, open wide, entirely reign, plainly reveal, see clearly, plainly or apparently, seek diligently, shout fast, sing joyfully, speak or remember well, tell expressly, testify fully, quite wear away, weep grievously, &c. and thoroughly or wholly with divers, as Jun. and Trem. have omnino. Partly answerable to which the Gr. has πάρως, as 1 Cor. ix. 10, &c. and negatively two Negatives. When the infinite Mood follows the other, it signifies as Buxtorf shews, the Continuation of what is denoted by the finite Verb. Thef. Gram. L. 2. Cap. xvi. which I accordingly render by still; but observe no Distinction to be made between this and that by our Translators.

For some of the great and gross Faults, the Reader is to look in the Notes at the particular Passages, withal observing that one Elucidation is frequently to serve for several others of the same Kind.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

A X I O M II.

A TRANSLATION should be well or grammatically expressed, in the Language it is made in.

IT is well known that those called the living Languages do alter, especially ours, who are such a changeable People. Hence it is necessary that new Translations should be made from one Time or Century to another, accommodated to the present Use of speaking or writing.

This Deference is paid to the Heathen Classics, that they may appear beautiful and not barbarous; many of which are translated often, as the rest doubtless would, if their Bulk or Particularity did not render them unsaleable.

And why should the Scripture meet with less Regard? Is it to be thereby more exposed to Ridicule and Contempt, in our Libertine Age? But some there are who seem possess'd with a Notion, or Bigotry, that the last Translation in K. James's Reign must not be altered; though several new ones had been made before, when the Oldness of the Language, as they were not long apart, did not call for it; and though the Pedantry of that Reign is become a Ridicule, and the Style intolerable: nor does such a Notion commonly appear to be founded on an Opinion of that Translation being well done, since it has been the frequent Complaint, from the Scripture-writers who understood the Original, of Passages rendered amiss.

The Translator of Livy, bulky as that Author is, represents fourscore Years as Time for him to be rendered into fresh English, though done before by such a noted Translator as Dr. Holland; whose Edition bears Date 1600, and our present Bible was translated but eleven Years after; nay Livy writing but a History of the ancient Romans, has been thought deserving of another Translation since, besides that with which it is so represented; and how often has Justin, Horace, Tully's Offices, &c. been done, while the holy Scripture has worn its old Suit still?

Let the Preface of K. James's Translators, which may be met with in some old Bibles, be compared with Addison's Writings, and see what Difference of Language there is in a hundred Years. Nay the Author of Gazophylacium Anglicanum says in the Preface, 'When I look'd an hundred, or an hundred and fifty Years only behind me, I could scarce imagine it ever to have been the Language of my Ancestors, or even of the Country I was born in, 'tis so chang'd through Commerce, Correspondence, Travellers, and such like Accidents;' and Blackwall in his Introduction to the Classics, 'That which was written in English two hundred Years ago is now scarce intelligible; and few Authors of one hundred Years standing can by this refined Age be read with Patience.'

Yet the obsolete Words, and uncouth ungrammatical Expressions in the Sacred Text, pass more unheeded, as being oftener read and heard; especially when the Mind is filled with an Imagination, that a Translation of the Scripture must be so express'd: which Kind of Notion once prevailed so long, that one Translation was become quite another Language to that in common Use, and was understood but by a very few, who learned the Language in which it was written; such was the vulgar Latin Version, which was first made in the Mother-Tongue of that Age. And we have been going on so our selves, while the few French Protestants have taken care to alter their Translation with their Language; so that Antiquity may soon be pleaded for ours to keep Possession, and be stamped authentick. Of what Mind our first and former Protestants were, may appear by the different English Translations made by them and printed as follows; besides those of Wiclif, &c. which were made before Printing was used.

1. The Books of the New Testament, by William Tyndal, A. D. 1526, Lewis's Hist. of Eng. Translations, p. 75.

2. The five Books of Moses, by the same, 1530, Tynd. Works, printed 1573.

3. The

3. The first English Bible, by Miles Coverdale, Fol. pr. 1535. Harl. Libr. Crozer's Elench. Script. A word which denotes another shall not be added, nor any thing taken from it, but it shall be as it was in the original.
4. The first Bible published by the King's Authority, 1537, under the Name of Thomas Matthew; these Bibles being of Tyndal's Translation from Gen. to Chron. inclusive, with Jonas; and all the Books of the New Test. the rest Coverdale's with some Variation, Lew. Hist. p. 107.
5. The Books of the New Testament from the vulgar Latin, by Miles Coverdale, but in the Name of Johann Hollybushe, 1538, Lew. Hist. p. 112.
6. The Great Bible, called Cranmer's, 1539, considerably different from the foregoing, Lew. Hist. p. 128.
7. Another the same Year, altered by Richard Taverner, Lew. Hist. p. 130, 132.
8. Coverdale's Translation corrected by himself, in 4to. 1550; Lew. Hist. p. 182.
9. The Geneva Bible, 1560, Fulke's Defense of Eng. Transf. Ch. 3, 4. Strype's Annals of the Reform. Ch. 19.
10. The Bishops Bible by Authority, Fol. 1568, Lew. Hist. p. 240.
11. The last Translation, by Order K. James I. 1611. see Burnet's History of the Reformation, p. 367, 368. Fulke, ib. Ch. 3, 10.

There ought to be the greatest Exactness even in Spelling the Scripture, because our Children learn to read by it, and will consequently write after it, unless they learn another Way; nay a Scholar, without the Advantage of good Spelling, would appear ignorant and ridiculous; and on the other hand if we consider the Labour of taking every Letter of every Word into the Memory, and retaining them there, besides the many other Branches of Learning; a Regard should be had for our Youth, that what they receive, almost the earliest and deepest into their Minds, should not be wrong. As for Words that are clownish, barbarous, base, hard, technical, misapplied or new-coined, as well as obsolete and ill-spelled, they must needs be unfit for the Bible; such as follow, when so constructed, in the Books of the old Testament, and on the two first Letters of the Alphabet, not to choose the largest, whose Meaning I add in a Parenthesis, or what might have done better in that Sense. See the Appendix (D).

As to those on the other Letters, I shall mention but the following, while by searching Concordances throughout more might have been found. See the Appendix (E).

It will be little to the Purpose for any one to retort, that I use Words in my Notes as hard, or even some the same, as these; if they are not in the Translation, which ought to be plain, and suited to common Capacities: while Liberty may be allowed in the other, nay may there be agreeable and necessary. I remember on comparing Homer's 1st. Iliad translated by those great Poets Dryden, Tickell (not Addison, though insinuated, as I am persuaded by the Style) and Pope, the Preference was given to the latter in one Particular, for the others having hard and unpolite Words. It has also fallen under my Notice, that Writings upon religious Subjects frequently have Words from the common Translation, which are otherwise disallowable, and some are from thence brought into Discourse; but are these to bear up that, while it is that bears up them? I have lately observed, that several Words of the common Translation were not found in any other English Books by Johnson in his great Dictionary; a Sign of their wanting the Currency requisite even when that Translation was made.

The following Preterperfect Tenses and Participles are become old, viz. baken (baked) bitten (bit) folden (folded) holden (held) holpen (helped) laden (loaded) lien (pret. lay, part. lain) mowen (mowed) ridden (rid) slidden (slid) spitted (spit) stricken (struck) unwashen (not washed) wakened (awaked) waxen (become) with-holden (with-held) upholden (upheld) but some of en in Termination sprinkled about, especially when passive, may may give an agreeable Relish of Age; as broken, begotten, forgotten; and other such continue, i. e. done, given, gone, known, seen, slain, taken, chosen, spoken, thrown, written, smitten, fallen, born, torn, sworn, stolen, shewn, hewn, driven, drawn, lain, risen, forsaken, striven, sown, shaken, &c. and for a Participle rotten; s is also obsolete, where o is used now, in the Preterimperfects bare, brake, drave, forgat, gat, spake, sware, ware, ate, laded, slang, spat, strake; but swore and begot sound too vulgar to be used of God.

I have put s instead of eth at the End of the third Person singular of the present Tense, as instructed by our chief Grammarian Brightland in his Grammar of the English Tongue, and authorised by Addison, who scarce I think writes otherwise, and I may add obliged by Custom in Speaking; against which Martin's Opinion, in the late Introduction to the English Language, is but of little Weight. So the Use of Speech has taught me you, and not ye, unless more than one of the former would fall too near together when of different Case, or that one sound disagreeably with some other Word; thus also my and thy, where are now mine and thine.

The ill joining of Words together is next to be mentioned, as being either ungrammatical, a bad Idiom, improper, uncouth, misapplied, or wrong placed: see Examples of such in the Appendix (F).

But a Translation may be badly expressed without these greater Faults, by Obscurity, Tautology, Pedantry, or by being very flat, verbose, or ill-sounding; which a Translator should endeavour to shun, so far as keeping tolerably close to the Original will admit.

The Hebrew Tongue has divers Peculiarities, whereby a Version from thence into a Language so distant in Time and Place as ours, will be liable to most or all of the Deformities now mentioned, unless they are diligently watched, and prudently avoided. Thus the Hebrew has generally Vau for a Conjunction of almost every Kind; and besides [and] which is very often and duly repeated in the common English Bible, it may denote (as I shall instance in a few Places, some of which have it so rendered there already) the Words at the Appendix (G).

So gam may be varied as Occasion offers, with the Greek καί, ἤ, and τι, a few of which I have mentioned. It is besides translated in the common Bible as in Appendix (H).

There may possibly be some more such Words found in the common Translation, or even in mine; but the Trouble of collecting these has not been small, unless compared with the Work it self, and the Use of them may be of no small Account, with respect to the English as well as Hebrew Language, exclusive of this Translation. Concerning this our learned and very acute Mede writes, B. 3. p. 506. Vau enim Hebræorum et inde καί in Scriptura Conjunctio est non tantum copulativa, sed et disjunctiva, rationalis, causalis, ordinativa, explanativa, prout sensus ratio exigit: The Heb. and from that the Gr. καί, does not only join together (as and, also, &c.) but also parts (as or, otherwise) shews the Cause (as for, since) and Effect (as therefore, so that) sets in Order (as next, afterwards) and expounds (as that is, to wit;) he should have added adversativa (as but, yet) and might also others.

As this Hebrew Conjunction is sometimes rightly and properly rendered in those different Manners, it ought likewise to be rendered elsewhere when it is alike proper, and suitable to the Context, and would make the Expression more elegant: this is being uniform, which taking the Liberty one time that is refused at another is not; as in the frequent, wrong, unapt, obscure and flat Use of [and] in the present Bible; thus in the first Chapter of Genesis every Vau that is rendered singly is turned and, one so excepted Ver. 27. but why must the Freedom to vary from and be admitted there only? The Reader that understands English may compare it with this Version, and both with a good modern Composition, making Allowance that several Conjunctions, which if it was originally written in English would better be omitted, are now inserted because they are in the Hebrew. Again Ezek. Ch. xl. has no less than 34 Verses beginning with And in the common Translation, 11 of them successively, notwithstanding there are so many Ways of elegantly varying it. As 23 also out of 25 occur in 2 Kings ii. 17 together in Gen. xli. and 21 in Ch. xliii. But in Deut. xxxi. 17. the first of six Vaus, that successively begin so many Members of the Sentence, is translated then, and the last so that; yet why might not more likewise have been varied, or else not those two? And the ten Vaus in Gen. xxi. 35. with the first in Ver. 37. I have reduced to five, yet begun that Verse with one, which may be compared with the common; and Cassio has brought the ten to three etc, Junius and Trenellius use four other Conjunctions, the Samaritan and Vulgate have three omitted, and the Greek two. And since it must be allowed, that a Translator should consider the various Meanings of a Word that has such, in order to take that which is right and most agreeable to the Passage where it is; the same ought to be done with this Conjunction, and the more so, as its Signification is the more manifold, lest it should be rendered in a wrong Sense.

Another Thing, wherein Liberty is to be taken in translating the Hebrew Bible, requires a little Introduction. Language was anciently rude and unpolished, and it was proper even for the inspired Writings to be delivered in that of the Times: hence Nouns are frequently repeated in the Original, where they may much better be rendered by Pronouns, according to the Improvements of Grammar, and Manner of Speech now, especially in this Part of the World, without any Diminution or Alteration of the Sense at all. In such a Case certainly our Language is to be like it self, and not made uncouth to no Manner of Purpose; any more than we are to speak like Children, or wear Skins like our first Parents.

Let us now come to the Matter, by comparing some Instances in this and the common Version: as he for Mordecai, Est. iv. 1. for the priest, Lev. xiv. 36. for Abraham, Gen. xxv. 6. as the Bishops translate, and elsewhere; for Moses the servant of the LORD, Josh. xii. 6. and both Tyndal and the Bishops have but he for Jethro, Moses father in law, Exod. xviii. 2. see also with them in Judg. xviii. &c. so him for Moses, Num. xxix. 40. Exod. xl. 19, 21, 23, 25, 27, 29. for Abram, Gen. xvi. ult. and for Abraham, Ch. xxiv. 1. for Jabin king of Canaan twice, Judg. iv. 24. for this my Lord, Dan. x. 17. for his father, Gen. xliv. 22. where our Translators add his father a 3d time; they for the princes of the Philistines, 1 Sam. xxix. 4. for the children of Israel, Judg. iii. 15. so the Bishops; them for the Levites, Num. viii. 10. for the streets thereof, Zech. viii. 5. for the vessels of the house of God, 2 Chron. xxviii. 24. for the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, Gen. xxix. 40. himself for Saul, 1 Sam. xviii. 12. for the LORD, Exod. xvi. 7. his for Moses, Num. x. 29. Exod. xxxiv. 29, 35. s for seed, Gen. iii. 15. for rods, Exod. vii. 12. and for ways and thoughts, Isa. lv. 9. where see the Note; it for the house of Eliashib, Neb. iii. 21. for the LORD's house, 1 Chron. vii. 2. and the 3d time 2 Kings viii. 27. it self for Moab, Isa. xvi. 7. of it for thy nakedness, Ezek. xvi. 37. that for the tribe, Josh. xxi. 5. and elsewhere as in modern English Authors; those for the camels, Gen. xxiv. 10. for the houses, Jer. xix. 13. these for Zebah and Zalmunna, Judg. viii. 12. who for the king, Dan. v. 13. which for the vineyard, Cant. viii. 11. who and him for Balak and Balaam, Num. xxiii. 27. where those Names both occur for six Verses together, see also Judg. xi. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. one for light, Gen. i. 16. the other for his father in law, the damsel's father, Judg. xix. 9. being mentioned separately in the two foregoing Verses; the same for fine linen, Exod. xxxix. 28. same for fire that was on the hearth, Jer. xxxvi. 23. such, Jon. iv. 10. the latter, &c. for the children of Israel, Num. viii. 19. there 5 times; is what for even their nakedness, Lev. xvii. 10. — ne for peace, Jer. vi. 14. mine for my Sorrow, Lam. i. 12. thine for thy herdmen, Gen. xiii. 8. But I have been regardful pretty much to do this when there is a Repetition of the same or Part of it, rather than when the Terms are changed, though in no different Meaning; except when repeated with a small Alteration, as it for the nakedness of their (instead of his) father, Gen. ix. 23. he for the (instead of his) servant that was set over the reapers, Ruth. ii. 6. that for the days of the years of the (instead of my) life, Gen. xlvii. 9. those for of the chapters which were upon the top of the (without two) pillars, 1 Kings vii. 41. or by Contraction, he for Pashur (instead of Pashur the son of Immer the Priest) Jer. xx. 2. his for the—of the king of Babylon (instead of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon) Ch. xxvii. 8. so its, 1 Sam. iv. 5. And must not the first of these needs be preferable, with unprejudiced Persons who understand and value good English, and would have the Scripture such? Of this Kind numerous Examples might be produced; nor is the common Translation void of the same Way of rendering the Nouns; to wit, he for the LORD, 2 Sam. vii. 11. him for a male, Num. xxxi. 17. they for the Owners, Judg. ix. 51. them for their brethren, 1 Chron. viii. 32. either of them for each pillar, 1 Kings vii. 15. apiece for one pillar, Ibid. every for base, Ver. 38. thereof for of the flesh, Lev. vii. 19. his own for the priest's, Ch. xiv. 15, 26. within for in the house, Gen. xxxix. 11. and in the Liturgy, such as for a multitude that, Psa. xlii. 5. them for the people, Psa. lvi. 7. so the Septuagint, Gen. xxiv. 59. and in the vulgar Latin some; see also on Judg. xviii. 23. Now if it is right or best to translate thus in some Places, must it not be so for the same or like Expressions in others? When one speaks of him him or her self too in the 3d Person, I follow that, as preferring it to the 1st, as her for thine handmaid, 1 Sam. i. 11. Ruth iii. 9. and so in Exod. xxix. 18. as 2 Chr. vi. 19. 1 Sam. xxv. 31. Such Nouns as those before with the Conjunction included are made English well with the Relative, namely, who for and the priest, Exod. v. 12. and the like often; whom for therefore—Zadok and Abiathar the priests, 1 Sam. xv. 35. which for now their cities, Josh. ix. 17. and for and—it—it—it, Jer. xxxiv. 22.

There are also Passages where a Noun is repeated more than once in the Original, after the ancient Way of delivering it, which may be suitably rendered as in the following Instances: him and he for the King, Dan. ii. 2, 3. himself and he for the King, 2 King. xvi. 12. them and they for the Children of Israel, Num. viii. 19: not to say the latter five times in one Verse; the same for the Levites, Neb. x. 38. who and that for Noah, Gen. vi. 9: But that and those, one and ones, have a singular Gracefulness.

A Noun iterated with a Preposition may elegantly be turned into an Adverb: thus there for in Mizpah, Jer. xli. 10. thither for to Shechem, 1 King. xii. 1. and with a Conjunction; where for and at Hazeroth, Num. xi. 35. whither for and into the land of Canaan. Gen. xii. 5.

So the Auxiliaries or Signs of the English Verbs very elegantly supply the Place of a Verb repeated in the Original, or rather are the same in our Language: thus among others may be counted, do for dwelt, Num. xiii. 29. does for casteth out, Jer. vi. 7. did for purified, Neb. xii. 30. have for have found, 1 King. xxi. 20. were for were written, Exod. xxxii. 15. had been for was alienated, Ezek. xxiii. 18. would for returned, Jer. iii. 7. shall for shall live, Ezek. xviii. 13. shalt for shalt see, Num. xxiii. 13. will for will go, Gen. xxiv. 58. let for let hear, and for let forbear, Ezek. iii. 27. This is very scarce in the present Translation, however there is do for go out, Exod. xxi. 7. did for prepared, Ezek. xlvi. 12. which is added 2 Sam. xx. 6. may for may go, Ch. xv. 20. and didst for killedst or didst kill, Act vii. 28. so did for answered in the Bishops Bible, Judg. viii. 8.

The same Verb is likewise found above twice in a Place, of which take these for Example: did for went astray, Ezek. xlvi. 11. will for shall eat, Jer. v. 17. nay the common Translation has the Verb repeated when it is not so in Hebrew, viz. take, Ezek. xxix. 19. bear tidings, 2 Sam. xviii. 20. see also Ecclesi. ii. 12.

But the Repetition sometimes or oftener takes in more than the Verb, and requires to be turned properly in the same Manner, the Auxiliary containing the whole Sense and Force of it: so did for saw the Vision, Dan. x. 7. shall for shall wash his Cloaths, Lev. xiv. 47. will for will be enquired of by you, Ezek. xx. 31. or together with a Pronoun, as which—did for compassed the City seven times, Josh. vi. 15. for and lay until the Morning, Ruth iii. 14. and the same for and turned aside, and sat down, Ruth iv. 1.

A repeated Verb may sometimes be best rendered by that; which see in Jer. viii. 13, 25. Ezek. iii. 20. and more with it as before, Ezek. xii. 3. at other times when active by our Verb do, or do it or thus; as may be seen 2 King. v. 18. Ruth iii. 13. & iv. 6. Jer. xlii. 6. Exod. xxvi. 1. & xxvii. 8. and when passive or neuter by is, &c. e. g. Jer. xliii. 12. Ezek. i. 17. Josh. iv. 7. otherwise by done, Exod. xxvi. 31. Dan. vi. 23. yet, Ezek. ii. 6. 1 King. iii. 11. that is, Neb. ix. 8. namely, Lev. vii. 30.

A Hebrew Pronoun, and especially a Preposition, when repeated, may be rendered both, and put before the former; according as is done Jer. xxxii. 8. 1 King. vi. 5. Exod. ix. 10. for which both Homer and Virgil are admired, Prefat. Discourse to Johnstons Psalms, p. 37, 38, 39. ascribed to Benson. Such Things are not wanting in the common Bible, as wept aloud for uttered his Voice with weeping, Gen. xlv. 2. old art thou, for many are the days of the years of thy life, Ch. xlvii. 8. pleased Hamor and for were good in the eyes of Hamor and in the eyes of, Ch. xxxiv. 18. and so 2 Sam. xvii. 4. but see it otherwise Gen. xix. 8. 1 Sam. xviii. 5. 2 Sam. iii. 19. exceedingly for with a great fear, Jon. i. 16. so for such a matter as this, 1 Sam. ix. 21. home for to his house, Ib. xxiv. 22. greet for ask of peace, Ib. xxv. 5. after him for at his feet, 2 Sam. xv. 16, 17, 18. sing for give forth or utter the voice, Psa. civ. 12. us for our fight, 2 Sam. xx. 6. there for to the outer court, Ezek. xliv. 19.

Some Hebrew Words of the several Sorts may also be quite omitted in the translating, without any Prejudice or Loss to the Sense; nay it is necessary they should be so, because the Expressions would else be flat, insipid, or superfluous to us; Examples of which may be the following, as rendered in our common Bible, bones, Jer. viii. 1. wickedness xlv. 9. thousand, Num. xxxi. 32. the King, 2 Sam. xix. 4. Netbinims, Ezra viii. 20. barley, Hos. iii. 2. dwell, Num. xiii. 29. have received, Ch. xxxiv. 14. his, Exod. xxxvii. 16. their, Jer. ii. 26. your, Chap. xxvii. 9. thereof, Ezek. xliii. 11. being there nine times, Neb. iii. 3, 6. against, Jer. i. 18. from, Ch. xxi. 7. into, Ib. against it, Ezek. iv 2. unto the city, Josh. xx. 6. in the cities, Jer. xxxii. 44. so the Bishops omit border, Josh. xv. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

That Instances of this Kind are not wanting in the common Translations, though most distant of all from the Original, may appear by the Hebrew Words quoted in the Appendix (A), as left untranslated. And while such Liberty is allowed there, what I have taken may well be admitted. Now to pass by what Castalio frequently does, I find the learned Mercer writing on Joel ii. 19. Latine Dominus omitti posset, quia repetitione gaudent Hebræi; Lord may be left out in Latin, because the Hebrews like Repetition: where we may observe the Difference of Languages, it being more aptly than either of those Ways, expressed in English by be; so the Septuagint do not repeat the Lord, Isa. lxi. 1. as in Luke iv. 18. even when it is necessary to distinguish it from Spirit, and garment is left out of the common Translation, Luke v. 36.

Words repeated have indeed in some Cases a Beauty in our modern Language, but mostly in Poetry; and sometimes from the ancient Hebrew, when they ought by all means to be preserved, as the Lord in Psa. xxix.

To conclude this, as the Verb-substantive is very frequently left out of the Hebrew where it requires to be supplied in English, &c. for which see the Note on Gen. i. 4. so on the contrary it came to pass or was so that is wholly redundant and unnecessary in our Translation, being merely idiomatical in the Original, and not so to us: the Hebrew is as an Auxiliary to the other Verb, and therefore properly denoted by one of ours, or the Termination —ed, &c. as by was in the common Translation, Neb. iv. 1. without the other, and —ed 2 Sam. ii. 1. and to make it up in their Way, our Translators several times supply that, as Exod. xii. 51. 2 Chr. xx. 1. but I have taken care not to go too far in this Way of thinking, which would be going out of the Way, and by refining too much, I should enervate that Strength in the Original, which the Translation should shew; I instance in keeping behold and rose up.

And when the Original Language is exalted to some peculiar Sublimity, what a sad Depression would it be to translate by the mere Meaning, instead of the Expression! for which however the following may not be unuseful: thus I am innocent, for I wash my Hands in Innocency, Psa. xxvi. 6. so lxxiii. 13. to render Pro. vii. 4. Be wise, and knowing; as also substitute thou speakest graciously, for Grace is poured into thy Lips, Psa. xlv. 2. He applies his Mind to what does hurt instead of good, for He feeds on Ashes, Isa. xlv. 20. and Is not my principal Trust a Deception? for Is there not Falsehood in my right Hand? Ib. Thy Speech is sweet and innocent, and sweetly uttered, in Cant. iv. 11. Do not a few Men of Ephraim exceed all those of Abiezer? Judg. viii. 2. If you had not made enquiry by my young Wife, Ch. xiv. 18. he continues to reign by being kind, for he supports his Throne by Kindness, Pro. xx. 28. He was going to smite with the Pestilence, for the Pestilence went before him, Hab. iii. 5. He will come to bring Righteousness, and that will direct his Way, Psa. lxxxv. ult. For they will adorn thee finely, Pro. i. 9. I will receive the means of Salvation, in Psa. cxvi. 13. there shall not the least Harm be done to thy Son, for there shall not a Hair of thy Son fall to the Earth, 2 Sam. xiv. 11. 1 King. i. 51. and differently in Acts xxvii. 34. I was altogether righteous in my Conduct, and reputable for acting well, Job xxix. 14. I was very helpful to the Needy, who were disabled, Ver. 15. fierce young Men, for young Lions, Ezek. xxxviii. 13. I deprived the Oppressor of Power, and made him restore what he had wrongfully taken, Job xxix. 17. I shall not be removed till I die, and the Days of my Life will be innumerable, Ver. 18. My Vigour was as though fresh, and my Strength as if it was renewed, Ver. 20. nor did they alter my pleasant Look, Ver. 24. When I went on in Plenty, and Nature furnished me with Profusion of Delight, Ver. 6. When his Providence made me prosperous, and he directed me in what I did not know, Ver. 3. His Talk abounds with Cursing and Cheating, and he has either Disturbance or Vanity ready concealed to utter, Psa. x. 7. penetrate to the yet invisible (for which how beautiful, and much stronger, is the simple Word behold the) Habitation of Stones, Job viii. 17. Suffer me not to speak any Thing at all amiss, Psa. cxli. 3. look stedfastly, bear attentively, Ezek. xl. 4. Speak not of what is sacred to profane Persons, which they will probably return with Spite; nor deliver your

Ye will then be fit for Nothing, but to be laid aside, and punished as you deserve, Ch. v. 13. You are to enlighten the human Species, with as publick unconcealed an Appearance, as that of a City on a Hill, Vet. 14. and wise Men seek to bear Knowledge, Pro. xviii. 15. he whose Ear heard blessed me, and whose Eye saw testified for me, Job xxix. 11. they are so averse from Instruction, that they cannot hearken to it, Jer. vi. 10. which makes the People of the whole Earth joyful, for the Joy of the whole Earth, Psa. xlviii. 2. he goes on triumphantly in Distress, for Sorrow triumphs before him, Job xli. 22. The Instruments of Death will be prepared for my Shepherd—and kill him, Zech. xiii. 7. Any Beast—may come, Isa. lvi. 9. Let the Wind rise, one while from the North, another while from the South, and blow on my Garden, Cant. iv. 16. Hear what is said, you that are fed like the Heifers of Bashan, on the Mountain of Samaria, Am. iv. 1. A wise Woman promotes her Family, but a foolish one debases it herself, Pro. xiv. 1. advance the Power of him whom he causes to reign, for lift up the Horn of his anointed one, 1 Sam. ii. 10. By Exercise she is strong in Body, and strengthens her Arms by working with them, Prov. xxxi. 17. they will be slain as by a Lion from the Wood, be wasted as by an evening Wolf, their Cities will be watched over as by a Leopard, so that every one who goes out of them will be torn in pieces, Jer. v. 6. Be spiritually circumcised, by taking away the Superfluity of your Minds, Ch. iv. 4. Thou dwellest surrounded with deceitful Persons, Ch. ix. 6. Her Gates shall be in a ruinous and lamentable Condition, Isa. iii. 26. They shall be carried away as if by the Wind in Wings, Hos. iv. 19. Speak and act with Truth, though thou shouldst lose by it; and not otherwise, if thou mayest gain by that, Prov. xxiii. 23. Judgment is made wrong, and no Righteousness here: for Truth is publickly perverted, and there can be no Uprightness within, Isa. lix. 14. If thou couldst lament, O Fir-tree, there is Occasion for it, because &c. Zech. xi. 2. The Calamity they bring is so great, as if it affected not only the Earth, but the Heaven, and heavenly Bodies, Joel ii. 10. Fire shall come into thee, O Lebanon, to consume thy Cedars, Zech. xi. 1. The Lord enlightens and saves me, Psa. xxvii. 1. let there be abundance of right Judgment like the rolling Waters, and of Righteousness as a great Flood, Am. v. 24. Begin closely to restrain the Licentiousness of the Will; since to begin and continue to be licentious, which many do, brings to Destruction, Mat. vii. 13. Stand fast therefore defended in Truth and Righteousness, Eph. vi. 14. &c. refrain from whatever thou art divinely conscious thou sinnest in, how delightful or gainful soever it may be otherwise to thee; since it will be better for thee to lose that Pleasure or Profit, than to suffer in Hell for it, Mat. v. 29, 30. Do not check the Dictates of the Holy Spirit, 1 Thes. v. 19. though those who hated him were very mischievous to him, yet he himself, and the Means he used, remained strong, Gen. xlix. 24. The Air above thee shall neither be moistened, nor the Earth under be softened, with Rain, Deut. xxviii. 23. Let the Power of the Lord be thoroughly roused up, and become very strong, be roused up as in former Ages of old Time: was it not that which &c. Isa. li. 9. Art thou envious, for Is thy Eye wicked, Mat. xx. 15. they will tremble all over, Ezek. xxvi. 16. He will deliver thee often, and continue to preserve thee afterwards, Job v. 19.

The Hebrew using Speeches direct in the second Person very often, some small ones sound harshly so to us, and may be made oblique in the third Person with Advantage, and without the least Injury, as it would have been had our Language been the Original; see Gen. xxxix. 19. 1 King. xii. 12. Ezr. xiii. 11. others have an Obliquity, as Exod. xii. 3. & xiv. 2. 2 Sam. i. 4. Josh. i. 13, 14, 15. Luke v. 14. & vii. 4, 5. and partly when one tells another to speak as he would himself, for Instance in Exod. xvi. 12. & vii. 17. 2 King. viii. 8. see Cast. Pref. Annot. and in Mat. xxvi.

The foregoing are some of the most frequent general Ways I have made use of, to keep near the Hebrew, and not spoil the English, being the best Method I could find for literal Translation; which the Value and Style of the holy Scripture will always claim and require, notwithstanding the Pretences and Cavils of some. The most literal Translation of the Scriptures, in the most natural Signification of the Words, says one of our greatest Criticks, is generally the best; and the same Punctualness which debaseth other Writings, preserveth the Spirit and Majesty of the sacred Text, Felton's Dissertation on Reading the Classics, 4th Edit. p. 97. Cogitamus in scriptura sacra non pro arbitrio ludendum, ut in aliis prophanis libris. Cogitamus nec iota unum aut apicem unum frustra in ea positum: Let us not think on the holy Scripture at Pleasure, as on other profane Books; but that neither one jot or Tittle is put in it in vain, says Munst. Præf. in Vetus Test. And so Twells, An English Version of the New Testament or Bible is still supposed to be literal; and the Nature of that Book requires it to be always such. For it is our Rule of Faith and Practice, and therefore should be rendered as near the Original, as the Idiom of our Language will permit—The Text should consist of no Renditions, but Grammatical ones. For parallel Places in Scripture oft give Light to each other: which great Help to the Understanding of those lively Oracles, is greatly impaired by lax Version. Besides Disputes in Religion, of Concern to every honest Mind, do sometimes turn on the Scripture Modes of Expression, which are lost in a Paraphrase, Examin. of the New Testament and Version, Part i. Ch. 3. Every Departure from the Letter of the Original, may prove an Injury to the unlearned Reader—The grammatical rendring of the Text should be unalterably preserved, Ch. v. Sect. 1. (where see more) nay Gell says, as much as is possible, κατὰ πόδας, even word for word, Pref. to Essay towards Amendment of the last English Translation. And the Vulgate Translator taking a little Liberty, Mills says, he acts the Commentator, forgetting his own Business, Prel. to Various Readings, N. 579. And how suitable this is to the English Tongue in particular, Addison, who is justly esteemed the best Writer of our Language, tells us in these Words; It happens very luckily, that the Hebrew Idioms run into the English Tongue with a particular Grace and Beauty. Our Language has received innumerable Elegancies and Improvements, from that Infusion of Hebraisms, which are derived to it out of the Poetical Passages in Holy Writ. They give a Force and Energy to our Expressions, warm and animate our Language, and convey our Thoughts in more ardent and intense Phrases, than any that are to be met with in our own Tongue—how kindly the Hebrew Manners of Speech mix and incorporate with the English Language, Spectator of June 14, 1712. And before him our noble Translator and Martyr William Tyndal; The Properties of the Hebrew Tongue agreeth a thousand times more with the English than with the Latin. The Manner of speaking is both one; so that in a thousand Places thou needest not but to translate it into English Word for Word, when thou must seek a Compass in the Latin, &c. Preface to The Obedience of a Christian Man.

The true Sense of the Scripture, however widely expressed, must come from the literal Meaning and Construction of the original Words, and a Translator must consider it literally himself to understand it; as Scultetus brings Melancthon saying, Scriptura non potest intelligi theologicè, nisi prius intelligatur grammaticè: The Scripture cannot be understood theologically, unless it be first understood grammatically, Obser. in Matthew and Mark, Cap. 74. so that by expressing it literally, a Translator obliges his Readers with the same Favour and Satisfaction of understanding for themselves; and lets them hear the Evidence of the Witnesses, as well as the Judge's Sentence. And our present Translation is better than the former ones, as being more literal.

By literal Translation however, it would be ridiculous to understand that every Word is always to be rendered in the same principal Signification; for many Words in all Languages have doubtless more than one Meaning: and absurd as the Version of Montanus is by this means (however well intended and useful, and he disliked by the Papists for it) he himself does not always translate thus, and sometimes makes sad Nonsense by doing it; for example, אף signifies both the Nose and Anger, and Montanus usually renders this by the former; whence subvertit in naso suo, overthrew in his Nose, Deut. xxix. 23. calcabo eos in naso meo, I will tread them in my Nose, Isa. lxiii. 3. and plur. longus naribus quiescere faciet litem, he that has long Nostrils will make Strife quiet, Prov. xv. 18. Akin to this, but not altogether so absurd, is the Proposal of Mills in his Prolegomena, Num. 515. to put Eating in the Text of a Translation, Mat. vi. 19. that being the strict Meaning of the original Word, and Rust in the Margin.

Nor in translating literally, are the Words to be put continually in the same Order as in the Original; the too often doing of which flattens or obscures divers Translations, as it sometimes spoils the Sense. And if it must not be done always for such Reasons, why at any Time when the same Reasons subsist? The Substantive is always put before the Adjective in Heb. says Buxtorf, Thef. Lib. 2. Cap. 1. which is contrary to the Manner of our English Tongue, and would commonly spoil it; and the like in other Words and Expressions. Here let me mention one Observation, which with several others I presume will be new to the Learned themselves, that the Hebrew not seldom has an Object or Accusative belonging to two Verbs put between them, when we should place it after them, and thus avoid so many useless Italick Pronouns in our Translation, as in 1 Kings xv. 13. Psa. cvii. 20. and with 3 Verbs 2 Cbr. xv. 16. In like Manner one Hebrew Word may be literally rendered by 2 or 3 English ones, as the Verbs must often; and so may, sometimes must too, the contrary be done. To translate precisely out of the Hebrew, writes Fulke, 'is not to observe the number of wordes, but the perfect sense and meaning of them, in fewer or more wordes, as the phrase of our tongue will serve to be understood,' Defense of the Eng. Transf. Ch. xi. 4. Thus in the common Translation one Hebrew Word is rendered by five English ones, and full ears of corn, 2 Kings iv. 42. nay one Letter, that ye shall not have, Mic. iii. 6. two Words by ten, He that is so impoverished, that he hath no oblation, Isa. xl. 20. as also one by six, 1 Kings xx. 42. by seven, Lev. xiv. 4. nay one by seven, five by nineteen, and seven by twenty four, 1 Kings xv. 5. one by eight, Lev. xvi. 29. Psa. xc. 5. by ten, which thou shalt have, after thou hast lost the other, Isa. xlix. 20. and by ten or eleven, Exod. xl. 4. as is the 1st Hebrew Word by six, the 2d by eight, and the 3d by seven, in Ezek. xxxix. 2. and one Greek Word by seven, Luke x. 31. by nine, Heb. iii. 5. The other is with less Latitude, as the Hebrew Tongue is more concise than ours.

One may remark that the English Papists and Puritans ran into the same Extreme, of construing like Boys at School, instead of translating like learned Men for the Use of the Religious, and to excite Devotion by manly proper Expressions; see the Doway and Rhemish Bible, Ainsworth, &c.

To proceed, I have, but it is rarely, used the Liberty, if not rather Necessity, of turning a Pronoun, when too obscure or improper in English, into a Noun; so is of Egypt for her, Ezek. xxxii. 31. the Hairs for them, Chap. v. 1. the People for them, 1 Sam. vi. 4. as in the common Translation there is the same, Ver. 6. and David for him, Chap. xx. 18. Altar for it, Exod. xxxviii. 7. Jacob's for his, Gen. xlv. 26. where it is needless, as is the child for him, 2 Kings iv. 34. the city for it, Chap. vii. 13. man for him, Job xxxiv. 14. their country for it or itself, 2 Kings iii. 24. the same for it, Psa. cxiii. 3. his commandments (but in Ital.) for them, Psa. cxi. 10. so from the Gr. the epistle for an Article, Col. iv. 16. Peter for he, John xiii. 6. this woman for she, Luke vii. 45, 46. as 44. his life for it, Chap. xvii. 33. our company for us, Chap. xxiv. 22. the same matter for it, Mark x. 10. the words for those, 1 Tim. vi. 3. the life which for what, Gal. ii. 20. God for he, Acts x. 36. the house for it, Heb. iii. 3. Jesus for he, Mat. ix. 10. see Luke vii. 37. Mark i. 45. and devil is transposed for him, Mat. xvii. 18. see also 2 Sam. iii. 7. Gal. iv. 15.

The Liberty of turning Words quite beside their Meaning, I have striven to shun; as in the common Translation, here for finished, 1 Sam. xvi. 11. say thee nay for turn back thy face, 2 Kings xvii. 20. there for laid, John xxi. 9. as also endeavoured to keep a proper Distinction between different Words and Expressions; rendering יהוה אלֹהִים the Lord God, and אֲדֹנָי יְהוֹה the Sovereign Lord, both which our Translators turned only by the former, besides putting Lord of one in capital Letters, which is the same in reading, and but a Trifle of Difference in writing: the Advantage here too is, that יהוה is in both translated the Lord, by them in the latter God. So I generally preserved it in single Words, especially when they come near together: as רֹאשׁ a Mountain, גִּבְעָה a Hill; הוֹדֶר Majesty or Dignity, כְּבוֹד Honour; נָפַץ disperse, שָׁחַט scatter; אָסַף gather, קָבַץ bring or get together; קָרַב be near, נִגַּשׁ be nigh; נִשְׂמָח rejoice, שִׂמְחָה be glad; הֵלַל praise, יָדָה give thanks; פָּלַט deliver, נָצַל rescue, שָׁטַח set free; with divers more, except that I use other synonymous Words, by reason of the Context, or for the Benefit of a better Sound in particular Places.

Thus likewise in parallel Passages I have particularly endeavoured to exhibit the nice Varieties of the Original, as near as our Language would well admit of, which I found the common Translation much defective in. This Broughton recommends, and I should think every unprejudiced Reader might be pleased with, to compare them together, as both delightful and useful. However I did not aim at this in every short Expression, nor could be aware of all; and in plain historical ones, especially the introductory which are so frequent, such as And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying, where there can be no Danger in missing the Sense, I suppose Variety will sound better to English Ears, and make as I imagine an agreeable Contrast.

On the other hand, I have aimed at translating a Word pretty uniformly, at least in Sense, when it appears to have the same, as Beza says in his Preface, and on Aint. i. 16. he endeavoured to do; and not as in the common Bible, where, for instance, the same Word is turned tongs Isa. xlv. 12. and ax Jer. x. 3. so pots Psa. lxxviii. 13. and books Ezek. xl. 43. ostrich Job xxxix. 13. and stork elsewhere; nativity Ezek. xxi. 30. and habitation Ch. xxix. 14. both wrong; dromedaries 1 King. iv. 28. mules Est. viii. 10. and swift beast Mic. i. 13. images Gen. xxxi. teraphim Judg. xviii. and Idols Zech. x. 2. target 1 Sam. xvii. 6. shield Job xxxix. 23. spear Ch. xli. 29. and lance Jer. l. 42. be found liars Deut. xxxiii. and submit themselves Psa. lxvi. 3.

Sacr. L. iii. 19.

So in Names, the same is put in our last English Translation Grecia Dan. x. 20. Greece Zech. ix. 13. and Javan Ezek. xxvii. 13. Ararat Gen. viii. 4. and Armenia Isa. xxxvii. 38. Phut. Ezek. xxvii. 10. Put. Nab. iii. 9. Libya Ezek. iii. 5. and the Libyans Jer. xlii. 9. Mesopotamia Gen. xxiv. 10. and Aram Nabaraim Psa. lx. tit. Aram Num. xxiii. 7. But I have observed that several Words in some particular Place must have peculiar English, yet not out of the Compass of their proper Meaning (for that is to be taken care of) as רשע not wicked, Exod. ii. 13. especially a Verb when it has two different Objects together, so בקר not visited, Exod. iii. 16.

Not single Words alone, but Idioms especially claim a Resemblance of the Uniformity they have in the Original under proper Expression in our Language; for the Words of Idioms are as necessarily combined as the Letters composing a Word. Thus I render וְהָיָה בְּעֵינָיו the Good in his Eyes, what he liked or pleased, with וְרָא approved of or thought fit, and with רָע disliked or was displeased (with) and so in other Turns of that frequent or general Phrase; see at Gen. xix. 8. 2 King. xxi. 15. Lev. x. 19, 20. but for wise and righteous in his own Eyes, I prefer to think himself so, as we usually speak, Pro. iii. 7. Job xxxii. 1. the Gr. also using selves, Rom. xi. 25. & xii. 16. and in other Respects of this Kind, the Sense has led me to put Regard, which Sight denotes, in the room of eyes, as may be seen Exod. xi. 3. 1 Sam. xv. 17. or appear, as in Deut. xxv. 3. but with the com. Transf. think for in the eyes, 2 Sam. x. 3. & xiii. 2.

וְהָיָה בְּעֵינָיו got or was in Favour with, or in his Favour, &c. as we say, remarkably near to the Heb. not found grace in the eyes of, Gen. vi. 8. & xxxiv. 11. 1 Sam. xx. 3. or something better — favour in the sight of, Gen. xviii. 3. Est. v. 8. in other Places cross-wise, favour in the eyes, Gen. xxx. 27. grace in the sight, Gen. xxxii. 5. so the Gr. has favour with Luk. i. 30. and in favour with, Ch. ii. 52. nay the com. Transf. was in favour with, 1 Sam. ii. 26. which is modern Expression, but wrong there; see the Negative Num. xi. 11.

אִם הָיָה אִתּוֹ הָאֵשׁ he was incensed or angry, either of which does well express the Heb. but who says or writes now, his anger was kindled, or he was wroth, or his wrath waxed hot? as in the common Translation.

וַיִּשָּׂא עֵינָיו looked up, instead of lifted up his eyes, or as now lift; so in the Gr. Luk. vi. 20.

וַיִּשְׁמַע קוֹלָא hearkened to what he said or spoke, where now hearkened to or obeyed his voice; according as the Hebrews said Heart for Mind, Hand for Power or Custody, &c. but hearkened to his Words, &c. I let remain, as Jer. xxxv. 13, 14.

burst out a or into crying, as fell a crying seems too effeminate, and I know not what else is better, for lift up his voice and wept; and with alcud, Heb. with a great Voice.

by the Lord's living, as by Pharaoh's living, Gen. xlii. 15, 16. where look, and at 1 Sam. xiv. 44.

Ob that or (I) wish, Heb. Who will give? as in the com. Transf. Job vi. 8. 2 Sam. xv. 4. but otherwise there Num. xi. 4, 29. Exod. xvi. 3.

made answer or reply, for answered and said, but commonly in the future Tense with the converbive, as Gen. xviii. 27. with &c. to me, and made me answer without &c. as 1 Sam. xxiii. 4.

I would not however have it thought, that I take these Expressions in my Translation to be modish: I would not have them so; it will more become the Dignity of the sacred Scripture to have an Air of Antiquity, though not a ridiculous one. For should I turn Mother into Madam? as Bellamy does in translating Castalio's Sacred Dialogues, making Jacob say so to his, Dial. 8. and Man into Sir? as the Angel to Gideon, Dial. 27. and elsewhere added in, with Dread Sirs, Dial. 24. but it is unfashionable to be exact and particular in Quotation.

The Hebrew Genitive besides [of and 's] is to be expressed by against 2 Chron. xxviii. 13. Dan. xi. 32. among 1 Chron. xxvii. 6. (Psa. xlv. 12.) at 2 Sam. xix. 28. Isa. xxvi. 11. belonging to 1 Chr. xii. 23. (& xxvi. 32.) by 1 Sam. xx. 25. Isa. i. 7. concerning 2 Sam. iii. 8. (& xi. 18.) for Gen. xxii. 3. Deut. xxxiv. 8. from Isa. xxxii. 2. Jer. xxxi. 2. in Lev. xiii. 59. 1 Chr. xxv. 7. in respect of, not remarked where; on Job xxiv. 15. that has, &c. 1 Sam. xxiii. 7. Psa. xciv. 1. to Gen. xvi. 7. Deut. xvii. 1. towards Lev. xiii. 41. (2 King. xxv. 4.) with Cant. ii. 5. Psa. cv. 32. and is too in the com. Transf. after Lev. xxiii. 11, 15. & xxv. 29. over Num. iii. 32. 2 King. xi. 9. to whom belongeth Psa. xciv. 1. that being Pro. xxix. 1. that receiveth Pro. xxix. 4. as also from the Greek, between 1 Tim. ii. 5. toward 1 Pet. ii. 19. under Act. viii. 27. none of which should be Italic. And in like Manner the Ablative has the Signs with, by, through, in, or at: but those of the Dative may rather be counted to belong to the Verbs, and the Hebrew Ablative Case is commonly with a Preposition, the Nominative and Accusative with or without Articles for the, a or an.

And as ancient Language is less profuse and expressive than the modern, some Words in this, which are not in that, are needful to be inserted, as it may be called, rather than supplied, and would therefore be improperly marked for additional, in particular the following: Man, Woman, or Person, or one, and Thing or Matter, with their Plurals; see Jer. viii. 4. Job. xxiv. 1. which may prevent taking Verbs impersonally, when they differ with the Subject in Number, as not well; to which add People indefinitely, and sometimes the People; self with my, thy, him and her, as also plurally; own, as Hof. xiii. 2. 1 Sam. xviii. 1. one of Neb. vi. 2. each Psa. lxxxiv. 7. that of Lev. xxvii. 16. those of 1 Sam. vi. 13, & xiv. 25. Jer. xxvi. 2. him who has Lev. xiii. 4, &c. and the like; Place Judg. xviii. 3. & xvii. 8. 2 Chr. i. 4. Psa. lxxviii. 69. Part Num. xv. 6. Psa. cxxxix. 15, 16. —ing Job. xi. 18. Psa. lxxxviii. 10. Pro. xxiii. 35. some, as the plural of [a] or [one], Job xxiv. 2. Neb. i. 14. 1 Chr. xix. 5. and also before [ot]; Something for a Thing Job xxxv. 8. why Psa. xi. 4. with (not abl.) Psa. ix. 6. to which Generation might be added, being included in the Heb. Numerals.

Nay though a Translation may be made with little or no Supplement besides Particles, according to what may be seen at 2 Sam. v. 8. & iii. 7. yet some are useful for the sake of Perspicuity, and being distinguished (as even other small Words, and, but, as for, it, &c. are in this Version) may be safely admitted; look to Job. vi. 26.

These Particulars may be sufficient to have been mentioned here, as more will occur among the Notes, where concerning some peculiar Elegancies look at Gen. xli. 10. Hag. ii. 16. Psa. xlii. 4. Neb. ix. 32.

As to the Notes themselves, it may not be amiss to premise, that some were made with, some after the Translation; by reason of which I refer from one to another either forward or backward, and with Advantage also; as Chambers to Words in his Dictionary, &c.

COROLLARY:

When a TRANSLATION is well made, yet some Explanation and Defence of it may be necessary.

AS there is an established and received English Version of the Scripture, whoever makes another, seems under some Necessity to give his Reasons for the principal Alterations at least, to satisfy the Publick, as they did himself; which also justifies, if not requires, my comparing the Psalms with those of the Liturgy still in use. And where the Sense lies hid in the bare Text, some Explanation is necessary; and better than Addition to the Scripture, which as inspired should not be altered. Besides these, a little useful Illustration may well be allowed. I may add, that a correct Scripture Chronology was not only wanting, but especially to suit with this Translation. The Remarks indeed might have been fewer, if made only for them that are skilled in the Original; but is not the Translation it self for others? So that the Learned may candidly consider they are the least Part, and should not grudge what may be of some Use to the greater; such as saying, it is so or not so in the Original; lest the unknowing Reader might think it was but a Liberty taken, or Mistake made, and prefer the Authority of the present Bible, with several Things which many would either not know, or observe, without being told; to which add the translating Quotations from Lat. &c. Which Things being so obvious, I would say but little for making those mostly small Notes, and leave them to speak for their own Truth and Value when made; only nothing further, with Walter Cross, in his Taghmical Art, or Art of expounding Scripture by the Points, p. 103. that I have abstained from Paraphrase on many other Texts, from the Easiness I suppose in them, being once rightly translated; as also with Patrick on Eccles. iv. my Business is to give a brief Account of the literal Sense (I say when difficult,) on which I leave others to make Applications and Allegories, when there is a right Foundation laid, as this may be enough for me; nay how easy and childish mystical Interpretations are to the literal, the same esteemed Author shews in his Preface to the Psalms: and let me add that if the Notes here made, by reason of their Brevity, require and excite some Attention, it may be both more suitable to the Matter, and more serviceable to the Reader.

To conclude, a judicious Person who observes how exact I have been in the Quotations, may be inclined to think me no great Plagiary; and by attending to the Manner of Expression, may candidly allow me at least to have thought for my self. When I have found others in my own Sentiments, let the Reader see how I make the necessary Use as well of their Authority, as Reasons, to confirm my Opinion; not deterred by the Reflection that may be made, of taking mine thence. So had I known that Hervey in Ther. and Asp. Dial. 12. in Not. proposes Every Male, 1 King. xiv. 10. I might readily have cited it at 1 Sam. xxv. 22. but knew Nothing of it till some Time after these Parts were printed off; and I must now be so partial to my own, as not to think Male undistinguished without grown preferable, much less with every, which the Hebrew has not there. But it may be seen there how, though unknown to each other, we have concurred in Judgment to amend the present Translation at Gen. viii. 21. & xxii. 1. Deut. xxxiii. 13. 1 Sam. xx. 30. Psa. xxix. 9. & cxxxiii. 2. & cxxxix. 4. Isa. xl. 22. which I instance as they occur to my Memory.

For
On vii. 6. C. 1. L. 36. add after Thing:
so Gen. xiv. 2. Shemebel for Shemebel, Chap. xxv. 13.
Kadad for Kedar, Ver. 15. Hadad for Hadar, Ch.
xxvi. 23. Aden for Aram, and Dent. i. 22. in scorb, where see my intended Criticism on the Pentateuch; and differently by Y instead of Y Ark for Lord.
Exod. xliii. 7. and in overthrowing, Num. xli. 15. as also in appears for flies fastly, Dent. xxviii. 49. and to Strongly, Ch. xxviii. 45.

L. 44. add before Again
so in Sabudaba, Gen. xxi. 47. Mobabab, Ch. xxvi.
39. shall be, Dent. xlii. 17. Drunkeness, Ch. xxi.
19. and for Trouble, Exod. ii. 16. tho' there is no such Root in the eastern Tongues; on the contrary two there is Q for Y Z bar, Gen. xxi. 9.
so in Nabab, Ch. xxvi. 13. Pabab, Ch. xli. 45.
Galbanum, Exod. xxx. 34. lifel up, Ch. xxviii. 23.
the leb, Dent. xxviii. 27. from within, Ch. xxviii.
25. pius, xxviii. 2.

L. 45. (12.) after xxii. 5: 7.
L. the last. add after Hebrew.
And thus the Sam. Exod. vi. 24. has Fau for the Yad in Affir, Ch. xxii. 7. in refuge, Num. xxi. 37. in Affir, and Ch. xxii. 22. in blameless, Dent. ix. 24. in I know, Ch. xxviii. 42. to inherit (not consume, as from the Yulg. both in the Latin of the Samaritan, and our English) Ch. xxii. 22. to burn, Ver. 24. to sed upon, Ver. 25. to sucking Child, Ch. xxviii. 3. to receive; so in Gen. x. 27. 28. contrarily may be seen Fau mistaken for Yad in Udal and Obal, and the same
Ch. xxx. 43. of which see circumstantially in my Criticism on the Heb. and Sam. Coins and Pentateuch, designed to be published in convenient Time, with many rare Discoveries; thus too for blasted, Gen. xli.
6. joined Exod. xxviii. 7. Nightour, Ch. xxviii. 27.
Exchange, Lev. xxviii. 10. Aluf, Num. xxviii. 13.
Punon, Ver. 44. wild Bull, Dent. xiv. 5. and they shall pursue Ch. xxviii. 23. go with, Ch. xxviii. 7.
And for an Instance of the 4th and last Sort, there is a Sam. Cop before his Smilitude, Gen. v. 3. instead of the Heb. Beth. Nay I find both Ref and Dalab in one Word mistaken for Dalab and Ref, Gen.
xxviii. 40. where instead of ruled from the Root Y the Sam. has art became great from Y Y Y though in the Sam. Letters are transposed, whereby it is partly concealed. For Y Y Y likewise in Gen. xxviii. 39. it is in the Sam. Characters Y Y Y Hadad, with the first and last Letters different, and how may be easily seen, according as the Crash Translator mistook the two latter, making Arad; and without the Gr. Ch. xliii. 7. by Y for Y and Y for Y to Carfel, the Sam.
having Strongly or Mighty was their Wrath, though in little or no Sense with the following; so Num. xiv.
27. the Sam. Cop has Dalab twice in one Word for Ref, making the Head of instead of lay waste.

Some more but trivial Errors are omitted, and some perhaps overlooked; and as large as the List may seem, yet it might cease to appear so, if compared with the Errata occasionally collected from other Bibles, but without any Design of publishing them. I have purposely taken Notice of our own Mistakes, being unwilling to conceal Things of this Nature from the Publick.

NOTES upon the Book called GENESIS.

CHAP. I.

GOD created the Heaven and the Earth at the Beginning.
 2. The Earth however was vacant and void, and Darkness overwhelmed the Deep; but the Spirit of God hovered atop of the Water.

Ver. 1. the Heaven and the Earth] The Article [the] is expressed in Heb. by et indicating that it was not a Chaos or Heap of Matter created the first Day, as those imagine who mis-take Ovid's Metamorphosis for the Interpretation of the Scripture. So Ver. 2. it might be this Earth, according as the Demonstrative et is sometimes rendered, Chap. xix. 5, 12. Jer. xxviii. 16. Had it been all one confused Lump, why is it called distinctly the Heaven and the Earth? Nor does it appear that God made any thing incomplete: And thus Seb. Schmid, Aflius, Croft, &c. See also Heb. xi. 3.

Ib. Heaven] Shamaim being the dual Number, signifies at large both the lower Region of the Air, and the higher of the Firmament; but when alone it is to be understood only of the former in this Chapter, the Word having not the singular Number: for the upper Firmament by Distinction, is repeatedly called the Firmament of Heaven, Ver. 14, 15, 17, 20. The Name שמים seems composed, like what it signifies, of שם Fire, and מים Water. נִקְרָא שָׁמַיִם לְפִי שֵׁם אֵשׁ וּמַיִם it was called the Heaven, because it was Fire and Water, writes Behai in his Commentaries on the Law, Sec. 48.

Ib. Beginning] i. e. of Time, in a general way of speaking; which different Term seems to distinguish it from the first Day: for the Heaven, which was the Air or lower Firmament, Ver. 8. was not made till the second Day, Ver. 6, 7. together with the Waters; as the living Creatures of both were the fifth: nor was the Earth, which was the dry Ground, Ver. 10. till the third Day; when the Vegetables were made, Ch. ii. 4, 5. with which Texts here must certainly be no Inconsistency.

As for the Heathen Notion, which is so much received even now, that there was a Chaos in being before this Creation (though for what Purpose I know not) it would still more confirm, that what is here mentioned was not done the first Day: for that Opinion, along with the common one of the heavy Part gathering inward, and the Light outward, the first Day, if still rude and undigested, may seem to be, that one Chaos was made out of another; or else supposing those Parts were Earth and Water, it does not agree with the rest as above. Besides what was the Heaven before there was either Light or Air?

VOL. I.

So that these two first Verses appear to speak of the Work of Creation in general, mentioning the Heaven, Earth and Waters, as the principal Parts, which contained the living Creatures, with the Author and Instrument of the Work; after which the third Verse begins to enumerate the Particulars, with the Conjunctive et like Chap. v. 3- & vi. 10. & xxxvi. 32. Levit. vi. 10. & xxvi. 16. 2 Sam. iii. 2. Neh. x. 9. Deut. xviii. 5. Before Moses describes the Work, he properly speaks of that by which it was wrought, and the Manner of its being done. This being settled, we may observe a wonderful wise Order in the Creation, of the fine and subtil Light the first Day, of the more dense Air and yet grosser Water the second, and of the most gross and solid Earth, with the natural Product of it, the third Day: all which the most wise God took as it were in hand again, in the same Order, the other three Days, and finished them; on the fourth making the Light into celestial Bodies, and appointing them their Office; on the fifth replenishing the Air and Water with living Creatures, and doing the same the sixth Day by the Earth. Wherein we may take notice too that he descended gradually from the higher to the lower; as also when the four Elements were created, viz. Fire the first Day, Air and Water the second, Earth the third. For how long ago it was done, see the Chron. Tab. on Chap. v. and as to the Time of the Year, it was probably the Beginning of Autumn, and of the seventh Month, then the first, till it was altered, Exod. xii. 2. not only because the Year was thus computed, but by reason of the Fruit, Ver. 12. as God then put Things into the Order they have since continued in. And though some Fruits are ripe earlier, they soon decay; but the Corn, Apples, Pears, Nuts, &c. of Autumn, would be Food, for Adam and Eve, the ensuing Winter.

Ver. 2. vacant and void] both of Vegetative and Animal Beings; or vacant within of Seeds, Roots, and perhaps Minerals, &c. as void of all its Product without. Ainsworth turned it, empty and void; Tyndal's ancient English Translation has it, veyde and emptie; the old Latin (ascribed to Jerome) inanis & vacua; Pagninus, solitudo & inanitas; and the Chaldee Targum, וַיְהִי תִּלְתָּל וַיְהִי תִּלְתָּל waste and empty; the Words tohu and bohu being agreeable both

3. First

3. First God said, Let there be Light; which there was accordingly.

4. And God saw that the Light was good, so he separated it from the Darkness.

5. God also called the Light Day, as he did the Darkness Night. It had then been Evening and was Morning the first Day.

6. Next he said, Let there be Air in the

In Sound and Signification, and may be understood utterly void; which the Jerusalem Targum thus paraphrases on, וְהָאָרֶץ הָיְתָה תִּהְיָ וּבְרָאָה וְצָרָה בֶּן בְּנֵי אָנְשָׁא וְרִיקְנָא וְהָאָרֶץ הָיְתָה תִּהְיָ וּבְרָאָה וְצָרָה בֶּן בְּנֵי אָנְשָׁא וְרִיקְנָא סִבְלָא בְּעֵינָא The Earth was empty and vacant, both desolate of Mankind, and void of all Beasts. Our last authorized Translation has the former Word rendered waste, Deut. xxxii. 10. and the empty Place, Job xxvi. 7. In Bereshith Rabba (the Great Exposition upon Genesis) Sect. 2. it is compared to two Servants of a King, one maintained out of the Treasury, and the other left to provide for himself, who sits down hungry and penniless; כִּי יֵשְׁבָה חֲמָרָא תִּתָּן וְהָאָרֶץ תִּתָּן so fate the Earth empty and vacant.

Ib. Darkness overwhelmed the Deep] The Nature of Light or Heat being to spread from the Body which contains it, and the more so the stronger it is; there may be Reason sufficient allowed to believe, that on the second and third Days the Light being diffused wide, above the Region of this Globe (as observed on Ver. 6.) and consequently thin and weak, not collected into Bodies as on the fourth Day, might not pierce through the Air or Atmosphere which is round the Earth; as it does since, and that stronger from the Sun, than when reflected from the Moon: according to which it might very properly be said, that when the Air, Water and Earth, were first created, Darkness overwhelmed the Deep, namely the two latter, as the lowest; the Deep being also distinguished from the Water alone in this Verse.

Ib. Spirit] Sanchoniatho, who is reputed the oldest Heathen Author that has Writings extant, wrote a History, like Moses, of and from the Creation. He lived, as it appears in the Time of the Judges of Israel, at Berytus on the North of Canaan, and had Materials for it from the Records of that Place, which were begun by Thoth the Grandson of Ham, and from Jerubbaal the Priest of the God Jevo, who doubtless was Jerubbaal, as Gideon was called, and Jevo put for Jehovah. His Writings were used by Porphyry against Christianity, he being an Idolater like himself, which are preserved by Eusebius, De Preparatione Evangelica, Lib. x. 8. from whence they have been translated by Cumberland, under the Title of Sanchoniatho's Phœnician History. He relates that the two first Mortals were generated of the Wind Colpiaz and his Wife Baan. Now רוּחַ the Heb. Word here for Spirit signifies also Wind, and what I render void is Bobu in the Original. Thus while he, or their Tradition, disguised the Scripture, it proves a Testimony for it; since to be literally true in that Manner is incredible.

Ib. hovered] according to the proper Meaning of the Word, Deut. xxxii. 11. rendered in the present Translation fluttereth, and by Castalis here, sepe libraret, hovered or poised itself. As hovered is too general and indeterminate; so brooded or sate like a Bird to hatch by others, does not agree with the Text in Deut. and less with Jer. xxiii. 9. those three being the only Places where the Word is found. Besides hovered seems very suitable to overshadow, Luke i. 35.

Ib. atop of the Water] This might be, either because there was Water only without Earth at first, or because the Water was first to produce living Creatures.

Ver. 3. First] See the Places mentioned on Ver. 1. and consider the Nature of them with this. However first may relate to God's speaking.

Ib. was] This may be accounted the first Work of Creation, as Roscommon sings of it, Fairest as well as first of Things; and Le-Pla, Light, Creation's first Essay; and also the Morning of the first Day. The Light I suppose to extend through the whole Space of the created World, where there was no Matter at all before, and consequently that the Bounds of the Creation were now set; of which, considering the Extent, with what follows, the Work of this Day may not seem unequal to the rest.

Ver. 4. saw that the Light was good] It seems clear from this, that the Light only was created the first Day; being thus particularly mentioned without the Earth and Heaven, which were also good. Nor is this inconsistent with the other System, as by the Words of our learned Patrick in his Commentary on Ver. 5. "How long all Things continued in mere Confusion, after the Chaos was created, before this Light was extracted out of it, we are not told; it might be a great while." See this Way of placing that from the like Heb. Exod. xxxii. 25. Deut. xxxi. 29.

Ib. that the Light] or to be proper, of the Light that, as of the Grace, 2 Cor. viii. 1. that is Accus. in Gr.

Ib. was] The Verb-substantive is, was, &c. is mostly used (as it is omitted) at Pleasure in Hebrew, or rather for Emphasis, as the Pronouns I, thou, it, &c. are also before the Verb; like our Auxiliaries in English, when we say either, I write, or I do write, &c. for this Reason I have thought it improper and unnecessary to be distinguished in the Italic Character.

Ib. separated it from] The Light spreading as before-mentioned, seems to have been gathered into one half of the Space of Creation in the Evening; and by turning round as on the Center of that Space, to have made Night and Day as the Sun does now. Besides if the Rotation was like the Sun's in twenty four Hours, the Place where the Forepart of the Darkness was in the Evening, would receive the Forepart of the Light the next Morning, for another Day, and so on; see Psal. lxxiv. 16.

Ver. 5. It had then been Evening and was Morning] Shewing the Progression and Ending of the first natural Day. וַיְהִי עֶרְבַּיִם is repeated, וַיְהִי עֶרְבַּיִם making it signify the past Time or Tense, of which the Heb. Verbs have but one, so that in this Verb it denotes either was, has been, or had been, as the Sense of the Passage requires; which is plain here as I have render'd it, and the Repetition in Hebrew very proper. It is evident that the Day was before the Night, not only by the Order of the Words, Ver. 5. but by God's dividing the Light from the Darkness, Ver. 4. which must be at the Morning or Evening, and was plainly at the latter, because there was Light, i. e. Day, and God saw it to be good, before he made the Separation. From whence it appears that the natural Day of 24 Hours began in the Morning, not in the Evening. Nor is the Command to begin the Sabbath and Passover at the Evening, Levit. xxiii. 32. Exod. xii. 18. an Objection, but Confirmation, to this: for the Israelites were commanded to keep the former as well as the latter, for their Deliverance out of Egypt, Deut. v. 15. consequently it was to begin at the same Time, and both in the Evening, because the completing of that Deliverance was then begun, and they were prepared to travel out, Exod. xii. 11. And as the Command to begin the Year with that Month, implied it began otherwise before, of which see Exod. xii. 2. so their being bid to begin the Sabbath in the Evening, in like manner shews it was not, with other Days, begun so before; which if it had been, would have rendered that Command needless. How did the Israelites keep the Sabbath for their being brought out of Egypt, if there was no Alteration to what they did before? But changing it to commence in the Evening, would put them in mind of it; see Chrysost. Hom. 3. in Gen. and Howel's Hist. of the Bible, p. 2.

The translating this the Evening and the Morning were the first Day, is to me indefensible: for besides their being not a whole Day, and the Uselessness of such a Sentence, what Evening is intended by it? An Evening before there was any Day, which began in the everlasting un-midst of Water, making a Separation between the two Waters:

7. Thus God made the Air, which parting the Water that was below from that which was above it self, there was so.

8. Besides he named the Air Heaven. And it having been Evening was Morning the second Day.

9. Moreover God commanded that the Water under the Heaven should flow together into one Place, and that dry Ground should appear; which was so.

10. The dry Ground too he called Earth, as he did the Water that was flowed together Seas; and God saw that it was good.

11. Who said, Let the Earth produce upon it Grass, Herbs bearing Seed, Fruit-trees yielding Fruit of each Kind, in which there is a Kernel; and it was so.

12. For the Earth brought forth Grass, Herbs that bore Seed of each Kind, and Trees that yielded Fruit, whose Kernel was in it, of each Sort; and God saw that it was good.

13. It had then been Evening and was Morning the third Day.

14. God further said; Let there be Lights in the Firmament of Heaven, to distinguish the Day from the Night; and let them be for Signs, and for appointed Times, as likewise for Days and Years.

distinguishable Darknes, before the Light was made? Whereas the Heb. ערב Evening signifies a Mixture, i. e. of Light with Darknes. Or is it supposed the first Day commenced in the Evening, when the artificial Day was over? And so not in the Beginning of the Creation; nor would the Works of it then have been made in six Days, as is said Exod. xx. 11. but in six and a half. The best Translation I have yet seen, viz. that of Junius and Tremellius, has it rendered in the latter Editions, Sic fuit vespere & fuit mane diei primi, so there was the Evening and there was the Morning of the first Day; but the worst, namely the old Latin, factumque est vespere & mane, and the Evening and the Morning made or were, like our common Bible.

Ver. 6. Air] It is clearly the Air, or Atmosphere of the Earth, which is here intended; but the Hebrew has no express Word for Air. רָקִיעַ signifies a spreading or stretching out, and so denotes either the Air below, or Firmament above, as Ver. 14. Sol. Jar. on Psal. xix. 7. mentions רָקִיעַ הַשֵּׁנִי the second spreading out, and likewise tells us they count שִׁבְעָה רָקִיעַ seven of them, which he there names. Nay Kimhi on Psal. lxxvii. 19. says the Air is truly and properly called so. Castal. translates, liquidum inter aquas, Air between Waters; the Margin of the Geneva Version has it, spreading over and Ayre. And according to the pref. Bible this Firmament being Heaven, Ver. 8. and the Heaven Air as rendered Ver. 26, 28. this Firmament must be the Air. The strange Absurdities which translating this Firmament has led divers into, Amama shews in Antibar. Bibl. I would add, it is natural to infer, that this Body of Water and Air excluded the Light, as being a lighter and thinner Matter, without or above it.

Ib. Water] If any would contend that by this speaking of Water, it was created before the second Day, and so that it, together with the Earth, &c. was created the first Day; let him remember that by the same Parity of reasoning, the Water must be before the first Day, it being mentioned, and not said to be created, Ver. 2. But Let there be Air in the midst of Water, may be a Command for the Existence of both; and does not prove the Water was before, any more than in 1 Kings vii. 2. He built the House upon four Rows of Cedar-pillars, denotes those Pillars were where the House stood, before Solomon began building. So Psal. cxlviii. 4, 5. declares that the Heaven and the Water were created when God commanded it; therefore not the first Day, this Command being the second.

I suppose our Globe to be then mere Water, resting on its own Center, with the Air, &c. on that. Thales Milesius, says Tully, De Natura Deorum, Lib. i. qui primus de talibus rebus quæsit, aquam dixit esse initium rerum, Deum autem eam mentem, quæ ex aqua cuncta fingeret: Thales of Miletus the first who enquired into such Matters, says Water was the Beginning of Things, as God was the Mind that formed them all out of it. So Diogenes Laertius in his Lives of the Philosophers tells us, that Thales said; Water was the Beginning of all Things, De Vita Thales. See also Blackwall's Introd. to the Claf. p. 84, 85. Rationally I also conceive, that the five primary Planets in our Division of the Creation, were made at the same Time in like Manner; nay that those were too, which are probably thought to go round the fixed Stars as other Suns.

Ver. 7. above] the principal and denser Part of the Air, as the Clouds are. Moses having confined his Relation to the Earth, and what particularly concerns that, it seems improbable that this was the Water of the Moon and Planets, as has been imagined; and the same, if not that those primary and secondary Planets should be made together, yet certainly, that being begun with and like the Earth, as of the same Kind, they should lie still the third Day, while that was finished, and themselves be not finished till the fourth. Besides Ch. ii. 5. may well be understood, that there was Rain in the Clouds, but not yet come down, to obviate an Objection thence.

Ib. there was so] As God had said in the Verse before.

Ver. 9. flow together] As Buxtorf in Lexic. judiciously observes it signifies when said of Water, and Cast. with Jun. & Trem. translate: by which also the Command is proper to the Water, and not as if God commanded himself.

Ib. dry Ground should appear] Peter mentioning this as the Beginning of the Creation of the Earth, 2 Epist. iii. 4, 5. is a farther Confirmation it was not made the first Day. The Earth we find made in the Water, as the Fish, &c. were afterwards; and as that rose up, the Water sunk down.

Ver. 11. Kernel] For Fruit with a Stone, has a Kernel in it, which is the Seed.

Ver. 12. brought forth] In some Verse on this Chap.

*The stately Cedar, King of Trees, led on
The leafy Clans, and reign'd in Lebanon.
The brawny Oak, that British Seas now rules,
On Bashan's Brow protected Bashan Bulls.
The fragrant Rose had Sharon's lovely Vale,
Its Blooms to shelter, and its Sweets exhale.*

Ver. 14. for Signs] ordinary, as of Weather, Eclipses, &c. and also extraordinary; see 2 Kings xx. 9. Psal lxxv. 8. Luke xxi. 25.

Ib. appointed Times] Munster translates it, certa tempora; saying, significat מועד tempus statutum.—Hinc solennitates quædam legales, ut Pascha, Suceoth, Novilunium & aliæ similes vocantur מועדי. Mahed signifies an appointed Time.—Hence certain Jewish Solemnities, such as the Passover, Feast of Tabernacles, New-moon and the like, are called Mohadim. The Word in Psal. civ. 19. shews it belongs particularly to the Moon, which distinguishes the Festivals; and this seems mentioned for the Sake of the Israelites, for whom it was peculiarly written, as some Things even in the Ten Commandments are. But those ap-

15. Let

15. Let them also be Lights there to shine upon the Earth; which was so.

16. Thus did God make two great Lights; the greater one for the Government of the Day, and the less for that of the Night; together with the Stars.

17. Which he had no sooner put in that Expanse, to give light upon the Earth,

18. And to govern both the Day and the Night, as well as divide the Light from the Darkness, but he saw that it was good.

19. It had then been Evening and was Morning the fourth Day.

20. Afterwards God said, Let the Water breed living moving Creatures abundantly, and Fowls which shall fly above the Earth, towards the Face of the celestial Firmament.

21. He thus created great Whales, and all living Creatures that stirred, which the Water bred abundantly of each Kind, with winged Fowls of all Sorts; and God saw that it was good.

22. Upon which he thus blessed them, Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the Water in the Seas; let the Fowl also multiply on the Earth.

23. It had then been Evening and was Morning the fifth Day.

24. God likewise said, Let the Earth bring forth each Kind of living Creatures, namely that of Cattle, creeping Things, and wild Beasts; which was so.

25. Thus he made both the wild Beasts and Cattle of each Kind, with all manner of creeping Things of the Ground; which he saw to be good.

26. Then God said, Let us make Mankind in our Similitude, according to our Likeness; who shall rule over the Fish of the Sea, the Fowl of the Air, the Cattle, the whole Earth, and all creeping Things that creep upon it.

27. Accordingly he created Mankind in his own Similitude, even each in that of himself; creating them Male and Female.

28. Whom God blessed in the following manner; Be fruitful, multiply, replenish the Earth, and subdue it; as also rule over the Fish of the Sea, the Fowls of the Air, and all living Things that stir upon the Ground.

29. Behold I give you, continued God, all Herbs bearing Seed, which are all over the Earth, with all Trees that have Fruit on them yielding a Kernel, which shall be for you to eat;

30. And to all the Beasts of the Earth, to pointed Times being assigned to the Moon, may be understood Months and Tide-times; and the four Seasons of the Year may be comprehended in the Years, as Hours, Noon, &c. in the Days. But Seed-time, Harvest, &c. are appointed Times of the Sun.

Ver. 15. Let them—be Lights] This Heb. Construction is sometimes to be rendered with for, as in the preceding Verse, and sometimes without, as Exod. iv. 4. it became or was a Staff, not for a Staff, with many more; see Buxt. Heb. Gram. Lib. ii. Cap. 14.

Ver. 16. two great Lights—greater—less] This is said in Regard to their Appearance, or as they are to the Earth; so that the Moon, tho' not a Light in it self, is a Light to us.

Ib. Stars] both the fixed Stars, and Satellites or secondary Planets; as the former may be ranked with our Sun, the latter with the Moon, which two were doubtless mentioned single because they belonged to this Earth. The fixed Stars seem plainly to be comprehended, because the Satellites of Jupiter, &c. are invisible without Glasses, yielding no Light to us; see Jer. xxxi. 35. Psal. cxxxvi. 9. And why might not several solar Worlds be created now as well as one, even if there were other Creations? There might be Room enough, and the Work more magnificent. A Reason for the primary Planets being made first might be, because they, and they only, were to be habitable, at least with rational Beings. We may observe, that the Offices of the Sun and Moon are to be subservient to the Earth; as the Sun is doubtless to the other five Planets, among which the Earth may be properly reckoned. After all, those who would have it, that our Sun and Planetary World was only now created, not the fixed Stars, may find the like Consistency in the foregoing Account of those four Days Work.

Ver. 18. good] Unaccountable is Pool's Annotation here, "This Clause was omitted in the first Day's Work, but is added here, because the Light was then 'but glimmering and imperfect:'" when there is particular Mention of the Light being good at that Time, Ver. 4.

Ver. 20. towards the Face] לפני against or towards, לפני the Face.

Ver. 24. creeping Things] For this the Bishops Bible has Worms.

Ib. wild Beasts] Instead of Adjectives in Heb. and for want of them, we frequently meet with a second Substantive; as Fire of Flame for flaming Fire, Isai. iv. 5. Hof. vii. 6. a Man of Bloods for a bloody Man, 2 Sam. xvi. 7, 8. so that when there is Beasts of the Earth, or Field distinguished from Cattle, it is wild Beasts: as agrestis and sylvester are in Lat. put for wild; see Buxt. Gram. Lib. ii. Cap. 1, 3. Thus 2 Sam. ii. 18. for one of the Roes which are in the Field, our Translators say a wild Roe; as they do 2 Kings iv. 39. a wild Vine, and wild Gourds; Chap. xiv. 9. a wild Beast; and Lev. xxvi. 22. wild Beasts.

Ver. 25. Thus] As the Heb. Prefix has the Force of thus when it is necessary, Chap. xxi. 32. & xxxi. 9. 1 Kings iii. 22. Ezek. i. 11. there is no need of making either a double Creation, or a Tautology: So Ver. 7, 16, 21.

Ver. 26. Similitude] This Similitude or Likeness I find to be Holiness, Ephes. iv. 24. Knowledge, Col. iii. 10. and Dominion, by the Words here following. Image is the Form or Fashion of a Thing, and therefore improper as well as uncouth here.

Ib. Cattle] The wild Beasts are not here named, for Man has not such an especial Government of them.

Ver. 27. Mankind] Sanbeniatho says the two first Mortals, generated as before mentioned, were Protegonos, which signifies the First-born, Adam being created first of all; and Ben, signifying in the fem. Gender Life, the same as Eve does, Chap. iii. 20. But the Brahmans or Indian Priests in their Book Shaster, call them Potrous and Parcutee; as Henry Lord, Chaplain to the English Factory at Surat, relates, in his Discoverie of the Banian Religion, p. 4. pr. 1630.

Ib. each] It being the Creation of both that is here related in general, the Particulars of which are given in the next Chap. The singular Pronoun is to be taken collectively, as in numerous other Places.

all the Fowls of the Air, and to every Thing that creeps upon the Earth, in which there is Life, all green Grass to eat: which was so.

31. Lastly God looked on all that he had made, and lo it was very good. It had then been Evening and was Morning the sixth Day.

CHAP. II.

THE Heaven and Earth thus finished, with all that belonged to them;

2. On the seventh Day God having ended his Work which he made, rested then from all of it that he had done.

3. God also blessed that Day, and sanctified it; because he rested on it from making all his Work which he had created.

4. These were the Generations of the Heaven and Earth, when they were created. On the Day the Lord God had made the Earth and the Heaven,

5. He made likewise all the Plants of the Field before they were on the Earth, and all the Herbs of the Field before they grew; when he had not caused it to rain upon the Earth, and there was no Man to till the Land;

6. Or Mist had come up out of the Earth, that watered any of the Surface of the Ground.

7. After this the Lord God forming the Man with Earth from the Ground, breathed into his Nostrils the Breath of Life; so he became a living Soul.

8. And the Lord God planted a Garden at the East in Eden; that he might put there the Man whom he had formed.

9. Where the Lord God made grow out of the Ground, all Trees which were plea-

Ver. 31. sixth] From Hyde in his Religio veterum Persarum, and Pocock in his Specimen Historiæ Arabicæ, with Lord's Religion of the Persians, it appears that Zoroastres the Reviver of the Magian Sect, in the Reign of Darius Hystaspis, about 500 Years before the Birth of Christ, in his Book called Zend-vesta, still extant in the old Persian Tongue, and used by the Remainder of those People in Persia and India in their Worship-houses, gives nearly the same Account of the Creation and Deluge as Moses does; but instead of six Days for the former, he has six Times, with five Days Rest between each; the whole together making a Year, or 362 Days. And the Names of the first Man and Woman are so near ours, as Adamah and Evah.

Ver. 1. that belonged] Tynd. apparel.

Ver. 2. having ended] If God ended his Work on the seventh Day, he must work that Day, the contrary of which is apparent. So it is rendered in the preterpluperfect Tense by Jun. and Trem. for which also Gell pleads, Essay, p. 3. and the Septuag. have, God ended his Work on the sixth Day.

Ver. 3. making] Thus Jun. and Trem. turn it, viz. ab omni opere suo faciendo. Verbally it is, he rested from all his Work, which God had created, to make; and so which God had created, may be considered as if in a Parenthesis.

Ver. 4. On the Day] namely the third; on which he finishing the Creation of Heaven and Earth, they could not be made the first Day. This Partition agrees with that of the parallel Text, Chap. v. 1. and avoids the Tautology. This Day, as it is otherwise pointed, must be before the Creation of Man, Ver. 5. but these mentioned in the first Chap. could not be the Generations of the Earth then, because the Cattle, Beasts, and creeping Things, with Man himself, were produced from the Earth on the sixth Day, and so were the chief Part of its Generations.

Ver. 5. made] See the like Chap. i. 16. Exod. xxxv. 22. which must be understood in the com. Transf. to make Sense of it thus, These are the Generations—in the Day that the Lord made every Plant of the Field (which he did) before it was in the Earth, and every Herb of the Field (which he did) before it grew; look Chap. iii. 22.

Ver. 6. Or] Moses is shewing that the Vegetables were not at first produced by natural Causes, or the Industry of Man: for the latter was not created, neither had the Rain yet descended, nor even the Mist ascended; which Reason in the two first Parts of it is directly given in the com. Transf. had it not been overthrown in the last. Trem.

and Jun. have translated it thus, quoniam non demississet Jehovah Deus pluviam super terram, & nullus homo fuisset ad colendum terram, aut vapor ascendens a terra: qui irrigaret, i. e. when Jehovah God had not sent down the Rain upon the Earth, and there had been no Man to till the Earth, or Vapour ascending out of the Earth; which had watered. The old French Version has it, ni aucune vapeur ne montoit de la terre, qui arrosast, nor had there ascended any Vapour from the Earth, which watered; and as now amended, &c. il ne montoit point de vapeur, &c. The learned Broughton, who approved of this, cites the Jewish Rabbi Sadaia in his Arabick Comment. on Moses, saying the same (for which see also Simon Crit. Hist. B. ii. Ch. 19.) as also Kimhi mentioning it in his Book of Heb. Roots, under ט with others; see his Works, p. 682. and for the like Construction in Heb. Lev. xix. 12, 29. & xxii. 16. Jer. xv. 17. & xvii. 21. & xxii. 10. Psal. xxxv. 19. & xlv. 18. Isai. xxviii. 27. besides those Places produced by Buxt. Thef. Gram. Lib. ii. Cap. 19. sub fin. and what Noldius says more fully of it in Concord. Annot. 173.

Ib. Or Mist] For the Sun was not created till the next Day, by the Heat of which it is drawn up.

Ib. out of] It being odd, that the Mist should go up from the Earth to water it.

Ver. 7. Earth] So the Word is read in com. Transf. Chap. xxvi. 15. and should be Hab. i. 10. The old Bible under King Edward VI. has Mould of the Earth, as I have Job. xiv. 19. There is good Reason to think, the Matter of which Adam was formed partook of the four Qualities, Hot, Dry, Cold and Moist; but Dust is void of the last, if not the two last. David Kimhi on the Word Create in Isa. xlv. 7. writes thus, פירוש עושה שלום בין התולדות שהם הפוכות בטבעם ובהסכמת ארבעה תולדות פירוש עושה שלום בין אלה יהיה בריאות הגוף wonderfully, making Peace between Qualities, which were contrary in their Nature: and in the Agreement of these four Qualities is the Health of the Body. The Vulg. Lat. is limo terræ, the Mud of the Earth; see also Patrick in Locum.

Ib. Soul] or Person, as the Word sometimes signifies.

Ver. 8. Eden] is Pleasure or Delight, whence the Garden from the Greek of the Septuagint was called Paradise.

Ib. that he might] The doing of which is told after this Description of the Garden and Rivers.

Ver. 9. and that] The Author of a late Transf. in 1746, or Bland, turns it, the same being also a Tree, making this the same with the other; which Chap. iii. 22. quite disproves.

fant to the Sight, and good for Food; with the Tree of Life in the middle of the Garden, and that of the Knowledge of Good and Evil.

10. Besides there was a River to water the Garden, which went out of Eden; from whence it parted, and became four Heads.

11. The Name of the first was Pison; which turns about by the whole Country of Havilah, where there is Gold.

12. And the Gold of that Country is good; there is Chrystal, and Onyx-stones.

13. The second River was named Gihon; which turns about by the whole Country of Cush.

14. Hiddekel was the Name of the third, that runs towards the East of Assyria; and the fourth River was Euphrates.

15. Then the Lord God took Adam, and placed him in the Garden of Eden; to cultivate it, and look after it.

16. Who also charged him as follows; Thou mayest freely eat of every Tree of the Garden;

17. Excepting that of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, of which thou shalt not: for on the Day thou dost, thou shalt quite die.

18. The Lord God said further, It is not well for Adam to be alone; I will make him a Help according to his Need.

19. For the Lord God bringing all the Beasts of the Field, which he had formed out of the Ground, and all the Fowls of the Air to Adam, to see what he would call them, that whatever he called each living

Ver. 10. a River to water] The Garden being in Eden, Ver. 8. how did the River go out of Eden to water it?

Ib. four] The best Account seems to be, that the Rivers Tigris and Euphrates running southward, meet together in one on the North of what was called Eden, which again parts into two at the South of it; and those last, called here Pison and Gihon, run into the Persian Gulf: thus the River's parting into four Heads, was into two above, and two below. For which I have since met with Huetius's excellent Treatise of the Situation of Paradise, where it is distinctly proved.

Ver. 11. by the whole Country] As far as the Length or Side of it extends.

Ib. Country] Modern English forbidding to say the Land of France, Spain, &c. and land being at the End of some Names, as England, Poland, and several others.

Ib. Havilah] The Country that had Egypt on the West (for it could not be at any other Side of Egypt) having Havilah on the East, Chap. xxv. 18. 1 Sam. xv. 7. by consequence this Country was in the East of Arabia; which agrees with the River running by it as before.

Ver. 12. good] For this we have the Testimony of Diodorus Siculus, the eminent Greek Historian, that lived a little before the Time of Christ, and composed his Bibliotheca, which he was thirty Years about, and travelled himself through the greater Part of Asia and Europe, as he informs us at the Beginning; who in Lib. iii. Cap. 12. writes, that there is Gold dug in Arabia, which is not refined in the Fire as usual, being found in the Earth like Chestnuts, and is of such a shining Colour, that it makes the precious Stones which are set in it brighter; and Agatharcides, p. 60. to the like Purpose.

Ib. Chrystal] Bdellium, as it is translated in the com. Bible, is the Gum of a Tree (mention'd by Pliny, Lib. xii. and Dioscorides, Lib. i.) still used among us. Whereas all the Jewish Writers agree that this was a precious Stone, and Solom. Jarbi (whom I account the most certain and skilful of them all) writes in his Commentaries on Numb. xi. 7. שם אבן טובה קריסטל the Name of the precious Stone is Chrystal; with whom agrees Kimbi. And Diod. Sicul. Ib. says of Arabia, there are Chrystal Stones congealed from the Water, not by the Cold, but by the Force of the daily Heat. The Thing here mention'd had also the same Colour with Manna, Numb. xi. 7. which was white, Exod. xvi. 31. so is Chrystal, according to the candida Chrystalla of Martial, Lib. viii. 77. but Bdellium is of a dark brown Colour.

Ver. 13. Cush] It is indisputable from the other Rivers, and the Countries here mentioned, that they were all on the east Side of the Red Sea; and what is now called Ethiopia, both interior and exterior, is only on the west Side: therefore Cush here could not be Ethiopia, unless the River Gihon ran across the Red Sea, or what would be almost as ridiculous to suppose, round by the Isthmus of Suez, between that and the Mediterranean, and along by the other Side of the Red Sea, in an opposite Course to the River Nile. For other Reasons I refer to Rawleigh's Hist. of the World, B. i. 3. 14. Bedford's Scripture Chronology, Chap. 8. Sect. 17. and Shuckford's Connection, B. iii. The Targum, and Ainsworth in English, with the Tigurin and French Versions keep to the Hebrew Word; as likewise Jun. and Trem. who in their Scholium to it say, id est, Arabiam desertam Chaldaem junctam; that is, Arabia the Desert joining to Chaldaea. In short the Heb. Cush being on both Sides of the Red Sea, should be rendered accordingly; see 2 Chron. xxi. 16.

Ver. 14. towards] The River Tigris, which as Rauwolf says in his Travels, Pt. ii. Ch. 9. is now called Hiddekel, pointing as supposed that Way from the Place of Eden, though by its turning it ran on the west Side of Assyria.

Ib. Euphrates] The Name in Heb. is Pherath, but there being hu before it, signifying it was Pherath, the Septuagint Translators not improbably taking both for the River's Name, which might be read without the Vowels Huphrat; by dismissing the Aspirate for the Softness of Pronunciation, and adding the Gr. Termination es, made Εὐφράτης, Euphrates, and so it was afterwards called. The Use and Credit of their Version, and others from it, have fixed divers wrong Names upon us, which Custom now does not allow to be rectified.

Ver. 15. Adam] Man in com. Transf. Chap. i. 26, 27. & ii. 5, 7, 8, 15, 16, 18, 22. and Adam in Ver. 19, 20, 21. is the same Word in the Original, viz. Adam, which signifies Man. The Question then is, when a Translator should begin to use it as a proper Name? Some do it at the 19th Verse, Cast. at the 18th, the Geneva Version at the 20th, the Bishops Bible at the 21st; Pagnine does not call him Adam till Chap. iv. 25. but the Septuagint in the next Verse after this. However the Heb. uses it as Man, by prefixing the Article א (which is not put to proper Names of Men, Bux. Gram. L. 2. 5.) to Chap. iv. 1. inclusive. I begin with Munster and Vatablus, after the Digression of the Rivers, when he is more particularly spoken of as a Person.

Ver. 17. quite die] agreeable to our common Expression [quite dead] Heb. by dying thou shalt die; which Idiom raises the Meaning of the Verb in the Manner of an Adverb, and is express'd in the King's Transf. Chap. xxxi. 15. Exod. xxiii. 24. 2 Sam. iii. 24.

Ver. 18. according to his Need] Heb. according as there is before him.

Ver. 19. For] In this Manner Jun. and Trem. with Cast. turn this and the following Verse, the Sense requiring from the Verse before, as the Reader himself may see.

Ib. out of the Ground] That the Fowls were produced by the Water we learn Chap. i. 20. which Patrick il-Creature,

Creature, the same might be the Name of it;

20. When Adam gave Names to all Cattle, to the Fowls of the Air, and all the wild Beasts, there was not a Help found for him according to his Need.

21. Upon this the Lord God caused a sound Sleep to fall upon him, and while he slept, took one of his Ribs, closing up the Flesh in the room of it.

22. And the Lord God made up the Rib which he took from Adam into a Woman, and brought her to him.

23. At which he said, This is now Bone of my Bones, and Flesh of my Flesh; this shall be called a Woman, because she was taken from a Man.

24. Therefore let a Man forsake his Father and Mother, that he may cleave to his Wife, since they are one Flesh.

25. Now naked as Adam and his Wife each of them was, they were not ashamed.

CHAP. III.

AFTERWARDS the Serpent, that was the most cunning of all the Beasts of the Field which the Lord God had made, said to the Woman; Much less did God say, You shall not eat of every Tree of the Garden.

2. Whom she answered; Of the Fruit of the Trees belonging to the Garden we may eat;

3. Only of the Fruit of that Tree which is in the middle of the Garden God said, You shall neither eat, nor meddle with it, that you may not die.

4. The Serpent however replied to her; You will not die at all.

5. For God knows, that at the Time when you eat of it, your Eyes will be opened, so that you will be like Gods, knowing Good and Evil.

6. Now the Woman seeing that the Tree was good for Food, and withal delightful to the Eyes, nay a Tree to be desired that it might give Understanding; she not only took and eat of its Fruit, but gave to her Husband with her, and he eat.

7. Then the Eyes of them both were illustrates in his Commentary there; so that out of the Ground here must belong only to the Beasts: thus also Eliezer & Mos. Gerund. Accordingly Castal. turns it, bestias omnes terrestres, quas ex terra formaverat, omnesque aereas volucres, as here. It is spoken here as what God had done, to which it refers; but is related in the com. Bib. as if it was another Formation after Adam.

Ver. 20. there was not—found] among all the living Creatures yet made, which Adam had named.

Ver. 22. made up] Heb. built.

Ib. brought her] Probably Eve having been conducted about the Garden, that she might first see the inferior Creatures, was brought to Adam when he awaked. But particular are Bedford's late Imaginations, that God did not bring her to Adam till the 8th Day, Script. Chr. B. i. Ch. i. 30. or as he says further on the 7th, Ib. Ch. 10. 11.—What is here related was done the 6th Day, Chap. i. 27. & v. 2. And this whole Chapter after the 3d Verse is only a fuller Account of, with some Addition to, that which was deliver'd before in the first Chapter.

Ver. 23. now] Because the Beasts and Fowls had been brought to him before.

Ib. Woman] That is Wombman (a Female Person) as it is said to be in the ancient English Version of John Trevisa, a Cornish-man, who Baker says in Chron. & Bale Script. Brit. Cent. 7. lived in the Time of King Richard II. and translated the Bible.

Ver. 23, 24. a Man] This is not Adam in Heb. but ish a Man, as ishah is a Woman.

Ver. 24. The Words of Moses, and not of Adam.

Ver. 1. of all] He being a Beast himself: thus the ingenious Castal. says, omnium terrestrium bestiarum—versutissimus; so Deut. vii. 7.

Ib. Much less] This has been allowed an imperfect Speech, Something before it being omitted, as in the Oaths. That אֲנִי signifies much less is clear by other Places, as Prov. xvii. 7. & xix. 10. 1 Kings viii. 27. Jeb ix. 14. 2 Chron. vi. 18. & xxxii. 15. Ezek. xv. 5. Now it appearing that God spoke only to Adam, when he prohibited the Tree of Knowledge to be eat of, as it was before Eve was made, Chap. ii. 17, 18. with which agree Chap. iii. 11, 17. what can be more naturally the Serpent's arguing, than that Adam was mistaken, or feigned the Interdiction, and God did not say so? It was much easier for Eve to be deceived, by his placing the pretended Falseness on Adam, than on God; as it is quite probable, that the Tempter would use the most likely Method. This was so rational, and agreeable to the Nature of Temptation, that I was apprehensive it was the Case, before I examined, and found the Heb. agreeing with it; which thus literally translated, confirms it.

Ver. 3. that Tree] Tree having here the Demonstrative הַ before it, which it has not in the Verse before.

Ib. that you may not die] In the com. Transf. it is made very certain, Chap. ii. 17. and here uncertain. Gr. ἵνα μὴ ἀποθῶνται, that you die not. So in the com. Bib. pen is that-not, Chap. xxxi. 24. Judg. ix. 54. & xv. 12. 1 Sam. iv. 9. Deut. xii. 13, 19, 30.

Ver. 4. not die at all] Not in the least, or any how, Jer. xxvi. 19. As the Duplication of the Verb heightened the Expression, Ch. ii. 17. this being negative turns it the other Way; like what the prof. Transf. affords us, Ezek. xvi. 4. Jer. xxiii. 32. Amos iii. 5. Exod. xii. 9. & xxii. 23. Zech. vii. 5. Levit. xix. 7, 20. The Father of Lyes has been made a diminutive Liar, to say, Ye shall not surely die: which not denying it wholly, does not agree with the former Place, as Buxtorf writes in Thef. Gram. Lib. ii. Cap. 16. where he expresses the Phrase, nullo modo moriemini, you shall by no means die; Leo Judae in the same Manner by, haudquaquam moriemini; and Castal. nequaquam morte mulctabimini, you shall in no wise suffer Death. Tynd. has tushe ye shall not dye.

Ver. 5, 7. so that] The Marrow of a Sentence often lies in the Particles, especially of the Hebrew, as I suppose the Reader will observe here: for their Eyes were simply opened before, Ver. 6.

Ver. 6. delightful] Tynd. lussy.

Ib. took] Sanchoniathe says, that Aeon, of whom see Chap. i. 26. found out the Way of taking Food from Trees. By which the real Fact, though partly concealed, is confirmed.

Ib. saw] As to the Time when, see on Chap. iv. 1.

opened, so that they knew themselves to be naked; and sewing Fig-leaves together, they made them Girdles.

8. At length they heard the Sound of the Lord God going through the Garden in the Wind that Day; for fear of whom Adam and his Wife hid themselves, among the Trees there.

9. Upon which the Lord God called Adam, and said to him, Where art thou?

10. Who answered, I heard the Sound of thee in the Garden, and being afraid because I was naked, I hid.

11. But he replied, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eat of the Tree of which I forbade thee to eat?

12. That Woman, said Adam, whom thou didst put with me, giving me of it, I eat.

13. And upon the Lord God's saying to the Woman, Why didst thou do this? She answered, The Serpent so deceived me, that I eat.

14. The Lord God then said to the Serpent; Because thou hast done this, thou shalt be cursed from all Cattle, and every wild Beast: upon thy Belly shalt thou go, and eat Dust as long as thou livest.

15. Besides I will make Enmity between thee and the Woman, as also between thy Offspring and hers: he shall bruise thee on the Head, thou him but on the Heel.

16. To the Woman he said, I will exceedingly multiply thy Sorrow with thy Conception, thou shalt bear Children in Anguish; and thy Mind shall be to thy Husband, for he shall rule over thee.

17. And he said to Adam; Because thou hast hearkened to what thy Wife said, and eat of the Tree which I commanded thee that thou shouldest not; the Ground shall be cursed for thy Sake, of which thou shalt eat with Grief all the Days of thy Life.

18. For it shall produce Thorns and Thistles to thee; and thou shalt eat the Herbs of the Field;

19. Nay eat Victuals in the Sweat of thy

Ver. 7. knew themselves to be naked] Before this they were naked, and not ashamed, Chap. ii. ult. by comparing of which together, as their not being ashamed that they were naked (like Children) was counted their Ignorance of it, their knowing it now will be their Shame, which Sin brought upon them. The Sight of their Nakedness causing Shame, is not unaptly, but one may say elegantly expressed, by their Eyes being opened in such a Manner as to know they were naked. Care should be taken of expounding away the literal Sense, the Deformity of which will be the more liable to appear if but done in part; as here by making the Nakedness spiritual, that was covered by material Fig-leaves.

Ib. Girdles] *Pagn. cingulos, Munster and the Tigur. Transf. cindleria, the French, des ceintures, Onkel. גִּדְּלוֹת, Girdles, i. e. Something to gird about them. Perhaps they were small Ozier Sprouts, or such like, thrust thro' a great many Fig-leaves, which are broad, and tied on like Beads; several of which might be put one above another; and this might be called sewing, and would answer the Purpose for Strength and Covering, far better than any other Way I have heard of. The Word is turned Girdle in *com. Transf. 2 Sam. xviii. 11. 1 Kings ii. 5. Isa. iii. 24.

Ver. 8. Sound] Going or walking has not a Voice, nor is it probable they heard the Almighty speak, till he called to Adam after they were hid.

Ib. going through] Accordingly Jun. and Trem. render it, itauteum per hortum; and the French Translators, parla jardin. Walking in the Garden, and hid themselves from the Presence of, are Expressions too low for the Deity, and suitable only to a finite Creature.

Ib. in the Wind that Day] or at the windy Time of the Day, i. e. in the Evening, when Breezes of Wind blow in those warm Countries, as I have also observed here after a very hot Day; and so nesheph, Twilight, comes from nesheph, to blow. God might come in the Wind, as he is said to go upon the Wings of the Wind, Psal. civ. 3. (which seems to be what Adam and Eve heard, and their hearing it the Reason it was mentioned) and his Spirit came on the primitive Believers like a rushing mighty Wind, Acts ii. 2. So Jun. and Trem. render it, ad ventum illius diei, as Munster does ad ventum diei; and Jerome shews that Aquila translated, ἐν τῷ ἀνέμῳ τῆς ἡμέρας in the Wind of the Day. The Word no otherwise signifies cool. Thus the divine Reproofs or Dread seize Sinners at the Time of Affliction, Hos. v. 15. Psal. cxix.

67. 2 Chron. vi. 37. & xxxiii. 12. Chap. xlii. 21. best denoted by the Wind.

Ib. that Day] The Article n before Day usually signifies this or that, Chap. xxiv. 42. Psal. ii. 7. & cxix. 91. 1 Sam. xxii. 15. 2 Sam. xix. 6. Deut. xxxiv. 12. so 1 Sam. xiv. 34. that Night.

Ib. for fear of] It was impossible for them to hide themselves from the Presence of God, who fills Heaven and Earth, Jer. xxxiii. 24. יְיָ אֱלֹהֵינוּ frequently signifies by reason of, or for fear of, as Ainsworth explains it; and so it is rendered by our Translators, Judg. ix. 21. 1 Sam. xxi. 10. & xxiii. 26. Jer. xli. 9. & l. 16.

Ver. 10. hid] It is not the Conjugation Hithpael for self as Ver. 8. being elegantly varied.

Ver. 11. Who] Sol. Jar. writes on it, מִאֵי לָךְ לִדְעוֹת, מִאֵי בִשְׂמֹנֶת יֵשׁ בְּעוֹמֶר עֲרוֹת From whence dost thou know what Shame there is in being naked?

Ver. 13. Why &c.] as the like in Judg. ii. 2. & viii. 1. see also on Exod. xii. 26.

Ib. deceived] See 1 Tim. ii. 14. Rev. xii. 9.

Ver. 14. curled from all Cattle] From their Company, being incapable of going with them, and from the Blessing they enjoyed of eating Vegetables; thus much the Words immediately following inform us, and so it is like Ch. iv. 11. curled from the Ground. So also the Sept. have translated, which Simon ignorantly asserts does make no Sense, Crit. Hist. B. 2. Ch. 4. The other Beasts and Cattle too were not curled, being all very good, Ch. i. 31.

Ver. 15. hers] Why not his, since the Male Genealogy is usually counted, or rather theirs; but because Christ was to be born of a Woman without Man?

Ib. bruise] The Analogy is kept to of a Man's treading on the Head of a Serpent with his Heel.

Ver. 16. with] Not and thy Conception; for Conception it self was a Blessing, not a Curse, Chap. i. 28.

Ib. in Anguish] It is observed by Aristotle and others, that no other Creature brings forth its Young, with so much Pain and Difficulty as a Woman, Hist. Animal. vii. 9.

Ib. Mind] See Chap. iv. 7.

Ver. 17. for thy Sake] Author of Vulg. Lat. in thy Work, Septuag. Works, and Theod. in thy Transgression; the former through Mistake perhaps of the Letter γ for τ; and none of them sufficiently understanding the Original.

Ver. 18. Thistles] or rather Weeds, only that Interpretation is new.

Brows,

Brows, till thou returnest to the Ground, since thou wast taken out of it: for thou hast been Earth, and shalt turn to Earth again.

20. And Adam named his Wife Eve, because she was the Mother of every one living.

21. The Lord God also made Coats of Skins for Adam and his Wife, and clothed them.

22. However he said, Lo is Adam become like one of us, in knowing Good and Evil? Now therefore care is to be taken, lest he should put forth his Hand, and taking likewise of the Tree of Life, eat, that he may live for ever.

23. So the Lord God sent him out of the Garden of Eden, to till the Ground from whence he was taken.

24. And having driven him out, he placed Cherubs at the East of it, with a flaming Sword that turned about, to keep the Way to the Tree of Life.

CHAP. IV.

AND Adam had the knowledge of Eve his Wife, so that she conceived, and bearing Cain, said, I have gained the Lord with a Man.

Ver. 19. hast been] That is really, not comparatively as Chap. xviii. 27. and hereby is avoided the jarring which is between art and shalt thou return; for how should he return to that which he then was?

Ib. Earth] Look Chap. ii. 7. to Tyndal's Translation has it.

Ib. turn—again] So Job xxxiv. 15. Ecclef. iii. 20.

Ver. 20. Eve] Heb. Havah, Life, from hayab, lived.

Ver. 21. made] which might be only by the Death of a Calf and Colt, or the like.

Ver. 22. is Adam] or Adam is ironically, in the same Sense, but more obscure; which is according to the best Interpreters, whom I need not particularize.

Ib. care is to be taken] The Sentence is evidently and confessedly imperfect. Such Phrases, says Ainsworth, are usual, as Gen. xxxviii. 11. and xlii. 4. to which add Job xxxvi. 18. Isa. xxxvi. 18. Jun. and Trem. Insert videndum, like this: in Castalis's and the Tigurin Version is periculum est, there is Danger. The joining it to the next Verse, seems only to alter it from defective to absurd.

Ver. 24. Cherubs] Cherubims is improper, if we consider that im is the Heb. Termination of plural Nouns masculine, as s is the common Ending of our Nouns plural; so that it has a double plural Ending, as if we should say, Feets, Teeths, Sheeps, Mens, &c. which to avoid, some have used Cherubim plurally, somewhat more tolerable than the other. They are supposed to be Angels, the Representation of whom was afterwards put over the Mercy-seat, in a human Shape as supposed with Wings; vid. Exod. xxvii. 7, 8, 9. 1 King. vi. 23, 27. but by Ezek. x. 14. compared with Ch. i. 10. appear to have a Face like an Ox.

Ver. 1. so that] Translators have made knew his Wife superfluous. Not only so, but an Error has been founded on it, that their first carnal Knowledge was after the Fall, on which Bayle in his Dictionary under Abel lays great Stress; but it is easily refuted by thus significantly rendering it, as also by Ver. 17. 1 Sam. i. 19. for who will pretend that Elkanah did not know Hannah till they had been married several Years, Ver. 7. or Cain his Wife till they dwelt in Nod? As they were doubtless married before he murdered Abel, which appears to be but a little before the Birth of Seth, Ver. 25. Chap. v. 3. And indeed who would have him for a Husband just after the Murder? But even supposing that to be, if the Murder did not hinder their Marriage, much less would it hinder their cohabiting thus together. This however is not all, as Errors are naturally pregnant: for on the Supposition that Adam did not know Eve before their Fall, it is inferred they fell the same Day they were created, or very soon; against which I have this to object, viz. It is improbable, as being unnecessary, that there were more than two Beasts of a Sort created, a Male and Female to propagate, according to Patrick's Observation on Chap. i.

29. and we find God making our first Parents Coats of Skins presently after the Fall and Curse, Chap. iii. 21. as they were then immediately wanting; which consequently could not be before those Creatures had bred, because it would destroy the Species, since none I suppose will pretend that God created more Beasts only for their Skins, and that before those were wanted; besides the Creation being in Autumn, Chap. i. 1. the Trees would not have Fruit for Eve to gather in the Winter; after which was probably the Time of the Transgression. Loridano indeed in his Life of Adam ventures to assert, that Adam was in Paradise but three Hours before he disobeyed; which may serve for Company among other of his crude Notions. And did not the Progenitors of Mankind live before that in Obedience to the divine Command, Chap. i. 28? see Milt. Par. Lost, B. iv. and on the other hand what miserable Work is made with the contrary Opinion, for Instance, in Biblioth. Bibl. Occas. Annot. 8.

Ib. Gain] From kanah, he purchased or gained. Sanchoniathes relates, that of Protoponos and Aeon, the first Man and Woman, were begotten Genos & Genea, that is Cain and his Wife, which Names signify the Male and Female Offspring.

Ib. gained the Lord] With which agrees 1 Tim. ii. 14, 15. Eth before the Lord denoting the Accusative, may determine that she meant she had gained him, that is got his Favour again which she had lost; or purchased him, as it were, with this Son. We find Leah speaking much after the same Manner, concerning her Husband, at the Birth of three of her Sons, Reuben, Levi and Zebulun. It is likely Eve might take it for a Sign of God's Favour restored to her, that he suffered her to increase the World: for that was his Blessing to them, Ch. i. 28. Gell and others own the Lord to be taken accusatively, by rendering gotten the Man the Lord, and Luther in his high Dutch Transf. gotten a Man which is the Lord, as if Eve thought Cain was the promised Seed; but it is quite improbable that she took her Child to be the Lord, signifying in Heb. the Supreme Divine Being, nor is there the accusative Article before Man as before Lrd. Ish, a Man, is here a naked Word without any Prefix, in which manner Words are often left in Heb. (as always in Latin) signifying the Instrument with which something is done, the Letter ו being omitted by reason of the Frequency of it. Examples are Zeph. i. 9. with Violence and with Deceit, Hab. ii. 9. with Gold and with Silver, Judg. xviii. 11. with Instruments of War, Zech. iii. 3. with filthy Garments, Lam. iii. 15. with Wormwood, Psa. xc. 14. with thy Kindness, Ex. iii. 8. with Milk and Honey; and divers others. For a parallel Phrase to this, see Gen. ii. 7. where to follow the com. Transf. here, must be read, formed Dust from Man; others in this Book are Chap. vi. 14. & xii. 17. & xlvii. 12.

2. After which she bore his Brother Abel; who became the Shepherd of the Flock, as Cain was the Tiller of the Ground.

3. So at the End of the Year, Cain brought an Offering to the Lord of the Crop of the Land.

4. And Abel also bringing one, of the Firstlings of his Flock, and of their Fat, the Lord had respect to him, and his Offering;

5. But to Cain and his he had none: at which Cain was very angry, and his Countenance loured.

6. Then the Lord said to him; Why art thou angry? And why is thy Look cast down?

7. If thou doest well, will it not be accepted? (But if thou dost not, Sin lies at the Door;) his Mind also will be to thee, for thou rulest over him.

8. Nevertheless Cain speaking to Abel his Brother; when they were in the Field, he rose up against his Brother Abel, and killed him.

9. Upon this the Lord asked Cain, Where is Abel thy Brother? Who answered, I know not; am I my Brother's Keeper?

10. But he replied; What hast thou done? The Voice of thy Brother's Blood cries to me from the Ground.

11. Now therefore thou shalt be cursed, from the Ground, which opened its Mouth, to receive the same from thy Hand.

12. When thou tillest the Ground, it shall no more yield its Strength to thee: a Wanderer and a Vagabond shalt thou be on the Earth.

13. And Cain complained to the Lord; The Punishment of my Iniquity is too great to bear.

14. Behold thou drivest me off to Day from the Surface of the Ground, that I may be hid from thy Face; and when I am a Wanderer and Vagabond on the Earth, whoever finds me will kill me.

15. To whom the Lord said, Therefore whoever kills Cain, it shall be revenged se-

One Objection to this Interpretation may arise, that eth does sometimes signify with, and so it may be translated, gained a Man with the Lord: but then that with must not be taken instrumentally, as above, for by or from, but conjunctively for together with, as Judg. i. 3. the want of which Observation seems to have misled Translators. The Verb too denotes such a gaining as is by Purchase, which may very well be according to this Version, but not by others. The First-born were afterwards sanctified to the Lord, Exod. xiii. 2. and was not that likewise to gain or purchase his Favour? And that it was done thus early may appear by Ver. 4.

Ver. 2. After which she bore] Heb. added to bear. Here not unfitly may be inserted what is written in the Jewish Talmud, Lib. Kiddush. and elsewhere, לעולם ילמד אדם את בנו אומנות נקייה For ever let a Man teach his Son a blameless Trade or Employment.

Ib. Flock] The Word comprehends both Sheep and Goats, as may be seen Chap. xxx. 32. Lev. i. 10. so Buxtorf explains it, ovium scilicet & caprarum; and Santes in Thesaur. Significat communiter minuta animalia, ut oves, ut capras.

Ver. 3. Year] the End, as it is in the Original, shews it was of some determinate Time, and what should that be but a Year, viz. at Autumn when the Corn was ripe, and the Lambs grown fit to kill? That the same Word so signifies, see also Exod. xiii. 10. Numb. ix. 22. 1 Sam. i. 7. Amos iv. 4. and Ainsf. in Loc.

Ib. brought] not by any Command of God, says Greusius in his Annotations; but the contrary Opinion of Patrick, &c. seems better, else how did God accept Abel's Offering? Or how he perform it rightly, and be righteous in so doing, Heb. xi. 4?

Ver. 5. But] The Reason we have Heb. xi. 4. which destroys the inconsistent Fictions that have been invented about it, for which Calmet's Dictionary may be consulted. Abel it seems did it spiritually, Cain formally.

Ib. none] Because it was not done well, Ver. 7.

Ib. loured] which is the Word Tynd. uses, the Bish. have it abated.

Ver. 7. If thou doest well] In Pirke Aboth, Chap. 2. it is written, העושה מצוה אחת קונה לו סרקליש אחד והעובר עבירה אחת קונה לו קסיגור אחד i. e. He who does one Command, gets himself one Advocate: and he that commits one Transgression, gains to himself one Accuser.

Ib. Mind] As the Mind of a Servant is to his Master to please him, which the Words rulest over him shew. So it is to be understood Chap. iii. 16. and not that Eve's Desire or Affection to her Husband, was her Curse or Punishment. To bring Cain out of his Sullenness, God not only let him know that he might be accepted, but that his Brother would be subject to him.

Ver. 8. speaking to Abel] Persuading him to go into the Field, that he might kill him: insomuch that some Versions have added in Let us go into the Field, as it seems to me from the Sept. who took such Liberties; for it is unlikely had these Words been in the Original, that they would be after left out.

Ver. 11. cursed from the Ground] Not receiving the Increase of it as before, nor settling upon it, which the next Verse shews. And though he built a City, it is not said he dwelt in it, as Josh. xix. 50. Judg. viii. 28. His Guilt might drive him from thence, and make it an Addition to his Curse. Besides his dwelling in the Country of Nod, appears to be not his settling, but wandering about there, from whence it was called Nod, which signifies wandering, Psa. lvi. 8.

Ver. 12. yield] As this was a particular Curse to Cain, over and above the Barrenness which the Earth received from the general one denounced to Adam; so Sanchoniatho speaks of great Droughts, where Genes and Genea were.

Ver. 13. The Punishment of my Iniquity, &c.] As rendered Lam. iv. 6. The Noun signifying mostly Iniquity, and the Verb sometimes to forgive, divers have rendered it after this manner, My Iniquity is too great to be forgiven; but as it is easy to see that this does not agree with what is before and after, some noted modern Expounders have thought it better turned into a Question, which I think is no less injurious to the Sense; however the Heb. has no Sign of a Question, as at Ver. 7. The Meaning of those Words is not to be considered so much apart as together, when they commonly signify as I have put it, several times turned in the com. Transf. bear Iniquity, where the Punishment of it is to be understood, but may be better expressed, suffer for Iniquity, as I usually put it; and might be here, My Iniquity is too great to suffer for, but with less Propriety.

Ver. 14. from thy Face] This is to be looked upon only as the Words of Cain, who having not Faith to believe what God was, an Infinite and All-present Being, Heb. xii. 4, 6. spoke thus; whose whole Speech was extravagant and untrue.

Ver. 15. Therefore] But the 70 Interp. for it not so, as though they took לכן for לכן and conformable to it, as frequently, the Vulgate has, It shall by no means be so, but, as likewise Symmachus & Theodotion, not so, but; either in venfold.

yenfold. Besides the Lord shewed a Sign to Cain, that none who found him should slay him.

16. Now he going out from before the Lord, dwelt in the Country of Nod, on the East of Eden.

17. And Cain had the knowledge of his Wife, so that she conceived, and bore Enoch; he also built a City, and called the Name of it Enoch, like that of his Son.

18. To Enoch likewise was born Irad, who begot Mehujael, as he did Methusael, and this Lamech.

19. Next Lamech took him two Wives; the Name of one was Adah, and the other's Name Zillah.

20. And Adah bore Jabal; he was the first of such as dwelt with Tents and Cattle.

21. Whose Brother's Name was Jubal; he was the first of all who played upon the Harp and Organ.

22. And Zillah too bore Tubal-cain, a Maker of all Edge-tools with Steel and Iron; his Sister being Naamah.

23. And Lamech said to these his Wives; Hear what I say, you Wives of Lamech, give ear to my Expression; because I have killed a Man to my own Wounding, and a young Man to my Hurt:

24. Since Cain shall have Vengeance taken sevenfold, so shall Lamech seventy and sevenfold.

25. Adam moreover had the knowledge of his Wife again, so that she brought forth a Son, and called his Name Seth: for God has put me, said she, other Offspring instead of Abel, because Cain slew him.

the same Manner, or rendering לֹא but, and supplying the other; yet Aquila, who may be counted the best of the Gr. Translators, has Therefore only, and Onkelos the like in Chald.

Ib. Sign to] The proper and usual Signification of תּוֹכַח is a Sign, and of לֹא to; nor is it left in the Hebrew: how much more agreeable to the Context, as well as likely in itself this is, I leave to the Reader's Understanding.

Ver. 17. Cain] who, Josephus says, invented Weights and Measures, Antiq. Lib. i. 3.

Ib. Wife] Abul Pharagius, a noted Author of the Christian Jacobites in Lesser Armenia about the End of the 13th Century, writes that Cain had a Twin-sister named Azrun, and Abel another named Owain: Eutychius also, one of the Melchites and a Patriarch of Alexandria in the 10th Century, says in his Annals, that Adam would have Cain marry Abel's Twin-sister, but he would not, because his own was more beautiful. The Histories and Annals of those Authors written in Arabick, have been published by Pocock at Oxford.

Ver. 18. Enoch] Sanhoniatho carrying on his History in the Line of Cain, has the Genealogies from the Beginning to the Flood thus:

1. Protegenos and Aeon; see Chap. i. 26.
2. Genos and Genea, see Ver. 1.
3. Phos, Pyr and Phlox; who found out Fire by rubbing Pieces of Wood together.
4. Cassios and Libanos, Antilibanos and Brathys; who were Giants, from whom the Names of those Mountains were so called.
5. Hyppuranist and Usos; who invented, the one Houses of Reeds, and the other Boats.
6. Agreus and Haliens; who invented Hunting and Fishing.
7. Cbryssor and another; who invented Iron and Fishing-instruments.
8. Technites and Geinas; who invented Tiles.
9. Agros and Agrueros; who invented Courts to Houses, Fences and Cellars.
10. Amynas and Magos; who constituted Villages and Flocks.

In the other Line are only two Genealogies inserted to that Time, viz.

Eliun, supposed for Lamech; and Uranos, for Noah.

Which are continued in this manner, as Sanhoniatho may be understood;

11. Sydyc, Chrenos and Noreus, for Shem, Ham and Japheth.

12. Misor for Mizraim.

13. Thoth and the Cabiri; by whom those Records were first kept at Berytus.

Ver. 19. Lamech] Of whom Josephus relates, that he had 77 Children, Ant. Lib. i. 3. But I query whether there was any more Proof for it, than his living so many odd Years, Chap. v. 31. if that be any.

Ver. 22. Tubal-cain] Whence the Heathen Deity Vulcan the Smith plainly, the Heb. being rather [v] than [b]; and this being an Instance so early, it is more likely that later Persons and Names after the Flood, were adopted into the Gentile-Divinity.

Ib. a Maker of all Edge-tools with] or Heb. a Sharpener of every Work of; the Verb signifying no more to instruct, than sharpen and whet do in English. The chief Use of Iron and Steel at first, we may suppose, was in Tools for cutting Wood, and manuring the Ground, such as had Edges; and therefore the Maker of them might fitly be called a Sharpener. To this consents קָדַשׁ דָּוִד David Kimhi, the celebrated Jewish Expositor, in his Book of Roots, and of the Translators Pagnin. Costal. and Tyndal, with the com. Latin and French Versions; Vatablus and Sebast. Munst. have it, qui expoliabat, who polished.

Ib. Steel] According to the best Understanding we have of the Heb. Word, it signifies both Brass and Steel; or as Mercerus on Pagninus says, Rabbi Joseph Kimhi (who was Father to David and Moses Kimhi) thinks it should every where in Scripture be understood Steel. However it is clear enough it ought to be so here, by reason of the sharpening, as well as in some other Places.

Ver. 23. young Man] It is plain by this that it was not Cain, as has been thought; and likewise that it was Somebody (for that too has been denied, it being supposed to be a Question) since it is so particularly described.

Ver. 24. Since &c.] Lamech having killed his Man as it seems in fighting, and so his Crime much less than Cain's.

Ver. 25. a Son] The Banians, as on Chap. i. 27. reckon to the first Man and Woman four Sons, named Brammen, Cutlery, Shuddery and Wyse; but this appears to me a Fiction, made from their Account of the Creation consisting of four Elements, with the Quality of which these Sons were distinctly endued, and from the four Quarters of the Earth, whither they were said to go.

Ib. Seth] Heb. Sheth, derived from its Verb shuth, he put. As the Account of some Names, with the Reasons assigned for them, even before the Flood, Ch. ii. 23. and iii. 20. and iv. 1. and v. 29. shew that one of those Kindred-Languages the Heb. or Chald. was the first: so this turns the Scale for the former, the Chald. shuth being a Noun, signifying Meditation or Speech; see for it more Mercer on Ch. ii. Fuller in Misc. Sac. Lib. iv. 4.

26. And

26. And to Seth himself also there was a Son born, whom he named Enos. Then it was begun to be called by the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. V.

THIS is the Book of Adam's Generations. On the Day that God created Mankind, he made each of them in his own Likeness;

2. Creating them Male and Female: whom he blessed, and called their Name Mankind the same Day they were created.

3. And Adam living a hundred and thirty Years, begot him in his Likeness, after his Similitude, whose Name was called Seth.

4. After which his Time was eight hundred Years, and he begot Sons and Daughters.

5. So all the Time which Adam had lived, was nine hundred and thirty Years, when he died.

6. And Seth living a hundred and five Years, begot Enos.

7. After which he lived eight hundred and seven Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

8. So all the Time of Seth was nine hundred and twelve Years, when he died.

9. And Enos living ninety Years, begot Cainan.

10. After which he lived eight hundred and fifteen Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

11. So all the Time of Enos was nine hundred and five Years, when he died.

12. And Cainan living seventy Years, begot Mahalaleel.

13. After which he lived eight hundred and forty Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

Ver. 26. called by] This Place is not only rendered and understood according to our Eng. Bible, but the Verb for begun sometimes signifying to profane, it has been done as if they were then profane, or idolatrous in their worship. Whereas the former falls, by considering that God must needs be, and was worshipped before; the latter, as he was in Seth's not Cain's Family, and because when the Word signifies to profane, it has a Noun, not a Verb following it as here. The Original has not Men, on the contrary the Verb is singular, as agreeing with Enos, probably the first of Seth's Posterity, who are agreed to be those called the Sons of God, Chap. vi. 2. which way of Appellation began it seems by this Text, and as it is natural to suppose with Enos; see the Annotations of the eminent Hugo Grotius. Thus those two Passages cast Light on each other. Here now appears a Reason for the Verb being singular, which otherwise is disagreeable; as also passive, since it would be improper to say he began when it related to many others, and it began would be more absurd. A Translator has not only the Sense of Places to get with an Expositor, but after that as great or a greater Difficulty to express them aptly, which is still heightened when it is to be done literally.

Ver. 1. Generations] Berosus, a Priest of Belus at Babylon, who lived in the Time of Alexander called the Great and after, wrote a History of the Chaldeans, in a Fragment of which, that is preserved in the Chronicon of Eusebius, p. 5. or composed by Scaliger from Eusebius, and in *Synce*l. p. 18. he relates, agreeable to the ten Generations here, that there were ten Kings of Chaldea before the Flood, Alorus, Alasparus, Amelon, Amcuen, Metalarus, Daenus, Euedorachus, Amphis, Otiartes, and Xisuthrus.

Manetho, a Priest of Heliopolis in Egypt, wrote the Antiquities of that Country, in the Reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus, in the Quotations of which, remaining in the Chronographia of *Synce*llus, an Abbot under the Patriarch of Constantinople, there is the following Account, Shuckf. Connec. B. i. p. 21.

113 Gods reigned	—	—	36525	} Years.
8 Demi-gods	—	—	217
15 Heroes	—	—	443

Shuckford rationally observes, that an entire Revolution of the Heavenly Bodies being counted 36525 Years, and the Egyptians worshipping them, the first Number may be accounted for in such a manner; to which may be added, that 113 might have Names given them, especially as there are about so many remarkable Stars in the northern Hemisphere. The other two Numbers he supposes to be the Time that Egypt was peopled before the Flood, and that those Demi-gods and Heroes were not all successive; I would also add to this, that by the former seem to be intended some of the Posterity of Seth, called the Sons of God, Ch. vi. 2. and by the latter some of Cain's, or rather the Giants who came from both, Ch. vi. 4. considering that the Heb. Scripture was then first translated into Greek, by Order of that very King to whom Manetho was Keeper of his Library, and dedicated his Book to him; the Translation too being done towards the Beginning of that King's Reign, Manetho may well be thought acquainted with the Scripture Account, nay has been supposed to write his Antiquities with the Design of making them more ancient than the History of Moses, in Honour to his own Nation. Since Cain also went eastward, Ch. iv. 16. it is not likely that his Posterity possessed Egypt first; and it is probable the Giants might have it afterwards, Ch. vi. 11. Besides if we examine the Space of 217 Years at the Distance of 443 Years before the Flood, we shall find that these eight of Seth's Line lived in that Time, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Mahalaleel, Jared, Methuselah, Lamech and Noah. Now though the Egyptians might have a Tradition of the Number of Persons and Years, they probably had not of their Names, as it was reduced to the Memory of Noah only; and so they might ascribe the Names of their inferior Deities to them, which is done thus in Diodorus Siculus, Lib. i. Sol, Saturn, Rhea, Jupiter, Juno, Vulcan, Vesta, Mercury.

Ver. 2. Mankind] as we read, Chap. i. 26.

Ver. 3. a hundred] I have framed the following Tables to find out readily what Age each Person was of (the Time of whose Birth and Death may be known) when many remarkable Things were done, which the Scriptures give us Account of, with the Age of the World, &c. adding the Years of the Julian Period, invented by Scaliger, which begin on our New-year's Day, as in the Almanacks; and by those that have this Reckoning, it may be known at a single Subtraction how long ago any other Year here inserted was: by which also this Chronology may be easily and readily compared with others, where those Years are now commonly used, as comprehending and as it were bringing all other Epochs into this one.

14. So all the Time of Cainan was nine hundred and ten Years, when he died.

15. And Mahalaleel living sixty five Years, begot Jared.

2348	1664										599	96	The Flood came, Ch. vii. 6.

All Writers, who have undertaken to calculate the Space of Time from the Creation to the Flood, have I think missed it. Such as were not misled by the Greek and Samaritan Copies (for the Refutation of which I refer to Beaford's Scripture Chronology, Book i. Chap. 5.) but computed from the Hebrew, have stated it at 1656 Years; by supposing the Son was born when the Scripture says he was begot, and that invariably each of them at the End of such a Year of his Father's Life; Positions methinks too improbable to be allowed, much less so generally received.

Since Moses says nothing of the odd Months or Days, and This might probably live one, That two, and Another three Quarters of a Year, longer than the Time mentioned when they begot a Son; a Medium for one with another would be half a Year overplus: so the Time is said to be seven Years, 1 Kings ii. 11. which was seven Years and six Months, 2 Sam. v. 5. But if any of them lived almost the Year out, or till the last Quarter, it was counted for a Year, then between one Quarter before, and three Quarters of a Year after, the mean Time is one Quarter more than the Years mentioned. By this Allowance, moderate as it is, if Adam when he had lived 130 1/2 Years, begot Seth, he was 131 at Seth's Birth, as in the Table, and so of the rest. According to the other Account, Methuselah must have lived till the End of the Flood, when Noah was 600 Years old, Ch. vii. 11. & ix. 28, 29. he being not 969 before by that Reckoning, as may be seen by adding 187, Chap. v. 25. 182, Ver. 28. and 600 together: To avoid which, the Index to the present Fol. Bible has it computed with others, that he died before he was 969 Years old, in Contradiction to the Text. But Methuselah's dying in the Year before the Flood (which might be but a small Time) is highly probable; for his Name is in Heb. dead and a Dart, as (with little Alteration) observes Bochart in Phaleg. Lib. ii. 13. Broughton on the Epistle of Jude, &c. when he was dead, the Dart of Destruction or Vengeance smote the World; which his Father Enoch, being a Prophet, Jude 14. seems to have had the Foreknowledge of, and so named him thus. From whence we may also take notice of God's great Favour and Long-suffering towards the Inhabitants of the Earth, who notwithstanding he would fulfil what he had revealed to Enoch, lengthened the Time, by causing his Son to live the longest of all Men; and perhaps added to his Life the 120 Years mentioned Chap. vi. 3. as 15 were to Hezekiah's, 2 Kings xx. 6. So Mahalaleel, i. e. a Praiser of God, being born in 16. After

16. After which he lived eight hundred and thirty Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

17. So all the Time of Mahalaleel was eight hundred ninety five Years, when he died.

18. And Jared living a hundred sixty two Years, begot Enoch.

19. After which he lived eight hundred Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

20. So all the Time of Jared was nine hundred sixty two Years, when he died.

21. And Enoch living sixty five Years, begot Methuselah.

22. After which he walked continually with God three hundred Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

23. So all the Time of Enoch was three hundred sixty five Years.

24. Then he having walked so with God, was gone; for God took him.

25. And Methuselah living a hundred eighty seven Years, begot Lamech.

26. After which he lived seven hundred eighty two Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

27. So all the Time of Methuselah was nine hundred sixty nine Years, when he died.

28. And Lamech living a hundred eighty two Years, begot 2 Son :

29. Whose Name he called Noah, saying, This will comfort us for our Work, and for the Labour of our Hands, by the Ground which the Lord has cursed.

30. And Lamech lived after he begot Noah five hundred ninety five Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

31. So his whole Time was seven hundred seventy seven Years, when he died.

32. Lastly Noah being in his five hundredth Year, begot Shem, Ham and Japheth.

CHAP. VI.

AND when the Men began to multiply upon the Surface of the Ground, and they had Daughters born ;

2. The Sons of God seeing the Daughters of Men that they were beautiful, took them Wives whomsoever they chose.

3. Then the Lord said, My Spirit shall not always strive with Man, because even he is fleshly ; his Time however shall be a hundred and twenty Years.

the 8th Jubile of the World, and when his Father was 70 Years old, might likely have his Name from thence ; which agrees precisely with this Chronology, and this only. I would add, that begetting and being born are not to be taken one for the other in Heb. any more than in English ; besides it is spoken of the Father, not of the Mother nor Son ; see Chap. xi. 10.

Ib. him—whose Name was called] For Eve named him, Chap. iv. 25. The Heb. Verb is in other Places to be thus understood, or taken passively, Chap. xxv. 26. & xxix. 34. & xi. 9. with many more. By adding a Son, it may seem as if Cain and Abel were not in his Likeness.

Ver. 7. Sons] Josephus writes, that the Sons of Seth erected two Pillars, one of Brick and the other of Stone, on which were engraved their Discoveries in Astronomy ; and that the latter then remained in Syria, which was after the Destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, Antiq. Lib. i. 3.

Ver. 18. Enoch] It is Hanoeh in com. Bible, Ch. xxv. 4. & xlv. 9. and Henoch, 1 Chron. i. 33. but all three are one Name in the Original.

Ver. 22. he walked] Abu'l Pharagius relates that he was very learned, as well as virtuous, and thought to be the ancient Hermes or Trismegistus, Historia Dynastiarum, pag. 9. Not only Tertullian, De Idololatria, and Clemens Alexandrinus in Excerptis, affirm that they had seen Writings of Enoch, but Origen mentions them as quoted by Celsus, the great Adversary of the Christian Religion, Contra Celsum, Lib. v. as does also Irenaeus, Lib. iv. It is likewise said to be cited in Zohar, counted one of the most ancient Books of the Jews that is extant in their Rabbinical Language. Tertullian says, the Book was intitled The Revelation of Enoch, wherein the Passage mentioned Jude 14, 15. was written.

Ibid. walked continually] The Verb in the Conjugation Hithpabel signifying so ; and thus Jun. and Trem. render it, viz. ambulavitque indefinenter.

Ver. 24. gone] which we use for dead. Tynd. &c. was no more seen.

Ver. 29. Noah] From nabam, be comforted, (and so does not signify Rest, as Expositors say) which the succeeding Words shew, taking part of the Root, as in Abraham, Ch. xvii. 5. as if he meant, This Son will comfort us in part, though we do labour ; Noah becoming a Preacher of Righteousness in that wicked Age, 2 Pet. ii. 5. Other Interpretations seem less suitable, and if accepted may be along with this, that Noah might make Improvements in Husbandry, &c.

Ib. Labour] by Tynd. and others Sorrow.

Ver. 32. in his] See Chap. vii. 6.

Ib. begot] Interpreters expound it that he began to beget these Sons, as of Terah, Chap. xi. 26. It appears that Japheth was the eldest by Chap. x. 21. and consequently was begotten at this Time, as I have put it in the Table ; that Ham was the youngest by Chap. ix. 24. and that Shem was begotten three Years after Japheth, and in the five hundred and second Year of Noah's Life by Chap. xi. 10. Shem I imagine was put first for his Dignity, and Japheth last for the better Sound in Pronunciation.

Ver. 1. the Men] Cain's Race in Distinction from that of Seth, as in the following Verse, here being also the Article n for the in English.

Ib. upon the] Bish. in the upper.

Ib. they had Daughters] Patrick's Remark is groundless, that they had now more than twice as many Daughters as Sons, especially when multiply is rather said of the Men.

Ver. 2. whomsoever] n being here redundant, as in Lev. vi. 5. Jer. xl. 7. Deut. xv. 7.

Ver. 3. always] This Verse shews that only is not restricted to 50 nor 100 Years ; see Buxt. Lex.

Ib. even he] who is a rational Being, and spiritually endowed.

Ib. a hundred and twenty] The Chaldeans reckoned to the Reigns of their ten first Dynasties or Kings (which Number is the same with the Scripture Account) from Alerus or Adam, to Xisuthrus or Noah inclusive, 120

4. There

4. There were Giants on the Earth in those Days, and likewise afterwards, whom upon the Sons of God going in to the Daughters of Men they bore to them: these were strong, who were renowned Men of old Time.

5. And the Lord seeing that Man's Wickedness was great in the World, and every Idea of the Thoughts of his Mind only evil daily;

6. He was sorry because he had made Mankind on the Earth, and was grieved at his Heart.

7. So the Lord said, I will destroy Man whom I have created, from the Surface of the Ground; and not only Man, but also the Beasts, creeping Things, and Fowls of the Air: for I am sorry because I made them.

8. However Noah was in favour with the Lord.

9. These were his Offspring, who was a righteous perfect Man in his Age, that walked continually with God:

10. He begot three Sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth.

11. But the Earth was corrupt before God; it being full of Violence.

12. And he took particular notice that it was corrupted, because all Flesh had made its Way corrupt on the Earth.

13. Upon this God said to Noah: The End of all Mortals is come before me, for the Earth is filled with Violence by their means; so therefore I will destroy them with it.

14. Make thee an Ark of Cypress-wood, doing it with Lodgings; and pitch it both on the Inside and Outside with Pitch.

15. And in this manner shalt thou make it; let three hundred Cubits be the Length of the Ark, fifty Cubits its Breadth, and the Height of it thirty.

16. Thou shalt make a Light to the Ark, and finish it a Cubit above, as also put the Door of it in its Side: making it into lower, second and third Stories.

17. For behold I my self will bring a Flood of Water upon the Earth, to destroy all Flesh in which there is the Faculty of Life from under Heaven: all that is on the Land shall die.

18. But I confirm my Covenant with thee, that thou shalt go into the Ark, thy Sons, thy Wife, and Sons Wives along with thee;

Saros, and each Saros to be 3600 Years, making the whole 432000 Years, Syncl. p. 17, 38. Stillingfleet's Origines Sacrae, Book i. 5. 4. This Chronologers have been much puzzled to deal with, to little Satisfaction; but the Truth of the Matter seems to me as follows: They having some Knowledge of Moses's Account, and understanding it was 120 Years to the Flood, and their Year being then 360 Days, which multiplied by the Dynasties was 3600; from hence they framed the foregoing extravagant Computation, which is to be reconciled to the Scripture, I suppose, no otherwise.

Ver. 4. whom] Besides that asher is the Heb. Relative, when reads as if those Women did not bear Giants till after that, and yet that there were Giants then by some other Means; neither of which are allowable: notwithstanding Patrick's Commentary runs thus, "In those Days]" "i. e. Before the Sons of God married with the Daughters of Men;" whereas it is evident those Days were when they married.

Ib. strong] so did what they listed, Ver. 13. for which Reason their being strong might be mentioned.

Ver. 5. the Lord] Here is an open Mistake in the pres. Transf. or following the old corrupt Lat. Bible, which has Deus, God; instead of the Original Hebrew, from which it would have been the LORD.

Ib. Idea] the Result or Object of Thoughts.

Ver. 6. sorry because] His making them was an Occasion remotely, that he was now sorry for their Wickedness: whereas repenting, which must imply a having done amiss, is not only inconsistent with the All-Holy, Wise and Unchangeable God, but the Scripture expressly tells us he does not repent, Numb. xxiii. 19. & Sam. xv. 29. It may indeed be objected, that the Original Verb is the same there as here; which will however admit of this sufficient Answer, that as diverse single Words in all Languages have different Meanings, to be determined by the Use that is made of them, עָנַן is certainly such a one, as it usually signifies to comfort.

Ver. 9.] The Jews have divided the five Books of Moses into 54 Sections or Lessons, to be read on their Sabbath Days, beginning after the Feast of Tabernacles; which are finished in a Year by reading two together twice. This Verse begins the Second Lesson, each of which they call Parashah, putting commonly the first Letter of that Word three Times before it. They have also another Lesson answering to every one of these, out of the Prophets, &c. named Haphtarah.

Ver. 11. corrupt before God] The following Words shewing Mankind were so bad, that the Lord took such notice of it as to punish them; see Chap. xviii. 20, 21.

Ver. 14. Cypress] Which seems plain by the Durableness of this Wood, its growing plentifully in Affyria, as Authors shew, and especially by the Analogy of the Words; for ב being instead of א as has been observed to be in other Words, the Hebrew might be read without the Points Cyper; see Bedford's Scripture Chronology, Book i. 9. 3, &c.

Ver. 15. in this manner] Heb. this is what.

Ib. Cubits] Greaves of the Roman Foot, p. 40. Arbutnot on Weights and Measures, Tab. 4. Cumberland of Scripture Weights and Measures, p. 34, 40, 43. and Ward (to name no more) Math. Guide, p. 38. agree that a Cubit was 21,888 Inches: according to which the Ark had these Dimensions,

	Poles	Feet	Inches
Length	33	2	8
Breadth	5	8	8
Height	3	5	2

Ver. 16. Light] I suppose it to be a Row of Lattice or several Holes, perhaps almost or quite round the Ark for Light and Air, with sufficient Strength between to support the upper Part.

Ib. finish it] The Ark, not the Light, as the fern. Pronoun in the Original shews. The Sides of the Ark might be a Cubit higher, and then turn in for a Covering.

Ver. 18. Sons] Patrick makes here the following Remark in his Commentary; "This Passage shows the Ark was not an hundred Years in building: for none of these Sons were born an hundred Years before the Flood." Whereas the learned Author seems not to have minded, that as God knew Noah would have Sons, he might well speak it before they were born: on the contrary by his manner of reasoning, it must be also after

19. And

19. And shalt have of all living Things of all Flesh, two of every Sort into the Ark, to keep alive with thee, which shall be Male and Female.

20. Of the Fowls and Beasts of each Kind, of all manner of creeping Things of the Ground; two of every Sort shall come to thee, that thou mayest keep them alive.

21. Do thou therefore take thee of all Food that is eat, which thou shalt gather to thee; that it may be for thee, and them to eat.

22. Thus Noah did, doing entirely according as God commanded him.

C H A P. VII.

THE Lord afterwards said to him; Go thou and all thy Family into the Ark, since I have seen thee to be righteous before me in this Age:

2. Taking to thee of all clean Beasts by sevens, and of such as are unclean two, of each the Male and his Female;

3. Of the Fowls of the Air likewise by sevens, the Cock and the Hen; to keep Offspring alive all over the Earth:

4. Because seven Days hence I shall make it rain upon the Earth, forty Days and forty Nights; that I may destroy all living Substance which I have made, from the Face of the Ground.

5. So did Noah altogether as the Lord commanded him;

6. He being in his six hundredth Year, when the Flood of Water was on the Earth:

7. For Noah went, having his Sons, his Wife, and Sons Wives with him, into the Ark, by reason of the Water of the Flood.

8. Of the clean Beasts, and of those that were unclean, as likewise of Fowls, and all Things which did creep on the Ground,

9. There came by Couples to Noah into the Ark, the Male and Female; according as God had ordered him.

10. And on the seventh Day the Water of the Deluge was upon the Earth.

11. In the six hundredth Year of Noah's Life, on the seventeenth Day of the second Month, were all the Fountains of the vast Ocean broken up, and the Flood-gates of Heaven thrown open.

12. And there was a Storm of Rain upon the Earth, forty Days and forty Nights.

13. That same Day did Noah, Shem, Ham and Japheth, his Sons, Noah's Wife, and the three Wives of his Sons with them, go into the Ark;

14. As also every Kind of Beasts, of Cattle, of Reptiles that crept on the Earth, and of Birds, all manner of winged Fowls.

all three of them had Wives, which appears to be a very little while before the Flood, by their having no Child, too short a Time for building the Ark; the Addition to which daily, by Computation made, for 120 Years, would be not much less than two thousand Pound Weight.

Ver. 2, 3. by sevens] The odd one seems to be for Sacrifice, Ch. viii. 20. and the Number greater of these than of the unclean, because they were to be eat after the Flood, Chap. ix. 3. the different Sorts of which Beasts may be seen, Deut. xiv. 4, 5. The Heb. being seven seven, Pool pleads that there were fourteen, as the two is not doubled; whereas the latter is also in Ver. 9. without and between, as translated in the com. Bib. and is the Heb. Idiom for what is here rendered.

Ver. 6. in his six hundredth Year] Heb. the Son or Offspring of six hundred Year, his Life being comprised therein; and so not 600 Years old, but in his six hundredth Year, as also Ver. 11. plainly declares, and Chap. ix. 28, 29. shews that he was 600 Years old when the Flood was over. Thus the Son of a Year in Exod. xii. 5. is rendered by our Translators a Male of the first Year; see too Exod. xxix. 38. and accordingly Ainsworth shews from the Jewish Writers, that the Lamb must be less than a Year old, and might be of any Age after eight Days. In like manner, that a Son of eight Days, Gen. xvii. 12. to be circumcised, was one in his eighth Day, the following Places inform us, Lev. xii. 3. Luke i. 59. Acts vii. 8. Phil. iii. 5. that one Sabbath might first be over, according to Menahem on Gen. xvii. It is done commonly in the Morning of the eighth Day, Buxt. Synag. Jud. Cap. 4. and, as the Jews have told me, that Day Week on which the Child is born: this the Days kept for the Birth and Circumcision of Christ likewise exhibit; read Ainsworth's Annotations on Chap. v. 32. & xvii. 12. Exod. xii. 5.

Ver. 7. Wife] According to Eutychius her Name was Haical, and she was the Daughter of Namusa the Son of Enoch, as the Wives of Noah's Sons were the Daughters of Melchisedek, Shem's Wife being called Salit, Ham's Nahlat, and Japheth's Arissah; Annales, p. 35.

Ver. 9. According as God bade Noah take them in with him, so they came to him.

Ver. 10. on the seventh Day] which it must be to agree with Ver. 4. besides that the Heb. Prefix is not after, but at or on.

Ver. 11. Fountains] whereby Passage was opened for the subterraneous Waters, which may extend to the Center of the Earth; where if a sufficient Vacuum were made, by reason of central Fire or otherwise, the Earth must of consequence be universally drowned. The Attraction of the upper Water by a Comet, or any other Way that would not require the Springs of the Deep to be broke open, does not seem coherent with this Scripture Account. It is observable that those Fountains were afterwards shut up or contracted as before, Chap. viii. 2. Prov. iv. 4.

Ib. Flood-gates] as in the Eng. Margin. The Latin Interpreters agree mostly in rendering it cataractæ, the Greek likewise has ναρπάματα, and the French les boudes.

Ib. thrown open] The Terror of this tremendous Period would be agreeably painted in the Words, so far as is consistent with literal Translation.

Ver. 12. Storm of Rain] as the Hebrew properly signifies.

Ib. forty Days] So not all Night, as says Henry on Ch. viii. inter fines, probably it was while the Rain was descending.

15. Those went into the Ark to Noah, by Pairs of all Flesh, wherein there was the Faculty of Life.

16. And they that entered, did Male and Female of all Flesh, as God had commanded him; and the Lord shut him in.

17. And the Deluge being forty Days on the Earth, the Water increased, insomuch that it lifted up the Ark, raising it up from the Ground.

18. Then it was powerful, and increased exceedingly on the Earth, and the Ark floated atop of the Water.

19. Which at last had power on the Earth so exceeding much, that all the high Mountains which were under the whole Heaven being covered;

20. The Water prevailed fifteen Cubits upward, when they were overwhelmed.

21. Whereby all Flesh expired that moved on the Earth, of the Fowls, Cattle, Beasts, and all crawling Things that crawled upon the Ground; with all Mankind.

22. Every Thing in whose Nostrils was the Breath of the Faculty of Life, of all which was on the dry Land, died.

23. Thus all living Substance that was on the Surface of the Ground, both Man and Beast, with the creeping Things, and Fowls of the Air, were destroyed from the Earth; so that Noah only was left, and such as were with him in the Ark.

24. And the Water prevailed upon the Earth a hundred and fifty Days.

CHAP. VIII.

HOWEVER as God remembered Noah, and all the Beasts and Cattle that were with him in the Ark, he made a Wind pass over the Earth, and the Water asswaged.

2. The Fountains also of the Ocean, and the Flood-gates of Heaven were shut up, and the Rain from thence was restrained.

3. Upon which the Water returning from off the Earth, went on ebbing; so that it failed at the End of a hundred and fifty Days.

4. And the Ark rested on the seventeenth Day of the seventh Month, upon the Mountains of Ararat.

5. When the Water had kept on de-

Ver. 15. Faculty] properly, and not the same as in Chap. ii. 7.

Ver. 20. fifteen Cubits] which was about 27 Feet, 4 Inches; high enough to destroy whatever should seek to be saved on the Mountains, even by Trees growing there. However it is credible that the Tops of all the Trees were not covered, by which they might afterwards know how high the Water went, as mentioned here.

Ib. when] Tem. and Jun. turn it postquam, after that, others to the same Effect: for the Verie before relates that all the Mountains were covered; where the Word is the same, having also the Epithet high.

Ver. 22. of the Faculty] That the Omission of this should either be an Oversight of so many of the last Translators, or of Purpose for want of a Word to express it by, may seem strange; but I know not what else to ascribe it to.

Ver. 23. only] Berosus the Chaldean, a famous Gentile Writer, as he is quoted by Josephus against Apion, by Synecllus and Eusebius in their Chronicons, and the latter in his Book Of the Preparation of the Gospel, from Abydenus, and Alexander Polyhistor, gives account of the Flood to this Purpose: That Xisuthrus was warned in a Dream of a Flood, which should destroy Mankind on the 15th Day of the Month Dafius, was withal ordered to build a kind of a Ship, taking into it his Relations and Friends, with Provisions, as also Fowls and Beasts; which he having done, the Flood came; and upon its abating he let out some Birds, which came back again, and being let out some Days after, returned with their Legs muddy; the third Time they not returning at all, Xisuthrus took down some of the Boards, and saw that the Vessel rested on a Mountain: that then he, his Wife and Pilot, going out to offer Sacrifice, were seen no more; and when the rest could not find them, they went and built Babylon. This Testimony I look upon as of the best Kind: for if it agreed little or nothing with the Scripture, the Validity of it might be proportionable with Believers, and its Service with Unbelievers; and if it very nearly or wholly agreed with the Scripture, it might be said it was taken from thence, and so be rendered of little Use on that Account; whereas it is now a noble

Evidence of the Deluge according to Holy Writ. The Circumstance of Xisuthrus and the other two being seen no more, seems to have risen from the Silence of History concerning Noah afterwards, by his going with some others into the remote eastern Parts, and not coming with the main Bulk of Mankind to the Country of Shinar, where they built Babylon. It may be worth remarking that Berosus, who gives this Relation of the Flood, lived before the first Translation of the Heb. Scripture into another Language, namely the Greek one of the Septuagint.

Ver. 24. prevailed] by keeping up the Ark from the Earth, Chap. viii. 3, 4.

Ver. 1. asswaged] I translate here upon the Authority of our present Eng. Bible, to which I would pay what Deference I well can.

Ver. 2. Fountains] Those might be large Holes in the Cavity of the Ocean, which the Water under the Earth had burst out in overflowing it; which being now stopt by the Water driving their Earth, &c. into them, after the inward Force that sent it up ceased; it might return back, as it naturally would, more leisurely through the smaller Springs, by which the upper Water used to have Communication with the lower; this also agreeing with the different Time mentioned for each.

Ver. 3. went on ebbing] which is accordingly two Verbs in the Heb.

Ib. failed] So that they did not bear up the Ark, as in the next Verse.

Ib. at the End] as in Ver. 6.

Ver. 3, 4. By comparing these with Chap. vii. 11. we may learn that those ancient Months had thirty Days each.

Ver. 4. Ararat] This is agreed to be the Scripture Name of Armenia, 2 Kings xix. 37. but then that lay about North from Babylon, whereas Noah's Posterity came thither from the East, Chap. xi. 2. these Things however may be reconciled by the ancient Ararat reaching farther eastward than Armenia, or by those Mountains extending out of Armenia under the same Name (as in Biblioth. Bibl. Occaf. Annot. 17. 54.) to the North-east of Babylon, where the Ark rested; and since the Scripture does not join two cardinal Points together, that might be creasing till the tenth Month, on the first of it the Tops of the Mountains appeared.

6. But at the End of forty Days, Noah opened the Window of the Ark which he had made;

7. And sent out a Raven, that went forth, going out and returning, till the Water was dried up from the Earth.

8. He likewise sent out a Dove from him, that he might see whether the Water was abated from the Surface of the Ground.

9. Whereas this finding no Rest for the Sole of its Foot, came back to him at the Ark, because the Water was all over the Earth; so he reached out his Hand, and taking it, pulled it into the Ark to him.

10. Next he staid other seven Days longer, and sent it out again from thence.

11. Which came to him at the Evening-time, and behold there was in its Mouth an Olive-leaf torn off; whereby he knew that the Water was abated from the Earth.

12. And staying yet other seven Days, and sending out the Dove, it returned to him again no more.

13. So in the six hundred and first Year, on the first of the first Month, the Water being dried up from the Earth, Noah took away the Covering of the Ark, when he saw plainly that the Top of the Ground was dried.

14. And on the twenty seventh Day of called the East. Besides the overflowing of the Persian Ocean from the South, and of the Mediterranean Sea urged on by the western Ocean at the Straits of Gibraltar, and both being at about an equal Distance from Affyria, would naturally drive the Ark North-east towards the Caspian Sea; the gushing out of which when it came near, I imagine, might be of Force enough to stop it, with the Obstruction of the Mountains in its Way thither, which are plentiful in those Parts, according to Herman Moll's Description in his Atlas, Map 27 of the Roman Empire; considering also that the different Courses of the Persian and Mediterranean Seas would weaken each other, when they met about the Place of the Ark, and form a Course far less forcible, to be opposed by a direct one of the Caspian Water. So that it is probable the Ark rested on the south Side of the Caspian Sea; neither in Armenia, nor much further eastward on the North of India, as divers have supposed. The settling of the Place is of the more Consequence, as the whole Earth was peopled from thence, and a clearer Understanding may be had of several Matters.

Ver. 6. forty Days] After the 150, and before the Mountains appeared.

Ver. 7. going out and returning] The Verb yaza, he went out, is repeated. It is not to be imagined that the Raven flew about a Week or two, without any Rest or Sustenance, since seven Days after at least, the Water was over all the Earth, Ver. 9, 10. nor is any Regard to be paid to what the old Latin Translation says, non re-vertetur, it did not return; that Bible being often erroneous, and it is confessed in the Louvain Edition printed at Antwerp by Plantin, that non was not in six Manuscripts. However whether the Latin followed the Greek, which has it in the same manner, or the Greek was altered to the Latin, it is quite contrary to the Hebrew, as those Translations are both very incorrect. And Cross says, The Points (Heb. Accents) make it, He went out, but returned, Tag. p. 238.

Ver. 9. its] The Heb. Noun for Dove being feminine, causes the Pronoun to be so likewise; and does not shew it was a Hen-dove, as her signifies in English: on the contrary it might rather be thought a Cock, as the stouter for such an Enterprize. This may serve for Elucidation of other such following Instances.

Ver. 11. torn off] Probably by the violent Rain, or the Water which had been on the Earth some Months, or else as Buxtorf writes, a vento, by the Wind. טָרַף is derived from the Root טָרַף he tore; and according to Kimhi in the Book of Roots, is an Adjective to Leaf. It is more natural to think the Dove picked it up, than plucked it from a Tree, if we may reasonably believe there were any Leaves left on.

Ver. 12. no more] Having then but thirteen Days to live on the Trees, hung with Things that floated on the Water, before the Ground appeared.

Ver. 13. first Month] It seems most likely that Noah and his Family now went out of the Ark, and began the new World, at the very Time of the Year that the old was created; as the next Verse might be joined to it only to end the Account of the particular Days, and relate the drying of the Earth at once: for their Stay in the Ark afterwards appears unnecessary; which to resolve into the mere Pleasure of God with some, when there is no Proof nor Probability of the Thing, is very unwarrantable. However, they might lodge, &c. there a while, after they went out. And since it is unlikely that Corn or Fruit grew under the Water, though there might be some of the latter at least on the Mountains, I suppose their Provision in the following Winter was chiefly Fish left in the Cavities of the Earth, which might be easily taken, as the Water would naturally become low and little in such Places, one after another.

1b. when he saw] out of the Window, for he need not pull off the Covering of the Ark for that, but to go out.

Ver. 14. Day] The following Diary, for the Reader's Ease, it may not be amiss to give of the Deluge:

Mon.	Day
2	10	God ordered Noah , &c. to go into the Ark, Ch. vii. 1, 4, 11.
	17	The Rain began, Ver. 11.
3	26	The Rain ended, Ver. 12.
7	17	The Ark rested on the Mountain, Ch. vii. 24. & viii. 3, 4.
8	27	Noah sent out the Raven, Ch. viii. 4, 6, 7.
9	4	He first sent out the Dove, Ver. 8, 10.
	11	As he did the second time, Ver. 10.
	18	And the third, Ver. 12.
10	1	The Tops of the Mountains appeared, V. 5.
1	1	The Water dried from the Earth, Ver. 13.
2	27	The Earth was quite dry, Ver. 14.

The general Way of reckoning the forty Days, Ver. 6. from the 1st of the 10th Mon. Ver. 5. (whereas this is done from the 17th of the 7th Mon. Ver. 4.) is attended with insuperable Difficulties: As, 1. The Raven needed not to have flown forward and backward forty Days after the Tops of the Mountains were bare, since the Water must have been gone off from a considerable deal of Land in that Time, the whole or general Part being evacuated in ninety Days. 2. Much less would the Dove seven Days after that, have found no Rest for the Sole of its Foot. The Pretence of its not finding the Mountains is exceeding weak, when the Ark rested there. The Reason that Pool gives in his Annotation on Ver. 9. why the Dove did not observe the Tops of the Hills which then appeared, was her not soaring so high; which would no doubt have prevented the Sight of them, if the Dove, as it must then, soared under the Water. 3. The Water was upon the Face of the whole Earth when the Dove went forth, Ver. 9. which it could not be 47 Days after the Tops of the Mountains appeared.

the second Month, the Earth was become quite dry.

15. Besides God spoke to Noah as follows:

16. Go out of the Ark, thou, thy Wife, thy Sons, and Sons Wives with thee.

17. Every living Thing that is with thee of all Flesh, of the Fowls, Beasts, and all creeping Things which creep on the Ground, bring out with thee; that they may breed abundantly upon the Earth, be fruitful and multiply there.

18. Accordingly he went forth; as also his Sons, his Wife, and their Wives with him.

19. Every Beast, every creeping Thing, and every Fowl, all that stirred upon the Earth after their Kinds, went out of the Ark.

20. Then Noah built an Altar to the Lord; and taking both of all clean Beasts and Fowls, offered up Burnt-offerings on it.

21. And upon the Lord's smelling a pleasant Smell, he said kindly to him; I will no more curse the Ground for Man's Sake, tho' the Imagination of his Heart be evil from his Youth; nor will I yet again slay every living Thing, as I have done.

22. Henceforth as long as the Earth continues, Seed-time and Harvest, Cold and Heat, Summer and Winter, Day and Night shall not cease.

CHAP. IX.

GOD also blessed Noah and his Sons in the following manner: Be fruitful, multiply, and replenish the Earth.

2. And your Fear, and the Dread of you, shall be upon all the Beasts of the Earth, all the Fowls of the Air, every Thing that moves on the Ground, and all the Fish of the Sea; which are committed into your Power.

3. Every moving Thing which is alive shall be for you to eat; I give you all like the green Herb.

4. Only Flesh with its Life, the Blood of it, you shall not eat.

5. And I will certainly require the Blood of your Lives, and that from the Paw of any Beast: from the Hand likewise of Man, even of any one's Brother, will I require the Life of a Man.

6. He that sheds Man's Blood, shall have his own shed by Man; because in the Likeness of God he made Mankind.

7. So do you be fruitful, and increase:

Patrick too, I observe, states it that the 40 Days Rain but just lifted up the Ark from touching the Earth, Comment. on Chap. vii. 17. which seems an useless Conjunction of Circumstances, even if it was as he adds; that by more Rain after, though not in such uninterrupted Showers, the Waters increased as related Chap. vii. 18, 19, 20. whereas the whole appears much better understood of the Flood in the 40 Days mentioned, Ver. 17. He supposes the Rain continued 150 Days, Com. on Chap. vii. 24. not very consistently with Ver. 4, 12. and that the Waters then began to decrease, Id. on Chap. viii. 1, 3. which neither agrees with the visible Meaning of Chap. viii. 3. nor his own Interpretation of it, that the Waters fell by little and little, and after the End of the 150 Days began sensibly to decrease.

Ver. 21. kindly to him] Heb. to his Mind, viz. Noah's, as Ainsworth in his Annotations says, some, and Gell in his Essay, p. 59. the Ancients, understand it; and Willet on Gen. p. 97. cites Mercerus saying, It is clear that the Lord thus spoke to Noah. It agrees with our Eng. Expression of doing or speaking something to a Person's Mind, that is agreeable or according to it. And it answers to the Opinion that has been received of Noah's Fear of another Flood, by reason of which the following Promise seems principally made. I remember no such Expression in the Hebrew as God's saying any Thing in his own Heart, nor does it suit with what follows: it being scarce to be doubted, that what was said concerning Seed-time, Harvest, &c. was spoke to Noah; who having built an Altar to the Lord, and offered on it, received this gracious Promise in return. On the other hand the Hebrew has divers Instances of this Kind in this Sense, as Chap. xxxiv. 3. & 1. 21. 2 Sam. xix. 7. 2 Chron. xxx. 22. & xxxii. 6. Isa. xl. 2. Hof. ii. 14. אָמַר and דָּבַר having the same Meaning, as also אָלַל and אָל but with this Distinction, that אָמַר is commonly used, when the Words spoken immediately follow

(as we use said, and not spoke, in such a Case) and perhaps אָל rather than אָל with it. In the com. Lat. Bible is ait ad eum, the Lord—said to him.

Ib. Sake] But the Chald. וְאֵלֶיךָ Sins, Gr. τὰ ἵππα, Works; the latter might be a Mistake of γ for γ as both were of the Heb. Word.

Ib. though] which is the meaning of the Heb. Particle as well as for; and besides the Inconsistency of the latter, there is the same Reason given for not destroying, as there was for destroying, Chap. vi. 5. which is too absurd to be allowed; see Howell's History of the Bible, p. 23. Marg. and Amama, Anti-barb. Bibl. in Loc. It might be rendered because, signifying Man's Wickedness should not cause God to bring another Flood; but that would be obscure.

Ver. 3. moving Thing] This was limited to those that were clean, because had they then eat any other, it would have destroyed the Species, Chap. vii. 2.

Ver. 5. Paw] with which it has killed any Person; see it thus rendered 1 Sam. xvii. 37. But since my first Edit. of this Part, another Translator finds Fault, that Paw is a very improper Term; adding, it is much more congruous and eligible to say, the Hand of a Lion, than the Paw of a Horse: but perhaps it is no more so, nor so much; since it is said of the Horse, His paws, Job xxxix. 21. which is common and proper English; and Paws among all manner of Beasts is expressed Lev. xi. 27. Nay how improper would it be, to call a Horse's hinder Foot, with which he kicks, and might kill, a Hand! And how incongruous and uneligible then is the very Instance he brings! As to the rest, if Hand may imply any offensive Weapon, so may Paw. Besides this must be meant chiefly or only of wild Beasts, that kill Persons purposely; not tame ones, that may do it accidentally, or even in their own Defence, which is not to be punished with Death; and the wild Beasts have strictly Paws.

produce abundantly on the Earth, and multiply upon it.

8. Moreover God spoke to Noah, and his Sons with him, as follows :

9. And lo I my self confirm my Covenant with you, and your Offspring after you,

10. As also with every living Creature which shall be with you, that is of Fowls, Cattle, and all wild Beasts ; not only all that go out of the Ark, but every Creature which shall be on the Earth ;

11. I mean that all Flesh shall not be cut off any more by the Waters of a Flood : for there shall no more be an Inundation to destroy the Earth.

12. This is the Sign of the Covenant, continued God, which I make between my self and you, as likewise all living Creatures that are with you, to perpetual Generations ;

13. I set my Bow in the Clouds, that it may be the Sign of the Contract between me and the Earth.

14. And when I make it cloudy over the Earth, the Bow shall appear in the Clouds.

15. Then will I remember my Covenant which is between me and you, with every Creature living of all Flesh ; so that there shall not be Water for a Deluge any more, to destroy it.

16. For when the Bow is in the Clouds,

I will look on it, to remember the everlasting Covenant between my self and every living Creature of all Flesh, that is upon the Earth.

17. This, said God again to Noah, is the Sign of the Covenant which I ratify betwixt me and all Flesh that is upon the Earth.

18. And the Sons of Noah who went out of the Ark, were Shem, Ham and Japheth ; Ham also was the Father of Canaan.

19. From these three Sons of his was the whole Earth spread about.

20. Now Noah began to be a Husbandman, and having planted a Vineyard ;

21. He drank of the Wine, and was drunk, uncovering himself within his Tent.

22. With that Ham the Father of Canaan saw his Father's Nakedness, who told his two Brothers abroad.

23. Upon this Shem and Japheth took Cloaths, which they put on the Shoulders of them both, and going backward, covered it ; without seeing the same, as their Faces were backward.

24. When Noah therefore awaked from his Wine, and knew what his youngest Son had done to him ;

25. He said, Cursed be Canaan ; he will be a Servant of Servants to his Brothers.

Ver. 7. produces] Noah and his Sons did not bring forth.

Ver. 10. every Creature which shall be on the Earth] hereafter ; which compare with the com. Transf.

Ver. 11. thus] The com. Transf. does not tell what the Covenant was.

Ver. 13. the Sign] The Bow having neither Arrow nor String, and being turned the contrary way, not as if God was shooting at Man.

Ver. 18. Noah] Fohi the first Emperor of China, who, by their History, reigned 215 Years, is thought to be Noah ; that being expelled by his Son Ham, he went thither, and from thence rose the Pagan Story of Jupiter's expelling his Father Saturn to Latium, part of Italy, which Place the Latin Writers might feign from Latco, to be hid, and from that being their own Country : and if we consider how long Noah lived after the Flood, Ver. 2, 8. having nothing mentioned of him in Scripture from his cursing Ham to his Death, it may seem that he removed to some Place out of the Limits of Divine History ; and as the Chinese relate that Fohi had no Father but Heaven, that his Mother was surrounded with a Rainbow when she conceived him, that he bred up seven Sorts of Creatures to sacrifice to the Supreme Being, and lived in the Province of Xenfi, the nearest Part of China to the Place where the Ark rested, those Things compared with Scripture may be taken for pretty strong Hints that it was Noah. And besides their Chronology from Fohi agreeing with the Time of the Sun's standing still, which see on Jesh. x. 13. there is recorded a Conjunction of five Planets, and of the Sun and Moon the same Day in their Sign X₂, which the famous Cassini having calculated, found to be in the 2012th Year before the Era of Christ, by my Tables three Years after Noah's Death, when ♄ ♃ ♀ ♄ and ♀ were in ♈ the 26th of the 12th Month called February by the Julian Account, and ☉ and ♀ the next Morning. It is also said that the winter Solstice was observed to be about the first Deg. of their Sign Hiu ; which the same Astronomer found to be in the 1847th Year before Christ, which by my Tables will be the Year before Esau and Jacob were born ; see Louber's Hist. of Siam, p. 254—259. By which may appear how really ancient their Accompts are.

Ib. From these] This must needs, without any Comment, make void Cumberland's Observation ; that the Scripture's Silence is no cogent Argument to conclude that Noah begat no Children in his last 350 Years, to people the Earth ; see his Origines Gentium Antiquissimæ, Tract. iv. p. 153, 154.

Ver. 22. told] Ὁ γὰρ τῷ πατρὶ αὐτοῦ κατήγγελεν ὅτι ἐποίησεν, ὡς παραβὰς τὴν φύσιν τῆς φύσεως, Ham is held guilty of Parricide, as transgressing the Law of Nature, Theodoret in Gen. Quest. 57.

Ver. 24. knew] Chrysostom writes, Serm. xxix. in Genes. πῶς ἔγνω ; ὅπως ἐκ ἀδελφῶν ἐγνώρισεν, How did he know ? Perhaps his Brothers made it known. But Benedictus Pererius more ingeniously in Latin (who commented as far as the 15th Chap. of Exodus) in Gen. Lib. xiv. Sect. 154. that Noah awaking, when he saw his Nakedness uncovered of his own Garment, and covered with a strange one, asked the Cause of his Sons, and so they were forced to tell what had happened.

Ib. youngest] as Josephus calls him, speaking of this Affair in these Words, Ant. Lib. i. 7. Σαυδάνῳ δ' αὐτὸν ὁ νεώτατος τῶν παίδων τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς σπινθηρῶν δεικνύων, the youngest of his Sons seeing it, told his Brothers in derision.

Ver. 25. Cursed be Canaan] A notable Prediction ! for Ham had other Sons, but the Canaanites were particularly cursed. That some Children suffer in this World for their Parents Faults may be often seen, but not all Children, as it was here ; and there is no need to think with several that Canaan was guilty, since it does not appear that the Curse was inflicted on him, but on Ham's Posterity through him, as they were probably more wicked than the rest, Levit. xviii. 24, 25, 27. Deut. ix. 4. This Narration might be partly written, to let the Israelites know of the Curse, and Canaan mentioned rather than

26. He

26. He also said; Blessed be the Lord God of Shem; and Canaan will be a Servant to them.

27. God will persuade Japheth to dwell in the Tents of Shem, while Canaan is their Servant.

28. And Noah lived after the Flood three hundred and fifty Years.

29. So all his Time was nine hundred and fifty Years, when he died.

CHAP. X.

AND the following were the Generations of Noah's Sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth; who had Children born after the Deluge.

2. The Sons of Japheth were, Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech and Tiras;

3. And Gomer's Sons, Ashchenaz, Riphath and Togarmah;

4. As also the Sons of Javan, Eliphaz and Tarshish, Chittim and Dodanim.

5. By these were the Regions of the Gentiles parted, for their Countries to each one after his Language; according to their Families, in their Nations.

6. And the Sons of Ham were, Cush, Mizraim, Phut and Canaan.

7. The Sons likewise of Cush were, Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah and Sabtecha; Raamah's Sons being Sheba and Dedan.

8. Moreover Cush begot Nimrod; who began to be powerful on the Earth:

9. Which he was at Hunting before the Lord; therefore it is said, As Nimrod was powerful at Hunting before the Lord.

10. And the Beginning of his Kingdom

Ham, that they might be encouraged to make War against his Offspring.

Ib. will be] as his Offspring would bring that temporal Affliction upon themselves.

Ver. 26. to them] viz. his Brothers, in the foregoing Verse. The Word וְלָהֶם is to them, Gell in Essay, p. 97. For Translations in the plural, see Onkelos, Pagninus, Ainsworth, and the French Version, with the Eng. Margin.

Ver. 27. persuade] will persuade his idolatrous Posterity to embrace the Worship of the true God. Enlarging Japheth's Country by that of Shem, is rather a Curse than Blessing to the latter: besides נִשְׁבַּח has no such Signification as enlarge; and that נִשְׁבַּח in Chaldee has, in my Opinion, is a very weak Reason to render it so: for what is the Word in the Original? Is it not Hebrew? The Geneva Bible, with Ainsw. and the present Eng. Marg. have persuade; Jun. & Trem. alluciet; and the French, attire en douceur, sweetly allure. The Word here has the same Letters with Japheth's Name, for which reason I suppose it was used.

Ver. 2. Sons] The People who came from Noah's Grandsons, and the Places where they dwelt, appear to be as follow, in the Order that Moses here names them.

From the Sons of Japheth, viz.

Gomer, the Cimmerians in the North of Lesser Asia by the Euxine or Black Sea, and the Germans.

Magog, the Scythians on the East and North-east of the Black Sea, to the Mæotic Lake and the River Tanais or Don.

Madai, the Mysians and Illyrians in the West of Asia by the Hellespont and Ægean Sea or Archipelago, and the Macedonians in Greece.

Javan, the Ionians in the South of Asia by the Mediterranean Sea, and the Grecians at Peloponnesus in the South of Greece.

Tubal, the Iberians of Asia on the South-east of the Black Sea, and the Russians.

Meshech, the Armenians on the North of Syria by the Moschick Mountains.

Tiras, the Trojans in Lesser Asia on the South-east of the Hellespont, and the Thracians on the North-west of it.

From the Sons of Ham, viz.

Cush, the Arabians on the East of the Red Sea, and the Ethiopians on the West of it and South of Egypt.

Mizraim, the Egyptians on the South of the Mediterranean or Levant, and West of the Red Sea.

Phut, the Lybians on the West of Egypt, and the Moors by the Atlantick Ocean. In Dan. xi. 43. the Country is called Lub, but usually Phut in Heb.

Canaan, the Canaanites between the Mediterranean and the River Jordan.

From the Sons of Shem, viz.

Elam, the Persians between the Caspian Sea and eastern Ocean.

Ashur, the Assyrians on the North-east of the River Tigris.

Arphaxad, the Mesopotamians betwixt the Rivers Tigris and Euphrates.

Lud, very uncertain.

Aram, the Syrians on the North of Canaan.

Of which may be consulted largely Wells in his Historical Geography of the Old Testament, Vol. i. p. 92, to 208. and Mede's Works, p. 271, to 284. I would only add, that the Division being as it appears regular, the Families from the Grandchildren are to be supposed as subdivided in their respective Fathers Countries.

Ver. 4. Chittim] This is not only the right Spelling after the Heb. Letters, but what our Translators use for this Word when it denotes the Country so called from him, as Numb. xxiv. 24. Isa. xxiii. 1. Jer. ii. 10. Ezek. xxvii. 6. the Knowledge of which to a more Eng. Reader is lost in the different Spelling. Ashchenaz likewise has sch, and not p as Ashkelen has.

Ib. Dodanim] The LXX Interpreters mistaking ד the first Letter of this Word for ד as in several other Instances of like Kind, shews that they translated from the present Hebrew Letters.

Ver. 5. Regions] which the original Word signifying, is certainly preferable here, and is accordingly rendered Country in the Vulgar Transl. Jer. xvii. 4. and says Patrick, "so it plainly signifies, Job xxii. 30. Isa. xx. 6. where in the Margin we translate it Country."

Ver. 9. As Nimrod was] The Drift of this Proverb, notwithstanding Expositors applying it to Nimrod's Tyranny and Ambition, might have been very good, viz. to place Prosperity on Providence; through which Nimrod of a stout Hunter, became a mighty Monarch. Would not before the Lord be otherwise insignificant and superfluous? And does not the same Expression elsewhere favour this Meaning, viz. Chap. xxvii. 7. & xvii. 18. Numb. x. 9. & xviii. 19. Job. vi. 26. Judg. xviii. 6. Psal. cxvi. 9? Upon what Account else should God take extraordinary Notice of Hunting? as this Expression intimates he did; and it might be of Benefit to Mankind, as it was probably a hunting of wild Beasts, by was Babylon, Erech, Accad and Calneh, in the Country of Shinar.

11. Out of which Country he went to Assyria, and built Nineveh, with the Streets of the City, and Calah;

12. As likewise Resen between Nineveh and Calah, that was a great City.

13. And Mizraim begot the Ludites, Ananites, Lehabites, Naphtuhites,

14. Pathrusites, and Casluhites; from whom came forth the Philistines, and the Caphtorites.

15. Canaan also begot Zidon his First-born, and Heth,

16. With the Jebusites, Amorites, Girgashites,

17. Hivites, Arkites, Sinites,

18. Arvadites, Zemarites, and Hamathites; after which the Families of the Canaanites were dispersed abroad.

19. Now the Border of the Canaanites was from Zidon, going by Gerar, to Gaza; passing by Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah and Zebaim, to Lasha.

20. These were the Sons of Ham, according to their Families, after their Languages; by their Countries, in their Nations.

21. And there were born also to Shem (the which Nimrod made Places habitable, and then possessed them. To be notable in any respect, and not before God, under the Favour of Providence, will avail little or nothing, Eccles. ix. 11. see Judg. xviii. 5, 6. Lookup's late Translation, p. 1740, it must be confessed is very intelligible, were it not altogether as wrong and ridiculous, viz. "who began to prevail over the other Inhabitants of the Earth: (which ending with a Colon, the following Words shew wherein he prevailed over them) "He was a great Glutton before Jehovah; wherefore it is said, As Nimrod the great Glutton at the Sacrifices." To have made it consistent however, the Names of his Cities should have been turned into those of Victuals. But notwithstanding this, another Translator since, mentioned on Chap. ix. 5. has, He became a mighty Man for Venison Feasts; more restrictive, and consequently worse than the other, which it would seem to improve on.

Ver. 11. Out of, &c.] Or From which Country he went forth.

Ib. he went to Assyria] Jun. & Trem. turn this Passage, E terra hac processit in Assyriam, ubi edificavit Niniven: i. e. From this Country he [Nimrod] went forth into Assyria, where he built Nineveh. The like is the Eng. Marginal Reading, which Gell says he prefers, Essay, p. 131. To omit what Raleigh, &c. says for this, Hen. Ainsworth has the following Annotat. on it; "It may well be translated he went forth to Assur, that is to Assyria, a Countrey lying near to Shinar, or Chaldea. So in the Hebrew is to be understood to; as often elsewhere: which the Scripture itself sheweth; as the House, 2 Sam. vi. 10. for unto the House, 1 Chron. xiii. 13. the Land, 2 Sam. x. 2. for unto the Land, 2 Chron. xix. 2. and many the like." To this may be added that the Hebrew Verbs of Motion often include the Power of to; governing an Accusative Case, as Phil. Levi says in his Hebr. Gram. p. 134. either without or with Prepositions. So Onkelos has in his Targum, והיה ויבנה Jonathan in his, והיה ויבנה and he reigned in Assyria. Moses is in this Chap. giving the Genealogies of Noah's three Sons, and here of Ham, being not yet come to that of Shem, whose Son Assur was, Ver. 22. Is it not then utterly improbable, that he would mix an Account of a Son of Shem among those of Ham, and before he had let us know there was any such Person as Assur? Nor will this Way of putting it make the Babylonian and Assyrian Empires both one, as has been pretended, if we suppose that after Nimrod the Head of the former had built those Cities, the Assyrians, Descendants of Assur, took them away, and so they belonged to the latter Empire; and this may more than be supposed, since Diodorus Siculus has a Relation of such a War, wherein the Assyrians under Ninus conquered the others, Lib. xxi. see the Note on Chap. xi. 9. and Isa. xxiii. 13. Adic. v. 6.

Ib. the Streets of the City] not only the Walls and principal Edifices, but the Streets or private Houses. Onkelos, who may be more depended on than any other Translator, has it, רחבי קרנא the Streets of the City, viz. of Nineveh; the Vulg. Lat. Munst. Vatablus, & Hier. in Tradit. plateas civitatis; the French Bible, les rues de la ville; Coverdale's small Translation, the Streets of the city, with the Eng. Margins. In this Manner is reboth turned, Zech. viii. 5. the Streets of the City, Ver. 4. the Streets of Jerusalem. If it had been here the Name of a City, doubtless City need not have been annexed to it, any more than to Nineveh and Calah; nor so much, because that would have made it unintelligible: therefore I conclude it not to be a proper Name.

Ver. 13. Mizraim] Mizraim the Founder of Egypt, whose Name it bears throughout the Heb. Bible, being likewise the Father of several other People, shews him to be probably the Heathen Osiris, Husband of Isis, the famous King and Queen of Egypt, of whom Diodorus writes in Lib. i. Cap. 1, 2. and Plutarch De Iside & Osiride; particularly that travelling into Ethiopia, whereabouts some of the following Offspring were, he built Cities, and left Governors; see also Cumberland's Sanchoniatho, Page 94, 97, 109, 345, 470.

Ib. the Ludites, &c.] These eight Words are plural, denoting the People, and not the single Persons they were named from; three of whose Names we may gather from other Places to be Lud. Isa. lxvi. 19. Ezek. xxvii. 10. Pathros, Isa. xi. 11. and Caphtor, Amos ix. 7. In the Chaldee and Greek Versions they stand for People; so Ainsworth has them, with Jun. & Trem. who say, Gentilia sunt hæc, non autem propria nomina, hæc sunt People, and not proper Names.

Ver. 14. from whom] Those two last People coming from the Caslubites, it seems that the Philistines afterwards parted from the Caphtorites, by Amos ix. 7. Jer. xlvi. 4.

Ver. 16. Jebusites, &c.] That the Scripture might be more elegant, I suppose, the Nations or Tribes that came of Mizraim are put in the Plural, and of Canaan collectively in the Singular Number, as Canaanites are in Ver. 18, 19. and several others, Exod. iii. 8. which our Translators have rendered plurally. So the Chald. Targum has these, with Pagn. Montan. Munst. and the French. It is very frequent in Heb. to use a singular Name for a plural, but is not proper often to follow it in our Translations; because they would be ambiguous, or sound unpleasantly, our western Tongues not being much accustomed to that Figure of Speech; see Chap. xv. at end.

Ib. Amorites] This is elsewhere Amorite and Amorites in the present Bible, even in this Book, Chap. xiv. 7, 13. & xv. 16, 21. & xlviii. 22. Though I would keep the common Names, I do not think it well to write one Name two or three Ways.

Ver. 21. Hebrews] as Children of Israel is properly rendered Israelites, &c. Hebrew as it appears coming from Eber, the Letters of both which are the same in the Original, besides the Patronymical Termination of the former; against which Derivation, says Patrick on Ver. 24. he can see no Objection lie, but great ones against Father of all the Hebrews, the Brother of Japheth the eldest)

22. His Sons, Elam, Ashur, Arphaxad, Lud and Aram.

23. And Aram's Sons were, Uz, Hul, Gether and Mash.

24. Besides Arphaxad begot Shelah, as he did Eber.

25. And the latter had two Sons born; the Name of one was Peleg, because the Earth was divided in his Time, and his Brother's Name was Joktan.

26. Who begot Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah,

27. Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah,

28. Obal, Abimael, Sheba,

29. Ophir, Havilah and Jobab: all these were the Sons of Joktan.

30. Whose Habitation was from Mesha, going to Sephar, a Mountain in the East.

31. The Sons of Shem were these, after their Families, after their Languages; by their Countries, according to their Nations.

all others. Here now we may see a Reason for this Expression, to shew that the Hebreus sprung from the eminent Shem. So upon Examination I find the illustrious Castalis turning it, qui fuit autor omnium Hebraeorum.

Ib. the Brother of Japheth] I propose it to be considered, whether Noah might not have Shem and Japheth by a former Wife; which would clearly account for this Digression, as well as Ham being called the youngest, Ch. ix. 24. see Ch. v. 32.

Ver. 22. Arphaxad] His being the third Son of Shem, yields a strong Proof for the Computation of Time as here made, both before and after the Flood; which see Chap. xi. 10. And in Confirmation that he was so, we have the following Words of our excellent Usher, that unparalleled Scripture Chronologer, Chron. Sacr. p. 68. Et certe dignatione gratiae Arphaxad utroque fratre prior fuerit; non alia videtur afferri posse ratio, cur tertio nominatus ille sit loco, quam ob natiuitatis ordinem: As Arphaxad certainly exceeded both his Brothers in Dignity, it seems that no Reason can be brought, why he should be named in the third Place, but because he was the third Son.

Ver. 24. Shelah] This is the right Name, and is so put in 1 Chron. i. 18, 24. It is manifest that some Translators did not understand the Use of the Heb. Accents: for athnah and filluk commonly change the Vowel segol, in the last Syllable save one, into kametz, for the sake of a longer Pronunciation. So that though in Heb. it was to be read shalah in the first Place, there being athnah a Stop; yet the Name is shelah, as written the second Time. The same may be observed of Japheth, Lamech and Jared. But I was afraid this Translation would not have its Service so much with all the true Heb. Names, as with those People are used to.

Ver. 25. Peleg] comes from palag, to divide.

Ib. divided] Several would have this not to be done at Peleg's Birth, but afterwards in his Life-time, by such weak Pretences as these; that Peleg changed his Name, and was called so, or that his Father named him thus prophetically, before the Division was made. But if the former had been, why would not that Alteration of Names have been mentioned here as well as elsewhere? And if the latter, why not the Prophecy in like manner? Again, how came his Name to be altered only, or rather than any other of Mankind then living? Or to what Purpose would such a Prediction be? On the other hand, this dividing seems spoken of, to shew the Time when it was; which it does not, unless it was at Peleg's Birth. Nay why should this be told as a Thing done only while he lived, when so many others were living at the same Time, and he not the Chief of them? Others who suppose the Division here not to be the same with that in Chap. xi. 8, 9. but another before, because they think there were not People enow when Peleg was born to build Babylon, prepare a Weapon against themselves; since if Mankind were separated before, as described in this Chapter, there must needs be a less Number of them together to erect that City and Tower.

That there might be no want of People for it, the following Table will shew, which may also perhaps be not unacceptable for other Purposes, viz. to correct the random Computations of others, to point out a right Method for such Calculations, and succinctly to describe what might be the Number of Mankind in the particular Years; but first see the Time of Peleg's Birth on the next Chapter.

32. The foregoing were the Families of Noah's Sons, after their Generations, in their Nations; and by these were the Nations parted on the Earth after the Flood.

CHAP. XI.

NOW those of the whole Earth had one Language, and the same Words.

2. And as they were going on from the East, they found a Vale in the Country of Shinar, and dwelt there.

3. Then they said one to another, Come, let us make Bricks, and burn them well; they having Brick instead of Stone, as they had Mortar for Clay.

4. And added they, Come, let us build us a City, and a Tower whose Top shall be at Heaven, and make our selves famous; that we may not be dispersed all over the Earth.

5. But the Lord descended to see the City and the Tower, which the Sons of Men were building.

6. For he said; Behold the People are one, and all of them have one Speech; and as they have begun to do this, now there will Nothing which they have contrived to do be kept back from them.

7. Come, let us go down, and confound their Language there; that they may not understand one another's Speech.

8. Thus the Lord dispersed them from thence all over the Earth; and they left off building the City.

9. Therefore it was named Babylon, because there the Lord confounded the Language of those of the whole Earth; that he might disperse them from thence all over it.

10. These were Shem's Generations: Shem

It may be proper to subjoin a few Words for Perspicuity's Sake, concerning the Formation and Use of this Table. As to the first, it consists only of the supposed female Offspring of one of Noah's Sons, of which I rather chose to compose it, than as others have done of the Males, or perplexedly of both; for Women's bringing Children is something to compute from, and of Men we may think there was no want, as one might have several Wives; and why even Noah's Sons might not marry their Nieces I do not see, though the Table will admit of their Sons being 17 Years old when the first Grandchildren were born. The Women are then counted to bear at 16, and having a Child every Year, to have a Daughter once in two Years, and they might sometimes oftener, as also bring more at a Time; and they may well be deemed very fruitful in that Age, from the repeated Command, Chap. ix. 1, 7. and there being so many Kings in Abraham's Time. If it should be thought a Daughter-in-law of Noah did not continue in Child-bearing so long; we may reckon it but to 88 Years, and her Posterity will be only 8 less; nay if but to 72, and the first Grandaughters to 88, the Diminution will be but 16 more. The several Columns have the supposed Numbers born to that Time. The third Column begins with the first Grandaughter that might be born of the first Daughter of one of Noah's Sons; who being added to the two next Grandaughters, the second of the first Daughter, and the first of the second Daughter, makes three, as in the next Line, and so on throughout. The Use is to see how many Daughters, Grandaughters, &c. one of Noah's Sons might have, within any Term of Years in the first Column after the Flood; which being doubled to include the Males, amounts to six Times the Tabular Numbers for Noah's whole Offspring by his three Sons, Chap. ix. 19. Thus in the Year before Peleg was born, there might be 575880 Persons come into the World; and by Computation at the Year 90, the Sum is 66801 Males of 15 Years old and above, at the Time of Peleg's Birth: so that there may be Allowance for some dead (who might be few, considering the whole Space was not a quarter of a Man's Age then, Chap. xi. 10,—17.) and for some not to be at Babylon, &c. and yet there might be a sufficient Number of Builders.

Ver. 1. one Language] namely Hebrew, according to the Note on Chap. iv. 25.

Ver. 2. from the East] from the Mountains of Ararat where the Ark was.

Ib. Vale] Bikhah is a Vale or Valley; which Montan. has rendered Vallem, Jun. & Trem. Genvallem. There is no need to raise the Valley to a Plain or a Hill; for it is not found that the Fear of another Deluge was their Incitement for building; but that they might live together, have one Metropolis, and make themselves famous, Ver. 4. in Confirmation of which they built a City, as well as a Tower.

Ver. 3. said] Nimrod being the principal Exciter of it, according to Josephus, Ant. Lib. 1. 5.

Ibidem, Mortar for Clay] It appears they had invented artificial Materials for Building, instead of natural, which they had before; as Brick for Stone, and Mortar for Clay. Accordingly Herodotus in Lib. i. p. 32. informs us, that the Walls of Babylon were built with Brick and a Sort of Mortar. The two Hebrew Words are the same, excepting in their Vowels, hemar and hemer. The latter is rendered Clay in Job iv. 19. & x. 9. & xxvii. 16. & xxxiii. 6. & xxxviii. 14. Isa. xxix. 16. & xlv. 9. & lxiv. 8. Jer. xviii. 4. and of the former Pagn. says, סִמְלָה est lutum quod fit ex calce & arena, ad edificandum & complanandum: hemar is a sort of Clay (or rather Mortar) which is made of Lime and Sand, for building and plastering. Justin with other Historians saying it was Bitumen, the Annotation on Broun's Transf. defines it, A pitchy glutinous Matter, like Mortar, mixed with Sand and Lime. And Vitruvius says, Lib. viii. that the Bitumen was Liquid, which would therefore require a Mixture, and so may be very properly called Mortar.

Ver. 5. Tower] The famous Historian Herodotus, who according to Eusebius in Chron. publicly read his History at Athens in the Year that Nebemiah went to Jerusalem, Neh. ii. 1. describes a Tower at Babylon, which has been thought this, that was a Furlong square on each Side, Lib. i. p. 33. of which Strabo the noted Geographer says the same, adding that it was a Furlong high, Lib. xvi. It is described to be eight Towers one above another, benching in less and less, having the Way up on the Outside.

Ver. 6. For he said] before he came down, as the next Verse shews, like what is in Chap. xii. 1.

Ver. 8. dispersed] For this Josephus brings Testimonies from one of the Sibyls, and from Hesiodus, Antiq. Lib. i. 5. God made the Earth to be inhabited (the Hills as well as the rich Vales) and commanded Mankind to fill it, Chap. i. 28. which they intending not to do, he forced them to it. Nor was it according to the Divine Providence that all should be governed by one Person, God himself separating them into Nations, Deut. xxxii. 8.

Ver. 9. Babylon] From balal, be confounded, here used. In this Dispersion no doubt but some staid there; and who should it be but the most powerful, viz. Nimrod, as when he was in his hundredth Year begot Arphaxad, two Years after the Flood.

the chief? For this we have also the Scripture's Testimony, Chap. x. 10. with which his holding Babylon then better agrees, than an imaginary taking it afterwards. He seems to have governed from the Birth of Peleg, Ch. x. 25. to the Beginning of the Reign of Belus in Affyria 152 Years, as may be seen hereafter by the Catalogue of the Affyrian Monarchs. At which Time having built Nineveh, &c. Chap. x. 11. he might constitute Belus Governor there, while himself ruled at Babylon; till Ninus, with the Descendants of Ashur, who were before in another Part of Affyria, took it from him, and properly began the Affyrian Empire. This will perhaps agree the best both with sacred and profane History, tho' I find none that have placed it in this Light. How can Ninus, spoken of in heathen History, be Nimrod, as has been supposed, when he began his Kingdom above 200 Years after him? Besides Ninus being originally King of Affyria before he extended his Dominions to other Countries, Justin, Lib. i. 1. and the Affyrians overcoming the Babylonians, Diodorus Siculus, Lib. ii. 1. are remarkable Circumstances that aptly answer to what I have mentioned: but are quite different to the scriptural Account of Nimrod, that his Kingdom was first at Babylon, and afterwards extended into Affyria; and the Supposition that Ninus being Nimrod, he with his Babylonians conquered the Affyrians, as in Bedford's Scrip. Chron. Book ii. Chap. 6. 160, 162. is directly contradictory to Diod. Siculus. That Belus was neither Cush nor Nimrod may appear thus: not the former, because that is imagined from the mistaken Notion of Ninus being Nimrod, and because the Land of Cush was far off by the Red Sea; not the latter, since it is unlikely that Nimrod would leave his famous Babylon to reign in Affyria, and the Scripture mentioning the Cities in the Country of Shinar or Chaldea as Nimrod's Kingdom, says only of those in Affyria that he built them, Chap. x. 10, 11. besides that it would partly confound the Chaldean and Affyrian Empires together; to which may be added, that Belus being given to Study, and the Inventor of the Chaldean Astronomy, Pliny, Lib. vi. 26. his Character does not agree with Nimrod's; as on the other hand it may serve to shew that he had been a noted Person in Chaldea, and so was not Cush. Raleigh has a Section intitled, That Nimrod, Belus, and Ninus were three distinct Persons, Chap. x. 2. Upon the whole, Ninus appears to be the Descendant if not the Son of Ashur, and Belus of Cush, one from Shem, and the other from Ham.

The strongest Argument I find for Nimrod and Ninus being the same Person is, that Nineveh signifies the Habitation of Nin or Ninus, and Nimrod building and consequently naming that City, from thence it appears that they were one. But the Name has no such Meaning in Chaldee, which doubtless was Nimrod's Language: and even supposing it to be Hebrew, if nin be taken out, the rest is not Habitation, it can spare only ni; and the s in the Middle for n being not doubled, may be sufficient to overthrow that Interpretation; besides it stands out of the Hebrew Order, which would be Nevehnin for the Signification above. Another Argument used is, that Ninus was the Heathen Bacchus, which came from Bar Cush, the Son of Cush, as Nimrod was. Leaving the first Part of it, I would remark that us is the Latin Termination, and so quite foreign to Cush, and how r should be changed into such a heterogeneous Letter as e is not very easy to conceive. A third Argument I confess may be made more probable than either of the other, tho' I do not remember to have met with it, viz. that as the Scripture says Nimrod built Nineveh, Chap. x. 11. Diodorus informs us, Ninus builded it, Lib. ii. Cap. 1. and consequently they were both one. To which however might be answered, that by duly considering and comparing Circumstances, it may appear, Nimrod first made it a small Place, Ninus afterwards a very large one, and so each are said by those different Historians to build it; which may be pronounced indubitable, if their building Nineveh was not the same. Now as Nimrod built several other Cities in the same Country, and Ninus one grand Metropolis, as the Sicilian relates, the foregoing stands for Fact. It is not likely the latter Historian, so long after, should know Nineveh was in being before that Time, any more than he did that Babylon was before the Expedition of Ninus into that Country; in which Ignorance of his he affirms Babylon was not then built, notwithstanding we know by Holy Writ it must: and in like manner he asserts farther, that Babylon was built afterwards by Semiramis; when as Dionysius Petavius says in his Account of Time, Lib. i. 2. she rather enlarged it. One may add to this, that before Ninus built Nineveh, as the forementioned Author writes, he made a Confederacy with Ariens King of Arabia, and having conquered the Land of Babylon, he subdued Barzanes King of Armenia, Pharnus King of Media, with numerous other Countries, too many to name here after him: whereas it is incredible that there were such Kings, &c. before Nimrod began to erect Nineveh. Nor will the following bear to be applied to him so early, which the same Historian from Ctesias says of Ninus; that he went with an Army of seventeen hundred thousand Foot, above two hundred and ten thousand Horse, and ten thousand six hundred hooked Chariots, against Oxyartes King of the Bactrians, whose Army was four hundred thousand Men; and the same relates Semiramis the Widow of Ninus, to have provided three Millions of Foot-soldiers, &c. to make War on Stabrobates the King of India, while he had still a far greater Army than she, and that so far from Babylon, whence the Dispersion of Mankind was made: Things utterly inconsistent with Ninus being Nimrod, especially as Ninus reigned but 52 Years.

VOL. I.

1b. that] Translations of the Scripture abound with Tautologies, for want of rightly considering the Original.

Ver. 10. begot] It is not unlikely that the Wives of Noah's Sons were three of the best young Women they could find, to whom they were married but a little before the Flood, else probably they might have had some Offspring; however the immediate Sense of God's Judgment, &c. must needs keep them from accompanying together as Husband and Wife in the Ark, Eliazer, Pirke Aboth 23. which the Command to be fruitful afterwards seems to put out of doubt; see also Chap. viii. 17. Shem then having two Sons before Arphaxad, Chap. x. 22. which must be by one Wife, he could not be born two Years after the Flood; begot must therefore be taken literally as it is, the Use of which has been seen before at Chap. v. And as the Chronology is here carried on in the same Manner as there, by the Father's begetting the Son at such an Age, which it has not been the Custom to understand according to the Words; though all Expressions, at least proper ones, are so to be understood (such as are ironical being excepted, as receiving a different Sense by the Utterance or Behaviour) I will add two or three Remarks on what Usher says for the common Opinion in his Chron. Sac. p. 55, 56. who argues that the Word for begot in Hebrew, Greek and Latin, is common both to Father and Mother, and oftener denotes the Birth than Conception. Well, since that Verb has different Meanings, and when it is used of the Mother that determines it to signify her bearing or being delivered of a Child, does it not accordingly when used of the Father mean the other? As for which Way it may be found most, that is only as the Subject requires. An Instance for his Purpose would have been, where it was said of the Father, and evidently signified the Birth of the Child; but no such appears. That great Man too, learned, ingenious and worthy as he was, mistakes in bringing Mat. i. 16. for a Proof that the Word is common to both Sexes: for bravida, born, is not said of Mary, but Jesus. To conclude, when the Scripture applies a Child's Birth to the Father, it has another and a proper

Ver. 12. Cainan in Luke iii. 36. is from the Translation of the Septuagint, used when Luke wrote: therefore the Rehearsal of the Old Scripture in the New, ought to be read with Understanding; see the Notes on Chap. xvi. 27. & xlvii. 31. with Bedford's Script. Chron. Book i. 5. 14. Though it might be supposed if there was Occasion, that Shem begot Arphaxad at 18, he Cainan at 17, and that Moses omitted Cainan.

Ib. Shelah] Mircond the noted Persian Historiographer relates, that the ancient Perses had a Race of forty five Kings, that continued above a thousand Years; the first of which was Guimaras, whom they called Adam Affeny, that is The second Adam, who was the Son of Aram, that of Sem, that of Noah: according to which he was first Cousin to Shelah; see the Chronicle of those Kings in Grimstone's Estates and Empires, &c.

By observing what is said on the former Table and Chap. vii. 6. with the Perusal of the Places here cited in this Translation, the intelligent Reader may inform himself, how justly this Table is computed. Others pretending to follow the Heb. as before-mentioned, reckon the Birth of Abram 2009 Years from the Creation at most, 17 less than arise by this Calculation.

19. After which he lived two hundred and nine Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

20. And when Reu had lived thirty two Years, he begot Serug.

21. After which he lived two hundred and seven Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

22. And when Serug had lived thirty Years, he begot Nahor.

23. After which he lived two hundred Years, and begot Sons and Daughters.

24. And when Nahor had lived twenty nine Years, he begot Terah.

26. And when Terah had lived seventy Years, he begot Abram, Nahor and Haran.

27. So the Generations of Terah were these: he begot the three now mentioned; and Haran begot Lot.

28. At length Haran died in the Presence of his Father Terah, in his native Country, at Ur of the Chaldeans.

29. Abram and Nahor also took them Wives: the Name of Abram's Wife was Sarai, and that of Nahor's Milcah, the Daughter of Haran; he being the Father both of her and Iscah.

30. But Sarai was barren, having no Child.

31. Afterwards Terah took Abram his Son, with Lot the Son of Haran his Grandson, and his Daughter-in-law Sarai his Son Abram's Wife: who went out of Ur of the Chaldeans with them, to go to the Country of Canaan; and coming to Haran, they abode there.

32. And the Time of Terah being two hundred and five Years, he died at Haran.

FOR the Lord had said to Abram; Go thou out of thy Country, from thy Kindred and Father's House, to the Country which I will shew thee.

3. Nay I will bless those who bless thee, and him that curses thee will I curse; and all Families of the Earth shall be blessed through thee.

4. Upon this he went according as the Lord ordered him, Lot going with him. And Abram was in his seventy fifth Year, when he went out of Haran.

5. Then he took Sarai his Wife, and Lot his Brother's Son, with all their Substance that they had gained, and the Persons whom

Ver. 26. Abram, Nahor and Haran] Haran appears to be eldest, by Nahor marrying his Daughter, and Abram being but in his 75th Year at his Father's Decease. Aben Ezra says on this Chap. and others in several other Places, אין מוקדם ומאוחר בתורה There is no before nor after in the Law, i. e. the Scripture; meaning it is not to be regarded. But it is evident enough here that Abram was named first, because he was the principal Person both of this History and otherwise; see Chap. xxviii. 5. & xxxi. 14.

The Nubienfian Geographer, (whose Words in Arabick I omit for want of Type) reckons it to be twelve Miles from Edeffa or now Raba; of which Place see Harduin on Pliny's Natural History, Lib. v. 24.

Ver. 1. had said] As Stephen informs us, Acts vii. 2, 3. & Chap. xv. 7. Jesh. xxiv. 3. imply; but it was not long before they came to Haran, Ur and Haran also being not far apart; and their Stay at Haran might be only on Account of Terah's Illness and Death: for Abram did not use to linger in the Performance of any Thing which God commanded him to do, Chap. xvii. 23, 26. & xxi. 14. & xxii. 3. and from this Command till Abram's going into Egypt, Ver. 10. must not be a full Year, being bounded within that Compass by Exod. xii. 40. & Gal. iii. 17. see Chap. xxx. Moreover in Ver. 5. may be read, the Persons in Haran whom they had got; which might be done before they came thither.

Ib. Abram] Berosus, as he is cited by Josephus, Antiq. Lib. i. 8. says, In the Tenth Generation after the Flood (which Abram was) there was a great and just Man among the Chaldeans, who was famous for his Celestial Observations.

Ver. 2. be thou] The Word is imperative. God having shewn him how he might be blessed, persuades him to it, as Jer. xxvii. 12.

Ver. 3. through thee] By the Offspring that he would have, as Chap. xxii. 18. & xxvi. 4. & xxviii. 14. namely Christ, it being thus explained, Acts iii. 25, 26. Gal. iii. 16. a Truth which the Particle in does not convey, or but very obscurely.

Ver. 4. Lot going with him] This former Part of the Verse answering to the three foregoing ones, it will be found that this was spoken of Lot's first going with Abram from Ur, &c. so what follows in the next Verse, of their going from Haran, will not be a Tautology.

Ver. 5. Persons whom they had] or the Person, for the Word is singular, and all not put to it as before Substance; by which might be meant Eliexer, Chap. xv. 2, 3. or some other: else it might be, Proselytes that they had made, the Verb properly signifying made; and so may denote some of those Abram trained up, Chap. xiv. 14. perhaps choice young Men, who left their Country and Idolatry to accompany him; see on Chap. xv. 2.

they had got in Haran; and they went forth to go to the Country of Canaan, whither they came:

6. And into which he passed, to a Place of Shechem at the Oaks of Moreh; the Canaanites being then in the Country.

7. When the Lord appearing to Abram, said, I will give this Country to thy Offspring: upon which he built there an Altar to the Lord who appeared to him.

8. He next removed away from thence, to a Mountain on the East of Bethel, and pitched his Tent; Ai being on the East, as that on the West: where he built an Altar to the Lord, and called on his Name.

9. Afterwards Abram marched, and continued going on southward.

10. And there being a Famine in that Country, he went down to Egypt to sojourn there, because it was grievous.

11. Which as he was got near to enter into, he said to his Wife Sarai; Behold now I am sensible that thou art a Woman of a fair Countenance.

12. Therefore it may be when the Egyptians see thee, that they will say, This is his Wife; and will kill me, but keep thee alive.

13. Do tell thou art my Sister; that it may be well with me for thy Sake; and my Life may be preserved because of thee.

14. And when he was come into Egypt, the Egyptians took notice of the Woman that she was very fair.

15. The Princes of Pharaoh likewise seeing her, praised her to him: upon which she was taken into Pharaoh's House.

16. Who did well to Abram for her Sake: for he had Flocks, Herds, and He-asses, with Servant-men, and Maids; as also She-asses, and Camels.

17. But the Lord smote Pharaoh and his Family with great Plagues, by reason of Sarai Abram's Wife.

18. Whereupon he calls Abram, and says; What is it thou hast done to me? Why didst not thou tell me, that she was thy Wife?

19. Why saidst thou, She is my Sister? So that I might have married her my self; but now here is thy Wife; take her, and go.

Ver. 6. Shechem] This is elsewhere in our Bibles rightly written so.

Ib. Oaks] Ela being like Allon, an Oak, and comes from another Noun signifying Strength, as Robur is Latin for both, because an Oak is strong. Agreeable to which I find the Transl. of the Septuagint, Pagnin, Vatab. Tyndal and Ainsworth, with a little Variation; see also Chap. xviii. 1, 4. & xxxv. 4.

Ib. then] Some of the Canaanites, peculiarly so called, as explained on Chap. xv. 21. were probably come into that Country from Egypt, on the Death of their King Apophis, which was about two Years before Abram went into Canaan, by the Tables at Chap. xxx. and agrees well with the Mention of it here. This also quite overthrows one of Hobbs's strongest Arguments in his Leviathan, that the Pentateuch was not written by Moses, nor till after his Time, because the Canaanites were there while he was living; Hobbs too confidently supposing the Expression signified the Canaanites were not there at the Time of writing it, for which there is no Necessity at all. And yet this is an Instance brought by Prideaux likewise (which he interprets as Hobbs does) of Addition made to the Scripture, that can never, says he, be solved without, Conject. Anno 446.

Ver. 8. Ai] The Place which Joshua afterwards took, Chap. vii. 2. and the Letters are the same in Heb.

Ver. 16. Flocks, Herds] Small and great Cattle of the Pasture, as Sheep, Goats, Oxen, Bullocks, &c. besides labouring Beasts, as Chap. xlvii. 17. The King's Translators have put the same Words thus in Ver. 5. of the next Chap.

Ver. 17. Plagues] It may be questioned how he or they knew what they were punished for. But according to Herodotus the Egyptians were peculiarly skillful in such Matters; Γνωμὴν γὰρ τέλει, φυλάσσει γραφόμενοι τὸ πᾶν. Καὶ ἂν ποτὶ ὑπερὸν παραπλήσιον τίττω γένεσθαι, κατὰ τὸν νόμον ἀποδίδωσθαι. For when a strange Thing came to pass, they kept the Event of it in Writing, and if there was something afterwards like it, they judged of the Consequence according to the former. And as there had been before this Time remarkable Punishments sent from God in their Country, which they might have observed was a Scourge for their doing amiss, and a Call for Amendment; they might look on these Plagues in the same View, and find what was the Cause of them. Such ancient Matters, and so little known, while they illustrate the Comment, will not I hope displease the Reader, if I mention them. There being therefore an early Kingdom in Egypt, (separated for a Time from that of Thebes or Upper Egypt) whose Metropolis was at This near Alydus, on the western Side of the Nile, the Succession of its Kings is put first among the Dynasties, both with Africanus and Eusebius, and is given as follows; to which I have added for our Use, the Year of the Julian Period when each began reigning, as is to be proved on Chap. xxx.

	Years	Am.	Jul. Per.

But Africanus has not the last of them in this Catalogue, but in another.

Now for the present Purpose: In the Time of King Venephes, ἡμὲς κατὰ τὴν Αἴγυπτον μέγας, a great Famine seized Egypt, Syncellus, p. 54.

In the Reign of Semempsis, ὅθεν μὲν κατὰ τὴν Αἴγυπτον, a very great Mortality invaded Egypt, Id. p. 55.

And while Bochus reigned, χάσμα κατὰ Βύβαν, καὶ πολλοὶ ἀπώλοντο, there was an Earthquake at Bubastis, and many perished, Ib.

That the two first were before Abram went into Egypt, may be seen by comparing the Times with the Table in the preceding Chapter.

20. Pharaoh also charged the Men concerning him; who sent him away, with his Wife, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIII.

SO Abram went up from Egypt, with his Wife, and all that he had, accompanied by Lot, into the South;

2. He being very wealthy in Cattle, in Silver and Gold.

3. From whence he went on his Journeys to Beth-el, to the Place where his Tent was at first, between Beth-el and Ai;

4. The same Place where he made an Altar in the Beginning: and there he called on the Name of the Lord.

5. And Lot likewise who went with him, had Flocks, Herds and Tents.

6. Inasmuch that the Country would not bear them to dwell together; because their Substance was so great, that they could not.

7. Besides there was a Quarrel betwixt them who fed the Cattle of Abram, and those that fed Lot's Cattle; the Canaanites and Perizzites then dwelling in the Country.

8. At which Abram said to Lot; Let there be no Contention, I pray, either between me and thee, or between my Herdmen and thine: for we are Kinsmen.

9. Is not all the Country before thee? Do separate from me: if it be to the left Hand, I will go to the right; but if to the right Hand, I will go to the left.

10. Lot then looking up, saw that the whole Plain of Jordan was all of it watered

(before the Lord had destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, like the Garden of the Lord, like the Country of Egypt) going to Zoar.

11. So he chose him all the Plain of Jordan, and journeyed on the East: thus they separated one from the other.

12. Abram dwelt in the Country of Canaan; and Lot dwelt at the Cities of the Plain, pitching his Tent as far as Sodom:

13. The Men of which were exceeding wicked, and sinful against the Lord.

14. And the Lord says to Abram, after Lot was parted from him; Look up now, and view from the Place where thou art, towards the North, South, East and West.

15. For all the Country which thou canst see, will I give thee, and thy Offspring for ever.

16. Nay I will make them as the Dust of the Earth; so that if a Man can count up that, thy Offspring also may be counted.

17. Get ready, go about in the Country, to the Length and Breadth of it; for on thee will I bestow it.

18. Upon this Abram removed his Tent, and came and dwelt among the Oaks of Mamre, which were in Hebron: there he also built an Altar to the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

AND in the Time of Amraphel King of Shinar, Arioch King of Ellasar, Chedarlaomer King of Elam, and Tidal King of the Nations;

Ver. 1. South] not South from Egypt, rather the North, but into the South of Canaan.

Ver. 3. Flocks, Herds] In rusticatione antiquissima est ratio pascendi eademque quaestuosissima, Columella in Pref. The most ancient and that the most gainful Way was feeding Cattle.

Ver. 7. Perizzites] a straggling Part of the Canaanites, as described Chap. xv. 21. the Word denoting such as live in Villages; see Chap. xii. 6.

Ver. 8. or] Thus Patrick observes it should be.

Ver. 10. looking up] For which the Hebrew having no Verb, it is done by this Circumlocution, lifting up his Eyes: in like manner our Translators, with less Reason, leave out Hand, 2 Sam. viii. 10. & xv. 36. Ex. ix. 35. Mouth, 2 Sam. xvii. 5. Ear, 1 Sam. xx. 12, 13. & xxii. 8, 17. 2 Sam. vii. 27. Ruth iv. 4. and also Eyes, 1 Sam. xxix. 6, 7. 2 Sam. xv. 26. & xvii. 4. & xix. 6, 18.

Is. going] Zoar being a neighbouring Town to Sodom and Gomorrah, where Lot was afterwards saved, shews that the Words before in the Parenthesis are to be so put or understood.

Ver. 11. on the East] This Word with the same Prefix is at or on the East, Chap. ii. 8. & iii. 24. as the latter is used in Psal. xvi. 8. and other Places. Now from Bethel to Hebron, whither Abram went, Ver. 3. 18. and from Bethel to Sodom, whither Lot went, Ver. 12. appear to be both southward, only Sodom was considerably more to the East: so that Lot went on the east Side, as well in respect to Abram the main Subject of the History, as to the Country which was bounded on the East by Jordan, at the Side of which Lot passed. That he went southward to Sodom is clear, especially if Sodom lay at the south End of that which is now the Dead Sea, as it is placed in the Maps of Cellarius and Prideaux; and appears to be by Chap. x. 19. concerning which Lightfoot writes; "It doth not please me, that Sodom in the Maps is placed in the northern Bounds of the Asphaltites, when it seems rather to be placed in the southern Extremity of it:" for which he gives Reasons, Horæ Heb. & Talm. Part i. Chap. v. The Translation might be from the East, and Aben Ezra annotates on it סדום מזרחית ביהמאל Sodom was west of Beth-el; but the Situation does not allow it. On the other hand it will not bear being rendered East alone, nor eastward; neither is any Part of the Dead Sea East from Bethel.

Ver. 12. as far as Sodom] Jun. Leo Jud. & Pagn. have usque, Munst. usque ad, and Castal. ad, to; see the like Judg. iv. 11. the old Lat. and Gr. is in.

Ver. 18. Oaks] It is the same Word, only plural and in the constructed Form, as in Chap. xii. 6. The old Translations of Tyndal and Coverdale have oakegrove.

Ver. 1. the Nations] viz. some particular ones.

Sodom, with Birsha King of Gomorrah, Shinab King of Admah, Shemeber King of Zeboiim, and the King of Bela, which is Zoar :

3. All those joining together at the Vale of Siddim, which is the salt Sea.

4. These had served Chedarlaomer twelve Years, and in the thirteenth Year rebelled.

5. So he, and the Kings who were with him, went in the fourteenth Year, and smote the Giants at Ashteroth-karnaim, the Zuzites in Ham, the Emites in the Plain of Kirjathaim,

6. And the Horites on their Mount Seir, to the Entrance of Paran, which is by the Wilderness.

7. Next they went back to the Fountain of Judgment, which is Kadesh, and smote all the Country of the Amalekites ; and also the Amorites, who dwelt at Hazazon-tamar.

8. With that the Kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboiim, and Bela, which is Zoar, went forth, and set the Battle in order with them in the Vale of Siddim ;

9. Namely with Chedarlaomer King of Elam, Tidal King of the Nations, Amraphel King of Shinar, and Arioch King of Ellasar : four Kings being against five.

10. And the Vale of Siddim having many Pits for Mortar, the Kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and got down there ; and those who were left ran away to the Mountains.

11. So they took the whole Substance of Sodom and Gomorrah, with all their Food, and went off.

12. They also took away Lot, and his Substance, the Son of Abram's Brother ; for he dwelt in Sodom.

13. But one who escaped comes, and tells Abram the Hebrew ; who dwelt among the Oaks of Mamre the Amorite, the Brother both of Eshcol and Aner, who were Men in League with Abram.

14. And when he heard that his Nephew was taken Captive, he took out those who were of his own training up, born of his Family, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them to Dan.

Ver. 5. fourteenth] This Usher places two Years before the Birth of Ishmael, in his Annals, Lat. p. 8. Eng. p. 5.

Ib. Giants] The King's Translators have rendered the same Word thus, Deut. ii. 11, 20. and in the old Bibles it is so here, as likewise in the Greek and Chaldee Versions, with that of Munster. The com. Eng. has three double Plurals in this Verse, like that in Chap. iii. 24.

Ib. Ashteroth-karnaim] It appears pretty plain by Sanchoniatho from whence this Name came, and is perhaps no small Indication that his History is genuine. He represents Ham's Wife to be a famous Woman, whom he calls Astarte, saying, She put a Bull's Head on hers, as a Mark of her Sovereignty, that is probably Part of its Skin, and the Horns, karnaim signifying two Horns : so that the Reader, I imagine, will scarce help thinking this Name arose upon some Account from her. Ashteroth however is twice used for Flocks in Scripture, Deut. vii. 13. & xxviii. 4. but then another Word for Sheep follows. Sanchoniatho also calling Ham Chronos, קרן a Horn might be read Chron, and as is but the Greek Termination : thus what Astarte put on seems to be her Husband's, being done as Regent in his Absence. It is evident that she was counted a Goddess afterwards, both by the Name and the Country, 1 Kings xi. 5. though hardly so soon as this ; but the Place here mentioned might be called so in honour to her, and her Image set up, by which she came to be worshipped. See 1 Mac. v. 43. 2 Mac. xii. 26. Selden De Diis Syris, Syntagm. ii. Cap. 3. and Cicero De Natura Deorum says, the Syrian Astarte is called Venus.

Ib. Emites] signifies terrible ones.

Ib. Plain] Shaveh comes from Shavab, he made plain or level. So it is in Tyndal's, Coverdale's, the Geneva and French Bibles ; and thus Jun. and Trem. together with Vatablus and Munster, have turned it.

Ver. 6. Entrance] Heb. Thresheld, or more properly Door-post. It is rendered Post, Ezek. xli. 3. and Posts several times when plural by our Translators in the 40th Chap. of Ezek. and 1 Kings vi. 31. Lintel. The like Word with the Chald. Termination also signifies Post in that Language, as the Lexicons in Folio both of Buxtorf and Castellus shew. Others have the Plain of Paran.

Ver. 7. the Fountain of Judgment] The Reason why

Moses called Kadesh thus, may be seen in Num. xx. How many Words in this Chap. are left untranslated in our present Bible !

Ib. Hazazon-tamar] So it is here, but in 2 Chron. xx. 2. Hazezon-tamar, which are changed, and consequently both wrong in the com. Transf. The Masoreth on this Place says לֹא חָסַר וְחָדָר מִלָּא which is in Words at length לא חסר וחדר מלא signifying that the Word is not any where else defective, and is once written full ; namely in Chron. as above.

Ver. 10. for Mortar] Pagn. reads cementi, with whom agrees Montan. and Munst. has this Note, ut aliis placet, ex puteis illis accipiebant cementum pro edificiis : from those Pits they had Mortar for Buildings, as some have thought.

Ib. got down] As the same Verb signifies, Ch. xxiv. 64. 2 Kings v. 21. and that they did not die there, Ver. 17. shews. For this the learned Cartwright quotes Ab. Ezra, and writes himself, Electa Thargumico-Rabbinica, in Loc. It seems as if these two Kings first fled to the Pits undiscovered.

Ver. 13. Oaks] The same as at Chap. xiii. 18.

Ver. 14. took out] Or as Ainsworth says, "Drew out, that is, led forth of his House ;" and Lud. De Dieu in Animadv. Produxit nempe ex aedibus, quae adeo evacuebantur ; ea enim perpetua hujus verbi est significatio : Brought out, to wit of the House, so that it was emptied, which is the constant Meaning of this Word ; of which he gives Instances. Geneva Translation, brought forth.

Ib. Dan] As the History was writ by Moses before the Israelites possessed the Country, and so he could not use the Name as then called from the Tribe of Dan, in the manner that he might the Amalekites, Ver. 7. this Place seems to have had its Name from Jordan, i. e. the River Dan ; accordingly Fuller places it at one Head of that River, and describes it not to be that Dan which was Laisb, Judg. xviii. 29. Pisgab-sight of Palest. Book iv. Chap. 1. nay Josephus says, it was one of the Heads of the River Jordan, Antiq. Lib. i. 11. as likewise Benjamin in his Itinerary ; so that there is no need to suppose with Prideaux, that Ezra afterwards changed the Name here into Dan, Connct. Part i. Book v. see also Biblioth. Bibl. Introd. at Obj. 9.

15. Then coming upon them separately by Night, with his Servants, he beat them, and pursued them to Hobah, which was on the left Side of Damascus.

16. Nay he brought back all the Substance, particularly his Kinsman Lot's, with him, the Women and People.

17. And the King of Sodom went out to meet him, after he was returned from smiting Chedarlaomer and the Kings who were with him, to the Vale of the Plain, which was the King's Vale.

18. Melchi-zedek King of Salem too brought forth Bread and Wine; who was Priest of the Supreme God.

19. Besides he blessed him thus; Let Abram be blessed of the Supreme God, Owner of Heaven and Earth.

20. And blessed be the Supreme God, who has delivered thy Enemies into thy Power. And he gave him the Tenth of all.

21. The King of Sodom also said to Abram, Give me the Persons, and take the Goods thy self.

22. Whom Abram answered; By my lifting up my Hand to the Supreme Lord God, Owner of Heaven and Earth,

23. I will not take either a String, or the Latchet of a Shoe, nor even of any Thing which is thine; that thou mayest not say, I made Abram rich:

24. Excepting only what the young Men eat, and their Share who went with me, Aner, Eshcol and Mamre, that let them receive.

CHAP. XV.

AFTER these Things Abram had this Word of the Lord in a Vision, Do not fear, Abram; I will be a Shield to thee, thy Reward shall be very great.

2. And he said, O Sovereign Lord, what wilt thou give me, since I go childless, and the Son left of my Family is Eliezer of Damascus?

3. Lo, continued he, thou having given me no Offspring; behold he is the Heir to me.

4. When behold it was answered him by

Ver. 15. Hobah] The Vulg. Lat. Bible of the Sistine and Levain Editions add, and Phenice.

Ver. 17. Plain] Sebastian Munst. and the Tigurin Version have vallem planam, the plain Valley; Miles Coverdale's small Transf. the playne felde; the French like this, au val de la plaine; see the Word Ver. 5.

Ib. King's Vale] Our last Translator, heretofore mentioned, says, This could not be inserted by Moses, for it could not be called so till Saul's Time at least; as if the King of Sodom was not a King as well as Saul. And that in 2 Sam. xviii. 18. (which this Author does not produce in his own Vindication) might be another, or the same called so from this Time.

Ver. 18. Melchi-zedek] Omitting the various Opinions who this was, as also the Reasons alledged by some that it was Shem; I will offer one which I take to be new, and stronger than any other, that Shem was called thus. The Name is parted in Hebrew, the former Part signifying King, and Sanchoniatho as on Chap. 4. calls Shem, Sydye; which small Alteration might well be in another Language, especially the Hebrew Vowels being left out, and so inserted arbitrarily in the other; the s with z, and the e with i being quite commutable. Probably Shem at that Time went by the Name of The righteous King, which is the meaning of Melchi-zedek. Sanchoniatho living but about 600 Years after his Death, which might not be many Generations then, and compiling his History from the Records in Berytus, begun by Thoth, Ham's Grandson, may well be supposed to know by what Name he was called.

Ib. Bread] By which is commonly meant in Scripture Victuals or Food in general; as Chap. iii. 19. & xliii. 25, 31. 1 Kings iv. 22. Deut. viii. 3, &c.

Ver. 19. him] which the new Translator before named strangely expounds to be himself, after making Melchi-zedek Christ, King of Jerusalem in Heaven.

Ver. 23. I will not take] The Heb. Manner of Swearing, which on Chap. xlii. 15, 16. see more.

Ib. a String] The Heb. Word is in Job. ii. 18. & Ecclef. iv. 12. where it must signify Something bigger than a Thread.

Ver. 1. bad] Literally, was to him; but that is the Heb. Manner of expressing bad, &c.

Ib. thy Reward shall] Not to insist on the Impropriety of God being his Reward, the leaving out the Conjunction and shews it to be thus taken; in which manner Jun. and Trem. render it, and with this agrees Abram's Answer. Both Pagnin. and Castal. have it in the future Tense.

Ver. 2. Sovereign Lord] The Words אדני and יהוה are each of them usually rendered Lord, only the latter with capital Letters, in our Bible; so that to avoid LORD, it is put Lord God, whereas that is also the constant Translation of יהוה אלומי. To keep therefore a proper Distinction, and as אדני may well signify Sovereign, I have turned it thus.

Ib. left of my Family] He only of his Kindred left in those Parts with him, when Lot and his Family were now gone. Melchek, left, seems to come from mashak, as mishak does, a Place left or forsaken. Jun. and Trem. are in this of the same Mind, but turn it otherwise, is cui relinquatur domus mea, he to whom my House is left: i. e. say they, hæres extraneus, ac (ut Juræcos. loquuntur) non suus; that is, as the Lawyers speak, an Heir at Law. Castalio also taking the Word to signify left, translates, meæ domus successor futurus, the Successor of my House after me. Pagnin. likewise mentions Rabbi Joseph, so called, thus expounding the Word; which he says, secundum ipsum est relinquere, according to him is to leave; and thus it is in Buxtorf's Heb. Concordance. After which Meaning I have translated literally, and given the Words their natural Force as they lie in the Original.

Ib. Damascus] Josephus quotes Nicolas Damascenus saying, Ἀβραὰμ ἔκτισεν τὴν Δαμασκὸν ἑταίρῳ αὐτοῦ μὲν ἐκ τῆς γῆς Χαλδαίων. Μεταστὰς δὲ εἰς Καναναίαν, καὶ ἐκ τῆς ἐκείνῃ ἀποδημιᾶς. Ἀβραὰμ ἔκτισεν τὴν Δαμασκὸν, ἑταίρῳ αὐτοῦ μὲν ἐκ τῆς γῆς Χαλδαίων. Μεταστὰς δὲ εἰς Καναναίαν, καὶ ἐκ τῆς ἐκείνῃ ἀποδημιᾶς. Abraham bore Rule at Damascus, a Stranger who came with a great Train from the Land of Chaldaea; and wandering into Canaan, had a numerous Offspring, Antiq. Lib. i. 8. Though this Word is the same in the Original as Damascus elsewhere, our latest Eng. Translator renders it otherwise, as if the same (which he says) as in Amos iii. 12. not observing I suppose that one has the Letter Shin, the other Sin, though he could scarce avoid seeing them different with Sheva and Pathah.

the Word of the Lord, This shall not be thy Heir, but one who will proceed forth from thy self shall.

5. Nay he had him out abroad, and said, Look now towards Heaven, and tell the Stars, if thou canst do it; thus, added he to him, shall thy Offspring be.

6. And he believed the Lord, who reckoned it Righteousness to him.

7. Moreover he said to him, I am the Lord, who brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldeans, to give thee this Country to inherit.

8. Upon whose asking, Sovereign Lord, by what shall I know, that I shall inherit it?

9. He answers him, Fetch me a Heifer, a She-goat and a Ram, each of the third Year, with a Turtle-dove, and a young Pigeon.

10. So he fetched him all these, and cut them apart in the middle, putting the Pieces one against the other; but did not cut apart the Birds.

11. And the Fowls coming down upon the Carcasses, Abram drove them away.

12. And at Sun-set a deep Sleep fell upon him, as behold there did also a Terror of great Darkness.

13. Then he said to him; Know fully that thy Offspring shall be Sojourners in a Country which is not theirs, and shall serve those of it, who will afflict them, four hundred Years.

14. But I will also judge the Nation which they are to serve; and after that they shall come out with great Substance.

15. And when thou art gone to thy Fathers in Peace, being buried in a good old Age;

16. At the fourth Generation they shall return hither: for the Iniquity of the Amorites is not yet finished.

17. When the Sun likewise was gone down, and it was Twilight, lo there was a smoaking Oven, and a Lamp of Fire, which passed between those Parts.

18. That Day the Lord made the following Covenant with Abram; I give this Country to thy Offspring, from the River of Egypt, to the great one, the River Euphrates;

19. Namely of the Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites,

20. And the Hittites, and the Perizzites; and the Giants,

21. And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.

CHAP. XVI.

NOW Sarai the Wife of Abram did not bear to him, and having an Egyptian Servant-maid, whose Name was Hagar,

2. She says to him, Behold now the Lord having shut me up from bearing, do go in to

Ver. 5. Stars] This might be in the Morning while they could be seen, and what is related Ver. 10, 11. afterwards in the Day-time. By which the whole is regular, and there is no need to fancy with Some, that the Things were only visionary, and not really done. To explain how Abram looked at the Stars, it is said in the Assembly's Annotations, the intercourse betwixt God and Abraham might be continued until Night. Which it was, but then how the other Things to Ver. 12. were done afterwards before Sun-set, those Divines have not informed us.

Ver. 10. apart] So Calchas, the Heathen Prophet, a Boar, to prepare for the War of Troy, Diſtys Cret.

Ver. 13. Sojourners] Ger, from gur, he sojourned, is used collectively for several, as Zerab, Offspring, is.

1b. afflict] In Baal Akeda is read, היטורם וחמנים הם נר דלוק ביד אדם לרעת מה סיבו עם בודאו Temporal Corrections are a Lamp lighted in a Man's Hand, that he may know what his State is with his Creator.

1b. four hundred] Which being parted from them with a Heb. Point, may shew that all the foregoing was to be in that Time, according to the Truth of Chronology, and the Observation of Crofs in his Taghm. Art, p. 193, 194.

Ver. 16. finished] Wm. Tyndal in his Prologe to this Book writes, God is ever ready to scape tyrantes from of the face of the earth as they synnes ar rype.

Ver. 17. likewise] The smoaking Oven and Lamp of Fire signifying their Servitude in Egypt at the Brick-kilns, and their being led from thence to Canaan by the Pillar of Fire; both which were between their going from that Country, and returning to it again. And so this was a Sign of what was said in the 13, 14, and 16 Verses.

1b. Twilight] It is not dark when the Sun goes down. The Word is found but three times more in Scripture, and there it is Twilight, viz. Ezek. xii. 6, 7, 12.

Ver. 18. River of Egypt] A little River in the Wilderness between Judea and Egypt, running into the Mediterranean, called Shihor, Jesh. xiii. 3. & xv. 4, 47. & Chron. xiii. 5. Isa. xxiii. 3. Jer. ii. 18.

1b. Euphrates] which is, where Ramwolff came to it, as he says, about a Mile broad; in his Travels, Part i. Chap. 2.

Ver. 20. Giants] For this see Chap. xiv. 5.

Ver. 21. Canaanites] Since some of these here mentioned were particular Branches of the Issue of Canaan the Son of Ham, Chap. x. 16. it may seem strange there should be another People called Canaanites, that were a Part of his Posterity, when the whole were not called so. The Matter may be thus explained, that an Army of People belonging to several of Canaan's Children as they were distinct from each other, seized on lower Egypt, according to the Account of Manetho by Josephus, of which see the Tables on Chap. xxx. who with their Offspring coming into the Land of Canaan many Years after, might not distribute themselves to their several Sorts, but continue together as one, and so be properly called Canaanites. Of this Mind I find Cumberland in Orig. Gent. Antiq. who ingeniously expounds it pag. 131, 132.

Ver. 1. bear] There is nothing for Children in the Original.

Ver. 2. shut me up] Look Chap. xx. 18.

1b. built up] so the Bish. and see Gell's Essay, &c. p. 155.

my Maid, perhaps I may be built up by her; and Abram hearkened to what she said.

3. So Sarai his Wife took and gave her in Marriage to him, when he had dwelt to the End of ten Years in the Country of Canaan.

4. And he went in to Hagar, who conceived; and when she found that she was with child, her Mistress was contemptible in her Sight.

5. At this Sarai says to Abram, My Wrong is upon thee; I have given my Maid into thy Bosom, who perceives that she is with child, and I am contemptible in her Sight: the Lord judge betwixt me and thee.

6. And he answered her, Lo thy Maid is in thy Power, do to her what thou likest. Upon this Sarai so afflicted her, that she fled from her Presence.

7. But the Angel of the Lord found her at a Fountain of Water in the Wilderness, that is in the Way to Shur.

8. And he said, Hagar, Sarai's Handmaid, from whence dost thou come? And whither art thou going? Who answered, I am fleeing from the Presence of my Mistress Sarai.

9. To whom the same replies, Go back to thy Mistress, and humble thy self under her Authority.

10. He also said to her, I will multiply thy Offspring abundantly; insomuch that it shall not be counted up for Multitude.

11. Behold thou being with child, continued he to her, shalt bear a Son; whom thou shalt name Ishmael, because the Lord has hearkened to thy Affliction.

12. However he will be like a wild Ass to Men, his Hand being against every one, and every one's Hand against him; yet he shall dwell before all his Brethren.

13. And she called the Name of the Lord who spoke to her, Thou God of Sight: for she said, Do I also see here after the Sight?

14. Therefore the Well was called, The Well Lahai-roi: lo it is between Kadesh and Bered.

15. At length Hagar bore Abram a Son; who named his Son, that she did bear, Ishmael.

16. And he was in his eighty sixth Year, when she bore Ishmael to him.

CHAP. XVII.

AFTERWARDS when he was in his ninety ninth Year, the Lord appeared to Abram, and says to him; I am God Almighty, walk continually before me, and be perfect.

2. So will I cause my Covenant to be between me and thee, that I will multiply thee exceeding much.

3. With that he falling upon his Face, God spoke to him as follows;

Ver. 4. Mistress] Gen. dame.

Ver. 5. My Wrong is upon thee] Thou shouldest redress it; and if thou wilt not, the Lord will judge betwixt us. So Lud. de Dieu animadvertit, tibi incumbit, tuum est eam prestare; it lies on thee, belongs to thee to manage it.

Ver. 9. humble] or afflict thy self: for it is the same Verb as at Ver. 6. that is humble thy self to be afflicted, as she afflicted thee.

Ver. 9, 10, 11. These three Verses beginning all with, And the Angel of the Lord said unto her, make the Reading dull.

Ver. 11. Ishmael] is God hearkens or hears.

Ver. 12. will] by the Gen. Translators shall, suitable to their Predestinarian Opinion.

Ib. like a wild Ass] Sometimes the Letter of Comparison is omitted, which requires as or like to be supplied. Instances of which may be seen abundantly in Noldius's Heb. Concord. p. 378, 379, 380. and especially to parallel this, Job xi. 12. like might be left out as in Chap. xlix. and the literal Heb. be, he will be the wild Ass of Men.

Ib. to Men] Which accords with the following Words. Here was more than his being wild, viz. separating from Men, and being at variance with them; but Translators have generally lost it, except the Chald. Paraphrast, who renders the Words מורד באנשים a wild Ass among Men; and the French, where is read, il sera ressemblant à un homme sans saavage, he will be like a wild Ass to a Man. Moreover no and or Conjunction following, shews that the next Words explain it. Jarbi expounds it thus, אחב מדברות לצד דיות כמו שכתוב וישב במדבר ויהי

רובה קשת one loving the desert Places to hunt wild Beasts, according to that which is written, And he dwelt in the Wilderness, and was an Archer.

Ver. 13. God of Sight] Not only for the Sight she had of God, but also for her own Sight being preserved in it, as the following Words shew. Trem. and Jun. call him, fortis Deus visionis, strong God of Vision; saying in the Margin, The first Vowel of the Heb. Word shews it to be a Noun, not a Participle, as our Translators understood it: so the French Vers. le Dieu fort de vision. Pagnin. also in Thef. and David Kimbi expound it, the God of Vision; see Buxt. Lex.

Ib. after] The Heb. אחר after is not like the after belonging to look, which is only Part of the Eng. Verb. It was too great Ignorance for any to take it so. Tyndal and Coverdale following the old Lat. have it, I have seen the backe partes of him, taking after for behind; as likewise Castal. says, a tergo. The other Lat. Translators have the Preposition post, after: which Trem. and Jun. expound, postquam Angelus mihi apparuit, after the Angel appeared to me; and Seb. Munst. postquam ego vidi, after I have seen. The Meaning is easy if we consider it was thought to be present or speedy Death to see God, Chap. xxxii. 30. Exod. xxxiii. 20. Judg. vi. 22. & xiii. 22.

Ver. 14. The Well Lahai-roi] See Chap. xxiv. 62. It may be interpreted, The Well of living in or after the Sight. Thus Trem. and Jun. apply living to Hagar, not to God; Ab. Ez. to the Child.

Ver. 2. cause-to be] Heb. give or put. The Terms of this Covenant on God's Part are in Ver. 2, 4, 6, 7, 8, &c. on Abraham's in Ver. 1, 9, 10, and the following.

4. It is I, whose Covenant behold is with thee, that thou shalt be the Father of many Nations.

5. Therefore thy Name shall not henceforth be called Abram, but it shall be Abraham; because I make thee the Father of many Nations.

6. For I will cause thee to be fruitful exceeding much, that I may make thee Nations; and Kings shall proceed forth from thee.

7. Besides I will confirm my Covenant betwixt me and thee, with thy Offspring after thee in their Generations, for a lasting Covenant; to be a God to thee, and to them hereafter.

8. To both of whom I will give the Country of thy Sojournings, all that of Canaan, for a lasting Possession; as well as be a God to them.

9. Thou shalt then keep my Covenant, said God also to him, and thy future Posterity throughout their Generations:

10. Which is this between me and you, with them, that you shall observe; every Male of you shall be circumcised.

11. For you shall cut off the Flesh of your Foreskins, that it may be a Sign of the Covenant between me and you.

12. And all your Males shall be circumcised on their eighth Day, throughout your Generations; home-born, and bought with Money of any Stranger, who is not of thy Offspring.

13. He who is born of thy Family, and he who is bought with thy Money shall be thoroughly circumcised; that my Covenant may be a lasting one in your Flesh.

14. As for the uncircumcised Male, the Flesh of whose Foreskin is not circumcised, that Person shall be cut off from his People, having broken my Covenant.

15. God said further to him; Thou shalt not call the Name of Sarai thy Wife so; for it shall be Sarah.

16. And I will bless her, and also give thee a Son by her; nay I will so bless her, that she shall become Nations, there shall be Kings of People from her.

17. Again Abraham fell on his Face, and smiled, saying in his Heart, Shall he who is in his hundredth Year have one born? And shall Sarah bear in her ninetieth Year?

18. And he said to God, Oh that Ishmael may live before thee!

19. To which God replied; Verily thy Wife Sarah shall bear thee a Son, whom thou shalt name Isaac; and I will confirm my Covenant with him, to be a lasting one to his Offspring after him.

20. I have hearkened to thee also for Ishmael; behold I bless him, will make him fruitful, and increase him exceeding much: he shall beget twelve Princes, and I will cause him to be a great Nation.

21. But I will confirm my Covenant with Isaac; whom Sarah shall bear to thee at this appointed Time, in the next Year.

22. So making an end of conversing with him, God ascended from Abraham.

23. Then he took his Son Ishmael, with all who were born of his Family, and every one who was bought with his Money, each Male of his Domesticks, and cut off the Flesh of their Foreskins that same Day, according as God ordered him.

24. And Abraham was in his ninety ninth Year, when he was circumcised in his Foreskin.

25. As was his Son Ishmael in his thirteenth Year, when his Foreskin was cut off.

Ver. 4. many Nations] For all the Faithful are the Children of Abraham; as the Apostle expounds this Passage, Rom. iv. 16, 17. and further explains how it is, Gal. iii. 16, 28, 29.

Ver. 5. Abram] Abram is high Father, compounded of ab, Father and ram, high; Abraham, high Father of a Multitude, by taking in Part of hamen, a Multitude.

Ver. 13. thoroughly] that it might always remain, according to the following Words: so the doubling of the Verb usually signifies; Trem. and Junius have omnino.

Ver. 14. be cut off] be one cut off or disjoined, but not as joined before.

Ver. 15. Sarai] In Heb. my Princess, Sarah, a Princess, the Restriction being taken off. Her Father or Mother might name her my Princess, but God named her a Princess: for she was not to be a Princess in her own Family only, but of Nations. If the Daughters of Kings are called so, well might the Mother. Ver. 16. The Sept. change it from Sara to Sarra, as they also make sad Work with many other Names.

Ver. 16. she shall become Nations] as God said he would make Abraham, Ver. 6. What need was there to add Mother here, any more than Father there? see also Ver. 20.

Ver. 17. smiled] The ingenious Castilio has subridens, smiling; the French Transf. jouffrit, smiled. The Difference speaks for it self.

Ver. 19. Isaac] Heb. Izhak, of zabak, he smiled.

Ver. 21. Isaac] Probably Abraham had hitherto taken Ishmael to be the Son promised, Chap. xv. 4.

Ih. at this &c.] Tynd. even thys tyme twelve moneth.

Ver. 25. in his thirteenth Year] Ishmael was born in the 86th Year of Abraham's Life according to Chap. xvi. 16. and this was the 99th; which at first View may speak Ishmael to be thirteen Years old, and not in his thirteenth Year. But this Objection is solved, by only supposing his Circumcision was sooner in the 99th Year, than his Birth was in the 86th, of his Father's Age; by which he could be but in his thirteenth Year. And by the Destruction of Sodom and Gomerrab being also in Abraham's 99th Year, after the Circumcision, Chap. xviii. 10, 16, with Chap. xvii. 21. and not spoken of as immediately following, or at that Time, it may appear that Ishmael was circumcised in the former Part of the said Year. In pursuance of which, I put his Age double that Year in Tab. third to these two Things.

26. On that very Day were they both circumcised.

27. All the Men likewise of his Family, home-born, and bought with Money of Strangers, were circumcised with him.

C H A P. XVIII.

MOREOVER the Lord appeared to him among the Oaks of Mamre, as he was sitting at the Door of the Tent, in the Heat of the Day.

2. Where looking up, he saw apparently that three Men were standing before him; whom when he saw, he ran to meet from the Tent-door, and bowed down to the Ground.

3. And said; Lord, if now I am in favour with thee, go not away, I beseech thee, from thy Servant.

4. Let a little Water, I pray, be fetched, and wash your Feet, and lean down under a Tree.

5. Besides that let me fetch a Bit of Bread, and do you support your Hearts, after which you may go on; for therefore have you come before your Servant. And they said, Do according as thou hast spoken.

6. Abraham accordingly hastened into the Tent to Sarah, and said, Knead quickly three Seahs of fine Flour, and make Cakes.

Ver. 26. very Day] It might be repeated because of Abraham's Readiness to obey; who did what he was commanded that very Day: or in the Strength of that Day, as the Heb. may signify, before it was too far gone. "Not" regarding, says Hen. Ainsworth, the Affliction, Danger, Shame, Scandal, and Foolishness, which this "Action in the Eyes of the World seemed to bring" with it."

Ib. circumcised] The Manner of it is described by Buxtorf, Synagog. Judaic. Chap. 4. By the Operation which I saw at London, upon the Priest's inviting me, I observed that the Child is put both to the greatest Pain and Danger, after the Circumcision is performed in cutting off the Foreskin (which seems to be all that God commanded) by tearing apart what remains with long Nails, kept for that Purpose by the Mohel or Circumciser: which the Jews seem very unwarrantably and ignorantly to found upon Yesh. v. 2. as if that signified this second Part of their Ceremony. The first Part being in a manner instantaneous, may be no great Punishment, and little or no Danger; but the latter taking up some Time, upon the Sore already made, and offering too great Violence to Nature, must give exquisite Torture, as well as be dangerous. And upon my asking them, whether it was not the Occasion of some Children's Death; they seemed to acknowledge that, by saying they might have died without it. We may hence observe how the Commands of God, which are mild and harmless, are made rigorous and hurtful by Men. So God requiring Abraham, for a Trial of his Obedience, to offer up his Son, without suffering him to do it; it became the Practice of People to burn their Children to their gods, as has been thought.

It is pretended that Circumcision was used before Abraham's Time, since Herodotus says, Lib. ii. 104. μοῦνοι πάντων ἀνθρώπων Κόλχοι, καὶ Αἰγύπτιοι, καὶ Αἰθίοπες περιέκυνον ἀπ' ἀρχῆς τὰ αὐτοῖα, The Colchites, Egyptians, and Ethiopians, only of all Men circumcised from the Beginning. To invalidate which we must go a little round about: Josephus ag. Apion, tells us, τῶν δὲ τὴν Παλαιάν καὶ νέαν μόνον τὴν τοῦτον νόμον ἔχοντες Ἰουδαῖοι, of those who inhabited Palestine the Jews only did this; consequently the Philistines did not circumcise; next Bochart having largely shewn in his Geog. Sac. Part I. Lib. iv. Chap. 31. that the Casubites, from whom the Philistines came, Chap. x. 14. were the Colchites; it will follow that the Colchites were not in the Practice of Circumcision when the Philistines sprung from them: but rather that the Colchites, who lived between the Mediterranean and Red Sea, had it from their Neighbours the Arabians that were Abraham's Posterity, after the Philistines were separated from them; and so it might be communicated to the Egyptians and Ethiopians; especially since Eusebius says, the Arabians, as Descendants of Ishmael, defer their Circumcision to the 13th Year of Life, because he was circumcised then, Gen. p. 60. that Age of theirs for the same being also in Eusebius, Lib. vi. 11. but Josephus has it after the 13th Year, Ant. Lib. i. 13. and Ambrose writes in the Treatise De Abraham, Lib. ii. 11. Aegyptii quarto decimo anno circumcidunt mares, the Egyptians circumcised the Males in the 14th Year, because that too shews it was taken from Ishmael's being circumcised, by reckoning him so old in Ver. 25. see Yesh. v. 9.

Ver. 1. Oaks] One of which it is likely they were under, Ver. 4, 8. vid. Chap. xiii. 18. and xiv. 13. Josephus writes, Abraham was sitting at his Tent-door under the Oak of Mambræ, Ant. Lib. i. 12.

Ver. 2. three Men] Anasim implies they were like mortal Men. One was the Lord we may observe by Ver. 1, 22. who staid with Abraham, while the two Angels went to Sodom, Chap. xix. 1. But Lightfoot hereon says, they were the three Persons in the Trinity; others, as Whitby, &c. on John i. 1. count them to be three Angels, and that the Lord was there visibly beside.

Ib. before him] Jun. and Ains. before; Cass. ex adverso, over against, as Coverdale also has it. So Noldius too interprets the Heb. Preposition here, and gives Instances of the same in divers other Places, Concord. Particul. Ebr. p. 694, 695, 691. If they had stood by Abraham, he would not have run to meet them.

Ib. bowed down to the Ground] Or prostrated himself on it, in the Manner of the eastern Countries, as Buxtorf observes on the Verb; see the com. Transl. Ruth ii. 10. 1 Sam. xxv. 41. 2 Sam. ix. 6. and xiv. 33, 4, 22. 1 Kings i. 31. 2 Kings ii. 15. and iv. 37. 2 Cor. vii. 3. and xx. 18.

Ver. 3. Lord] The same as at Ver. 27, 30, 31, 32. and when my is joined to it the Pointing is otherwise, as in Ver. 12. It agrees with Abraham's calling himself here his Servant; as that does with his waiting upon those heavenly Guests, according to his Offer.

Ver. 4. lean down] on the Elbow, as was the eastern Posture at Meals, John xiii. 23.

Ver. 5. support] comfort was not translated from the Heb. (for sahad has no such Signification) but from the old Lat. comfortetur.

Ib. for therefore] i. e. you went along here in my Sight through Providence, that you might eat, and be refreshed.

Ib. before] The like Particle as at the second Verse.

Ver. 6. Seah] Why should not this Hebrew Name be kept, as Homer, Bath, Kab and Ephah are; since our Measures of Capacity are not of the same Bigness, and they were Measures as well as this? A Seah was about two Gallons and a half. The Quantity was rather proportionable to the Calf, than to three Men's eating, the Remainder of which might be for the Servants Dinner.

Ib. make Cakes] upon the hearth is of the Translators adding, but is added no where else in the pres. Bib. as Exod. xii. 39. Numb. xi. 8. and four Places where the Word is sing. as Buxt. Concordantia Heb. shew.

7. He likewise ran to the Herd, and taking a tender and good Calf, gave to a young Man, that he might make haste to get it ready.

8. After which he took Butter and Milk, with the Calf that was dressed, and put before them; and he stood by them under the Tree, while they eat.

9. And they asked him, Where is Sarah thy Wife? Who answered, There in the Tent.

10. Then replied one, I will certainly return to thee according to the Time of Life, so that behold she shall have a Son: which Sarah heard at the Door of the Tent, that was behind him.

11. Now Abraham and Sarah were got into old Years, it being ceased for her to be after the Manner of Women.

12. Therefore she smiling within her self, said, Shall I have Pleasure after I am become aged, and my Lord is old?

13. Upon this the Lord said to Abraham; Why does Sarah smile, saying, What, shall I bear indeed, when I am grown old?

14. Is there any thing too wonderful for the Lord? At the Time appointed, according to the Season of Life, will I return to thee, so that she shall have a Son.

15. Yet Sarah thus denied, I did not smile, because she was afraid; and he said, No, but thou didst.

16. At length the Men got up to go thence, and looked towards Sodom; whom Abraham accompanied, to bring them on the Way.

17. And the Lord says; Shall I conceal from Abraham what I am about to do?

18. Since he will fully become a great and mighty Nation, and through him will all the Nations of the Earth be blessed.

19. For I know that he is one who will command his Children and Family after him, that they should observe the Way of the Lord, by doing Righteousness and Equity; that the Lord may bring to Abraham what he has spoken to him.

20. So he said; Because the Cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, namely that their Sin is very grievous;

21. I am going down now, that I may see, whether they have done wholly according to the Cry of it that is come to me; or if not, I shall know.

22. But when the Men turned from thence, that they might go to Sodom, Abraham stood yet before the Lord.

23. And drawing nigh, he said; What, wilt thou destroy the Righteous with the Wicked?

24. Suppose there are fifty righteous ones within the City; what, wilt thou consume them, and not spare the Place by reason of those fifty?

25. Far be it from thee that thou shouldest do such a Thing as this, to cause the Righteous to die with the Wicked, for the former to be the same as the latter: let that be far from thee; will not the Judge of the whole Earth do Justice?

26. To which the Lord said, If I find at Sodom fifty righteous ones within the City, I will spare all the Place for their Sake.

27. And Abraham made answer; Behold now I would speak to the Lord, though I am Dust and Ashes.

28. Suppose five should be wanting of the forementioned fifty, wilt thou destroy the whole City for the five? And he said, I will not, if I find there five and forty.

29. Then he proceeded to speak thus to him further, Perhaps forty may be found there: who said, I will not do it for their Sake.

30. In the next Place he said, Let not the Lord now be angry that I speak; perhaps thirty may be found there: I will not do it, answered he, if I find so many there.

31. Behold now, said he again, I would speak to the Lord, Possibly twenty may be found there: then he said, I will not destroy it for them.

32. Lastly he said; Let not the Lord now be angry, and I will speak only this Time,

Ver. 7. ran] Observe how Abraham almost a hundred Years old, ran about to entertain Strangers!

Ver. 8. was dressed] For Abraham did not dress it himself. Active for Passive is sometimes in Scripture, as Chap. xvi. 14. and xix. 22. Num. xxx. 13. Neh. ii. 7. Est. v. 14. and see Buxt. Gram. Part ii. p. 101. otherwise the young Man should have been inserted.

Ver. 10. Time of Life] Time of Child-bearing, as this seems to have been at that of Conception, and three Months after the preceding Appearance, Chap. xvii. 21. compare Chap. xvii. 21, 24. with Chap. xxi. 5. So Gualtperius expounds it, secundum morem, quo solet infans vivificari in utero, & nasci; ita vivificabitur, & nascetur Isaac quoque: according to the manner that a Child uses to be made alive and born, so shall Isaac also.

Ver. 12. smiling within her self] It being inwardly, was not properly laughing; nor would the Circumstances, or Words said, have provoked it in lighter People. So Abraham is represented to laugh in com. Transf. at what God said, when he knew it was God, Chap. xvii. 17.

1b. Pleasure] Gen. lust, with Tynd. and the Bish. gave my selfe to lust; that being an old Word for desire.

Ver. 13. What] The same that is rendered also in the com. Bib. Ver. 23, 24. What being redundant like what.

Ver. 18. fully] Jun. prorsus; so the repeating of the Verb-substantive is done by altogether in our Bible, Psal. l. 21.

Ver. 27. I would] This is the Meaning which Grammarians generally give the Word, and particularly Buxtorf. It is as it were a half Verb, usually followed by another. Sol. Jarbi on this Place expounds it by רציתי I would. Jun. and Trem. turn it cuperem; Munst. complacuit.

There

There may perhaps be ten found there: to which he said, I will not destroy it for ten's Sake.

33. And the Lord went away when he had made an end of conversing with Abraham; and he returned to his Place.

CHAP. XIX.

NOW the two Angels came to Sodom in the Evening, at the Gate of which Lot was sitting; whom seeing, he rose up to meet them, and bowed down with the Face to the Ground,

2. And said, Behold now, Lord, turn aside, I pray, to your Servant's House, lodge, and wash your Feet; then you may rise early, and go on your Way: but they answered, No, for we can lodge in the Street.

3. Yet he pressed on them so much, that they turned aside to him, and went to his House; where he made a Feast for them, baking unleavened Cakes, and they eat.

4. Before they lay down however, the Men of the City of Sodom beset the House about, all of them both young and old, from the uttermost Part.

5. And calling to Lot, they said to him, Where are the Men who came to thee to Night? Bring them out to us, that we may have the knowledge of them.

6. Upon which Lot goes forth to them at the Gate, shutting the Door after him,

7. And says; Do not wickedly, my Brethren, I beseech you.

8. Lo now I have two Daughters who have not known a Man, them now would I bring out to you, that you may do to them what you please; only do nothing to these Men, for therefore they came into the Shelter of my Roof.

9. But they said, Get thee further; adding, There is one come to sojourn, and he must needs judge; now will we do more wickedly to thee than to them: accordingly they pressed on that Man exceedingly, and came nigh to break open the Door.

10. However the Men reached out their Hands, and pulled Lot into the House to them, and shut the Door.

11. Those also who were at the Gate of the House they struck with Blindness, both small and great; so that they were tired of finding out the Gate.

12. Afterwards the Men said to Lot; Whom thou hast else here, Son-in-law, or thy Sons, Daughters, and all that belong to thee in the City, bring out of this Place.

13. For we shall destroy it; because their Cry is great before the Lord, and he has sent us to destroy it.

14. Whereupon Lot went forth, and spoke thus to his Sons-in-law, who were taking his Daughters, Get ready; go out of this Place, for the Lord will destroy the City; but they looked on him as if he was in jest.

Ver. 1. the two Angels] Those who were with Abraham, and left him with God, Chap. xviii. 22. which in the old Eng. Bible is, the two Angels; and Casal. translates, Angeli illi duo. The Heb. expresses it by the demonstrative Letter ה.

Ver. 2. Lord] The same Word with that in Chap. xviii. 3. and Ver. 18. of this Chap. Lot might not improperly speak to one, and invite both.

Ib. can] or it might be turned, let us lodge. No was not an Answer to any Question, but signified their Refusal. The Reason of their consenting afterwards is told Ver. 8. on which account Lot might be so pressing as he was on them.

Ver. 3. unleavened Cakes] The Word is plural, and so rendered, Judg. vi. 19, 20, 21. Ainsworth has the same; and the Tigurin Version, placentas infermentatas: but Coverdale likes it, fierte cakes.

Ver. 4. young and old] which is the Heb. Order, inverted as it seems through Inattention by the last Translators.

Ver. 6. at the Gate] Heb. to the Gate. I have kept the Hebrew Distinction of Gate and Door likewise in the following Verses, which appear not to be the same, but that there was a Gate before the Door.

Ver. 7. my Brethren] So this is rendered every where else in the com. Bib. particularly Judg. xix. 23. and here in Translations which keep close to the Original.

Ver. 8. them now would I bring out] The Heb. na, now, is the same as before in this Verse. Doubtless Lot did not pray them to let him bring his Daughters out for such a wicked Purpose; nor does one of the many Translations I have consulted say it, besides the present English. Casal. translates freely, Eas male vobis ad vestram libidi- nem producere quam, I had rather bring them out to your will than. It was a noble Resolution in Lot, rather to deliver up his Daughters than his Guests; and was accordingly rewarded, with his Daughters Preservation, as well as his own.

Ib. what you please] So I render this Heb. Idiom; other Ways in the com. Transl. see 2 Sam. lii. 19. Deut. i. 23. 2 King. xx. 3.

Ver. 9. do more wickedly to thee] They mock him with his own Word, Ver. 7. which is the manner of ungodly Scoffers.

Ver. 11. tired of finding out the Gate] The Gate might be more difficult to find as they were in the Street, than the Door would if they had been in the Court.

Ver. 12. or] So Patrick observes, and says it should be translated.

Ver. 13. before the Lord] by the Bish. before the Face of God, away from the Heb.

Ver. 14. were taking] The Marriage being not accomplished, Ver. 8. This is quite literal, the Heb. Word being a Participle; accordingly we find both those Daughters were marriageable. It is unlikely that Lot had other Daughters married, and all or both dead, as has been thought; since they must also have had no Children living, because Lot would certainly have regarded his own Offspring along with, if not above his wicked Sons-in-law, and that after his Daughters Decease. But it being not expressed by the preterperfect Tense, considering the manner of the Heb. that may be taken for a full Confirmation of the former Meaning; for which we have also the Verdict of Josephus, Ant. Lib. i. 12. of Jerome in Hebr. Quest. & Chrysost. Hom. in Loc.

15. And as soon as it was break of Day, the Angels were urgent with Lot as follows, Get ready, take thy Wife and two Daughters who are present, lest thou shouldest be consumed through the Iniquity of the City.

16. And he delaying, the Men took hold of his Hand, and those of his Wife and two Daughters, by the Compassion of the Lord to him; and had him forth, putting him without the City.

17. Which they had no sooner done, but one cries, Escape for thy Life, neither look behind thee, nor stay in all the Plain: escape to the Mountain, lest thou shouldest be consumed.

18. Whom Lot intreated; Let not that be, I pray thee, Lord.

19. Behold now as thy Servant is in Favour with thee, and thou makest thy Kindness which thou shewest to me great, to save my Life; and I cannot escape to the Mountain, lest Harm should overtake me, and I die:

20. Lo now this City is near, whither I can flee, and it is little; let me, I pray, escape thither (is it not a little one?) that my Life may be saved.

21. And he replied to him; Behold I accept thy Person also in this Thing, that I will not overthrow the City of which thou speakest.

22. Make haste, escape to it; for I can do Nothing till thou art got thither; therefore the City was named Zoar.

23. The Sun came forth above the Horizon when Lot reached Zoar.

24. Then the Lord made it rain Brimstone and Fire, upon Sodom and Gomorrah, from him out of Heaven.

25. Thus he overthrew those Cities, with the whole Plain, and all the Inhabitants of the Cities, as well as the Product of the Ground.

26. But his Wife looking behind him, became a Pillar of Salt.

27. And Abraham went early in the Morning, to the Place where he stood before the Lord.

28. When looking towards Sodom and Gomorrah, and towards all the Country of the Plain, he saw clearly that the Smoak of the Country went up, like that of a Kiln.

29. Yet when God destroyed the Cities of the Plain, he remembered Abraham, sending Lot from within the Overthrow, when he overthrew the Cities in which he dwelt.

30. Lot afterwards went up from Zoar, and dwelt on the Mountain, having his two Daughters with him, because he was afraid to dwell in Zoar; where he and they abode in a Cave.

31. And the First-born said to the Youngest; Our Father is old, and there being no Man in the World to come in to us after the manner of the whole Earth;

32. Come, let us make him drink Wine, and lie with him, that we may cause Offspring to live from our Father.

33. Accordingly they made their Father drink Wine that Night, and the First-born went in, and lay with him; who knew not when she lay down, nor when she got up.

34. On the next Day likewise she said to the other, Lo I lay last Night with my Father; let us make him drink Wine also to Night, and go thou in, lie with him, that we may cause Offspring to live from our Father.

35. So they made their Father drink Wine too that Night, and the Youngest got ready, and lay with him; who knew not when she lay down, nor when she got up.

36. And Lot's two Daughters conceiving by their Father;

37. The First-born bore a Son, and named him Moab; who is the Father of the Moabites to this Day.

Ver. 15. urgent] The Verb which in the Vulg. Transf. is rendered labour, Isai. xxii. 4.

Ver. 24. Fire] There being the Marks of it in burnt Rocks, ashy Ground, &c. according as Strabo relates, Lib. xvi.

Ver. 25. overthrew] The Place of it is called in Scripture the salt Sea, Chap. xiv. 3. Numb. xxxiv. 3, 12. Deut. iii. 17. by Heathen Writers the Lake Asphaltites. It is a standing Water, computed to be about seventy *Eng. Ver. 28. Kiln] such wherein Bricks, Lime, or earthen Ware is burnt, as the Lexicons explain it. Sole Jarhi (who should not be called Jarki, as Simon notes in his Critical History of the Old Testament) interprets it, דפירה ופירה ששורפין בה את האבנים a Pit in which they burn Stones for Lime; and Aben Ezra, מקום אש דולקת תמיד a Place of Fire continually burning.

Ver. 35. got ready] See Chap. xxiii. 7. arse being very odd here.

Ver. 37. Moab] signifies from the Father.

38. And the Youngest also bore a Son, whom she named Ben-ammi; he is the Father of the Ammonites to this Day.

CHAP. XX.

AND Abraham travelled from thence to the South-country, and dwelt between Kadesh and Shur, sojourning in Gerar.

2. And he reporting of Sarah his Wife, She is my Sister; Abimelech King of Gerar sent, and took her.

3. But God came to him in a Dream by Night, and said to him, Behold thou art a dead Man because of the Woman whom thou hast taken, for she has a Husband.

4. Nevertheless Abimelech having not come near her, pleaded; Lord, wilt thou slay even a righteous Nation?

5. Did not he tell me, She is my Sister? And she too her self said, He is my Brother: in the Integrity of my Heart, and Innocency of my Hands, I did this.

6. To whom God replied in the Dream; Yes, I knew that thou didst it in the Integrity of thy Heart, and I also with-held thee from sinning against me: therefore I did not let thee meddle with her.

7. So now restore the Man's Wife; for he is a Prophet, and will pray for thee; and do thou live: but if thou dost not restore her, know that thou shalt quite die, with every one whom thou hast.

8. With this Abimelech got up early in the Morning, and calling all his Servants, related all these Words in their Hearing; and the Men were exceedingly afraid.

9. He likewise called Abraham, and said to him, What hast thou done to us? And wherein had I offended thee, that thou wouldest have brought a great Sin upon me and my Kingdom? Thou hast done to me Deeds which should not be done.

10. What didst thou see, continued Abimelech to him, that thou hast done this Thing?

11. To which Abraham answered; It was because I thought there was no Fear of God at all in this Place, and they would slay me for my Wife's Sake.

12. Nay she is also indeed my Sister, my Father's Daughter, but not my Mother's; and I had her for a Wife.

13. And when God made me wander from my Father's House, I said to her; This is thy Kindness which thou shalt do to me; at every Place whither we shall come, report of me, He is my Brother.

14. Then Abimelech took Sheep, Oxen, Servant-men and Maids, and gave to Abraham; restoring to him Sarah his Wife.

15. Moreover he said, Behold my Country is before thee, dwell where it pleases thee.

16. Besides he said to Sarah, Lo I give thy Brother a thousand Shekels of Silver, behold it is to thee a Covering of the Eyes for all who are with thee; and all was that she might be reproved.

Ver. 38. Ben-ammi] Son of my People.

Ver. 3. God came] So Homer makes his Hero say, Iliad 1. ναὶ γὰρ εἴ ῥαπ ἔν Διὸς ἱρῶν, for even a Dream is from God.

Ver. 5. She is] In the State of the printed Hebrew Text, published in 1753, the Author says; if truly translated, this Passage contains, HE is my Sister? And SHE, even HE said: wherein he alledges more for the Validity of the Heb. Points, than he was aware of; for the Points make those pretended Hes to be Shes.

Ver. 7. do thou live] By doing what I command thee; coherent with what is read Chap. xii. 2.

Ver. 9. wouldest have brought] to agree with Ver. 6.

Ver. 11. at all] פֶּן Tantum, Tantummodo, Duntaxat, Particula extenuandi, Genes. xx. 11. Buxt. in Heb. & Chald. Lex. that is Rak is only, but only, nothing but, a Particle of lessening, Gen. xx. 11. Leigh also in Crit. Sacra expounds it, Tantum, Tantummodo, Saltem, Gen. xx. 11. Herein they are agreeable to Montan. with Jun. and Trem. There is only (or nothing but) no Fear, must be, There is no Fear at all.

Ver. 16. Shekels] See 2 Sam. xviii. 11, 12. 2 Chron. i. 17. and compare with 2 Sam. xxiv. 24. 2 Kings xv. 20. Nehem. v. 15. see also Ainsworth's Annot. on it.

Ib. it is to thee a Covering] Schast. Munst. in his Annot. writes, sudant hic multi ut sententiam istam explicent, many here sweat to expound this Passage.

The first Difficulty that occurs is, whether Abimelech intended he to be he or it, for the Word signifies either. I have chosen the latter with the Septuagint, the Authors of the Chald. Targum and Vulg. Lat. Bib. Santes Pagninus, Munst. Leo Juda, Castalie, Montanus, Tyndal, Coverdale, and the Bishops; judging that the Gift was meant by it, because he had no need else to have mentioned the Silver, but might have said, Thy Brother is to thee a Covering, &c. and the Silver would have been reckoned in Order with the other Things, Ver. 14. Moses Gerundensis also, and Sol. Farbi, celebrated Heb. Writers, agree with this; and Howel pleads for it to be, which is to thee a Covering, Hist. of the H. Bib. p. 50. I understand it as if the King had said; 'People will not think very well of thee being a married Woman, to say, thy Husband was thy Brother, but will imagine thou hadst a mind that I or some other should take thee; if thou hadst not acted so indiscreetly, I might have given thee this Gift, to thy Credit and Advantage: but since thou callest Abraham thy Brother, it is necessary, to cover thee from all Suspicion, that I give it to thy Brother, for it will increase the Surmises if I bestow it on thee; thus thou forest the worse by being Abraham's Sister, rather than his Wife.' Ironical Speeches should be short, and that this was such, appears by his saying thy Brother, instead of thy Husband.

Ib. and all was] This is parted from the foregoing by the great Pause Athnah, answering to our Colon or Semicolon; which Distinction is kept in the Greek, Chald. and Vulg. Lat. Bibles, with that of Gryphius amending the latter, in the last Editions of Jun. and Trem. by Munster and Ainsworth; Ab. Ezra explaining it thus וְעַם כָּל הָעָרָה וְנִתְּחַר' עִירָה and with all this Sarah was reproved; and David Kimhi in the second Part of his Michlol, otherwise

17. After-

17. Afterwards Abraham prayed to God; and he cured Abimelech, with his Wife and Handmaids, so that they bore.

18. For the Lord had fast shut up every Womb of his Family, upon the account of Sarah Abraham's Wife.

CHAP. XXI.

AND the Lord visited Sarah as he had promised, doing for her according as he spoke.

2. For she conceived, and bore Abraham a Son in his old Age, at the set Time that God had told him.

3. And he named his Son, whom he had born to him by her, Isaac.

4. Whom he circumcised on his eighth Day, as God commanded him.

5. He himself being in his hundredth Year, when he was born to him.

6. And Sarah said, God has made me to be smiled about; every one who hears it will smile concerning me.

7. Who, says she, would have spoken to Abraham of Sarah's giving Children suck? because I have born a Son in his old Years.

8. At length the Child being grown, so that it should be weaned, Abraham made a great Feast the Day that was done.

9. And Sarah seeing the Son of Hagar the Egyptian, whom she bore to him, making sport;

10. She said to Abraham, Drive out this Maid-servant and her Son: for he shall not inherit along with my Son Isaac.

11. Which Thing Abraham was much displeased with, by reason of his Son.

12. But God said to him, Be not displeased concerning the Youth and thy Handmaid; in all that Sarah has expressed to thee, hearken to what she says: for of Isaac it shall be called thy Offspring.

13. Yet I will also make the Son of the Handmaid a Nation, because he is the Offspring of thee.

14. So Abraham got up early in the Morning, and took Bread and a Bottle of Water, which he gave to Hagar (putting it on her Shoulder) with the Boy, and sent her away; who went and wandered in the Wilderness of Beer-sheba.

15. And when the Water was consumed out of the Bottle, she cast the Boy under one of the Shrubs.

16. Then she went, and sate her self down at a Distance, about a Bow-shot off; for she said, Let me not see the Child's Death; and sitting there, she burst out a crying.

17. And God hearing the Lad's Voice, the Angel of God calls to Hagar from Heaven, saying to her; What is the matter with thee, Hagar? Do not fear, for God has hearkened to the Voice of the Youth, where he is.

18. Arise, lift him up, and hold him in thy Hand: for I will cause him to be a great Nation.

19. Besides God opened her Eyes, so that she saw a Well of Water; and she went, and filling the Bottle with Water, gave the Lad drink.

20. Moreover God was with him, and he grew up; who dwelling in the Wilderness, became an Archer.

21. And he dwelt in that of Paran; for whom his Mother took a Wife out of the Country of Egypt.

22. At that Time also Abimelech spoke to Abraham, with Phichol the Captain of his Army, as follows; God is with thee in all that thou doest.

called The Book of Roots (my Edition, all in the Original, being printed at Venice by Bombergius) writes, הם דברי משה אמר כי עם כל אלה חזרתי שארעו לה כאמרה אחי הוא עם פרעה ועם אבימלך נוכחה שרה ונוסרה מאמר אחי הוא These are the Words of Moses: he says, that with all these Things which befel her, when she said, He is my Brother, both with Pharaoh and Abimelech, Sarah was reprov'd, that she might not say further, He is my Brother. The com. Eng. Transf. has it as if it were, all People that are with all People.

1b. reprov'd] Hear Munster again, nescio quid his Santi in mentem venerit, ut pro נוכחה verteret, erudit se, cum sit participium passivum a radice יכח corripuit: I know not what came into the mind of Santes here, that for נוכחא he turned, it has instructed thy self, since it is a Participle passive from the Root yacah, he reprov'd. But how Sarah was reprov'd according to our latter Translations, I cannot tell.

Ver. 6. made me to be smiled about] Heb. made smiling at me. It is commonly interpreted in Latin, risum fecit mihi; by Ainsworth, one of our best Hebricians, made me a Laughter.

Ver. 9. making sport] the same Participle that is used of Isaac, Chap. xxvi. 8. as the Verb is of Sanson, Judg.

xvi. 25. The Gr. has added, with Isaac her Son; but it might be at Sarah her self, or at both of them: and if such Enudations must be thrust into the Text, why not every where?

Ver. 11. by reason of his Son] From hence, and here, it is confidently argued, in the Annotation of the Assembly, that Hagar was not Abraham's Wife; to the shameful Disgrace of that good Man, but as it happens to the express Contradiction of the Scripture, Chap. xvi. 3.

Ver. 14. wandered] Having it seems lost her Way there, going towards Egypt her own Country, or as she was before Chap. xvi. 7. to Shur, whereabouts she now settled, Chap. xxv. 18. this Wilderness being in the Way thither, 1 Kings xix. 3, 4. Josh. xv. 21, 28. 2 Sam. xxiv. 7. and it is remarked in A Voyage for the Discovery of a North-west Passage, Vol. i. p. 209. that Hagar, after the present Manner of the Indians, being separated by Divorce from Abraham's Tent or Family, was going to her own Relations.

Ver. 15. cast the Boy] who might be but about fourteen Years old, Chap. xvii. 21, 25. and this might be before the Weaning of Isaac, Ver. 8.

Ver. 22. Phichol] The Gr. has also the other in Ch. xxvi. 26. and pretty plainly from thence.

23. Now

23. Now therefore swear to me here by him, that without dealing falsely with me, my Son, or Grandson, thou wilt do to me, and the Country wherein thou sojournest, according to the Kindness which I have done to thee.

24. And Abraham answered, I will swear.

25. But he reproved Abimelech, by reason of a Well of Water which his Servants had forcibly taken away.

26. However Abimelech said, I know not who did this Thing; and besides thou didst not tell it me, nor did I even hear of it, besides to Day.

27. Then Abraham took Sheep and Oxen, and gave to him; and they both made a Covenant.

28. Abraham further set seven Ewe-lambs of the Flock by themselves.

29. And Abimelech asked him, For what are these seven Lambs here, which thou hast set by themselves?

30. Who answered, That thou mayest receive them from me, to the intent it may be a Witness for me, that I dug this Well.

31. Therefore he called the Place Beer-sheba; because they swore there both of them.

32. When they had thus made a Treaty there, Abimelech rose up, with the other, and they returned to the Country of the Philistines.

33. But Abraham set a Tree at Beersheba, and called there on the Name of the Everlasting Lord God.

34. And he sojourned in the Philistines Country a great while.

C H A P. XXII.

AFTER these Things God tried Abraham, saying to him, Abraham; who answered, Here am I.

2. And he said, Take now thy Son, thy only one Isaac whom thou lovest, and get thee to the Country of Moriah; and offer him up there for a Burnt-offering upon one of the Mountains that I will tell thee.

3. Accordingly he got up early in the Morning, and saddled his Ass, taking two of his young Men with them, and Isaac his Son; and having cleaved Wood for the Burnt-offering, he got ready to go to the Place which God told him.

4. On the third Day he looked up, and saw the Place far off.

5. Then he said to his young Men, Stay here with the Ass, whilst I and the Youth go yonder, and worshipping, come again to you.

6. And Abraham took the Wood of the Burnt-offering, and put upon his Son Isaac; he also took Fire, and a Knife in his Hand: thus they went on both of them together.

Ver. 27. gave] Here is not them in the Original.

Ver. 29. here] Hennab is here; and though there is another hennab the plural of hi, she, signifying they or these, that would be improper in this Place, because there is another these. Ainsworth renders it the same, and Noldius in his Annotat. 1172. names ten others for it; it being the very Word which Abimelech used, Ver. 23. Mean in our Bibles, seems to be translated from the old Latin, volunt sibi.

Ver. 30. for me] We have been taught to read unto me; but the Present of the Lambs was to be a Witness to Abimelech, and not to Abraham.

Ver. 31. Beer-sheba] In Heb. the Well of seven strictly, i. e. the seven Ewe-lambs; but the Well of the Oath, as generally expounded: for sheba is seven, as shibab is, Ch. xxvi. 33. and an Oath is Shabua or Shebua. So therefore may have relation to the foregoing as well as following Words. This double Signification is spoken of by Hieron. Tradit. Heb. in Genes.

Ver. 33. Abraham] from the next Verse; as Words even in literal Translation are very frequently transposed.

lb. a Tree] So our Translators have rendered it themselves, in the other two Places where it only is, 1 Sam. xxii. 6. & xxxi. 13. in the latter of which we may find it was an Oak by 1 Chron. x. 12. Montan. and Ainsw. turn it likewise a Tree. It seems to be planted for Remembrance of the Spot of Ground, where the Treaty was made between those great Men; and served instead of striking Medals. David Kimbi, in the 2d Part of Michlol, (from which Buxtorf considerably composed his Heb. Dictionary, as he did his Grammar from the 1st Part) expounds the Word thus עץ עשׂה עשׂה eshel is a general Name for any Tree. Lightfoot writes it was, that he might have balleded Isaac for his Sacrifices, as he had had Fire from Heaven, which he preserved: Conceits fit to go together!

VOL. I.

Ver. 1. tried] See Heb. xi. 17. Com. Transf. says here, God did tempt Abraham, and Jam. i. 13. that he does not tempt any Man. We commonly use tempt in an evil Sense.

Ver. 2. offer him up] It has been pretended that slaying Children in Sacrifice was practised before this Time; chiefly from Sanctioniathe, whose History Philo Byblius, living in the Reign of the Roman Emperor Adrian, translated into Greek in eight Books, where is the following Relation, Eusebius, Pr. Evan. Lib. iv. 16. Κρόνος ὃν δι Φοίνικας Ἰσραὴλ προσαγορεύουσι, βασιλεὺς τῆς χώρας, ἐξ ὧν ἡμεῖς Ἀσραὴτ μὲν ἔχον μοτογνήν, ὃν Ἰεὺδ ἐκάλετο, κινδύνῳ ἐν πολέμῳ μεγάλῳ καταλεφόντων τὴν χώραν, βασιλικῇ κοτμήσας σχήματι τὸν υἱόν, βομῶν τε κατασκευασμένῳ, κατίδυσεν. Cronus (who is commonly supposed to be Saturn, before the Age of Abraham) whom the Phenicians call Israel, when he reigned in that Country, had an only Son that he called Jeyd by the Nymph Anobret, and when great Peril of War seized the Land, he dressed up his Son in royal Habit, and sacrificed him on an Altar he prepared. But that this Story was made from the Scripture here, appears not only by the Name of Israel, Abraham being the most renowned Father of the Israelites; but also by the Son's Name, for Isaac is called Jebid, only one, in this and the 16th Verse; as likewise by Sanctioniathe's saying, the Cronus who, τὸν ἑαυτοῦ μονογενῆ υἱόν ἐλαμάρπει, offered up his only Son, καὶ τὰ αὐτοῦ συμμάχους καταναγνάσας, did also circumcise, and force his Companions to do the same, Euseb. Pr. Ev. Lib. i. 10. consonant to Chap. xvii. 23. See Bochart's Canaan, Lib. ii. Cap. 2. and Shuckford's Connell. Book vi. So Philo Judæus concludes in his Book Περὶ Ἀβραάμ Concerning Abraham, αὐτὸς ἡμεῖς πρῶτῳ ἀρχιστάτη ναυοτάτῃ παραδείγματῳ, he was to be the first to begin a quite new Example.

Ver. 3. to go] He did not go to the Place before he saw it, as it is in our present Bible.

M

7. In

7. In the mean while Isaac spoke thus to Abraham his Father, My Father; who answered, Here am I, my Son; Behold, said he, the Fire and Wood; but where is the Lamb for the Burnt-offering?

8. To which he replied, God will look a Lamb for the Burnt-offering, my Son: so they both went on together.

9. And when they came to the Place that God told him, Abraham erected there an Altar, and put the Wood in order; then binding Isaac his Son, he laid him on the Altar above the Wood.

10. He also reached out his Hand, and took the Knife to kill his Son.

11. But the Angel of the Lord called to him thus from Heaven, Abraham, Abraham; who answering, Here am I;

12. He said, Put not forth thy Hand against the Lad, nor do any Thing to him; for now I know that thou fearest God, since thou hast not with-held thy Son, thy only one, from me.

13. At this Abraham looking up, saw indeed that there was a Ram behind held in a Brake by his Horns; so he went, and took the Ram, and offered him up for a Burnt-offering instead of his Son.

14. Therefore he called the Name of that Place The Lord will look; whereby it is said at this Time, On the Mountain of the Lord it will be seen.

15. The Angel of the Lord likewise called to Abraham the second Time out of Heaven,

16. And said; I swear by my self, says the Lord, soasmuch as thou hast done this Thing, and not with-held thy own only Son;

17. That I will thoroughly bless thee, and multiply thy Offspring abundantly, to be like the Stars of Heaven, and the Sand which is upon the Sea-shoar: and they shall inherit the Gates of their Enemies.

18. Nay all Nations of the Earth shall be blessed through thy Offspring; because thou hast hearkened to what I said.

19. Abraham then went back to his young Men, who rose up, and they went together to Beer-sheba: for he dwelt there.

20. After these Things it was told him, that behold Milcah too had born Children to his Brother Nahor:

21. Uz his First-born, Buz his Brother, Kemuel the Father of Aram, 22. Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph and Bethuel.

23. Bethuel also begot Rebekah: these eight did Milcah bear to Nahor Abraham's Brother.

24. Besides his Concubine, whose Name was Reumah, bore likewise Tebah, Gaham, Thahash and Maachah.

AND the Years of Sarah's Life being a hundred and twenty seven,

2. She died at the City of Arba, which is Hebron, in the Country of Canaan; and

Ver. 9. put—in order] Put to it for a Word, the Geneva Translators have couched, others dressed.

Ver. 14. The Lord will look] He named it so from what himself, as it appears, had spoken, Verse 8. which was unexpectedly fulfilled. From whence came the Saying here mentioned, signifying that if any Thing was wanted, it would be seen on the Mountain of the Lord, when they went to yield their Obedience to him, and worship there; especially as the Temple was built on the same Mountain, 2 Chron. iii. 1. look Isa. ii. 3. and Jerome's Heb. Enquiries. Jeheva might be put in the Name, and not Elohim, Ver. 8. for the Sake of the Sound to jirah.

Ib. whereby] It being the Heb. Relative, without the Particle of Similitude.

Ver. 17. I will thoroughly bless thee] Here is a Hebrew Idiom repeated, to which our Language is utterly a Stranger, nor does the com. Bible keep to it thus any where else, as I remember, though it frequently occurs. The Meaning of it Buxtorf the Father gives us in these Words, verbum finitum quodvis regit suum infinitum ad majorem certitudinem & evidentiam exprimendam. Thef. Gram. Lib. ii. Cap. 16. that is to say, any finite governs his infinite Verb to express a greater Certainty and Evidence; i. e. by heightening or augmenting the Signification, as all Interpreters I think understand it: and so it has the Nature and Force of an Adverb, according to the Meaning of the Verb and Expression; see Jun. and Trem. on Ch. ii. 16. If it was necessary to imitate the Heb. Mode of Expression, it might best be done in this Manner, by blessing I will bless.

Ver. 21. Uz] It is the same Name with those in Chap. x. 23. & xxxvi. 28. From this Job's Country seems to have been named, it being the same Word, Job i. 1. from Buz, Elihu to be stiled the Buzite, and Aram might be contracted to Ram, Job xxxii. 2. especially as these two are mentioned to be Kindred both here and there; which concurring Circumstances strengthen one another. Of the Countries of Uz and Buz there is mention made in Jer. xxv. 20, 23. which, it is probable, lay eastward by Arabia, Ver. 24. Job i. 3. and had their Names from Nahor's Sons. Of the like Mind see Hier. in Tradit.

Ver. 24. Concubine] which signifies from concubo, a Wife to lie with. Buxtorf in Lexic. expounds it Concubina-uxor, and in Gram. Lib. i. Cap. 8. Uxor-concubina; Jun. and Trem. render, Concubina vero illius uxor, and the Concubine his Wife. That such were Wives appears by Keturah, who is called a Wife, Chap. xxv. 1. and Ver. 6. Hagar and she are called by this Name, and she again in 1 Chron. i. 32. as is Billah, Gen. xxx. 4. & xxxv. 22. see also 2 Sam. xii. 11. comp. with xvi. 22. It signifies according to Some, in the Original, as it were a Half-wife. They had no Jointure settled on them, and were married without solemn Espousals, other Wives with; as, in Agreement with Maimonides and the Talmud, Kimbi tells us in his Annotat. on 2 Sam. v. 13. סלגשים בלא כתיבה ובלא קדשים נשים בכתובים וקדשים;

Ver. 2. City] See on Josh. xiv. 15.

Ib. Hebron] Sept. in the Vale; the same is Hebron.

Abraham

Abraham went in to make lamentation, and weep for her.

3. Then he rose up from before his Dead, and spoke to the Sons of Heth as follows,

4. I being a Stranger and a Sojourner with you, grant me the Possession of a Grave among you, that I may bury my Dead out of my Sight.

5. And they gave him this Answer,

6. Hear us, my Lord; Thou art a Prince of God amongst us, bury thy Dead in the choicest of our Graves: not a Man of us will with-hold his Grave from thee, that thou shouldest not.

7. Upon this Abraham addressed himself, and bowing down to those People of the Country,

8. Spoke to them in the following manner; If it be your Mind that I should bury my Dead out of my Sight, hear me, and interceed for me with Ephron the Son of Zohar;

9. That he may grant me the Cave of Machpelah, which he has, that is at the End of his Field; which he shall let me have for the full Money amongst you, for the Possession of a Grave.

10. Now Ephron the Hittite was sitting amongst the Sons of Heth; and he made answer to Abraham in their Hearing, even of all who were come to the Gate of his City,

11. No, my Lord, hear me; I give thee the Field, as I do also the Cave which is therein, and that in the Presence of the Sons of my People: bury thy Dead.

12. Again Abraham bowed down before the People of the Country;

13. And spoke to him thus in their Audience, But if thou art he, I pray, hear me: I will give Money for the Field, take it of me, and I will bury my Dead there.

14. To whom Ephron made this Reply,

15. My Lord, hear me; the Land is worth four hundred Shekels of Silver, what is that between me and thee? So bury thy Dead.

16. And Abraham hearkening to Ephron, weighs to him the Silver which he had mentioned audibly before the Sons of Heth, four hundred Shekels that passed with the Merchants.

17. Thus his Field was confirmed, that was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, with the Cave and all the Trees that were in the Field, in the whole Bounds of it round about;

18. To Abraham for a Purchase in the Sight of the Sons of Heth, among all who came to the Gate of his City.

19. And after that Abraham buried Sarah his Wife, at the Cave of the Field of Machpelah before Mamre, which is Hebron, in the Country of Canaan;

20. When the Field had been confirmed, and the Cave which was in it, to him for a Possession of a Grave, by the Sons of Heth.

Ib. to make lamentation] with the outward Gestures of the Body; so that here is not a Tautology. I have rendered it as well as I could, without a Periphrasis.

Ver. 4. a Grave] It may be gathered that each Family had a Cave or Vault to bury in, called keber, a Grave, from the Expression his Grave, Ver. 6. one of which Sort Abraham wanted, Ver. 9. but Ephron was for giving him also the Field, by which means he bought both. Such Graves are described by Godwin in his Moses and Aaron, Lib. vi. Cap. 5. from the Talmud; and have been found by Travellers in those Parts; see 2 Sam. ii. 32.

Ver. 6. a Prince of God] Chald. a Prince before the Lord; Greek, a King from God; Castal. and Vatabl. a divine Prince; the rest, besides the com. Transf. as here rendered, and the French which has, un Prince excellent.

Ver. 7. addressed himself] For he rose or stood up before, Ver. 3. and as in Judg. xix. 5. 1 Sam. xvii. 48. 2 Sam. xvii. 23. and it appears that the Heb. Verb denotes this, or to get ready, in divers Places, where the other is of little or no Signification: so in Judg. viii. 20. we may find it was to draw the Sword.

Ver. 9. amongst you] This being the Position of it in Heb. and not at the End of the Verse, it necessarily belongs to the foregoing Part, as also the best Translators put it.

Ver. 10. was sitting] See Ver. 13. One may wonder how dwelt should be more eligible, when the Scope of the Context so much favours the other, and it is also the most proper Signification of the Word. What Occasion was there for Moses to say, he dwelt amongst them? Since that might be known by the mention of his City—my People, and his being a Hittite, Hittites being equivalent with Sons of Heth. Ainsworth has turned it as here; the French Translat. estoit assis; Montan. sedens; for it is a Participle: Jun. likewise has sedebat; the Seventy inaburo and the judicious Castalis translates thus, qui tum aderat inter eos, who was then present among them. Willet says, Hee sat at this Time in the midst among them, Comment. upon Genes. p. 245.

Ib. all who were come to the Gate] The principal Inhabitants, who were come there to negotiate the City-affairs, that being the Place for such Business; which the Name shabar, a Gate (here used) imports, coming from shabar, to value. Mercerus on Pagnin. writes, pro loco judicii sumitur, et publicis populi conventibus; it is taken for the Place of Judgment, and the publick Assemblies of the People: therefore Castal. gives it thus, quotquot in curiam venerant, as many as came into the Court or Council-house; see Chap. xxxiv. 20. Ruth iv. 11. Deut. xxv. 7. & xxii. 15, 24.

Ver. 15. the Land is worth] Heb. it is Land of; according to the Latin Construction, as in one of Pliny's Epistles, Agellus erat centum millium nummum.

Ver. 17. The Eng. Translators by transposing made sure from the Beginning to the End of the Verse, conclude it without so much as a Comma.

Ver. 18. a Purchase] Miknah springs from kanah, he purchased. By this Word it is rendered in com. Transf. Jer. xxxii. 11, 12, 14, 16. in several Places bought, particularly Chap. xvii. but no where else Possession. The Chald. Targum also has it Purchase, Montan. Acquisitionem.

Ver. 20. Possession] This is not the same Word with that last taken notice of, but abuzzab, which has the Verb ahaz, he possessed, for its Root.

C H A P. XXIV:

AND Abraham being advanced in old Age, and the Lord having blessed him in all Things;

2. He said to his eldest Servant of his House, who ruled over all that he had; Put now thy Hand under my Thigh.

3. And I will cause thee to swear by the Lord God of Heaven, and God of the Earth, that thou shalt not take my Son Isaac a Wife of the Daughters of the Canaanites, amongst whom I dwell;

4. But that thou shalt go to my own Country and Kindred, to take him a Wife.

5. Upon which the Servant said to him, Suppose the Woman should not be willing to come after me to this Country; must I really have back thy Son to that which thou camest out of?

6. To whom Abraham replied; Take heed that thou dost not have my Son back thither.

7. The Lord God of Heaven, who took me from my Father's House, and from the Country of my Kindred, and who thus spoke, nay sware to me, I will give this Country to thy Offspring; he will send his Angel before thee, that thou mayest take my Son a Wife from thence.

8. However if the Woman is not willing to come after thee, thou shalt be quit from this my Oath: only have not my Son back thither.

9. Accordingly the Servant put his Hand under his Master Abraham's Thigh, and swore to him concerning that Matter.

10. Next he took ten Camels of those of his Master, that he might go, there being of every good Thing of his with him; and getting ready, went to Mesopotamia, to the City of Nahor.

11. And he made the Camels kneel down without the City by a Well of Water, at the Time of Evening when the Women who drew went forth.

12. Moreover he said; O Lord God of my Master Abraham, bring it to pass, I pray, before me to Day; and shew Kindness to him.

13. Behold I stand by the Fountain, and when the Men's Daughters of the City come out to draw Water;

14. The Maid to whom I say, Let down thy Pitcher, I pray, that I may drink; who shall answer, Drink, and I will also water thy Camels; let it be her thou hast appointed for thy Servant Isaac, by which I shall know that thou shewest Kindness to my Master.

15. And it came to pass before he had done speaking, that behold Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel the Son of Milcah, the Wife of Nahor Abraham's Brother; with her Pitcher upon her Shoulder.

16. The Maid too was of a very good Countenance, a Virgin whom no Man had known; and going down to the Fountain, she filled her Pitcher, and came up.

17. The Servant then ran to meet her, and said, Let me sip a little Water, I pray, out of thy Pitcher.

18. Who said, Drink, my Lord; and she made haste, and taking down her Pitcher upon her Hand, gave him drink.

19. And when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw for thy Camels too, till they have done drinking.

20. She makes haste accordingly, and empties her Pitcher into the Trough, and runs again to the Well to draw; so she drew for all his Camels.

21. In the mean while the Man being amazed at her, was silent to know, whether the Lord had prospered his Journey, or not.

22. And as soon as the Camels had done drinking, he fetched her a Jewel of Gold, that weighed half a Shekel, and two Bracelets for her Hands, the Weight of which was ten Shekels of Gold.

23. He also said, Tell me, I pray, whose Daughter thou art; is there Room for us to lodge at thy Father's House?

Ver. 5. have back] Some use have, others carry in this Sense, viz. as an Opposite to bring. And back may be understood as relative to the Servant, after he had been there.

Ver. 10. good Thing] From the Likeness of good and Goods in English, one is not to be taken for the other. The Septuagint express it, καὶ ἐνὶ πάντων τῶν ἀγαθῶν τῶν μετὰ αὐτῷ μετὰ πάντων, and of all his Master's good Things (i. e. he took) with him; "this, says Ainsw. by comparing Ver. 53. seemeth to be the true Meaning:" Pagnin. also, et omne bonum domini sui erat in manu ejus, and every good Thing of his Master was in his Hand; Munster. eratque omne bonum, and there was every good Thing, &c. the Vulg. Lat. Translator. ex omnibus bonis ejus portans secum, carrying with him of all his good Things; and Cast. secum ferens de omnibus domini sui bonis, bearing with him of all his Master's good Things. The Stress of the Eng. Tr. to shew, the Servant had all Abraham's Goods in his Power, lies in the Particle for, which in Heb. is and. So Coverdale in Eng. and had with him.

Ib. Mesopotamia] Heb. Aram of the two Rivers, namely Tigris and Euphrates, which it lay between.

Ver. 11, 13. Well—Fountain] It is called both in the Original, as here rendered, and in the following Verses.

Ver. 17. sip] Ancient Eng. Tr. Let me sup.

Ver. 21. know] In the com. Bible wit, obsoletely from the Bishops Transl. though the Geneva had knows.

Ver. 22. Jewel] See Ver. 47. The Gen. Vers. has it by the strange Word abillement, and so Ver. 47.

Ib. Shekels] A Shekel was with the Hebrews as if they said a Weight, from shakal, to weigh; so that by saying, the Weight of which was ten; Weights, i. e. Shekels is fully implied, as Measures, Ruth iii. 15.

24. Who answered him, I am the Daughter of Bethuel, the Son of Milcah, whom she bore to Nahor.

25. She said further to him, There is both Straw and Provender enough with us, as also Room to lodge.

26. Whereupon the Man bowed, and worshipped the Lord,

27. Saying, Blessed be the Lord God of my Master Abraham, who has not forsaken his Kindness and Truth to him; the Lord having led me in the Way to the House of my Master's Relations.

28. And the Maid ran, and told her Mother's Family, according to these Words.

29. Now Rebekah had a Brother, whose Name was Laban; and he ran to the Man without, at the Fountain.

30. For when he saw the Jewel, and the Bracelets upon his Sister Rebekah's Hands, and when he heard her Words that the Man spoke thus to her; he went to him, who behold was standing by the Camels at the Fountain,

31. And said, Come in, O Blessed of the Lord; why dost thou stand without? For I have made ready the House, and a Place for the Camels.

32. So the Man went to the House, and released the Camels: and he gave Straw and Provender for them, as also Water to wash his Feet, and those of the Men who were with him.

33. Besides there was Meat set before him to eat; but he said, I will not eat, till I have told my Business: and he answered, Tell it.

34. At this he said: I am Abraham's Servant.

35. And the Lord having blessed my Master exceedingly, so that he is become great; for he has not only given him Flocks and Herds, but Silver and Gold, as likewise Servant-men and Maids, with Camels and Asses;

36. Sarah also my Master's Wife bearing him a Son after she was become old, to whom he has given all that he has;

37. My Master made me swear as follows, Thou shalt not take a Wife for my Son of the Daughters of the Canaanites, in whose Country I dwell;

38. But shalt go to my Father's House, and my Family, to take him a Wife.

39. Upon which I said to my Master, Perhaps the Woman will not come after me.

40. And he replied to me; The Lord before whom I walk continually, will send his Angel with thee, and make thy Journey prosperous, that thou mayest take a Wife for my Son, of my Family, and of my Father's House:

41. Then shalt thou be quit from my Curse, when thou art come to my Family; even though they will not give to thee, yet thou shalt be quit from it.

42. So I came to Day to the Fountain, and said; O Lord God of my Master Abraham, if now thou prosperest my Way wherein I go;

43. Behold I stand by the Fountain of Water, and when a young Woman comes out to draw, to whom I say, Give me, I pray, a little Water out of thy Pitcher to drink;

44. Who shall answer me, Not only drink thou, but I will also draw for thy Camels; let her be the Woman that the Lord has appointed for my Master's Son.

45. Before I had done speaking in my Heart, behold Rebekah came forth, with her Pitcher upon her Shoulder, and going down to the Fountain, drew: and I said to her, Give me drink, I pray.

46. Accordingly she makes haste, and takes down her Pitcher from her; and says, Drink, and I will water thy Camels too; and when I had drunk, she likewise watered them.

47. And I thus asked her, Whose Daughter art thou? Who answered, The Daughter of Bethuel, the Son of Nahor, whom Milcah bore to him: I also put the Jewel upon her Face, and the Bracelets on her Hands.

Ver. 32. and released] The Servant with his Attendants unloaded the Camels, not Laban; the Heb. Pointing being different to that in our Bible, where also [his] is added, though not distinguished.

Ver. 41. Curse] The Consequence of the Oath, from a Root which is the same Word alah, he cursed. Aben Ezra in his Annotations on this Place writes, ואל אכר and he did not say from my Oath, and the Reason was that I might be in dread of my Master, and of his Curse. Jun. and Trem. execratione; Munjt. and the Vulgate, maledictione; Ainsw. in Eng. execration; the Septuag. ἀπάς and the French Vers. l'execration du serment, the Curse of the Oath.

Ver. 47. Jewel] To say nothing of Ear-ring upon her Face in the com. Transf. it was, writes Buxtorf, an Ornament of the Forehead and Ears. The Word thus rendered may be seen Prov. xi. 22. Isa. iii. 21. & Ezek. xvi. 12. where oph is also turned Forehead for Face.

VOL. I.

Such as know the different Beauties of the Original, in the Repetition which the Servant made, will be far, I believe, from thinking it tedious; but some of them fade, or almost vanish in the best Translation. However let us compare a Little of the Story as first related, and then told over again by Abraham's Servant.

HISTORY.

Verse 1. the Lord having blessed him in all Things.

SPEECH.

Verse 35. The Lord having blessed my Master exceedingly, so that he is become great; for he has not only given him Flocks and Herds, but Silver and Gold, as likewise Servant-men and Maids, with Camels and Asses.

It was necessary that the Servant should give Laban and the Family a particular Account, but not that Moses should have given us the Detail before.

N

48. Where-

48. Whereupon I bowed, and worshipped the Lord; and blessed the Lord God of my Master Abraham, who led me in the right Way, to take the Daughter of my Master's Brother for his Son.

49. Now therefore if you will deal kindly and truly with my Master, tell me; and if not tell me, that I may turn to the right Hand, or the left.

50. Laban and Bethuel then made answer; As the Matter comes forth from the Lord, we cannot speak to thee worse or better.

51. Behold Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go; that she may be a Wife to thy Master's Son, as the Lord has spoken.

52. Abraham's Servant had no sooner heard their Words, but he bowed down to the Ground unto the Lord.

53. Afterwards he took out Vessels both of Silver and Gold, with Garments, and gave to Rebekah; he gave likewise her Brother and Mother precious Things.

54. Nay he and the Men who were with him eat and drank, and staid all Night; however when they got up in the Morning, he said, Let me go to my Master.

55. But her Brother and Mother said, Let the Maid abide with us the Days, or ten; afterwards she shall go.

56. To whom he replied, Do not make me tarry, since the Lord has prospered my Journey: send me away, that I may go to my Master.

57. At which they said, We will call the Maid, and ask her Consent.

58. And calling Rebekah, they said to her, Wilt thou go with this Man? Who answered, I will.

59. Therefore they sent away Rebekah their Sister, and her Nurse, with Abraham's Servant and his Men.

60. They also blessed her in this Manner, Thou art our Sister, do thou become ten Millions, and let thy Offspring inherit the Gates of their Adversaries.

61. So she and her Maids got ready to ride upon the Camels, and go after the Man; and the Servant taking her, went away.

62. And Isaac came from the Entrance of the Well Lahai-roi, for he dwelt in the South-country:

63. Who going out to meditate in the Field, at the Appearance of the Evening, and looking up, saw plainly that the Camels were coming.

64. Rebekah likewise looked up, and saw him; therefore she got down from the Camel.

65. For she said to the Servant, Who is this Man that is walking in the Field to meet us? And he answered, It is my Master: so she took a Veil, and covered her self.

66. And the Servant rehearsed to Isaac all the Things that he had done.

67. Lastly Isaac brought her to the Tent of Sarah his Mother, and taking Rebekah, she became his Wife, and he loved her: thus was he comforted after his Mother.

Ver. 2, 3. Abraham said, I will cause thee to swear by the Lord God of Heaven and God of the Earth, that thou.

Abraham saying by the Lord, &c. with that thou, made the Oath more solemn to the Servant, that he might keep it, but it was not needful to repeat that afterwards.

Ver. 20. She makes haste accordingly, and empties her Pitcher into the Trough, and runs again to the Well to draw: so she drew for all his Camels.

If the Servant had told all these Circumstances, some that heard might have thought Rebekah too forward; therefore he does not so much as say, all the Camels.

To conclude, it appears that the Servant, convinced his Sign was fulfilled in Rebekah, gave her the Presents before he knew who she was, as the Order of the Relation is, Ver. 22, 23. but he transposes those Particulars in telling it, Ver. 47. probably to shew as if he had given them, in peculiar Respect to her and the Family, upon hearing who she was. I am fully of Opinion with Sol. Farbi, that the Order was inverted by the Servant, not by Moses, though others think the contrary: for, 1. An Account from Moses, besides its being the first, is of the greater Authority. 2. He had not Occasion to change it as the Servant had. 3. It is no matter whether the Servant's Speech was right or wrong, it is sufficient that he said so. 4. The Heb. Word, Ver. 22. properly signifies as soon as. 5. When the Man heard who she was, it may seem more likely he would worship and praise the Lord, rather than bestow the Presents first.

Ver. 37. My Master made me swear as follows, Thou.

Ver. 46. She likewise watered the Camels.

For the sublime diversifying of the Terms and Composition, look Ver. 4, with 38. and 8, with 41. and 14, with 49. and the Prayer.

Ver. 53. Vessels] Jun. and Trem. turn it Instruments, but all the other Latin Translators, with the Greek and Chaldee, Vessels; which is acknowledged to be right in our marginal Reading, Heb. Vessels.

Ver. 55. Maid] Damsel being now only used in Verse, says Johnson in his late large Dictionary.

Ib. the Days] The usual Time on such Occasions; which some taking to be a Year, understand the ten to be Months; but I rather think it to be seven Days for feasting, Judg. xiv. 10, 12. Gen. xxix. 22, 27. However this Translation is right, because literal.

Ver. 59. Nurse] For which the Sept. have Substance, deriving נָסָה from נָסַב instead of נָסַב.

Ver. 62. Entrance] Be arises from a Verb of the same Name, signifying to enter or come in.

Ver. 67. after] This shews that Sarah was lately dead, as in Table the third.

NOW Abraham had taken a Wife besides, whose Name was Keturah.

2. And she bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak and Shuah.

3. Jokshan also begot Sheba and Dedan; and the Sons of Dedan were Ashurim, Letushim and Leummim.

4. The Sons of Midian too were Ephah, Ephraim, Enoch, Abida and Eldaah. All these were the Sons of Keturah.

5. But Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac:

6. When to the Sons of the Concubines whom he had, he had given Gifts, and sent them away from Isaac his Son, while he was living, eastward into the Country there.

7. And this is the Time in Years of Abraham's Life, which he lived, a hundred and seventy five Years.

8. Then he expiring, died in a good old Age, a very ancient Man; and was gathered to his People.

9. Whom Isaac and Ishmael his Sons buried, at the Cave of Machpelah, in the Field of Ephron the Son of Zohar the Hittite, that was before Mamre;

10. The Field which he bought of the Sons of Heth: there was Abraham buried, with Sarah his Wife.

11. Moreover after his Death God blessed Isaac his Son, who dwelt by the Well Lahai-roi.

12. And these are the Generations of Ishmael the Son of Abraham, whom Hagar the Egyptian Sarah's Maid bore to him;

13. That is these are the particular Names of his Sons, after their Generations: the First-born of him was Nebajoth, then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam,

14. Mishma, Dumah and Massa,

15. Hadar and Tema, Jetur, Naphish and Kedemah.

16. The foregoing were the Sons of Ishmael, these being their Names, by their Towns and Palaces; twelve Princes according to their Nations.

17. These too are the Years of his Life, a hundred and thirty seven; when he expiring, died, and was gathered to his People.

18. And they dwelt from Havilah going to Assyria, to Shur that is before Egypt; which fell to be before all his Brethren.

Ver. 1. had taken a Wife besides] Sarah being just mentioned, there was a fit Opportunity of introducing it. Moses ended one Thing, and then went back to another, as other Historians do; for he was not writing Annals. As he had but little to say of Keturah, it was sufficient to bring it in at last before Abraham's Death; and much better than to have interrupted the more noble Parts of the History, which his Life afforded. The pres. Translat. having rendered Then is unjustifiable, intimating that Abraham married and had six Children after he was 137 Years old (when Sarah died) and yet it is spoken of as a wonderful Thing to have Isaac when he was 99 Years old. On the contrary it seems as if he was married to this Wife, soon enough to be a great Grandfather to some of her Offspring, Ver. 2, 3. and Abraham's begetting Isaac, with the Account of his Offspring, is put after the Relation of Keturah's Posterity, 1 Chron. i. 34. In the Geneva Bible it is read, had taken him another Wife, which is explained in the Margin, "While Sarah was yet alive."

Ver. 2. bore] For this Eusebius brings Polyhistor relating, Cleodemus to have writ, that there were many Children born to Abraham from Keturah, Præp. Evang. Lib. ix. 20.

Ver. 4. Ephraim] Jerome writes in Heb. Trad. Dicitur unus ex posteris Abraham, qui appellabatur Apher, duxisse adversus Libyam exercitum: & ibi victis hostibus confedisse: ejusque posteros ex nomine atavi Africani nuncupasse. Hujus rei testis est Alexander qui cognominatur Polyhistor, & Cleodemus cognomento Malchus, græce sermone barbaram historiam retexentes. Alexander Polyhistor & Cleodemus Malchus, who both wrote the History of the Barbarians in Greek, say that Apher one of Abraham's Offspring, led an Army against Libya, and getting the Victory, settled there; from whom his Posterity were called Africans.

Ib. Enoch] See Chap. v. 18.

Ver. 5. gave] This seems to have been done between the Time of Sarah's Death, and the sending to get Isaac a Wife: for if it had been before the former, she would have had a Part; and that it was before the latter, Chap. xxiv. 36. informs us. From this Observation and the Words of the next Verse, may be proved that Abraham had other Sons, and consequently was married to Keturah, before Sarah died; which easy Task, because I would be brief, I shall leave to the ingenious Reader.

Ver. 6. Country there] Arabia, as Expositors are agreed.

Ver. 8. expiring] in the Bishops Transf. waxing away; so Ver. 17.

Ib. to his People] such of his Ancestors who were the People of God like him. And as he was not buried with them, here is sufficient Proof of a future State, as there is also in God's taking Enoch, Chap. v. 25. besides what Christ brought, Luke xx. 37, 38. &c. notwithstanding the groundless Suggestions of Some, that this Part of the Scripture says Nothing of it.

Ver. 16. Palaces] So Montan. renders it, and Pagn. both in his Verf. and Thesaurus; as Ab. Ezra likewise expounds it by ארמונים. It seems to have its Name in Heb. from the Stones being in Ranks, and the Order of the Building, which agrees nearly with Kimbi's Explanation. The Word is interpreted by this in the pres. Transf. Cant. viii. 9. Ezek. xxv. 4.

Ver. 18. Havilah—Shur] Those Places lying as here described by Geographical Account.

Ib. which fell] Their Dwelling according to this Relation of it, and as the Angel promised, Chap. xvi. 12. where the Words before all his Brethren are the same. Kimbi and others expound it, his Lot fell, agreeable to what we read, Josh. xvi. 1. & xvii. 5. & xviii. 10. Psal. xvi. 6. Jun. and Trem. express it, accidit ei habitatio, the Habitation fell to him; the Tigur. Version only by ecidit, it fell: the Septuagint say κατοικησεν, he dwelt; the Chald. Targum has שָׁרָא the same; and Sol. Jar. explains it by שָׁרָא which is all one; Aben Ezra thus חָלְקוֹ אוֹ נִוְרָלָו חֶלֶקוֹ fell] His Part, or his Lot: The French Transf. has, out son ostendue, had his Extent; the Gen. dwelling. It is not probable that Moses spoke it of his Death, which he had

19. Next the Generations of Isaac Abraham's Son are the following; Abraham begetting Isaac.

20. And Isaac was in his fortieth Year when he married Rebekah, the Daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-aram, the Sister of Laban the Syrian.

21. At length he made supplication to the Lord in the Presence of this his Wife, because she was barren; and the Lord was intreated by him, so that she conceived.

22. But the Children struggling together within her, she said, If it be so, why am I thus? and went to enquire of the Lord.

23. Who says to her, Two Nations are in thy Womb, and two People will be separated from within thee; one People will also be stronger than the other, and the eldest will serve the youngest.

24. Accordingly when her Time was fulfilled to be delivered, behold there were Twins in her Womb.

25. And the first came forth red, all of him like a hairy Cloak; so they named him Esau.

26. After which his Brother came forth, whose Hand had hold of Esau's Heel; so he was named Jacob; and Isaac was in his sixtieth Year when she bore them.

27. And when the Youths grew up, Esau was one who understood hunting, a Man for the Field; but Jacob was a sober Man, dwelling in Tents.

28. However Isaac loved Esau, because Venison was agreeable to his Palate; and Rebekah loved Jacob.

29. And the latter having boiled Broth, Esau came out of the Field, and was faint;

30. So he said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray, with that red, red; for I am faint: therefore his Name was called Edom.

31. To which Jacob answered, Sell me thy Birth-right presently.

32. And the other replied, Behold I am going to die; why then should this Birth-right be mine?

33. With that Jacob said, Swear to me presently; which he did: so he sold Jacob his Birth-right.

34. He then gave Esau Bread, and Broth of Lentiles; who when he had eat, and drunk, rose up, and went away: thus Esau despised the Birth-right.

CHAP. XXVI.

NOW there was a Famine in the Country, besides the former one that was in the Time of Abraham; whereupon Isaac went to Abimelech King of the Philistines at Gerar.

2. And the Lord appearing to him, said; Go not down to Egypt, dwell in the Country that I tell thee.

3. Sojourn in this, and I will be with thee, and bless thee; for to thee and thy Offspring will I give all these Countries, and confirm the Oath which I sware to Abraham thy Father.

4. I will also multiply thy Posterity to be like the Stars of Heaven, as well as give them all these Countries; and through thy Offspring shall all Nations of the Earth be blessed:

5. Because Abraham hearkened to what I said, and kept my Charge, Commandments, Ordinances and Laws.

6. So Isaac dwelt in Gerar.

7. And the Men of the Place asking about his Wife, he said, She is my Sister; for he was afraid to say, my Wife, lest they, thought he, should kill me for Rebekah, because she is of a good Countenance.

8. But when he had been there a long Time, that King looking through a Win-mentioned in effect three Times in the preceding Verse; and it is said in Biblioth. Bibl. Nothing can be farther from Truth. Bedford particularly and largely shews how the Ismaelites dwelt by the Posterity of Keturah, Script. Chron. Book iii. Chap. 4, 50, &c. but it also appears that the Ismaelites dwelt before the others, next to the Country of Canaan, strictly according to the Words.

Ver. 20. Jarhi writes, פון ארם כמו שדה ארם שבלשו' Paddan-aram is as if it were the Field of Aram; for in the Arabick Tongue they call a Field Paddan. Aben Ezra, otherwise called Abraham Ben Ezra, likewise explains it a Field, and says, so it is in the Ismaelitic (i. e. the Arabick) Tongue.

Ver. 21. in the Presence of] The Heb. Word having the like Meaning with coram in Lat. And though no doubt but Isaac prayed for his Wife, as the com. Bibles have it, yet as the Word has no such Signification in any other Place, if that is Truth, it appears not to be Scripture Truth, which is what is expected, and should be in a Translation of it. The Targum has לפני before;

Munst. presente uxore sua, his Wife being present; Mont. & regione, over against; and Buxtorf explains it to the same Effect. The Expression shews the Prayer to be publick, whereas Isaac might have prayed for his Wife privately.

Ver. 25. so they named him Esau] because he was hairy, Esau signifying made, from the Root asah, he made; as if he were already wholly made, like a Man. For the Meaning of Jacob turn to Chap. xxvii. 36.

Ver. 27. sober] Heb. perfect, and so the Bish. Bib.

Ver. 28. agreeable to] Heb. for.

Ver. 30. Edom] It appears that Esau did not know what to call the Broth which Jacob had made, or else for very Eagerness cried out, adom, adom, red, red; and so he was called Edom. It is rendered in Lat. de rufo, rufo iste; see likewise Gell's Essay, p. 532.

Ver. 31. presently] as the same is rendered 1 Sam. ii. 16. and seems the best; which perhaps none has considered more than I.

dow, saw plainly that Isaac was playing with her.

9. At this he called him, and said, Lo verily she is thy Wife; how then couldest thou say, She is my Sister? And Isaac answered him, It was because I thought, lest I should die for her.

10. Abimelech said moreover, What is this thou hast done to us? One of the People almost might have lain with thy Wife, whereby thou wouldest have brought Guilt upon us.

11. Then he charged all the People, that he who meddled with that Man or his Wife, should be quite put to death.

12. And Isaac sowing in that Country, got the same Year a hundred-fold; for the Lord blessed him.

13. So that the Man became great, and went on more and more in being so, till he was very great.

14. For he had Possession both of Flocks and Herds, with many Servants; insomuch that the Philistines envied him.

15. And all the Wells which his Father's Servants had dug in the Days of Abraham his Father, they stopped up, filling them with Earth.

16. Besides Abimelech said to him, Go away from us, for thou art much too strong for us.

17. Upon which he goes from thence, and encamping in the Valley of Gerar, dwells there.

18. And he dug again the Wells of Water, which they had digged in his Father Abraham's Time; for the Philistines stopped them up after his Death: he also called them by such Names as those by which his Father did.

19. Isaac's Servants likewise dug in the Valley, and found there a Well of Spring Water.

20. But the Shepherds of Gerar contended with his, that the Water belonged to them; and he called the Name of the Well Strife, because they strove with him.

21. Again they dug another Well, and for that too they contended; so he called its Name Enmity.

22. However he removes away thence, and digs another, for which they did not contend; whereupon he named it Largeness, saying, Because now the Lord has made it large for us, that we may be fruitful in the Country.

23. Afterwards he went up from thence to Beer-sheba.

24. And the Lord appearing to him that Night, said, I am the God of Abraham thy Father: do not fear, for I am with thee, will bless thee, and multiply thy Offspring, for my Servant Abraham's Sake.

25. With that he built there an Altar, and called on the Name of the Lord, pitching his Tent there; where Isaac's Servants dug a Well.

26. And Abimelech went to him from Gerar, with Ahuzzath his Friend, and Phicol the Captain of his Army.

27. To whom Isaac said, Why do you come to me, since you hated me, and sent me away from you?

28. Who answered; We clearly see that the Lord is with thee, therefore we say, Let there be now a mutual Oath between us and thee, and let us make an Agreement with thee;

29. That thou shalt do no Ill to us, as we did not touch thee, and as we did only Good to thee, and let thee go peaceably; who art now blessed of the Lord.

30. So he made an Entertainment for them, and they did eat and drink.

31. Nay rising early in the Morning, they swore one to another; then Isaac let them go, and they went from him in Peace.

32. The same Day also Isaac's Servants came, and told him concerning the Well which they had dug; and said to him, We have found Water.

Ver. 12. a hundred-fold] The Sept. have of Barley, by deducing the Word for fold or Measures from למאד (mind) which is from למד.

Ver. 18. they] viz. the Servants, Ver. 15, especially as the Verb relates the self-same Action as there; so that there was no need for some Translations, begun in the wide Greek, to have Servants inserted here, for which they leave out in (the) Time; nor just Occasion for any to vindicate them, and assert, The Relative they has no Antecedent but Isaac, as in State of the Hebr. Text, p. 359.

Ver. 20, 21, 22] Where a Name is mentioned but once or twice, being given upon some particular Account, I choose to let the Reader have the Benefit of understanding it in the Text; but if it is used often, it is not convenient.

Ver. 22. Largeness] by the Bishops Revisors.

Ver. 26. his Friend] Our last Translators acknowledge in their Preface, what Proficients they were in the Heb. Tongue, when they write, "Such were thought upon as could say modestly with S. Hierome, Both we have learned the Hebrew Tongue in Part, and in the Latin we have been exercised almost from our very Cradle." If they had examined a Lexicon or other Translations, they might have found their Mistake in turning it, one of his Friends. The Word being sing. shews also the Meaning with Ahuzzath is not a Company of his Friends, as some would have it.

Ver. 28. mutual] The first [us] meaning both Parties, which is thus happily distinguished, as it is in the Original.

Ver. 32. said to him] Sept. said, We have not found; translating to him as not, they having the same Sound.

33. And he called it Shibeah: therefore the Name of the City is Beer-sheba to this Day.

34. And when Esau was in his fortieth Year, he married Judith the Daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Bashemath the Daughter of Elon the Hittite.

35. But they were a Bitterness of Spirit, both to Isaac and Rebekah.

C H A P. XXVII.

AT length when Isaac was old, his Eyes being so dim that he could not see, he called his eldest Son Esau, and said to him, My Son; who answered, Here am I.

2. And he replied; Behold now I am old, not knowing the Time of my Death.

3. Now therefore, I pray, take thy Arms, thy Quiver and Bow; and going forth into the Field, hunt to get Venison for me.

4. Then make me such relishing Meat as I love, and bring to me, that I may eat; to the end that my Soul may bless thee before I die.

5. But Rebekah heard when Isaac spoke to him, and after Esau was gone into the Field, to hunt for Venison to bring;

6. She said thus to her Son Jacob; Behold I heard thy Father speak to Esau thy Brother as follows,

7. Fetch me Venison, and make me relishing Meat, that I may eat; and I will bless thee in the Presence of the Lord before my Death.

8. Therefore now, my Son, hearken to what I say, in that which I command thee.

9. Go, I pray, to the Flock, and fetch me from thence two good Kids of the Goats; of which I will make such relishing Meat for thy Father as he loves.

10. And thou shalt have it to him, that he may eat; to the intent that he may bless thee before his Death.

11. But he said to Rebekah his Mother; Lo my Brother Esau is a hairy Man, and I am a smooth one.

12. Perhaps my Father will feel me, and I shall seem to him as a Deceiver; whereby I shall bring upon me a Curse, and not a Blessing.

13. To whom her Reply was, Let thy Curse be upon me, my Son; only hearken to what I say, and go, fetch them for me.

14. Accordingly he went, and fetched, bringing them to his Mother; and she made such relishing Meat as his Father loved.

15. Moreover Rebekah took fine Apparel of Esau her eldest Son, which was with her in the House, and dressed up her youngest Son Jacob.

16. She likewise put on the Skins of those Kids upon his Hands, and the smooth Part of his Neck.

17. Next she gave the relishing Meat, and Bread, which she had made ready, into his Hands.

18. So he went to his Father, and said, My Father; and he answered, Here am I; who art thou, my Son?

19. And Jacob said to him, I am Esau thy First-born, I have done as thou orderedst me; rise up, I pray, sit, and eat of my Venison, that thy Soul may bless me.

20. Upon this Isaac said to him, Why didst make such haste to find it, my Son? And he answered, Because the Lord thy God made it fall out to be before me.

21. However he said to Jacob, Come nigh, I pray, that I may feel thee, my Son; whether thou art my very Son Esau, or not.

22. He accordingly approached Isaac his Father, who felt him; and said, The Voice is Jacob's, but the Hands are those of Esau.

23. And he did not know him, because his Hands were hairy like the other's: so he blessed him.

24. Nay when he said, Art thou my Son Esau himself? He answered, I am.

25. At which he replied, Bring it hither to me, and I will eat of my Son's Venison, that my Soul may bless thee: so he put it nigh to him, and he eat; he likewise brought him Wine, and he drank.

Ver. 33. Beer-sheba] This Name was given before, Chap. xxi. 31. which Isaac now renewed according to Ver. 18.

Ver. 35. Bitterness] Because they were of that Country, and bad ones too, Chap. xxvii. ult. Lightfoot here says, For this his impious Polygamy he is called a Fornicator, Heb. xii. 16. but if he was an Adulterer, yet not a Fornicator; and Fornicator may not there belong to him at all, nay or after it seems to indicate the contrary, instead of and, which would properly express it. Lightfoot adds, for Polygamy is called Fornication or Whoredome, Hos. iv. 11. where the Reader may look for it, and find Whoredom. But our Author bethinking himself, that Jacob, &c. had also more Wives than one, excuses it, because they sought to multiply the holy Seed; so making the same both pious and impious, when it was neither in either of the Brothers.

Ib. a Bitterness of Spirit] Bish. disobedient, too restrictive in the Sense as well as Words.

Ver. 3. hunt] as Ver. 5. so Ver. 33.

Ver. 6. thus—as follows] as more English than saying here.

Ver. 10. to the intent that] or that, as Ver. 4, 7. but it is expressed three different Ways in the Original, and here by two Words.

Ver. 15. fine] Gen. faire.

Ver. 20. Why] as in 1 Kings xxi. 5. 2 Kings i. 5. but never how, as Noldius specifies; and thus Isaac gently chid him for overhurrying himself; find being also infinitive, and the latter Verb.

Ver. 24. I am] Tynd. and the Bish. That I am; Gen. Yea.

26. Isaac his Father moreover said to him, Come hither now, and kiss me, my Son.

27. Who going thither, and kissing him, he smelled the Smell of his Cloaths, and blessed him as follows; See the Smell of my Son is like that of a Field which the Lord has blessed.

28. And God give thee of the Dew of Heaven, and of the Fatness of the Earth, with abundance of Corn and Wine.

29. Let People serve thee, and Nations bow down to thee; be thou a Master to thy Brethren, and let thy Mother's Sons bow to thee: cursed be he that curses thee, and blessed he who blesses thee.

30. And when Isaac had done blessing him, and Jacob was but just gone out from his Presence, Esau his Brother came from his Hunting.

31. And he also made relishing Meat, and brought to his Father; saying to him, Let my Father rise up, and eat of his Son's Venison, that thy Soul may bless me.

32. To whom he said, Who art thou? And he answered, I am thy First-born Son Esau.

33. Seized with an exceeding great Trembling at this, Isaac said, Who is it now that has hunted for Venison, and brought it to me? So that I have eat of all before thou camest, and blessed him: nay he will be blessed.

34. When Esau heard the Words of his Father, he cried out exceedingly with a loud and bitter Cry; and said to him, Bless me, me also, my Father.

35. But he said, Thy Brother came with Deceit, and has taken away thy Blessing.

36. Whereupon he thus expressed himself, Was not he rightly named Jacob, since he has defrauded me these two times? He took away my Birth-right, and behold now he has taken away my Blessing: However he said, Hast not thou reserved a Blessing for me?

37. And Isaac made answer to him, Lo I have made him thy Master, and given him all his Brethren for Servants, as also supported him with Corn and Wine: and what shall I do now for thee, my Son?

38. Esau then said to him, Hast thou but that one Blessing, my Father? Bless me, me also, O my Father: and Esau burst out a crying.

39. And his Father Isaac gave him answer; Behold thy Dwelling will be away from the Fatness of the Earth, and the Dew of Heaven from above.

40. For thou wilt live by thy Sword, and serve thy Brother; yet when thou rulest, thou wilt break off his Yoke from thy Neck.

41. And Esau hating Jacob for the Blessing that his Father blessed him with, said in his Heart, The Days of Mourning for my Father draw near, when I will slay my Brother Jacob.

42. But Rebekah was told the Words of this her eldest Son; therefore she sent and called Jacob her youngest, and said to him; Behold Esau thy Brother comforts himself concerning thee, to kill thee.

43. Now therefore my Son, hearken to what I say; and get ready, flee to my Brother Laban at Haran.

44. And abide with him a few Days, until thy Brother's Wrath turn away;

45. Till his Anger being turned from thee, he forgets what thou hast done to him; then will I send, and fetch thee from thence: why should I be deprived even of you both in one Day?

46. Upon which she says to Isaac; I am weary of my Life, by reason of the Daughters of Heth: if Jacob takes a Wife of them, such Women of the Country as these, why should I live?

Ver. 33. Who is it now? Buxtorf turns it, Quis nunc ille, Who is he now: for KIDM has not the Letter v to make it where.

Ib. he will] Since I have pronounced him blessed, he will be so, I cannot, or at least may not, alter it. Shall is forced, and quite unnatural both to the Passage and the Parent. Did Isaac tremble so exceedingly for Jacob's getting the Blessing from Esau, and all of a sudden harden himself against him, when he had given no Occasion, to say the most shocking Thing, yea, and he shall be blessed? What follows does also abundantly confirm the former Interpretation.

Ver. 36. Jacob] a Defrauder, a Holder by the Heel, or Overthrower; look Chap. xxv. 26.

Ver. 39. from the] So to usually signifies: and the Meaning appears necessary, to avoid the Absurdity of Esau having the same Blessing with Jacob, Ver. 28. see Ver. 37. as also by Edom being a poor Country, Sandys's Travels, Book ii. p. 107. and by Esau's living by his Sword, Ver. 40. see Le Clerc on this Place, with Cast. Transf. & Annot.

Ver. 40. thou rulest] Onkelos in the Targum, his Posterity transgresses against the Words of the Law; and Sol. Jar. expounds it thus, When Israel transgresses against the Law, and thy Mouth is opened to bemoan thy self (i. e. repent) for the Blessings which he took away.

Ib. break] as was fulfilled, 2 Kings viii. 20, 22.

Ver. 42. the Words] Our last Translators say these Words, but there is nothing in the Original which signifies these; and how did they imagine these Words which Esau said in his Heart, should be told to Rebekah? The Truth seems to be thus, that Esau muttered Something, which was told Rebekah, from whence it was gathered he said the other in his Heart.

Ver. 45. fetch] this notable Eng. Verb signifying to go or send, and bring.

C H A P. XXVIII.

THEN Isaac calling Jacob, blesses him, and commands him as follows; Thou shalt not take a Wife of the Daughters of Canaan.

2. Get ready, go to Padan-aram, to the House of Bethuel thy Mother's Father; and take thee a Wife from thence, of the Daughters of Laban her Brother.

3. And God Almighty bless thee, make thee fruitful, and multiply thee; that thou mayest become a Congregation of People:

4. And give thee the Blessing of Abraham, as also thy Offspring with thee; to inherit the Country of thy Sojourning, which God gave to him.

5. So he sent Jacob away, that he might go to Padan-aram, to Laban the Son of Bethuel the Syrian, Rebekah's Brother, the Mother of Jacob and Esau.

6. And Esau finding that Isaac had blessed him, and sent him away thither, to take him a Wife from thence; when he blessed him, that he gave him the following Charge, Thou shalt not take a Wife of the Daughters of the Canaanites;

7. And that Jacob obeyed his Father and Mother, going to Padan-aram;

8. Esau also seeing that the Daughters of Canaan displeased Isaac his Father:

9. He went to Ishmael, and married Mahalath the Daughter of him, Abraham's Son, the Sister of Nebajoth, over and above his other Wives.

10. And Jacob being gone out of Beer-sheba, and going to Haran;

11. Met with a Place where he would lodge, because the Sun was set, and took some Stones of it, and put for his Pillow; lying down there.

12. And he dreamed apparently that there was a Ladder set up on the Earth, whose Top reached to Heaven; and lo the Angels of God were going up and down on it.

13. Behold too the Lord stood above it, and said; I am the Lord God of Abraham thy Father, and the God of Isaac; I will give thee and thy Offspring the Country upon which thou liest.

14. They shall also be as the Dust of the Ground, and thou shalt spread westward, eastward, northward and southward; and all the Families of the Earth shall be blessed through thee, and thy Offspring.

15. And lo I will be with thee, and keep thee whithersoever thou goest, nay bring thee back into this Country: for I will not leave thee till I have done what I have spoken to thee.

16. Upon which Jacob awaking from his Sleep, said, Surely the Lord is in this Place, and I did not know it.

17. Being in fear, he likewise said, How awful is this Place! This is no other but the House of God, and this the Gate of Heaven.

18. And rising early in the Morning, he took the Stones which he had put for his Pillow, and made a Pillar, upon the Top of which he poured Oil.

19. He further called the Name of that Place Beth-el; whereas the Name of the City was Luz at first.

20. Besides Jacob made the following Vow; If God will be with me, and preserve me in this Journey which I am going, as also give me Victuals to eat, and Cloaths to put on;

21. So that I return well to my Father's House, and the Lord will be my God:

Ver. 18. Stones] It is the Stone in Hebrew, which often uses Singulars for Plurals, and might here, especially when they were laid together as one Stone. The Word in Ver. 11. is elegantly varied, being there plural; see on Chap. x. 16. The present Reading, the Stone that he had put for his Pillows, merits this Observation, that a Stone could not be, and probably Jacob had not, more Pillows than one. Meraashoth is only plural, like our Tongues, Bellows, &c. but must not therefore be rendered so into other Tongues, which have it singular.

See the like speaking above Ch. xvii. 8. from whence Jacob took this Form of the Vow. Jarhi refers it to Chap. xvii. 7. and expounds the Beginning of this subsequent Verse by כך &c. Besides he makes the Vow to consist in doing (which is the Nature of a Vow) saying, אם תעשה לי את אלה ואני אעשה זאת If thou wilt do these things to me, I will also do this. I would add to it, that the former Part of the Vow being evidently grounded on what Jacob heard from God the Night past (as if he had said, If God will do as he has spoken, or this Part of it which I rehearse, then, &c.) which Jarbi shews distinctly; so the Meaning of these Words appears to be, If the Lord will be my God as he is Abraham's and Isaac's, Ver. 13. the same Promise being now made to all three, to Abraham, Chap. xii. 3. & xiii. 14, 15, 16. to Isaac, Chap. xxvi. 4. CHAP. XXIX.

NEXT Jacob lifting up his Feet, went to the Country of the eastern People.

2. And he saw plainly that there was a Well in a Field, and lo three Flocks of Sheep were there lying by it, because they watered the Flocks out of that Well; and a great Stone was upon the Mouth of it.

3. So that all the Flocks were to be gathered thither, that they might roll the Stone from thence and water the Sheep; then they turned back the Stone upon the Well's Mouth into its Place.

4. And Jacob said to them, My Brethren, from whence are you? Who answered, We belong to Haran.

5. To whom he replied, Do you know Laban the Son of Nahor? We do, said they.

6. And upon his asking them, Is he well? They answered, Yes; behold also his Daughter Rachel is coming with the Sheep.

7. Then said he, Lo the Day will be yet a great while, it is not Time for the Cattle to be gathered together; water the Sheep, and go, feed them.

8. But they said, We cannot till all the Flocks are gathered, and they roll the Stone from the Mouth of the Well; that we may water the Sheep.

9. While he was talking with them, Rachel too came with the Sheep which her Father had: for she was feeding them.

10. And as soon as he saw her, the Daughter of Laban, his Mother's Brother, and this Uncle's Sheep, he went nigh, and rolling off the Stone from the Well's Mouth, watered them.

11. Jacob also kissed Rachel, and burst out a crying;

12. Telling her that he was her Father's Nephew, and that he was Rebekah's Son; upon which she ran, and told her Father.

13. And no sooner did Laban hear the News of Jacob his Sister's Son, but he ran to meet him, and having embraced him, and kissed him, he brought him home; and he rehearsed to Laban all those Things.

14. Who said to him, Verily thou art of my own Bone and Flesh. So he abode with him the Space of a Month.

15. When he said to Jacob, Because thou art my Nephew, shouldest thou therefore serve me for Nothing? Tell me what thy Wages shall be?

16. Now Laban had two Daughters; the Name of the eldest was Leah, and that of the youngest Rachel.

17. But Leah's Eyes were tender; whereas Rachel was of a handsome Shape, and a fair Countenance.

18. And Jacob loving the latter, says, I will serve thee seven Years for Rachel thy youngest Daughter.

19. To which he replies, It will be better for me to give her to thee, than to do it to another Man; dwell with me.

20. Accordingly Jacob served seven Years for Rachel; which he thought as a few Days, through the Love he had for her.

21. He then said to Laban, Give me my Wife, since my Time is fulfilled; that I may go in to her.

22. With that Laban gathered together all the Men of the Place, and made an Entertainment.

23. But in the Evening he took his Daughter Leah, and brought her to him; so that he went in to her.

24. Laban also gave her his Maid Zilpah, for her Maid.

25. And in the Morning behold it being Leah, he said to Laban, What is this thou hast done to me? Did not I serve with thee for Rachel? Why then hast thou deceived me?

26. It is not done so in our Place, said Laban, to give the Younger before the First-born.

27. Fulfil the Week of this, and we will give thee that too, for the Service which thou shalt do with me yet seven other Years.

28. And Jacob did so, fulfilling her Week; when he gave him his Daughter Rachel for his Wife.

30. And he went in also to Rachel, whom he loved more than Leah; so he served with him again another seven Years.

31. Nevertheless the Lord seeing that Leah was slighted, he opened her Womb; but Rachel was barren.

32. And Leah conceiving, bore a Son, whom she named Reuben; Because the Lord, as she said, has looked on my Affliction, for now my Husband will love me.

33. She likewise conceived again, and was delivered of a Son, when she said, Because the Lord heard that I was slighted, therefore he has given me also this: so she named him Simeon.

34. Moreover she was again with child, bearing a Son, and said, Now this Time my Husband will be joined to me, because I have born him three Sons: therefore was he named Levi.

35. Afterwards she was breeding afresh, and brought forth a Son, saying, This time will I praise the Lord; therefore him she named Judah: then she staid from bearing.

CHAP. XXX.

AND when Rachel saw that she did not bear to Jacob, she envied her Sister; and said to him, Give me Children, or else I shall die.

2. Upon this Jacob was angry with her; and said, Am I in the Place of God, who with-holds from thee the Fruit of the Womb?

3. And she replied, There is my Handmaid Bilhah, go in to her; that she may bear children to be upon my Knees, and I also may be built up by her.

4. So she gave him Bilhah her Maid for a Wife, to whom Jacob going in;

5. She conceived, and brought him forth a Son.

6. Then Rachel said, God has judged me, and also hearkening to what I said, given me a Son: therefore she named him Dan.

7. Moreover Bilhah Rachel's Maid being with child again, bore Jacob the second Son.

8. At which Rachel said, With the Wrestlings of God have I wrestled with my Sister, I have also prevailed: so she named him Naphtali.

12. Besides Zilpah her Maid bore him the second Son.

13. Whereupon Leah said, It is for my Blessedness, for the Daughters will call me blessed: she therefore named him Asher.

14. And Reuben went in the Time of Wheat-harvest, and found Mandrakes in the Field, which he brought to Leah his Mother; with that Rachel said to her, Do give me some of thy Son's Mandrakes.

Ver. 14. Mandrakes] By Tynd. and the Bishops (as if the latter had not seen the Geneva Version, though printed eight Years before) Mandragoras from the Latin. Some think they were Apples, others Flowers; however from the original Word and Cant. vii. 13. may be gathered that they were lovely, at least in Smell. It has been imagined they were good to help Conception, to which Aben Ezra on this Place, אנוני לא ידעתי למח יעילו להריון בעבור שתולדותם קרה I know not how they should be profitable for Conception, because their Quality is cold. If they had such an Efficacy (which I look on as a fond Conceit) doubtless Leah would have kept them, since they had such Emulation for Children; and they would have got them otherwise, than by Reuben's finding them in such an accidental Manner.

15. To whom she thus uttered her self, Is it little for thee to take away my Husband, that thou wouldest also take my Son's Mandrakes? Then Rachel replied, Therefore he shall lie with thee to Night for them.

16. So when Jacob came out of the Field in the Evening, Leah went forth to meet him, and said, Thou must come in to me, for I have firmly hired thee with my Son's Mandrakes; accordingly he lay with her that Night.

17. And God hearkened to her; so that she conceived, and bore him the fifth Son.

18. Leah hereupon said, God has given me my Hire, because I gave my Maid to my Husband: thus she named him Issachar.

19. And she conceiving again, brought him forth the sixth Son.

20. Then said she, God has endowed me with a good Dowry; this Time will my Husband dwell with me, because I have born him six Sons: upon which she named him Zebulun.

21. And afterwards she was delivered of a Daughter, whom she named Dinah.

22. However God remembered Rachel, to whom he hearkened, and opened her Womb;

23. Inasmuch that she conceived, bringing forth a Son; and said, God has taken away my Reproach.

24. And she named him Joseph, saying, The Lord will add to me another Son.

25. At length when she was delivered of Joseph, Jacob said to Laban; Let me go, that I may depart to my Place at my own Country.

26. For which Purpose give me my Wives and Children, for whom I have served thee; since thou knowest my Service that I have done thee.

28. Fix thy Wages to me, continued he, and I will give it.

29. And he replied to him; Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how thy Cattle have been with me.

30. For it was Little which thou hadst before me, but it is increased to Abundance, and the Lord has blessed thee for my Foot: now therefore when shall I do also for my own Family?

31. Nevertheless he saying, What shall I give thee? Jacob answered; Thou shalt give me Nothing: if thou wilt do this Thing for me, I will again feed, and keep thy Flock.

32. Let me pass through them all to Day, taking away from thence every one of the spotted and pied Cattle, and all those that are black among the Sheep, with the pied and spotted among the Goats; afterwards let such be my Wages.

33. Thus will my Honesty testify for me henceforth, because it will be apparent to thee for my Wages: let every one that is with me, not spotted or pied among the Goats, and black among the Sheep, be for stolen.

34. And Laban said, Behold I desire it may be according to thy Proposal.

35. Therefore he took away that Day the He-goats which were ring-streaked and pied, and all the She-goats that were spotted and pied, every one on which there was any

Ib. Zebulun] Dwelling.

Ver. 24. Joseph] He will add.

Ver. 27. divined] The same Word is in Chap. xlv. 5. and is rendered in com. Translat. used Enchantments, 2 Kings xxi. 6. & xvii. 17. see also Lev. xix. 26. Deut. xviii. 10. Mercerus on Pagnin. writes, ubique in scriptura videtur in malam partem sumi, it seems to be taken every where in the Scripture in evil Part. Arias Mont. turns it like this, sum auguratus; and the Seventy, hymoráum. How could Laban learn by Experience that God had blessed him for Jacob's Sake; whatever he might, that it was by his Diligence and good Management? Much less how could Joseph learn so from or concerning his Cup?

Therefore the Word should be taken in its proper Meaning, to divine. The Targum has it, I have tried; as likewise Ab. Ezra, which he expounds, כי חוּלַן הָיָה לְקִרְאָת מַדְבָּרִים וְיֵשׁ לִי תַרְסִי for he was one who went to call Divinations, and had Teraphs; which, it appears, he kept to divine by, and not to worship, since he owns the true God here; of which see the next Chap. I have learned by Experience, is the old Latin experimento didici.

Ver. 30. for my Foot] The Septuagint render it closely by the same Expression, ἐν τῷ ποδί μου, which may be understood, for my going about in thy Business; as in the Bishops Bible, through my travayle: Aben Ezra expounds it, בְּעֵבֹר רַגְלִי by reason of my Foot; Sol. Jarbi, עִם רַגְלִי with my Foot; and others, at my Foot. Onkelos has בְּדִרְיָ for my Sake, the Words of Tyndal's and Coverdale's Translations; and Vatablus, mei causa, consonant to Ver. 27. 36. Nay he made three Days Journey between himself and Jacob; who fed the Flock of Laban that were left.

37. Afterwards Jacob took him Sticks of white Poplar, Hazel and Chesnut-tree; wherein he peeled white Places, to be bare in the Sticks.

38. These Sticks he placed before the Flock in the Inside of the Troughs of Water, at which they came to drink, and went then to ram.

39. And the Flock going to ram at the Sticks, brought forth Cattle ring-streaked, spotted and pied.

40. Jacob then separated the Lambs, and set the Face of the Flock towards the ring-streaked, and all the black in Laban's: thus he made him a Flock by themselves, not putting them to his.

41. And all the while the Flock went to ram when they were stout, he put the Sticks there in their Sight, that they might go to ram among them.

42. But when the Flock became weak, he did not put them: so the weak were Laban's, and the stout ones Jacob's.

43. This Man too increased exceeding much; having a great Flock, with Servant-maids, Men, Camels and Asses.

C H A P. XXXI.

WHEREUPON he heard the following Words of Laban's Sons, Jacob has taken all that belonged to our Father; and of what was his has he gotten all this grandeur.

2. Nay he saw plainly that Laban's Countenance was not to him as in Time past.

3. The Lord also said to him, Go back to the Country of thy Fathers, and to thy Kindred; and I will be with thee.

4. Therefore Jacob sent for Rachel and Leah, into the Field to his Flock.

5. To whom he said: I see that your Father's Look to me is not as it used to be; moreover the God of my Father has been with me.

6. And you know that with all my Might I have served your Father.

7. Yet he has deluded me, and changed my Wages ten times; but God did not suffer him to hurt me.

8. When he said that the spotted should be my Wages, the whole Flock brought forth spotted ones; and when he said that the ring-streaked should, they all brought forth ring-streaked.

9. So that God took away your Father's Cattle, and gave to me.

Ver. 38. went to ram] This is the Meaning of the Word, and what we call it. Jun. and Montan. translate it by the Verb incalisco, to be heated or inflamed, i. e. with the Desire of the Ram; which is the same. The Time for which was, when they had filled themselves with Feeding, were watered, and kept there at Rest. Those Creatures beholding such an unusual Sight in the Water, which might be more strange by its Motion while they were drinking, it had the intended Effect; though not without the special Assistance, as well as Direction, of Providence, Chap. xxxi. 9, 10, 11, 12.

Ver. 42. became weak] The Word is in Hiphil, overwhelmed, made weak or faint. When the Heat of their going to ram was over, or as our ancient Versions say, in the latter buckynge tyme, it seems Jacob did not put the Sticks: which agrees with the Translations of Pag. Montan. Jun. and Trem. Tyndal. Coverdale, the old Lat. and French Vers. Chald. Targ. Aquila & Symmachus, Buxt. in Lexic. Leigh in Crit. Sacr. Mede's Discourse 45. Hieron. in Tradit. Hebr. and Ab. Ezra in his Annotat. on this Place.

Ver. 10. He-goats] When our Translators changed this into Rams, it is likely they had forgot that Jacob was to have the brown (as they call them) among the Sheep, and such as had diverse Colours only among the Goats; see Chap. xxx. 35. and are Rams speckled, &c.

16. For all the Riches which God has taken from our Father, are ours and our Children's: now therefore do all that God has said to thee.

17. Accordingly Jacob got ready, and carried his Children and Wives upon Camels.

18. He likewise had away all his Cattle and Substance that he had gotten, particularly the Cattle in Padan-aram; to go to Isaac his Father, into the Country of Canaan.

19. Laban also being gone to shear his Sheep, Rachel stole her Father's Teraphs.

20. And Jacob stole away unknown to this Syrian, without telling him that he fled.

21. Thus fled he, with all that he had, getting ready, and passing over the River, and directly on for Mount Gilead.

22. And it was told Laban on the third Day, that Jacob was fled away.

23. He therefore taking his Kinsmen with him, pursued after him by a Journey of seven Days, whom he overtook on that Mountain.

24. But God coming to the same in a Dream by Night, says to him, Take heed that thou dost not speak to Jacob from Good to Evil.

25. And when Laban overtook him, who had pitched his Tent on the Mountain, he with his Kinsmen pitched there too.

26. Then he said to Jacob; What hast thou done, for thee to steal away unknown to me, and have away my Daughters like Captives with the Sword?

27. Why didst thou flee away secretly, and leave me by stealth; without telling me, that I might have sent thee away with Mirth and Songs, with the Timbrel and Harp?

28. Nor didst thou suffer me to kiss my Sons and Daughters: thou hast now done foolishly in acting thus.

29. There is Power in my Hand to do you hurt; but the God of your Father said to me last Night, that I should take care of speaking to Jacob from Good to Evil.

30. But now since thou art quite gone, because thou earnestly longedst after thy Father's House; why didst thou steal my gods?

31. And Jacob made answer to him; It was because I was afraid, lest thou shouldest, as I thought, take thy Daughters from me by force.

32. Let him not live with whom thou findest thy gods; own before our Relations what is thine with me, and take to thee: for he did not know that Rachel had stolen them.

Hos. iii. 4. Zech. x. 2.* That they were Images in human Shape, appears by 1 Sam. xix. Levi ben Gersom also writes in his Commentaries on this Chap. התראפין הם על צורת אדם כמו שנראה במכיל בת שוול The Teraphs were in the Form of Men, as may be seen by Michal Saul's Daughter; and Aben Ezra, הקרוב אלי שהתראפין הם על צורת בני אדם It is likely to me that the Teraphs were in the Form of Mankind. Next that they were consulted to find out unknown Things, Ezek. xxi. 21. & Zech. x. 2. inform us, as likewise the following Testimonies of the Jewish Writers, viz. David Kimhi on 2 Kings xxiii. התראפין הם צלמים עשויים לדעת עתידות The Teraphs were Images to make known future Things; and to the same Purpose in the Book of Rosh; Behai on this Chap. דעת הרמב"ן בתראפין The Opinion of Ramban (another of their Authors) concerning the Teraphs is, that they were used in Divination to know Things to come; or according as Sol. Jarbi phrases it on Hos. iii. בגידן ועלמות they declared hidden Things; of which Mind was also Jonathan the Chaldees Paraphrast. 3dly, That Rachel stole them, lest Laban should enquire concerning their going away, we have the Judgment of Eliezer, an ancient and famous Writer, who in his פרקי i. e. Chapters, has these Words, Chap. 36. נבנתם רחל שלא יגידו ללבן שברתם יעקב שברתם יעקב Rachel stole them, that they might not declare to Laban, that Jacob was fled; or rather as Aben Ezra says further on this Place, שאביה יסתכל במולות לערת אי because her Father would look on the Signs or Planets to know which Way they were fled. I would also remark, that though Teraphim be a plural Word, yet one of those Images, as well as more, were called by this Name, like Baalim, &c. Michal put a Teraphim in the Bed instead of David, which doubtless was not more than one Image, though Laban might keep more: for the Word, like some others, is never used in the singular Number, even when it denotes but one Thing; thus Sol. Jar. explains the Word singularly on Ezek. xxi. 21. צלם שמדבר במכשפות it is an Image speaking by magick Art. Ælfric, in his Saxon Version of the 10th Century, calls them hathenan Godas: yet the Author of Bibl. Bib. reckons the stealing them to be Sacrilege, and therefore punishable with Death.

Ver. 24. from Good to Evil] Munster writes, Hebraismus est, pro, cave ne aliud quippiam loquaris cum eo, nisi quod bonum est: It is a Hebraism, for, Take care that thou speak not any thing to him, besides what is good. Onkelos, Pagnin. Ainsw. and the French Vers. have it thus literally; Tyndal, with the Genov. Bib. ought save good; and Coverdale, but good. When it is good or evil, the Heb. has also or between, Chap. xxiv. 30.

Ver. 25. there too] it being the same Mountain.

Ver. 29. your Father] Isaac, who was now a Father to Jacob's Wives.

Ver. 33. as well as] Doubtless Laban retained that small Degree of Civility to search the Handmaids Tent first; however, his going out of Leah's Tent into Rachel's, makes it clear. From hence may be seen the Need of a proper Choice of Particles in translating; the Want of which has often produced Errors and Absurdities in our Bible, as well as almost continual Flatness in the Reading.

maids, but did not find them: then going out of Leah's Tent, he went into Rachel's.

34. Now she had taken the Teraphs, and putting them in the Camels Furniture, sat upon them; so that he searched all the Tent, and did not find them.

35. Besides she said to her Father, Let it not be displeasing in the Sight of my Lord, that I cannot rise up from before thee, because I am after the manner of Women: so he searched about, without finding the Teraphs.

36. Incensed at that, Jacob chid him, with the following Expressions: What is my Crime? what my Sin, that thou hast pursued after me?

37. Whereas thou hast searched all my Goods, what thou hast found of all that of thy House, put here before my Kinsmen and thine; and let them determine betwixt us both.

38. These twenty Years that I have been with thee, thy Ewes and She-goats have not cast their Young; nor have I eat the Rams of thy Flock.

39. I did not bring what was torn to thee, I made satisfaction for it, of me didst thou require it; being stolen either by Day or Night.

40. I have been with the Heat consuming me in the Day, and the Frost in the Night; and my Sleep fled away from my Eyes.

41. This is to me twenty Years in thy House; I served thee fourteen for thy two Daughters, and six for thy Flock: but thou hast altered my Wages ten times.

42. Unless the God of my Father, the God of Abraham, and he whom Isaac fears had been for me, thou wouldest now send me away empty: God seeing my Affliction, and the Labour of my Hands, reproved thee last Night.

43. And Laban makes answer to him; The Daughters are my Daughters, the Children my Children, and the Flock my Flock, nay all that thou seest is mine; what then should I do to these my own Daughters to Day, or to their Children whom they bore?

44. Therefore now come, let us both make an Agreement; and let there be a Witness between me and thee.

45. With that Jacob took a Stone, and set it up for a Pillar.

46. He also bade his Kinsmen gather Stones; which accordingly they took, and made a Heap, and they eat there-upon it.

47. And Laban called it Jegar-sahadutha, as Jacob did Galed.

48. Moreover Laban said, Let this Heap be a Witness between me and thee to Day; therefore the Name of it was called Galed:

49. And Mizpah, because he said, The Lord watch betwixt me and thee, when we are out of one another's Sight.

50. If thou shalt afflict my Daughters, or if thou takest Wives besides them; see there will be Nobody with us, but God, a Witness betwixt me and thee.

51. He said further to Jacob; Behold this Heap, and lo the Pillar, which I have thrown up between me and thee:

52. Let both one, and the other, be a Witness; that I will neither pass beyond it to thee, nor thou beyond them to me, for Hurt.

53. The God both of Abraham and Nahor judge between us, the God of their Father. But Jacob swore by him whom his Father Isaac feared.

Ver. 35. from before thee] "As, says Poole, the Words in the Hebrew sound, i. e. so as to give way to him, that he might come and search there for the Images: "Because monstrous Women were anciently esteemed polluted, and to pollute the Things which they touched, or sat upon." I may add, the Reason she gives would not hinder her rising up only.

Ver. 36. Crime] Ainsworth says, it is in degree greater than Sin, id est than common Sin, as Crime is according to Jobn's Dict.

Ib. pursued] The Word may also signify kindled or burnt, but not both together.

Ver. 38. Ewes] An Ewe in Heb. is Rabel, the same Name with Jacob's Wife.

Ib. cast their Young] By being misused.

Ib. nor have I eat] A good Lesson for spiritual Shepherds; who are to have their Reward from the Master, and not from the Flock.

Ver. 40. Heat] as all the Translations have it besides the pres. English, and that also in Isai. iv. 6. & xxxv. 4. 5. Job. xxx. 30. Jer. xxxvi. 30. which last is a parallel Text, and Heat an opposite Term to Frost, which is cold.

Ver. 42. be whom Isaac fears] as Commentators agree the Meaning is. But the Remark of Grotius, that non dicit Deus Isaaci, quia vivebat adhuc Isaac; he does not say the God of Isaac, because he was yet alive, is shewn to be quite wrong by Chap. xxxii. 9.

Ib. thou wouldest] That the Heb. ki signifies surely, does not appear to me; nor is it requisite as belonging to unless or except, but rather for Translation an Expletive, as left out after as the Lord lives, &c. in the pres. Version. Here it might be [that] with I declare, suppose, or assert, it seems, or it is certain, added in before it; see the like, Chap. xliii. 10. 2 Sam. ii. 27. and in the latter, surely makes an Anticlimax after an Oath.

Ver. 44. both] for I and thou are not only the wrong Case, but the second Person is not allowable with let Imper.

Ver. 47. Laban called it in Syriack, and Jacob in Hebrew, The Heap of Witness.

Ver. 49. Mizpah] a Watch-tower.

Ver. 50. Nobody—a Witness] For what is, no Man is with us?

Ver. 51. thrown up] By throwing the Stones together.

Ver. 53. the God of their Father] The Author of the State of the printed Hebrew Text represents this to be an Interpolation, because Terah was an Idolater; but as Laban who said it was such a one himself, Ver. 30. that is more for its being authentick: the Greek Translator however seems to have stumbled at it in this

54. Besides

54. Besides he offered Sacrifice on the Mountain, and invited his Relations to eat some Victuals: which having done, they lodged there.

55. And Laban rising early in the Morning, kissed his Sons and Daughters, and blessed them: then he went away back to his Place.

C H A P. XXXII.

JACOB too went on his Way, and the Angels of God met him.

2. And he said at his seeing them, This is the Camp of God; so he called the Name of that Place Mahanaim.

3. Then he sent Messengers before him to Esau his Brother, into the Country of Seir, the Region of Edom.

4. Whom he commanded as follows: In this manner shall you address my Lord Esau; Thus says thy Servant Jacob, I have so-journed with Laban, and staid till now.

5. I also having Oxen, Asses and Flocks, with Servant-men and Maids; have sent to tell my Lord, that I may be in Favour with thee.

6. And the Messengers brought him back Word, We came to thy Brother Esau, who also is coming to meet thee, accompanied with four hundred Men.

7. Exceedingly afraid, and in distress at this, Jacob parts the People who were with him, as likewise the Flocks, Herds and Camels, into two Companies.

8. For says he, If Esau should come to one Company, and smite it, there will be another left to escape.

9. Moreover he said; O God both of my Father Abraham and Isaac, the Lord who saidst to me, Go back to thy own Country and Kindred, and I will do well for thee;

10. I was too mean for all the Favours and Truth which thou hast shewn to thy Servant: for I passed over this Jordan with my Staff, and now am become two Companies.

11. Deliver me, I beseech thee, from the Power of my Brother Esau: for I am afraid that he will come, and kill me, and the Mother with the Children.

12. Whereas thou saidst, I will deal exceeding well with thee, and make thy Offspring as the Sand of the Sea, which cannot be counted up for Multitude.

13. He then lodging there that Night, took of what he had ready at Hand, for a Present to Esau his Brother;

14. Two hundred She-goats and twenty He-goats, two hundred Ewes and twenty Rams,

15. Thirty Milch-camels with their young ones, forty Cows and ten Bulls, twenty She-asses and ten Colts.

16. Which he delivered; each Drove by it self, into the Custody of his Servants; and said to them, Go over before me, and put a Space between one Drove and another.

17. He further gave the first this Command; When my Brother Esau meets thee, and makes enquiry of thee, Whose art thou? And whither art thou going? And whose are these before thee?

18. Then do thou say, Thy Servant Jacob's; it is a Present sent to my Lord Esau: and behold he too is behind us.

19. And thus he commanded likewise the second, and the third, nay all that went after the Drovers, You shall make such a Speech as this to Esau, when you meet with him;

20. And particularly say, Lo thy Servant Jacob is behind us: for he said, I will pacify him with the Present which goes before me, and after that I will see him; who perhaps will accept me.

21. Accordingly the Present passed over before him, and he lodged that Night in the Camp.

22. But rising up the same Night, he took his two Wives and two Handmaids, with his eleven Sons, and went over the Passage of Jabbok.

23. And when he had taken them, and had them over the Brook, as also made what he had pass over;

24. Being left alone himself, there was a Man wrestled with him till break of Day.

Situation, and so omitted it; as also the Samaritan, and so turning the γ into γ made again the God of Abraham; which may prove more satisfactory to some, than that by the forementioned Author, in Stat. Ec. p. 368—371.

Ver. 2. Mahanaim] which is The two Camps, namely the Angels and his own.

Ver. 10. too mean for all] Going on foot with a Staff did not shew him to be unworthy of the least of all, Ec. though it might too mean, as he thought, for all those Riches and Favours he enjoyed.

Ver. 13. of what he had ready] viz. of the Cattle, the Goods being packed up.

Ver. 16. a Space] It was the most likely Method to pacify Esau, to send him several Presents one after another; allowing him a convenient Time between, for his Anger to subside.

Ver. 20. particularly] not moreover, it being said before, Ver. 18.

Ib. see him] The Heb. having Face to pacify, goes, and accept, as well as here.

Ib. accept me] Tynd. receive me to grace.

Ver. 22. Passage] Mababar, a Passage, is derived of babar, to pass, which it here follows. Jabbok is spoken of Deut. iii. 16.

25. Who seeing that he did not prevail over him, struck the Hollow of Jacob's Thigh; so that it was sprained in his wrestling with him.

26. And he said, Let me go, for it is break of Day; but Jacob answered, I will not, except thou bless me.

27. Upon this he enquired of him, What is thy Name? Who answering, Jacob:

28. He replied, Thy Name shall not be called Jacob henceforth, but Israel: for thou art like a Prince both with God and Men, and prevailest.

29. Jacob asked in like manner, Vouchsafe to tell thy Name; but he said, Why dost thou ask for mine? However he blessed him there.

30. So Jacob called the Name of the Place Peniel: for I saw God, said he, Face to Face, and yet my Life was delivered.

31. And the Sun rose to him as he passed through Peniel, being lame on his Thigh.

32. Therefore the Israelites do not eat of the displaced Sinew, which is upon the Hollow of the Thigh, to this Day; because he struck the Hollow of Jacob's Thigh, on that Sinew.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND when Jacob looking up, saw plainly that Esau was coming, and the four hundred Men with him, he divided the Children to Leah, Rachel, and the two Handmaids.

2. Which latter he put with their Children foremost, and next Leah with hers, as likewise Rachel and Joseph hindermost.

3. Before whom he went on, and bowed down to the Ground seven times, till he came nigh to his Brother.

4. At this Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and falling on his Neck, kissed him; and they wept.

5. Then looking up, he saw the Women and Children, and said, Who are these that thou hast? The Children, answered he, with which God has favoured thy Servant.

6. Next the Handmaids drew nigh, with their Children, and bowed down.

7. Afterwards Leah also approached with hers, bowing down; as did Joseph and Rachel the same behind.

8. And he said, What dost thou mean by all that Company which I met? It was, answered he, to be in Favour with my Lord.

9. But Esau replied, I have Plenty; my Brother, let what thou hast be for thy self.

10. Nevertheless Jacob said; No, I beseech thee, if now I am in thy Favour, receive my Present from me; for therefore have I seen thy Face as I should the Face of God, and thou hast accepted me.

Ver. 25. Hollow] the Inside; so Tynd. says, under the thye. The Bish. have it bucklebone.

Ib. sprained] not out of joint, because a Sinew has none, Ver. 32. nor could he have walked with his Thigh out of joint, Ver. 31.

Ver. 28. Thy Name shall not &c.] See this finely changed in Heb. Ch. xxxv. 10.

Ib. henceforth] as וְיִי properly signifies, which softens the Negation to mean not usually, or as before; he being called Jacob in the next Verse. But the Amendment proposed in Stackhouse, "by rendering the Words, instead of no more, not only, or not so much Jacob, as Israel;" is foreign to the Heb.

Ib. Israel] signifies as here explained, He is like a Prince with God.

Ib. prevailest] which might principally consist, as to the latter, in his getting the Birth-right and Blessing from Esau; but he had now overcome Laban, and him again, as it appears by his respectful Message to him, Ch. xxxii. 4, 5. so that Esau ran to meet him with Embraces, Ch. xxxiii. 4. to which two Sol. Jar. applies it. Some noted modern Commentators finding some ancient Versions to that Purpose, would have a Pause at God, that the Verse might conclude thus, and with Men thou shalt also prevail; taking it for an Encouragement to Jacob, that he should prevail over his Brother: for which the Vision of the Angels with him might be, Chap. xxxii. 1, 2. and this to inform him that his Message had good Effect, tho' it then seemed otherwise by Esau being coming with 400 Men, which might be but for Grandeur and Security. But it is the Heb. it self convinces me, which has only the little Accent Tevir at Elohim, God, not a proper Pause for their Meaning, as their also is a very odd rendering of וְ in such a Situation with a Noun, and another וְ before it: also would have been properly וְ in the Original, and put with the וְ at the Beginning of it. But Bedford says, the Verb for prevail is in the future Tense, Scrip. Chron. Lib. iii. 4. 108. whereas he might have known that the prefixed וְ gives it the Signification of the Preterperfect; usually answering to our present Tense, as the Heb. has none, which Tense is here directed by the foregoing Verb art, &c. and may serve for both past and future. As for Onkelos, upon Examination, I find Shuckford has mistaken him as well as the Heb. whose Targum is in the same manner; nay has translated or quoted him manifestly wrong, without the Pretence of etiam, Connect. Lib. vii. The other two Versions alleged are very wide and incorrect.

Ver. 30. Peniel] The Face of God.

Ver. 32. Israelites] So I render, as the proper Sense of the Heb. in our Language; and if otherwise, it would be Sons instead of Children, as several translate. How incoherently do children stand together, Exod. xii. 37? And how strange in this Case to our manner of Expression?

Ib. displaced] nashah of the Root nashah, he forget or borrowed, is thus expounded by Sol. Jar. ולמה נקרא שכן ונחמה נקרא שכן ונחמה נקרא שכן and why is the Name of it called gid hannasheh, a displaced Sinew? Because it had forgot its Place. Or borrowed may signify changed. Pagnin. says, נָשָׂה est Recedere, removere, & oblivisci: ac si oblivisceretur loci sui, & ab illo recederet, i. e. nashah is far, to depart, remove and forget; as if it forgot its Place and departed from it.

Ver. 5. thou hast] the proper Meaning of the Heb. ידומה Participle.

Ver. 10. as I should the Face of God] That is with Fear and Reverence. Some have translated it terribly, as if Jacob compared wicked Esau's Face to the Face of God,

11. Take my Blessing, I pray, which is brought to thee, since God has favoured me, and since it is all my own: and he pressed him so much, that he took it.

12. Who said, Let us march, and get on; and I will go before thee.

13. To whom he pleaded; My Lord knows that the Children are tender, and the Flocks and Herds which I have with Young; and when they beat them along one Day, all the Flock will die.

14. Let my Lord, I pray, pass on before his Servant; whilst I lead on gently, according to the Pace of the Cattle which are before me, and that of the Children, till I come to my Lord at Seir.

15. However Esau said, Let me place with thee, I pray, some of the People who are with me; but he rejoined, Why should that be? Let me be in Favour with my Lord.

16. So Esau went back the same Day in his Way to Seir.

17. Whereas Jacob marched to Succoth, and built him a House; he also making Booths for his Cattle, therefore called the Name of the Place Succoth.

18. At length he arrived peaceably at the City of Shechem, which is in the Country of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and encamped before the City.

19. Besides he bought Part of a Field, where he pitched his Tent, of the Sons of Hamor the Father of Shechem, for a hundred Lambs.

which he had seen a little before, Chap. xxxii. 30. There is no though nor if to lead them into such an Expression; but the Words singly, or asunder are, as Montanus renders them, ut videre faciem Dei, at to see the Face of God.

Ver. 11. it is all my own] Thus construed, it is, to me, of me, mine, or my own, &c. all: which to render I have enough, after rendering a different Expression of another Meaning by the same, Ver. 9. shews no great Skill; see Gell's Essay, p. 173.

Ver. 13. knows—with young] By the Time of the Year: for to have told this to Esau at another Time, would have been known not to be true.

Ver. 14. gently] Tynd. sayre and softly.

Ver. 15. place] as Servants in different Stations.

Ver. 17. Succoth] is in Heb. Booths.

Ver. 18. peaceably] Having all Things well; as Buxtorf explains it, cujus res omnes integra & salva sunt. It comes from the Verb shalam, to have peace or be peaceable, and is the same Word singular with that in Chap. xxxiv. 21. Tyndal and Coverdale, with Lightfoot in Harm. of Old Test. have rendered it as here; the Genev. Bib. and Ainsw. have safe, the English of incolumis in the Tigurin and Pagnine's Translation, with that of Jun. and Trem. the French Vers. sain & sauf, safe and sound, agreeable to the two Targums, Sol. Jar. Ab. Ez. and other Jewish Writers. If Shalam had been a City of Shechem, the latter would have been a Country; whereas we find it was a Place, Chap. xxxv. 4. Josh. xxiv. 1, 32. 1 Kings xii. 1. Peaceably may have Reference to Jacob's Deliverance from Esau, and also to the Troubles which afterwards befel Dinah and his other Children.

1b. Shechem] See concerning it on Josh. viii. 33.

Ver. 19. Part of a Field] The Patriarche would not buy much Land; where God had given it all to them.

1b. Lambs] The Word is but in two other Places of the Scripture, viz. Josh. xxiv. 32. & Job xlii. 11. The Moderns have sometimes an Advantage beyond the Ancients, in understanding some Passages of divine Writ, by their being more sifted and considered; but for the Signification of particular Words we are almost wholly indebted to the old Writers, when the Assistance of other Texts is wanting. The Greek Version of the Seventy Interpreters, the first that is known to be made, which was publicly received almost 300 Years before the Birth of Christ, has the Words translated inardē dūmō, a hundred Lambs: Onkelos, said to be cotemporary with Gamaliel, the Apostle Paul's Master, in his Chaldee Targum, which the Jews esteem almost equal to the Original, renders it likewise למדין מדין the same; whom the old Lat. Translator follows with centum agnis; as also Arias Montanus, with our Tyndal and Ainsworth; and Broughton pleads for it in two Places, which I have read in his Works, acquainting us further that Sadaia has the same in his Arabick Transl. &c. Moreover Abraham Aben Ezra in his Commentaries on Job, expounds למדין קטנה on Ewe-lamb, one of which each of Job's Friends gave him: and why not as well as Money, since they gave him Gold besides? To poor People other Things are frequently given instead of Money in our Times. They might easily carry each of them a Lamb, which might be fit to bring forth others by that Time Job was settled in his Business, and provided with all other Necessaries which the Gold had procured him. The Fancy that a Lamb was stamped on the Money is idle, Coining being long after, as Stackhouse shews at the End of his Pref. to Hist. Bibl. which Herodotus speaks of as invented by the Lydians, Lib. i. p. 18. and we find the Silver weighed, Chap. xxiii. 16. Jer. xxxii. 9, 10. But it is still more unlikely that there was the same Coin both in Canaan and Arabia. Peole and Patrick object to this Interpretation, Acts vii. 16. the Translation of which Text they should first have cleared from Error and Obscurity: for it is certain, 1st, that Jacob was not carried over into Sychem, and laid in the Sepulchre there, by Gen. xlix. 29, 30. & i. 12, 13. 2d, that it was not Abraham bought the Sepulchre at Sychem, of the Sons of Hamor, the Father of Sychem, by the Passage now before us. But that Verse in Acts might be truly rendered thus from the original Greek, And these (or the latter, i. e. Jacob's Sons, agreeable to Josh. xxiv. 32.) were carried over to Sychem, and they were put into a Sepulchre, he into that which Abraham bought for a Price of Silver (as Gen. xxxiii. 16.) these into that which was from the Sons of Hamor of Sychem. This Distinction may also be perceived from the Words he and our Fathers in the foregoing Verse. Stephen, speaking according to the Version of the Septuagint then in Use, as is evident by the Number in Ver. 14. the Names in Ver. 16. Yesterday, Ver. 28. and by Ver. 43. comp. with Amos v. 26. agreeing with the Greek, and being different from the Heb. Bible; could not mean from thence that the Purchase here mentioned was made with Money, because the Greek has plainly Lambs as before. Such a manner of Expression see Psal. cxxxiii. 3. where the Relative is to be understood and formed in like sort. Were Money understood, there is to be examined what the Pieces were, which the Heb. Writers of this Opinion (as Seb. Munster informs us in his Notes) expound by הקדש a Half-penny, the Value likewise that Buxtorf gives it in his great Chald. Talm. and Rab. Dictionary; but who can think the Land was bought for fifty Pence? This ancient Way of buying may be also supposed, by the Name pecunia for Money, coming from pecus, Sheep or Cattle, as Colum. in his Preface observes it does. This Way of Purchase by Cattle may be seen in the ancient Writings of Homer, 20. Where he set up an Altar, and called it God's the God of Israel's.

C H A P. XXXIV.

BUT Dinah the Daughter of Leah, whom she bore to Jacob, going forth to see the Daughters of the Country;

2. Shechem the Son of Hamor the Hivite, Prince of the Country, saw her; who took her, and lying with her, humbled her.

3. Nay his Mind cleaved so to her, and he loved the Girl so much, that he not only spoke kindly to her;

4. But also spoke to Hamor his Father, to get him that young Woman for a Wife.

5. Now Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his Daughter, while his Sons were with his Cattle in the Field; so he held his peace till they came.

6. And Hamor the Father of Shechem went out to Jacob, to speak with him.

7. His Sons also came out of the Field as soon as they heard it, and the Men were not only grieved, but enraged exceedingly; because he had done Vileness in Israel, to lie with Jacob's Daughter, when such a Thing should not be done.

8. Then Hamor spoke thus to them; My Son Shechem has a love in his mind for your Daughter; give him her, I pray, for a Wife.

9. And be you kin to us by marriage; give us your Daughters, and take ours.

10. So shall you dwell with us; and the Country shall be before you, to inhabit, and merchandise there, nay to have possession in it.

11. Shechem likewise said to her Father and Brothers; Let me get in Favour with you; and whatever you shall charge on me, I will give.

12. Make the Dowry and Gift to me ever so much, yet will I give as you tell me; but grant me the Girl for a Wife.

13. However Jacob's Sons answered him and his Father deceitfully, when they spoke, because he had defiled Dinah their Sister,

14. Saying to them; We cannot do this Thing to give our Sister to a Man who is uncircumcised; for it would be a Reproach to us.

15. Only in this we will consent to you: if you will be like us, every Male of you to be circumcised;

16. We will give you our Daughters, and take us yours, as also dwell with you, and be one People.

17. But if you will not hearken to us, to be circumcised; we will take our Daughter, and go.

18. And Hamor liked their Words, as did Shechem his Son.

19. Inasmuch that the young Man did not delay to do the Thing, because he de-relating what was done a considerable while before, ll. 6.

*For Diomed's brass Arms, of mean Device,
For which nine Oxen paid (a vulgar Price)
He gave his own, of Gold divinely wrought,
A hundred Bees the shining Purchase bought, Pope's Tran.*

So also near the End of the 7th Book; and about the Middle of the 23d, where Idomeneus at a Race offers to lay a Wager of a Tripod or a Kettle; whom Virgil follows in his Pastorals; see also Odyss. 1. at End.

Ver. 20. God's] as it ought to be translated; and is done in this manner by Jun. and Trem. there being the like Chap. xxxv. 7. Exod. xvii. 15. Judg. vi. 24. where look.

Ver. 1. whom] Here is the Heb. asher, therefore which should not be put in the Italick Letter.

lb. going forth to see] Manifold have been the Evils of young People taking too much Liberty. There is great Danger in overmuch Conversation with the World, which lies in Wickedness, 1 John v. 19. and though Parents, well established in the Truth and divine Grace, may receive no Hurt in their necessary Commerce and Business, it may be far otherwise with their Children in their unnecessary Visits, and getting Acquaintance; and Sin once entered, is hard to be cast out. It appears little at first, but soon becomes too great to be conquered. Eve looked on the Tree which she was forbid to meddle with, Dinah went to see the Daughters of the Country, and David took a little Tour of Pleasure on the Roof. Such may be counted small Matters, perhaps nothing amiss with Some; but how great Wickedness did those produce! and how terrible were the Consequences of them! On the other hand they who would know a growing in Righteousness, and desire to obtain the divine Favour, must be faithful in the very least Matters, most especially when it is particularly required of them. Lea's Wife for looking back, when she was prohibited, was turned into a Pillar of Salt. I thought it my Duty to mention those Things together, that they might be of more Service, and shall conclude it with a valuable Exhortation in פרקי אבות The Chapters of the Fathers, Ch. 2. הוי זהיר במצות קלה כבחמורה Be as cautious in a light Command as in a weighty one; and the following in Wm. Tyndal's Obedience of a Christian Man (a Book well worthy to be reprinted) Let the Fathers and Mothers mark how they themselves were disposed at all Ages, and by Experience of their own (I add or others) Infirmities, help their Children, and keep them from Occasions.

Ver. 2. humbled] debased and made ashamed. The Heb. Word has several Significations (but not defiled) of which the 70 Interpreters have chosen this: so Ainsworth also turns it, and our Translators themselves elsewhere, as in Deut. xxi. 14. & xxii. 24, 29. Judg. xix. 24. Ezek. xxii. 10, 11. The Chaldee and some other Versions read afflicted.

Ver. 7. Vileness] It springs from a Root signifying to make vile. Onkelas has it, קלל the Septuagint, δογμα, and the Vulg. Lat. Copy, fordam; which are much of the same Signification. The Hebrews also denote a dead Corpse or Carcase with the same Letters. Some turn it Lewdness, others Villany; but none Folly besides our Eng. Translators.

Ver. 10. have possession] a Verb.

Ver. 14. Reproach] Gen. reproofs, as if by Mistake.

Ver. 16. We will] This has no Pronoun or Auxiliary to the Verb here in Heb. notwithstanding the King's Translators have so often and so dully repeated it.

lighted in Jacob's Daughter; and he was the most honourable of all his Father's Family.

20. For they both went to the Gate of their City, and spoke to their Citizens as follows:

21. These Men are peaceable with us, and would dwell in the Country, and merchandise in it, which behold is of a large Space before them; let us take us their Daughters for Wives, and give them ours.

22. Only in this they will consent to us, to dwell with us to be one People; by every Male of us being circumcised, as they are.

23. Will not their Cattle, Possession, and all their Beasts, be ours? Only we must consent to them, that they may dwell with us.

24. Accordingly to them hearkened all who went out of the Gate of that City, and were every Male of them circumcised.

25. But on the third Day when they were in Pain, two of Jacob's Sons, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's Brothers, taking each his Sword, came upon the City confidently, and killed every Male.

26. In particular they put Hamor, and his Son Shechem to the Sword, and took Dinah out from Shechem's House.

27. Jacob's Sons coming upon the Slain, did also plunder the City, because they had defiled their Sister.

28. They took their Sheep, Oxen and Asses, with that which was in the City, as well as what was in the Field.

29. Moreover all their Wealth, Children and Wives, they took prisoners, and plundered; with every thing that was in the House.

30. Whereupon Jacob complained to Simeon and Levi, You have troubled me, to make me odious among the Inhabitants of the Country, the Canaanites and Perizzites: for I having few Persons, they may gather up against me, and smite me; so shall I and my Family be destroyed.

31. To which they said, Should he treat our Sister like a Whore?

AND God commanded Jacob, Get ready, go up to Beth-el, and there dwell; as also make there an Altar to God who appeared to thee, when thou fleddest from the Presence of thy Brother Esau.

2. Upon which he said to his Family, and all that were with him; Put away the gods of the Strangers which are among you, be clean, and change your Garments;

3. That we may get ready, and go up to Beth-el: for I shall make there an Altar to God, who answered me in the Time of my Distress, and was with me in the Way which I went.

4. Accordingly they gave him all the gods of the Strangers that were in their Custody, and the Ear-rings that were in their Ears; which he hid under an Oak that was at Shechem.

5. And as they marched, the Terror of God was so upon the Cities which were round about them, that they did not pursue after the Sons of Jacob.

6. So he arrives at Luz, that is in the Country of Canaan, which is Beth-el, and all the People who were with him.

7. Where he built an Altar, and called the Place The God of Beth-el's; because there God was revealed to him, when he fled from the Presence of his Brother.

8. Now Deborah Rebekah's Nurse died, and was buried below Beth-el under an Oak; the Name of which was called The Oak of Weeping.

9. And God appeared to Jacob again, as he was coming from Padan-aram, and blessed him.

10. For he said to him, Thy Name being Jacob, it shall not henceforth be called so, but Israel shall be thy Name: thus he named him Israel.

11. God further told him; I am God Almighty; be fruitful, and multiply: a Nation and an Assembly among the Nations shall be of thee, and Kings shall proceed forth from thy self.

Ver. 21. would dwell] on the following Condition; whereas let them dwell implies what does not appear, that the Natives would have hindered their dwelling there.

Ver. 23. Possession] So Onkelos, Munster, Junius and Montanus turn it.

Ver. 25. in Pain] The Chald. Paraphrast says, Cad tekphu halehon chebelon, when their Pains became strong upon them; the Septuagint have en to pene, in Pain.

1b. every Male] Tynd. and Bish. all that was male.

Ver. 29. Children] So in the com. Transf. Deut. xxxi. 12. Jer. xli. 16. & xliii. 6. and little Children, Ezek. ix. 6.

Ver. 2, 4. Strangers] the Shechemites, Chap. xxxiv. 28, 29.

Ver. 4. at] The Heb. bim commonly signifies with, and so Montan. renders it here. The 70 translate in, Pagnin. and Castal. at by apud and ad.

Ver. 8. Nurse] She seems to have been Nurse to Rebekah, her Children and Grandchildren; look Ch. xxiv. 59. going perhaps to Jacob after Rebekah's Death.

Ver. 11. among] as the Genitive Case in Heb. may signify, and even an Assembly of the Nations might obscurely. By Assembly, or Congregation, then I understand an united uniform People, not like the Gentiles, 2 Kings xvii. 29, 33. besides the Israelites assembling thrice a Year at Jerusalem.

12. As for the Country which I gave Abraham and Isaac, I give it to thee, and to thy Offspring after thee will I give the same.

13. Then God ascended from him, in the Place where he spoke with him.

14. In which Place Jacob set up a Pillar of Stone, and poured both a Drink-offering and Oil upon it.

15. He also called the Name of the Place, where God spoke with him, Beth-el.

16. Next they marched from thence, and there being yet about a Mile to come to Ephrath, Rachel was in labour, and it was difficult for her to be delivered.

17. However when she was in her hard labour, the Midwife says to her, Do not fear, for this too is a Son for thee.

18. Therefore when her Soul was going out, because she died, she named him Ben-oni; but his Father called him Benjamin.

19. Thus Rachel died; and was buried in the Way to Ephrath, which is Beth-lehem.

20. And Jacob set up a Pillar upon her Grave, which is the Pillar of it to this Day.

21. Afterwards Israel going on, extended his Tent beyond the Tower of Eder.

22. Besides while he dwelt in that Country, Reuben went, and lay with Bilhah his Father's Concubine; which he heard of. And the Sons of Jacob were twelve:

23. Those of Leah, Reuben his First-born, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar and Zebulun;

24. The Sons of Rachel, Joseph and Benjamin;

25. And the Sons of Bilhah her Handmaid, Dan and Naphtali;

26. Zilpah's Sons too, the Handmaid of Leah, Gad and Asher: these were the Sons of Jacob whom he had born in Padan-aram.

27. At length he came to Isaac his Father, at Mamre the City of Arba, which is Hebron, where Abraham and Isaac sojourned.

28. And the Time of Isaac was a hundred and eighty Years;

29. When he expiring, died, and was gathered to his People, an old Man, and full of Age: whom Esau and Jacob his Sons buried.

CHAP. XXXVI.

AND these are the Generations of Esau, who was Edom.

2. He took his Wives of the Daughters of the Canaanites; Adah the Daughter of Elon the Hittite, and Aholibamah that of Anah, Zibeon's Daughter the Hivite;

3. As also Bashemath the Daughter of Ishmael, Nebajoth's Sister.

4. And Adah bore to him Eliphaz; as Bashemath did Reuel;

5. Aholibamah likewise Jeush, Jaalam and Korah. These were the Sons of Esau, whom he had born in the Country of Canaan.

6. Afterwards he took his Wives, Sons and Daughters, with all his Domesticks, his Cattle, and all his Beasts, nay the whole that he possessed, which he had gotten in that Country; and went to another, from the Presence of his Brother Jacob.

Ver. 23. with him] This is explained to be with, Hof. xii. 4. by עִמּוֹ whose Vowel וּ has here.

Ver. 14. set up a Pillar] Bish. set up on ends.

Ver. 16. about a Mile] or a computed Mile, Heb. a Mile of Ground. It is מִלָּה a Mile in the Targum: so John Buxtorf and Santes Pagnin. explain it in their Lexicons, and the latter renders it in his Version. The Word is met with in Scripture only here, Chap. xlviii. 7. & 2 Kings v. 19. Jarhi and Aben Ezra both interpret it to be a Measure, the one of Ground, the other of a Journey, i. e. as a Mile is with us, though that might be of a different Length; therefore Castalis expresses it una statione. To which I may add from Kimbi in Lib. Radic. מִלָּה מקבוצת רחל לאסרת מיל They say it is a Mile from Rachel's Grave to Ephrath; and from Bebai on this Place, העיר הרמב"ץ בי רמח בעיניו שאין ממצבת רחל לבית לחם Rab. Moses, the Son of Nahman, testifies that he saw with his own Eyes, Rachel's Tomb was not a Mile distant from Beth-lehem, i. e. was something less; and the Heb. Word is mil; the Arabick Transf. too has it a Mile of Ground. It seems also to be a certain Measure, from its Root signifying to multiply; see further Fuller, Misc. Sac. Lib. ii. Cap. 15. But the Gen. Ver. has for it half a dayes journey.

Ib. was in labour] for travailed may be mistaken for travelled.

Ver. 18. Ben-oni, the Son of my Sorrow; Benjamin, the Son of the right Hand.

Ver. 22. heard of] The Gr. adds unnecessarily and it appeared wicked before him, since that is to fully shewn Chap. xlix. 4.

Ver. 2. Canaanites] In Heb. Chenaban, as Ver. 9, 34. it is Edom, meaning the People.

Ib. Adah] The Name also of Lamech's first Wife, Ch. iv. 19. and called Bashemath, Ch. xxvi. 34. but I rather think the Judith mentioned there had no Sons, and was not the same with Aholibamah, as all the Names differ.

Ib. Zibeon's Daughter] In State of Heb. is insisted strongly it should be a Son here and Ver. 14. as in the Sam. and Gr. whose Translators or Transcribers might be in the same shallow Way of Thinking from Ver. 24. for had it been more profound, there might have been observed, that this Zibeon was a Hivite of the Country of Canaan, Ver. 2, 5, 6. and he in Ver. 24. a Horite of Seir or Edom, Ver. 20, 21. besides it would be strange indeed for Esau to marry in the second Descent younger than his Son, as in the Note at Ver. 12. and have Children by such a Wife before he went into that Country, Ver. 5, 6, 8. So a Man and Woman were named Aholibamah, Ver. 2. & 41.

Ver. 3. Bashemath] called Mahalath, Ch. xxviii. 9.

Ver. 6. another] In Vulg. Transf. the country is improper, because there is Nothing before it to tell what

7. For their Substance was too much for them to dwell together; the Country where they sojourned being not able to bear them, by reason of their Cattle.

8. So Esau dwelt on Mount Seir, he who was Edom.

9. The following are also the Generations of Esau the Father of the Edomites, on that Mountain :

10. These being the Names of his Sons; Eliphaz the Son of Adah his Wife, Reuel that of Bashemath another Wife.

11. And the Sons of Eliphaz were, Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz.

12. Besides Eliphaz Esau's Son had Timna a Concubine, who bore to him Amalek: these were the Sons of Adah Esau's Wife.

13. Moreover the Sons of Reuel were, Nahath and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah: these were Bashemath's Sons the Wife of Esau.

14. Again these were the Sons of Aholibamah the Daughter of Anah, Zibeeon's Daughter, the other Wife; she bore to him, Jeush, Jaalam and Korah.

15. The following were Dukes of the Sons of Esau: the Sons of Eliphaz his First-born, Duke Teman, Duke Omar, Duke Zepho, Duke Kenaz.

16. Duke Korah, Duke Gatam, Duke Amalek; who were Dukes of Eliphaz in the Country of Edom, being the Sons of Adah.

17. And these the Sons of Reuel Esau's Son, Duke Nahath, Duke Zerah, Duke Shammah, Duke Mizzah; who were Dukes of Reuel in that Country, being Bashemath's Sons the Wife of Esau.

18. These too the Sons of Aholibamah Esau's Wife, Duke Jeush, Duke Jaalam, Duke Korah; who were Dukes of Aholibamah the Daughter of Anah Esau's Wife.

19. The foregoing were the Sons of Esau; and these were their Dukes; he being Edom.

20. The next were the Sons of Seir the Horite, who dwelt in the Country; Lotan, Shobal, Zibeeon, Anah, 21. Dishon, Ezer and Dishan; who were Dukes of the Horites, the Sons of Seir, in the same Country.

22. Moreover the Sons of Lotan were, Hori and Hemam; and Lotan's Sister was Timna.

23. Shobal's Sons too were these; Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho and Onam.

24. These were also the Sons of Zibeeon; both Aijah, and Anah: he being the Anah who found out Mules in the Wilderness, when he fed the Asses of Zibeeon his Father.

25. As were these the Sons of Anah, Dishon; and Aholibamah was the Daughter of Anah.

26. And these were Dishon's Sons: Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran and Cheran.

27. The Sons of Ezer were these; Bilhan, Zaavan, Vaakan.

28. These the Sons of Dishan; Uz, and Aran.

29. The following were Dukes of the Horites; Duke Lotan, Duke Shobal, Duke Zibeeon, Duke Anah,

30. Duke Dishon, Duke Ezer, Duke Dishan; who were Dukes of them, according to their Dukes in the Country of Seir.

country. The ancient Eng. Versions have a country, and the Geneva Bib. another country. The Heb. not telling here what Country this was, as it is apparent in Ver. 8. the Sept. with a Liberty not unusual to them, have out of the Country of Canaan, whom the Sam. might take from: for who can think with the Author of State of Heb. if Canaan had been in, it would have been left out of the Hebrew?

Ib. from the Presence] Before Jacob should return home, to whom the Birth-right belonged.

Ver. 12. Timna] As she was the Daughter of Seir, Ver. 20, 22. whose Posterity had peopled the Country in Abraham's Time, Chap. xiv. 6. she must now be old, yet bore one Son. But the first Part of Lightfoot's Observation, that Esau married the great Grandchild of Seir, and Eliphaz his immediate Daughter, Ver. 20, 24, 25. turns out wrong in two Respects, the Anah in Ver. 2. being a Woman, and that in Ver. 25. a Man; and so, as also shewn at Ver. 2. not the same; nor yet the Anah in Ver. 24, 25. the latter being Seir's Son, Ver. 20. as the rest before and after.

Ver. 16. Duke Korah] The five Sons of Eliphaz in Ver. 11. seem put according to their Age, being so likewise in 1 Chron. i. 36. and as Kenaz is otherwise here before Gatam, this Korah might likely be the Son of the former, so named from his Uncle, Ver. 5. and arising to the Dignity of a Duke, as several recorded at the End of the Chap. so that it is rashly affirmed on the single Authority of the Sam. that these two Words are interpolated, State of the Heb. p. 376, 377.

Ver. 20. dwelt] See Deut. ii. 12, 22.

Ver. 22. Hemam] not Heman.

Ver. 24. found out Mules] By the unnatural Copulation of an Ass with a Mare. Found the Mules, is as if it were some that were lost. The Pretences that it was hot Waters, or Giants, or some Herb, are invalidated by the Mention of Asses, which far more probably points out the other. The Objection of Bechart, in his Hierozoicon, Lib. ii. 21. is of little or no Weight, if true, that the Heb. Word does not signify to invent; because it might be done by the Beasts, without Anah's Invention.

Ver. 25. Sons] It is said Sons, though but one, as in Chap. xvi. 23. 1 Chron. ii. 31. and of this only, 1 Chron. i. 41. as we might speak after our manner, Dishon was all the Sons he had.

Ver. 27. Vaakan] as appears by 1 Chron. i. 42. where is the same Name, only the Letter v is changed into the similar one k of which see on Exr. vii. 6. Nor is the Name's beginning with V an Objection, since there are other such, as Vophsi, Num. xiii. 14. Vashni, 1 Chron. vi. 28. Vashiti, Esth. i. Vaniah, Exr. x. 36.

Ver. 30. who were Dukes of them] It is the same with that in the Verse before. And these are the dukes that came of Hori, must be wrong; when Hori was the Son of Lotan, Ver. 22. one of these Dukes, and the rest were

31. And these were the Kings who reigned in the Country of Edom, before the Israelites had one to reign.

32. First Bela the Son of Beor reigned in Edom, the Name of whose City was Dinhabah.

33. And when he died, Jobab the Son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his room.

34. He also dying, Husham of the Country of the Temanites reigned in his room.

35. This likewise died, and Hadad the Son of Bedad, who beat Midian in the Region of Moab, reigned in his room; and his City was named Avith.

36. Next he died, in whose room Samlah of Masrekah reigned.

37. And he being dead, Saul of Rehoboth of the River succeeded him.

38. Whom, upon his Decease, Baal-hanan the Son of Achbor succeeded.

39. When the last too was dead, Hadar reigned in his room; the Name of whose City was Pau, and that of his Wife Mehetabel, the Daughter of Matred, Me-zahab's Daughter.

40. And these are the particular Names of the Dukes of Esau, after their Families and Places; Duke Timnah, Duke Alvah, Duke Jetheth, 41. Duke Aholibamah, Duke Elah, Duke Pinon.

42. Duke Kenaz, Duke Teman, Duke Mibzar,

43. Duke Magdiel, Duke Iram; who were the Dukes of Edom, after their Dwellings, in the Country of their Possession: he was Esau the Father of the Edomites.

AND Jacob dwelt in the Country of his Father's Sojournings, in that of Canaan.

2. The foregoing were the Generations of Jacob. Joseph in his seventeenth Year, was feeding the Flock with his Brothers; and he being a Youth was with the Sons of Bilhah, and those of Zilpah, his Father's Wives: the ill Report of whom he brought to their Father.

3. Now Israel loved Joseph the most of all his Sons, because he was the Son of his old Years; and he made him a Coat of several Sorts.

4. But his Brothers seeing that their Father loved him more than any of them, hated him, and could not bear to speak to him of his Welfare.

5. Joseph also dreamed a Dream, and told them; whereupon they hated him still the more.

6. For he said to them; Hear now this Dream which I have plainly dreamed;

7. That we were making Sheaves within the Field, and behold my Sheaf rose up, and also stood; when lo yours being round about, bowed down to mine.

8. Whereas his Brothers said to him, Shalt thou be advanced to reign over us? Or shalt thou come to have dominion over us? So they hated him still the more, for his Dreams and Words.

9. He likewise dreamed yet another Dream, and rehearsed it thus to them, Behold I have had a Dream plainly again, that Uncles to Hori. It would be a poor Vindication of our Translators to say, that by Hori they meant the Herites; because that would not make their Words right, unless it could be proved that Hori was Scir's proper Name.

Ver. 31. What follows to the End of the Chapter, is supposed by our famous Newton, in his Observations upon the Prophecies of Daniel and the Apocalypse, Part 1. Chap. 1. to have been added afterwards by Samuel; and Prideaux intimates it to be Ezra, Connect. Part 1. Book 5. there being no King over the Israelites till long after; but it seems rather taken from 1 Chron. 1.

Ib. before] It appears that Dukes governed Edom when the Israelites went from Egypt, by Exod. xv. 15. and that there was a King before they entered Canaan, Num. xx. 14. Judg. xi. 17. from whence to the Reign of Saul being 376 Years, is 47 to each of the eight Kings, one with another, and would not be five apiece more. An agreeable and likely Sum for that Time.

Ib. one] The supposing Moses himself to be the King, as Patrick and Cumberland do, seems too forced a Meaning.

Ver. 32. First] which the Connection of the Words requires: so Jun. and Trem. have Primum.

Ver. 34. Temanites] Words of this Termination are Appellatives of People, and not the Names of Places. It is the same by which Eliphaz is called in the Book of Job.

Ver. 37. Saul] In com. Bib. 1 Chron. i. it is written Shaul, though it be the same.

Ib. Rehoboth] That is in Heb. Streets; but it might be the Name of a Place.

Ver. 2. The foregoing were] That is in the 35th Chap. for which Willet quotes Junius, Tom. ii. Lib. 2. at Beq.

Ib. in his seventeenth Year] Grotius says, He is called the Son of such a Year, as here, in Heb. who is in that Year of his Age, as appears Exod. xii. 5. therefore the Vulg. Lat. rightly expresses the Sense, cum sedecim esset annorum, when he was sixteen Years old, Annot. see also Chap. vii. 6.

Ib. their] not his.

Ver. 3. the most of all] Look back to Chap. iii. 1.

Ib. old Years] it being zekunim, as Chap. xxi. 2. & xliv. 20. not zekenim, Senators or Elders, as some pretend, to make it denote Joseph's extraordinary Wisdom; which [his] might have put them right in, if they had mistaken the Vowel.

Ib. Sorts] Heb. Pieces.

Ver. 4. not speak to him of his Welfare] Namely not salute him, or ask him how he did; so Chap. xxix. 6. & xliii. 27. Exod. xviii. 7. 2 Sam. xx. 9. 2 Kings iv. 26. & v. 21. & ix. 11. and the Word here at Ver. 14.

Ver. 7. rose up] Signifying that Joseph was not yet in that Station, wherein this was to be fulfilled.

Ib. yours] so Tyndal.

Ver. 8. be advanced—come] from thy present Station; the Verbs by being doubled, having more than their simple Meaning, and this very aptly here.

the Sun, Moon, and eleven Stars bowed down to me.

10. Which when he related to his Father and Brothers, the former chid him in the following manner, What Dream is this that thou hast dreamed? Shall I, thy Mother and Brothers, quite come to bow down to the Ground to such a one as thee?

11. However though his Brothers envied him, his Father kept the Matter.

12. Afterwards they being gone to feed their Father's Flock at Shechem;

13. Israel said to Joseph, Are not thy Brothers feeding at Shechem? Come, that I may send thee to them; who answered him, Here am I.

14. To whom he replied, Go now, see about the Welfare of thy Brothers, with that of the Flock, and bring me back Word. Accordingly having sent him from the Vale of Hebron, he went to Shechem.

15. Where a Man found him, when behold he was wandering in the Field; who enquired of him, what he sought after.

16. And he said, I seek for my Brothers: be pleased to tell me where they are feeding.

17. They are gone away, replied the Man, from hence; for I heard them say, We will go to Dothan. So Joseph went after them, and found them there.

18. But when they saw him far off, before he came near them, they contrived against him how to kill him.

19. For they said one to another; Behold he who has the Dreams is coming.

20. Now therefore come, that we may kill him, and throw him into one of the Pits; and let us say, An ill Beast has devoured him: then we shall see what will become of his Dreams.

21. Nevertheless Reuben hearing, delivered him from their Power: for he said, Let us not take away his Life.

22. He said further to them, Do not shed Blood, throw him into this Pit which is in the Wilderness, but do him no Mischief; that he might deliver him from their Power, to bring him back to his Father.

23. Accordingly when Joseph came to his Brothers, they stripping him of his Coat of several Sorts which he had on;

24. Took him, and threw him into the Pit; which however was empty, without any Water in it.

25. And as they were sitting to eat Victuals, they looked up, and saw plainly that there was a Company of Ishmeelite Passengers coming from Gilead; whose Camels that carried Spice, Balsam and Myrrh, were going to have it down to Egypt.

26. Then Judah said to his Brothers; What shall we get by killing our Brother, and concealing his Blood?

27. Come, that we may sell him to the Ishmeelites, and let us do him no Mischief; since he is our Brother, our own Flesh: to which they hearkened.

28. So when the Merchants, being Midianite Men, passed by, they drew, and took up Joseph out of the Pit, and sold him to the Ishmeelites for twenty Shekels of Silver; who had him to Egypt.

29. At length Reuben came back to the Pit, and when behold Joseph was not in it, he tore his Cloaths;

30. And returning to his Brothers, cried out, The Child is gone; as for me, Whither shall I go?

31. Besides they took Joseph's Coat, and having killed a Kid of the Goats, dipt it in the Blood.

32. Next they sent the forementioned Coat, and those who brought it to their Father, said, This we found: see now, whether it is thy Son's Coat, or not.

Ver. 9. eleven Stars] I have not put the eleven Stars, because I do not know any that are so distinguished. Lookup's and another later Translation have eleven of the Stars.

Ver. 10. Mother] Rachel his Mother dying in the foregoing Year by the Table, these Dreams might well be before her Decease; but that Joseph was sold after it, appears by Ver. 14. comp. with Chap. xxxv. 16, 19, 27. Nevertheless it seems as likely to be spoken of his Mother-in-law, for else the Dream was not fulfilled in that Particular of the Moon, because Rachel did not live till Joseph's Promotion.

Ver. 11. kept] as the Virgin Mary did, Luke ii. 19. The Chald. Verf. has שמרה the Greek σώζω, Munster conservabat, all the same; which is the usual Meaning of the Heb. Word: the Geneva Marginal Reading is kept diligently.

Ver. 14. now] In the Pistle for the frydays next following the seconde sonc'aye in lent, at the End of Tyndal's Transf. of the Books of the New Test. it is good frue.

Ver. 15. Man] Who in the History of Joseph in Verse is represented, with Violence to Sense as well as Scripture, to be an Angel: such is Joseph's Brethren embracing him friendly, and feigning themselves glad, at his coming to them; such Reuben's going to the Pit after his Brothers were got home, Ver. 29, 30, 31.

Ver. 19. he who has the Dreams] Willet cites Vatablus expounding it, the Author and Inventor of Dreams, as if they thought Joseph had not really dreamed what he related.

Ver. 25. Camels] Of these Smith, Camels will endure Travel four Days together without Water; and will eat Tops of Thistles, Shrubs, or any kind of Boughs; they are very sure-footed, and kneel when they are a loading, Ray's Collect. of Travels, Tom. ii. Chap. 5. God in his great Wisdom and Goodness having made them such, for the eastern, dry, and barren Countries.

Ib. Balsam] See it in Jer. viii. 22. & xlv. 11. & li. 8. of which Prideaux has written, Connect. Anno 63.

Ver. 27. Ishmeelites] It seems to have been a Company of those under Midianite Merchants.

33. And he knowing it, exclaimed, Yes it is: some ill Beast has devoured him; Joseph is torn in pieces.

34. Therefore Jacob tore his Cloaths, put Sackcloth on his Loins, and mourned for his Son many Days.

35. Nay though all his Sons and Daughters addressed themselves to comfort him, he refused to be comforted, and said, that he would go down for his Son mourning into the Grave: thus his Father wept for him.

C H A P. XXXVIII.

AND at that Time Judah went down from his Brothers; and turned aside to an Adullamite Man, whose Name was Hirah.

2. Where seeing a Daughter of a Canaanite Man, his Name being Shua; he took her, and went in to her.

3. Who conceived, and brought forth a Son; he naming him Er.

4. She likewise conceived afresh, bearing a Son; and him she named Onan.

5. Besides, she proceeded again to bear another, whom she named Shelah; Judah being at Chezib when she was delivered of him.

6. Afterwards he got a Wife for Er his First-born, whose Name was Tamar.

7. But the Lord was so displeased with this Er, that he caused him to die.

8. Judah then said to Onan, Go in to thy Brother's Wife, and do a Brother's Part to her; so raise up Seed to him.

9. Nevertheless Onan knowing that it would not be his, when he went in to her, wasted it on the Ground, that he might not give Seed to his Brother.

10. And the Lord being displeased with what he did, made him also die.

11. Upon this Judah said to Tamar his Daughter-in-law, Abide a Widow at thy Father's House, till Shelah my Son is grown up; Lest, as he said, he should die also like his Brothers. So she went and abode there.

12. A great while after this the Daughter of Shua, Judah's Wife, died; and when he was comforted, he went up to his Sheep-shearers, with Hirah his Friend the Adullamite, to Timnath.

13. Whereas it had been told Tamar, that behold her Father-in-law was going up thither, to shear his Sheep.

14. Therefore she put off the Garments of her Widowhood from her, and being covered with a Veil, and having muffled her self up, she sat at the Gate of the two Fountains, which were by the Way to Timnath: for she saw that Shelah was grown up, and she was not married to him.

15. Whom Judah seeing, thought she was a Harlot, because she had covered her Face.

16. At this he turned aside to her at the Way, and said, Come now, grant me Admittance to thee; for he did not know that she was his Daughter-in-law: and she asked, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest have it?

17. To which he answered, I will send a Kid of the Goats from the Flock: but said she, Wilt thou give a Pledge, till thou dost send it?

18. And he replied, What Pledge is it that I shall give thee? Who demanded his Seal, Handkerchief, and the Staff which was

Ver. 33. has devoured] On the contrary the Jerus. Targ. has it, frigidly as well as falsely, Neither has an ill Beast devoured him, nor is my Son Joseph killed; but I see by the Spirit of the Sanctuary, an ill Woman standing against him.

Ver. 34. tore his Cloaths, put Sackcloth] Jacob's mourning Apparel was Sackcloth, I suppose in its native Colour, and his old Cloaths were torn, instead of a new Suit made.

Ver. 35. for his] לר signifies either to or for.

Ver. 36. Medanites] Who might be the Posterity of Medan, Chap. xxv. 2. and employed by their Kinsmen the Midianite Merchants, as Factors to sell the Things in Egypt.

Ver. 2. his Name] whose Name does not inform the Reader, whether it was the Father's or Daughter's.

Ib. Shua] The same as 1 Chron. ii. 3. but a different Name in the Original to that in Chap. xxv. 2. of this Book.

Ver. 5. proceeded] not conceived.

Ver. 8. do a Brother's part] This Heb. Word is rendered in com. Transf. Deut. xxv. 5, 7. perform the duty of an Husband's Brother; where it appears not to be marry, that being before it, and is also preposterous here.

Ver. 11. till] being only for an Excuse, he not intending to marry them then, Ver. 14, 26.

Ver. 12. A great while] Heb. the Days were multiplied, or the Time was much.

Ib. Friend] An Appellation not more ancient than worthy.

Ver. 14. two Fountains] This Word is in the dual Number, and is Eyes or Fountains, because of their Resemblance to Eyes; and the one yielding Water, the other Tears. The LXX, Pagn. Ainsw. and the Gen. Vers. give it as a proper Name. Onkelos translates, בְּפֶרְשֵׁי שְׁתֵּי הַמַּיִם at the parting of the two Fountains. Aben Ezra on this Place writes, שֵׁם מְקוֹם וְיֵשׁ אֲחֵרִי It is the Name of a Place, and some say there were two Fountains of Water in the Way. So that if it was a Name to them, that Name translated is as here; see Chap. xvi. 7. other Interpretations are too much forced.

Ver. 18. Handkerchief] פֶּתִיל signifies a Thread from the Twisting, its Root being פָּתַל to twist, and according to Kimbi in the Book of Roots, a small Piece of Cloth: it is used also for little things made of Threads, and those which are like Threads; and is accordingly rendered in our com. Transf. a lace, Exod. xxviii. 28, 37. a in in his Hand: accordingly he gave them to her, and having admission to her, she conceived by him.

19. Then rising up, she went away, and put off her Veil from her, putting on the Garments of her Widowhood.

20. And Judah sent the Kid of the Goats by his Friend the Adullamite, to receive the Pledge from the Woman's Hand; but he could not find her.

21. He also made enquiry of the Men of that Place, Where is the Prostitute who was at the two Fountains by the Way? But they said, There was none here.

22. So he goes back to Judah, and tells, I cannot find her; and even the Men of the Place said, no Prostitute was there.

23. With that Judah concludes, Let it be taken for her own, lest we should become a Scorn; I having behold sent this Kid, and thou canst not find her.

24. And in about three Months it was told him, that Tamar his Daughter-in-law had committed whoredom, and also behold was with child by the same: he then said, Bring her out, and let her be burnt.

25. When she was brought out, she sent Word to her Father-in-law, I am with child by the Man to whom these Things belong; and added, Acknowledge, I pray, whose these are, the Seal, Handkerchief and Staff.

26. Accordingly he acknowledged, and said, She is more righteous than I, by reason that I did not give her to my Son Shelah; and he had the knowledge of her again no more.

27. Now at the Time of her being delivered, behold there were Twins in her Womb.

28. And when she was in labour, one put forth his Hand, and the Midwife took, and tied a scarlet Thread upon it, with the distinction, This comes out first.

29. But as he pulled it back, behold his Brother came forth: then she said, How hast thou broke thee out a Breach? So he was named Pharez.

30. Next came out the other, upon whose Hand was the scarlet Thread; and he was named Zerah.

CHAP. XXXIX.

AND Joseph being had down to Egypt, Potiphar an Officer of Pharaoh, the Captain of the Guard, and a Native, bought him of the Ishmeelites, who brought him down thither.

2. However the Lord was with him, so that he was a Person who prospered, while he was in the House of his Master the Egyptian.

3. Who seeing that the Lord was with him, and that he made whatever he did to prosper in his Hand;

4. Joseph not only got so in his Favour as to wait on him; but he made him the Steward of his House, committing all that he had into his Custody.

5. And from the Time that he did so, the Lord blessed his House for Joseph's sake: insomuch that the Blessing of the Lord was on every thing which he had, both in the House and the Field.

6. Therefore he left whatever belonged to him in Joseph's Custody, so that he was unacquainted with any thing he had, excepting the Victuals which he eat: Joseph too was of a handsome Shape, and a fair Countenance.

7. Now after these things his Master's Wife looked up at him, and said, Lie with me.

From whence after all this (may the Reader say) could bracelets come? From the old Latin armillam. Of which Translation, Jewel in his Defence of the Apology of the Church of England, p. 7. says, "The worst Translation that this Day is commonly used either in the English, or in the French, or in the Dutch Tongue, is far better and truer than the old common Translation in the Latin."

Ver. 25. Acknowledge] the same Verb as in the next Verse.

Ver. 26. again no more] Sir John Martham in his Canon Chronicus, ad Secul. Noach. Præc. 6. writes, "Juda non cessavit cognoscere eam. Id est, nulum duxit in uxorem. Nam verbum ܕܒܐܝܬܐ ܕܝܕܐ significat, & cessare."

VOL. I.

Judah did not cease to know her, that is, he married his Daughter-in-law, as the Verb also signifies to cease. But no such Meaning appears to the Verb throughout the Scripture, where it is extant above 200 Times, nor as I find in any Lexicon, only in a few Translations following the old Lat. Num. xi. 25. Authority weak enough not to need Confutation!

8. But

8. But he refusing, answered her; Behold my Master knows not what is with me in the House; for he has committed all that he has into my Custody.

9. He is not greater here than I, nor has he kept back any thing from me but thee, because thou art his Wife: besides how can I do this great Wickedness, and sin against God?

10. And when she had importuned Joseph Day by Day, and he would not hearken to her, to lie near her, that he might be with her;

11. About this Day as he was going into the House to do his Business, when none of the Domesticks were there within;

12. She took hold of him by his Garment, with the solicitation, Lie with me: nevertheless he left it in her Hand, and fleeing, went quite out.

13. So when she saw that he had left his Garment in her Hand, and was fled abroad;

14. She called to the Folk of her House, and spoke to them thus; See, he has brought us a Hebrew Fellow to be wanton with us: he came to me, to lie with me, but I called out aloud.

15. And no sooner did he hear that I raised up my Voice, and called out, but he left his Garment by me, and fleeing, went quite out.

16. Besides she laid up his Garment by her, till his Master came home.

17. And to him she used this like Expression; The Hebrew Servant whom thou broughtest to us, came to me, to be wanton with me.

18. But upon my raising up my Voice, and calling out, he left his Garment by me, and fled abroad.

19. Incensed, when he heard the Words which his Wife spoke to him, and that according to these his Servant did to her;

20. Joseph's Master took him, and put him into the Round-house, the Place in which the King's Prisoners were bound; that he might continue there in it.

21. Yet the Lord was with him, and extended Kindness to him; for he made him be in Favour with the Keeper of it.

22. Inasmuch that he committed into Joseph's Custody all the Prisoners who were in that House, and all Things which were done there he was acting in.

23. The Keeper of it did not look at any thing in his Custody, because the Lord was with him; and what he did the Lord made to prosper.

CHAP. XL.

AND after these Things, the Butler and Baker of Pharaoh King of Egypt, offended him their Master.

2. Who was so enraged against his two Officers, both the chief Butler and Baker,

3. That he put them in Prison at the House of the Chief of the Guard, into the Round-house, the Place where Joseph was bound.

4. Whereupon the Chief of the Guard appointed Joseph to be with them, that he might wait on them; and they were a while in Prison.

5. Then this Butler and Baker, who were bound there, dreamed each of them a Dream in one Night, according to what the respective Interpretation would be.

*Fir'd at his Scorn, the Queen to Proetus fled,
And beg'd Revenge for her insulted Bed:
Incens'd he heard, resolving on his Fate—*

Iliad 6. Pope's Transf.

Ver. 9. He is not greater] Has not more Power or Authority. In this manner Trem. Castal. and Montan. with the ancient Eng. and the French Versions, have it; non being not so. So Munster says it seemed to be to him; and Ainsworth allows it. There were none else so great as Joseph.

Ver. 10. This Verse in order of Time seems to be before the 7th, being added to shew the Wiles of this Adulteress, Matt. v. 28. and might be put in a Parenthesis: for it is not credible that she began her Temptation by, Lie with me; but rather first persuaded him to lie near her in a convenient Place. Tyndal has he slept near her; and see Exod. xvi. 9.

Ver. 11. About this Day] when they had the preceding Discourse.

Ver. 12. Lie] Gen. Sleeps.

Ver. 13. by] Our Translators rendered the Word so, Ver. 10, 16. but here and in the 18th Verse they turn it, as if she let the People of the House and her Husband know, that she held him by the Garment; and consequently endeavoured to force him, and not be her; but 'tis no wonder, since the old Lat. Bible has it, quod tenebam, which I held. The Woman however appears to have been more cunning. Ainsw. and the old Eng. express it by; Jun. and Trem. juxta, &c.

Ver. 16. Garment]

Thy Virtues, and thy Vesture twice have been Bane to thy self, Disguise of others Sin,

Hist. of Joseph, B. 2.

Ver. 19. Incensed] Whence this noble Simile is raised in the Hist. of Joseph;

*As when the Void, o'er frighted Mortals Heads,
A scowling Storm with gloomy Clouds o'erspreads:
The' with its native Light the starry Sphere,
Above the Tempest shines serene and clear;
Its Brightness yet is lost to human Eyes,
Which charge the Vapour's Darkness on the Skies.*

Ver. 22. he was acting in] nicely to the Heb. and not he was the doer of it, for all the Rest to do nothing, much less for him to do whatsoever they did.

Ver. 4. the Chief of the Guard appointed] who was Joseph's Master, and therefore appointed him to wait on those great Men, not knowing probably how Joseph was advanced in the Prison; nor would have suffered that to be, had he known it. In Coverdale's small Translation it is read, put Joseph unto them, that he might serve them; but in the Geneva thus inconsistently, gave Joseph charge over them, and he served them.

6. And.

6. And when Joseph came to them in the Morning, he saw plainly, that they were troubled.

7. Therefore he thus interrogated Pharaoh's Officers, who were with him in Prison at his Master's House, Why are your Countenances so ill to Day?

8. To whom they said, We have each dreamed a Dream, and here is Nobody to interpret it. And Joseph said to them, Are not Interpretations of God? Favour me with the Rehearsal.

9. So the chief Butler told him his Dream as follows; Being in my Dream, behold a Vine was before me:

10. On that were three Branches, and it was as if it budded forth, the Blossom of it shot up, its Branches produced ripe Grapes.

11. Which, as having the Cup of Pharaoh in my Hand, I took, and squeezing them into it, gave the Cup into his Hand.

12. And Joseph replied to him; This is the Interpretation of it: those three Branches are so many Days.

13. Within which Pharaoh will lift up thy Head restoring thee to thy Office; so that thou wilt give his Cup into his Hand, after the former manner when thou wast his Butler.

14. But remember me with thy self, when it is well with thee, and shew Kindness to me, I beg thee, by making mention of me to Pharaoh, and getting me out of this House.

15. For I was altogether stolen out of the Country of the Hebrews; and here also have not done any thing, for them to put me into the Dungeon.

16. Now the chief Baker seeing that the Interpretation was good, related to Joseph; I also being in my Dream, behold three Baskets of white Bread were upon my Head.

17. There was too in the uppermost one all manner of Pharaoh's Victuals made by the Baker; and the Fowls eat it out of the Basket from off my Head.

18. And Joseph made answer; This is the Interpretation of it: those three Baskets are so many Days.

19. Within which Pharaoh will lift up thy Head from thee, hanging thee upon a Tree; so that the Fowls will eat off thy Flesh from thee.

20. Accordingly on the third Day, which was Pharaoh's Birth-day, when he made a Feast for all his Servants, he lifted up the Head of the chief Butler, and that of the chief Baker, among his Servants;

21. Restoring the first to his Butler's Office, so that he gave the Cup into his Hand;

22. And hanging the other: as Joseph had interpreted to them.

23. Yet that Butler was so unmindful of Joseph, that he forgot him.

CHAP. XLI.

HOWEVER at the End of two whole Years Pharaoh dreamed apparently, that he was standing at the River.

2. And lo there came up from thence seven Cows, of handsome Appearance and fat Flesh, which fed in the Marsh.

3. Behold also seven other Cows came up after them from the River, of ill Appearance and thin of Flesh, which stood by those upon the Bank of it.

4. Moreover the latter Kine devoured the seven well-looking and fat ones: then Pharaoh awaked.

Ver. 6. saw] Heb. saw of them, as the following 1 for that shews.

Ver. 8. Interpretations of God?] What a Faith had Joseph! when there was such a human Improbability of his own Dreams being fulfilled.

Ver. 9. Being] as at the 16th Verse.

Ver. 10. shot up] Heb. ascended.

Ver. 12. This is] The Geneva Bible, and the folio Bible pr. 1679, have here this Annotation, "He was assured by the Spirit of God that his Interpretation was true."

Ver. 13. Office] The same Chap. xli. 13.

Ver. 15. stolen] This was for Joseph's Purpose to raise Commiseration, and claim Justice; but his Meaning seems to be no more, than that his Brothers had no Right to sell him, and so he was stolen, Chap. xxxvii. 28.

Ver. 16. Baskets of white Bread] כַּסְאֵי being Governed of the following Word, and so Genitive, as the Termination shews, must be Baskets of; therefore the governing Word is a Substantive, and not an Adjective white only.

There are two Words of near Affinity to כַּסְאֵי in the Text, used by the Jewish Writers, viz. כֶּמֶח and כֶּמֶח for Cakes baked on the Coals; whence some explain this (says Buxtorf) Cakes: from which, and the Nature of the Thing, I conclude it was some sort of white Bread which was meant. Abraham Ben Ezra is very express, expounding it thus, כֶּמֶח לֶחֶם שֶׁהוּא לָבָן which was white Bread; the Septuagint render it in like manner, καυδερτικὴν bread; and the Author of the old Latin, farina, meal. The Jerusalem Targum has the following Words, כֶּמֶח וְלֶחֶם וְכֶמֶח קֶמֶח and behold three Baskets of bet (which Taylor in a Lat. Version of it 1649, renders calids, white) Bread were upon my Head; Jonathan, who wrote another Targum, has כֶּמֶח נָקִי pure or fine, i. e. white Bread. Others turn it diversly.

Ver. 17. from off] It is, as the Analogy also requires, like that in Ver. 19.

Ver. 19. hanging] For how did he lift up his Head from off him besides, according to the pres. English?

Ver. 2. from] not out of: there is no Need to make strange Things, where there are none.

1b. the Marsh] being by the great River Nile, and where Sage grew, Job. viii. 11.

Ver. 3. thin] It is the same Word in the 6th and 7th Verses, and does not signify lean, but as it is thin.

5. He likewise slept, and dreamed plainly the second time, that seven Ears of Corn came up on one Stalk, gross and good.

6. Behold also seven Ears of Corn, thin, and blasted with the East-wind, sprung forth after them.

7. The thin Ears too swallowed up the seven gross and full ones: again Pharaoh awaked, and found it was a Dream.

8. So in the Morning, his Mind being discomposed, he sent for all the Magicians and wise Men of Egypt; to whom he told his Dreams, but none could interpret them to him.

9. With that the chief Butler said to him thus; I call to mind my Faults to Day.

10. Pharaoh enraged against his Servants, put me and the chief Baker into Prison, at the House of the Chief of the Guard.

11. Where I and he each of us dreamed a Dream one Night, according to what the respective Interpretation of it would be.

12. And there with us was a Hebrew Youth, a Servant to the Chief of the Guard, to whom we told, and he interpreted our Dreams to both of us, according to what each was.

13. For as he interpreted to us, so it came to pass: he restored me to my Office, and him he hanged.

14. Upon this Pharaoh sent for Joseph, whom they brought speedily out of the Dungeon; and when he was shaved, and had changed his Cloaths, he went in to him.

15. Who said to Joseph, I have dreamed a Dream, which none can interpret; but if I am not misinformed of thee, thou understandest a Dream to interpret it.

16. To whom Joseph made answer, There is one besides me; God will answer the Welfare of Pharaoh.

17. Then replied Pharaoh to him: In my Dream behold I was standing upon the Bank of the River.

18. And lo there came up from thence seven Cows, of fat Flesh and handsome Shape, which fed in the Marsh.

19. Behold also seven other Cows came up after them, poor, and of very ill Shape, and empty of Flesh; like which I have seen none in all the Country of Egypt for Badness.

20. Moreover the empty and ill Kine devoured the former seven fat ones.

21. But when they were gone into their inward Parts, it could not be known that they were; for their Appearance was as ill as at first: then I awaked.

22. I saw likewise plainly in my Dream, that seven Ears of Corn came up on one Stalk, full and good.

23. Behold also seven Ears of Corn, slender, thin, blasted with the East-wind, sprung forth after them.

24. The thin Ears too swallowed up the seven good ones: which I have declared to the Magicians, but none could expound to me.

25. And Joseph said to him: The Dream of Pharaoh is the same; whom God has told what he is about to do.

26. Those seven good Cows, and these seven good Ears of Corn, are both seven Years; the Dream being the same.

27. Again those seven empty and ill Cows that came up after them, are seven Years, as the seven empty Ears of Corn blasted with the East-wind are, of Famine.

28. This is the Matter which I declare to Pharaoh: God has shewn him what he is about to do.

29. Behold seven Years are coming, of great Plenty in all the Country of Egypt.

30. Seven Years of Famine also will rise after them, so that all the Plenty will be forgotten here, and the Famine will waste the Country.

Ver. 7. The thin Ears] Seven being put to these through the Negligence of the Translators; and how much must it lie, when there were ten appointed to do these Books singly, then agree together, and send it to the rest!

Ver. 10. enraged] Being evidently to be translated by a Participle, which thus is no small Beauty in our Language, as that of Young, Spiritually blind, deaf, and stupid, they see not, &c. Centaur not Fab. Let. 2.

Ver. 16. besides me] It was not proper for Joseph to undervalue himself, but on the contrary to shew that his Interpretation should be from God. So Pagnin. literally turns it, præter me. It cannot be not in me; and not to me supposes it a strange Word found no where else in that Sense. Those who render, without me, God will, &c. break through the Heb. Pause.

1b. God will answer] What did Joseph depend on, and wait for, but the Inspiration of the Almighty? Job xxxii. 8.

Ver. 19. empty] תִּפְּתִי here and תִּפְּתִי in Ver. 3. 4. should have been distinguished by our Translators.

Ver. 23. slender] Onkelos in the Targum has for it תִּפְּתִי which Buxtorf renders graciles, slender. Chald. Lex. Col. 1156. Pagninus quoting Ab. Aben Ezra, has these Words, Alii dicunt quod תִּפְּתִי idem est quod תִּפְּתִי tenuis, i. e. Others say that Zenumoth is the same with rakkoth, thin: The Words in Ab. Ezra's Commentaries are, וְזֶנֶּמוֹת כְּמוֹ תִּפְּתִי and the Sense of it is like rakkoth; but Mercorus with good reason, supposes it should be rather תִּפְּתִי which is the Word immediately following in the Heb. Text. The Septuagint understanding it thus, translate as at the 6th Ver. λεπταί thin or slender; the old Lat. Interpreter in both Places tenuis, thin; Jun. and Trem. with Cast. and Buxt. in his Heb. Lexic. turn it graciles; the French Vers. has petits, and Pagnin. parva, small, who also cites Kimhi thus expounding, and mentions the Heb. Doctors so using it. The Word is no where else in Scripture, and so the Reader may bear this Interpretation. Two Adjectives much alike may heighten the Signification, as if it were very thin, answerable to Ver. 19.

31. Nor will the Plenty be perceived in it, by reason of that Famine afterwards, it will be so very grievous.

32. And as for the Dream being repeated over to Pharaoh, it was because the Matter is established from God, and he will make haste to do it.

33. Therefore let Pharaoh now see for a prudent and wise Man, and set him over the Country of Egypt.

34. Which having done, let him appoint Officers over this Country; that he may receive the fifth Part of it in the seven Years of Plenty.

35. For let them gather together all the Food of these good Years which are coming, and heap up Corn under the Custody of Pharaoh, and keep Food in the Cities:

36. That the Food may be a Store to the Country, for the seven Years of Famine, which will be in this of Egypt; that it may not be cut off by the same.

37. And both Pharaoh and all his Servants liked the Matter well.

38. He therefore said to them, Shall we find such a Man as this, in whom is the Spirit of God?

39. Besides he said to Joseph; After God has made known to thee all this, there can be none prudent and wise like thee.

40. Thou shalt be over my House, and all my People shall kiss thy Mouth; only on the Throne I will be superior to thee.

41. See, added he to him, I set thee over all the Country of Egypt.

42. And taking off his Ring from his Finger, he put it upon Joseph's, as also clothed him with Garments of fine Linen, and put a Chain of Gold about his Neck.

43. Next he made him ride in the second Chariot which he had, and they proclaimed before him, Tender Father, and that he was set over all the Country of Egypt.

44. He said further to him, I am Pharaoh; and without thee shall no Man lift up his Hand or Foot in the whole Country of Egypt.

45. And he called Joseph's Name A Revealer of hidden Things, to whom he gave in Marriage Asenath, the Daughter of Potipherah Prince of On. So Joseph went out over the Country of Egypt:

46. Being in his thirtieth Year when he stood before Pharaoh King of it; from whence going out, he passed through all that Country.

47. Now the Earth yielded in the seven Years of Plenty by Handfuls.

48. So he gathered together all the Food of them which were there, and put it into the Cities; that of the Fields of a City, which were round about it, within the same.

49. Nay he heaped up Corn as the Sand of the Sea, very much; till he left off numbering, because it was out of Number.

Ver. 32. repeated over] doubled twice making four times.

Ver. 34. him] Pharaoh, according to the Heb. Pointing, not that chief Ruler with Patrick, for which a Pronoun would also be requisite.

Ver. 40. kiss thy Mouth] It seems to be a Ceremony used at the Instalment of a Governor into his Place; as Psa. ii. it is said, Kiss the Son, after he is mentioned to be anointed King, and to have the Government given him: So Samuel kissed Saul when he made him King, 1 Sam. x. 1. or it may mean doing Homage, which agrees very well with the rest of the Verse, & 1 Kings xix. 18. Trem. and Jun. with Montan. Ainsw. and the Fr. Transf. have it kiss, as Kimhi likewise explains it in the Book of Roots, and the Verb קָשַׁם is used, I think, every where else. Moreover לָקַח frequently occurs in the place of לָקַח with which this Verb is otherwise construed; and this might be rendered, give a Kiss upon thy Mouth.

Ver. 42. Garments of fine Linen] with the Bishops, cloth of rayes.

Ver. 43. Tender Father] as אב and אבנא the Letters of the original Word signify: and so we find Joseph saying after, that he was made a Father to Pharaoh, Chap. xlv. 8. as well as the Title was suitable to the wise and kind Advice he had given, and agreeable to what the King did besides, Ver. 45. Omitting what the Jews say for this, I have to remark, that had it been an imperative Verb, it would probably have been plural to be spoken to many People, which the Word cannot be; nay nor singular, without changing a Letter. Neither is it likely Joseph would let the People kneel to him, as the Verb it is pretended to be signifies, and would then unsuitably be, according to the imagined Form, make to kneel.

Ver. 45. A Revealer &c.] The Targums and Josephus, Ant. Lib. ii. 6. with others mentioned by Grotius and Gregory, help us to the Meaning of those Egyptian Words Zaphenath Pabneah; not zaphnath, because it has Metbeg; otherwise it would be zaphnath, but cannot be zaphnath.

Ib. Prince] Both Onkelos and Jonathan render it in the Targums רַב־פַּרְעֹה Prince; Pagnin. Principis, who expounds the Word in his Lexicon to be a Priest, Duke or Prince. Buxtorf, besides Priest, explains it Prime Minister, Prince, Nobleman, President, Lieutenant, Peer, Governor, referring to this Place in particular. Jun. and Trem. turn it Præsidis, of the President or Prince; which Ainsw. also allows it to signify: the Geneva Transf. with Lookup lately, have Prince; and the French gouverneur, Governor. Leigh in Critica Sacra, quoting several learned Authors in Proof of this says, "The Word is used indifferently to signify a Priest or Prince, an ecclesiastical or secular Governor." Our last Translators have likewise given it to us, a principal officer, 1 Kings iv. 5. a chief ruler, 2 Sam. xx. 26. and plur. chief rulers, Ch. viii. 18. (according as it is interpreted, 1 Chron. xviii. 17.) princes, Job xii. 19. "This Sense, says Poole in Annot. is the more probable, both from Joseph's high Quality, and from his holy Disposition, whereby he hated Idolatry, and would never have married the Daughter of an idolatrous Priest:" I may add, and neither Moses here finds any fault with it, nor Jacob afterwards, who blessed the Children, and adopted them for his own, Chap. xlviii. 5. see further Annot. Jun. and Trem.

Ver. 47. Handful] which Ainsworth expounds, a handful increase of one kernel, or rather Grain.

50. Joseph withal had two Sons born before the Years of Famine came, whom Ase-nath before mentioned bore to him.

51. And he named the First-born Man-asseh: for God has made me forget, said he, all my Labour, and all my Father's Family.

52. As he did the second Ephraim: for God has caused me, said he, to be fruitful in the Country of my Affliction.

53. Afterwards ended the seven Years of the Plenty, which was in the Country of Egypt.

54. The seven Years of Famine also began to come, as Joseph had foretold; and it was in all Countries, but in that whole one there was Bread.

55. At length all the Country of Egypt had the Famine, and the People cried to Pharaoh for Bread; who said to all the Egyptians, Go to Joseph; what he says to you do.

56. Thus the Famine being all over the Earth, Joseph opens all the Store-houses, and sells to the Egyptians; for it became great in that Country.

57. And those of all the Earth went into Egypt to Joseph, to buy; because the Famine was great on the whole Earth.

Ver. 55. had the Famine] For famished is killed with hunger, or starved, as in John's late great Dict.

Ver. 56. all the Store-houses] Our last Translators have well expressed this, that is read in the original Text, all which in them; which being elliptical, the Chald. Paraphrast (whom others generally follow) has supplied at large, יְתֵדֵי אֻצְרֵי הַחֵטָּא עֲבוּרָה all the Store-houses in which there was Corn, or which had Corn in them. Dr. Perry, in his late View of the Levant, p. 230. makes mention of Joseph's Granary remaining at Old Cairo, which, he says, "is very large, and consists of seven Compartments; each of which was full of Wheat up to the Verge of their Walls, which are twenty two Feet high. When the Compartments are quite full, they spread Mats over the Corn, which is all it has to defend it from the Weather. And says, he is well assured, that in the Time of Joseph there were seven Granaries, each like unto what we now see." The same Author likewise mentions, and partly describes, as remarkable Pieces of Antiquity now extant, Joseph's Well, his Hall, Banqueting-house and Dungeon, with the Hall of his Steward, Ibid. p. 233, 234. And Cortén on seeing Joseph's Well also lately, does not question, he says, but that it is the largest, deepest, and most esteemed Well in the World.

1b. it became great] For Illustration, take a recent Instance: In the Year 1106 of the Hegira or Mahometan Epoch, about that of Christ 1694, a Time of Scarcity coming on, Caciouch Mamet, who was then in the Zenith of Power at Grand Cairo, gave strict Orders that Nobody should sell Wheat for more than 60 Medins the Ardeb, which is equal to 4s. 4d. English; at which the great Men of Cairo, who had Corn to sell, being highly incensed, posted a Fellow in a Mosque (one of their Worship-houses) who shot him dead as he passed by; and the very next Day Wheat was sold at 150 Medins the Ardeb, rising to 660; so that the Poor were starved to death, and many eat their own Children, and Men, Women and Children would run their Heads confusedly with Dogs into dead Carcases, to partake of a Bit with

AND when Jacob found that there was Provision in Egypt, he said to his Sons, Why do you look one at another?

2. For continued he, Behold I have heard that there is Provision in Egypt: go down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may live, instead of dying.

3. Accordingly Joseph's ten Brothers went down, to buy Corn from Egypt.

4. But his Brother Benjamin Jacob did not send with the other; Lest, as he said, Death should befall him.

5. Thus the Sons of Israel went to buy among those who were going, because the Famine was in the Country of Canaan.

6. And Joseph, who was Governor over the Country, was he that sold to all the People of it: and his Brothers going, bowed down to him with their Faces to the Ground.

7. Now upon seeing his Brothers, he knew them; to whom he shewed himself strange, and spoke hard Things, in particular, From whence come you? Who said, From the Country of Canaan to buy Food.

them. The Corruption of the great Number of Dead brought a malignant Fever, which made great Havock for six Months, and was immediately followed by a terrible Plague, that lasted about six Months longer, Perry's View of the Levant, p. 161, 162, 164. Caciouch Mamet might almost have been honoured with the Name of Martyr, as he died for that noble Branch of Religion, Charity and Compassion to the Poor, had not he before murdered his Predecessor to get into Power, and so suffered that Retaliation.

Ver. 56, 57. great] as we say instead of the Heb. Strong, simply considered; but great is relative, if not old for grievous, and the same as in Ver. 31. Chap. xliii. 1. & xlvii. 4, 13. which the Heb. is not.

Ver. 57. all the Earth] which in all Probability was not peopled very far in about 650 Years after the Flood.

1b. Famine] According to this the Heathen Writer Diodorus Siculus mentions a great Drought almost over the whole World, Egypt excepted, Lib. i. 2.

Ver. 4. Death] Targ. of Onk. מוֹתָה אֵבֶן עֶזְרָה death; so it is in the Genev. Transl. and thus Pagnin. both expounds and translates it. This Signification is thoroughly confirmed to me in the few other Places where the Word is found, viz. Ver. 38. Chap. xlv. 29. Exod. xxi. 22, 23. which I leave to the Consideration of the understanding Reader. Mercer on Pagn. says, Elias violentam seu accidentariam mortem esse putat, Elias (a noted Jewish Author) supposes it to be violent or accidental Death.

Ver. 6. bowed down] Thus executing, what th' eternal Mind
In Joseph's controverted Dreams design'd;
When to his Shoaf, with Reverence profound,
His Brethren's Sheaves fell prostrate on the Ground;
When, in their airy Circuits, he beheld
Sun, Moon and Stars, to him Obedience yield,
Eliz. Rowe's Hist. of Joseph, B. v. but injudiciously placed to Chap. xliii. 26. since fulfilled now, nay and remarked to be so here, Ver. 9.

8. But

8. But though he knew them, they did not know him.

9. Then he remembered the Dreams which he had dreamed of them; and said to them, You are Spies, to see the Nakedness of the Country are you come.

10. They answered him, No, our Lord; but thy Servants are come to buy Food.

11. We are all of us the Sons of one Man: we are honest, thy Servants are not Spies.

12. Yet he replied to them, No, for you are come to see the Nakedness of the Country.

13. To which they rejoined, Thy Servants are twelve Brothers, we are the Sons of one Man in the Country of Canaan; and behold the Youngest is now with our Father, and one is gone.

14. Nevertheless Joseph said to them; It is what I have spoken to you, that you are Spies.

15. Hereby you shall be proved; by Pharaoh's living you shall not go out from hence, but when your youngest Brother comes hither.

16. Send one of you, and let him fetch your Brother, while you are bound, that your Words may be proved, whether there be Veracity in you; and if not, by Pharaoh's living you are Spies.

17. So he put them together into Prison three Days.

18. But he says to them the third Day; Do this, and live; since I fear God:

19. If you are honest, let one of your Brothers be bound in your Prison-house; and go you, carry Provision for the Famine of your Households.

20. Then bring your youngest Brother to me, that your Words may be proved true, whereby you shall not die. And they would do so.

21. On this occasion they said one to another, Verily we are guilty concerning our Brother, the Distress of whose Soul we saw when he made supplication to us, but we would not hear: therefore this Distress is come on us.

22. And Reuben made answer to them, Did not I speak to you thus, Do not sin against the Child; but you would not hearken: and so his Blood behold is required.

23. Whereas they did not know that Joseph understood it: for there was one to interpret between them.

24. He also turned about from them, and wept; to whom returning, and speaking, he took Simeon from them, and bound him before their Eyes.

25. Besides he commanded that they should fill their Vehicles with Corn, and to restore their Money to each one into his Sack, as likewise to give them Necessaries for the Way: thus did he for them.

26. At last they lifted up their Provision upon their Asses, and went away thence.

27. But one opening his Sack, to give his Ass Provender in the Lodging-place, saw plainly that his Money was in the Mouth of his Bag.

28. Upon this he told his Brothers, My Money is restored, and even here it is in my Bag: then their Courage went away, inasmuch that they trembled for fear, and said one to another, What is this God has done to us?

Ver. 9, 12. This is the Order of the latter Part of these Verses.

Ver. 13. gone] as being reputed dead, and as agreeing with Ver. 36. & Chap. xxxvii. 30. Tynd. no man watch where he is.

Ver. 15, but when] or excepting when. Our Translators have left out when, being in the Original α prefixed to an infinitive Verb, as at Ver. 21. which indeed is not in the Vulg. Latin.

Ver. 15, 16. by Pharaoh's living] Here are the two principal Forms of the Heb. Oaths, for negative and affirmative ones; as if what followed were, if you shall go, and that you are Spies, which has been so troublesome to Interpreters, that perhaps scarce any have made Sense of it. The Omission before the first might be let me be sworn, before the latter I swear. If Joseph's was not direct Swearing, it seems an Obtestation too near bordering on it.

Ver. 17. together] This being at first in the old Spelling al together, though the Heb. has not all, the Printers made it into one, a different, Word.

Ver. 18. I have been accustomed to think that Joseph acted at first by Resentment, but had received some Check for it while they were imprisoned, and retained Simeon only for Fear they would not else come any more, and that he might so far keep his Word. However his chief Design seems to be all along to get Benjamin thither, and discover himself to him, and not to his other Brothers, till Judah's pathetick Speech in the Close of the 44th Chap. overcame his Resolution.

Ib. since I fear God] shews his Heart to be touched; though he could not use a better Argument to gain their Belief of what he said, and satisfy them they might come again safely.

Ver. 20. proved true] Trem. vera probentur: a Diversification of that in Ver. 16.

Ib. would do] which the Heb. Verb may signify, and properly it seems must here, as well as did.

Ver. 21. the Distress of whose Soul we saw] Heb. whom we saw the Distress of his Soul, not in that.

Ver. 24. before their Eyes] That they might see it done, I suppose, in an easy manner.

Ver. 25. Vehicles] being a general Word, different from the following.

Ib. thus did he] not the Person whom Joseph commanded, as Patrick would have it; since he commanded more than one, and there is no Pronoun for he in the Heb. to make any Distinction from Joseph; see the like Chap. xli. 34.

Ver. 27. Sack] The same in Heb. and Pargine says, in omnia ferè lingua, in almost all Languages, i. e. according to their Terminations, as saccus in Lat. saccos in Greek, &c. but the last Word is amtabath, a bag, found in this and the two following Chapters.

Ib. Lodging-place] See at Exod. iv. 24.

29. Afterwards

29. Afterwards they came to Jacob their Father, at the Country of Canaan, whom they informed of all that had befallen them as follows :

30. The Man, the Lord of the Country, spoke hard things to us, and represented us as Spies of it.

31. To whom we said ; We are honest, we are not Spies.

32. We are twelve Brothers, the Sons of our Father : one is gone, and the Youngest is now with our Father in the Country of Canaan.

33. Yet he said to us ; By this I shall know that you are honest : leave one of your Brothers with me, and taking for the Famine of your Households, go.

34. And bring your youngest Brother to me, by which I knowing that you are not Spies, but honest ; will give you your Brother, and you shall merchandise in the Country.

35. At length as they emptied their Sacks, behold each one's Bag of Money was there ; and when they and their Father saw them, they were afraid.

36. And he said to them, You deprive me of my Children : Joseph is gone, and Simeon is gone, and you would take away Benjamin ; all which Things are against me.

37. But Reuben spoke thus to his Father, Kill two of my Sons, if I do not bring him to thee : commit him into my Custody, and I will bring him to thee again.

38. However he replied, My Son shall not go down with you : for his Brother is dead, and he is left alone ; and should Death befall him in the Way that you go, you would bring down my grey Hairs with Sorrow to the Grave.

C H A P. XLIII.

NEVERTHELESS the Famine being grievous in the Country,

2. When they had done eating the Provision that they brought from Egypt, their Father said to them, Go again, buy us a little Food.

3. Then Judah spoke to him as follows ; The Man solemnly protested thus to us, You shall not see my Face, except your Brother is with you.

4. If thou wilt send him with us, we will go down, and buy thee Food ;

5. But if not, we will not go : for the Man did say to us what I have already mentioned.

6. And Israel said, Why did you do so ill to me, to tell the Man whether you had another Brother ?

7. The Man, answered they, strictly asked thus about us and our Kindred, Is your Father yet living ? Have you any Brother ? whom we told according to the Sense of these Words : did we know at all that he would say, Bring your Brother down ?

8. Judah said further to Israel his Father ; Send the Youth with me, that we may get ready, and go : so shall both we and thou, with our Children, live, instead of dying.

9. I will be engaged for him, thou shalt require him of me : if I do not bring him to thee, and place him before thee, let me be in blame with thee all my Days.

10. For unless we had delayed, we should now have returned this second time.

11. Whereupon Israel their Father says to them ; If it be so now, do this ; take of the applauded Things of the Country in your Vehicles, and have down a Present to the Man ; a little Balsam, and a little Honey, Spice and Myrrh, Nuts and Almonds.

12. Take also double Money with you : even that which was brought back in the Mouths of your Bags, carry again with you ; perhaps it was a Mistake.

13. As likewise take your Brother ; and getting ready, return to the Man.

14. And God Almighty give you Compassion before him, that he may send with you your other Brother, and Benjamin ; and

Ver. 30. represented] The Heb. Word signifies primarily gave, which is opposite to took.

Ver. 37. two of] He having four Sons, Chap. xlv. 9. The Word is governed of the next by the Ending of it, which answers to a Genitive Case, as in 1 Kings ii. 39.

Ver. 7. at all] as Zech. vii. 5. did ye at all fast unto me ? the Question having the Nature of a Negative, as well as making the best Sense ; see Chap. iii. 4. & 1 Kings ix. 6.

Ver. 8. Children] in the Bish. Bib. meiny, though Tyndal so many Years before had chyl dren, from whom they took much : theirs is a North-Country Word for family.

Ver. 9. all my Days] The like is rendered 1 Sam. i. 28. as long as he liveth.

Ver. 11. If it be so] That I let him go ; which was Judah's Request, Ver. 8.

Ib. applauded Things] properly.

Ib. a little] Tynd. a cartefye, so the Bish.

Ib. Nuts] Some expound it terebinth, others filbert nuts. Probably they were Pistachio's ; the Growth of the Country, and still imported from Syria. The Pistachio Nut grows on a Species of Terabintina ; which confirms the Supposition that these Nuts are here meant.

Ver. 12. even that] I judge this to be included in the double Money, by the Agreeableness of it, as well as by Ver. 15. which informs us what they did carry ; and though Corn might be something dearer, it was scarcely twice as dear as before ; for the Continuance of the Famine being known, it might be brought to almost an equal Price at first. Nor do I think that double signifies the Quantity of the Money, but relates to the two times of buying, consonant to Ver. 21, 22. see Willet on Gen. p. 419.

according as I am deprived of my Children, I must be.

15. So the Men took that Present, as they did double Money with them, as also Benjamin; and getting ready, went down to Egypt, and stood before Joseph.

16. And when he saw Benjamin with them, he said to the Steward of his House, Bring the Men home; and let there be killed what is to be, and dressed: for they shall eat with me at Noon.

17. Accordingly the Man did as he ordered, introducing them into Joseph's House.

18. But they were afraid, because they were brought thither, and said, Upon the account of the Money which was carried back in our Bags at first, are we brought in; that he may rush upon us, and falling on us, take us for Servants, with our Asses.

19. Therefore they went nigh to that Man, and spoke to him at the Door of the House,

20. Which was thus; O our Lord, we really came down at first to buy Food.

21. Whereas when we got to the Lodging-place, we opened our Bags, and behold there was the Money of each of us, by its Weight, in his Bag's Mouth; which we have brought back with us.

22. Nay we have brought down other Money with us to buy Food: we know not who put our Money in our Bags.

23. But he said, Peace be to you, do not fear; your God, and the God of your Father, gave you Treasure in your Bags: your Money came to me. And he brought out Simeon to them.

24. Besides he having introduced them into Joseph's House, gave them Water, that they might wash their Feet, as he did also Provender for their Asses.

25. And they prepared the Present against Joseph came at Noon: for they heard that they should dine there.

26. At length he coming home, they brought him the Present which was with them into the House; and bowed down to him to the Ground.

27. He then asked them of Welfare thus, Is your Father well, the old Man of whom you spoke? Is he yet living?

28. And they answered, Thy Servant our Father is well, who is yet living: again they bowed, and did reverence.

29. Now looking up, and seeing his Brother Benjamin, his own Mother's Son, he said, Is this your youngest Brother whom you spoke of to me? God, added he, be gracious to thee, my Son.

30. But Joseph made haste, for his Compassion was kindled towards his Brother, and he sought where to weep: so he went into the Chamber, and wept there.

31. Next he washed his Face, and came out; and restraining himself, said, Put the Victuals.

32. Thus they put for him by himself, and for them by themselves; and for the Egyptians, who eat with him, in the same manner: because they must not eat Victuals with the Hebrews, for that was an Abomination to the Egyptians.

33. And they sat before him, the First-born according to his Birth-right, and the Younger according to his Youth; so that the Men wondered one at another.

34. Moreover he had Dishes of Meat taken away from before him for them, but

Ver. 16. what is to be] Heb. the Slaughter; which is quite left out in the pref. Translation.

Ver. 18. rush upon] Heb. tumble, or roll himself as in Job xxx. 14. I much rather take it to mean thus, than seek occasion against us. The Targum has it, לאתרברכא עלנא to magnify himself over us.

Ver. 20. O] אני seems to be the Contract of אני like אני of אני by leaving out א at Beg. which I do not find to be observed by any: this leads us to its Root אבן he would or was willing, unknown to Grammarians, which Consideration might have kept some Translators out of great Errors.

Ver. 28. living] The Septuagint add, and he replied, Blessed be that man by God; but for what Reason could he say so to them, unless it had been to give them some Mistrust who he was? which he was so careful to avoid, that he would not let them see him weep, Ver. 30. Thus Ephraem Syrus, a Writer of the 4th Century, in his Praise of the Patriarch Joseph, brings him asking, whether their Father had not yet forgot his other Son, who they had told him was lost? But doubtless Joseph was more praise-worthy, for his Wisdom and Caution in avoiding such Expressions, and bringing the Affair to that most suitable Issue which he did.

Ver. 30. Compassion] So in the Targum, viz. רחמי Pagn. and Montan. also translate miserationes; Castal. miserationes, with Compassion, i. e. erga fratrem commotus, he was moved towards his Brother; in which manner the French has it by compassion. The Gen. Transl. has affection; Jun. and Trem. viscera misericordiae, bowels of mercy; and Ver. 14. it is rendered mercy.

Ib. kindled] Aben Ezra אבן עזר they kindled and burnt; Jun. astuabant, Mun. accendebantur, Pagn. and Vatab. turn it by the Verb incales; the Gen. Verf. has inflamed; see Hof. xi. 8.

Ver. 32. must not eat] such was their Superstition, in-somuch that Herodotus writes, Lib. ii. p. 46. Steph. Edit. ἔτι ἀνὴρ Αἰγύπτιος ἔτι γυνὴ ἄνδρα Ἑλλῆνα φιλόστοις ἐν τῷ στόματι ἔδει μαχαίρην ἀνδρὸς Ἑλλήνου χρησέται, ἔδει δόρυ, ἔδει λήβετι, ἔδει πρίν καθεαυτοῦ βοδὴ διατεταμένῃ Ἑλληνικῇ μαχαίρῃ γνίσσεται No Egyptian Man or Woman will kiss the Mouth of a Greek or Foreigner, or use either his Knife, Spit or Pot, or eat the very Meat that is cut with such a one's Knife.

Ver. 33. they sat] Joseph might place them thus, to possess them with an Opinion of his Skill in Divination, the better to bring about what he designed by the silver Cup.

Benjamin's Dish was five times as much as any of theirs: so they drank and caroused with him.

C H A P. XLIV.

AFTERWARDS he thus commanded the Steward of his House, Fill the Men's Bags with Food, according as they can carry; and put each one's Money into the Mouth of his Bag.

2. Thou shalt also put my silver Cup in the Bag's Mouth of the Youngest, with the Money of his Provision. And he did according to that which Joseph ordered.

3. The Morning being light, the Men were sent away, with their Asses.

4. They were gone out of the City not far off, when Joseph said to the Steward of his House; Get ready, follow after the Men; and as soon as thou overtakest them, reprimand them, Why have you returned Evil for Good?

5. Is not this what my Master drinks in? and he has thoroughly divined for it: you have done ill in what you did.

6. Accordingly he overtakes them, and utters these Expressions to them.

7. Why, exclaimed they to him, does our Lord speak such Words as these? Far be it from thy Servants to do any Thing like it!

8. Lo the Money that we found in the Mouths of our Bags, we brought back to thee out of the Country of Canaan; and how should we steal out of thy Master's House Silver or Gold?

9. Let him then die with whom it is found of thy Servants; and we also will become Servants to our Lord.

10. And he said, Now let it be so far according to your Words; let him whom it is found with be a Servant to me, and you shall be quit.

11. At which they made haste, and took down their several Bags to the Ground, and opened each one his own.

12. So he searched, beginning at the Eldest, and ending at the Youngest; and the Cup was found in Benjamin's Bag.

13. Then they tore their Cloaths; and each loading his Ass, they returned to the City.

14. Next Judah went with his Brothers to Joseph's House, who was yet there; and they fell down before him on the Ground.

15. Of whom Joseph demanded, What Deed is this which you have done? Did not you know that such a Man as I am could thoroughly divine?

16. And Judah answered, What shall we say to my Lord? What Excuse shall we make? Or how shall we justify our selves? God has found out the Iniquity of thy Servants; behold both we, and he with whom the Cup is found, are Servants to my Lord.

17. But he replied, Far be it from me to do this: the Man whom the Cup is found with, shall be a Servant to me; but as for you, go up in Peace to your Father.

18. Whereupon Judah approached him, and said: O my Lord! let thy Servant, I beseech thee, speak a Word in my Lord's Hearing, and be not angry with thy Servant: for thou art even as Pharaoh.

19. My Lord asked his Servants thus, Have you any Father or Brother?

20. And we told my Lord, we have a Father, an old Man, with a Child of his old Years, the Youngest; and his Brother being

Ver. 34. five times as much] Heb. five hands or parts more. Not that they had not all enough, but Benjamin had more Variety of Food. It might be done, as in Hist. of Jos. to observe whether they envied him, as they had done himself.

Ib. caroused] according to Cant. v. 1. this being drunk largely, as in Johnson's great Dict. and Hag. i. 6. it is rendered filled with drink; not signifying to be merry. So the like Verb John v. 10. well drunk. Tynd. has this were dranke, the Gen. had of the best drinke.

Ver. 5. has] Pathah turning the future Tense into the preterite.

Ib. thoroughly] Look the Scholium on Chap. xxii. 17.

Ib. divined for it] Stackhouse, in his late History of the Bible, Book iii. Chap. 4. says, "The Words (according to the Sense of the best Interpreters) do not relate to this Cup, as the Instrument, but as the Subject of Divination; not as the Thing, with which, but as the Thing, concerning which, this magical Enquiry was to be made." Broughton in his Works, p. 8. 653, has these Words, "For which he would make search, not, in which he prophesieth;" and so Fagius turns it, pro eo, for it, the Bishops for the which. Certainly Joseph's Brothers could not be made to believe, he divined by the Cup that they had it; because they knew he could not have it to divine by.

Ver. 16. the Iniquity] other Iniquity, not owning their Guilt in what they were charged with.

Ver. 18. Judah] He having solemnly undertaken that Benjamin should safely return, Chrysost. Hom. 64. on this Place.

Ver. 19. My Lord asked] What could have been more persuasive than this Speech, though it runs so much on the Narrative!

Ver. 20. the Youngest] I cannot tell what our Translators thought of, when they turned it a little one, since none deny, I think, that Benjamin was born before Joseph was carried to Egypt, and at the lowest Computation must be 22 or 23 Years old, and is called a Man, Ver. 17. It is indeed in Heb. the least, but is meant in Years, as observed on Chap. ix. 24. and as Munster writes here scilicet aetate; used like the Words Minor and Minority with us. The Word in another Form of the same Signification, differing but in one Vowel, is rendered in our pres. Bib. youngest five times in this Chap. and that by Ainsworth here: but the old Latin has puer parvulus, a little Boy.

Ib. being dead, &c.] by which is shewn the Cause of dead,

dead, and he left alone of his Mother's, his Father loves him.

21. With that thou didst order thy Servants, Bring him down to me, that I may have a Sight of him.

22. When we replied to my Lord, The Youth cannot leave his Father: who, should he leave him, would die.

23. Yet thou saidest to thy Servants, If your youngest Brother does not come down with you, ye shall see my Face no more.

24. And when we got up to thy Servant my Father, we told him the Words of my Lord.

25. At length our Father saying, Go again, buy us a little Food;

26. We answered, We must not go down; though if our youngest Brother be with us, we may: for we must not see the Man's Face, when he is not along with us.

27. Upon this thy Servant, my Father, said to us; You know that of the two my Wife bore me,

28. One went out from me, so that I said, Verily he is torn in pieces; nor have I seen him to this Time.

29. And should you likewise take this out of my Sight, and Death befall him, you would bring down my grey Hairs with Harm to the Grave.

30. Now therefore when I come to thy Servant my Father, and the Youth is not with us, since his Life is bound up in the Life of him;

31. As soon as he sees that there is not the Youth, he will die: so thy Servants will bring down the grey Hairs of thy Servant, our Father, with Sorrow to the Grave.

32. Because thy Servant was thus engaged to him for the Youth, If I do not bring him to thee, let me be in blame with my Father all my Days:

33. Therefore now let thy Servant abide, I beseech thee, instead of the Youth, a Servant to my Lord; and let him go up with his Brothers;

34. (For how can I go up to my Father, when he is not with me?) lest I should see the Harm that will come on my Father.

CHAP. XLV.

THEN Joseph was not able to restrain himself, to all who were standing by him, but called out, Cause every Man to go out from me. So there was not one stood with him, when he made himself known to his Brothers.

2. And he uttered his Voice with such Crying, that the Egyptians heard, as did also Pharaoh's Family.

3. At length he said to his Brothers, I am Joseph; is my Father yet alive? But they could not answer him, as being troubled at his Presence.

4. Whereupon he said to them, Come nigher to me, I pray. Which they doing, he thus expressed himself: I am Joseph your Brother, whom you sold to Egypt.

5. Yet now be not grieved, nor let it displease you, that you sold me hither; since God sent me before you, that ye might be kept alive.

6. For these two Years the Famine has been within the Country; and there are five more in which will be no Tillage nor Harvest.

his Father's Love, and this with the rest tends to the main Point, to move Joseph's Compassion.

Ver. 29. Harm] not Sorrow, as Ver. 31. & Chap. xlii. 38.

Ver. 30. is bound up in] Tynd. hangeth by.

Ver. 32. Because] has relation to the next Verse; but what For in com. Transf. relates to, I know not.

Ver. 33. abide] there: so that it does not signify [be] as Gruden puts it in his Concordance; concerning which see more on Psal. lxxxix. 38.

Ver. 1. go out from me] where the Bish. have avoyde.

Ver. 2. uttered his Voice] Spoke with weeping the Words in the next Verse; not wept only.

1b. Family] Chald. the Men of Pharaoh's House.

Ver. 5. let it displease you] Heb. let it be incensing or displeasing in your Sight, idiomatical as frequently.

Ver. 6. no Tillage] Besides the Word of Joseph, the Height of the great River Nile, which runs quite through Egypt, might prevent the Tillage by prognosticating barren Years. Pliny has the ensuing Account of it, Nat. Hist. Lib. v. 9. Incipit crescere Nilus nova Luna, quacumque post solstitium est, sensim modiceque Cancrum sole transeunte, abundantissime autem Leonem, & residit in Virgine, iisdem quibus accrescit modus. In totum autem revocatur inter ripas in Libra, ut tradit Herodotus, centesimo die. Auctus ejus per puteos mensurae notis deprehenduntur.

Justum incrementum est cubitorum 16, minores aqua non omnia rigant, ampliores detinent tardius recedendo; hanc ferendi tempora absument, solo madente; illa non dant, siccitate: utrumque reputat provincia. In 12 cubitis famem sentit, in 13 etiamnum esurit, 14 cubita hilaritatem afferunt, 15 securitatem, 16 delicias. In Dr. Holland's Eng. Translation in fol. pt. 1634, thus: The River begins to rise and swell, at the next change of the Moone after the Sun-stand, by little and little gently, so long as he passes through the signa Cancer, but most abundantly when he is in Leo. And when he is entered Virgo, he filleth and settleth low again, in the same measure as he rose before. And is cleane brought within his bankes in Libra, which is, as Herodotus thinketh, by the hundreth day; (but he allows it to the rising, and the same to the falling, Lib. ii. Cap. 19.) How high it riseth, is known by markes and measures taken of certaine pits (Abulfeda giving the description of one, Geographia, p. 111. Eutychius and Elmachinus ascribing the Invention to Joseph.) The ordinary height of it is sixteen cubits. Under that gage the waters overflow not all. Above that stint they are a let and hinderance, by reason that the later it is ere they be fallen, and downe again. By these, the seed time is much of it spent, for that the earth is too wet. By the other there is none at all, by reason that the ground is dry and thirsty. The province taketh good keep and reckoning of both, the one as well as the other; for when it is no higher

7. Therefore

7. Therefore God sent me before you, to make you remain on the Earth, and to keep you alive with a great Deliverance.

8. So now you did not send me hither, but God; who has made me a Father to Pharaoh, a Master to his whole Family, and a Governor over all the Country of Egypt.

9. Make haste, and go up to my Father, and tell him; Thus says thy Son Joseph, God has made me a Lord to all Egypt: come down to me, do not stay.

10. And thou shalt dwell in the Country of Goshen, that thou mayest be near me, with thy Sons and Grandsons, thy Flocks, Herds, and all that thou hast.

11. Where I will sustain thee, since there are five Years more of Famine; lest thou shouldest become poor, with thy Family, and all that thou hast.

12. And behold your Eyes see, with my Brother Benjamin's, that my own Mouth speaks to you.

13. Now you shall tell my Father all my Glory in Egypt, and whatever you have than 12 cubits, it findeth extream famine: yea, and at 13 it feeleth hunger still, 14 cubits comforts their hearts, 15 bids them take no care, but 16 affoordeth them plenty and delicious dainties. It is added a little further, so soon as any part of the land is freed from the water, straightwaies it is sowed. This overflowing of Egypt, Herodotus, speaking of in L. ii. says, as in Littlebury's Translation, In our Time, unless the River swells to sixteen Cubits, or fifteen at least, the Country is not covered with Water, Vol. i. p. 144. during which Flood the People and Cattle live on the Mountains, where the Towns and Villages are, Diod. Sic. Lib. i. 3. Dr. Perry, in his View of the Levant, p. 273 — 289. has lately given a curious Account of it, if a little rectified, which I would just exhibit, to be compared with that of the Ancients, as being such a remarkable Thing both in History and Nature: he relates, that there is a Place built on Purpose (as it seems by Grand Caire) wherein is an octagon marble Pillar, or Nilescope, marked with Measures called Pikes, each of which contains 24 Digits; being, says he, as I judge, and am pretty sure, equimensurate to so many Inches, p. 274. but says elsewhere, these Pikes taken one with another, are not above twenty three Inches each, p. 286. (for the Franks or Christians dare not measure them, p. 283.) that upon visiting this before the River began to rise, on May 17. O. S. in the Year 1739. as it appears by him, he found eleven of these Pikes, and two Digits of the 12th above Water, besides the Capital, p. 281, 274. that the Egyptians assert the Nile always begins to rise on the 6th of June, O. S. p. 273. and on June 8. he says, there were near eleven Pikes of the Pillar dry, p. 281. that in a Week more the Water rose 12 Inches, the next Week not above 4, the following Week not above 8 Inches, the succeeding one to July 6. very little, p. 284. from whence to the 16th of the same Month, as appears by his Reckoning, it rose about seven Feet, p. 285, 282. On August 12. he says, he found three Digits of the uppermost Pike immersed, and 21 of them dry, p. 275, 285. (but wrongly adds, it was just 10 ½ Pikes from the lowest Ebb, p. 282, 285.) from which Time to September 3. being 22 Days, by his Computation the Water rose about 33 Inches, p. 282, 285. but beginning to fall from Sept. 1. he observed that from Aug. 31. to Sept. 5. all O. S. it ebbed 2 ½ Inches, p. 286. so that the greatest Height might be 34; according to which the whole Rise amounts to 11 Pikes and 15 Digits (of which Perry speaks variously, p. 275, 283, 284, 286.) and that to just 15 Cubits and a half of 1 ½ Foot each, as a Cubit has been commonly counted. This nicely agrees with the foregoing Antiquities, though the Doctor himself did not know how to reconcile them, and fancies all Writers must their Measure from the Bottom of the River, p. 284. Upon his sounding of which however in several Places, Sept. 5. he owns he found the deepest Water 18 ½ Pikes, p. 286. by which the low Water was 13 ½ Feet deep, notwithstanding Perry speaks of the latter as 4 or 5 Pikes deep, p. 278, 284, 286. The Breadth of the River he judges is not above three tenths of a Mile, p. 289. N. B. I chose to quote the Pages, as his Relation is something confused and discordant. After confuting several pretended Causes of this Inundation, Diodorus pitches upon that of Agatharcides the Cnidian as the best, who said, καὶ ἐναντὶν ἐν τοῖς κατὰ τὴν Αἰθιοπίαν ὄρεσι γίνεσθαι συνεχεῖς ὁμοῦς ἀπὸ θερμῶν τρεπῶν μίχρη τῆς μεταστροφῆς ἰσημερίας. Εὐλόγως ἂν τὸν Νεῖλον ἐν μὲν τῷ χειμῶνι συντρίβεται, τὴν κατὰ φύσιν ἔχοντα φύσιν ἀπὸ μόνης τῆς ἀπὸ τῶν ὄρεων κατὰ δὲ τὸ θέρος, διὰ τῆς ἔχουσιν ὁμοῦς λαμβάνειν τὴν ἀύξησιν. There is constant Rain yearly on the Mountains in Ethiopia, from the summer Solstice to the autumnal Equinox. It is therefore rational that the Nile should be contracted in the Winter, when it flows according to the Property it has from its own Sources only, and increases at Summer by receiving the Rain that is poured down. But Francis Alvarez has since given a more certain Relation of it in his Itinerary, Cap. 146. In Abassena hyems incipit medio Junii, definit medio Septembris: toto tempore ingentes sunt pluviae; unde crescit Nilus. In the Country of the Abyssinians or Inner Ethiopia (whither Alvarez went Ambassador) the Winter begins in the middle of June, and ends in the middle of September, all which Time there are great Rains, from whence the Nile increases. The Cause of those Rains Perry ascribes to the northerly Winds, which he says set in about the middle of May, and continue to blow briskly, and almost incessantly, from that Quarter, for three Months; which driving the Vapours and Clouds against the high Mountains of Ethiopia, they are forced down there in Rain, p. 272. This is the more probable, as 'the whole Kingdom of Egypt is one continued Plain, which admits of but very little Interruption from Hills, Rocks, or other Protuberances,' p. 476. The Doctor notwithstanding falls to spoiling his Phenomenon, by not allowing these Winds to produce Rain, because he noticed the Air at that Season to be free of Clouds, and yet concludes it is clearly accounted for, p. 273. but as the Levant, Caspian, Red Sea, &c. must certainly exhale forth a deal of Moisture, by the great Force of the Sun's Heat then and there, it would as certainly be driven by such Wind towards the upper Part of the Nile; though it might not be formed into Clouds, till it was gone beyond the lower Part of Egypt, where Perry made his Observation. Herodotus, in searching for the Cause, makes mention of such Winds under the Epithet of Etesian; as likewise Diod. Siculus from Thales. The Account that Prideaux gives of it is however incredible, that the Floods are a whole Year or more running out of Ethiopia to Egypt, without mentioning any Author for it, Connell. A. D. 374. For three Miles an Hour, which is the Current of the Nile nearly at the Time of its Inundation, View of Lev. p. 476. to reckon Nothing for the wonderful Steeps it falls down in Ethiopia, would exceed the Circumference of the whole Earth. As to the manner of Tillage, Herodotus adds, "As soon as the River has overflowed the Country and retreated again, every Man sows his own Land" and having put in his Hogs to tread the Seed into the Ground, expects the Harvest without farther Care," p. 145. For Conclusion, there is a Channel yet called Joseph's, which goes from the west Side of the Nile to the famous Lake Maris, View &c. p. 379, 408. a Lake according to Perry's Relation about 4 Miles broad, and 8 or 9 Leagues long, p. 407. having on the S. S. E. of it, at about a Mile's Distance, large Ruins of the supposed Labyrinth so famed in Antiquity, p. 381, 406, 407.

son: make haste also, and bring him down hither.

14. Next he fell upon his Brother Benjamin's Neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his.

15. Besides he kissed all his Brothers, and wept upon them; and after that they talked with him.

16. And when the Report was heard in Pharaoh's House, that Joseph's Brothers were come; both he and his Servants liked it well.

17. He therefore said to Joseph; Say to thy Brothers, Do this; load your Beasts, and get you along to the Country of Canaan.

18. Afterwards take your Father and Families, and come to me: so will I give you the Best of the Country of Egypt, and you shall eat the Fat of it.

19. Since thou art commanded, do you this; take Wagons from hence, for your Children and Wives, as also that you may carry your Father, and come.

20. Nor let your Eyes regard your Goods: for you shall have the Best of all this Country.

21. And the Sons of Israel did so, Joseph giving them Wagons at Pharaoh's Command; as he did Necessaries for the Way.

22. To every one of them in particular he gave a Suit of Cloaths; giving Benjamin three hundred Pieces of Silver, and five Suits.

23. As likewise to his Father he sent thus; ten He-asses carrying some of the Best of Egypt, and so many She-asses carrying Corn, Bread and other Victuals, for his Father on the Way,

24. Thus he sent his Brothers away, that they might go; and said to them, Be not disturbed in the Way.

25. And going up from Egypt, they went into the Country of Canaan, to Jacob their Father;

26. Whom they told as follows, Joseph is yet alive; and that he was Governor over all the Country of Egypt: however his Heart failed, so that he did not believe them.

27. But when they spoke to him all the Words of Joseph, which he had to them, and he saw the Wagons that Joseph had sent to carry him, his Spirit revived.

28. And Israel thus uttered himself, It is a great Thing that my Son Joseph is yet alive; I will go, and see him before I die.

CHAP. XLVI.

ACCORDINGLY Israel travelled, with all that he had, and coming to Beer-sheba, offered Sacrifices to the God of his Father Isaac.

2. God also said thus to him in the Visions of the Night, Jacob, Jacob; who answered, Here am I.

3. And he replied; I am God, the God of thy Father: be not afraid of going down to Egypt; for I will make thee a great Nation there.

4. I will go down with thee thither, and will also bring thee quite up; nay Joseph shall close up thy Eyes.

Ver. 18. Best of the Country] See it in our pref. Translation, Chap. xlvii. 6.

Ver. 19. as also that] Sending Wagons would lay an Obligation upon them to come. The following Verbs carry and come are not imperative, as the two preceding ones do and take are; see Ver. 27.

Ver. 22. a Suit] Besides the Impropriety of the Word, changes in com. Transf. being more than one, it will follow by Consequence that Benjamin had not five times as much Apparel given him as each of his Brothers, which is repugnant to the confessed Meaning of the Passage.

Ver. 23. Victuals] By the com. Translators turned victual, 2 Chron. xi. 23. If by Meat here they intended flesh only, the Word has not that Signification, for there was not flesh for all in or on the Tree, Dan. iv. 12. where it is used: but if they meant by it Victuals or Food, so was Bread, which therefore requires other to be added; unless we had Words like the Lat. opsonium or obsonium, with which Jun. and Cast. translate it, signifying all sorts of Victuals besides Bread.

Ver. 24. that they might] For he could not say to them what follows, after they were departed.

Ib. disturbed] It may signify the Mind being moved by any afflicting Passion, such as anger, 2 Kings xix. 27. fear, Psal. lxxvii. 19. grief, 2 Sam. xviii. 33. all which may be here meant.

Ver. 26. and that] Our Translators left out that, not knowing else it seems how to make the Words coherent.

Ib. so that he did not believe them] Cast. expresses it, ad quem ille nuncium exanimatus fidem eis habebat, at which News he being astonished, did not believe them. Here is no Jacob in the Original; vid. Chap. xli. 7.

Ver. 28. a great Thing] as if he had said, no matter for all these great things, this is a great thing that he is alive. Thing is comprehended in the Heb. Adjectives, as in the Greek and Latin ones of the neuter Gender. So the Septuagint turn it, Μεγα πολ τον, it is a great thing to me; but Onksles and Abr. Ben Ezra supply it by another Substantive, the former translating, רבי לי ודא, it is great Joy to me, and the latter expounding it, רבי לי ודא, this is great Gladness to me; Jarhi also in like manner, רבי לי עוד שמחה ודא, it is yet great Gladness and Rejoicing to me, since my Son Joseph is still alive. Munster turns it, multum est, quod, it is much that.

Ver. 2. God] Lookup has in his late Transf. as also from the Beginning of the Book, the Gods, but in the next Ver. he said, I am the God; so destroying Impiety by Absurdity. N. B. The Heb. has the same Word in both Places, and the same singular Verb in each.

Ver. 3. be not afraid] It seems Jacob was afraid to go without knowing it was God's Will he should, and so prepared himself (as the Manner was then with Sacrifice) that the Lord might reveal it to him. A good Example! even for the Affairs of this Life, as that was.

Ver. 4. bring thee up] in his Posterity (though his Body was before) when he should become a great Nation, as in the preceding Verse. Thus it is spoken of Jacob's Sons, Chap. xlix.

5. So he got ready to go from Beer-sheba; and his Sons carried him, with their Children and Wives, in the Wagons which Pharaoh had sent for that Purpose.

6. He, and all his Offspring with him, likewise took their Cattle and Substance, which they had got in the Country of Canaan, and went to Egypt.

7. Whither he had along with him his Sons and Grandsons, Daughters and Granddaughters, and all his Offspring, who were with him.

8. Now these are the Names of the Israelites who went thither: Jacob and his Sons (Reuben being his First-born)

9. With the Sons of Reuben, Enoch, Phallu, Hezron and Carmi.

10. And the Sons of Simeon, Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Saul the Son of a Canaanitefs.

11. Moreover the Sons of Levi, Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

12. As likewise Judah's Sons, Er, Onan, Shelah, Pharez and Zerah; only the two former died in the Country of Canaan. And the Sons of Pharez, Hezron and Hamul.

13. Next Issachar's Sons, Tola, Phuvah, Job and Shimron.

14. Then the Sons of Zebulun, Sereb, Elon and Jahleel.

15. The foregoing were the Sons of Leah, whom she bore to Jacob at Padan-aram, with Dinah his Daughter; all which Persons of his of both Sexes, were thirty three.

16. The Sons too of Gad; Ziphion and Haggi, Shuni and Ezbon, Eri, and Arodi, and Areli.

17. And the Sons of Asher, Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, and Beriah, with Serah their Sister; Beriah's Sons likewise, Heber and Malchiel.

18. The foregoing were the Sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to his Daughter Leah; she bearing to Jacob these sixteen Persons.

19. The Sons of Rachel his Wife, Joseph and Benjamin.

20. And Joseph had born in the Country of Egypt, by Asenath the Daughter of Potipherah Prince of On, Manasseh and Ephraim.

21. As also Benjamin's Sons, Bela, and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera and Naaman, Ehi and Rosh, Muppim, and Huppim, and Ard.

22. These are the Sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob; all the Persons fourteen.

23. And the Sons of Dan, Hushim.

24. Lastly the Sons of Naphtali, Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer and Shillem.

25. The preceding were Bilhah's Sons, whom Laban gave to Rachel his Daughter; she bearing Jacob these seven Persons in all.

26. All the Persons that went with Jacob to Egypt, who proceeded from himself, besides the Wives of his Sons, were in the whole sixty six.

Ver. 7. all his Offspring] all the rest, viz. his great Grandchildren; for the others were named before.

Ib. who were with him] Some being in Egypt.

Ver. 8. Sons] If the Reader compares this Translation with our late Shuckford's Opinion of divers Faults in the Original in this Chap. he may perhaps see such an Opinion to be unnecessary and groundless; to the Certainty and providential Preservation of Holy Writ. See his Concels. of Sac. and Propb. Hist. Vol. i. Book vii. p. 198.

Ver. 9. Enoch] See Chap. v. 18.

Ib. Phallu] written Pallu in our Bible, Exod. vi. 14. Numb. xxvi. 5, 8. 1 Chron. v. 3. though it is all one in the Original.

Ib. Hezron] Numb. xxvi. 6. Hezron, the same.

Ver. 10. Saul] This is the same Name with that in Chap. xxxvi. 37, 38. and also the Name of the first King of Israel.

Ver. 13. Phuvah] called in the com. Transf. Pua, Numb. xxvi. 23. though there be no odds.

Ib. Job] This is another Name different from that in the Book of Job, which is in Heb. Ijob, having a Letter more.

Ver. 15. thirty three] Jacob himself as he was an Israelite, Ver. 8. (according to what we read Exod. xii. 40.) is reckoned in this Number, and the two Sons of Pharez (Er and Onan being dead, Ver. 12. Ch. xxxviii. 7, 10.) who must therefore be born, and could not else have gone to Egypt with the rest, as in Ver. 8, 26, 27. Exod. i. 1, 5. Deut. x. 22. which all shew that Jacob and his Offspring (their Wives excepted, at Ver. 26. who were not his Offspring) at that Time were seventy Persons.

Ver. 16. Haggi] So it is put right, Numb. xxvi. 15.

Ver. 17. Imnah] The same Word which is here Imnah in the com. Bible, is Imna, Numb. xxvi. 44. and Imnah, 1 Chron. vii. 30. which last is after the manner of writing the following and other Names in our Language.

Ib. Ishvah] In the vulg. Eng. it is Ishuah, and 1 Chron. vii. 30. Ishuah, nevertheless the Heb. has no Variation.

Ib. Ishvi] The pres. Vers. here has Isui, Numb. xxvi. 44. Jesui, and 1 Chron. vii. 30. Ishuai; yet in the Original there is found no Alteration.

Ib. Serah] Our Translators not knowing or minding the Heb. Accent, call her Sarah in Numb. xxvi. 46. look Chap. x. 24.

Ver. 18. sixteen] In which Number are counted Beriah's two Sons, as those of Pharez above.

Ver. 21. Bela] So it is Chap. xiv. 2. Numb. xxvi. 38, 40. 1 Chron. vii. 6. & viii. 1. although b is added here.

Ver. 23. Hushim] Hushim a Woman's Name, 1 Chron. viii. 8. has a long u, this a short one. It is said Sons, notwithstanding there was but one, which is the manner of speaking in the Heb. Tongue, as Ab. Ezra observes in his Annotations on it: Words plural and singular, one for the other are not uncommon; so Ver. 18. it is Person in Heb. though there were sixteen. Nor are these Defects or Blemishes in the Hebrew, but Elegancies in that and other Languages when rightly used, as they are in the Scripture; of which may be consulted the 20th and 21st Chap. of Longinus's Essay on Sublime.

Ver. 26. himself] Heb. not loins; but thigh, and that only in this old manner of Expression; and rendered body in the com. Tr. Judg. viii. 30.

Ib. sixty six] Jacob is not in this Sum, they being those (as in the Text) who went with him.

27. And

27. And the Sons of Joseph, who were born to him in Egypt, being two Persons; all those of Jacob's Family who were come into Egypt, were seventy.

28. And he sent Judah before him to Joseph, to give him direction forward to Goshen, that they might go to that Country.

29. Whereupon Joseph harnessed his Chariot, and went up thither to meet Israel his Father; who when he was apparent to him, fell upon his Neck, and there wept a while.

30. At length Israel says to him, Now let me die; after I have seen thy Face, that thou art yet alive.

31. After this Joseph said to his Brothers and Father's Family; I will go up and tell Pharaoh, that you, who were in the Country of Canaan, are come to me;

32. And that the Men feed Flocks, because they are Men of Cattle; so have brought their Flocks and Herds, with all that they have.

33. Therefore when he calls you, and asks, What is your Business?

34. Do you say, Thy Servants have been Men of Cattle, from our Youth till now, the same as our Forefathers: that you may dwell in the Country of Goshen; for all who feed Flocks are abominable to the Egyptians.

SO Joseph went to tell Pharaoh, and said, My Father and Brothers, with their Flocks, Herds, and all that they have, are come from the Country of Canaan; and behold they are in that of Goshen.

2. He also took five Men of the least of his Brothers, whom he presented before him.

3. And when Pharaoh said to his Brothers, What is your Business? They answered him, Thy Servants have fed Flocks, the same as our Forefathers.

4. Moreover they said to him, We are come to sojourn in the Country; for there is no Pasture for the Flocks which thy Servants have, because the Famine is grievous in the Country of Canaan: now therefore let thy Servants dwell, we pray, in that of Goshen.

5. Upon which he spoke thus to Joseph; Thy Father and Brothers being come to thee;

6. The Country of Egypt is before thee, cause them to dwell in the Best of it: let it be in that of Goshen; and if thou knowest that there are Men of Ability among them, make them Managers over those Cattle which I have.

Ver. 27. two] The Gr. Bib. has intra nine; when the five Sons and Grandsons of Manasseh and Ephraim added in that Transf. amount but to seven.

Ib. seventy] which the four Numbers above, 33, 16, 14 and 7, make up; among whom was Jacob, as mentioned already, being one of his own Family according to this Verse: so exact is the Scripture in speaking, notwithstanding the Blunders which have been made by Interpreters upon this. For seventy the Septuagint have ἑβδομήκοντα seventy five; whom Stephen followed, Acts vii. 14. speaking to the Jews, by whom that Version was then used; as by John Hus and other Reformers the worse Latin Translation, among the Papists; look Chap. xlvii. 31. But in Deut. x. 22. the Greek, as well as the Hebrew, has but 70. And even here the 75 are made up by five of Joseph's Grandchildren and great Grandchildren, added at the 20th Verse, who could not then be born. See Jerome's Heb. Quest. on Gen. where he handles this well and clearly. Notwithstanding which, what a Pother have some made in reckoning 75! Stackhouse thinking, one must suppose, he had chosen the best, makes it up with some of their Wives, supposing Benjamin to be still unmarried, though he reckons in ten of his Children, Hist. of Holy Bib. p. 341. Edit. 2. Bedford computing Dinah not to go to Egypt, contrary to the Text, Ver. 8, 15. counts Er and Onan into the 70, and leaves them out of the 75, Script. Chron. Book iii. Chap. 4. p. 129. And this may be said, that the Veracity of the Text in Acts depends on truly relating what Stephen spoke, as Ver. 2. the Errors of whose Speech, if they were not necessary, do not weaken the Authority of the Scripture.

Ver. 29. harnessed] Heb. bound or tied.

Ib. was apparent to] exactly to the Heb. and very apt.

Ver. 30. says] Introduced by Eliz. Rowe with, Joseph, my short Delight, and long my Moan; My much belov'd, and much lamented Son!

Lost to my Hopes, beyond my Hopes restor'd: Betray'd to serve in Egypt, now her Lord.

Ver. 32. they are Men of Cattle] This which is quite literal, pleased me better than the Circumlocution in the com. Transf.

Ver. 34. abominable] The learned Spuckford in his late Connexion, &c. Vol. 1. supposes this last has been added to the Text, because there did not appear to him a sufficient Reason for it; but the Invasion, Ravaging and Detention of their Country, which the Shepherds had made, as Josephus relates from Manetho against Ap. Lib. 1. mentioned on Chap. xxx. might be very sufficient for the Egyptians to abhor at least foreign or Canaanite Shepherds. Sol. Jar. writes it was, לפי שהם להם אלוהות because they were Deities to them, i. e. Cattle to the Egyptians; see Exod. viii. 26. however the forementioned kind of Conclusion, too much used by our Moderns, is very weak and unwarrantable, as well as of dangerous Tendency, in this deistical Age especially.

Ver. 2. of the least] The Heb. by no means signifying some; and the Reading would be then so absurd, as five Men of some of his Brethren; and the Supposition may not be unjust, that it was put so, for want of knowing which of them these were: so the Gen. Vers. has part, and the Bishops, of the company, alike significant. Why it was Sol. Jarbi informs us in these Words, מן הפחותים שבהם לבדור שאין נראים נבורים שאם יראה אותם נבורים of the least that were among them for Mantiness, who did not seem stout Men; which if they had done, he would have made them his Soldiers; see the like 1 Kings xii. 31. & xlii. 33. which also if &c. in Ver. 6. favours. In the Marg. of the Bish. Bibl. it is of the extreme partes, but put wrong in 1575 to Goshen.

Ver. 4. Famine] by Tynd. and the Bish. fameshment.

Ver. 6. Cattle] in another Character and Parenthesis in the Bish. Bib. so incorrectly.

7. Joseph likewise had in Jacob his Father, and caused him to stand before Pharaoh; whom Jacob blessed.

8. And Pharaoh said to him, How much is the Time of thy whole Life?

9. And Jacob answered him, The Time of my whole Sojourning is a hundred and thirty Years: small and ill has been the Time of my whole Life, nor has it reached to that of my Fathers, in the Time of their Sojournings.

10. Again blessing Pharaoh, he went out from before him.

11. Next Joseph placed his Father and Brothers, and gave them a Possession, in the Best of the Country of Egypt, in that of Rameses; as Pharaoh had commanded.

12. Nay he sustained his Father and Brothers, and all his Father's Family, with Bread after the manner of Children.

13. For there was none in all the Country, because the Famine was very grievous; infomuch that the Country, both of Egypt and Canaan, was tired out by means of it.

14. And he gathered all the Money which was found in both those Countries, for the Provision that they bought, and brought it into Pharaoh's House.

15. At length the Money being consumed out of the Country of Egypt, as well as that of Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph, and said, Give us Bread, for why should we die before thee? since the Money fails.

16. If it does, says he, give your Cattle, and I will supply you for them.

17. With that they brought their Cattle to him; who gave them Bread for the Horses, and for the Cattle both of the Flocks and Herds, as also for the Asses: so he led them on with Bread for all their Cattle, through that Year.

18. When it was ended, they also went to him in the second Year, making him this Address; We cannot conceal from our Lord, that not only the Money is spent, but he has the Possession of the Beasts: we have Nothing left before our Lord, besides our Bodies and Land.

19. Why should we die in thy Sight, and that with our Land? buy us and it for Bread: that we may be with it Servants to Pharaoh; and give Seed, that we may live, instead of dying, and the Land may not be desolate.

20. Accordingly Joseph bought all the Land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold their respective Fields, because the Famine was become great upon them: thus the Land became Pharaoh's.

21. As for the People, he made them pass away to Cities, from one End of the Bounds of Egypt to another.

22. Only the Land of the Princes he did not buy: for they had an Allowance from Pharaoh, and lived upon their Allowance which he gave them; therefore they did not sell their Land.

23. Afterwards Joseph said to the People; Behold I have bought you now, and your Land for Pharaoh: here is Seed for you, that you may sow it.

24. But in the Crop you shall give the fifth Part to Pharaoh; and four Parts shall be yours, for the Seed of the Field, for your own Food, and your Domesticks, with that of your Children.

25. And they said, Thou hast kept us alive; let us be in Favour with our Lord, that we may be Servants to Pharaoh.

26. Then Joseph made it for a Statute to this Time over the Country of Egypt, that Pharaoh should have the fifth Part; however the Land of the Princes alone did not become his.

Ver. 8. Time of thy whole Life] as in the Ver. after.

Ver. 9. my whole Life] As a whole (com. Transf. full) Month for a Month of Days, Deut. xxi. 13, &c. and whole, Numb. xi. 20. so Ver. 28.

Ver. 12. Father] of whom Const. Manasses in his Annals in Gr. Verse, Εὐπαθεῖ τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς, ψωμίζεται προσόντως, καὶ τὸν ὀδόντα τὴν λιμῆν τὸν φθαρτὸν ἐκτρέφει.

He is indulged with good Things, fed bit by bit to the full, and escapes the deadly Tooth of Famine, according as here follows.

Ib. after the manner of Children] For he was as a Parent to them, and they as Children who could not provide for themselves in the Famine. Seb. Munst. has the same in Latin, viz. juxta morem puerorum; Pagn. quemadmodum alitur parvulus, like as a Child is nourished; Jun. and Trem. quasi in os parvulorum indito, being put as it were into the Mouth of Children; the Tigurin Vers. ut sicut pueri fieri, as it uses to be done to a Youth; and the old Eng. even as young Children; as also a late anonymous Transf. as one would nourish a little child: so Broughton says in his Consent of Scripture, as Meat is put into a Babe's Mouth. לחם does not signify families; besides they were fed according to the Number as well of the great as the small, and their not being in the Heb. confirms this Reading.

Ver. 13. tired] alluding perhaps to the Famine being heavy, for heavy things tire those who bear them.

Ver. 17. led] לָקַח does not in the least signify to feed. Montan. turns it literally duxit; Ainsworth, led; Trem. and Jun. fecit ut transigerent, made them pass over. Jarhi expounds it, כָּמוֹ וְיִנְהַג it is like, And he guided them.

Ver. 18. Here our is twice added in the com. Bib. without Distinction.

Ver. 19. and that with] or even we with, very suitably.

Ver. 22. Princes] Look concerning this Word, Chap. xli. 45. and the Annot. of Jun. and Trem. here.

Ver. 24. Joseph, like a faithful and wise Governor, considered their Wants, that they might be answered; assigning such a Part to each particular Branch of them, that Pharaoh might have no more than they could spare.

27. Thus Israel dwelt in the Country of Egypt, namely that of Goshen: in which they possessed, were fruitful, and multiplied exceedingly.

28. And Jacob lived there seventeen Years: so the Time of his whole Life was a hundred and forty seven Years.

29. At last when the Time of Israel drew near for him to die, he called his Son Joseph, and said to him; If now I am in thy Favour, put thy Hand, I pray, under my Thigh; and dealing kindly and truly with me, do not bury me, I pray, in Egypt.

30. But I will lie with my Fathers, and thou shalt carry me out hence, and bury me in their Grave: who said, I will do according to thy Word.

31. However he replied, Swear to me; accordingly he did: at which Israel bowed down upon the Head of the Bed.

CHAP. XLVIII.

AND after these Things it being related to Joseph, Behold thy Father is sick; he took his two Sons with him; Manasseh and Ephraim.

2. When it was likewise expressly told Jacob, that his Son Joseph was coming to him; he strengthened himself, and sat upon the Bed.

3. And he said to Joseph; God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the Country of Canaan, and blessed me,

4. Saying to me; Behold I will make thee fruitful, multiply thee, and make thee a Congregation of People; nay will give this Country a lasting Possession to thy Offspring after thee.

5. Now therefore thy two Sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, who were born to thee in the Country of Egypt, against I came hither, shall be mine, like Reuben and Simeon.

6. But thy Issue that thou begettest after them, shall be thine; who shall be called by their Brothers Names, in their Possession.

7. As for me, when I came from Padan; Rachel died by me in the Country of Canaan on the Way; when there was yet about a Mile to come to Ephrath; whom I buried Ver. 27. Our Translators have put their Mark for a Section, not at the Beginning of a Parashah, or the great Heb. Section, but at the Verse before.

Ver. 30. Graw] See the Word Chap. xxxv. 20. as also look the Note on Chap. xxiii. 4.

Ver. 31. Bed] The 72 Greek Translators mistaking מִטָּה a Bed for מַטֵּה a Staff here (though not at Chap. xlviii. 2.) makes it probable that the Copy translated from had no Points, id est Vowels, according also to Buxtorf, Vindie. p. 548, 551. That Version the Writer to the Hebrews followed, Chap. xi. 21. it being necessary that he should keep to what was then the common Bible, when he was writing to the common People, who might know no other. For this Reason a double Caution should be used, in reading such Citations or References, in the Books of the New Testament; not to think they weaken the Credit of the Holy Scripture, nor to endeavour to reconcile a wrong Translation with the true Original, about which many have unsuccessfully as well as needlessly taken great Pains: for it is sufficient, that it was proper for the Apostles, &c. to follow the com. Bible of the Septuagint, which may be easily proved and believed; see Jerome Quest. Heb. in Gen. xlv. 26.

If any would infer from this and some other the like Places of the ancient Greek Version, that the Hebrew was then all written without Vowels and Accents, the Consequence of which would be that the Scripture was uncertain; they may be informed that the contrary may rather be proved from it: for if the Vowels had been invented afterwards, without doubt the Inventors of them would have followed the Septuagint (whose Translation was most ancient and famous, being publicly received and used by the Jewish Nation) and made the Word here matteh, a Staff; &c. How would they have offered or dared to contradict them, and what all had received for Truth, without any Authority for so doing? For if מִטָּה were thus unpointed, it could not be known that it was a Bed; nay on the Supposition of the Vowels being added afterwards, we should not know, nor have Reason to believe, it was a Bed now, since the 70 have Staff; whose Authority would be greater than that of we know not whom, the imagined Introducers of the Hebrew Points.

As the numerous Vowels and Accents throughout the Hebrew Bible, would make the penning them exceeding tedious, and a Work of great Care, we may well believe such Copies were very scarce; especially if we consider the unfit State of the Jews for it after the Captivity, and their being accustomed to this Day to read without the Points. Those Interpreters being separated one from another, by Ptolemy Philadelphus King of Egypt, each to do a Part; it is not credible (and even by this Place) that they had so many pointed Bibles; probably none at all, such being kept, even till of late Printing was found out, for preservation of the Scripture, rather than common Use: and it is not likely the Books of that Sort would be sent into Egypt, since an exact Translation was not intended. If it was likewise done in 72 Days, as Aristæus relates, without their comparing what they did together; we may the more easily account for such Errors, and yet leave Room enough for Bibles with the Accents and Vowels, as now they are, to have a Being: and there are at this time many Books without them, as there were formerly. Of this see at large on Neb. viii. 8. That the Text mentioned above in the Epistle to the Hebrews, refers to this Place and Time, appears because it has the very Words of the Septuagint here, ναὶ ἀποκατέστη ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ τῷ πάτρει αὐτοῦ; and may be understood to tell what Jacob did by Faith at the two Visits Joseph made him, related at the End of this, and in the next Chapter; which being said to be done when Jacob was a dying, the latter that was more properly so is mentioned first, and the Translation might be blessed each of the Sons of Joseph, as well as worshipped. Were it indeed needful to justify the Insertion of Staff any further, one might suppose that Verse in Hebrews speaks only of the second Visit, and so cannot be proved by the most tenacious to interfere with this.

Ver. 5. against] See the same Word, Ch. xlviii. 25.

Ver. 6. If Joseph should have had any more Children, they were not to be included in this Adoption, or become other Tribes, nor was there to be a Tribe of Joseph distinct from those of Manasseh and Ephraim; but his Name was to be sunk in theirs, and if he had more Children, they were to belong to them; and to which of them, I suppose, was left to Joseph.

Ver. 7. by me] Tynd. and Bish. upon my hands, as if the Original was so; but is not.

8. Israel also looking at Joseph's Sons, asked, Who are these?

9. And he said to his Father, They are my Sons, whom God has given me here: then replied he, Do bring them to me, that I may bless them.

10. For his Eyes being heavy by reason of old Age, he could not well see: accordingly he brought them nigh to him; who kissed them, and embraced them.

11. And he said to Joseph, I did not deem I should see thy Face; but behold God has let me see also thy Offspring.

12. Joseph then took them out from between his Knees, bowing down with his Face to the Ground.

13. Again he took both of them, Ephraim in his right Hand towards Israel's left Hand, with Manasseh in his left Hand towards the other's right Hand, and brought nigh to him.

14. However Israel stretched forth his right Hand, and put upon Ephraim's Head, though he was the Youngest, and his left Hand upon Manasseh's Head; understanding by his Hands that Manasseh was the First-born.

15. And he blessed Joseph, and said; God before whom my Fathers Abraham and Isaac walked continually, God who fed me ever since I have been to this Day,

16. The Angel who has redeemed me from all Evil, bless the Youths; and let them be called by my Name, and that of Abraham and Isaac my Fathers: let them also increase to a Multitude within the Earth.

17. But when Joseph saw that his Father put his right Hand upon Ephraim's Head, he disliked it; therefore he held up his Father's Hand, to put it away from his Head upon that of Manasseh,

18. And said to him, Not so, my Father: for this is the First-born; put thy right Hand upon his Head.

19. For all that his Father refused, and said, I know my Son, I know it; he also will become a People, and he also will be great: but certainly his younger Brother will be greater than he, whose Offspring will be of the Nations a full one.

20. He further blessed them at the same Time as follows; Israel will bless thus by thee, God make thee like Ephraim and Manasseh: so he put Ephraim before Manasseh.

21. Israel moreover said to Joseph; Behold I shall die: but God will be with you, and have you back to the Country of your Fathers.

22. And I give thee one Parcel above thy Brothers; which I took out of the Possession of the Amorites, with my Sword and Bow.

CHAP. XLIX.

BESIDES Jacob called his Sons, and said: Get together, that I may tell you what will befall you in the latter Days.

2. Be gathered, and hear, O Sons of Jacob; even hearken to Israel your Father.

3. Reuben, thou wast my First-born, my Ability, and the Commencement of my Manhood; the Excellency, the Dignity, and the Supereminence.

Ib. a Mile] Turn back to Chap. xxxv. 16.

Ver. 10. well see] not to contradict Ver. 8.

Ver. 12. Knees] Jacob's Knees, where he had embraced them.

Ver. 14. understanding by his Hands] or making his Hands find out; because he could not see well enough to distinguish them.

Ib. that] Jun. and Trem. thus render this Phrase, cognoscebat palpando manibus suis Menaschen esse primogenitum, he knew by the feeling of his Hands that Manasseh was the First-born; Pagn. literally, fecit intelligere manus suas quod Menasch, he made his Hands understand that Manasseh.

Ver. 15. blessed Joseph] in his Sons.

Ver. 19. of the Nations a full one] I cannot think my self unhappy in lighting on this Expression, when I might suppose some others also have been uneasy at a multitude of Nations, since it is apparent that the Tribe of Ephraim became at most but one Nation; and the Heb. Word properly signifies Fulness, scarce Multitude. Gen. full of nations.

Ver. 22. Parcel] The Land which he bought by Scherem, Chap. xxxiii. 18, 19. called afterwards Sychar, John iv. 5. which Joseph's Posterity accordingly had, Josh. xxiv. 32.

Ib. Amorites] As Jacob bought it at first, and that of the Hivites, Chap. xxxiii. 19. & xxxiv. 2. this appears not to be what he speaks of, though the Sword and Bow have been weakly interpreted Money, &c. more probably the Amorites seized it afterwards, and Jacob took it again from them by force, which makes all agreeable to the Words.

Ver. 1. Get &c.] What shall be done with this and other the most exalted Strains of that called the holy Tongue, whether poetical or not? To translate them coldly like plain History, &c. as has been hitherto done, is to disgrace and spoil them. Such a Version, unthinkingly literal, would sometimes grovel in the very Obscure, or quite Absurd. At the same time that the Sun shines gloriously bright in Palestine, it may yield but a glimmering Twilight here, or not have released us from the opaque Advent of Day. The Hebrew has its Sublimity, so has the English; but they may be little less different, than their Regions, in the East and West, are distant. Yet how would my Pen tremble to attempt much! so I shall but venture to coast the Shore, without losing Sight of Land; being indeed not convinced the former should be done: Revelation is sacred. If the Original is not too much discredited, let that be accepted as sufficient for the first Essay.

6. Do not enter into their Counsel, my Soul; in their Congregation, my Voice, be not united: for in their Anger they killed the Men, and in their Self-will exterminated the Cattle.

7. Cursed be their Wrath, since it was fierce; and their Rage, as being furious:

I will divide them in Jacob, and disperse them in Israel.

8. Thee, Judah, thy Brothers will praise; thy Hand will be on the Neck of thy Enemies: thy Father's Sons will bow down to thee.

9. Judah is courageous, with the young Lion; from the Prey, my Son, thou gettest up; he stoops down, lies down like a Lion; nay is like a stout Lion, which who shall rouse up?

10. The Scepter will not be gone from Judah, nor a Law-giver of his own Offspring; till Shiloh comes, and those of the Nations are gathered to him.

Illustration in this poetical Speech, as it is Ver. 7. there being the Point Athnah for our Colon or Semicolon put between them; denoting the Birth-right, Priesthood, and Kingly Authority; all which belonged to the eldest Son. So the Targum of Onkelos has the latter Part, לך רצח חיי לְסֵבֶב תִּלְחָח חוֹלְקִין בְּכִירוּתָא בְּדוּנָתָא וּמַלְכוּתָא It was meet for thee to receive three Parts, the Birth-right, the Priesthood and the Kingdom; to which the Jerusalem Targum adds, וְעַל הַחַסִּיד רְאוּבֵן בְּרִי אֲחִיהָבָהּ פְּכוּרָתָא לְיוֹסֵף ועל החסיד ראובן ברי אחיהבה פכורתא ליוסף But for the Sin of my Son Reuben, the Birth-right is given to Joseph, the Kingdom to Judah, and the high Priesthood to the Tribe of Levi. Pagnin. in Lex. translates, excellencia, dignitas, & excellencia fortis; and Buxtorf explains both this and the following Word excellencia, citing this Place.

Ib. Super-] For וְ is an Adjective, not a Substantive.

Ver. 4. expect not to excel] For he lost the Birth-right, 1 Chron. v. 1. and as Fuller observes, neither King, Judge, (Priest he should have omitted) nor Prophet came from him, Pisgab Sight, p. 55.

Ib. mounted my Couch] my Couch standing next to the foregoing Verb in the Original, the Gen. Bib. joins them together, and makes a Subject to this Verb thus, thy dignitie is gone; but the Heb. Accents doubly disprove it (and were it not for them it might be so) Tifha at the former Verb denoting a Separation from the following, and Merca at Couch a Conjunction with the last.

Ver. 5. whose Bargains] which they made with the Shechemites, Chap. xxxiv. 5. that they should receive the Instruments of Circumcision, which they turned to Instruments of Violence; the Word coming from the Root מכר to sell or bargain, and may be plural because spoken of two Persons. So Aben Ezra expounds it; and says Ainsworth, "Thus also the Greek may be understood, hairesis being sometimes used for a conditional Covenant." Jus. and Trem. also turn it accordingly by conventionibus.

Ver. 6. Voice] or Tongue, as shewn on Psal. xvi. 9. and not the Soul, to be the same as before: which Philip Levi the Jew would have it signify, in his Hebr. Gram. printed in English at Oxford, p. 131. for this he pleads that the Verb agrees with Soul fem. and not with Glory masc. which is just the contrary; nay Soul must be masc. as it sometimes is in Heb. to agree with its own Verb; unless both are of the third Person, and that makes a Difference of Gender, says Buxtorf.

Ib. be not united] But in the Sept. Vers. let not my Livers contend, which none I fancy will be fond of preferring to the Heb. and therefore it would be perverse indeed to pretend it was so then; yet how oft has it been done in other Places! On the contrary it is apparent, that they mistook the Reading of e for e to make Liver, as in the Verb they seem to have done וְ for וְ fetching it from וְ

Ib. the Men] See Chap. xxxiv. 25. Ainsworth writes on it, "The Singular is often put for many, as the Man of Israel sted, 1 Chron. x. 1. (which I would observe is the same Word וְ as here) that is the Men of Israel, 1 Sam. xxxi. 1.

Ib. exterminated &c.] That is took away all the Cattle, Chap. xxxiv. 28.

Ib. Cattle] Heb. Ox, as the principal of the Beasts for the whole. Sber in the Text is an Ox, not a Wall, that being Sbu- another Word, which is in Ver. 22. "Neither was there mentioned any pulling down of Walls in Gen. 34." says Ainsworth. Sol. Jar. and the Jer. Targum expound the Ox to be Joseph from Deut. xxxiii. 17. and the Septuagint have raigon a Bull. Jun. and Trem. render after the manner of this Version, occiderunt viros, — avulserunt boves. The ancient Eng. Bibles read, houghed an axe, according to the Sept. the French has, des hommes — les bœufs, the Men — the Oxen.

Ver. 8. Thee—praise] His Name signifying Praise.

Ver. 9. courageous] Were I here to say Nothing, I might expect to hear, The Hebrew does not signify courageous. But how then was he as a Lion, by which it might otherwise be rendered? or how was he such, but by, or at least without, being so? Who, versed in that Tongue, knows not, that it elegantly expresses Qualities in this Manner?

Ib. with] as in Job iii. 14, 15. & ix. 26.

Ib. stoops down] as a Lion gnawing the Prey.

Ib. may is like] This belonging to that after, not before, contrary to the com. Trans. as appears both by the best Sense, and the Heb. Accents.

Ver. 10. Scepter will not be gone] I understand Jacob to prophesy of the Government and Magistracy in general of the two Tribes (of which Judah was the Chief) from the Time of Rehabeam, to the Destruction of Jerusalem, in which Age Christ came. The best Expositor of it, that I have read, is Cunaeus in his Commonwealth of the Hebrews, from whom I take the following, Chap. 9. Eng. Trans. "I suppose the Scepter to be nothing else but the Majesty of Empire — pertaining to the Commonwealth; — of this Scepter, which a long time was common to all the Tribes, the divine Patriarch spoke not in that celebrated Oracle. He had respect unto the latter Times (according to Ver. 1.) — when the Tribe of Judah — began to have a Commonwealth of their own, asunder from the Israelites. — And this Majesty of the Scepter — continued, — although the State of the Commonwealth was sometimes altered. — What People soever enjoys a Commonwealth of their own, and Laws of their own, that People may justly glory in their Empire, and in their Scepter." And so Sculetus, Exercit. Evang. Lib. i. 3.

Ib. of his own Offspring] That the Reader may have the Benefit of understanding it, as in Isai. v. 1. while in the pres. Eng. the latter from may belong to depart, as well as the former.

Ib. Shiloh] The Word is usually explained his Son, but rather signifies the Peace-maker, from shalah its Root, to be quiet or peaceable. Onkelos the Chald. Paraphrast has,

11. Tying

11. Tying his Ass-colt to the Vine, even the Fole of his Ass to the choicest one; he dyes his Garment in Wine, his Cloaths in the Blood of the Grapes;

12. His Eyes being red with Wine, and Teeth white with Milk.

13. Zebulun will dwell at the Harbour of the Seas; nay become a Harbour of Ships, and his Side will be by Zidon.

14. Issachar the Drudge is represented by a boney Ass, lying down between two Packs.

15. For when he sees that the Repose is good, and that the Country is pleasant; he will bend his Shoulder to bear, and serve for Tribute.

16. Dan will judge his People, like one of the Tribes of Israel.

17. He will be insidious, with the Serpent in the Way, the Adder at the Path, which bites the Horse by the Heels, and throws down his Rider backward.

18. I my self have waited for thy Salvation, O Lord!

19. Gad will be conquered by a Troop, but he will conquer at last.

20. Asher's Food will be fat of himself, and he furnish the Dainties of a King.

21. A Hind let go may exhibit genteel Naphtali: he gives fine Words.

22. To be fruitful is Joseph's, with the bending Bough, the Bough at a Fountain, whose Foliage expands upon the Wall.

23. And though the Archers shot at him sharply, as the Object of their Hatred:

24. Yet his Bow remained strung in Strength, and the Arms of his Hands were nervous; by the Hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, from whence was this Shepherd, this Rock of Israel:

25. By the God of thy Father, who will help thee; and the Almighty, who will bless thee, with the Blessings of Heaven from above, the Blessings of the Deep that lies below, the Blessings of the Breasts and the Womb.

26. Thy Father's Blessings, which have prevailed above those of my Ancestors, to the desirable Place of the everlasting Hills; will be on the Head of Joseph, and on the Crown of him who was separated from his Brothers.

till the Messiah come, to whom the Kingdom belongs. Vulg. Lat. he who is to be sent. The Jews object that the Peace so much prophesied of to be under the Messiah, is not found among Christians; from whence they would infer, that ours was not the true Christ. But, says Barclay, Apol. Prop. 15. "the ancient Fathers of the first 300 Years after Christ, did affirm these Prophecies to be fulfilled in the Christians of their Times."

Ib. to him] Till People of many Countries were converted to him, the Heb. Word either for People or Nations, being plural: which makes the Prophecy much clearer, and shews that the Scepter as explained above, was not to cease immediately on the Coming of Christ; but it was thoroughly fulfilled by the Destruction of the Temple and Jewish Common-wealth about 40 Years after Christ, when People of divers Nations were gathered to him by the Preaching of the Gospel: and thus the learned and judicious Made would have it read. But this was lost in our Bibles, where the People may rather denote only the Jews.

Ver. 11. Tying] while he gathered the Grapes, so dyes by gathering them.

Ver. 12. The Heb. has no his here.

Ver. 13. by] The Heb. being by not by and Asher being between that and Zidon, Josh. xix. 27, 28.

Ver. 14. a boney Ass] which may signify a poor one, as well as, if not rather than, a strong one. In the Gr. it is bas desired Good, by taking the ר of דכור to be ר and putting the other good, as we have strong.

Ver. 16. will judge] according to his Name, the Meaning of which look Chap. xxx.

Ver. 17. insidious] See at Deut. xxxiii. 22.

Ib. the Serpent] Notwithstanding this is commonly expounded of Samson, I do not think it likely the Prophecy of any whole Tribe was fulfilled in a single Person, nor does it appear that the Description is suitable to him; so was rather accomplished by what we read Judg. xviii. particularly Ver. 27.

Ver. 19. Gad] signifying a Troop, which Jacob alludes to by three Words.

Ib. at last] the fulfilling of which see 1 Chron. v. 18—22.

Ver. 20. Food] Which I take to be more proper for fat than Bread, since the Word has that general Signification.

Ver. 21. let go] Bish. sent for a presents.

Ver. 22. I cannot agree with what is proposed in Universal Hist. B. i. Ch. 7. if it has by far the most Votes, as there said, that it should be, Joseph is a Son of Beauty, the Daughters ran upon the Walls to see him; because it was at a Fountain, and for the Oddness of the latter Part, besides parath not being Beauty.

Ib. Foliage] Heb. Daughters, viz. of the Bough; as before Son for Bough, viz. of the Vine.

Ib. expands] Gen. turne, if not a Mistake for runne.

Ver. 23. shot at him sharply] Heb. made him bitter and shot, a Manner of Expression for want of Adverbs: so Psal. li. 4. multiply wash me, for wash me much or thoroughly; and elsewhere.

Ib. of their Hatred] The Bish. add to this without Distinction, unto his hinderance.

Ver. 24. the Arms of his Hands were nervous] Whereas it is in the com. Lat. the Bonds of his Arms and Hands were loosened, as if the Letter xain gave the Verb the like Meaning as xade would, being alike in Sound; and in the Greek more strangely under the same Mistake, the Sinews of the Arms of their Hands were loosened, as the foregoing Part there is, their Bows were broken with Strength.

Ib. Arms of] which supported his Hands, particularly to draw the Bow; but the Genevists, as if wiser than Jacob, change it into the hands of his armes.

Ib. from whence] It being from Divine Providence that Joseph was their Feeder and Supporter, and therein a lively Type of Christ.

Ib. this Rock of Israel] In the Place of which, as explanatory of it, the Targum has, This was from the mighty God of Jacob, who by his Word fed the Fathers and Children, the Posterity of Israel; but in the Jewish Cabbalistical manner, taking אבן Stone for אב Father and בן Son, which licentious Fancies their Rabbies are fond of.

Ver. 26. desirable Place] or things, called precious things, Deut. xxxiii. 15. and herein Jacob's Blessings to Joseph prevailed, in that they were spiritual, and extended to Heaven, the Felicity of the everlasting Hills; whereas the Blessings which Jacob received were earthly and tem-

27. Ravening

27. Ravening Benjamin may be shewn by the Wolf that tears, in the Morning eats the Prey, and at the Evening divides the Spoil.

28. All these are the twelve Tribes of Israel; and this is what their Father spoke to them, when he blessed them, which he did according to their several Blessings.

29. He also commanded them, in the following manner; I shall be gathered to my People; bury me with my Fathers, at the Cave which is in the Field of Ephron the Hittite,

30. Namely the Field of Machpelah, that is before Mamre, in the Country of Canaan; which Abraham purchased with the Field, of Ephron the Hittite, for a Possession of a Grave.

31. There they buried Abraham and Sarah his Wife, there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his Wife, and there I buried Leah.

32. The Purchase of the Field, and Cave which is in it, was from the Sons of Heth.

33. And when Jacob had done commanding his Sons, he pulled up his Feet into the Bed; and expiring, was gathered to his People.

CHAP. L.

THEN Joseph falling upon his Father's Face, wept upon him, and kissed him.

2. Afterwards he commanded his Servants the Physicians to embalm him; which accordingly they did.

3. For whom forty Days were fulfilled; because there are so many for such as are embalmed: and the Egyptians mourned for him seventy Days.

4. And when the Time of that Mourning was over, Joseph spoke to Pharaoh's Family as follows; If now I am in your Favour, speak thus, I pray, in the Hearing of Pharaoh;

5. My Father made me swear, saying, Behold I shall die; in the Grave which I dug for my self in the Country of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me: now therefore let me go up, I pray; and having buried my Father, I will return.

6. To which Pharaoh said, Go up, and bury thy Father, as he made thee swear.

7. So Joseph went up to do it, and with him all Pharaoh's Servants, the Elders of his House, and all those of the Country of Egypt;

8. As likewise the whole Family of Joseph, with his Brothers, and his Father's Family: only their Children, Flocks and Herds, they left in the Country of Goshen.

9. There also went up with him both Chariots and Horsemen; so that it was a very huge Company.

10. Who, when they came to the Bramble-floor, which was on this side Jordan, poral, Chap. xxvii. 28, 29. see likewise Chap. xxiv. 60. taavah is in several other Places used for Desire, but never in the Sense our Translators have put on it. The Chald. Paraphrast takes it in this Meaning, explaining it by דמיון to desire: the Vulg. Lat. Transf. and Pagnin. have it desiderium, desire, as it is in former English Translations; the Septuagint have turned it, luxurians, blessings; Cast. voluptatem, delight.

Ver. 27. that tears] this belonging to the Wolf, as that biteth to the Adder, Ver. 17. so likewise the following Verbs here, and not to Benjamin. The Likeness of it in that Tribe may be seen Judg. xx. Bish. shall ravish.

Ib. Morning eats] being so voracious as to leave none of what he had caught in the Night; and then hungry and ravenous, in getting more as soon as the next Evening (which it is in Heb. and corresponds with Morning) comes.

Ver. 28. Tribes] They being prophesied of, rather than Jacob's Sons in their own Persons.

Ib. several] The Heb. idiomatical Expression, whom he blessed a Man according to his Blessing, may be properly thus rendered: and as it is not every one, so certainly neither were all of them here blessed; notwithstanding what Commentators pretend, that Jacob blessed every one of his Sons (to justify such Translation) by giving them a Part in the Country of Canaan: whereas we find him doing no such Thing to any of them, after he had bestowed what was his to give, Chap. xlviii. 22. the Gift of Canaan being rightly elsewhere ascribed to God himself.

Ver. 32. from the Sons of Heth] from them as well as Ephron, to make it sure, according to Chap. xxiii. 20. & xxv. 10. which Jacob might mention to his Sons, that they might not fear any Molestation from the Inhabitants. This Verse is left out of the Vulg. Lat.

Ver. 33. gathered] by Tynd. put.

Ver. 10. the Bramble-floor] Jun. and Trem. translate, arcam quandam septam cynosbatis, a certain Floor fenced with Sweet-briers. Ainsworth writes, "It seemeth this floor was beset with Brambles (for atad is a bramble) and thereof had the Name." John Mercer also on Pagnin. has the following Words, *Sunt qui atad viri nomen existiment, qui a sua arca nobilitatus fuerit. Sed probabilius videtur a rhamnibus, quibus esset circumscripta, sic appellatam fuisse: atque hanc interpretationem confirmare videtur emphasis quae nominibus propriis, maxime virorum, adscribi non solet. i. e. Some think atad to be the Name of a Man (as it should seem our Translators did) who was famous for his Floor. But it seems more likely that it was thus called from the Brambles it was fenced round with: and the Emphasis (namely the Letter n before atad) seems to confirm this Interpretation, which is not used to be affixed to proper Names of Men. Some Vulg. Lat. Editions have Arad, by Mistake of t for r.*

Ib. on this side] So the Word signifies, Deut. i. 1, 5. & iii. 8. & iv. 41, 46, 47. Josh. i. 14, 15. & v. 1. & ix. 1. & xii. 7. as cis is the first which Buxtorf in Lexic. explains, and what L. Jud. here renders it by. It is plain that their Journey from Egypt was towards Jordan, but the whole not so far as thither. And even if it had respect to Moses's writing it, that was probably on the same side of the River, being either while he was in Midian, according to Pererius, &c. or in the Wilderness, before the Extremity of his Life when he was on the other side, as by Theoderet, Quest. 1. in Genes. and others.

lamented there with a great and very grievous Lamentation; nay he made a Mourning for his Father seven Days.

11. Which the Inhabitants of the Country, the Canaanites, seeing there, said, This is a grievous Mourning to the Egyptians: therefore the Name of it was called The Mourning of the Egyptians, which is on this side Jordan.

12. Moreover his Sons did to him according as he commanded them:

13. For they carried him to the Country of Canaan, and buried him in the Cave of the Field of Machpelah; which Abraham purchased with the Field, for a Possession of a Grave, of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

14. Joseph and his Brothers then returned to Egypt, as likewise all who went up with him to bury his Father, after he had buried him.

15. And when Joseph's Brothers saw that their Father was dead, they said, It may be Joseph will hate us, and thoroughly render to us all the Hurt which we did him.

16. Therefore they ordered him to be told; Thy Father commanded before he died as follows;

17. You shall say thus to Joseph, Forgive, I pray now, the Crime of thy Brothers and their Sin, though they did thee Hurt; so now forgive, we pray, the Crime of the Servants of thy Father's God: and Joseph wept when they spoke to him.

18. Next his Brothers also went, and falling down before him, said, Behold we are Servants to thee.

19. But Joseph answered them; Do not fear: for am I in the room of God?

20. Though you intended Harm against me, God intended it for Good, that he might do as it is this Day, to keep many People alive.

21. Now therefore fear not; I will sustain you and your Children. So he comforted them, and spoke kindly to them.

22. And Joseph, with his Father's Family, abode in Egypt; he living a hundred and ten Years.

23. So that he saw great Grandchildren of Ephraim; as also Children born of Machir the Son of Manasseh, were upon his Knees.

24. At last he said to his Brothers, I shall die: and God will thoroughly visit you, and have you up out of this Country, to that which he sware of to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

25. Besides he made the Sons of Israel swear as follows, When God visits you thoroughly, you shall have up my Bones from hence.

26. Thus Joseph died in his hundred and tenth Year; whom they embalmed, and he was put into a Chest in Egypt.

Ver. 16. commanded] This seems to be feigned: for Jacob, whom I look on as a wise Man, would more likely methinks have said it to Joseph himself, had he suspected any Occasion for it, as it is manifest there was not; and Joseph saying Nothing of performing what his Father ordered, nor mentioning him, may shew that he likewise took it for fictitious.

Ver. 19. am I in the room of God?] The learned Mercer in his Commentary here writes, nonnullis ex Hebraeis ita exponere verba, ut הוֹתֵנִי לְפָנֶיךָ יְהוָה sumant pro הוֹתֵנִי לְפָנֶיךָ אֱלֹהִים (or rather הוֹתֵנִי negatively) ut sit asseverantis, An non sub Deo sum ego? Some of the Jews expound the Words to have it, Am not I under God? as the Gen. render, and which the Chald. may seem to be a Paraphrase on, הוֹתֵנִי לְפָנֶיךָ אֱלֹהִים I fear the Lord: but this is leaving the Original, though so little as only taking הוֹתֵנִי not affirmatively, as is commonly to be done, besides putting Lord for God. I have since found him styled Father Simon making the like Remark, Critical History of the Old Test. B. i. Ch. 12.

Ver. 22. a hundred and ten Years] Not living out the last of them, according to Ver. 26. of which see Chap. v. 32. Like Instances may be seen plentifully concerning the Kings of Israel and Judah; the Table of whom look, with the Observations on it.

Ver. 24. thoroughly] Jun. and Trem. omnino, as in Exod. iii. 16. which see.

th. have you up] If bring was proper, it should have been bring up.

Ver. 25. When] So the old Eng. Cast. and Vatab. see Chap. i. 2. and the fulfilling of it, Exod. xiii. 19.

Ver. 26. into a Chest] That his Bones might be preserved, according to our old Translations; not in a coffin, to be buried. Perry says, the Mummy-chests were made of Sycamore, called Pbarash's Fig-tree, View of the Levant, p. 478.

NOTES upon the Book called E X O D U S.

C H A P. I.

AND these are the Names of the Sons of Israel, who went to Egypt, along with Jacob, each having a Family.

2. Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah,

3. Issachar, Zebulun and Benjamin,

4. Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

5. Now all the Persons that proceeded from Jacob himself were seventy, including Joseph who was in Egypt.

6. At length he died, and all his Brothers, with that whole Generation.

7. However the Israelites were fruitful, increased much, multiplied, and became strong, so inexpressibly, that the Country was filled with them.

8. Then a new King rose up over Egypt, who did not know Joseph.

9. And he said to his People; Behold the Israelite Folk are more, and stronger than we.

10. Come, let us behave our selves wisely towards them; lest they should multiply, and when there shall happen to be War, they also should be added to our Adversaries; and fighting against us, go up out of the Country.

11. Whereupon they set over them Bailiffs for Tasks, in order to afflict them with their Burdens. And they built Cities of Stores for Pharaoh, Pithom and Raamses.

Ver. 1. And] It is probable the Pentateuch, signifying from the Greek these five Books of Moses, was at first one entire Writing, by the Conjunction And being placed between most of them; and that it was first divided into Books, as it now is, by the Greek Translators, as appears from the Titles prefixed; whose Translation being very early received and used by the Jews, might occasion their parting the Hebrew Code conformably to it. Besides the Books in the Original now have no other Titles than the Parashoth or Lessons have, viz. the Beginning of each, a farther Reason to believe they were not separated by the first Penman.

Ver. 5. himself] Bish. Trans. 1575 line for himself.

Ib. seventy] by an even capital Number, Jacob himself being one of them, Gen. xvi. 27.

Ver. 7. were fruitful] Gen. brought forth fruit.

Ib. inexpressibly] with great Propriety of the Eng. from the Heb. and it appears, by being put after them, to belong to all the four Verbs, as also that Adverb in Ver. 20. to both those there, like the same in Gen. xlvii. 27.

Ib. Country was filled] according to Aben Ezra, that of Goshen.

Ver. 8. new King] That this was Salutis, the first Shepherd-king, as Marshall and Shuckford compute, is conituted by the following Words of our great Newton, "This King of Egypt was not one of the Shepherds, for he is called Pharaoh, Exod. i. 11, 22. and Moses told his Successor, that if the People of Israel should sacrifice in the Land of Egypt, they should sacrifice the Abomination of the Egyptians before their Eyes, and the Egyptians would stone them, Exod. viii. 26. that is, they should sacrifice Sheep or Oxen, contrary to the Religion of Egypt. The Shepherds therefore did not reign over Egypt while Israel was there," Chron. of Ant. Kingd. amend. Ch. 2. See the Chron. Tab. in this Book, by which this King was Ramesses Miamun; and as killing the Children appears to have begun between the Birth of Aaron and Moses, since the former lived, and without any Account of his being in Danger, and the latter was born at the Time or Beginning of this Persecution, Acts vii. 20. accordingly this would fall out a little after the Beginning of that King's Reign; yet not so soon in it, but that he might use the lesser Oppression before, Ver. 11.

Ib. not know Joseph] who had been dead 81 Years by my Tables, when this King began his Reign.

Ver. 10. Come] Heb. give or yield, i. e. Consent; as they did, Ver. 11.

Ib. let us behave our selves wisely towards them] שקטן Ab. Ex. i. e. Let us find out some wise Method, that they may not multiply: Tynd. plays wisely, Gen. deals wittily. Behold in Pharaoh the glaring Pattern of persecuting Princes or Magistrates; first to make cruel and oppressive Laws, for Penalty and Punishment, next rigorously and violently to exceed the Bounds of those Laws in the Execution, and make new ones worse than the former, as Ver. 13, 14. and lastly to put to death: and what for? No Crime committed either of Immorality or Rebellion, but lest that other Sort of People whom they dislike should be too many, and what else they please to surmise. The Reason of this Egyptian King's thus afflicting the Israelites, to answer his Design of their not increasing was, according to the forementioned Jewish Rabbi in his Commentaries, that he might make them less capable of begetting Children. But Ec. Ver. 12. as Persecutors find it.

Ib. our selves] The Verb being in the Conjug. Hithpabel.

Ver. 11. their Burdens] those of the Tribute-collectors, which they imposed on the Israelites, who as a People are in the Heb. spoken of from the 9th Verse in the singular Number.

Ib. built] Josephus says the Israelites laboured in building the Pyramids, Antiq. Lib. ii. 5. of whose Founders the heathen Writers speak variously; the most noted of which are three, mentioned by Pliny thus, *Pyramides tres, quæ orbem terrarum implevere famâ, sitæ sunt in parte Africæ, monte saxeo steriliq; inter Memphim oppidum et Delta: the three Pyramids, whose Renown fills the World, stand on a barren stoney Mountain in Africa, between the Town of Memphis and Delta, Lib. xxxvi. 12. Dr. Charles Perry, who lately visited them, relates in his View of the Levant, p. 313, &c. a folio Book printed 1743, that they are situate about six Miles westward from the River Nile, and about twelve S. W. from Cairo, by a Village called Gheisa, and that which is stiled the great Pyramid does not terminate in a Point like the others, but has a plain Space at Top of 15 Feet square; or as Greaves says in his Pyramidographia, of 13 1/2 Feet, who also says the Base or Bottom is 693 Feet square; but Perry measured the south Side 789 1/2 Feet, and the west Side 780, however allows the Disparity of the two Sides might arise in his measuring them. They both represent the Sides of the Pyramid, if continued up, to be equilateral Triangles. The perpendicular Height being by Greaves 490 Feet, Perry says it should be 607 Feet 5*

12. But

12. But according as they afflicted them, so they multiplied, and so they broke forth; inasmuch that they were tired by reason of the Israelites.

13. With this the Egyptians made them serve rigorously.

14. They even made their Lives bitter by hard Slavery, with Clay, Bricks, and all Drudgery in the Field: all their Service which they did for them being with Rigour.

15. Besides the King of Egypt spoke to the Midwives of the Hebrews, of whom one's Name was Shiphrah, and that of the other Puah,

16. As follows, When you deliver the Hebrew Women, and see them upon the Stool; if it be a Son, you shall kill him, but if it is a Daughter, she shall live.

17. Nevertheless the Midwives fearing God, did not do as he ordered them, but kept the Boys alive.

18. Upon which he called them, and said to them, Why have you done this Thing, keeping the Boys alive?

19. And they answered Pharaoh, Because the Hebrews are not like the Egyptian Women: for they are so lively, that they are delivered before the Midwife comes to them.

20. Therefore God did well to the Midwives, and the People multiplied, and became strong exceedingly.

21. Thus he made Families for them, because the Midwives feared God.

22. Afterwards Pharaoh thus commanded all his People, Every new-born Son you Inches, according to Greaves's own Estimate of its Base, deducting 13 Feet it wants of being finished at Top; and computes the perpendicular Height himself, with the same Deduction, 687 Feet, p. 316, 317. and in the Cut of it 690 Feet. Whereas it is demonstrable by the Ratios of Triangles, whence I have calculated it, that the inclining Height of a Side from the middle of the Base which Greaves exhibits, to the Point of the Triangle at the Top, would be 600 Feet and 15 decimal Parts (which probably Perry mistook for the perpendicular Height, as well as miscomputed it) and the true perpendicular Height from the Center of the Pyramid 490 Feet, as Greaves has it, who also measured it with a 10 Feet Radius, so that the real Top is about 29 Poles high. Nay the inclined Height, as Perry reckons from 780 Feet the Base, would be but 675 $\frac{1}{2}$, and the perpendicular Altitude 551 $\frac{1}{2}$, which is 135 $\frac{1}{2}$ less than he counts. According to Greaves, whose Base is 42 Poles, this Pyramid stands on 11 Acres and 4 Perches of Ground, and is placed, he says, on a Mountain above a hundred Feet high from the Plain. Another of those three, scarce distant the Flight of an Arrow from this, both by Greaves's and Perry's Relations, is altogether as large and high, considering it is pointed. Concerning the third, Greaves indutiously remarks the Negligence of other Writers, while himself gives us no Dimension of his own, nor went near another large one. The first through a narrow winding Passage, that begins 28 Feet up in the middle of the north Side, has a fine Room, supposed in the Center of it, and therein a hollow Monument, of a Shape and Size to contain a dead Body, which manifestly shews the Design of it; and yet (such is the Vanity of worldly Grandeur!) Diodorus says, the King who built it for his Sepulchre was not buried there, nor he who built the second in that; nay and that both of them when dying, ordered their Bodies to be buried privately, lest their Subjects, as they threatened, should tear them in pieces, B. i. Ch. v. as if their Ambition should have the most sensible Mortification. There appear to be about 20 Pyramids in all; and Perry wisely observes that the Duration of the Buildings in Egypt, is owing to the little Rain which is there.

Ib. Stores] In which Manner our Translators have rendered this Word in the other Places, viz. 1 King. ix. 19. 2 Chron. viii. 4. & xvi. 4. & xvii. 12. & xxxii. 28. which last explains it.

Ib. Ramesses] so called as it seems from Ramesses, the Name of the King of Egypt then.

Ver. 12. were tired by reason of] Bisb. abhorred at the sight of.

Ver. 14. with Clay] In digging and preparing it to make Bricks, which seems to be the principal Work now provided for them, Chap. v. and which the Egyptians thought worse than Building, Ver. 11. The old Eng. Bibles, Jun. and Trem. the Vulg. Lat. Transf. Pagn. and the Tigur. Vers. with the Septuag. and Targ. have it Clay, it being not usual to make Mortar in the Field, but at the Building.

Ib. Field] Perhaps that being abroad, they might be more separated from their Wives.

Ib. did] Heb. served. But it is in the simple Conjugation Kal, not in Hiphil as Ver. 13. made serve.

Ib. for them] The same Construction with \aleph as that in Gen. xxix. 20, &c. served for Rachel. Munst. Pagnin. and Montan. literal Translators, apply the Verb to the Israelites, not to the Egyptians, in this Sort, omnis servitus illorum quam illis serviebant, all their Service which they performed for them; cum omni opere in quibus operati sunt, with all their Work in which they wrought; cum omni opere eorum quibus operati sunt in eis, with every Work of theirs wherein they wrought.

Ver. 15. the Midwives of the Hebrews] In Heb. those who delivered the Hebrews. It is uncertain whether they were Hebrews or Egyptians, but not improbable that they might be appointed by Pharaoh from among the latter, like those spoken of in Ver. 11. to execute his intended Purpose. Ab. Ez. writes שרות היו על כל המילדות these were Chief over all the Midwives.

Ver. 19. they answered Pharaoh] K. James I. in the famous Conference at Hampton-Court, charging some Marginal Notes to the Geneva Translation with being very partial, untrue, seditious, and favouring too much of dangerous Conceits, instanced that the following here altogether Disobedience to Kings, viz. Their Disobedience herein was lawfull; according to which they ought to have killed the Children, and the Midwives in doing what was unlawful feared God, Ver. 21. and his other Instance is of 2 Chron. xv. 16. that Maachab ought to have died, which is blaming a King.

Ib. lively] It is the plural of the last Word in Ver. 16.

Ver. 20. multiplied] Thus God did well to the Midwives by the People's being fruitful, which was their Advantage, and to the People by the Midwives being virtuous; so making them instrumental for the Good of each other.

Ver. 21. for them] For the Israelites, them being masculine in Heb. and Midwives feminine. Trem. and Jun. render, natis illis, for those who were born. Castalis has turned the Verse thus, atque ita fiebat, ut eis Deus per illam obstetricum pietatem familias pararet: i. e. and so it came to pass, that God prepared Families for them by that Piety of the Midwives. Thus the Marg. of the Gen. Vers. explains it, That is, God increased the Families of the Israelites by their means.

Ib. feared God] and not the King, Heb. xi. 23.

Ver. 22. new-born] It is, writes Ab. Ezr. a Noun Tear, or a verbal Noun; and propiè recens natus, as Mercer on Pagn. properly new-born; so Buxtorf also gives it. Which further appears by Aaron's not being killed, shall shall throw into the River, but keep every Daughter alive.

CHAP. II.

NOW there was a Man of the Family of Levi went, and took his Daughter.

2. The Woman also conceived, and bore a Son; and seeing that he was a lovely Boy, she hid him three Months.

3. But as she could hide him no longer, she took an Ark of Rushes for him, plastering it with Mortar and Pitch; which with the Child put in it, she set among the Flags upon the Bank of the River.

4. And his Sister stood far off, to know what would be done to him.

5. At length Pharaoh's Daughter went down to wash at the River, with her Maids walking at the Side of it; when she saw the Ark within the Flags, and sent her Handmaid, who fetched it.

6. Which opening, she saw the Child, and behold the Boy cried; on whom she had compassion, and said, This is one of the Hebrews Children.

7. And his Sister said to her, Shall I go, and call to thee a Woman of the Hebrews who gives suck, that she may suckle the Child for thee?

8. Go, said she; upon which the Maid goes, and calls the Child's Mother.

9. And to her Pharaoh's Daughter says, Take away this Child, and suckle him for me, and I will pay thee. So the Woman took the Child, and nursed him at the Breast.

10. Who grew up, and she had him to Pharaoh's Daughter, and he was to her for a Son; whom she named Moses, Because, said she, I drew him from the Water.

11. Afterwards in those Days, when Moses was grown up, he went out to his Brethren, and looking on their Burdens, saw an Egyptian Man smiting one of them, a Hebrew.

12. Upon this he looked one way and another, and seeing that there was Nobody, he smote the Egyptian, and hid him in the Sand.

13. Again going forth the second Day, behold there were two Hebrew Men contending; when he said to him who was in fault, Why dost thou smite thy Companion?

14. But he replied, Who made thee a chief Man and a Judge over us? Dost thou intend to kill me, as thou didst the Egyptian? Afraid at this, Moses said, Surely the Matter is known.

15. Pharaoh also upon hearing this Thing, endeavoured to kill him; from whose Presence therefore Moses fled, that he might dwell in the Country of Midian, where he sat down at a Well.

16. And there was a Prince of Midian had who was born three Years before Moses. The Israelites knowing the Promise of Deliverance at four hundred Years End, Gen. xv. 13. might likewise know, or think from the Resemblance of the Numbers, that their Deliverer was then to be fourscore Years old; which Pharaoh might hear of, as Herod did concerning Christ, and so give Order for all the new-born Male-children to be destroyed; see Matt. ii. 16. The Word is used 2 Sam. xii. 14.

Ver. 1. his Daughter] Jochabed was Levi's own Daughter, Chap. vi. 20, 18. Num. xxvi. 59. Lev. x. 4. but would not therefore be her Husband's own Sister, as Pool represents it in his Annot. here.

Ver. 2. lovely] The Hebrew Word is good; while goodly is obsolete, and fine seems too much the Term of a Nurse.

Ver. 3. Mortar] The Heb. Word is thus rendered in this Translation, Gen. xi. 3. of which see the Notes there.

Ver. 4. his Sister] Miriam, as it is likely.

Ib. done to him] By this it seems as if they knew of the King's Daughter's coming thither to wash.

Ver. 5. Pharaoh's Daughter] whom Josephus and others call Thermuthis.

Ib. her Maids walking] which might be to watch that none saw her.

Ver. 6. Boy] Being the same Word, differing only in Gender and Number, with Maids in the preceding Ver. rendered by the Latin Interpreters puer.

Ver. 7. who gives suck] As if she had said, I know such a one, shall I call her to thee? For if such a Woman was to be sought out, the Princess would rather, one may think, have sent among the Egyptians. The Verb is gav to suck.

Ver. 7, 8. Barton in Catalogue of Vertuous Women, Witty Miriam calls her Mother To be Nurse unto her Brother:

So the Serpent and the Dove

Met alike in Miriam's Love.

Ver. 10. for a Son] for is in the Original; for he could not be really her Son, but was, as Buxtorf says, loci filii, in place of a Son; see it Acts vii. 21.

Ib. Moses] Drawing, the present Participle from the Verb mashah here used; not drawn out, as commonly expounded, which would be mashui: according to her own Words, she named him from what she did, not from what was done to him. Clem. Alexandrinus, Strom. p. 343. says his Name was Joachim before.

Ib. from] not out of; see Ver. 3.

Ver. 11. smiting] This might be slaying, as in the next Verse it is to be understood, the Verb being the same, which would fully justify Moses in what he did. It seems however as if the Israelite was much hurt, since there is no Mention of his helping Moses.

Ver. 12. smote] So in Acts vii. 24. and commonly here in other Translations, it being the proper Meaning of the Word.

Ver. 14. In this Verse is an Instance, besides many others which might be produced, that the Vulgar Latin Version was partly made from the Greek of the Septuagint, by their both having wilt thou kill, and yesterday, which the Hebrew has not. So Stephen spoke from the Translation of the Septuagint, Acts vii. 28.

Ver. 15. that he might dwell] For he did not dwell there, before he sat down at the Well. Thus the best Translators Jun. and Trem. turn it, ut habitaret. The like is in the present Bible, Ver. 20. that he may eat; see also Ruth i. 6.

Ver. 16. Prince] The Annotation on this Word in Gen. xli. 45. with a small Alteration will serve here, which I leave the intelligent Reader to make for himself. Only adding that Bp. Patrick says in his Commentary, It may be seven Daughters; who came, that they might draw, and fill the Troughs, to water their Father's Sheep.

17. But the Shepherds came, and drove them away; however Moses getting up, saved them, and watered their Sheep.

18. So when they came to their Father Reuel, he asked, Why have you made such haste in coming to Day?

19. An Egyptian Man, answered they, delivered us from the Power of the Shepherds, and both drew plentifully for us, and watered the Flock.

20. Hereupon he said to his Daughters, But where is he? Why did you leave the Man? Call him, that he may eat some Victuals.

21. And Moses was willing to dwell with the Man; who gave him his Daughter Zipporah.

22. Besides she bore a Son, whom he named Gershom: for said he, I have been a Stranger in a foreign Country.

23. And in a great while, when the King of Egypt was dead, and the Israelites sighed, and cried, by reason of the Slavery; their Cry because of it, went up to God.

24. Who heard their Groaning, and he remembered his Covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

25. Moreover God beheld the Israelites, and he knew them.

CHAP. III.

FOR as Moses was feeding the Flock of Jethro his Father-in-law, a Prince of Midian, having had them along behind the Wilderness, and was come to Horeb the Mountain of God;

2. The Angel of the Lord appeared to him in the middle of a Fire, from within a Bush: for he saw plainly that the Bush, burning as it was with fire, was not consumed.

3. Upon which he said, I will now turn aside, that I may see this great Sight, why the Bush is not burnt.

4. And when the Lord saw that he did, God called to him thus from within it, Moses, Moses; who answered, Here am I.

5. Come not near hither, replied he, put off thy Shoes from thy Feet; for the Place on which thou standest is holy Ground.

6. Besides he said, I am the God of thy Father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. With that Moses hid his Face, for he was afraid of looking at God.

most truly rendred a Prince; and that many antient and later Versions have it so, on Chap. xviii. 1. what he says for it I omit: and Sir Isaac Newton calls him the Prince of Midian, Chronology of Antient Kingdoms amended, Ch. 2.

Ib. that they might draw] It does not appear that they did draw, because the Shepherds hindered them, and Moses drew for them, Ver. 19. Therefore the Tigurin Bible has it, quæ venerunt hausum, ut implerent canales, adaquarentque: who came to draw, that they might fill the Gutters, and water.

Ib. Father's Sheep] It being customary even to this Day, as Dr. Shaw observes in his late Travels in those Parts, for the Children of the greatest Princes to attend the Flocks.

Ver. 17. their] masc. in the Heb. which might be by comprehending the Father, whose the Sheep most properly were, as in the preceding Verse. Other Interpretations seem invalid.

Ver. 18. their Father Reuel] not their immediate Father, but their Grandfather, as the Heb. Word may signify both, and indeed Grandfather is a Father: thus Jacob uses it Gen. xxxii. 9. and Laban is called the Son of Nahor, Gen. xxix. 5. being his Grandson; see of this further on Numb. x. 29.

Ver. 22. Gershom] made up of ger, a Stranger, and shom, the Contraction of shomem, desolate. The Vulg. Lat. and some Copies of the Septuag. add in a Verse after this from Chap. xviii. 4. with a small Alteration.

Ib. for] See Chap. xviii. 3.

Ver. 23. a great while] as the Heb. denotes, and being nearly both the Egyptian Kings Reigns of 85 Years.

Ib. went up to God] That is was regarded by him.

Ver. 25. knew] to wit in a peculiar Manner, as the Posterity of Abraham, &c. The Bibles according to Pope Sixtus, and the Leuain ones (though the curious Tho. James in Bellum Popale has mistaken in the latter) have delivered.

Ver. 1. was] which נון is at first.

Ver. 2. Angel—appeared] The Angels are with God, who is not to be seen himself; as I rather understand it, than that the Angel and God were both one.

Ib. the middle] Here was this to consider whether לבת would rather be regularly להבת or להבת flame, or else לבת heart. In the latter is only one Point or Vowel Difference, which is frequent in Heb. but either of the other has a Letter and Vowel more, besides ב not dageshated with a Point in the middle, which alters them another Letter. But if לבת being here in the constructed Form, is made from a Noun לבת and not לבת as Pagn. informs us in Thesaur. then it is Heart without the least Anomaly; which he expounds in the middle of the Fire, according to David Kimhi, and others. The like to it is in Chap. xv. 8. Deut. iv. 11. 2 Sam. xviii. 14. Jon. ii. 3. and perhaps the Word was used to make a Variation from midst immediately following.

Ib. from within a Bush] as he has often appeared spiritually from within those of low Degree, according to 1 Cor. xiv. 25. From seneb, the Bush in Heb. Horeb as it appears was called Sinai; compare Chap. xix. 17, 18, 20. with Deut. iv. 10, 15. & Chap. xx. 19. with Deut. xviii. 16. So Jerome, De Locis Hebraicis, says, Mihi autem videtur quod duplici nomine idem mons: nunc sine nunc choreb vocatur. It seems to me that the same Mountain was called by a double Name, one while Sinai, another while Horeb. But Neitzschitz travelling thither, Anno 1636, seems to give a better and fuller Account, that the Mountain parts into two Spires towards the Top, the highest of which is called Horeb, the other Sinai, Compend. Libr. Vol. ii. p. 151. and the former is reckoned westward, Byth. on Psal. lxviii. 9.

Ver. 5. holy Ground] By the peculiar Presence of God.

Ver. 6. of thy Father] Of each of them.

7. The Lord said further; I have fully looked on the Affliction of my People who are in Egypt, and have hearkened to their Cry by reason of their Extractors; because I knew their Griefs.

8. So I am come down to deliver them from the Power of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that Country, to a good and large one, a Country which flows with Milk and Honey; to the Place of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites.

9. And now behold the Cry of the Israelites being come to me, and I also having looked at the Oppression that the Egyptians oppress them with;

10. Come now therefore, and I will send thee to Pharaoh: and do thou bring my People the Israelites out of Egypt.

11. But Moses said to God, Who am I, that I should go to Pharaoh, and that I should bring the Israelites out of Egypt?

12. To which he answered, Thou shalt, for I will be with thee, and this shall be a Sign to thee that I have sent thee; when thou hast brought them out thence, you shall serve God by this Mountain.

13. Moses then enquired of him, Behold when I come to the Israelites, and say to them, The God of your Fathers has sent me to you; should they ask me, What is his Name? What shall I answer them?

14. And God replied to him, I am he who am; and thus, said he, mayest thou tell them, I am has sent me to you.

15. However he said again to Moses: Thus shalt thou tell the Israelites, The Lord God of your Fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, has sent me to you: this is my Name for ever, and this is my Memorial to all Ages.

16. Go, and gather the Elders of Israel, and declare to them; The Lord God of your Fathers has appeared to me, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, saying, I have thoroughly been to see you, and what is done to you in Egypt:

17. And that I said, I will bring you up from the Affliction of Egypt, to the Country of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites; to a Country which flows with Milk and Honey.

18. Nay they will hearken to what thou sayest, and thou shalt go in, with the Elders of Israel, to the King of Egypt, to whom you shall say, The Lord God of the Hebrews having met with us, now be pleased to let us go three Days Journey into the Wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God.

19. Yet I know that he will not give you leave to go, excepting by a strong Hand.

20. Therefore will I stretch forth my Hand, that I may smite the Egyptians with all my Wonders which I will do among them; and after that he will let you go.

Ver. 7. looked on—hearkened to] that it may be coherent with the latter Part of the Verse; whereas have seen and heard in Time past, are no necessary Consequences of knowing at the present Time.

Ver. 10. do thou bring] The Heb. Word being imperative; but the old Lat. has, ut educa, that thou mayest bring forth.

Ver. 12. for] See the like Gen. xxix. 32. there rendered because. It relates to what God said before, as if he had spoken on without Interruption, like Chap. iv. 5. So the Latin Interpreters have turned it, nam, and quoniam, and enim, and quia; the Greek ὅτι, and the Chaldee מֵכַן.

Ib. by] or against. Trem. and Jun. have juxta, by; Ainsworth in Eng. at; but both he and Munster in their Annotations say, or by. Chap. xix. 2, 12. determine it not to be upon the Mountain.

Ver. 14. I am he who am] Shewing by it that his real Name was not to be known by Man, Judg. xiii. 18. and checking the Curiosity of Moses; as also notifying that he was a Being of himself, which no Creature is; for it might properly be interpreted The self-existent Being. Trem. and Jun. have kept the first Word in the Heb. making it, Eheje, who am. In Shemath Rabba it is explained thus, אני עכשיו ואני הוא לעתיד I who have been, even I am the same now, and I shall be the same, in time to come; and in the Targum of Jonathan, אנא הוא דהוּנא תְּתִיד לְסוּף I, the same who have been, and am to be hereafter. I know not what made our Translators put it that I am, which however should have been that which I am, or what I am; when all the Lat. Interpreters have qui, who, and not quod, that which, or what.

Ver. 16. the God of Abraham] Tynd. and the Bish. have also the God of both to Isaac and Jacob; taken from the Vulg. Latin, as that was from the Greek, only dropping and before that to Isaac: which might be taken from Chap. iv. 5.

Ib. thoroughly] according to the Description of it at the End of the foregoing Chapter. Jun. and Trem. express it by omnino.

Ib. been to see] as we say, the same with visited, and so suits both Objects.

Ver. 17. And that I said] Tell them that I said thus; which he did, Ver. 8.

Ver. 18. met with] Vulg. Lat. called, nikrah being taken for nikra, as also by some others.

Ver. 19. excepting by a strong Hand] For they did go so, Chap. vi. i. & xiii. 9. but the pres. Trans. contradicts even the following Verse. Whereas our Bible before had, but by strong hand; Coverdale, but thorough a mightie hande; the Septuagint as here, ὅτι μὴ μὲν χυρεὺς ἀπολαύς, with Pagn. and Nold. so the Vulg. Lat. nisi per manum validam; Seb. Cast. nisi vi coactum, except compelled by force; and the French, sinon par main forte, save by a strong Hand; which see well discussed by Christian Noldius, Concord. Annot. 1246.

Ver. 20. among them] Heb. him; for that Tongue frequently comprehends Plurals in Singulars. But it is not of it, i. e. Egypt, because the Names of Countries are feminine, for which Egypt is mentioned particularly by Buxtorf, Theaur. Gram. Lib. i. Cap. 8. and its Construction with other Words manifest, as Chap. ix. 18. in Egypt, from the Day she was founded, Chap. x. 7. Egypt she is perished. The Difference indeed is small here between, it, viz. Egypt, and them, that is the Egyptians; but it may serve to expound and settle the Meaning of the same Word in Chap. x. 1. which has so much puzzled Interpreters.

21. I will also make this People be in Favour with the Egyptians; so that when you go away, you shall not go empty.

22. For each Woman shall ask her Neighbour, and her who lodges at her House, for Vessels both of Silver and Gold, together with Cloaths; which you shall put on your Sons and Daughters: thus shall you spoil the Egyptians.

C H A P. IV.

HOWEVER Moses made answer; But behold they may not believe me, nor hearken to what I say: for they may object, The Lord has not appeared to thee.

2. And the Lord asked him, What is that in thy Hand? Who answered, A Staff.

3. Then replied he, Throw it on the Ground; which he did, and it became a Serpent: whereupon Moses fled from the Face of it.

4. Next the Lord said to him, Reach out thy Hand, and take hold of its Tail (and when he did so, it became a Staff in his Hand)

5. In order for them to believe, that there has appeared to thee the Lord God of their Fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and God of Jacob.

6. More than that the Lord said to him, Put now thy Hand into thy Bosom: which he did; and when he pulled it out, behold it was leprous, being like Snow.

7. He said further, Put thy Hand again into thy Bosom (which he did; and pulling it out thence, lo it was turned like his other Flesh)

8. So that if they will not believe thee, nor hearken to what the former Sign declares, they may believe what the latter one does.

9. But if they will not however believe these two Signs, nor hearken to what thou sayest, thou shalt take some of the Water of the River, and pour out on the dry Ground; that the Water which thou takest out thence may become, as it shall, Blood upon the dry Ground.

10. Yet Moses complained to the Lord, O my Lord! I am not a Man of Speech, either heretofore, or since thou hast spoken to thy Servant: for I am of a slow Mouth and Tongue.

11. But the Lord replied to him; Who makes a Mouth for Man? Or who makes the dumb, the deaf, the seeing, or the blind? Is it not I the Lord?

12. Now therefore go, and I will be with thy Mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt speak.

13. Nevertheless he rejoined, O my Lord! vouchsafe to send, by him thou wilt send by.

14. Incensed against Moses at this, the Lord said; Is there not Aaron thy Brother, the Levite? I know that he can speak well: and even behold he shall come forth to meet thee; and when he sees thee, he will be glad at his Heart.

15. To whom thou shalt speak, putting the Words in his Mouth; and I will be both with thy Mouth and his, that I may teach you what you shall do.

16. Thus he shall speak to the People for thee; and it shall come to pass, he shall be to thee for a Mouth, as thou shalt to him for a God.

Ver. 22. ask] Look to Chap. xii. 36.

Ib. Vessels] See Gen. xxiv. 53. Our Translators have added them to make it seem Jewels, which the Word does not signify. Vessels too might be more plausibly asked, for Use in the Sacrifice and Feast, Ver. 18. Chap. v. 1.

Ver. 1. may] For Moses was proposing his Doubt, not telling a Certainty. Our Auxiliaries may, shall, will, &c. find no Difference in the Heb. Verbs.

Ver. 2. Staff] Which is more likely for Moses to have, rather than a Rod or little Stick, since he was now about 80 Years old. His Shepherd's Staff, says Patrick, it is most likely. It is rendered baculus in the Tig. Transf. and that of Jun. and Trem. as also by Buxt. in Lexic. and in Gram. Thes. Lib. ii. Cap. xiv. by Coverdale, staffe; and by Ælfrie in the Sax. or old Eng. Transf. Yard.

Ver. 5. appeared] In Ver. 15. of the preceding Chap. the Verb is put after the Lord God, &c. at the next Verse between, and here before. An Instance of the Elegancy of those supernal Writings.

Ver. 6. being] This the Sense here plainly requires, otherwise and as at Ver. 15. of the last Chap. or a Comma between leprous and like, that was may belong to both; but the latter would be more obscure. Aware that Snow was not leprous, Castalis chose the second, Jun. and Trem. have erat alba, sicut nix, was white like Snow; Onkelos turned leprous into לָבָן white; and the Seventy left it out, saying, לָבָן כִּי הָיָה כְּשֶׁנֶּחֱסֵה, his Hand was like Snow.

Ver. 8. may] They will believe, and if they will not believe, in the com. Transf. are inconsistent.

Ver. 9. as it shall] not without Elegance, though a Blank in our Bible.

Ver. 10. of a slow Mouth and Tongue] Utterly unfit for a publick Speaker; but he was an eloquent Writer. So Will. Tyndal, who is to be counted the Principal of the English Reformers, writes of himself to John Frith, God hath made me evil-favoured in this World, and without Grace in the Sight of Men, speechless and rude, dull and slow-witted.

Ib. Mouth] Speech might rather be put for Tongue; but Mouth especially should be kept in translating, because repeated in the two following Verses, and again Ver. 15, 16.

Ver. 13. wilt] Gen. shouldest.

Ver. 14. Is there not Aaron] To what purpose should God ask, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother?

Ib. shall come forth] That is I will send him, as Ver. 27.

Ver. 16. shall come to pass—shall be] This is not the same repeated, as וְיָבֹא shall become, in the 9th Ver. but in different Tenses, וְיָבֹא and וְיָהְיֶה the former of which at the Beginning of a Division is usually rendered shall

17. Besides

17. Besides thou shalt take this Staff in thy Hand, with which thou shalt do the Signs.

18. Moses then went away back to Jether his Father-in-law, and said to him, Do let me go back to my Brethren who are in Egypt, and see whether they be still living; and Jethro answered him, Go in Peace.

19. The Lord also said to Moses in Midian, Go back to Egypt: for all the Men who sought thy Life are dead.

20. Accordingly he took his Wife and Sons, and carried them upon an Ass, that he might return to that Country; taking the Staff of God in his Hand.

21. Moreover the Lord said to him; When thou goest away, returning to Egypt, see that thou doest before Pharaoh all the Miracles which I have put in thy Power: but I will let his Heart be so stout, that he will not let the People go.

22. Upon which thou shalt tell him; Thus says the Lord, Israel is my first-born Son:

23. Therefore since I have said to thee, Let my Son go, that he may serve me, and thou hast refused to let him go; behold I will slay thy first-born one.

24. Afterwards the Lord met him in the Way at a Lodging-place, and sought to kill him.

25. With that Zipporah took a sharp Stone, and cut off the Foreskin of her Son, and threw down at his Feet: For thou art, said she, a bloody Bridegroom to me.

26. So he let him alone; then she said, A bloody Bridegroom, for the Circumcisions.

27. The Lord likewise said to Aaron; Go to the Wilderness to meet Moses; accordingly he went, and met him at the Mountain of God, and kissed him.

28. Who told Aaron all the Words of the Lord, by which he had sent him, with all the Signs that he had commanded him.

29. They next went, and gathered all the Elders of the Israelites.

30. When Aaron spoke all the Words which the Lord had spoken to Moses; and he did the Signs in the Sight of the People.

31. Convinced by which, and withal hearing that the Lord had visited the Israelites, and that he had looked at their Affliction; the People bowed, and worshipped.

CHAP. V.

AFTER which Moses and Aaron went in, and declared to Pharaoh; Thus says the Lord God of Israel, Let my People go, that they may keep a Feast to me in the Wilderness.

2. But Pharaoh taunted, Who is the Lord, that I should hearken to his Word, to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, nor indeed will I let them go.

3. However they replied, The God of the Hebrews has met with us; be pleased to let us go three Days Journey into the Wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God; lest he should fall on us, either with Pestilence or Sword.

4. At which the King of Egypt said to come to pass, as here for Distinction, and in Gen. xxiv. 15. otherwise may better be omitted in an European Translation. By comparing of which Places, though so near together, may appear how irregular the present Translation is.

Ver. 18. went away] From Horeb where he had received this Commission. Went and returned seems a Tautology, both signifying his going to his Father-in-law; so go—and return, just after.

Ib. Jether] A Contraction of Jethro, like Harry of Henry.

Ver. 20. that he might] See the like Chap. ii. 15.

Ver. 21. let his Heart be stout] Bisb. holde bys hart.

Ib. stout] Look forward to Chap. vii. for this and the Word Miracles.

Ver. 23. since I have said to thee, Let my Son go] That is to say, him who is my Son, viz. Israel; according to what was said before, Chap. iii. 18. and as the Lord did by Moses and Aaron, Chap. v. 1, &c. before the Death of the First-born was threatened, Chap. xi. 5. The Heb. Division of the Verse is after refused to let him go; not before, as in the com. Bible.

Ver. 24. Lodging-place] It is not likely there were Inns then, especially in or by the Wilderness, Judg. xix. 15. and as there is no Mention of other People, and Zipporah used a Stone; they seem rather to have lodged abroad, as Jacob did, Gen. xxviii. 11. and the Word properly signifies but a Lodging-place, as translated Jesh. iv. 3.

Ib. sought to kill him] Probably struck him with some violent Disease, for not circumcising his Son, which his Wife would not consent to; but did it now her self in great Anger, either because Moses was unable, or afraid to do it of his own Mind after God had smitten him, according to Num. xiv. 41, 43. which Act of hers however, like that of Phinehas, Num. xxv. 11. turned away God's Wrath.

Ver. 25. For] Look Chap. iii. 12.

Ver. 26. let—alone] As it is turned, Deut. ix. 14. Judg. xi. 37. Job vii. 19.

Ib. then she said, A bloody Bridegroom, for] To excuse her foregoing hasty Words.

Ib. Circumcisions] of her two Sons, of the first as at Chap. ii. 22.

Ver. 28. by which] It is agreeable for וּבְכֵן to be here the Relative of the Words, as it is in the next Verse, and in this of the Signs; so the Seventy, the old Lat. Translator, with Jun. and Trem. understood it: for who had sent him would be redundant.

Ver. 30. he] That is Moses did, as was appointed, Ver. 17. These are Ainsworth's Words. Jun. and Trem. with Cass. have added Moses in the Text. It appears that Moses himself did the Signs before the Israelites, but those before Pharaoh were Part of them done by Aaron. Our last Translators indiscreetly left out he, which was in the Eng. Bib. before, by which is read that Aaron did the Signs, which controuls what God said, Ver. 17.

Ver. 1. keep] Gen. celebrate.

them, Why, Moses and Aaron, do you make the People withdraw from their Works? Go to your own Burdens.

5. Lo the People of the Country, added he, are now many, and you make them cease from their Burdens.

6. That Day also he commanded the Exactors of the People, and their Officers, as follows;

7. You shall no more give the People Straw to make Bricks, as in time past: let them go, and pick it up for themselves.

8. Yet shall you put upon them the Sum of the Bricks which they made in time past, without abating any of it: for they are lazy; therefore they cry out, that they may go sacrifice to their God.

9. Let the Service be heavy upon the Men, and let them work in it; and not regard false Words.

10. So the Exactors of the People, with their Officers, went forth, and spoke to them as follows, Thus says Pharaoh, I will give you no Straw.

11. Go, get it for your selves, from whence you can find it; though not any thing of your Service shall be abated.

12. Upon this the People were dispersed over all the Country of Egypt, to pick up Stubble for Straw.

13. The Exactors too, were urgent, that they should perform their Works, of each Day's Business the very same Day, as when there was Straw.

14. Nay the Officers of the Israelites, whom Pharaoh's Exactors had set over them, were beat, it being said, Why have you not performed your Task of Brick-making as in time past, neither Yesterday nor to Day?

15. Whereupon they went in, and cried in this manner to Pharaoh; Why dost thou do thus to thy Servants?

16. There is no Straw given to thy Servants, yet they say to us, Make Bricks; and behold thy Servants are beat, when it is the Fault of thy own People.

17. But he said; You are lazy, lazy Folk: therefore you say, Let us go, sacrifice to the Lord.

18. And now go, do the Service; and there shall be no Straw given you: yet shall you give the Sum of Bricks.

19. Then the Officers of the Israelites looking ill on them, said, You must not abate from your Bricks, of each Day's Business the very same Day.

20. Now they met with Moses and Aaron standing in their Way, when they went out from Pharaoh.

21. To whom they said, The Lord look upon you, and judge; who have made us have a stinking Smell in the Sight both of Pharaoh and his Servants, to put a Sword into their Hands to kill us.

22. Moses therefore returns to the Lord, complaining; My Lord, Why hast thou done ill to this People? Why didst thou send me?

23. For since I went in to Pharaoh, to speak in thy Name, he has done ill to this People; and thou hast not delivered thy People at all.

Ver. 9. false] vain Words is made from the Greek ἀλογον ἠγοῦν, and not from the Heb. Original. Pharaoh did not believe what Moses and Aaron spoke, that God had met with them, and said what they told the People and him.

Ver. 13. urgent] or pressing. All the Lat. Translations have it expressed from the Verb urgeo, excepting the Vulgate from insto, of the same Meaning; so the French has les presser: Sol. Jar. also expounds it by עֲזָזוּ the Targ. עֲזָזוּ.

Ib. Business] Heb. Word, Thing, Matter or Business, &c. different from Task in the following Verse; see on 2 Chron. viii. 14.

Ver. 14. Brick-making] Hailebenim, Bricks is here left out, which was in Ver. 7.

Ver. 18. And now go] Spoken in Derision of Let us go.

Ver. 19. looking ill on them] or beholding them in an ill Manner: or rather with Evil, i. e. as Munster renders it, cum avarere, with Grief; who being Professor of Hebrew at Basil writes in his Annotations, Hebraice, cum malo, scilicet aspectu: It is in Hebrew, with evil, that is with an evil or ill Look. And Castalis has translated it, vultu tristi, with a sorrowful Countenance. But this Manner of speaking is more fully explained by Buxtorf, Munster's Successor, in his Heb. Gram. Lib. ii. Chap. 20. where he says, "2 often makes a Periphrasis of Adverbs: as " בְּמַרְשָׁה with deceit, that is deceitfully; בְּעֵרְשָׁה in craft, craftily; בְּצִדְקָה in righteousness, righteously; בְּאֵמֶת in truth, truly, &c." So here, with, or in evil, that is, ill or badly, or as we say, pitifully; see the like Chap. xiv.

25. Ib. them] The two Translators abovenamed have added the Israelites, however אֹתָם them being accusative determines it. If themselves had been meant, the Verb might have been put in Hithpabel.

Ib. said] Rendering this common Word so singularly, after it was said, is a Shift to piece out the other Way of translating.

Ver. 20. they met] or they had met, which is the same in Heb. as Gen. xii. 1. had said, &c. Moses's returning and speaking to the Lord, is so closely connected with the Officers Words in Ver. 21. and God's Answer with his, that it was necessary to put what is in the 19th Ver. before it; whereby that might also be joined to Pharaoh's Speech, which it properly follows in the Narration, though not in Time: unless the Officers (Ver. 19.) spoke to some of the Israelites who were with them, or came to them, before they met Aaron and Moses.

Ver. 21. who] See Ver. 2. Jun. and Trem. with Munst. and the Tig. Version have qui.

Ver. 23. done ill to] Tynd. and Bish. farad foulle wythe, Gen. vexed.

CHAP. VI.

BUT the Lord said to him, Now thou shalt see what I will do to Pharaoh: for he shall let them go by a strong Hand, nay by that shall drive them out of his Country.

2. God moreover spoke to Moses in these terms: I am the Lord.

3. And I appeared to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, for God Almighty; but according to my Name the Lord was I unknown to them.

4. With whom I also confirmed my Covenant, to give them the Country of Canaan, that of their Sojournings, wherein they lodged.

5. And I have likewise hearkened to the Groaning of the Israelites, whom the Egyptians make to serve; and I remember my Covenant.

6. Therefore tell the Israelites; I am the Lord, who will bring you out from under the Burdens of the Egyptians, and deliver you from their Slavery: for I will redeem you by an Arm stretched out, and by great Judgments.

7. Nay I will take you for a People to my self, as I will be to you a God: so you shall know that I am the Lord your God, who bring you out from under their Burdens.

8. I will further bring you to the Country, which I lifted up my Hand to give Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; and will give it an Inheritance to you, who am the Lord.

9. However when Moses spoke so to the Israelites, they did not hearken to him, for Want of Courage, as well as hard Slavery.

10. The Lord again ordered Moses as follows,

11. Go in, tell Pharaoh King of Egypt, that he should let the Israelites go out of his Country.

12. But he answered thus before him, Behold the Israelites do not hearken to me; and how should Pharaoh hear me, since I am of uncircumcised Lips?

13. Then the Lord spoke both to Moses and Aaron, and gave them command, as well to the Israelites, as Pharaoh King of Egypt; that they should bring the Israelites out of that Country.

14. The following were the Heads of each Family of their Fathers. The Sons of Ver. 1. By beginning the Chap. with this Ver. and the like, it seems apparent that those who made the Chapters were ignorant of the Partitions in the Heb. this Verse being the Conclusion of a great one.

Ver. 3. for God Almighty] or for an Almighty God: a God able to save and deliver, which they believed, and his Appearance manifested to them the Attribute of his Power; but they did not know him according to his Essence, and Infinite Attributes, which his Name here rendered the Lord signifies, and comprehends. He was to them as God Almighty, but now as the Lord; not only Powerful by his Appearance, Chap. xxxii. but also Holy by his Presence, Ver. 5. True in fulfilling his Promises, Faithful in not forsaking his People, Compassionate in hearing their Cry, Merciful in delivering them, Wise in finding Means to do it, Zealous in their Cause, Just to punish their Persecutors, Liberal to give them a good Inheritance, Friendly to be near them, Unchangeable to be with them, Wonderful in his Doings, Prudent in his Counsels, Righteous in his Laws, Terrible in his Judgments, Glorious in his Being, Perfect in himself, &c. &c.

1b. according to] Something must be here supplied in a Translation, to compleat the Sense; for there is no Prefix to my Name, besides the Conjunction but; though our Translators have boldly added [by] without distinguishing it with another Character; which Supplement may by no means be allowed, for God was known by his Name here rendered the Lord to Abraham, Gen. xiii. 4. & xv. 7. & xxi. 33. & xxii. 14. & xxiv. 3. 7. Isaac, Chap. xxvi. 22, 25. & xxvii. 27. and Jacob, Chap. xxviii. 13, 16. & xxx. 30. & xxxii. 9. & xlix. 18. as well as to many others in and before their Time. So that the Words in our Bibles, by my Name Jehovah was I not known to them, are directly wrong; though it has been disguised to common Readers, by making it different in Genesis and here.

The Letters h and z are several Times left out in Scripture, after the Manner of the Heb. Tongue, which are used to signify according to, and surely that should be supplied to make Sense, rather than by to make the Expression not true. See according to added in the last Translation, Chap. xvi. 16. & xxxvii. 29. Jer. xi. 13. Hab. iii. 9.

Neb. v. 19. 1 Sam. vi. 4. 18. 1 King. v. 10. though all such are omitted by the indefatigable Nitius.

I may just mention a little of what is said concerning this in that paltry bold Pamphlet, stiled Critical Notes on some Passages of Scripture, pr. 1747, the Author of which (supposed to be M—n of the Charter-house) would have א not changed to י without the Authority of any Copy or Version, to make, And my Name Jehovah I made it known to them; whereas י instead of it would be to it, and even it would be improper; nay this Hebrician takes י נודעתי pass. I was known to be א ע ל. I made known.

1b. the Lord] Origen putting the original Word יהוה in the Margin of his famous Hexapla, Transcribers took it for the Greek ΠΙΠΙ PIPI; which however are not exactly alike, as said to be in Simeon's Crit. Hist. B. ii. Chap. 10.

Ver. 7. who bring] It is a Heb. Participle, but if turned into a Verb should be the first Person, who bring; according as other Translators have put it.

Ver. 8. lifted up my Hand] So the original Words are kept to in the com. Bib. Gen. xiv. 22. Deut. xxxii. 40. Ezek. xx. 5, 6, 15, 23, 28, 42. & xxxvi. 7. & xlvii. 14.

Ver. 9. Want of Courage] which well expresses the Heb. Shortness, not Anguish, of Spirit, as the Septuagint have turned it, ἀνδρὶς ἀσθενήσιας, for faint-heartedness. Ruah is translated courage, Josh. ii. 11. see also Dan. xi. 25. This Verse concludes one of the lesser Sections, and the Success of the first Visit to Pharaoh, though made to begin a Partition in the Eng. Bible.

Ver. 12. do not hearken] now when he spoke to them, for they had hearkened before, Chap. iii. 18. & iv. 31.

Ver. 13. both to Moses and Aaron] Since Moses had made that Complaint of himself.

Ver. 14. their] This was the proper Place to introduce the following Genealogy, and whet up the Reader's Appetite, by holding him a little in Suspense; because of the Mention of the Israelites just before, whereby it is brought in by their: the Relation also of the first going in to Pharaoh, with the Consequences of it, being ended; and the momentous Affair of going the second Time coming on, the Charge for that being given, to rouse the

THEN the Lord replied to him; See I make thee a God to Pharaoh, and Aaron thy Brother shall be thy Prophet.

2. Thou shalt tell all that I command thee; which thy Brother Aaron shall speak to Pharaoh, that he may let the Israelites go out of his Country.

3. But I will let Pharaoh's Heart be hard,

Expectation of the Hearer. The Elegancy of falling into this Digression is so great in the pious and prudent Castalis's Version, that I longed to repeat, Israelitarum autem (ad quos Jova et ad Pharaonem Mosi et Abaroni precepta de eis ex Egypto educendis dedit) familiarum capita sic se habent: but would not venture to translate it.

Ib. Enoch] Concerning some of those Names I refer the Reader to Gen. xlv.

Ver. 17. Shimei] The same Name is in 2 Sam. xvi. 5, &c. and of this same Person, 1 Chron. vi. 17. Num. iii. 18.

Ver. 18. Izhar] In the Eng. Bib. Num. iii. 19. Izhar, but in the Heb. all one.

Ver. 19. Mahli] This is the true Name, as it is called elsewhere in the com. Version, viz. 1 Chron. vi. 19, 29. Num. iii. 20.

Ver. 20. who bore] I have made a probable Guess or Supposition of her Age now, with that of her Father when she was born, in my Chronology. It is said in Usher's Annals, that she bore Moses 41 Years after the Death of her Father; but that is a Mistake of seven Years too little, as may be seen by the Annals themselves.

Ver. 23. Elisheba] with the Septuagint Ελισβεθ, Elisabeth, of which this may therefore be counted the Heb. and original Name.

Ib. Nahshon] So it is truly written Num. i. 7. & ii. 3. 1 Chron. ii. 10.

Ver. 24. Korhites] This very Heb. Word we have been taught to read Korathites, Num. xxvi. 58. and Korabite, 1 Chron. ix. 31. so have need of better Preceptors.

Ver. 26. That] In Ver. 20. and to be understood elegantly as if repeated to Moses, it being singular in the Heb. as the that in the com. Transf. must, for which the Original has Nothing.

Ver. 27. that they might bring] The old Lat. Bib. Munster, Leo Juda and Castal. have all ut educerent; Coverdale and the Gen. Transf. that they might bring; which Ver. 13. shews. The com. Reading is as if Pharaoh was to bring them out.

Ver. 28. Which was] Heb. And it was; shewing that what God said from the 1st to the 9th Verse, was on the same Day that Moses and Aaron had spoken to Pharaoh; which gives great Light to the whole, the Order of which is otherwise lost. This is necessarily the Meaning, because this Verse ends a Heb. Paragraph, signally noted by the Letter Samach; and does not begin one, as in the com. Bible. So in the Sept. Transf. is read, Ἡ αὐτὴ ἡμέρα ἐλάλει κύριος Μωσῆν, on which Day the Lord spoke to Moses, the Verse before ending with a Comma; the same in the Vulg. Lat. which has, in die qua locutus est Dominus ad Moysen. In our Bible this Verse is made worse than a Tautology.

Ver. 29. Afterwards when] Moses having made this Digression from the End of the 13th Verse, which is an entire Paragraph in the Original, to shew that he returns to his Matter before, he repeats with a little Variation the last Part of it; such Recapitulations being not strange in the Scripture.

Ver. 2. tell] as the Word is in the com. Version, Chap. ix. 1. The 70, who were rather Expositors than Translators, say λαλήσεις αὐτῷ, shalt speak to him.

Ver. 3. let] Which Avenarius, says Patrick, translates, I will permit his heart to be harden'd. The Heb. Word יִפְּחַד to be hard is here in the Conjunction Hiphil, and that let or suffer sometimes shews the Property of a Verb that that I may multiply my Signs and Miracles in the Country of Egypt.

4. For when he does not hearken to you, I will put my Hand on Egypt, and bring my Armies, my People the Israelites, out of that Country, by great Judgments.

5. So the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, when I stretch out my Hand upon Egypt, and bring forth the Israelites from among them.

6. Thus Moses and Aaron did, doing just as the Lord commanded them.

7. And Moses was in his eightieth Year, as was Aaron in his eighty third, when they spoke to Pharaoh.

8. Moreover the Lord spoke to them both as follows :

9. When Pharaoh tells you, that ye should do a Miracle for your selves ; thou shalt say to Aaron, Take thy Staff, and throw down before Pharaoh ; which shall become a Serpent.

10. Accordingly they went in to him, and did so, as the Lord commanded : for Aaron threw down his Staff before him and his Servants, and it became a Serpent.

11. However Pharaoh called also the wise Men and Wizards, that those Magicians of Egypt might likewise do so by their Inchantments.

12. And they threw down their respective Staves, which became Serpents ; but Aaron's Staff devoured theirs.

13. Yet the Heart of Pharaoh was so stout, that he would not hearken to them ; as the Lord had spoken.

14. Hereupon the Lord said to Moses : Pharaoh's Heart being heavy, he refusing to let the People go ;

15. Go to him in the Morning, who behold will come forth to the Water, and thou shalt stand to meet him at the Bank of the River ; the Staff also, which was turned into a Serpent, shalt thou take in thy Hand.

16. And thou shalt tell him ; The Lord God of the Hebrews has sent me to thee to say, Let my People go, that they may serve me in the Wilderness : but behold thou hast not hearkened hitherto.

17. By this, as he says, thou shalt know that he is the Lord ; behold I will strike, with the Staff that is in my Hand, upon the Water which is in the River, and it shall be turned into Blood :

18. Insomuch that the Fish which are in the River shall die, and the River stink ; whereby the Egyptians shall have much ado to drink the Water out of it.

19. The Lord likewise ordered Moses ; Say to Aaron, Take thy Staff, and stretch

Ver. 13. was stout] This is not the same Word with either of those in the next and in the third Verse, but our Translators being Predestinarians liked the Word harden. Here the Verb signifies properly to be strong ; and Ainsworth, who left the last Translation as little as he well could, has waxed strong ; the literal Version of the Interlinear is, roboravit se cor Parhoh, the Heart of Parhoh strengthened itself. Most others have it in the Passive, and ours the same Word in the 22d Verse, shewing it to be done, not that the Lord did it. 20. Moses and Aaron therefore did according as the Lord commanded: for he lifted it up with the Staff, and struck the Water that was in the River, in the Sight both of Pharaoh and his Servants; and all of it there was turned into Blood:

21. Insomuch that the Fish which were in the River died, and the River stunk; whereby the Egyptians could not drink the Water out of it; and there was Blood in all the Country of Egypt.

22. But the Magicians of Egypt doing thus by their Inchantments, the Heart of Pharaoh was so stout, that he would not hearken to them, as the Lord had spoken.

23. Nay he turned away, and went into his House; for he did not regard this neither.

24. And all the Egyptians dug Water round about the River to drink; because they could not drink of that in it.

25. At length seven Days were fully up, after the Lord smote the River;

WHEN he said to Moses: Go in to Pharaoh, and tell him; Thus says the Lord, Let my People go, that they may serve me.

2. Whom if thou refusest to let go, behold I will smite all thy Bounds with Frogs.

3. For the River shall produce them abundantly, which shall come up, and get into thy House and Bed-chamber, even upon thy Bed, as also into the Houses of thy Servants and People, nay into thy very Ovens, and Kneading-troughs.

4. Moreover to thee, thy People, and all thy Servants, shall the Frogs come up.

5. The Lord likewise ordered Moses; Say to Aaron, Stretch out thy Hand with thy Staff upon the Streams, Rivers and Ponds; and make Frogs come up on the Country of Egypt.

6. Aaron accordingly stretched out his Hand upon the Waters of the Egyptians; and the Frogs came up, so that they covered the Country of Egypt.

7. However the Magicians did so by their Inchantments, and brought up Frogs upon the same.

8. Now Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, arges against the Heb. and that with me (though not allowing it to be such an Impropriety) contains a good Argument of the contrary: for as the Matter is so large, it must be done designedly either Way; and is it not much more likely for improper to be altered into proper, than otherwise? Is it not much more likely the Original Text should be enlarged where brief, especially by Marginal Notes, than be directly shortened, without so much as the Pretence of an Abridgment? But how is it so insufficient to have the Commissions to Pharaoh recorded only once, and yet sufficient to have them not recorded at all, as three of them at Ch. viii. 16. & Ch. ix. 8. & x. 21? If from the mentioning them twice they had been curtailed to once, why were not all of them served so, contrary to what we find Ch. x. 1, 3. & xi. 1, 4, 8? See further on Ch. xi. 1.

Ver. 19. Egyptians] Their in the pres. Bib. must belong to Waters before, or it will be false English, for Egypt is singular, by which their Pools of Water, will be the Waters Pools of Water.

Ib. Collection] See this Heb. Word, Gen. i. 10. Pools will exclude Floods, Ditches, Puddles, &c. all which were comprehended; it signifying a gathering together, as Ainsw. turns it in English.

Ver. 20. be lifted it up] That is Aaron lifted up his Hand; it being referred to Aaron and Hand in the preceding Verse: for there is with before Staff, though Translators have lost it; so Ch. viii. 5.

Ib. Blood] Of which Cowley writes in his Plagues of Egypt,

What Plague more just could on thy Waters fall?

The Hebrew Infants Murder stains them all.

And Milton with an ingenious Epithet,

To Blood unshed the Rivers must be turn'd,

Parad. lost, B. xii.

Ver. 21. the Water] Our principal public Translations having [of] before this, it appears that in the first Letter of the Heb. Word for Water, was taken for a Preposition, and so continued, especially as neither the old Latin, nor the Greek has it; and to be of, it would be of the Sea.

Ver. 24. dug Water] There is not for in the Heb. which is added to make it seem that they could get no Water; but how then did the Magicians turn it into Blood? This being the most likely Way they had it; for which see Justin Martyr, Quæst. & Respon. 26, ad Orthodox. And the Reason why all dug for it, seems because they got it by digging. The Interlinear and Tigurin Versions have, foderunt aquas, dug waters, the old Lat. aquam, water; Castal. aquam effoderunt, dug out water.

Ver. 3. produce them abundantly] Tynd. and the Bish. scrole wythe frogges, Gen. scroll full of frogs.

Ib. come up] עלו מן הנהר out of the River, says Jarhi; the like Ben Ez. There is no need to suppose they must go up, or, as the old Eng. is, climb up, the House to get in.

Ib. and People] Jun. and Trem. add domes, the Houses; but the Seventy had before turned it more skilfully, into the Houses of thy Servants and of thy People; and so Castalio makes Houses belong to both; see Chap. xiv. 5. It would be childish to say upon thy people, but more so to say the same in the next Verse.

Ver. 4. to] From in some following Verses may direct so to translate; else the Heb. Affix might be turned among, to be, among thee and thy People, &c. In the Vulg. Lat. Bib. is ad, to; Cast. has given it by pervado, get to; Jun. and Trem. have contra, against. The Substance of this Verse is to shew that none of the Egyptians should be free from the Frogs.

Ver. 5. ordered] By inward Instinct or Suggestion to his Mind; for he was now in the King's Presence, Poole's Annotat.

Ver. 6. Egyptians] as Chap. vii. 19.

and

and said, Make supplication to the Lord, that he may take away the Frogs from me and my People; so will I let the People go, that they may sacrifice to him.

9. And Moses proposed to Pharaoh, Honour thy self above me, for when it is, I shall make supplication for thee, thy Servants and People, to have the Frogs destroyed from thee and thy Houses; that they may be left only in the River.

10. Who answered, To Morrow; and he replied, It shall be according to thy Word, in order for thee to know, that there is none like the Lord our God.

11. For the Frogs shall depart from thee, thy Houses, Servants and People; being left only in the River.

12. So they both went out from Pharaoh; and Moses cried to the Lord, upon account of the Frogs which he had caused to him.

13. And the Lord did according to his Word; for they died out of the Houses, Courts and Fields:

14. Which they gathered up by Heaps, inasmuch that the Country stunk.

15. But when Pharaoh saw that there was Relief, he made his Heart heavy, so that he would not hearken to them; as the Lord had spoken.

16. Upon this the Lord commanded Moses; Say to Aaron, Stretch out thy Staff, and strike the Dust of the Earth; that it may become Lice in all the Country of Egypt.

17. And they did so; for Aaron stretched out his Hand with his Staff, and struck the Dust of the Earth, which became Lice both on Man and Beast; all the Dust of the Ground being Lice in that whole Country.

18. Whereas the Magicians doing so, to bring forth Lice by their Inchantments, could not: thus there were Lice both on Man and Beast.

19. Therefore the Magicians acknowledged to Pharaoh, It is the Finger of God; yet was his Heart so stout, that he would not hearken to them, as the Lord had spoken.

20. In the next place the Lord said to Moses: Rise early in the Morning, and stand before Pharaoh, who behold will come forth to the Water, and tell him the Lord says thus; Let my People go, that they may serve me.

21. For if thou dost not let them go, behold I will let a Mixture of noisome Creatures come to thee, thy Servants, People and Houses; so that the Houses of the Egyptians shall be full of them, and even the Ground which they are upon.

22. Yet will I separate on that Day the Country of Goshen, wherein my People remain, for those Creatures not to be there; in order for thee to know that I am the Lord within the Country.

Ver. 9. Honour thy self] This shews Moses exceedingly pleased at Pharaoh's first yielding, so that he would do what he could to oblige him: it is likely he did not think he would draw back again. I shall add, that I have the satisfaction to make this difficult Place intelligible without a Paraphrase; and in the same Sense as I find others understand it, of which see Patrick's Commentary.

Ib. from thee and thy Houses] This elegantly answers to the 3d and 4th Verses; one comprehending the Persons, the other what belonged to them.

Ver. 10. It shall be] The Sen of Ezra on Ver. 12. rehearses it with וְיָמָּה יִהְיֶה it shall be; so Trem. and Jun. with Cass. chose sic. This is more agreeable to the Matter than Be it, or Let it be, and to shall in the next Verse. Of this look back to Gen. i. 4.

Ver. 13. Courts] One may admire that our Translators would choose the other Signification of the Word Villages, which is extraneous to the Context, being ill posited between Houses and Fields. It is rendered with the Prep. by Buxt. and Montan. ex atriis, Munst. and Leo Judæ. de atriis, out of and from the Courts; by Coverdale, in the Courts; and Tynd. has, as here, out of the houses, courts and feldes; the Targ. likewise has דִּימָה courts: Jun. and Trem. put ex vivariis, out of the Yards or Barton, where any living Creatures are kept.

Ver. 18. doing so] That is smote the Dust, as Aaron did. Not endeavoured to do so, as both Peck and Patrick interpret it: for it is not said Aaron made the Lice; and what is the Sense of the Magicians endeavoured to do so to bring forth Lice?

Ver. 21. let—come] The Speech elegantly turns on the Verb used just before.

Ib. a Mixture of noisome Creatures] Divers or all Sorts of Creatures hurtful to Man; so that it was needless, as it would be tedious, to name them. These three were Punishments to the People themselves by noxious Animals, and as the Lice exceeded the Frogs, so this to the utmost surpassed the Lice, to end the Plagues of that Kind; and the Locusts were to finish in like manner, what the Hail left growing on the Ground, Chap. x. 12, 15.

Ainsworth observes that the Hebrew and Chaldee Words signify only a mixed multitude: notwithstanding Pagninus, in his Treat. of the Holy Tongue, says of the former, that it is, mistic diversorium animalium aut bestiarum, a mixture of Animals or Beasts; and in his Translation he has, omne ferarum genus, every kind of wild Beasts; as likewise Mercerus on him, ferarum diversis generis, wild Beasts of different Kinds: and the latter Buxtorf in his Chald. Lex. expounds, Colluvies, mixture animalium mixterum, a base Company of living Creatures mingled together; as also in Psa. lxxviii. 45. the Targum is, עֲרֵבֵי חַיִּים בְּרָא a mingled Company of the Beasts of the Field; which Text moreover says they devoured the Egyptians. To these add Josaphus, calling them ἅπαντα τὰ ἔρποντα, all manner of wild Beasts; and Sol. Jar. who explains it, כל מיני חיות רעות ונחשים ועקרבים all Sorts of ill Beasts, Serpents, Scorpions, &c. Ab. Ezra says, כסו ארצות ואכילים such as Lions, Wolves, Bears and Leopards; in like manner other of the Jewish Writers, particularly the Author of The Wisdom of Solomon in the Apocrypha, Chap. xi. 15, 17, 18. Moreover Jun. and Trem. interpret it by colluvium animalium, a vile Herd of live Things; see besides the Margins of our Eng. Translations. Some other Interpreters turn it insects in general, but our English have dwindled it into flies.

Ib. to thee, &c.] Concerning this look Ver. 4.

Ver. 22. within the Country] Trem. and Jun. hujus terra, this Country; Gen. Marg. land of Egypt.

23. Thus

23. Thus will I make the Difference of Redemption between my People and thine: to Morrow there shall be this Sign.

24. And the Lord did so; for there came a grievous Mixture of noisome Creatures to Pharaoh's House, and those of his Servants; so that throughout the Country of Egypt the Ground was spoiled by reason of them.

25. Whereupon Pharaoh calling Moses and Aaron, said, Go, sacrifice to your God in the Country.

26. But answered Moses; It is not fit to do so; because we should sacrifice what is abominable with the Egyptians to the Lord our God: behold should we do so in their Sight, would not they stone us?

27. Let us go three Days Journey into the Wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God, according as he shall bid us.

28. To which Pharaoh replied, I will let you go, that you may sacrifice to the Lord your God in the Wilderness; only you shall by no means go far off: make supplication for me.

29. Behold, said Moses, when I go out from thee, I will make supplication to the Lord; and the Mixture of noisome Creatures shall depart from Pharaoh, his Servants and People, to Morrow; only let Pharaoh delude no more, in not letting the People go to sacrifice to the Lord.

30. Then going out from him, he made supplication to the Lord.

31. Who did according to the Word of Moses; for he caused them to depart from him, and his; there being not one left.

32. Nevertheless Pharaoh made his Heart heavy also this Time; so that he would not let the People go.

CHAP. IX.

A GAIN the Lord charged Moses: Go in to Pharaoh, and declare to him; Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my People go, that they may serve me.

2. For if thou refusest it, and yet holdest them fast;

3. Behold the Hand of the Lord shall be on thy Cattle which are in the Field, on the Horses, Asses, Camels, Herds and Flocks, by a very grievous Murrain.

4. But the Lord will make a Separation between the Cattle of Israel, and those of the Egyptians; so that there shall not any Thing die, of all which the Israelites have.

5. The Lord also set the appointed Time, that on the next Day he would do this Thing in the Country.

6. Which he did at that Time: for the Cattle of the Egyptians in general died; but there did not die one of the Israelites Cattle.

7. And though Pharaoh sent, and behold not even one of the latter was dead; he made his Heart heavy, so that he would not let the People go.

8. Next the Lord said to Moses and Aaron; Take Ashes of the Kiln your Hands

Ver. 23. Redemption] Redeem my People, and not thine, from my Judgments. So it is expressed by the same Word, Psa. cxi. 9. Gen. make a deliverance of my people from. It does not in the least signify division; that is the old Lat. divisionem: which was needless here, having been told in the preceding Verse; see also Gell's Essay, p. 199, 200.

Ver. 24. so that] Here is the Heb. Partition of the Sentence, which proves the last Eng. Bible wrong; and is one Instance, among many which might be brought, of K. James's Translators making it worse, this being before, so that through all the land of Egypt, &c.

Ib. spoiled] Sept. ἠλωομένην, destroyed; Cast. devastatur, wasted; Coverd. marred. The Heb. and Chald. Verbs may be rendered either to corrupt, spoil or destroy.

Ver. 26. abominable] on which Etwod thus paraphrases, "It would be abominable to them to see us sacrifice their gods to our God;" it being a Tradition that they worshipped Beasts. The Targum of Onkelos here runs in this Manner, because the Cattle which the Egyptians reverence, we should take of them to sacrifice before the Lord our God, &c.

Ver. 27. Let us go—that we may] The learned Broughton, who for Defence of the Scripture was an Honour to our Nation, in an Epistle to the Nobility of England about translating the Bible, has these Words, "Constant Memory to translate the same often repeated in the same sort is most needful." The Reader may observe from Chap. iii. 18. and abundantly elsewhere, that this has been my Endeavour; unless the Elegancy of a different Expression, especially when there have been more than one of the same in Heb. near together, has overruled it, as in Gen. xxix. 32, 33, 34, 35.

Ver. 28. by no means] as Trem. and Jun. say, non ulla pacto. The Verb prti being single, would have made it, you shall not go far off, being doubled it becomes stronger, of which Expression look Gen. iii. 4. but very turns it the other way, and instead of binding the Restriction harder gives more Liberty; yet our last Translators turned the Idiom thus, Psa. xlix. 7. none can by any means redeem.

Ver. 29. shall depart] which did according to the Word of Moses, Ver. 31. confirms; as also Chap. ix. 29.

Ver. 3. shall be on] Here is a Heb. Participle like those in the Verse before, but should not be rendered like them in the present Time; for behold has usually a Participle after it, which is to be understood in the future; however Ver. 5. determines this to be so.

Ib. Herds and Flocks] See Gen. iv. 2. & xii. 16. the Kinds here specified inform us what was comprehended under the Term Cattle; several Sorts of which, according to the com. Bib. were or might be excluded, such as Goats, Cows, &c. The Tigurin Transf. accordingly has, in armentis & gregibus; Jun. and Trem. in armenta, & in greges.

Ver. 6. in general] For all did not die, Ver. 19, 20, 21. Those who expound it of all Sorts of Cattle, do but trifle; since doubtless there would have died of all Sorts of Cattle in the whole Country of Egypt, if this Plague had not been sent to them.

Ver. 8. Kiln] For Bricks, &c. of which see Gen. xix. 18. whereby the Egyptians were most justly and full;

full; and let Moses sprinkle them towards Heaven in Pharaoh's Sight;

9. That they may be Dust over all the Country of Egypt; which may become, both upon Man and Beast, a Boil breaking forth in Blisters, throughout that Country.

10. Accordingly they took Ashes of the Kiln, and standing before Pharaoh, Moses sprinkled them towards Heaven; and there was a Boil in Blisters breaking forth, both on Man and Beast.

11. Inasmuch that the Magicians could not stand before Moses, by reason of the Boil: for it was on them inclusive with all the Egyptians.

12. However the Lord let Pharaoh's Heart be so stout, that he would not hearken to them; as he had spoken to Moses.

13. Upon which the Lord said to him: Rise early in the Morning, and standing before Pharaoh, tell him; Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my People go, that they may serve me.

14. For this Time I will send all my Plagues to thy Heart, and on thy Servants and People; in order for thee to know that there is none like me on all the Earth.

15. For now I might have stretched out my Hand, and smitten thee and thy People with the Pestilence; so thou wouldest have been cut off from thence.

16. But indeed because of this I have made thee stand, to the end that I might shew thee my Power, and that my Name might be declared throughout the World:

17. Who yet exaltest thy self against my People, not to let them go.

18. Behold I will rain down, about this Time to Morrow, very grievous Hail; such as there has not been in Egypt, from the Day it was founded even till now.

19. Therefore now send, gather together thy Cattle, and all that thou hast in the Field; where all the Men and Beasts that shall be found not gotten into the House, the Hail shall come down upon, so that they shall die:

20. He of Pharaoh's Subjects who feared the Word of the Lord, made his Servants and Cattle flee into the Houses;

21. Whereas he who did not mind it, left them in the Field.

22. Afterwards the Lord said to Moses, Stretch out thy Hand towards Heaven, that there may be Hail in all the Country of Egypt; upon Man, Beast, and every Herb of the Field there.

23. He accordingly stretched out his Staff so; and the Lord gave forth Thunder, and Hail, nay Fire ran along on the Ground: thus he rained down the Hail upon the Country of Egypt.

24. With the Hail also was Fire flashing within it; very grievous, such as there had not been in all the Country of Egypt, since it became a Nation.

25. So the Hail smote, in the whole Country of Egypt, all that was in the Field, both Man and Beast; as it did also every Herb of the Field, and broke every Tree of it.

strangely punished, the Ashes of their Oppression re-kindling on their Flesh.

Ver. 9. That they may] See Chap. vii. 19.

1b. Blisters] Coming from a Root which signifies to bubble or boil up.

Ver. 10. there was] not strictly it was, or it became, because it is not construed with was as in the foregoing Ver.

Ver. 14. send all my Plagues to thy Heart] All my former Plagues which thou wouldest not regard shall now, by means of this Plague that I will send, reach thy Heart, and the Hearts of the Egyptians, (for which see Ch. viii. 3.) as we find was done, Ver. 27, 34.

Ver. 15. Any Reader may see that this Verse in our Bibles is absolutely wrong; for the ensuing Plague was not the Pestilence, nor were Pharaoh and his People cut off with that, but drowned in the Sea. Jun. and Trem. with Castal. and our Ainsworth, translate in the Manner I have done it; and so the French Bib. has it. Patrick also owns he does not see how the com. Translation can be maintained; Hammond calls it that Passage wherein our common Translation hath so much mistaken, Annot. on Rom. ix. 18. Moreover the Heb. Verb for stretched out, which directs the other, is in the preterite Tense; and Whitby on Rom. ix. 17. says, it cannot be rendered in the future Tense, as our Translation doth.

Ver. 16. stand] It is the same common Heb. Verb which is thus rendered in the pres. Bible, Ver. 10, 11. only here it is in the Conjugation Hiphil, to make or let another stand; as Wall on Rom. ix. 17. says Paul understands it by his arguing at Ver. 22. The Septuagint regarding the Sense, translated it, ἐν τῷ τέρει ἀναστήσας, because of this thou hast been preserved or kept alive; so the Bishops, have I kept thee: which agrees exceeding well with the foregoing Verse in this Translation. The literal Lat. Version has, stare feci te, I have made thee stand; so the Marg. of the pres. Translat. says it is in Heb. made thee stand; Jun. and Trem. feci ut restares, I have caused that thou shouldest remain; the French Transf. je t'ai fait subsister, I have made thee subsist. An Instance of what Men will do in Favour of their own Opinions, is here in the Geneva Bible, which has appointed, a Word foreign to any Meaning of the Original; nor will that which the Apostle repeats it by, Rom. ix. 17. bear such a Signification, which is ἀναστήσας or, I have stirred thee up; the same Verb which is in the Greek Bible where we read, the Lord stirred up the Spirit of Cyrus, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 22. Ezra i. 1. and David said to God in Prayer, stir up thy self, Psa. xxxv. 23. so in Psa. lxxx. 2. stir up thy strength; see also 1 Kings xi. 14. Isa. x. 26. & xiii. 17. & xlii. 13. Acts xiv. 2. where is the simple Verb, or another Compound: which stirring up might well be the Consequence of Pharaoh's Wickedness committed before, as Hammond on Rom. ix. 18. circumstantially shews it was.

Ver. 17. This has no Mark of a Question in the Hebrew.

Ver. 23. Hail] which was very uncommon there. Perry remarks that he saw one Shower of Hail when he was at Grand Cairo, which they told him, had not been observed before in any Man's Memory, View of the Levant, p. 255.

26. Only in the Country of Goshen, where the Israelites were, there was none.

27. At length Pharaoh sent for Moses and Aaron, and said to them; I have sinned this Time: the Lord is righteous, but I and my People are wicked.

28. Make supplication to the Lord, since there has been much, that there may not be the Thunder of God and the Hail: then will I let you go, and you shall remain no longer.

29. To whom Moses said; As soon as I go out of the City, spreading forth my Hands to the Lord, the Thunder will cease, and the Hail be no more, in order for thee to know that the Earth is the Lord's.

30. As for thee and thy Servants, I knew that you would first be afraid, because of the Lord God.

31. Both the Flax and Barley were smitten; for this was in ear, and that out of the stalk.

32. But the Wheat and Rye were not smitten; because they were not come out in ear.

33. And Moses going out of the City from Pharaoh, spread forth his Hands to the Lord; upon which the Thunder and Hail ceased, and the Rain was not poured out on the Earth.

34. When Pharaoh therefore saw that the Rain, Hail, and Thunder were ceased; he sinned again, making his Heart heavy, with his Servants.

35. Thus his Heart was so stout, that he would not let the Israelites go; as the Lord had spoken by the Ministry of Moses.

CHAP. X.

TO him the Lord said further; Go in to Pharaoh: though I have let his Heart be heavy, and the Hearts of his Servants; to the end that I might put these my Signs amongst them;

2. And in order for thee to declare in the Hearing of thy Son and Grandson, what I have done in Egypt, and my Signs which I have put among them; that you may know that I am the Lord.

3. Accordingly Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh, and told him: Thus says the Lord God of the Hebrews; How long wilt thou refuse to be humbled because of me? Let my People go, that they may serve me.

4. For if thou refusest to let them go, behold to Morrow I will bring Locusts into thy Bounds.

5. Which shall cover the Prospect of the

Ver. 30. first] before they let the Israelites go. D. Kimhi in his Book of Roots, and Pagnin. in his Lexic. expound it, before he prayed for them: Santes Pagnin. in that vast Treasure of the Holy Tongue, and Mercer. on it (a fol. Book of above 3000 Columns) give to terem no other Signification any where than antequam, priusquam, before, and first an Adverb; and the latter writes, Quidam exponunt, nondum, quod Aben Hezra & Ramban improbant, i. e. Some expound it, not yet, which Ab. Ezra and Maimonides (two of the most noted and learned Jewish Rabbies) disprove. Arias Montan. turns it here antequam; the Tigurin Vers. has priusquam; and the Gen. Bib. afora; as likewise Gell expounds it, and remarks that כִּנְסָה is quite left out by our Translators, Essay, p. 200, 201. I suppose the last Words of this Chapter might mislead some, which may very well be understood of what was spoken by Moses to the Israelites, and not to Pharaoh; compare Chap. iii. 19. with Chap. iv. 30.

Ver. 32. not come out in ear] Heb. obscure. Patrick from Bochart expounds it not yet eared, by which it received less Harm; as there was but a Month's Difference between the Growth of Wheat and Barley. Usher in his Annals, A. M. 2513, has this Plague on the 5th of the Month Abib, after which to the Feast of Weeks or Pentecost at the End of Wheat-harvest was but sixty Days, Lev. xxiii. 16. and as Harvest began seven Weeks sooner, Deut. xvi. 9. the Harvest of Wheat and Rye, which was there the latter Part, would probably begin about five Weeks after this; so that they must needs be out of the Ground now, though Usher himself says the contrary, and must be obscure as above; and even by the Time of the Year, Pentecost in that Year by Usher's Computation falling on the 25th of the Month now called June. Nay Benjamin in his Itinerary says, that in Egypt, באדר קוצרים חשורים ובניסן חשורים they reap Barley in Adar (the 12th Month) and Wheat in Nisan (or Abib, the 1st;) those Months sometimes falling sooner; see likewise Fuller's Miscel. Lib. iii. Cap. 11.

Ver. 1. though] Patrick says, ki is not to be translated for, but although, as it many times is used in these Books, and then the Sense is clear, Comment. in loc.

Ib. amongst them] For which the Heb. Idiom is in the midst &c. This has proved difficult to Translators; some understanding it in the midst of Egypt, as Trem. and Jun. with our Translators of the Bible, put out by Authority before K. James, in which it is, in the midst of his realm: but since there is no Egypt for the antecedent to it, that Exposition must needs be wrong; Egypt also is feminine, and the Pronoun here masculine. Others render it, in the midst of him, or in him, or in his inward parts; which would be to affect him, or make his Heart sensible, as before in Ver. 14. of the preceding Chap. this also is quite amiss, for it is utterly inconsistent with the Words immediately before; that his Heart should be made unapt and unfit to receive any Thing, that it might receive it. Besides the Heb. Word no how signifies before, and the King's Translators might much better have revived the Reading in Coverdale's Bib. under K. Edw. VI. which was among them. One may wonder none of them thought, as they must know, of the Heb. Singulars being used collectively for more; however Ch. iii. 26. confirms this Interpretation by the same Word, which see; and especially the Verse following this, where we find the Expression varied, as is usual, for the sake of Elegancy, these my Signs by my Signs, אֵלֶּיךָ by אֵלַי I put, and in the midst of them from the sing. collectively, as the Grammarians speak, by in them, that is among them; as in Chap. ix. 31, & 32. there is first was smitten spoken of two things, and then were smitten.

Ver. 2. you] Bish. 1575, they.

Ver. 5. Prospect] Heb. eye, not face; see further Ver. 15.

Ib. the rest that] For what was the rest or residue of that, as in the com. Transl. but not in the Heb. or what that which it was the residue of? Does any Distinction appear? And is it not absurd? see also Ver. 12, 15.

Country,

Country, so that the Ground cannot be seen; and shall eat the rest that is escaped, which is left you from the Hail, even every Tree that springs forth to you out of the Field.

6. Nay they shall fill thy Houses, and the Houses of all thy Servants, with all those of the Egyptians; which neither thy Fathers nor Grandfathers have seen, from the Day they were first upon the Earth to this Day. So he turned away, and went out from Pharaoh,

7. At which Pharaoh's Servants expostulated with him, How long shall he be a Snare to us? Let the Men go, that they may serve the Lord their God: wouldst thou first know, that Egypt is destroyed?

8. Upon this Moses and Aaron were brought back to him, who said to them, Go, serve the Lord your God; who and who are to go?

9. We shall go, answered Moses, with our Youths and Elders; shall go with our Sons and Daughters, with our Flocks and Herds; because we have a Feast of the Lord.

10. But he replied to them, Let the Lord be so with you, as I shall let you and your Children go; take notice that there is Harm before your Faces.

11. Not so; go now, you Men, and serve the Lord; for that you have been requesting. Whereupon they were driven out from his Presence.

12. The Lord then said to Moses, Stretch out thy Hand over the Country of Egypt for Locusts, that they may come up on it; and eat every Herb of the Ground, all which the Hail has left.

13. So Moses stretched out his Staff over the same; and the Lord brought an East-wind into the Country, all that Day and all the Night; which, when it was Morning, brought up Locusts.

14. And they came up over all the Country of Egypt, resting in the whole Bounds of it; being so very grievous, that before them were no such Locusts as they, nor after them will there be such.

15. For they covered the Prospect of all the Country, so that the Country was darkened; and eat every Herb of it, with all the Fruit of the Trees, which the Hail had left; insomuch that there did not remain any Greenness on the Trees, or on the Herbs of the Field, in the whole Country of Egypt.

16. With that Pharaoh made haste to call Moses and Aaron, and said, I have sinned both against the Lord your God, and you.

17. However now forgive, I pray, my Sin only this Time, and supplicate the Lord your God; that he may take away from me only this Death.

18. The former accordingly went out from him, and made supplication to the Lord.

19. Who turned the Wind to the West very strongly, which took away the Locusts; and fixed them in the Red Sea; there being not one left in all the Borders of Egypt.

Ver. 6. were first] or began to be; as the Heb. Verb for reigned, signifies also began to reign or reigning, as often in the Books of the Kings.

Ver. 7. first] The Word commented on at the 30th Verse of the last Chap. by the Interlineary Version as here, num ante scies, for which last Word Pagnin. had scire vis; which he more fully explains in his Lexic. thus, wouldst thou know before thou lettest them go, that Egypt is perished? In the Tigurin Bib. is, visne prius experiri Ægyptum esse perditam? Wouldst thou experience first, that Egypt is perished? As likewise in the French, pourras-tu auparavant, wouldst thou know first? and in the Gen. wilt thou first know? Ab. Ezra expounds it by these Words, האם תראה שיתברר לך כי אברהם עזר Wouldst thou make it clear to thy self first, that Egypt is perished? Our Translators should have been consistent with themselves, who render the same Word before in Chap. xii. 34. Gen. ii. 5. & xxiv. 45. Psa. cxix. 67. and ere, 1 Sam. iii. 3.

Ver. 10. Let the Lord be so with you, as I shall let you and your Children go] That is not at all; meaning he would not let their Children go, as the next Verse shews. The Sense in the present Reading must be this, As I will let you and your little ones go, so let the Lord be with you, and accept of your going in that Manner; but not so which follows contradicts this, and makes it evident that the Words were an Irony.

Ab. take notice that] as Ver. 2. know that; threatening by it something bad to them: consonant to the Annotations of Jun. and Trem. Pool, &c.

Ver. 13. Locusts] in our former Transf. grasshoppers.

Ver. 15. If the Locusts covered the face of the whole earth, as our Translators have told us, how did a Westwind blow these into the Red Sea, which were on the east Side of it, Egypt lying on the west of that Sea?

Ver. 19. Red Sea] This through which the Israelites passed is in Heb. the Sea of Weeds, upon which perhaps the Locusts fastened. But the Ocean on the South of Arabia, from whence this Sea comes, being of a reddish Colour, as also the Banks, Sand, Stones and Trees of it, Raleigh's Hist. Chap. 3. 8. say the Water of this Sea it self, as Neitzschitz says it seems, and the more so the clearer the Sun shines, hence it might obtain the Name of the Red Sea; but this Fuller earnestly opposes, and brings others denying any such Redness, while himself claims the Discovery of its being so named from Edom, which signifies red, Misc. Sac. L. iv. 20. being the Opinion that I think now prevails; and thus Red Sea should mean but Sea of Edom, which is an Affront to common Sense: nay thus it must have risen from a Mistake of Edom for red (which does not signify so in other Languages) but how could that be, when the Heb. has Sea of Suph, not Edom? The Notion of its being named so from an unknown King, may be justly rejected, with Fuller. And Balthazar Tellez the Jesuit, in The Travels of the Jesuits in Ethiopia, B. i. 6. pleads partly for its taking the Name from the Slaughter of the Egyptians there, and making the Sea red with their Blood; but what Effusion of Blood does Drowning cause? As for his saying it was never called the Red Sea before, neither was it now, as above in the Original, and even this here was before that was done. Such Absurdities are the Effect of interpreting Scripture by Translations, without the Original.

20. Yet the Lord let Pharaoh's Heart be so stout, that he would not let the Israelites go.

21. Whereupon the Lord said to Moses, Stretch out thy Hand towards Heaven, that there may be such Darkness upon the Country of Egypt, that it may be felt.

22. And he doing so, there was thick Darkness in all that Country three Days.

23. During which they did not see one another, nor any one rise up from his Seat; whereas all the Israelites had Light in their Habitations.

24. Therefore Pharaoh called Moses, and said, Go, serve the Lord; only your Flocks and Herds shall be stayed: your Children too may go with you.

25. Nevertheless Moses declared, Thou must also allow with us Sacrifices and Burnt-offerings; that we may sacrifice to the Lord our God.

26. So that our Cattle also shall go with us, not a Hoof shall be left; because we must take of them to serve the Lord our God: and we know not what we shall serve him with, till we come thither.

27. But the Lord let Pharaoh's Heart be so stout, that he did not consent to let them go.

28. Pharaoh further exclaimed to him, Be gone from me: take heed to thy self, thou see my Face no more; for on the Day thou dost, thou shalt die.

29. And Moses replied, Thou speakest right: I shall see thy Face again no more.

CHAP. XI.

LASTLY the Lord said to Moses, I will yet bring one Plague upon Pharaoh and the Egyptians; after that he shall let you go from hence: when he does, he will hastily drive you out hence altogether.

2. Speak now in the Hearing of the People, that they should ask each Man his Acquaintance, and each Woman hers, for Vessels both of Silver and Gold.

3. For the Lord had made the People be in Favour with the Egyptians: the Man Moses also was very great in the Country of Egypt, in the Regard both of Pharaoh's Servants and the People.

4. And he declared: Thus says the Lord; About Midnight will I go forth into the midst of Egypt.

5. And all the First-born in that Country shall die, from the First-born of Pharaoh who sits upon his Throne, to that of the Servant-maid who is behind the Mill; with all the Firstlings of the Beasts.

6. So that there shall be a great Cry in all the Country of Egypt; such as there has not been, nor shall be like it any more.

Ver. 22. thick] Gen. blacke.

Ib. Darkness] Of this Milton in Parad. Lost, B. xii.

Darkness must overshadow all his Bounds, Palpable Darkness, and blot out three Days.

Ver. 23. nor any one rise up] which might be from the Terror they were stricken with, as well as the Darkness; which Terror of the Darkness they felt, not the Thickness of it, as some have ignorantly imagined; for Darkness is nothing but the Absence of Light.

Ver. 24. called Moses] This seems to be after the Darkness was over, by their not stirring out of their Places while that continued, and by seeing his Face, Ver. 28.

Ib. your Children too may go] which he would not permit before, Ver. 10. Thus Pharaoh yielded unwillingly by little and little, Chap. viii. 25, 28. & xii. 32.

Ver. 25. with us] as Prov. vii. 20. & Sam. xvi. 2. for in our Hand. So that our Translators have let with slip, but I suppose by taking in to be into.

Ver. 27. consent] This Verb speaks for my rendering it by would in the other Places.

Ver. 29. shall] For will sounds too wilful.

Ver. 1. the Lord said] This was while Moses was with Pharaoh, according to the 8th Ver. compared with Chap. x. 29. consequently it was an inward Revelation; the like to which see 2 Kings xx. 4. notwithstanding Expositors write uncertainly of the Time when it was. Although the Author of State Ec. p. 384. thinks we may fairly presume, that the whole Speech of God here to Moses was expressed originally, Part of which we have in the printed Heb. yet to me it seems quite otherwise; that if all had been in at first, all would have remained, or none: far better, and therefore I suppose only genuine, we have that alone which is not repeated in the Speech of Moses, Ver. 4—8. At the End of our 3d Verse the Sam. sub-joins, to its peculiar Honour, says our Critick, but say I, to its Suspicion, Then said Moses to Pharaoh; Thus says the Lord, repeating that in Chap. iv. 22, 23.

Ib. hastily] So Jun. has celeriter, which Chap. xii. 33. shews to be meant by repeating the Heb. Verb. This with drive out the Gen. render by chase.

Ver. 2. Acquaintance] Those that they were familiar with, of whom they might get most; as Chap. iii. 22. it was Neighbours and Lodgers.

Ver. 3. had made] Reddiderat by Jun. and Trem. God had made the People be in Favour with the Egyptians, by those great Things he had done for them; so that they would let the Israelites have what they should ask of them. This looks like Something out of joint in the present Translation, or very strange that it should be done in that instant, between the Times of God's revealing to Moses what he spoke to Pharaoh. By the Bish. shall give.

Ib. the Man Moses] Nothing unsuitable for Moses himself to write; so far from it, that it is well known Julius Caesar calls himself Caesar, in the History of his Wars.

Ver. 4. declared] "To Pharaoh, before he went out of his Presence," Ver. 8. & Exod. x. 29. Ainsw. in Annotat. "Quando scilicet adhuc stabat coram Pharaone; That is when he yet stood before Pharaoh," Munst. in Annotat.

Ver. 5. from &c.] Under this seems to be elegantly included the First-born of both Sexes.

Ib. sits] One may wonder to find Authors, as Ainsw. Peale, &c. applying this, when it will bear it so unaptly, to the First-born of Pharaoh instead of himself; and yet ascribe being behind the Mill to the Maid-servant, and not to her First-born.

Ib. Firstlings] Bish. first gendred.

7. Whereas

7. Whereas a Dog shall not wag his Tongue at any of the Israelites, whether at Man or Beast; that you may know what Separation the Lord makes between the Egyptians and Israel.

8. Then shall all these thy Servants come down to me, and bowing to me, say, Go out, thou and all the People who accompany thee; after which I will go out. So he went forth from Pharaoh very angry.

9. For the Lord had said to him, Pharaoh will not hearken to you; that I may multiply my Miracles in the Country of Egypt.

10. Accordingly when Moses and Aaron did all these Miracles before Pharaoh, the Lord let his Heart be so stout, that he would not let the Israelites go out of his Country.

CHAP. XII.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, in the Country of Egypt as follows:

2. This Month shall be to you the Beginning of the Months, the First of those in the Year.

3. Speak to all the Assembly of Israel, that on the tenth of it, they should each Man take them a Lamb apiece, for every Family of their Fathers.

4. However if a Family is too little for there to be a Lamb, let him and his Neighbour next to his House take one by the Sum of the Persons: you shall each man reckon according to his eating for it.

5. Which shall be perfect for you, a Male in its first Year; you may take it either from the Sheep or Goats.

6. And you shall have it in Keeping till the fourteenth Day of this Month, when all the Assembly of Israel gathered together shall kill it within the Evening.

7. Next they shall take some of the Blood, and put upon the two Posts, and the Lintel of the Door, at the Houses in which they eat it.

8. They shall eat the Flesh too that Night; which you shall do roasted at the Fire, and with unleavened Cakes, as also bitter Herbs.

9. You shall not eat of it raw, or at all boiled in Water; but roasted with Fire, the Head of it, together with its Legs and inward Parts.

10. Besides you shall leave none of it till the Morning; but what is left of it till then shall burn with Fire.

11. And thus shall you eat it, with your Loins girded, your Shoes on your Feet, and your Staff in your Hand; as you shall also in Haste, it being the Lord's Passover.

12. For I will pass through the Country of Egypt that Night, and smite all the First-born therein, both of Man and Beast; on all the gods likewise of the Egyptians will I execute Judgments, who am the Lord.

13. But the Blood shall be a Sign for you,

Ver. 7. at any] as we say, The Dog barks at, not against. Bish. amongst.

Ib. whether] Tynd. nor yette.

Ib. what] Cast. with Jun. and Trem. say quantum, the Seventy ære, how much, in the old Lat. Transf. is quanto, in the Tigur. quale, what or what sort of. It is not the Particle following know in Chap. ix. 29. & x. 2.

Ver. 8. So] See the like Verses, Chap. x. 6, 11. & xii. 27. & xiv. 4.

Ib. very angry] Bish. with an angry countenance.

Ver. 9. For the Lord had said] After this Sort some others translate, which carries its own Evidence with it: for God did not now say to Moses, Pharaoh shall not hearken to you, since they had no farther Message to him.

Ver. 2. to you] For Chronology, Festivals, &c. 1 Kings vi. 1. Lev. xxiii. 39. Abib, which signifies green Corn, being thus made the first Month, answerable to ours called March, the 7th Month would be after the Fruit-gathering, as in the Text cited; but that is called the going out or end of the Year, Chap. xxiii. 16. and the Revolution of it, Chap. xxxiv. 22. which proves that the common Year began at Autumn. The following Quotations are from the celebrated Isaac Newton, in his Observations upon the Prophecies of Daniel, "The Jews began their civil Year from the autumnal Equinox, and their sacred Year from the vernal: and the first Day of the first Month was on the visible new Moon, which was nearest the Equinox, i. e. either before or after;" Chap. 10. "They began their Month from the sixth Hour at Evening, that is, at Sun-set, next after the 18th Hour from the Conjunction," Chap. 11. of the said Observ. see also Exod. xxxiv. 22. 1 Sam. xx. 24, 27. Num. x. 10.

compared with Psa. lxxxvi. 3. & Num. xxviii. 11. with 1 Chron. xxiii. 31.

Ver. 4. too little] to eat the Lamb at Supper, Ver. 8, 10.

Ver. 5. perfect] the same Word as in Lev. xxii. 21.

Ver. 6. within the Evening] See Deut. xvi. 6. Chap. xxix. 39. Heb. between the two Evenings; which seem to be the Middle of the Afternoon and Sun-set. Many Writers however suppose the first of the Evenings to be meant at twelve in the Day; for which Prideaux gives this Reason, quia media est inter vespertas precedentis diei & consequentis, because it is the middle between the Evenings of the foregoing and following Days, Not. 13. to Maimon. Jure Paup. & Perig. wherein either that learned Man or I must miscompute; and Josephus says, the Lambs were killed from the 9th to the 11th (our 3d and 5th) Hour, Bell. Jud. L. vii. 45.

Ver. 8. that Night] not the Night with which the 14th Day began, but that following it, as Hammond shews on Mark xiv. 12.

Ib. with unleavened] For the Flesh was neither roast with unleavened bread, nor were they to eat it unleavened bread, one of which is the Language of the pres. Transf.

Ib. unleavened Cakes] being plural, and the same so rendered, Josh. v. 11. Judg. vi. 20, 21.

Ver. 9. or at all boiled] Gen. boiled nor folden.

Ver. 12. that Night] For this must at least be spoken four Days before, Ver. 3, 6, 21.

Ib. execute] Which it is told was done, Num. xxxiii. 4. Artapanus in Euseb. Pr. Evang. Lib. ix. 27. says the Temples were destroyed; as Jerome to Fabiola, Epist. 127. writes, the Jews supposed they were either by Earthquake or Lightning: in the Targum of Jonathan and Pirke Elie- upon the Houses where you are; that when I see it, I may pass over you: so the Plague shall not be on you for Destruction, when I smite in the Country of Egypt.

14. That Day shall therefore be to you for a Memorial, that you may keep it a Feast to the Lord; which you shall do in your Generations by a lasting Ordinance.

15. Seven Days you shall eat unleavened Cakes, but on the first Day shall you put away Leaven from your Houses: for when any Person eats leavened Bread, from the first Day to the seventh, he shall be cut off from Israel.

16. There shall also be for you on the first Day a holy Assembling, and on the seventh Day the same: on them shall not any Work be done by you; only that alone which shall be done in eating by every Person.

17. Thus shall you observe the Day of unleavened Cakes, because on that very Day I brought your Armies out of the Country of Egypt: therefore shall you observe it in your Generations by a lasting Ordinance.

18. In the first Month, on the fourteenth Day in the Evening, you shall eat unleavened Cakes, till the one and twentieth Day of the Month in the Evening.

19. Seven Days shall no Leaven be found in your Houses: for when any Person eats that which is leavened, he shall be cut off from the Assembly of Israel, whether it is a Stranger, or a Native of the Country.

20. Not any thing leavened shall you eat; in all your Habitations you shall eat unleavened Cakes.

21. Moses accordingly called all the Elders of Israel, and said to them: Draw out, and take you those of the Flock after your Families, and kill the Passover.

22. You shall likewise take a Bundle of Hyssop, and dip in the Blood which is in the Basin, then put some of it on the Lintel of the Door, and the two Posts; and you shall not any one go out of the Door of his House till the Morning.

23. For as the Lord passes to smite the Egyptians, and sees the Blood upon the Lintel of the Door, and the two Posts, he will pass over the Door, and not let the Destruction come to smite in your Houses.

24. Therefore shall you observe this Thing, for an Ordinance to thee and thy Children for ever.

25. In particular when you are come to the Country which the Lord will give you, as he has spoken, you shall observe this Service.

26. When your Children also ask you, Why have you this Service?

27. You shall answer, It is the Sacrifice of the Lord's Passover, who passed over the Houses of the Israelites in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our Houses. At this the People bowed, and worshipped.

28. Moreover the Israelites went, and did, even according as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron.

29. And at Midnight the Lord smote all the First-born in the Country of Egypt, from the First-born of Pharaoh who sat upon his Throne, to that of the Captive who was in zer, 48. the like is said of the Images. But the more easy Interpretation seems to be, that among the Firstlings of the Beasts, the gods Apis and Mnevis were slain, which were two Oxen that the Egyptians worshipped; see on 1 Kings xii. 28. especially as this is included in the Scripture Account, the other not; and as those Inferences of the Jews probably arose from their Ignorance of the Egyptian History, which is to be fetched from the heathen Writers. So Milton,

Jehovah, who in one Night when he pass'd
From Egypt marching, equall'd with one Stroke
Both her First-born and all her bleating Gods, Parad. Lost, B. i. 487.

Ver. 13. for Destruction] See the Eng. Marg.

Ib. smite in the Country] The Land it self being not smitten with this Plague, as our Bib. has it by in being left out. Jun. and Trem. supply it with primogenita, the First-born, from the Verse before; Castal. says, Egyptios, the Egyptians: the Targum, with the Greek and Tigurin Versions, keep in literally like this; see Ver. 23, 27.

Ver. 14. in your Generations] The Scripture in English abounds with Inaccuracies, and sometimes greater Faults, by not observing the Pointing. The Bishops Bible before the present having for ever, explains it by these Words in the Margin, "That is, untill Christ's coming: for then Ceremonies had an end."

Ver. 15. cut off] Tynd. and Bish. rooted out.

Ver. 21. Draw out] die videlicet decimo, that is on the tenth Day, Jun. and Trem. Annot.

Ib. those of the Flock] Ainsw. rightly observes that the Hebrew Word is not used for one.

Ver. 22. put on] or make to touch; which must be the Meaning of the Verb here, since it is of the second Form without Dagesh, otherwise called Hiphil. Accordingly in the Interlinear Vers. is pertingere facietis, make to touch; in that of Trem. and Jun. admovebitis, put to; in the Tig. Bib. contingite, touch; and in Greek, naibetei, place. But Ver. 7. fully confirms it, where it cannot be pretended that the Word signifies strike.

Ib. Lintel of the Door] the same as in Ver. 7.

Ib. two Posts] Gen. doors cheekes.

Ver. 23. the Destruction] For the Lord himself was the Destroyer. There is the same Word in the 13th Ver. 29 also Ezek. v. 16. and other Places of the like Meaning. Translators seem to have rendered it Destroyer to agree with the Author to the Hebrews in Chap. xi. 28. who following the Septuagint, for Reasons elsewhere alleged, is not Authority sufficient to depart from the Heb. for at the same Rate we should say Staff for Bed, Gen. xlvii. 31. seventy five for seventy, Chap. xlv. 27. and put in Gaius, &c. Chap. xi. 12.

Ver. 25. when] See Num. ix. 2.

Ver. 26. Why have you this Service?] Heb. IVhy or what for, this Service to you? That Tongue using the dat. Case commonly, like the Lat. or more, instead of our have. I know not who will pretend it signifies What mean you by &c.

the House of the Dungeon; with all the Firstlings of the Beasts.

30. Inasmuch that Pharaoh rose by Night; and all his Servants, with all the Egyptians, and there was a great Cry in Egypt: for there was not a Family where none was dead.

31. Upon this he called Moses and Aaron by Night, and said; Get ready, go out from among my People, both you and the Israelites; and go, serve the Lord as you have required.

32. According to which take your Flocks and Herds, and go; that you may also bless me.

33. Nay the Egyptians were earnest concerning the People, to make haste to let them go out of the Country: for they said, All of us shall be dead.

34. So the People took up their Dough before it was leavened, their Kneading-troughs being bound up in their Cloaths upon their Shoulders.

35. Yet the Israelites did according to the Word of Moses: for they asked the Egyptians for Vessels both of Silver and Gold, together with Cloaths.

36. And the Lord had made the People be in such Favour with the Egyptians, that they gave them what was asked: thus they spoiled the Egyptians.

37. Then the Israelites marched from Rameses to Succoth, about six hundred thousand Men on foot, besides the Children.

38. And a great Mixture of People also went up with them; as likewise Flocks and Herds, Cattle very numerous.

39. Afterwards they baked the Dough, which they brought out of Egypt, in unleavened Cakes, since it was not leavened; because they were driven out of Egypt, and could not stay, and besides had not made Provision for themselves.

40. Now the dwelling of the Israelites which they had in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty Years.

41. At the End of which Time, even on that very Day, all the Armies of the Lord came out of that Country.

42. That Night is a Night of Things to be observed to the Lord, for bringing them out thence; and this for all the Israelites in their Generations.

43. The Lord said further to Moses and Aaron: This is the Ordinance of the Passover; there shall no Son of a Stranger eat of it.

Ver. 29. in the House of the Dungeon] to work in the House by Day, Chap. xi. 5. Judg. xvi. 21. Lam. v. 13. and lie in the Dungeon at Night.

Ver. 30. not a Family] It might be the First-born or eldest of such as were living, to whom the Birth-right belonged, that died; but doubtless there were Houses which had no such in them.

Ver. 32. Herds] Bish. droaves.

Ver. 33. earnest] Heb. strong; Tynd. force.

Ib. concerning] denoted in Heb. by וְ which Particle is thus rendered, Isa. i. 1. and frequently in the Propets.

Ib. to make haste to let them go] This is the literal Reading: so that Pharaoh contented at last by means of the Egyptians, but hypocritically attributed it to himself, that you may bless me; which shews his desperate Wickedness. I think Translators have wrested this Place by having too much, or rather too little, Regard to what was foretold, Chap. xi. 8. turning this in such a manner as to shew that was fulfilled: but if they had observed the former more narrowly, and Ver. 31. of this Chap. they might have seen the Words of Moses must be verified when Pharaoh's Servants went down to call him.

Ver. 34. leavened] Tynd. sowered.

Ver. 36. they gave them what was asked] I presume it cannot be proved that ἐκείνη ever signifies to borrow or lend, though our Translators have rendered it by both in this and the preceding Verse. In the former all my Lat. Versions have asked, with the Genov. Transf. and Ainsworth's in English. Here being the same Verb in another Conjugation, Jun. and Trem. turn it, dederint eis petentibus, they gave them the Things asked; so the Tigur. Translator, petita darent eis; Munster has, postulata concederent eis, they granted them the Things asked; Castal. petitis & impetratis, the Things being asked and obtained, in his free Manner of translating; but our Bible, which the King's Translators were to amend, had they granted their request; Ainsworth more exactly, they gave them their asking. What Pains have some taken by reading only the com. Bible, to justify the Israelites in borrowing and not paying again! Concerning the Aetion Mercer on Hos. i. 2. writes well, Non furtum fuit, sed justa merces debita Israelitis pro longa servitute quam Deus justissimus judex insu tribuit: It was not Theft, but the just Pay owed to the Israelites for their long Service, which God the most just Judge rendered to them.

Ver. 40. dwelling] It comes from the Verb here following it, which signifies to sit, dwell or abide, but not to sojourn.

Ib. which they] In this manner the Vulg. Latin, Pagninus, Montanus, Castalis, Munster, Junius and Tremellius, the Lat. Transf. of the Targum, the Tigurin Version, Tyndal, Coverdale, and the Gen. and Bish. Bibles have it. The Reader may see it explained at the End of this Book: who dwelt betrays it self not to be right, by its awkward Appearance, being odd and superfluous. Nay if we read, the dwelling of the Israelites was 430 Years, it will be insignificant: for to reckon only back, it takes in Part of Abraham's Life before he had any Children; and we might well say according to this, Why not all? Since he dwelt somewhere, before the Promise of God was given to him, as well as after; for this makes the dwelling indefinitely to be so much; the Heb. Word also being not sojourning. Nay to date it as usual, from his going first into Canaan, he dwelt or sojourned in Haran before, as he did there. Besides the translating in this sort disagrees with the Greek and Samaritan Copies, and rejects the Helps we have from thence; the latter of which runs in this manner, "The dwelling of the Israelites and their Fathers, by which they dwelt in the Country of Canaan, and in the Country of Egypt, was 430 Years;" so the Greek adds, and in the Country of Canaan.

Ib. had] Heb. dwelt.

45. A Foreigner, and a hired one, shall not eat of it.

46. In one House shall it be eat, without thy carrying of the Flesh thence abroad; nor shall you break a Bone of it.

47. All the Assembly of Israel shall keep the Passover.

48. And when a Person sojourns with thee, who will keep it to the Lord, every Male that he has shall be circumcised; and then he may come near to keep it, and shall be as a Native of the Country: but none who is uncircumcised shall eat of it.

49. There shall be one Law for a Native, and for a Person who sojourns among you.

50. Thus all the Israelites did, even according as the Lord commanded Moses and Aaron.

51. It was also on that very Day, the Lord brought the Israelites out of the Country of Egypt by their Armies.

C H A P. XIII.

MOREOVER the Lord spoke thus to Moses,

2. Consecrate to me all the First-born, that open every Womb among the Israelites, both of Man and Beast; which shall be mine.

3. Accordingly Moses said to the People: Remember this Day on which you came out of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves; for by Strength of Hand has the Lord brought you out from thence; and there shall be no leavened Bread eat.

4. To day you came out, in the Month of Abib.

5. When the Lord therefore brings thee to the Country of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Hivites and Jebusites, which he sware to thy Fathers he would give thee, a Country that flows with Milk and Honey, thou shalt do this Service in this Month.

6. Seven Days shalt thou eat unleavened Cakes: and on the seventh Day there shall be a Feast to the Lord.

7. Unleavened Cakes shall not only be eat seven Days, but there shall be no leavened Bread seen with thee, nor yet Leaven in all thy Bounds.

8. Besides thou shalt tell thy Son at that Time, that it is because of what the Lord did for thee, when thou camest out of Egypt.

9. It shall further be to thee for a Sign upon thy Hand, and a Memorial between thy Eyes, that the Law of the Lord may be in thy Mouth; because by a strong Hand he has brought thee out of Egypt.

10. Therefore shalt thou observe this Ordinance at its appointed Time from Year to Year.

11. And when the Lord brings thee into the Country of the Canaanites, as he sware to thee and thy Fathers, that he would give it to thee;

12. Thou shalt make all that open the Womb pass to the Lord: as also the Males of all the Young of Beasts, that open, which thou hast, shall be his.

13. Nevertheless him that opens of an Ass thou shalt redeem with a Lamb; or if thou wilt not, shalt cut off his Head: all the First-born likewise of Man among thy Sons shalt thou redeem.

14. When thy Son too asks thee thus hereafter, Why is this? Thou shalt say to him; By Strength of Hand the Lord brought us out of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves.

15. For when Pharaoh made it hard to let us go, the Lord slew all the First-born in the Country of Egypt, both that of Man and the Firstlings of the Beasts: therefore I sacrifice to the Lord the Males of all that open the Womb, but all the First-born of my Sons I redeem.

16. So it shall be for a Sign upon thy Hand, and Frontlets between thy Eyes; because by Strength of Hand the Lord brought us out of Egypt.

17. Now upon Pharaoh's letting the People go, God did not lead them the Way of the Philistines Country, though it was near; lest, as he said, the People should repent when they saw War, and return to Egypt.

18. But God had them about the Way of the Wilderness of the Red Sea; and the Israelites went up in military Order out of the Country of Egypt.

19. And

19. And Moses took Joseph's Bones with him: for he had charged the Israelites strictly by Oath as follows, When God visits you thoroughly, you shall carry up my Bones from hence with you.

20. Then they marched from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, at the End of the Wilderness.

21. The Lord also went before them by Day in a Pillar of a Cloud, to lead them in the Way, and at Night in a Pillar of Fire to give them light, that they might go on both by Day and Night.

22. He neither took away the former by Day, nor the latter by Night; which was before the People.

C H A P. XIV.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows;

2. Tell the Israelites that they should turn away, and encamp before the Mouth of Hiroth, between Migdol and the Sea; encamping before Baal-zephon over against it, by the Sea.

3. Then Pharaoh will say of them; They are entangled in the Country, the Wilderness has shut them up.

4. And I will let his Heart be so stout, that he shall pursue after them; whereby I will be honoured on him, and all his Army, and the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord. And they did so.

5. Accordingly when it was told this King of Egypt that the People were fled, the Heart of him and his Servants was turned towards them, and they said, What is this we have done, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

6. Upon which he harnessed his Chariot, and took his People with him;

7. As he did also six hundred chosen Chariots, and all those of Egypt, with Captains over them all.

8. For the Lord let his Heart be so stout, that he might pursue after the Israelites; who went out with a high Hand.

9. So all the Horses, the Chariots of Pharaoh, as well as his Egyptian Horsemen and Army, pursued after them, and overtook them encamping by the Sea, against the Mouth of Hiroth, before Baal-zephon.

10. Which when Pharaoh brought near; the Israelites looked up, and behold the Egyptians were marching after them: exceedingly afraid at this, they cried out to the Lord.

11. Nay they said to Moses; Was it because there were no Graves at all in Egypt, that thou tookest us away to die in the Wilderness? What is it thou hast done to us, to bring us out of Egypt?

12. Is not this the very Expression which we used to thee there, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians: for it is better for us to do that, than to die in the Wilderness?

13. But Moses answered the People, Be not afraid, stand still, and see the Salvation of the Lord, which he will perform for you to Day: for such as you have seen the Egyptians to Day, you shall see them again no more for ever.

14. The Lord will fight for you; so do you be silent.

15. And the Lord said to Moses; Why dost thou cry to me? Tell the Israelites, that they should go on.

16. Do thou also lift up thy Staff, and stretch out thy Hand upon the Sea, and cleave it asunder; that the Israelites may go into the midst of it on dry Ground.

17. I my self too, behold, will let the Egyptians Hearts be so stout, that they shall nal Root does not afford such a Meaning, and as it is indisputable that the Israelites were not now armed, some other Signification is to be sought. It being evidently derived from the Heb. Word for five, appears also by the other Texts to denote Something belonging to an Army, besides that Hettinger derives the Word (which would be hamish in the singular Number) from the Arabick hamis, signifying an Army of five Parts, the Center, Front, Rear, and both Wings, Smegma Orient. p. 71. so that it is properly rendered as above. Harnessed belongs to Horses, which others would have girded, as if at the fifth Rib, to bear some Likeness to the Root: which seems too weak, and would rather in that manner have been derived from Leins; why moreover should Moses mention the Israelites being girded only? Nay by their going out in such Haste as they did, and at Night too, Chap. xii. 31, 33, 34, 37, 42. it is unlikely they were so dressed, that Moses should make particular Mention of it.

Ver. 2. the Mouth] which is expounded, and by some of the best Translators rendered, the Straights; Coverdale says, the valley of Hyroth. Ha is a Heb. Article put before proper Names of Places.

Ver. 3. entangled] Old Translations tangled.

Ver. 7. our] Bish. upon.

Ver. 8. with a high Hand] boldly, as appears by Nam. xxxiii. 3. & xv. 30.

Ver. 9. against] beside disagrees with before, Ver. 2.

Ver. 10. brought near] that is his Army beforementioned; and the Verb being in Hiphil makes it of that Meaning.

Ver. 12. it is better] I do not see how any could understand this to be added now, and not to be Part of what some of the Israelites said to Moses in Egypt; since they knew before they were to go into the Wilderness, and doubtless they gave their Reason for being unwilling.

Ver. 13. such as] or what; and this is the Order of the Heb. Words, as well as what the Meaning requires; since the Israelites did see the Egyptians again the next Day, Ver. 30. though different as here, from what they were now.

Ver. 16. into the midst] It is the same Ver. 22.

go in after them: whereby I will be honoured on Pharaoh and all his Army, on his Chariots and Horsemen.

18. And the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, when I am honoured on him and them.

19. Besides the Angel of God, who went before the Camp of Israel, removed, and went behind them: the Pillar of the Cloud likewise removed from before them, and stood behind them;

20. Which coming between the Camp of the Egyptians and that of Israel, was a Cloud and Darkness behind, yet made the Night light before: whereby the former came not near the latter all the Night.

21. So Moses stretched out his Hand upon the Sea, and the Lord made it go away by a strong East-wind all the Night, by which he made it dry Land: thus the Water was cleaved asunder.

22. And the Israelites went into the midst of the Sea on dry Ground, the Water being a Wall to them both on their right Hand and left.

23. However the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them, all the Horses of Pharaoh, his Chariots and Horsemen, to the midst of the Sea.

24. But in the Morning Watch, the Lord looking at the Egyptians Army, through the Pillar of Fire and the Cloud, routed it.

25. For he pulled off the Wheels of their Chariots, so that they got them along heavily: whereupon the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the Presence of Israel, because the Lord fights for them against the Egyptians.

26. Moreover the Lord said to Moses, Stretch out thy Hand upon the Sea; that the Waters may return upon the Egyptians, their Chariots and Horsemen.

27. Which he did accordingly, and the Sea returned to its Force at the Appearance of the Morning, while the Egyptians were fleeing against it: so the Lord shook them off into the midst of the Sea.

28. And the Waters returning, covered the Chariots and Horsemen of all Pharaoh's Army, that went into the Sea after them: there was not even one of them left.

Ver. 20. behind] from Ver. 19. and before by Antithesis; or was there: being light on one Side, and dark on the other, as in the Jerusalem Targum.

Ver. 21. East-wind] The Manner of this extraordinary Work of the Almighty Power seems to have been thus: An impetuous East-wind, extending as wide as the Passage was to be, agreeable to what we may observe in a Storm, would drive the Water where it passed against the western Shore; by which it being stopped, must consequently swell up, and make its Way at the Sides, Ver. 22. Chap. xv. 8. this being done, the Wind might continue to keep it there, till the Israelites were got through, and the Egyptians entered into the Sea. Then the Wind abating first at the west Side, perhaps by meeting an opposite Wind from the Atlantick Ocean, and being rebounded back by the Mountains, the Waters there would run in behind the Egyptians; which they finding, and discovering their Situation by the morning Light, Ver. 27. endeavoured in vain to get back before the Flood was too high, Ver. 25, 27. and the falling of the Wind from the West to the East, would direct the Course of the returning Water that Way; by the violent Force of which the dead Bodies being carried towards the eastern Shore, the Israelites saw them, as related Ver. 30. The Egyptians too in the Eagerness of Pursuit, might go in a less Breadth than the Israelites (which latter might spread a Mile) and it being Night, as well as the Cloud making it dark, Ver. 20. might not see the Water at their Sides, and so not know they were in the Sea till it was behind them, as already mentioned; and from Egypt across the Red Sea is eastward, which the more confirms this Account. As to the Pretence that the Israelites went a sort of semicircular Journey in the Sea, at the Ebbing of the Water, and came out on the same Side they went in, it is inconsistent with an East-wind making the Passage. And the Plea of their being in the Wilderness of Etham both before and after, from Chap. xiii. 20. & Num. xxxiii. 8. may amount to no more than this; that the Wilderness of Etham, otherwise called that of Sbur, Chap. xv. 22. being on the east Side of the Red Sea, reached to or round the End of the Sea, and at that End of the Wilderness was the Town of Etham, Chap. xiii. 20. from whence the Israelites turned, going on the west Side of the Sea, farther from the End of it, before they crossed over, Ver. 2.

on purpose to bring this great Thing to pass, as appears by Ver. 3, 4. so all agrees together; see also 1 Cor. x. 1. Jos. Antiq. ii. 7.

Any Pretence indeed of this wonderful Affair being performed by the usual Ebbing and Flowing of the Tide, might be neglected as unworthy of an Answer; since some of the Egyptian Army at least, must needs know the Course and Time of their own adjacent Tides; and as the natural Tide there after an Ebb would flow northward (the Ocean from whence it comes being on the South) the dead Bodies would have been driven to the North, away from the Sight of the Israelitish Army, which went on eastward, and the Egyptians contrary to all Sense would have fled southward, Ver. 27.

According to Diodorus Sicul. Lib. iii. 3. there was an old Tradition with the Ichthyophagites, that is Fish-eaters, who dwelt by the Red Sea, to the very End of it, and were the ancient Natives, Ibid. Cap. 1. that formerly, as they had it from their Forefathers, there was such a great Ebbing of the Sea to the other Side, that the whole Bottom became dry, and appeared green (which might rationally be, since it is called in Heb. the Weedy Sea) but by a huge Tide the Water returned again to the old Channel.

Now as this King was Amenophis (as will be shewn in the Catalogue at Exod. xl.) from the End of whose Reign backward to the Beginning of that of Salatis, was 592 Years and 10 Months, consequently Salatis began reigning in the Month called July, at Harvest-time, especially as it is forward in that

29. Whereas

29. Whereas the Israelites walked on dry Ground in the middle of the Sea, the Waters being a Wall to them, both on their right Hand and left.

30. Thus the Lord saved Israel that Day from the Power of the Egyptians; whom they saw dead upon the Sea-shore.

31. And when they saw the great Hand by which the Lord wrought against the Egyptians, the People feared him; they also believed the Lord, and his Servant Moses.

CHAP. XV.

THEN Moses and the Israelites sung this Song to the Lord, saying as follows: I will sing to the Lord, since he is highly exalted; the Horses and Horsemen has he thrown down in the Sea.

2. Of the Lord is my Power and Praise, and of him is Preservation to me: this is my God, and I will make him a Habitation; the God of my Father, and I will extol him.

3. The Lord is a Warrior, whose Name is the Lord.

4. The Chariots of Pharaoh, and his Army it self, has he flung down in the Floods; and the Choice of his Captains sunk within the Red Sea.

5. The gulfy Grave whelmed them over: they, lifeless like a Stone, descended the Deep.

6. Thy right Hand, O Lord, is magnificent in Power: thy right hand, O Lord, dashes the Enemy to pieces.

7. And by the Greatness of thy Excellency thou overthrowest those who rise up against thee: when thou sendest forth thy burning Wrath, it consumes them as easily as Stubble.

8. Even by thy breathing upon them, the Waters were piled up mountainous, the Floods as it were heaped up one on another, the liquid Abyss was stiffened to the very Heart of the Sea.

9. Though the Enemy boasted, I will pursue, overtake, divide the Spoil: my Desire shall be filled with them, I will draw forth my Sword, my Hand shall impoverish them;

10. Thou blowing with thy Wind, the Sea rolled over them: now ponderous like Lead, they were immersed in the watery downward Death.

11. Who among the gods is like thee, O Lord? Who like thee, in such Splendor of Holiness, awefully admired, working wonderful Things?

12. Upon thy stretching out thy right Hand, the yawning Earth swallowed them up.

13. This thy ransomed People thou leddest out by thy Kindness; and guidest along by thy Strength, to thy holy Habitation.

14. People who hear, must be moved; Anguish will seize the Inhabitants of Philistia.

15. Then will the Dukes of Edom be troubled, Moab's strong Men shall Trembling take hold of, and all that dwell in Canaan be dissolved.

Ver. 6. dashes the Enemy to pieces] Tynd. and Bish. both all is dashed the enemy.

Ib. dashes] Since the Heb. Tense changes from the past in this and the next Verse, and then returns to it again, and as these Verses may well speak of Enemies in general; I thought it best to image this Turn of the Original.

Ver. 11. Splendor of Holiness] The heathen gods being scandalously unholy, not only as represented by their own Poets, but as being Tyrants and Debauchees deluded; such were also feared without being loved, and could not act supernaturally.

16. Terror and Dread will fall down upon them, by the Greatness of thy Arm they will be as silent as a Stone; till thy People pass through, O Lord, till this People pass through, those of thy purchasing.

17. Them wilt thou bring in, them plant on the Mountain thou possessest, the Settlement thou hast made for thy self, Lord, to inhabit: the Sanctuary, O Lord, thy own Hands have established.

18. The Lord will reign for ever and evermore.

19. For Pharaoh's Horses, of his Chariots and Horsemen, marched into the Sea, whose Waters the Lord brought back upon them: whereas the Israelites walked on dry Land through the middle of the fluid Profound.

20. Miriam also the Prophetess, Aaron's Sister, taking a Timbrel in her Hand, and all the Women going out after her with Timbrels and Dances;

21. She answered them, Sing to the Lord, since he is highly exalted: the Horses and Horsemen has he thrown down in the Sea.

22. Afterwards Moses made Israel march from the Red Sea, that they might go forth into the Wilderness of Shur; in which going three Days, they found no Water.

23. And they came to Marah, the Name of which was so called, by reason they could not drink the Water of it, because it was bitter.

24. At this the People murmured against Moses, asking what they should drink?

25. With that he cried to the Lord, who shewing him a Tree, that he should throw into the Water, whereby it became sweet; he there made for them an Ordinance and a Rule, and there he tried them.

26. For he said; If you will at all hearken to what the Lord your God says, so that you will do what he approves of, and give ear to his Commandments, so that you will observe all his Ordinances; I will not put upon you any Disease which I did on the Egyptians, for I the Lord am your Healer.

27. So they came to Elim, and there were twelve Fountains of Water, with seventy Palm-trees; and they encamped there by the Water.

CHAP. XVI.

NEXT they marched from thence, and the whole Assembly of the Israelites went into the Wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai; on the fifteenth Day of the second Month, of their coming out of the Country of Egypt.

2. Where they all murmured against Moses, and Aaron.

3. To whom they said, Oh that we had died by the Hand of the Lord in the Country of Egypt, when we sat by the Pots of Flesh, when we eat Bread to the full! for you have brought us forth into this Wilderness, to make all this Congregation die for Hunger.

4. Upon which the Lord said to Moses; Behold I will rain down Bread for you from Heaven; so that the People shall go out, and gather each Day's Quantity the very same Day, that I may try them, whether they will walk in my Law, or not.

5. And on the sixth Day they shall dress what they bring in, which shall be the double of what they gather Day by Day.

6. So Moses and Aaron told all the Israelites; When it is Evening you shall know that the Lord brought you out of the Country of Egypt.

7. As also when it is Morning you shall see the Glory of the Lord, by his hearing your Murmurings against himself (for what are we, that you should murmur against us?)

As for the Statute and Judgment, they are easily found in the following Verse, and much more likely than Moses's putting a Bough into the Waters, as he has it. 9. For Moses had bid Aaron say to the whole Assembly of the Israelites, Come near before the Lord, because he has heard your Murmurings.

10. Aaron therefore spoke to them all; and they looking towards the Wilderness, behold the Glory of the Lord appeared in the Cloud.

11. Then the Lord spoke to Moses as follows;

12. I have heard the Murmurings of the Israelites; tell them, that within the Evening they shall eat Flesh, and in the Morning shall be filled with Bread; and so shall know that I am the Lord their God.

13. Accordingly in the Evening Quails came up, which covered the Camp; and in the Morning there was Dew lay round about it.

14. And when that went up, behold upon the Surface of the Wilderness was a little round Thing, as small as the white Frost upon the Ground.

15. Which the Israelites seeing, said one to another, It is Manna; as they did not know what it was: but Moses told them; It is the Bread which the Lord has given you to eat.

16. This is the Thing that the Lord has commanded, Gather you of it, each according to his eating; taking an Omer for a Head by the Number of your Persons, each one for those who are in his Tent.

17. And the Israelites did so; gathering more or less.

18. This they measured with an Omer, that he who got more might have none over, and he who got less might have none wanting; they having gathered according to their respective eating.

19. Moses said further to them, Let none leave of it till the Morning.

20. Nevertheless they did not hearken to him; for there were Men who left of it till then, but it bred Worms, and stunk: therefore Moses was in a Wrath with them.

21. Thus they gathered it each Morning, every one according as his eating was: for when the Sun became hot, it melted.

22. And on the sixth Day, they gathering double Bread, two Omers for one Person; all the Princes of the Assembly came, and told Moses.

23. Who said to them, It is what the Lord spoke; to Morrow is the Rest of the holy Sabbath to him: bake what you will, and boil what you will; and all that is over, lay up for you to be kept till the Morning.

24. Which they doing as Moses commanded; it neither stunk, nor was there a Worm in it.

25. And Moses said, Eat it to Day; for this is the Sabbath to the Lord: you shall not find it in the Field to Day.

26. Six Days shall you gather it; but on the seventh Day, the Sabbath, there will not be any.

27. So on that Day, when some of the People went out to gather, they found none.

28. Whereupon the Lord said to Moses; How long do you refuse to observe my Commandments, and Laws?

29. See, because the Lord has given you the Sabbath, therefore he gives you on the sixth Day the Bread of two Days: abide you each one at his Seat, let not any one go out of his Place on the seventh Day.

30. The People accordingly rested on the seventh Day.

Ver. 9. For Moses had bid] I doubt not but the intelligent and considerate Reader will be of my Mind, that this and the three next Verses in the Order of History would have been before Ver. 4. especially when he shall observe the many Instances that may be found of this Nature; a few of which see behind, Gen. ii. 19. & xii. 1. & xiv. 4. & xxiv. 65. Exod. xi. 3. with Ch. xix. 2. Such postponing of Matters might be for the sake of Elegancy, and to exercise the Diligence of the Hearers, it being left doubtful in the Heb. Words.

Ver. 15. Manna] Heb. man; which signifies prepared Food, as Wisd. xvi. 20. not what, as Shuckford asserts, Connell. B. x. (to be, what is it?) that being the Chald. man; nor is there any thing for a Question, as in Heb. Thus also it will bear a good spiritual Meaning. Not knowing either Name or Nature belonging to it, they properly gave it this Name, signifying that Providence had prepared it: which is not a Contradiction to the next Words, as some have asserted, Stackh. Hist. iv. 1.

Ver. 16. an Omer] about the Quantity of six English Wine Pints: by Tynd. and Bish. gomer.

VOL. I.

Ver. 18. that he] See Shuckford's Connell. of Sac. and Proph. Hist. Vol. iii. Lib. 10. where he blames the com. Transl. as if it hinted that God miraculously ordered it, by diminishing and increasing the Quantities, for every one to have his exact Number of Omers, when it was measured; whereas there would then have been no Need of measuring it.

Ib. having gathered according to their respective eating] That is by guess before it was measured, to have so many Omers full as there were People in each Family, Ver. 16.

Ver. 19. to them] This it seems our last Translators overlooked; see Gen. xli. 7.

Ver. 20. in a Wrath] as we say also in a Rage or Passion; wrath, as says Jehnsf. in his great Dict. being out of use.

Ver. 23. It is what the Lord spoke] In Ver. 5. but the Remainder of this Verse is not God's Words, as our Translators put it; which that following, as Moses commanded, shews, and the Want of these Words in what the Lord said.

31. And the Family of Israel called the Name of it Manna: which was like Coriander Seed, but white, and the Taste of it like Wafers with Honey.

32. Besides Moses said; This is the Thing which the Lord has commanded, Fill an Omer of it to be kept for your Generations; that they may see the Bread which I made you eat in the Wilderness, when I brought you out of the Country of Egypt.

33. He likewise said to Aaron, Take a Pot, and put in there an Omer full of Manna; and lay it up before the Lord, to be kept for your Generations.

34. As the Lord gave command to Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept.

35. And the Israelites eat Manna forty Years, till they came to a Country inhabited; eating it till they came to the Border of the Country of Canaan.

36. Now an Omer is the tenth Part of an Ephah.

C H A P. XVII.

ALL the Assembly too of the Israelites marched from the Wilderness of Sin, in their Journeys, at the Lord's Command; and encamping in Rephidim, there was no Water for the People to drink.

2. Therefore they quarrelled with Moses, and demanded, Give us Water, that we may drink; to whom he said, Why do you quarrel with me? Why do you tempt the Lord?

3. However as they were thirsty there for Water, they murmured against him, and asked, Wherefore didst thou bring us up from Egypt, to make us, our Children and Cattle, die with Thirst?

4. At which Moses cried to the Lord, What shall I do for this People? In a little while they will stone me.

5. And the Lord said to him; Go on before them, and take with thee some of the Elders of Israel; taking withal the Staff that thou struckest the River with in thy Hand, when thou goest.

6. Behold I will stand before thee there, upon the Rock at Horeb, and when thou strikest on it, there shall come Water out of it, that the People may drink. And Moses did so in the Sight of the Elders of Israel.

7. Besides he called the Name of the Place Massah, and Meribah; for the Contention of the Israelites, and for their tempting the Lord in saying, Is the Lord amongst us, or not?

8. Afterwards the Amalekites came, to fight with Israel at Rephidim.

9. Upon this Moses said to Joshua, Choose us out Men, and go forth, fight against the Amalekites: to Morrow I will stand upon the Top of the Hill, with the Staff of God in my Hand.

10. So Joshua did as he ordered him, by fighting against the Amalekites; while Mo-

Ver. 35. till] As Moses must needs know that the Manna would cease at forty Years End, what Wonder is it for him to write thus, though the Time was not expired?

Ver. 2. quarrelled] At first when they saw there was no Water, but afterwards when they became thirsty, understand them to murmur, and say as in the next Verse.

Ver. 4. for this People] to help them; not do unto them, to hurt or destroy them; vid. Chap. xviii. 1. as also Chap. xxxii. 32. Num. xii. 3.

Ib. In a little while they will stone me] Because they were worse and worse against him. Literally it is, yet a little while and they will stone me, like what we read John xvi. 16, 17, 19.

Ver. 6. Rock] It has been imagined from 1 Cor. x. 4. that the Water which flowed from this Rock, followed the Israelites to their several Stations in the Wilderness; so both Patrick and Peole on this Place, with others; and even Usher says this Rock followed them throughout the Wilderness, Annal. ad A.M. 2513. Too great a Miracle, one may much rather think, to be omitted by Moses, had it been really so; nor would there then have been Need afterwards, as may be seen there was, to have Water out of another Rock, Num. xx. 1, 2, 11. and to dig a Well, Num. xxi. 16, 18. Nay the Text says that was a spiritual Rock which followed them, and was Christ; whereas this which Moses struck was certainly a natural one. Though Paul alludes to this Rock, there is no Necessity he should in the Circumstance of following them, as Comparisons use not to agree in each Particular. But I should not conceal how the great Authors above-mentioned would evade the Force of the Objection of wanting Water again, on Num. xx. The Water which followed them through all their former Journeys, says Peole, began now to fail them, where Waters might be had by ordinary Means, and therefore God would not use extraordinary, lest he should seem to prostitute the Honour of Miracles: whereas God then, for the Want of Water by ordinary Means, wrought a fresh Miracle to bring some. Usher on that Occasion would have it, that the imaginary Water which had followed the Israelites, was swallowed up in the Red Sea, Annal. A.M. 2552. when he might better have fancied the Rock was stopped by some Mountain, since it was the Rock he said before that followed them. Patrick however improves on him, gravely supposing the Water that followed them from this Rock in Horeb, about 39 Years, fell into the Red Sea at Ezion-gaber, Comment. upon Num. xx. 2. and so, might they have added, the Red Sea had spiritual Water in it, to make their Notion agree with the Passage they would found it on. Such a Romance has Eliczer in Pirk 35. Whithersoever our Fathers travelled, a Well went there before them.

Ver. 7. Massah, Temptation; Meribah, Contention.

Ver. 9. Joshua] The same Name is read in our Bib. according to the Heb. Jehoshua, Num. xiii. 16. 1 Chron. vii. 27.

Ver. 10. fighting] If it be asked, where the Israelites had Weapons now to fight with? The Answer may be, from the dead Bodies of the Egyptians that were cast up on the Shoar, Chap. xiv. 30. and for their future Battles they might now also take the Armour of the Amalekites.

ses, ses, Aaron and Hur, went up the Top of the Hill.

11. And when Moses held up his Hand, the Israelites prevailed; but when he let it rest, the Amalekites did.

12. At length his Hands being heavy, they took a Stone, and put under him, that he might sit upon it: and Aaron and Hur stayed up his Hands; one on this, and the other on that Side; whereby they were steady till the setting of the Sun.

13. Thus Joshua weakened Amalek and the People of it, by the Edge of the Sword.

14. Then the Lord said to Moses; Write this for a Memorial in a Book, and put for Joshua to hear, that I will quite blot out the Remembrance of Amalek from under Heaven:

15. Moses also built an Altar, calling the Name of it The Lord my Standard's:

16. And he said, Because their Hand is against the Throne of the Lord, he will have war with Amalek, from Age to Age.

C H A P. XVIII.

NOW Jethro Prince of Midian, the Father-in-law of Moses, hearing all which God had done for him, and his People Israel; that the Lord had brought Israel out of Egypt;

2. He took Zipporah the Wife of Moses, after he had sent her;

3. Together with her two Sons: of whom one's Name was Gershom, for, said he, I have been a Stranger in a foreign Country;

4. And, that of the other being Eliezer, for the God of my Father has become my Help, and delivered me from the Sword of Pharaoh.

5. So he came with them to Moses into the Wilderness, where he encamped at the Mountain of God.

6. To whom he said, I thy Father-in-law Jethro am come to thee, as likewise thy Wife, and her two Sons with her.

7. Moses also going out to meet him, bowed down, and kissed him, and they asked one another of their Welfare; after which they went into the Tent.

8. And he told him all that the Lord had done to Pharaoh; and the Egyptians, for the sake of Israel; the whole Fatigue which had come on them in the Way, and the Lord's delivering them.

9. With that Jethro was joyful for all the Good which the Lord had done to Israel, whom he had delivered from the Power of the Egyptians.

10. Therefore he said; Blessed be the Lord, who has delivered you from the Power of the Egyptians, and that of Pharaoh; who

Ver. 11. prevailed] it was before had the better.

Ver. 14. put] for so the Heb. is. Bish. have commit it into the cares.

Ver. 15. The Lord my Standard's] By the Bish. the Lord is he that worketh miracles for me; yet in their Marg. is said it is, the Lord my banner.

Ver. 16. Because their Hand is against] as Gen. xvi. 12. In the Version of Jun. and Trem. it stands in these Words, quia manus Hamaleki fuit contra solium Jeth, because the Hand of Hamalek has been against the Throne of the Lord; Shuckford after two or three unnecessary Alterations of the Text, and not making it agree with it self then, brings it nearly to the same Meaning, Connect. B. x. Our Translators were far enough from Exactness, and indeed Truth; see their Margin, which is Witness against them: and it does not only stand in the wrong Place to make it swearing, but there is Nothing to connect the Form and Matter, as in Gen. xiv. 23. and I suppose in all Kinds and Instances of Heb. Oaths, where our Translators have added in that. Tynd. too has the hand is on the seat of the lord, whom the Bish. follow.

Ver. 3. for] This being evidently Part of what he said, as in the next.

Ver. 4. being] Thus said he before, at the former, extends to the latter also, and preserves the Beauty of the Original.

Ib. Eliezer] My God is Help. The Meaning of Gershom see Chap. ii. 22.

Ver. 5. came] In order to clear the Way for coming at the right Time of this Affair, it may not be improper to take notice of the Judgment of two learned Bishops of this Nation concerning it, as being noted Writers on the Holy Scriptures. Cumberland, in the Pref. to his 9th Tract in Latin of Orig. Gent. Antiquif. would have the coming of Jethro, with his Advice to Moses, and Moses's Answer, to be just after the Battle with Amalek, before the Law was given at Sinai: but the Israelites being then at Raphidim, Chap. xvii. 1, 8. were evidently now got to Mount Sinai, as in this Ver. & Chap. xix. 2. and that it was after the Promulgation of the Law, appears by Ver. 16. and by comparing Ver. 12. with Chap. xx. 24. However Cumberland owns that the Performance of Jethro's Counsel, was not till after the giving of the Law, as is indeed clear by Deut. i. 6, 9, 15. whereas such a Separation does not seem to accord with Ver. 24. Patrick makes a different Separation, in his Commentary on the 6th Ver. for supposing the coming of Jethro like the other, he states his Advice to Moses to be given after the Law was; which is altogether as inconsistent with Ver. 13, 14. We may discover that the true Time of Jethro's Visit, was a little before the Israelites went from Horeb or Sinai, which was the same Mountain, by Deut. i. 6, 9. Num. x. 11, 12, 29, 30, 33. of which Mind see also Usher, Annal. A. M. 2514; and Lightfoot, Spicologia in Exod. § 23. & Harm. Old Test. And as Zipporah the Wife of Moses was then brought to him, Ver. 2. we may easily account for the Complaint of Miriam and Aaron concerning her a little while after, Num. xii. 1.

Ver. 6. I] From some Copies only of the Sam. with the Gr. and Syr. the Author of State of the Hebr. contests for this to be Beheld, and that before to be rendered it was told Moses: Strange, says he, that Moses should go out to meet Jethro, after that Jethro had been with him, and talked to him. What can be more captious? Who ever said or thought it was after? The being told after does not make it so. Nay, more strange! our nice Critick in his new Transf. does not alter the 5th and 7th Verses in the com. Eng. and so leaves it strange still, p. 401.

Ver. 7. Welfare] Bish. health.

delivered the People from under their Power.

11. Now I know that the Lord is the greatest of all Gods; because he was in the Matter wherein these did proudly against them.

12. Nay he got a Burnt-offering and Sacrifices for God; when Aaron, and all the Elders of Israel, came to eat Victuals with him before God.

13. Who the next Day, when Moses sate to judge the People, and they stood by him from Morning till Evening;

14. Upon seeing all which he did to them, enquired, What is this Thing that thou doest to the People? Why dost thou sit alone, and they all stand by thee from Morning till Evening?

15. Because, said Moses to him, the People come to me to enquire of God:

16. When they have a Matter, each comes to me, that I may judge between one and the other; and I make known God's Ordinances, and Laws.

17. But his Father-in-law replied to him: The Thing is not well which thou doest.

18. Thou wilt quite wear away, both thy self and this People who are with thee: for the Affair is too heavy for thee; thou canst not do it alone.

19. Now hearken to what I say, who will advise thee, and may God be with thee; Be thou for the People towards God, that thou mayest bring the Matters to him.

20. Thou shalt likewise admonish them of the Ordinances, and Laws; and make known to them the Way wherein they should walk, and the Work which they should do.

21. But thou shalt provide out of them all, Men of Ability fearing God, Men of Veracity hating Covetousness; whom thou shalt set over them for Rulers of Thousands, Hundreds, Fifties and Tens.

22. Thus shall they judge the People at all Times; and bring every great Matter to thee, but every little one judge themselves: which will make it light for thee, when they bear it with thee.

23. If thou shalt do this Thing, and God command thee, thou wilt be able to stand; and all this People will moreover go to their Place well.

24. And Moses hearkening to what his Father-in-law said, did all that he spoke.

25. For he chose Men of Ability out of all Israel, whom he made Heads over the People; Rulers of Thousands, of Hundreds, Fifties and Tens.

26. And they judged the People at all Times: a hard Matter they brought to Moses, but every little one they themselves judged.

27. At length Moses let his Father-in-law go, and he went away to his own Country.

C H A P. XIX.

IN the third Month of the Israelites coming out of the Country of Egypt, on the same Day they entered the Wilderness of Sinai.

Ver. 11. greatest] Look Gen. iii. and Castalis's Version.

Ib. against them] Among Translations the verbal one of Montanus is, in re qua superbierunt contra eos, in the Thing wherein they were proud against them; that of San. Pagnine, superbi egerunt contra eos, they did proudly against them; as likewise the Vulgar Latin, superbi egerint contra illos: Munster turned it, in re qua insolenter egerunt contra illos (perierunt;) and Leo Jude, in ea re qua illi insolenter egerunt contra illos (perierunt;) i. e. in the Thing wherein they did haughtily against them they perished; meaning that the Egyptians were drowned, as they drowned the Israelites Children. But this is a little too far strained in adding they perished: the Reference is much nearer, and more natural, to the foregoing Verse, in this manner, 'Blessed be the Lord, who delivered the People from the Egyptians, in the Thing wherein they did proudly against them;' by which might be chiefly intended the Egyptians pursuing after the Israelites into the Sea, as most agreeable to did proudly, according to Chap. xv. 9. Nay this Interpretation is justified and confirmed by Neh. ix. 10. the Words of which they did proudly against them being plainly taken from hence. Both Tyndal and Coverdale rendered it, they dealt proudly with them; the Geneva Translators, as they have dealt proudly with them, so are they recompensed; the Bishops widely, in the thing whereby they dealt cruelly with them, were they destroyed themselves. And W. Cross shews by the Accents, that did or dealt proudly must belong to the following, Tab. Art. p. 104.

L. iii. 11.* look further to Lev. xxiii. 16. Some others suppose this was the first or second Day of the Month, but what same was either of them, which refers to Something said before? Patrick makes choice of the former, yet counts the Promulgation of the Law to be on the 6th, by reckoning three Days in which Moses went forwards and backwards twice; so that the last Time he must stay all Night on the Mountain, for the Order given him Ver. 10. on the 4th Day, as Patrick has it; which has no Face of Probability.

Ver. 2. for they had] This being before Jethro came to them, Chap. xviii. 5.

3. And

3. And Moses went up to God; at which the Lord called to him from the Mountain, saying: Thus shalt thou say to the Family of Jacob, and declare to the Posterity of Israel;

4. You have seen what I did to the Egyptians; and that I have carried you as upon Eagles Wings, and brought you to me.

5. Now therefore if you will at all hearken to what I say, so that you will keep my Covenant; you shall be my Property the most of any People, though all the Earth is mine.

6. Nay you shall be to me a Kingdom of Priests, and a holy Nation. These are the Words which thou shalt speak to the Israelites.

7. Accordingly Moses came, and calling the Elders of the People, laid before them all these Words which the Lord commanded.

8. And all the People made answer together, All that the Lord has spoken we will do: so Moses reported their Words to the Lord.

9. Upon which he said to him, Behold I will come to thee in a thick Cloud, that the People may hear when I speak with thee, and also believe thee for ever; when Moses had told the Lord the Words of the People.

10. Moreover the Lord said to him; Go to the People, whom thou shalt sanctify to Day and to Morrow, and they shall wash their Cloaths;

11. And let them be prepared against the third Day: for on that the Lord will come down in the Sight of them all upon Mount Sinai.

12. But thou shalt make Bounds for them round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves of coming up to the Mountain, and touching the Border of it: every one who touches the Mountain shall be quite put to death.

13. Let the Hand of none touch it, for he shall be stoned or shot to death; whether a Beast or Man does, he shall not live: when a Cornet sounds long, they shall come up to the Mountain.

14. So Moses went down from thence to the People; whom he sanctified, and they washed their Cloaths.

15. He also said to them, Be you prepared against the third Day: go not nigh a Wife.

16. And on the third Day when it was Morning, there was Thunder, Lightnings, and a heavy Cloud, upon the Mountain, with the Sound of a Trumpet very shrill; so that all the People who were in the Camp quaked.

17. However Moses brought them out thence to meet God, and they placed themselves at the Bottom of the Mountain.

18. Now Mount Sinai smoked all of it, by reason that the Lord came down upon it in Fire; the Smoak of which went up like that of a Kiln, and all the Mountain quivered exceedingly.

19. At length when the Sound of the Trumpet going on was very shrill; Moses spoke, and God answered him by a Voice.

20. For the Lord was come down upon Mount Sinai, to the Top of it; whither calling Moses, he went up.

21. The Lord likewise said to him; Go down, charge the People; lest they should break through to the Lord to see, and many of them fall.

22. And let the Priests also, who come nigh to the Lord, sanctify themselves; lest he should break forth on them.

Ver. 12. of coming up] Heb. to come up. For they were to go up to the Mountain, when they had heard the Sound of the Trumpet long, Ver. 13, 17. but not upon or into the Mountain, Ver. 23. Edit. p. 125.* But Neitzschitz, who was there in his Travels, A. D. 1636, and may be more credited, tells us it is about three Days Journey from the Red Sea, and by his Account seems a great Mountain, having two Tops, one of which, as well as the lower Part of the Mountain, is called Sinai, and the other Top Horeb; that there is now a Path to go up as it were by Steps, that there are several Chapels about on it, and one on the very Top, with a Convent at the Bottom founded by the Empress Helena, &c. which see in Eng. in the 2d Vol. of *Comp. 24. To whom the Lord replied; Go along down, and come up thy self and Aaron with thee; but let not the Priests and People break through to come up to the Lord, lest he should break forth on them.

25. Moses accordingly went down to the People, and told them.

CHAP. XX.

AND God spoke all these following Words:

2. I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves.

3. Thou shalt have no other gods in my Presence.

4. Thou shalt not make thee a carved Image, nor any Likeness either of what is in the Heaven above, on the Earth below, or in the Water under it;

5. Shalt neither bow down to them, nor serve them: for I am the Lord thy God, a zealous God, who punish Children for the Iniquity of the Parents, to the third and fourth Generation of them that hate me;

6. But shew Kindness to thousands, of those who love me, and keep my Commandments.

7. Thou shalt not take up the Name of the Lord thy God vainly: for the Lord will not let him be quit who does so.

8. Remember to keep the Sabbath Day holy.

9. Six Days shalt thou work, and do all thy Business.

10. But the seventh Day being the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, neither shalt thou, thy Son, Daughter, Servant-man, Maid, Cattle, nor Sojourner who is within thy Gates, do any Business.

11. For in six Days the Lord made the Heaven and Earth, the Sea, and all that is in them, and rested on the seventh Day; therefore he blessed the Sabbath Day, and made it holy.

12. Honour thy Father and Mother; that thy Time may be long, in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

13. Thou shalt not murder.

14. Thou shalt not commit Adultery.

15. Thou shalt not steal.

16. Thou shalt not give Evidence against thy Neighbour falsely.

17. Thou shalt not covet thy Neighbour's House; nor shalt thou his Wife, Servant-man, Maid, Ox, Ass, or any Thing that he has.

18. And the Thunder, Flashes of Lightning, and the Sound of a Trumpet, with the Mountain smoking, were apparent to all the People; which being so, they removed, and stood far off.

19. Nay they intreated Moses, Speak thou to us, and we will hear; but let not God speak to us, lest we should die.

Ver. 23. on] Thus לֹא signifies, and is rendered elsewhere.

Ver. 24. break through] Tynd. presume.

Ver. 2. Place] So the Word is sometimes used, Poole's Annot. and plainly signifies here.

Ver. 3. in my Presence] as with me, Ver. 23. declaring here his Unity, as he had already his Verity.

Ver. 4. carved Image] Notwithstanding the Stir that is made by the Papists against rendering this by Image, yet graven thing in their Transf. is more extensive, and must include all graven Images, unless they are not Things; nor do they think that other graven Things are forbid: so here the Chald. ܕܡܝܬܐ is Image. I use carved, as graven is cut in, like the ten Commandments, though used for carved formerly.

Ver. 5. I am] Of the Lat. Interpreters who use sum, am (for most omit it like the Heb.) Cass. puts it to be read in this Manner; and so the Greek εἰμι is placed, with the French suis: which is like the 2d Verse, and agrees best with the former Part of this, carrying the same Reason with the pres. Transf. of God's Zeal, and punishing for Sin.

Ib. zealous] I have chosen this rather than jealous, as the Heb. Word may signify either. Sol. Jar. in his Annotations on this Place, expounds it זֵאֵלִים לְעֵשֶׂת zealous to revenge; the Targum of Jonathan paraphrases on it thus, אֱלֹהֵי קִנְיָן וְחֹפֶזֶת בְּקִנְיָנָה a zealous God, and a Revenger, and revenging with Zeal; the Tigur. Bib. has indignabundus, angry, for which the Margin pleads; see Deut. iv. 24. & vi. 15. Josh. xxiv. 19. Zech. viii. 2.

which corroborate this Interpretation: and zeal of the Lord of hosts is several times in the pres. Version.

Ib. punish Children] The Attempts to turn this into other Meanings are needless, as well as weak and foreign to the Original, of which see Univer. Hist. B. i. vii. Sect. 2. since it is certain that Children suffer on Earth for their Fathers Sins; as when the Father by Pride, Luxury, &c. spends the lawful Patrimony, which would otherwise descend to them; or on the contrary, leaves them what he has unlawfully gotten, which corrupts the rest, and the like; see also Stack. Hist. Bib. iv. 1. p. 436. 2d Edit. Our pres. Transf. is expressed in this manner, Jer. xxv. 12. look Jer. xxxii. 18.

Ver. 7. take up] as the Heb. Word signifies, viz. in the Mouth, Psa. xvi. 4. & xv. 3. & l. 16. Isa. xiv. 4. Hab. ii. 6. Ezek. xxvi. 17. and as it is used with the Matter or Discourse: so Addison in his fine Ode,

The Moon takes up the wondrous Tale.

Ver. 13. murder] How much better than the latter Eng. Translations was the ancient one, Part of which is extant in the Book of Common Prayer, Thou shalt do no murder? For all killing of Men was not forbid, Gen. ix. 6. and kill without Restriction would also comprehend other living Creatures; see too Gell's Essay for Amend. of the last Transf. p. 450, 653.

Ver. 16. give] or answer, viz. when interrogated by the Judge.

Ver. 18. were apparent] Two of the four being heard, not seen.

20. But he answered them, Do not fear, for God came in order to try you; and for his Fear to be before your Faces, that you may not sin.

21. The People therefore stood far off, while Moses went nigh to the Darkness where God was.

22. And the Lord said to him: Thus shalt thou tell the Israelites; You have seen that I have spoken to you from Heaven.

23. You shall neither make with me, gods of Silver, nor even make you gods of Gold.

24. An Altar of Earth shalt thou make me, and sacrifice upon it thy Burnt-offerings and Peace-offerings, thy Flocks and Herds: so in all Places wherein I make my Name be remembered, I will come to thee, and bless thee.

25. And if thou wilt make me an Altar of Stones, thou shalt not build them up hewn: for when thou movest thy Tool upon it, thou wilt profane it.

26. Besides thou shalt not go up by Stairs upon my Altar, on which thou must not discover thy Nakedness.

CHAP. XXI.

AND these are the Rules which thou shalt put before them.

2. When thou buyest a Hebrew Servant, he shall serve thee six Years, and in the seventh shall go out free for nothing.

3. If he came in by himself, so shall he go out: if he was a married Man, his Wife shall go out with him.

4. If his Master has given him a Wife, and she has born him Sons or Daughters, the Wife and her Children shall be her Master's, and he shall go out by himself.

5. However if the Servant says expressly, I love my Master, my Wife and Children, I will not go out free;

6. His Master shall have him to the Magistrates, and then bring him to the Door, or the Post; where he shall bore his Ear through with an Awl, and he shall be his Servant for ever.

7. But when a Man sells his Daughter to be a Servant-maid, she shall not go out as the Servant-men do.

8. If her Master dislike her, who has not espoused her, he shall let her be redeemed: he shall not have Power to sell her to strange People, by his being treacherous to her.

9. Whereas if he has espoused her to his Son, he shall do for her after the manner of Daughters.

10. Though he take him another, he shall neither diminish her Diet, Cloathing, nor Dwelling.

11. Nay if he will not do these three Things for her, she shall go out for no Money at all.

Ver. 22. him] παρὰ δὲ τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις Μωϋσὴν τὸν λαὸν ἐκκαλεσάμενον Θεόν, writes Diodorus Sicul. Lib. i. 7. among the Jews Moses ascribes his Laws to the God Jao; as the Gentiles called Jebozab.

Ver. 23. me] where is a great Stop, and not as in the English: so Jun. and Trem. ne facite quicquam mecum, Do not make any thing with me; see also Crois in Tagh. p. 104.

Ver. 24. Altar of Earth] till that of Shittim-wood was made, Chap. xxvii. 1. and afterwards occasionally at other Places besides the Tabernacle, Ch. xxiv. 4. Josh. viii. 30, 31. Judg. vi. 26. 1 Sam. vii. 17. & xiv. 35. 2 Sam. xxiv. 18. 1 Kings xviii. 32. which being of Earth, might only serve for the present Occasion.

Ib. all Places] of Worship to God, wherein he himself is to make his Name be remembered, according to John xiv. 26.

Ver. 25. not build] that it might not be a Place for future Offerings, and so be abused to Idolatry.

Ver. 26. not discover] Men anciently wearing Coats as Women do now: thus I find Theophrastus describing a Clown, ἀναστρέφειν αὐτὸ τὰ γόνατα καθάπερ ὄρεα τὰ γυναικῶν φαίνεται, He will sit tucked up above the Knees, so that his Nakedness may be seen, Charact. 5.

Ver. 2. seventh] from the foregoing Sabbatical Year, and not from the Beginning of each one's particular Service, as appears by Jer. xxxiv. 8—16. The Case however here seems to be, when one was sold by another, Deut. xv. 12. for Debt or Theft, Chap. xxii. 3. 2 Kings iv. 1. Matt. xviii. 25. or when a Man sold his Child for Poverty, or perhaps bad Behaviour, Ver. 7. see Lev. xxv. 40.

Ver. 6. an Awl] Tynd. and Bish. a needle.

Ver. 7. not go out as] For as Grotius writes on the next Verse, Puella semper jux erat se redimendi, si facultas esset: A Maid had a Right to be redeemed at any Time, if there was Ability for it.

Ver. 8. not espoused] Our Translators follow the Margin, which has ἰς τὸν ἑαυτῆς, but the Text ἑαυτῆς not: that the latter is right appears by its being put before the Verb, whereas ἰς would come after, as also by the Sense of the Place, and the best and almost all Translators; nay if the Master had espoused her himself, should not he let her go away for nothing as well as the Son, Ver. 11. or rather! Tynd. has, so that he hath given her to no man to wyfe, also negatively.

Ib. espoused her] unto himself, or to his sonne, Ainsw.

Ib. People] The Heb. Word not signifying nation; and moreover Grotius says, Strange People here means any one who is not of the Buyer's House: for no Hebrew Servant must be sold to other Nations, as Josephus remarks, Antiq. Lib. xvi.

Ib. being treacherous] in violating the Law of God that he was engaged by, when he bought the young Woman, Jun. and Trem.

Ver. 10. he take] viz. the Son, as also Grotius orders to be supplied.

Ib. Dwelling] as appears by the Meaning of בית from the same Root; accordingly Montan. renders it habitationem, as do likewise Jun. and Trem. in their latter Edit. and certainly she was not to have the duty of marriage when not married, but only espoused or betrothed, that is contracted to be married. The Gen. have it recompense of her virginity.

Ver. 11. these three Things] let her have Food, Apparel and House-room, Ver. 10.

12. He who strikes a Man, so that he dies, shall be quite put to death.

13. As for him who does not seek it, but God lets it fall out to his Hand, I will appoint a Place for thee whither he shall flee.

14. But when a Man is so haughty against his Neighbour as to kill him craftily, thou shalt take him from my Altar to put him to death.

15. And whoever strikes his Father or Mother, shall be quite put to death.

16. He also who steals any one, and sells him, or else he is found in his Custody, shall be quite put to death.

17. As likewise whosoever curses his Father or Mother, shall be quite put to death.

18. And when Men strive, and one strikes the other with a Stone or the Fist, so that he does not die, but lies in Bed,

19. Getting up again, and walking about abroad upon his Staff; he who struck shall be quit, only he shall give for his lying still, and have him thoroughly cured.

20. Moreover when a Man beats his Servant-man or Maid, with a Stick in such a manner, that he dies under his Hand, it shall be thoroughly revenged.

21. Yet if he remain a Day or two, it shall not, because he was for his Money.

22. Thus when Men contend, and strike a Woman who is breeding, so that she miscarries of her Child, and yet there is no other Mischief, he shall be altogether punished as her Husband shall inflict on him, and give what the Judges order.

23. Nevertheless if there shall be Mischief, thou shalt give Life for Life,

24. Eye for Eye, Tooth for Tooth, Hand for Hand, Foot for Foot,

25. Burning for Burning, Wound for Wound, Sore for Sore.

26. When a Man too strikes the Eye of his Servant-man, or that of his Maid, and it be spoiled, he shall let him go free for his Eye.

27. Even if he cause a Tooth, either of his Servant-man or Maid, to fall out, he shall let him go free for it.

28. Besides when an Ox gores a Man or Woman, so that he dies, it shall be stoned to death, and its Flesh not be eat, but the Owner of it shall be quit.

29. Yet if it is an Ox which gored in time past, and that has been testified to his Owner, who has not taken care of him, and he kills a Man or Woman; he shall be stoned, and the Owner also put to death.

30. If there be a Ransom put upon him, he shall give that to redeem his Life, according to the whole of it.

31. Whether it has gored a Son or a Daughter, according to this Judgment shall it be done to him.

32. If the Ox gores a Servant-man or Maid, he shall give his Master thirty Shekels of Silver, and the Ox shall be stoned.

33. And when a Man opens a Pit, or when he digs one, and does not cover it, and an Ox or Ass falls in there;

34. The Owner of the Pit shall make recompence, by paying Money to the other Owner, but he shall have the dead one.

35. Further when a Person's Ox pushes another's, so that he dies; they shall sell the live Ox, and part both the Money of that and the dead one equally.

36. Or should it be known that he was an Ox which gored in time past, and his Owner has not taken care of him; he shall wholly recompense Ox for Ox, but shall have the dead one.

CHAP. XXII.

WHEN a Man steals an Ox or a Sheep, and kills it, or sells it, he shall restore five Oxen for one, and four Sheep for one.

2. If a Thief is found breaking through, and be smitten, so that he dies, there shall be no Bleeding for him;

3. Which, if the Sun be risen upon him, there shall: he shall thoroughly make re-

Ver. 15. strikes] though he neither kills, nor hurts very much, Jun. and Trem. see Ver. 12. which smite leaves doubtful.

Ver. 19. be quit] go quite in former Translations.

Ver. 22. Judges] Tynd. and Bish. dayes men.

Ver. 34. the other] Heb. his, as proper, not of them.

Ver. 1. kills it, or sells it] this making the Crime double, Ver 4. without which the stealing of Beasts and other Things, was subject to the same Penalty, Ver. 4, 7. though Patrick says, "There is a smaller Satisfaction required in other Things, Ver. 9." when the Verse by him quoted clearly expresses the contrary. So that his and Poole's reasoning might have been spared, concerning the Difference of stealing Cattle and other Things. The Reason of the Penalty here imposed might be, not only the additional Sin of the Thief in killing or selling what was another Man's, but because he had deprived himself of the Power, and the Owner of the Benefit of his restoring it, to whom the Thing lost might be of some peculiar Value or Esteem. And the Fine for an Ox seems to exceed that of a Sheep, because he was a labouring Beast in Tillage, &c. by which his being stolen would cause a farther Loss than the mere Worth of him. The Restitution of the fifth Part more (notwithstanding what Patrick says) was for less Crimes than Theft, Lev. vi. 2, 3, 4, 5. Num. v. 6, 7.

Ver. 3. he] who is a Thief, but not one that is killed; so the latter Part of the Verse seems ill connected to the former, especially with [for] which is of the Translators own making; since a Thief's being bound to make recompence or restitution, is no reason why a Man should be put to death, for killing him in the Day and not in compence; compence; and if he has Nothing, shall be sold for the Thing stolen by him.

4. If that be at all found in his Custody alive, whether Ox, Ass or Sheep, he shall restore double.

5. When a Man causes a Field or Vineyard of another to be fed, by sending his Beast to graze there; with the best of his own Field, or Vineyard, shall he make recompence.

6. When Fire comes out, and meets with Thorns, so that a Shock, standing Corn, or a Field is consumed; he who made the Burning shall thoroughly pay for the Damage.

7. When one delivers to another Man Money or Things to be kept, and it is stolen out of his House; if the Thief be found, he shall restore double:

8. If he is not, the Master of the House shall be brought to the Magistrates, for Enquiry that he has not taken his Neighbour's Effects.

9. In every Matter of Trespas, concerning Ox, Ass, Sheep, Apparel, any thing that is lost, of which it is said that it is so, the Affair of the two Parties coming before the Magistrates; he, whom they condemn, shall restore double to his Neighbour.

10. When one delivers to another either an Ass, Ox, Sheep, or any Beast to keep, and it die, or has Somewhat broken, or be driven away, none seeing it;

11. There shall be an Oath of the Lord between them both, that the latter has not taken his Neighbour's Effects, which the Owner of it shall accept, and he shall not make recompence.

12. But if it be at all stolen from him, he shall recompense the Owner of it.

13. If it be torn in pieces; he shall bring it for a Witness; he shall not make recompence for that.

14. And when one borrows of another what has Something broken, or dies, the Owner of it being not with it, he shall fully make recompence;

15. Which if its Owner is with it, he shall not: if it be hired, it comes for his Hire.

16. Moreover when a Man entices a Virgin who is not espoused, and lies with her, he shall thoroughly endow her to be his Wife.

17. If her Father utterly refuse to give her to him, he shall pay Money according to the Dowry of Virgins.

18. Thou shalt not let a Witch live.

19. Whoever lies with a Beast, shall be quite put to death.

20. He shall be destroyed who sacrifices to gods, besides the Lord alone.

21. Thou shalt neither wrong a Stranger, nor oppress him: for you were Strangers in the Country of Egypt.

22. You shall not afflict any Widow or Orphan.

23. If thou dost at all afflict him (for if he cry out to me, I shall thoroughly hear his Cry)

24. Then shall I be incensed, and will slay you with the Sword; so that your Wives shall be Widows, and your Children fatherless.

25. If thou lendest Money to a poor one of my People with thee, thou shalt not be to him like an Usurer, by putting Usury upon him.

26. If thou at all receivest thy Neighbour's Cloaths in pawn, thou shalt restore it to him against the setting of the Sun.

the Night; and what follows is worse, being rendered by shall, as the Thief would not be sold after he was killed.

Ib. the Thing stolen] theft being stealing.

Ver. 5. with the best] The Eng. Translators seem here to have mistaken the first Letter of the Noun for a Pronoun, by rendering of.

Ver. 8. Master] Tynd. good man.

Ib. Effects] understand if he had not, he was to be acquitted, Ver. 11.

Ver. 10. driven away] by getting among other Cattle.

Ver. 11. Effects] Tynd. & Bish. good for goods, though good in another Sense follows.

Ver. 12. stolen] Here is a twofold nice Distinction, of this with the two preceding Verses, and with Ver. 7, 8. The Cases mentioned Ver. 10. are to be esteemed providential or casual, not owing to the Want of proper Care, when he who had the keeping of the Beast was acquitted, Ver. 11. but the Matter being otherwise when it was stolen, recompence was to be made. However as this was only for Cattle, not other Things, Ver. 7, 8. the Reason also of such distinguishing (as we are to account it reasonable) is to be sought: which I suppose was; 1. Because he who kept another's Cattle was paid for it, which comprehended his preserving them from being stolen; so that if they were, he was justly bound to recompense it: whereas a Person was paid Nothing, for letting Money or Goods lie in his Custody till called for; and so ought not to make amends if it was stolen. 2. Well looking after Things might prevent their being stolen abroad, where Cattle were, which would not preserve those within from House-breakers, Ver. 7.

Ver. 13. bring it for a witness] Tynd. bring records of the tearing.

Ver. 14. make recompence] Poole says, This may seem hard, whom Patrick as usual follows; but one may wonder why he that borrowed a Thing to have the Use of it gratis, as is clearly the Case by the Distinction of hired afterwards, should not make good the Damage it received with him; especially since he would have been excused from it, had the Owner been present.

Ver. 15. Hire] So the Borrower was not then to make up the Damage.

Ver. 16. endow] I suppose settle a Dowry or Jointure on her, in case he should either die first, or divorce her.

Ver. 21. for you were Strangers] not as the Cause or Reason of this Precept, but a Consideration to enforce them to the Obedience of it.

Ver. 25. Usurer] the Bishops tyrant, though Tynd. as we.

27. For that alone is his Covering, even Cloathing for him to his Skin: in what shall he lie? And when he cries to me, I will hear; for I am gracious.

28. Thou shalt not revile the Magistrates, nor curse a Prince among thy People.

29. Thou shalt not delay with thy ripe Fruit and Liquor; thou shalt give the First-born of thy Sons to me.

30. So shalt thou do with thy Oxen, with thy Sheep: seven Days it shall be with its Dam, on the eighth Day shalt thou give it to me.

31. And you shall be holy Persons to me; not eating Flesh that is torn in the Field, you shall throw it to the Dogs.

C H A P. XXIII.

THOU shalt not take up a false Report: do not put thy Hand with the Wicked to be an injurious Witness.

2. Thou shalt not follow great Persons in what is bad, nor answer in a Cause to turn it aside, by declining after them.

3. Neither shalt thou respect a poor one in his Cause.

4. When thou meetest thy Enemy's Ox or Ass going astray, thou shalt bring it quite back to him.

5. When thou seest the Ass of one who hates thee lying down under his Burden, and by forsaking dost let him alone, thou shalt be utterly forsaken with him.

6. Thou shalt not turn aside the Judgment of thy Needy in his Cause.

7. Be far off from a false Matter; and do not kill the Innocent and Righteous, for I will not acquit the Wicked.

8. Nor shalt thou take a Bribe: for that blinds those who see, and perverts the Words of the Just.

9. Besides thou shalt not oppress a Stranger: as you know the Mind of such a one, because you were Strangers in the Country of Egypt.

10. And six Years thou shalt sow thy Land, and gather the Crop of it.

11. But the seventh thou shalt let it have an Intermission, and leave it, of which the Needy of thy People shall eat, and their Leavings the Beasts of the Field shall: so shalt thou do with thy Vineyard, with thy Olive-yard.

12. Six Days shalt thou do thy Work, and on the seventh Day thou shalt rest; that thy Ox and Ass may rest, as also the Son of thy Handmaid and the Stranger be refreshed.

13. And in all that I say to you take heed: and make no mention of the Name of other gods, let it not be heard in thy Mouth.

14. Three times in a Year shalt thou keep a Feast to me:

15. Namely that of unleavened Cakes, eating them seven Days, as I commanded thee, at the appointed Time of the Month Abib, because in it thou camest out of Egypt; and none shall appear empty in my Presence:

16. As likewise the Feast of Harvest, of the First-fruits of what thou hast been working to sow in the Field; and that of gathering at the going out of the Year, when thou gatherest that which thou hast wrought upon out of the Field.

17. Three Times in a Year, shall all thy Males appear in the Presence of the Sovereign Lord.

18. Thou shalt not offer the Blood of my Sacrifice with leavened Bread, nor shall the Fat of my Feast abide all Night till the Morning.

19. The Beginning of the First-fruits of thy Ground shalt thou bring to the House of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not boil a Kid in the Milk of his Dam.

20. Behold I send an Angel before thee to keep thee in the Way, and to bring thee to the Place which I have prepared.

21. Take heed by reason of him, and hearken to what he says, do not vex him: for he will not forgive your Crime, since my Name is within him.

Ver. 29. ripe Fruit and Liquor] Tynd. frutes ubetber they be drye or moist; Gen. for the former have abundance.

Ver. 1. take up] Bish. have to doe with.

Ver. 2. follow] Ὁ μὲν ἐπὶ τοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ δὲ ἐπὶ τοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ τοῦ δὲ ἐπὶ τοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ, says Hippodamus Thurius the Pythagorean in a Treatise concerning Happiness, i. e. He who follows God is happy, but he that does Mortals is unhappy.

Ib. great] which the Heb. Word, being the same in both Places, signifies as well as many; and seems to be the Meaning here, because opposed to poor in the next Verse, which does not suit with many, and that Verse would read oddly by it self: this also agrees to its being the Trial of a Cause in Law that is spoken of, where many are oftener to be followed than few, but particular Care should be taken not to be biased by great Persons. So Jun. and Trem. rendet potentiores. This too is confirmed by the parallel Text, Lev. xix. 15. see also Deut. i. 17.

Ver. 5. forsaking] being a common Verb so signifying, and not to help.

Ver. 8. those who see] according to the Heb.

Ib. Just] A Bribe being given for Injustice.

Ver. 16. Feast of Harvest] of which look Lev. xxiii. 16.

Ib. gathering] of the Fruit, Lev. xxiii. 39.

Ver. 19. in the Milk] while he sucks.

Ver. 21. heed] for Beware of him has an inauspicious Look, and falls short of the Hebr.

Ib. Crime] sing.

22. But

22. But if thou at all hearkenest to what he says, so that thou doest all that I speak; I will be an Enemy to thy Enemies, and an Adversary to thy Adversaries.

23. For my Angel shall go before thee, and bring thee to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites and Canaanites, the Hivites and Jebusites, whom I will cut off.

24. Thou shalt not bow down to their gods, nor serve them, nor do according to their Works; but shalt utterly demolish them, and wholly break down their Statues.

25. And you shall serve the Lord your God, who will bless thy Victuals and Drink; and I will put away Sickness from within thee.

26. There shall be Nothing that casts its Young, or is barren in thy Country; I will fill up the Number of thy Days.

27. My Terror will I send before thee, and rout all the People against whom thou shalt go; giving thee the Necks of all thy Enemies.

28. Nay will send the Hornet before thee, which shall drive out the Hivites, Canaanites, and Hittites from thy Presence.

29. I will not drive them out thence in one Year; lest the Country should be desolate, and the wild Beasts should multiply against thee.

30. By little and little will I do it; till thou art so fruitful, that thou mayest possess the Country.

31. And I will set thy Bounds from the Red Sea even to that of the Philistines, and from the Wilderness to the River: for I will deliver the Inhabitants of the Country into your Power, and thou shalt drive them out from thy Presence.

32. Thou shalt make no Treaty with them, nor with their gods.

33. They shall not so much as dwell in thy Country, lest they should make thee sin against me: for thou wilt serve their gods, because they will insnare thee.

C H A P. XXIV.

HE said further to Moses; Come up to the Lord thy self and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, with seventy of the Elders of Israel; and you shall worship far off.

2. But Moses alone shall come nigh to the Lord, and they shall not; nor shall the People come up with him.

3. Whereupon Moses came, and told the People all his Words, and all the Rules; to which they all made answer with one Voice, We will do all the Things that the Lord has spoken.

4. Then he wrote all the Words of the Lord, and rising early in the Morning, built an Altar under the Mountain, and twelve Pillars for the twelve Tribes of Israel.

5. And he sent young Men of the Israelites, who offered up Burnt-offerings, and sacrificed Sacrifices, Bullocks for Peace-offerings to the Lord.

6. Moses also took half the Blood, and put into Bowls, and half of it he sprinkled upon the Altar.

7. Moreover he took the Book of the Covenant, and read in the Hearing of the People; who said, We will do, and hearken to, all that the Lord has spoken.

8. Again he took the Blood, and sprinkled upon the People; and said, Behold the Blood of the Covenant which the Lord has made with you, concerning all these Matters.

9. Afterwards Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, with seventy of the Elders of Israel, went up.

10. And they saw the God of Israel; under whose Feet there was like the Work of a Pavement of Sapphire, and like the very Sky for Pureness.

11. However he put not forth his Hand to the Nobles of the Israelites; but they beheld God, and did eat, and drink.

12. Besides the Lord said to Moses, Come thou up to me on the Mountain, and be there; and I will give thee Tables of Stone, with a Law and Commandments, which I have written for thee to teach them.

13. Accordingly he got ready, with his Minister Joshua, that he might go up on the Mountain of God.

14. And he ordered the Elders, Abide ye here for us, till we return to you: and behold Aaron and Hur being with you, whosoever has any Matters, let him come to them.

15. Now as Moses went up on the Mountain, there was a Cloud covered it.

Ver. 11. put not forth his Hand] Did not hurt them, Patrick and others. But it might be interpreted, did not give them any thing, as he did Moses, Ver. 12. there being no Distinction in the other Case; since he did not hurt Moses, and it is spoken of the Nobles, which by the Change of the Word seems to include the others besides the Elders, Ver. 9.

16. The Glory of the Lord too remained upon Mount Sinai, and the Cloud covered it six Days; and on the seventh Day he called to Moses from within it.

17. And the Appearance of the Lord's Glory was like consuming Fire on the Top of the Mountain, in the Sight of the Israelites.

18. Yet Moses went into the midst of the Cloud, when he went up on the Mountain; which he was on forty Days and forty Nights.

CHAP. XXV.

AND the Lord spoke to him as follows.

2. Tell the Israelites, that they should take an Offering for me; which you shall do of every Man whom his Heart moves freely.

3. And this is the Offering which you shall take of them; Gold, Silver, Brass,

4. Blue, purple and scarlet Thread, fine Linen, Goats Hair,

5. Rams Skins dyed red, Badgers Skins, and Shittim-wood,

6. Oil for Light, Spices for anointing Oil, and for Incense of Odours,

7. Onyx-stones, and Stones to be set in the Ephod and Breast-plate.

8. And let them make me a Sanctuary, that I may dwell amongst them.

9. According to all which I shew thee, the Shape of the Tabernacle, and that of all its Utensils, just so shall you make.

10. Moreover they shall make an Ark of Shittim-wood: two Cubits and a half shall be its Length, a Cubit and a half its Breadth, and so much the Height of it.

11. Which thou shalt cover with pure Gold, covering it both on the inside and outside; and shalt make upon it a Border of Gold round about.

12. Thou shalt also cast for it four Rings of Gold, and put on its four Corners; namely two Rings upon one Side of it, and two upon its other.

13. Besides thou shalt make Poles of Shittim-wood, and cover them with Gold.

14. These shalt thou put into the Rings, by the Sides of the Ark, to carry it with them.

15. They shall be in the Rings of it, without being taken from it.

16. And thou shalt put into the Ark the Testimony which I will give thee.

17. Thou shalt further make an Atonement-covering of pure Gold; two Cubits and a half its Length, and a Cubit and a half the Breadth of it.

18. As thou shalt likewise two Cherubs of Gold; making them solid, at the two Ends of it.

19. For do thou make one Cherub at one End, and another at the other; upon the two Ends of it shall you make them.

20. The Cherubs too shall spread forth their Wings on high, covering it over with them, and their Faces shall be one towards another, which shall be towards the Atonement-covering.

21. And this shalt thou put upon the Ark above, as well as put into the Ark the Testimony which I will give thee.

Ver. 18. was on] As I have a particular Veneration for Providence, I shall relate the Jewish Tradition mentioned by Addisen; that Moses here in a Conference with the Supreme Being, was permitted to ask him some Questions concerning his Management of the World, and amongst the same was commanded to look down on the Plain below; where at a Spring which issued out of the Mountain, he saw a Soldier alight from his Horse to drink; who being gone, a little Boy came, and found a Purse of Gold which the Soldier had dropped, and taking it up, went away with it. Next came an infirm old Man, weary with Age and Travelling, and he having quenched his Thirst, sat down to rest himself by the Spring; when the Soldier missing his Purse, returned to seek for it, and demanded it of the old Man, upon whose protesting that he had not seen it, the Soldier killed him. Moses struck with Horror and Amazement, the Divine Voice thus prevents his Expostulation, Be not surprized, Moses, nor enquire why the Judge of the whole Earth has suffered this to be. The Child indeed was the Occasion that the old Man lost his Life; but knew that the same old Man had murdered that Child's Father.

Ver. 4. scarlet Thread] agreeable to Gen. xxxviii. 28. Chap. xxxix. 3, 24. and those Colours could not be Colours of Nothing; nay it was this after it was spun, Chap. xxxv. 25. our Translators also quite omitted one Word. Patrick says, Yarn dyed of these Colours, on Chap. xxvi. 1. and the com. Translation has scarlet wool, Heb. ix. 19.

Ver. 10. Ark] This was put into the very holy Place, or inner Part of the Tabernacle, Ch. xxvi. 33.

Ib. Shittim-wood] Jerome in his Commentary on Mic. vi. writes, Ligna Sethim habent similitudinem Arboris quam nos vulgo Spinam albam dicimus, Shittim-wood is like what is commonly called White-thorn: and on Joel iii. more particularly, that it is like White-thorn in the Colour and Leaves, but not in Bigness, the Trees of it being so great that very large Boards are made out of them, and it is also very strong, as well as exceeding light and beautiful, growing no where absque Arabiæ Solitudine, but in the Wilderness of Arabia. And divers Travellers relate, that the Acacia or Thorn is the only Tree which is found in those Parts, as that it is of a tall and handsome Growth: we may therefore conclude it was the same, though their Descriptions may vary a little. Of the Arabian Thorn likewise Pliny speaks, Lib. xxiv. Cap. 12. That this was the Shittim-wood, Dr. Shaw too observes in his late Travels.

Ver. 17. Atonement-covering] from the Root to make atonement, the high Priest going in before it once a Year to make atonement, Lev. xvi. and it was a Covering or Lid to the Ark, Ver. 21. of the same Length and Breadth, Ver. 10. So Sept. inaripon inidipua.

22. Where

22. Where I will meet with thee; and speak to thee from off the Atonement-covering, from between the two Cherubs that shall be upon the Ark of the Testimony, all which I shall command thee for the Israelites.

23. Thou shalt also make a Table of Shittim-wood; the Length of which shall be two Cubits, its Breadth one, and the Height of it a Cubit and a half.

24. This thou shalt cover with pure Gold; and make to it a Border of Gold round about;

25. As thou shalt in like manner an Inclosing of a Hand's-breadth, and a golden Border to that.

26. Thou shalt moreover make for it four Rings of Gold, and put them upon the four Corners which shall be to the four Feet of it.

27. The Rings shall be by the Inclosing, for Places to the Poles, to carry the Table.

28. These latter shalt thou make of Shittim-wood, and cover them with Gold; that the Table may be carried by them.

29. Next thou shalt make its Plates, Spoons, Covers and Cups, that it shall be covered with, each of pure Gold.

30. Then shalt thou put upon the Table the Presence-bread before me continually.

31. Besides thou shalt make a Candlestick of pure Gold, and that solid; its Shank and Branches, its Bowls, Balls, and Flowers being of the same.

32. And six Branches shall come out of the Sides of it; three of them out of one Side of it, and three out of its other.

33. There shall be three Bowls made like Almonds, with a Ball and a Flower in one Branch, and three such, with the like in another; so shall there be to the six Branches that come out of the Candlestick:

34. And in it shall be four Bowls, made like Almonds, with its Balls and Flowers;

35. As also a Ball under two of its Branches, another under two more, and a third under the other twain; to the six Branches that come out thence.

36. Their Balls and Branches shall be of the same, all of it one solid Work of pure Gold.

37. And thou shalt make its seven Lamps; which one shall cause to burn up, that he may make it light over against the Forepart of it;

38. With its Snuffers and Snuff-dishes, of pure Gold.

39. Of a Talent of pure Gold shall one make it, including all these Things.

40. Which do thou see, and make, by their Shape that thou art shewn on the Mountain.

CHAP. XXVI.

MOREOVER thou shalt make a Tabernacle of ten Curtains; which thou shalt do with fine twisted Linen, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, with Cherubs of artificial Work.

Sect. 10. were baked in the Evening of the Sabbath, and set in order the next Day; see Lev. xxiv. 5, 6, 8.

Ib. Snuffers] the same as in Ch. xxxvii. 23.

Ver. 39. shall one make] The Heb. having only the Verb jagaseh, without the Pronoun, the Masorab has a proper and commendable Note (as many such elsewhere) to guard against its being altered to tangaseh, shalt thou make; which might seem to Some more conformable to the Context, in which manner the elegant Prominences of Divine Writ would be melted down into a mere Lump.

Ver. 1. See this done Ch. xxxvi. 8, &c. being before other Things, which it is after here.

Ib. Curtains] Here is the Heb. Partition of the Verse.

Ib. fine twisted Linen] Bish. white twyned silke.

Ib. Thread] See Ver. 4. of last Chap.

2. The Length of a Curtain shall be eight and twenty Cubits, and four the Breadth of it; they all having one Measure.

3. Five Curtains shall be joined one to another, as the other five shall in the same manner.

4. For which End thou shalt make blue Loops upon the Edge of one Curtain, at the Border in the joining; and so shalt thou do on the utmost Edge of another there.

5. Fifty Loops shalt thou make on one Curtain, as thou shalt so many on the Border of another, which shall be in the joining; the Loops taking hold of one another.

6. Thou shalt also make fifty Clasps of Gold; and shalt join the Curtains one to another with them, so that it shall be one Tabernacle.

7. Nay shalt make Curtains of Goats Hair, for a Tent over the Tabernacle; making eleven of them.

8. The Length of a Curtain shall be thirty Cubits, and the Breadth of it four; the eleven having one Measure.

9. Of these thou shalt join together five by themselves, and six by themselves; doubling the sixth Curtain before the Face of the Tent.

10. For this end thou shalt make fifty Loops upon the Edge of one Curtain which is uttermost at the joining, and so many upon that of another there.

11. And shalt make fifty Clasps of Brass; and putting them into the Loops, join the Tent together, that it may be one.

12. That which is over and above too, in the half Curtain, of those of the Tent, shall hang over it at the hinder Parts of the Tabernacle.

13. As also a Cubit on one Side, and a Cubit on the other, of what is over in the Length of the Curtains of the Tent, shall hang over at the Sides of the Tabernacle, both on one Side and the other, to cover it.

14. Thou shalt moreover make a Covering to the Tent of Rams Skins dyed red, and another of Badgers Skins above.

15. And thou shalt make Boards to the Tabernacle, of Shittim-wood, standing up.

16. Ten Cubits shall be the Length of a Board, and a Cubit and half the Breadth of one:

17. To which there shall be two Tenons, set like Steps one to another: so shalt thou make to all the Boards of the Tabernacle.

18. Of these Boards thou shalt make twenty on the south Side, to the right Hand.

19. Thou shalt further make forty Sockets of Silver under them; a couple under each particular Board, for the two Tenons of it.

20. And for the other Side of the Tabernacle, that on the North, shall be twenty Boards;

21. With their forty Sockets of Silver, a couple under each particular Board.

22. Moreover for the Sides of the Tabernacle westward, shalt thou make six Boards.

23. As thou shalt two more for the Corners of the Tabernacle, at the two Sides.

Ver. 2. eight and twenty Cubits] This Length going across, Ver. 13. made the Top of the Tabernacle, and hung down on each Side within a Cubit of the Ground, according to the Dimensions shewn on Ver. 16, 23. Chap. xxxvi. 24. and Patrick's Commentary here.

Ver. 3. shall be joined] to make the outward Part, called the holy Place, twenty Cubits long, each Curtain being four wide, Ver. 2.

1b. another] or the second, i. e. Curtain; as may appear by the Direction of one before applied to a Curtain, not to a joining, and the Want of this to answer to that. As for this Adjective being parted from Curtain in the Original, so is uttermost from Edge.

Ver. 5. taking hold] as Chap. xxxvi. 12.

Ver. 7. Curtains] to put over the other.

Ver. 9. doubling the sixth Curtain] turning up this additional Curtain that it might hang down but two Cubits, which it would single four Cubits.

Ver. 10. another there] In the com. Transf. the curtain which couplet the second must have been the first or third: whereas this was the second; see Ver. 4.

Ver. 12. half Curtain] not of one of the eleven, but of the five joined together in one, Ver. 9. which hung down on the Backside of the very holy Place, over the latter five of those of twisted Linen; &c. Patrick supposes this Covering hung down there two Cubits lower than the other, as he calls it; whereas that reached to the Bottom, Ver. 3.

Ver. 14. Covering to] over that of the eleven Curtains.

1b. the Tent] Gen. that covering, they calling the other covering too.

1b. another of] which was the third, not the fourth, as Patrick says; for the first Curtains were the Tabernacle, Ver. 6.

Ver. 16. Ten Cubits] which was the Height of the Tabernacle.

Ver. 17. See Chap. xxxvi. 22.

1b. set like Steps] Gen. set in order as the steps of a Ladder; and the Bish. set in order as ladder staves; but Tynd. to couple them together wythe all.

Ver. 18. to the right Hand] according to the Derivation of the Word; for of what Use is south-ward after south side?

Ver. 18, 20. twenty Boards] These being each a Cubit and half in Breadth, Ver. 16. the Tabernacle was thirty Cubits long.

Ver. 22. for the Sides—westward] for the Extremities of the Sides at the west End; which makes good Sense of the literal Words, that here and at Ver. 27. have so puzzled Interpreters.

1b. westward] behind the very holy Place, the Entrance being at the East; see 1 Kings vi. 3.

Ver. 23. two] The six Boards, Ver. 22. being nine Cubits wide, and these two making another Cubit, is agreed to be the Breadth of the Tabernacle. Of which I find a Proof in Ver. 13. as the Curtains that were thirty

24. These

24. These shall be double below, and compleat together upon the Top of it, in one Ring: so shall it be to both of them, they being for the two Corners.

25. Thus shall there be eight Boards, and their Sockets of Silver sixteen: two Sockets under each particular Board.

26. And thou shalt make five Rails of Shittim-wood, for the Boards of one Side of the Tabernacle:

27. As likewise five for those of its other Side, and five more for the Boards at the End of the Tabernacle, to the two Sides westward;

28. The middle Rail at the midst of the Boards passing from End to End.

29. And the Boards shalt thou cover with Gold, and make their Rings of Gold, Places for the Rails; which thou shalt cover with the same:

30. So thou shalt set up the Tabernacle, according to the Manner of it, which thou art shewn on the Mountain.

31. Besides thou shalt make a Hanging of blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; which shall be done of artificial Work of Cherubs.

32. This shalt thou put upon four Pillars of Shittim-wood covered with Gold; their Hooks being Gold, upon four Sockets of Silver.

33. And shalt put the Hanging under the Claps, and bring thither on the inside of it the Ark of the Testimony; and the Hanging shall make a Separation for you, between the Holy and the very Holy Place.

34. Then shalt thou put the Atonement-covering upon the Ark of the Testimony, in the very Holy Place.

35. But the Table thou shalt set without the Hanging, and the Candlestick over against it, on the Side of the Tabernacle southward; and shalt put the Table on the north Side.

36. Thou shalt make a Covering too for the Door of the Tent, with blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; embroidered Work.

37. And for the Covering shalt thou make five Pillars of Shittim-wood, and cover them with Gold, their Hooks being Gold: thou shalt also cast for them five Sockets of Brass.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND thou shalt make an Altar of Shittim-wood; the Length of five Cubits, and so much in Breadth, it being square; with three Cubits the Height of it.

2. Horns to it shalt thou also make upon the four Corners of it; which shall be of the same; and shalt cover it with Brass:

3. As likewise make the Pots of it to take away its Ashes, and the Shovels, Bowls, Forks and Censers of it; making all its Instruments of Brass.

4. Besides thou shalt make for it a Grate of Net-work; as thou shalt upon the Net four Rings of Brass, on the four Ends of it.

5. And shalt put it under the Compass of the Altar below, so that the Net may be to the middle of the Altar.

6. Thou shalt further make Poles to the Altar, which shall be of Shittim-wood; and cover them with Brass.

7. Then the Poles of it shall be put into the Rings, and they shall be upon the two Sides of the Altar when it is carried.

8. Hollow with Boards shalt thou make it: which they shall do just as it is shewn thee on the Mountain.

9. Afterwards thou shalt make the Court of the Tabernacle; at the south Side, to the right Hand; the Tapestry for the Court being of fine twisted Linen, a hundred Cubits long for one Side.

Cubits long, Ver. 8. covered the Tabernacle by reaching down the two Sides which took up twenty Cubits, and covering it at the Top with the rest.

Ver. 24. double] Heb. twins, that the Corners might be strong to hold the whole firm. How could the two Corner Boards that were at least nine Cubits apart be coupled together, and that to one Ring, as in com. Transf?

Ib. compleat together] according to the Heb. the double Board, I suppose, being held close together and to the Side, at the Top by a Ring, as it was at the Bottom by the Sockets, Ver. 25. and held fast to the other Boards by the Rails, as they were to one another, Ver. 27. The Result of my considering this for my own Satisfaction, and the curious Reader's, as I found none among the Commentators (who are often wise enough however to let alone what they do not understand) is, that the outer Part of those double Boards, being even or straight with the six end-ones, extended the Thickness of the side Boards farther than their inner Part, to receive the Ends of the side Boards, which would exactly fit or fill up such Places, and make the Corners both strong and square.

Ib. upon] See Chap. xxxvi. 29. as it could not be above, so neither would it have been made as ordered.

10. The Pillars of which shall be twenty, with their Sockets so many of Brass; the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings Silver.

11. So also for the Length at the north Side shall be Tapestry a hundred long: and its Pillars shall be twenty, with their Sockets so many of Brass; the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings Silver.

12. And for the Breadth of the Court at the west Side shall be fifty Cubits of Tapestry; their Pillars and Sockets each of them ten.

13. The Breadth of the Court likewise at the east Side, to the Sun-rising, shall be fifty Cubits.

14. But the Tapestry at a Side of the Gate shall be fifteen Cubits: their Pillars and Sockets each of them three.

15. And at the other Side the Tapestry shall be fifteen; their Pillars and Sockets each of them three.

16. For the Gate of the Court too shall be a Covering of twenty Cubits, of blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen, embroidered Work; their Pillars and Sockets each of them four.

17. All the Pillars of the Court round about shall be bound with Silver, their Hooks being Silver; and their Sockets Brass.

18. The Length of the Court shall be a hundred Cubits, and the Breadth by fifties, the Height being five Cubits, of fine twisted Linen; and their Sockets Brass.

19. Thus shall there be to all the Things of the Tabernacle, for all its Service: moreover all the Pins of it, and all those of the Court shall be Brass.

20. And thou shalt command the Israelites, that they should fetch thee pure Oil of Olives beaten for the Light; to make the Lamp burn up continually.

21. In the publick Tent, without the Hanging which is against the Testimony, shall Aaron and his Sons put it in order from Evening to Morning before the Lord. It shall be a lasting Ordinance for their Generations, from the Israelites.

AND do thou bring near to thee Aaron thy Brother, and his Sons with him, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, from among the Israelites, for him to execute the Priesthood to me.

2. Thou shalt moreover make him holy Garments, both for Glory and Comeliness.

3. So thou shalt speak to all those of a wise Heart, whom I have filled with the Spirit of Wisdom, that they should make Aaron's Garments to consecrate him, for him to execute the Priesthood to me.

4. These being the Garments that they shall make; a Breast-plate, Ephod, Cloak and chequered Coat, a Mitre and Bells; which they shall make holy ones for him and his Sons, that he may do so:

5. For which end they shall take Gold, with blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine Linen.

6. And they shall make the Ephod, with Gold, blue, and purple, scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen, artificial Work.

7. It shall have two Shoulders joined at its two Borders, and so it shall be joined together.

8. Nay the Girdle of his Ephod which is upon it, shall be like its Work, of the same, Gold, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen.

9. And taking two Onyx-stones, thou shalt engrave upon them the Names of the Sons of Israel.

10. Six of their Names shall be upon one Stone, and the six that are left upon the other, according to their Births.

11. With the Work of an Artificer of Stone, the Engravings of a Seal, shalt thou engrave the two Stones with the Names of the Sons of Israel; making them inclosed about with Sockets of Gold.

12. And shalt put them upon the Shoulders of the Ephod, to be Stones of Memorial for the Israelites; that Aaron may bear their Names before the Lord, upon his two Shoulders, for a Memorial.

Ver. 19. to all] for so the Heb. is; and is not the Assertion here of Translations in general obviously untrue, when even the Vessels in, and so of, the Tabernacle, were not Brass? see Chap. xxvi. 1, 35. with xxv. 23, 29, 31, 38, 39. & xxxix. 36, 37.

Ver. 2. Garments] of which I may be sparing, as Patrick has bestowed above a Dozen Pages of Commentary in Folio, on this Chapter of the Priests Dress. There are six of them named, Ver. 4. besides the Droppers, Ver. 42. and Plate of Gold, Ver. 36. if the latter (as it is counted) was a Garment, and a Bonnet, Ver. 40. may be reckoned another.

Ver. 4. which] not and, as if they were other Garments.

Ib. Breast-plate] Tynd. and the Bish. call it breastlap.

Ib. Cloak] and this tunicle.

Ver. 7. It shall have] Heb. There shall be to it, and Shoulders has no thereof.

Ver. 12. Memorial for] being a Memorial for the Israelites to the Lord, when the high Priest went into the holy Place, Ver. 29. where it could not be a Memorial unto them, since they were not admitted there.

13. Besides thou shalt make Sockets of Gold;

14. And make two Chains of pure Gold of equal Length, twisted Work, putting them twisted into the Sockets.

15. And thou shalt make a Breast-plate of Judgment of artificial Work, which thou shalt do according to the Work of the Ephod; with Gold, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen.

16. It shall be square, being doubled; a Span the Length of it, and so much its Breadth.

17. Thou shalt set in it also a Setting of four Rows of Stone: the Row that is first shall be a Ruby, a Topaz, and a Carbuncle;

18. And the second an Emerald, a Sapphire, and a Diamond;

19. As likewise the third a Ligure, an Agate, and an Amethyst;

20. And the fourth a Beryl, and an Onyx, and a Jasper: they shall be with Sockets made of Gold in their Settings.

21. These twelve Stones shall be with the Names in particular of the Sons of Israel; being with the Engravings of a Seal, each with its Name, according to the twelve Tribes.

22. And having made upon the Breast-plate the Chains of equal Length, twisted Work, of pure Gold;

23. Thou shalt also make there two Rings of Gold, and put these upon the two Ends of the Breast-plate;

24. Putting the two twisted Chains of Gold into those Rings, at the Ends of it;

25. As thou didst the two Ends of those Chains into the two Sockets; which thou shalt put upon the Shoulders of the Ephod, towards the Face of it.

26. Moreover thou shalt make two Rings of Gold, and put them on the two Ends of the Breast-plate, on the Edge of it which is at the inside of the Ephod.

27. Thou shalt likewise make two Rings of Gold, and put them upon the two Sides of the Ephod, below over against its Face, by the joining of it, above the Girdle of the Ephod.

28. And they shall tie the Breast-plate by its Rings, to those of the Ephod, with a blue Lace, to be above the Girdle of that; as it shall not be lifted up from off the Ephod.

29. Aaron shall thus bear the Names of the Sons of Israel in the Breast-plate of Judgment upon his Heart, when he goes into the Holy Place, for a Memorial before the Lord continually.

30. On which Breast-plate thou shalt put Urim and Thummim, that they may be upon Aaron's Heart when he goes in before the Lord: so he shall bear the Judgment of the Israelites upon his Heart before the Lord continually.

31. Thou shalt further make a Cloak to the Ephod wholly blue.

32. At the Top of which, in the midst of it, shall be a Hole; that shall have a Hem round about of woven Work, there being to it like the Hole of a Habergeon, that it may not be torn.

33. And upon its Skirts round about, shalt thou make Pomegranates of blue, purple and scarlet Thread; as also Bells of Gold in the midst of them round about.

Ver. 13. Sockets] Tynd. sockets, Gen. bosses.

Ver. 14. of equal Length] The com. Transf. has it at the ends, but of what? The Forepart of the Shoulders of the Ephod, where those Chains were put, Ver. 25. was but one End of it, nor properly that. Besides if the Chains were made there, how were they put or fastened afterwards, as follows? Jun. and Trem. render it aquabiles, equal; as also Buxt. explains this, and that at the 22d Verse.

Ib. twisted] Tynd. lynke.

Ib. into the Sockets] which were made hollow, or with a Cavity, as appears by Ver. 11. to hold the Ends of the Chains, Ver. 25.

Ver. 17. Ruby] It is plain this Stone was of a red Colour by the Heb. Root of the Word, which a Ruby indisputably was; so Jun. and Trem. have Pyropus: whereas according to Robert Ainsworth, in his late excellent Dictionary, a Sardius was black, though rather by Pliny's Account of some other Colour, Nat. Hist. L. xxxvii. 6.

Ib. Topaz] which Pliny at the Beg. of Lib. xxxvii. 8. says is of a peculiar green, and accordingly the Chald. Interpreter renders it [p] denoting the Stone to be green.

Ib. Carbuncle] being like Lightning, as appears by the Noun so signifying which this is derived from, and as a glittering Carbuncle is; therefore seems to be ill rendered an Emerald by divers, which is green, and would unsuitably make two of the same Colour together.

Ver. 18. Emerald] As Onkelos translates it in the Chald.

VOL. I.

Targum, viz. [p] and though taken by several for a Carbuncle, has not such a Claim to it as the foregoing.

Ib. Sapphire] from the Heb. Word sappir; in Colour blue, Pliny, Lib. xxxvii. 9.

Ib. Diamond] by its Hardness, which the Name in Heb. denotes.

Ver. 19. Ligure] after the Greek and Vulg. Lat. Translations; called as it seems by Pliny, L. xxxvii. 9. Cyanos, as it is likewise rendered by Jun. and Trem. from its having a light blue or sky Colour.

Ib. Agate] of various Colours interspersed, Pliny, Lib. xxxvii. 10.

Ib. Amethyst] with a Sort of purple Colour, almost like red Wine, Pliny, ib. 9.

Ver. 20. Beryl] the Colour a faint green, like Seawater, Pliny, ib. 5.

Ib. Onyx] partly white, Pliny, ib. 6.

Ib. Jasper] of different Colours, according to what Place it came from, Pliny, ib. 9.

Ver. 22. having made] as before in Ver. 14. which is related to be done in the Words here, Ch. xxxix. 15, &c.

Ver. 23. Ends] the upper Corners, as the other two Rings were on the lower Corners, Ver. 26.

Ver. 25. didst] as at Ver. 14. the not observing which, may make Confusion.

Ver. 27, 28. Girdle] Gen. bordered gird.

Ver. 32. Habergeon] or Coat of Mail. Bish. parlet.

34. A golden Bell and a Pomegranate, a golden Bell and a Pomegranate, shall there be upon the Skirts of the Cloak round about.

35. It shall then be upon Aaron to minister with; that his Sound may be heard when he comes into the Holy Place before the Lord, and when he goes out, that he may not die.

36. And thou shalt make a Plate of pure Gold; and engrave upon it with the Engravings of a Seal, Holiness to the Lord.

37. Thou shalt also put it upon a blue Lace, and it shall be upon the Mitre; being towards the Face of it.

38. Thus shall it be upon Aaron's Forehead, that he may bear the Iniquity of the consecrated Things, which the Israelites consecrate for all such Gifts of theirs; nay shall be upon his Forehead continually, for Favour for them before the Lord.

39. And thou shalt chequer a Coat of fine Linen, and make a Mitre of the same, as thou shalt likewise a Belt of embroidered Work.

40. For Aaron's Sons too shalt thou make Coats, and make for them Belts; as thou also shalt Caps, both for Glory and Comeliness.

41. With which thou shalt cloath Aaron thy Brother, and his Sons with him; and shalt anoint them, fill their Hands, and consecrate them, that they may execute the Priesthood to me.

42. And shalt make them linen Drawers to cover the Flesh of Nakedness; from the Loins to the Thighs shall they be.

43. Which shall be upon Aaron, and his Sons, when they go into the publick Tent, or when they go nigh the Altar to minister in the Holy Place, that they may not bear Iniquity, and die. It shall be a lasting Ordinance to him, and to his Offspring after him.

C H A P. XXIX.

NOW this is the Thing which thou shalt do to them, to sanctify them, that they may execute the Priesthood to me: take one young Bullock of the Herd, and two perfect Rams;

2 As also unleavened Loaves, and unleavened Cakes tempered with Oil, and unleavened Biscuits washed over with Oil; making them with the fine Flour of Wheat.

3. Which thou shalt put into a Basket, and bring them near in it, with the Bullock, and the two Rams.

4. Aaron and his Sons shalt thou also bring near to the Door of the publick Tent, and wash them with Water.

5. When thou shalt take the Garments, and cloath Aaron with the Coat, the Cloak of the Ephod, the Ephod and Breast-plate; and place the Ephod on him with the Girdle of it.

6. And shalt set the Mitre upon his Head, putting the holy Crown upon that.

7. Moreover thou shalt take Oil for anointing, and pour upon his Head, and anoint him.

8. So having brought his Sons near, thou shalt cloath them with the Coats.

9. And shalt gird with the Belts him and them, tying the Caps on them, and they shall have the Priesthood for a lasting Ordinance; nay thou shalt fill his Hand, with those of his Sons.

10. Besides thou shalt bring near a Bullock before the publick Tent, and Aaron with his Sons shall press their Hands upon the Head of it.

11. And that shalt thou kill before the Lord, at the Door of the publick Tent.

12. Then shalt thou take some of his Blood, and put upon the Horns of the Altar with thy Finger; pouring out all of it at the Bottom of the Altar.

13. And shalt take all the Fat that covers the Entrails, the Caul upon the Liver, and the two Kidneys, with the Fat which is upon them, and burn on the Altar.

14. But the Bullock's Flesh, its Skin, and Dung shalt thou burn with Fire without the Camp: which shall be a Sin-offering.

15. Thou shalt take likewise one Ram,

Chald. Arab. and Vulg. Versions*: an Example this of a Reading entirely different from the printed Hebrew; but I say in the Versions not different at all, the Heb. Noun signifying at the Door, as well as simply the Door, and that frequently, as Ver. 32, 42. Chap. xxxiii. 8, 9, 10. & xxxviii. 8. & xl. 29. and Aaron with his Sons shall press their Hands upon his Head.

16. This shalt thou kill; and taking his Blood, shalt sprinkle upon the Altar round about.

17. Afterwards thou shalt divide the Ram in his Pieces, washing his Entrails and Legs, which thou shalt put upon his Pieces and Head.

18. And thou shalt burn the whole Ram on the Altar, which shall be a Burnt-offering to the Lord; being a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to him.

19. Thou shalt take too the other Ram, and Aaron with his Sons shall press their Hands upon his Head.

20. This shalt thou kill, and taking some of his Blood, shalt put upon the Tip of Aaron's right Ear, and the Tips of those of his Sons, as also upon the Thumbs of their right Hands, and the great Toes of their right Feet; then shalt sprinkle the Blood upon the Altar round about.

21. Next thou shalt take some of that which is upon the Altar, and of the Oil for anointing, and sprinkle upon Aaron, his Garments, Sons, and their Garments with him; thus shall he be consecrated, with his Garments, Sons, and their Garments together.

22. Thou shalt further take of the Ram the Fat, and Rump, with the Fat that covers the Entrails, and the Caul of the Liver, the two Kidneys, the Fat which is upon them, and the right Shoulder; for it is the Ram of filling:

23. And one Loaf of Bread, one Cake of Bread with Oil, and one Biscuit, out of the Basket of unleavened Cakes that is before the Lord.

24. All which putting upon Aaron's Hands, and the Hands of his Sons, thou shalt wave them for a Waved-offering before the Lord.

25. Again thou shalt take them from their Hands, and burn at the Altar besides the Burnt-offering; which shall be for a pleasant Smell before the Lord, a Sacrifice by Fire to him.

26. And thou shalt take the Breast of the Ram of filling that is for Aaron, and wave it for a Waved-offering before the Lord; which shall be a Part for thee.

27. Thus shalt thou sanctify the Breast of the Waved-offering, with the Shoulder of the Lifted-offering, which is waved, and which is lifted up; of the Ram of filling, of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his Sons.

28. Whose it shall be for a lasting Ordinance, from the Israelites, for it is a Lifted-offering; which it shall be from the Israelites, from the Sacrifices of their Peace-offerings, their Lifted-offering to the Lord.

29. The Garments of Holiness moreover which are Aaron's, shall be his Sons after him, to be anointed in them, and their Hands to be filled in them.

30. He who is Priest in his room of his Sons, shall be clothed with them the seven Days in which he goes into the publick Tent, to minister in the Holy Place.

31. And thou shalt take the Ram of filling, and boil his Flesh in the Holy Place.

32. Then shall Aaron and his Sons eat the Flesh of him, and the Bread which is in the Basket, at the Door of the publick Tent.

33. They shall even eat those Things that atonement was made with, to fill their Hands, to consecrate them; which a Stranger shall not eat, because they are holy.

34. And if there be left of the Flesh of filling, or of the Bread till the Morning, thou shalt burn what is left with Fire; it shall not be eat, because it is holy.

35. Now thus shalt thou do to Aaron, and his Sons, according to all that I command thee: thou shalt fill their Hands seven Days.

36. And shalt offer a Bullock of Sin-offering daily for Atonements, cleansing the Altar when thou makest atonement for it; as also anoint it, to consecrate it.

37. Seven Days shalt thou make atonement for the Altar, and consecrate it; and the Altar shall be very holy, all that touches it shall be so.

38. And this is what thou shalt offer upon the Altar, two Lambs in their first Year each Day continually.

39. One Lamb thou shalt offer in the Morning, and shalt the other within the Evening.

40. And there shall be the tenth Part of an Ephah of fine Flour, tempered with beaten Oil the fourth Part of a Hin, and a Drink-offering the fourth Part of a Hin of Wine, to one Lamb.

Ver. 40. of an Ephah] as appears by Num. xxviii. 5.

41. Thou shalt also offer the other Lamb within the Evening; doing to it according both to the Oblation, and its Drink-offering, of the Morning, for a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

42. It shall be a Burnt-offering continually for your Generations, at the Door of the publick Tent before the Lord; where I will meet you, to speak to thee there.

43. Even there will I meet with the Israelites, and it shall be sanctified by my Glory.

44. And I will sanctify the publick Tent, with the Altar; as I will likewise Aaron and his Sons, to execute the Priesthood to me.

45. Nay I will dwell amongst the Israelites, and will be a God to them.

46. So they shall know that I am the Lord their God, who brought them out of the Country of Egypt, to dwell amongst them; who am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXX.

AND thou shalt make an Altar of Incense of Perfuming, which thou shalt do with Shittim-wood.

2. A Cubit shall be the Length of it, and so much its Breadth, being square, and two Cubits the Height of it: its Horns shall be of the same.

3. This thou shalt cover with pure Gold, its Top, Sides round about, and Horns; making to it a Border of Gold round about.

4. Two Rings of Gold shalt thou also make to it, below the Border of it, which thou shalt do against the two Ribs of it, upon its two Sides; and they shall be Places for the Poles, to carry it with them.

5. And thou shalt make the Poles of Shittim-wood, covering them with Gold.

6. Thou shalt then put it before the Hanging, which is by the Ark of the Testimony, before the Atonement-covering, that is upon the Testimony, where I shall meet with thee.

7. And Aaron shall burn Incense of Odours upon it; which he shall do Morning by Morning, when he puts the Lamps in good order.

8. When he likewise lights up the Lamps within the Evening, he shall do the same: which shall be an Incense continually before the Lord, in your Generations.

9. You shall not offer up strange Incense on it, Burnt-offering, or Oblation; nor shall you pour out a Drink-offering upon it.

10. And Aaron shall make atonement upon the Horns of it once in a Year: which he shall do with the Blood of the Sin-offering of Atonements, in your Generations; it shall be very holy to the Lord.

11. The Lord spoke further to Moses as follows:

12. When thou takest the Sum of the Israelites in numbering them, they shall then each one give a Ransom for his Soul to the Lord; that there may be no Plague among them, at doing it.

13. This shall they give every one that passes of those who are numbered, half a Shekel by the holy Shekel: twenty Gerahs being a Shekel, half a Shekel shall be the Offering to the Lord.

14. Every one that passes of those who are numbered, from their twentieth Year upward, shall give an Offering to the Lord.

15. The Rich shall not exceed, nor the Poor abate of half a Shekel, in giving the Offering to the Lord, to make atonement for your Souls.

16. And thou shalt take the Money of Atonements from the Israelites, and give it for the Service of the publick Tent; that it

Ver. 6. before] According to Josephus this Altar stood between the Candlestick and Table, mentioned on Ch. xxv. 31. Antiq. Lib. iii. 6. which seems to agree both with before here, and with Chap. xxvi. 35.

Ver. 12. When] The Times seem to be left to God's own farther Direction, Num. i. 2, 3. & xxvi. 2. or when the Collection should be wanted, Ver. 16. That however mentioned Neb. x. 32. does not seem a Collection made from this Precept; though Patrick Bishop of Ely, by a strange Mistake supposes, in his Commentary on the 16th Ver. of this Chap. that they charged themselves with the third Part of a Shekel, for the Uses mentioned here, because the Expences were then so great, that half a Shekel was not sufficient to maintain them: for Nehemiah's Collection was made by a new Decree; and it is not credible, that he and the rest, who were then so strict and conscientious, would have altered this Precept, nor do we find the People were then numbered for it. Therefore that being yearly, does not shew this to be so; besides what Occasion had David to number the People as he did, if it had been done every Year? See the Annot. of Jun. and Trem.

may be a Memorial for them before the Lord, to make atonement for your Souls.

17. Again the Lord spoke thus to Moses:

18. Thou shalt make a Washing-vessel too, and its Base, both of Brass, to wash with; and putting it between the publick Tent and the Altar, shalt put in Water there:

19. That Aaron and his Sons may wash out of it, their Hands and Feet.

20. When they go into the publick Tent, they shall wash with Water, that they may not die; or when they come near the Altar to minister, to burn Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

21. They shall even wash their Hands and Feet, that they may not die: and it shall be to him and his Offspring, a lasting Ordinance in their Generations.

22. In the next place the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

23. Do thou also take thee principal Spices, fine Myrrh five hundred Shekels, and fragrant Cinnamon half as much as that, with fragrant Cane the same;

24. As likewise Cassia five hundred, by the holy Shekel, and Oil of Olives a Hin.

25. This shalt thou make an Oil of holy anointing, an Ointment made by the Work of the Apothecary; which shall be such an Oil.

26. With which thou shalt anoint the publick Tent, and the Ark of the Testimony,

27. And the Table with all its Instruments, and the Candlestick with its Instruments, and the Altar of Incense,

28. And the Altar of Burnt-offering with all its Instruments, and the Washing-vessel with its Base.

29. Thus shalt thou consecrate them, and they shall be very holy: all that touches them shall be holy.

30. Aaron and his Sons likewise shalt thou anoint; whereby thou shalt consecrate them, to execute the Priesthood to me.

31. And thou shalt speak thus to the Israelites; This shall be an Oil of holy anointing to me, in your Generations.

32. Upon the Flesh of Man it shall not anoint, nor shall you make the like of it in its Quantities: it being holy, let it be holy to you.

33. The Man who makes Ointment like it, or who puts any of it upon a Stranger, shall be cut off from his People.

34. Moreover the Lord said to Moses; Take thee Staete, Onyx, and Galbanum, these Odours, with pure Frankincense; each being by it self.

35. And thou shalt make it a Perfume, an Ointment by the Work of the Apothecary; seasoned, pure, holy.

36. Then shalt thou beat some of it small by pounding, and put before the Testimony, in the publick Tent, where I shall meet with thee: it shall be very holy to you.

37. And the Perfume which thou shalt make, shall you not make for your selves in the Quantities of it: it shall be holy to thee for the Lord.

38. The Man who makes the like of it, to smell to it, shall be cut off from his People.

CHAP. XXXI.

BESIDES the Lord spoke as follows to Moses:

2. See, I have called by Name, Bezaleel the Son of Uri, the Son of Hur, of the Tribe of Judah.

3. And have filled him with the Spirit of God, in Wisdom, Understanding, Knowledge and all Work;

4. To contrive Devices, to make in Gold; Silver and Brass;

5. And in artificial Work of Stone for setting, and in that of Wood, to make in all Work.

6. And I behold have given with him, Aholiab the Son of Ahisamach, of the Tribe of Dan; and in the Minds of all those of a wise Heart have I put Wisdom, that they may make all which I have commanded thee;

7. The publick Tent, the Ark of the Testimony, and the Atonement-covering which shall be upon it, with all the Instruments of the Tent,

8. And the Table with its Instruments, and the pure Candlestick with all its Instruments, and the Altar of Incense,

9. And the Altar of Burnt-offering with all its Instruments, and the Washing-vessel with the Base of it,

10. The Cloths too of Ministry, and the holy Garments for Aaron the Priest, with his Sons Garments, to execute the Priesthood,

11. And the Oil for anointing, and the Incense of Odours for the Holy Place: according to all that I command thee shall they do.

12. The Lord continued speaking to Moses as follows:

13. Do thou also speak thus to the Israelites; Yet you shall keep my Sabbaths: for it shall be a Sign between me and you in your Generations, that you may know that I the Lord sanctify you.

14. And you shall keep the Sabbath, because it is holy to you: he that profanes it shall be quite put to death, for every Person who does Work on it shall be cut off from among his People.

15. Six Days shall Work be done, but on the seventh Day shall be the holy Sabbath of Rest to the Lord; every one who does Work on the Sabbath Day shall be quite put to death.

16. Therefore the Israelites shall keep the Sabbath, by making it a lasting Covenant in their Generations.

17. It shall be a Sign between me and the Israelites for ever: for in six Days the Lord made the Heaven and Earth, and on the seventh Day he rested, and was refreshed.

Ver. 4. made a Mould] This, I flatter my self, will have the very Blush of Truth, and strike convincingly at first Sight, making Arguments for it unnecessary. It may however be proper to say Something of another Way or two of translating it: as to the common one in our Bible, the after is made but from 1 the frequent Heb. for and; nor is there any Shadow of Proof that the Melting or Casting was done first, but only to make it suit with that Notion of fashioning it afterwards, which must be needless, or rather absurd, to do what was done already; unless the Ear-rings were only melted into a Lump or some oblong Piece; yet that it was made then into a Calf with a graving Tool is unaccountable, and this too done the same Day, Ver. 5, 6. Stackhouse, following the Author of An Essay for a new Translation (the worst Pretender to it that I ever met with) has it tied in a Bag; but has not told us what the Ear-rings were to be tied up for, when they were immediately used, or why the Scripture should mention such a trifling Thing; nor Patrick, who was of the same Mind.

Ib. Calf] That the Israelites learned Idolatry in Egypt, Yosh. xxiv. 14. Ezek. xxiii. 3, 8, 37. Lev. xvii. 7. shew, and this in particular, Acts vii. 39, 40, 41. as the Form of their Idol does; because the Egyptians worshipped an Ox, which they called Apis or Mnevis. Hear Pamponius Mela, Lib. i. 9. *Apis populum omnium numen est; bos niger, certis maculis insignis, & cauda linguaue dissimilis aliorum: raro nascitur, nec coitu pecoris, ut ajunt, sed divinitus & caelesti igne conceptus. 18. And he gave Moses, when he had made an end of speaking to him on Mount Sinai, two Tables of Testimony, Tables of Stone written with the Finger of God.

C H A P. XXXII.

BUT when the People saw that Moses delayed to come down from the Mountain, they gathered together against Aaron, and said to him, Get ready, make us a god that may go before us, for as to this Man Moses who brought us up from the Country of Egypt, we know not what has befallen him.

2. At this he answered them, Break off the golden Ear-rings which are in the Ears of your Wives, Sons and Daughters, and bring to me.

3. Accordingly all the People broke off the golden Ear-rings which were in their Ears, and brought to Aaron.

4. Which he receiving of them, made a Mould for it with an engraving Instrument, and made it a molten Calf; and they said, This is thy god, O Israel, who brought thee up from the Country of Egypt.

As Plutarch relates it, De Iside, they believed, τὰν ἐν ἑαυτοῖς Οὐρανὸν ἔχοντα ὡς ἑνὶ αὐτῷ μέρει, the Soul of Osiris (of whom see Gen. x. 13.) when he was dead passed into this Creature: Diodorus says the like of them, Lib. i. 6. So Strabo, Lib. xvii. Ὁ Βῆς Ἀπὶς, ὃ ἐστὶν ὁ αὐτὸς Οὐρανός, the Ox Apis, which is the same as Osiris. To what these Heathen Writers say, may be adjoined that of Philo the Jew, in his Life of Moses, Lib. iii. τὰν ἐν ἑαυτοῖς τὰν οὐρανὸν ἔχοντα, ἡμεῖς ἱστούμεν, they (the Israelites) danced to the golden Ox or Calf that was made, in Imitation of the Egyptian Superstition.

Cambyfes, the Son of Cyrus, King of Persia, having conquered Egypt, pursued the War against Ethiopia; but great Part of his Army being buried in the Sands, and the rest ready to be starved, upon his coming back to Memphis, he found great Rejoicing for a new Apis, which the Egyptians had then got, after the Death of a former. Cambyfes would not be persuaded but that they rejoiced for his Miscarriage, till he had the Ox brought before him, when at the Indignation of such a god, he stabbed him in the Thigh with his Dagger, of which he died, being not god enough to cure himself. The King however dying afterwards by a Wound in his own Thigh, it is no wonder that the Egyptians reckoned it an especial Judgment from Heaven upon him; but it is something strange that such a one as Prideaux should remark on it, perchance they were not much out in it, going on to plead for it, Connest. An. 524, 522. whereas it is inconsistent with Scripture, Reason and common Sense, that the true God should punish the Contempt of a false one, and slay a Man for an Ox. What Affront was given (to use Patrick's Words) to the false gods and heathen Religion by Elijah and other Prophets, 1 Kings xviii. 27, &c.

Ib. This is thy god] as Neb. ix. 18. it being one Calf: so I since find our excellent Tyndal translates it, and so Patrick on Ecdes. xii. 1. says it should be translated; see 1 Sam. xxviii. 13. 2 Chron. xxiv. 22.

5. This

5. This he seeing, built an Altar before it; he also made Proclamation, To Morrow is a Feast to the Lord.

6. So they rose early the next Day, and offered up Burnt-offerings, and brought Peace-offerings; when they sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

7. Whereupon the Lord said to Moses; Go descend, for thy People are corrupted, whom thou hast brought up from the Country of Egypt.

8. They are departed quickly from the Way which I commanded them, have made them a molten Calf; to which they bow down, and sacrifice, saying, This is thy god, O Israel, who brought thee up from the Country of Egypt.

9. The Lord also added to him, I have seen plainly that this People are of a stiff Neck.

10. Therefore now let me alone, that I may be so angry with them, as to consume them; then will I make thee be a great Nation.

11. But Moses made supplication before the Lord his God as follows: Why, O Lord, art thou angry with thy People, whom thou hast brought out of the Country of Egypt, with great Might, and a strong Hand?

12. Why should the Egyptians speak thus, He had them out for Harm, to kill them on the Mountains, and to consume them from the Surface of the Ground? Return from thy fervent Anger, and be sorry for the Harm against thy People.

13. Remember Abraham, Isaac and Israel, thy Servants, to whom thou swarest by thy self, and saidst to them, I will multiply your Offspring, to be like the Stars of Heaven; and all this Country which I have spoken of will I give them, and they shall possess for ever.

14. And the Lord was sorry for the Harm which he spoke of doing to his People.

15. Then Moses turned about, and went down from the Mountain, with the two Tables of the Testimony in his Hands; they being written on both their Sides, which they were not only on one but the other.

16. And the Tables were the Work of God, as the Writing was that of him, engraved upon them.

17. Now when Joshua heard the Noise of the People in their shouting; he said to Moses, There is a Noise of War in the Camp.

18. Who answered, It is neither a Noise of crying out for Strength, nor that for Weakness; it is a Noise of Singing I hear.

19. And as they got near the Camp, he saw the Calf, and the Dancing; incensed at which, Moses threw the Tables out of his Hands, and broke them under the Mountain.

20. Nay he took the Calf that they had made, and not only burnt in the Fire, but ground till it was small; and then strewing it atop of the Water, gave the Israelites to drink.

21. Moreover he asked Aaron, What did this People do to thee, that thou hast brought great Sin upon them?

22. To which he answered; Let not my Lord be angry: thou knowest that the People will be in Something bad.

23. Therefore they said to me, Make us a god that may go before us; for as to this Man Moses who brought us up from the Country of Egypt, we know not what has befallen him.

24. Upon this I said to them, Whoever has Gold, let them break it off, and give to me; then I cast it into the Fire, and there came out this Calf.

25. And when Moses saw that the People were stript, as they were by Aaron, to their Shame, among such as might rise up against them;

26. He stood at the Gate of the Camp, and said, Whoever is for the Lord, come to me: accordingly there gathered to him all the Levites.

from Gate to Gate in the Camp, and kill each his Brother, Friend and Neighbour.

28. And the Levites did according to his Order; and there fell of the People that Day about three thousand Men.

29. For Moses commanded, Fill your Hands to Day for the Lord, for let each be against his Son and Brother; that he may bestow a Blessing upon you to Day.

30. And the next Day he said to the People, You have committed a great Sin; now therefore I will go up to the Lord, perhaps I shall make atonement for your Sin.

31. Accordingly he returns to the Lord, and says, I beseech thee, this People having committed a great Sin, making them a god of Gold;

32. That now if thou wilt forgive their Sin, do; or if not, blot me, I pray, out of thy Book which thou hast written.

33. And the Lord said to Moses; Whosoever sins against me, him will I blot out of my Book.

34. Yet now go, lead the People whither I told thee, behold my Angel shall go before thee; but at the Time of my punishing, I will punish them for their Sin.

35. Thus the Lord smote the People, because they made the Calf which Aaron made up.

C H A P. XXXIII.

THE Lord said further to Moses; Go ascend from hence, with the People whom thou hast brought up from the Country of Egypt, to that of which I swore thus to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, I will give it to thy Offspring;

2. And I will send an Angel before you, and drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, and Hittites, with the Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites:

3. To a Country flowing with Milk and Honey; for I will not go up among you, because you are a People of a stiff Neck, lest I should consume you in the Way.

4. And when the People heard this ill Account, they mourned; and did not any one put his Ornaments upon him.

5. For the Lord bade Moses say to the Israelites, You are a People of a stiff Neck; in one Moment, should I come up among you, I shall consume you: therefore now take off your Ornaments from you, that I may know what I shall do for you.

6. So the Israelites stript themselves of their Ornaments by Mount Horeb.

7. And Moses taking a Tent, pitched it without the Camp, far off from it, which he called the publick Tent; and every one who sought the Lord, went forth to it thither.

8. When Moses also went forth to the Tent, all the People got ready, and stood each at the Door of his own Tent; and looked after him till he was gone into that.

9. Whither when he was gone in, the Pillar of the Cloud came down, and stood at the Door of the Tent: thus he spoke with Moses.

10. Therefore all the People seeing the Pillar of the Cloud stand at the Door of the Tent, they all addressed themselves, and bowed down at their respective Tent-doors.

11. And the Lord spoke to Moses Face to Face, as a Man speaks to his Friend; who returned to the Camp, but his Waiting-man Joshua the Son of Nun the Servant, did not depart from within the Tent.

15. And he replied to him, If thy Presence do not go, have us not up from hence.

16. For by what is it now known, that I, and thy People, are in Favour with thee? Is it not by thy going with us? Thus shall I and they be distinguished from all People who are upon the Surface of the Earth.

17. With that the Lord said to Moses, I will also do this Thing which thou hast spoken: for thou art in Favour with me, and I know thee by Name.

18. He then intreated, Shew me, I beseech thee, thy Glory.

3. But no Man shall come up with thee, nay there shall not so much as a Man be seen on all the Mountain; nor shall even the Flocks and Herds feed before the same.

4. Accordingly when he had carved out two Tables of Stone like the former, Moses rose early in the Morning, and went up to Mount Sinai, as the Lord commanded him; taking those Tables in his Hand.

5. And the Lord came down in a Cloud, and stood with him there, proclaiming the Name of the Lord.

15. Lest thou shouldest make a Treaty with the Inhabitants of the Country, and when they go a whoring after their gods, and sacrifice to them, one should invite thee, and thou eat of his Sacrifice;

16. And thou shouldest take of his Daughters for thy Sons, and his Daughters going a whoring after their gods, should make thy Sons do the same.

17. Thou shalt make thee no molten gods.

18. The Feast of unleavened Cakes shalt thou keep, eating those which I commanded thee seven Days, at the appointed Time of the Month Abib; because in that Month thou camest out of Egypt.

19. All that opens the Womb shall be mine, even every one of thy Cattle that is brought forth a Male, which opens of Oxen and Sheep.

20. But he that opens of an Ass, thou shalt redeem with a Lamb, and if thou dost not redeem, shalt cut off his Head: every First-born of thy Sons shalt thou redeem, and none shall appear in my Presence empty.

21. Six Days shalt thou work, and on the seventh Day shalt rest: which thou shalt both in Ploughing-time and Harvest.

22. Thou shalt likewise keep thee the Feast of Weeks, of the First-fruits of Wheat-harvest, and that of gathering at the Revolution of the Year.

23. Three times in a Year, shall all thy Males appear in the Presence of the Sovereign Lord, the God of Israel.

24. For I will expel the Nations from thy Face, and make thy Bounds large: and no Man shall desire thy Country, when thou goest up to appear in the Presence of the Lord thy God, at those Times.

25. Thou shalt not have the Blood of my Sacrifice killed with leavened Bread, nor shall the Sacrifice of the Feast of the Passover abide all Night till the Morning.

26. The Beginning of the First-fruits of thy Ground shalt thou bring to the House of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not boil a Kid in the Milk of his Dam.

27. Next the Lord said to Moses, Write these Words: for according to them I make a Covenant with thee and Israel.

28. And he was there with the Lord forty Days and forty Nights, neither eating nor drinking any Thing; who wrote upon the Tables the Words of the Covenant, the ten Commandments.

29. At last when Moses came down from Mount Sinai, the two Tables of the Testimony being in his Hand when he did, he knew not that the Skin of his Face shone by his speaking to him.

30. Whereas Aaron and all the Israelites saw plainly that it did, and were afraid of coming nigh him.

31. Therefore he called to them, and Aaron with all the Princes in the Assembly returned to him; and he spoke to them.

32. So after that all the Israelites went nigh, and he commanded them all which the Lord had spoken to him on Mount Sinai.

33. However till Moses made an end of speaking to them, he put a Veil upon his Face.

34. Yet when he went in before the Lord to speak to him, he put it away till he came out; and coming out, he spoke to the Israelites what he was commanded.

35. But as the Israelites saw that the Skin of his Face shined; he put the Veil upon his Face, till he went in to speak to him.

AND Moses gathered together all the Assembly of the Israelites, and said to them; These are the Things which the Lord has commanded that they should be done.

5. Take

5. Take of your selves an Offering for the Lord, which let every one who is liberal in his Heart bring to him; Gold, Silver, Brass,

8. Oil also for Light, and Spices both for anointing Oil, and Incense of Odours,

9. With Onyx-stones, and Stones to be set, as well for the Ephod as the Breast-plate.

10. Moreover let all who are of a wise Heart among you, come and make all that the Lord has commanded;

11. The Tabernacle, its Tent and Covering, Clasps and Boards, Rails, Pillars and Sockets,

12. The Ark and its Poles, the Atonement-covering, and the Veil of covering,

13. The Table and its Poles, with all its Instruments, and the Presence-bread,

14. As likewise the Candlestick for Light and its Instruments, Lamps, and the Oil for Light,

15. And the Altar of Incense, with its Poles, the Oil for anointing, the Incense of Odours, and the Covering of the Door at the Entrance of the Tabernacle,

20. Then all the Assembly of the Israelites went out from before Moses.

21. And they came, every Man whose Heart stirred him up, and every one whose Spirit moved him freely, bringing the Offering of the Lord for the Work of the publick Tent, for all the Service of it, and for the holy Garments.

22. They even came both Men and Women, every one who was of a liberal Heart, bringing Hooks, Ear-rings, Rings and Girdles, all Things of Gold, and every Man who waved a Waved-offering, it was of Gold to the Lord.

23. Every Man likewise with whom was found blue, purple and scarlet Thread, fine Linen, Goats Hair, Rams Skins dyed red, and Badgers Skins, brought them.

29. Every Man and Woman of the Israelites, whose Hearts moved them freely, to bring ought for any of the Work which the Lord had commanded to be done by the Ministry of Moses, brought a Free-offering to the Lord.

C H A P. XXXVI.

THEREFORE Bezaleel and Aholiab shall do it, with all Men who are of a wise Heart, in whom the Lord has put Wisdom and Understanding, to know how to do all the Work for the Service of the Holy Place, entirely as he has commanded.

2. So Moses called those two, and every Man who was of a wise Heart, in which the Lord had put Wisdom, every one whose Mind stirred him up to approach to the Work to do it.

3. And they took from before Moses all the Offering, which the Israelites brought for the Work of the Service of the Holy Place, to do it; who brought to him still Free-offerings Morning by Morning.

4. Whereupon all the wise Men, who did all the Work of the Holy Place, came, Man by Man from his Work which they were doing;

5. And spoke thus to Moses, The People bring more, than is sufficient for the Service of the Work, which the Lord has commanded to do.

6. Moses then commanded, and they made the following Proclamation through the Camp, Let neither Man nor Woman do any more Work for the Offering of the Holy Place: thus the People were restrained from bringing.

7. The Things being not only sufficient for them, to do all the Work, but there were some left.

8. And all those of a wise Heart, among them who did the Work of the Tabernacle, made ten Curtains; which he made up with fine twisted Linen, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, with Cherubs of artificial Work.

9. The Length of a Curtain was eight and twenty Cubits, and four the Breadth of it; they all having one Measure.

10. And he joined five Curtains one to another, as he did the other five in the same Manner.

11. For which end he made blue Loops upon the Edge of one Curtain, at the Border in the joining; so he did in the utmost Edge of another there.

12. Fifty Loops made he on one Curtain, as he did so many on the Border of another, which was in the joining; the Loops taking hold of one another.

13. He made also fifty Clasps of Gold; and joined the Curtains one to another with them, so that it was one Tabernacle.

14. Nay he made Curtains of Goats Hair for a Tent over the Tabernacle; making eleven of them.

15. The Length of a Curtain was thirty Cubits, and four the Breadth of it; the eleven having one Measure.

16. Of these he joined together five by themselves, and six by themselves.

17. For this end he made fifty Loops upon the Edge of a Curtain which was uttermost at the joining, as he did so many upon that of another there.

18. And made fifty Clasps of Brass, to join the Tent together, to be one.

19. He moreover made a Covering to the Tent of Rams Skins dyed red, and another of Badgers Skins above.

20. And he made Boards to the Tabernacle, of Shittim-wood, standing up.

21. Ten Cubits was the Length of a Board, and a Cubit and a half the Breadth of one:

22. To which there were two Tenons, set like Steps one to another: so he made to all the Boards of the Tabernacle,

23. Of these Boards he made twenty on the south Side, to the right Hand.

24. He further made forty Sockets of Silver under them; a couple under each particular Board, for the two Tenons of it.

25. And for the other Side of the Tabernacle, that on the North, he made twenty Boards;

26. With their forty Sockets of Silver, a couple under each particular Board.

27. Moreover for the Sides of the Tabernacle westward, he made six Boards.

1b. one to another] that is one above the other, when the Boards stood up. This is finely varied from Ch. xxvi. 17. but the Preposition ל is the same in both, notwithstanding what the Eng. Reading affords.

Ver. 24. under] so that the Boards stood upon the Sockets, Ver. 20. which Sockets or Mortises might be made in a Plate of Silver, that went under the Boards, to hold them together there.

28. As he did two more for the Corners of the Tabernacle, at the two Sides.

29. These were double below, and compleat together on the Top of it, in one Ring: so did he to both of them, for the two Corners.

30. Thus were there eight Boards, and their Sockets of Silver sixteen; two Sockets under each Board.

31. And he made five Rails of Shittim-wood, for the Boards of one Side of the Tabernacle,

32. As likewise five for those of its other Side, and five more for the Boards of the Tabernacle, to the two Sides westward;

33. Making the middle Rail to pass at the midst of the Boards from End to End.

34. And the Boards he covered with Gold, and made their Rings of Gold Places for the Rails; which he covered with the same.

35. Besides he made a Hanging of blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; which he did of artificial Work of Cherubs.

36. To this he made four Pillars of Shittim-wood, and covered them with Gold, their Hooks being Gold; he also cast for them four Sockets of Silver.

37. He made a Covering too for the Door of the Tent, with blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; embroidered Work;

38. And the five Pillars of it, with their Hooks, and covered their Tops and Bindings with Gold: their five Sockets being Brass.

CHAP. XXXVII.

MOREOVER Bezaleel made the Ark of Shittim-wood: two Cubits and a half was its Length, a Cubit and a half its Breadth, and so much the Height of it.

2. Which he covered with pure Gold both on the inside and outside; and made to it a Border of Gold round about.

3. He also cast for it four Rings of Gold, on its four Corners; namely two Rings upon one Side of it, and two upon its other.

4. Besides he made Poles of Shittim-wood, and covered them with Gold.

5. These he put into the Rings, by the Sides of the Ark, to carry it.

6. He further made the Atonement-covering of pure Gold; two Cubits and a half its Length, and a Cubit and a half the Breadth of it.

7. As he did likewise two Cherubs of Gold; making them solid, at the two Ends of it.

8. One Cherub at one End, and another at the other; at the two Ends of it did he make them.

9. The Cherubs too did spread forth their Wings on high, covering it over with them, and their Faces were one towards another, which was towards the Atonement-covering.

10. He also made the Table of Shittim-wood; the Length of which was two Cubits, its Breadth one, and the Height of it a Cubit and a half.

11. This he covered with pure Gold, and made to it a Border of Gold round about;

12. As he did in like manner an inclosing of a Hand's-breadth, and a golden Border to that.

13. He moreover cast for it four Rings of Gold, and put them upon the four Corners which were to the four Feet of it.

14. The Rings were by the inclosing, Places for the Poles, to carry the Table.

15. These latter he made of Shittim-wood, and covered them with Gold, to carry the Table.

16. Next he made the Instruments that were upon the Table, its Plates, Spoons, Cups and Covers, that it was covered with, of pure Gold.

17. Besides he made the Candlestick of pure Gold, and that solid; its Shank and Branches, its Bowls, Balls, and Flowers, being of the same.

18. And six Branches came out of the Sides of it; three of them out of one Side of it, and three out of its other.

19. There were three Bowls made like Almonds, with a Ball and a Flower in one Branch, and three such, with the like in another; so was there to the six Branches that came out of the Candlestick.

20. And in it were four Bowls, made like Almonds, with its Balls and Flowers;

21. As also a Ball under two of its Branches, another under two more, and a third under the other twain; to the six Branches that came out of it.

22. Their Balls and Branches were of the same, all of it one solid Work of pure Gold.

23. And he made its seven Lamps, with its Snuffers and Snuff-dishes, of pure Gold.

24. Of a Talent of pure Gold he made it, including all its Things.

25. And he made the Altar of perfuming of Shittim-wood: a Cubit was the Length of it, and so much its Breadth, being square, and two Cubits the Height of it; its Horns were of the same.

26. This he covered with pure Gold, its Top, Sides round about, and Horns; making to it a Border of Gold round about.

27. Two Rings of Gold he also made to it, below the Border of it, against the two Ribs of it, upon its two Sides; for Places for the Poles, to carry it with them.

28. And he made the Poles of Shittim-wood, covering them with Gold.

29. He besides made the holy anointing Oil, and the pure Incense of Odours, the Work of an Apothecary.

C H A P. XXXVIII.

AND he made the Altar of Burnt-offering of Shittim-wood; the Length of it five Cubits, and so much its Breadth, being square, with three Cubits the Height of it.

2. Horns to it he also made upon the four Corners of it, which were of the same; and covered it with Brass.

3. As likewise he made all the Instruments of the Altar, the Pots, Shovels and Bowls, Forks and Censers; making all its Instruments of Brass.

4. Besides he made for the Altar a Grate of Net-work of Brass; under the Compass of it below, to the middle of it.

5. On the four Ends of which Grate he cast four Rings, to be Places for the Poles.

6. He further made Poles of Shittim-wood; and covered them with Brass.

7. Then he put the Poles into the Rings upon the Sides of the Altar, to carry it with them; hollow with Boards he made it.

8. He made too the Washing-vessel and its Base both of Brass, with the Looking-glasses of the Women assembling, who assembled at the Door of the publick Tent.

9. Afterwards he made the Court, at the south Side, to the right Hand; the Tapestry of the Court being of fine twisted Linen, a hundred Cubits.

10. Their Pillars were twenty, with their Sockets so many of Brass; the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings Silver.

11. At the north Side also it was a Hundred Cubits: their Pillars were twenty, with Sockets so many of Brass; the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings Silver.

12. And at the west Side were fifty Cubits of Tapestry; their Pillars and Sockets each of them ten; the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings Silver.

13. At the east Side likewise, to the Sun-rising, were fifty Cubits.

14. The Tapestry was fifteen Cubits at a Side of the Gate; their Pillars and Sockets each of them three.

15. And at the other Side, on this and that Hand of the Gate of the Court, the Tapestry was fifteen Cubits; their Pillars and Sockets each of them three.

16. All the Tapestry of the Court round about was of fine twisted Linen.

17. And the Sockets for the Pillars were Brass, the Hooks of the Pillars, and their Bindings, as likewise the Covering of their Tops, Silver; nay all the Pillars of the Court were bound with Silver.

18. The Covering of the Gate of the Court too was embroidered Work, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; twenty Cubits the Length, and the Height in the Breadth five Cubits, over against the Tapestry of the Court:

19. With their Pillars and Sockets of Brass each of them four; their Hooks, as likewise the Covering of their Tops, and their Bindings Silver.

20. Moreover all the Pins for the Tabernacle, and for the Court round about were Brass.

21. These are the Things which were counted of the Tabernacle, that of the Testimony, which was done at the Command of Moses; for the Service of the Levites, by the Ministry of Ithamar the Son of Aaron the Priest.

22. And Bezaleel the Son of Uri, the Son of Hur, of the Tribe of Judah, made all that the Lord commanded Moses:

23. With whom was Aholiab the Son of Ahisamach, of the Tribe of Dan, a Work-

Ver. 18. Height in the Breadth] the Height when it was put up being the Breadth of it.

man and Artificer; nay an Embroiderer in blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and in fine Linen.

24. All the Gold, namely that of the Offering, which was wrought for the Work, in the whole Work of the Holy Place, was twenty nine Talents, and seven hundred and thirty Shekels, by the Shekel of the Holy Place.

25. And the Silver of those who were numbered of the Assembly was a hundred Talents, and a thousand seven hundred seventy five Shekels, by the same Shekel.

26. There was a Bekah for a Head, being half a Shekel by the Shekel of the Holy Place; for every one that passed of those who were numbered, from their twentieth Year upward, for six hundred and three Thousand five hundred and fifty.

27. Now the hundred Talents of Silver were to cast the Sockets of the Holy Place, and those of the Hanging; there being a hundred Sockets for the hundred Talents, a Talent for a Socket.

28. And with the thousand seven hundred seventy five Shekels he made Hooks for the Pillars, as also covered their Tops, and bound them.

29. The Brass of the Offering further was seventy Talents, and two thousand four hundred Shekels.

30. With which he made the Sockets of the Door of the publick Tent, and the Altar of Brass, as likewise the Grate of Brass that was to it, and all the Instruments of the Altar;

31. And the Sockets of the Court round about, with those of the Gate of the Court, nay all the Pins of the Tabernacle, with all those of the Court round about.

C H A P. XXXIX.

OF the blue also, purple and scarlet Thread, they made Cloths of Ministry, to minister in the Holy Place; and they made the holy Garments which were for Aaron, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

2. And he made the Ephod, with Gold, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen.

3. Besides they beat Plates of Gold, and he cut off Threads, to work amongst the blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and the fine Linen, with artificial Work.

4. They made the Shoulders joined to it upon its two Borders, it being joined together.

5. Nay the Girdle of his Ephod which was upon it, was of the same, like its Work, Gold, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

6. And they wrought Onyx-stones inclosed about in Sockets of Gold, engraved with the Engravings of a Seal, with the Names of the Sons of Israel.

7. Which he put upon the Shoulders of the Ephod, to be Stones of Memorial for the Israelites; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

8. And he made the Breast-plate of artificial Work, according to the Work of the Ephod, with Gold, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, and fine twisted Linen.

9. It was square, they making it double; a Span the Length of it, and so much its Breadth, being doubled.

10. They set in it also four Rows of Stone: the Row that was the first was a Ruby, a Topaz, and a Carbuncle;

11. And the second an Emerald, a Sapphire, and a Diamond;

12. As likewise the third a Ligure, an Agate, and an Amethyst;

13. And the fourth a Beryl, an Onyx, and a Jasper: they were inclosed about with Sockets of Gold in their Settings.

14. These twelve Stones were with the Names in particular of the Sons of Israel; being with the Engravings of a Seal, each with its Name, according to the twelve Tribes.

15. And making upon the Breast-plate Chains of equal Length, twisted Work, of pure Gold:

16. They also made two Sockets of Gold, and two Rings of Gold, and put the latter upon the two Ends of the Breast-plate;

17. Putting the two twisted Chains of Gold into those Rings, upon the Ends of it;

Ver. 25. Talents] By comparing this Verse with the next, a Talent was three thousand Shekels.

Ver. 26. half a Shekel] as ordered before, Chap. xxx. 12—16.

Ver. 1. Cloths] These clearly appear to be the same with them in Ver. 41. Chap. xxxv. 19. & xxxi. 10. and are as clearly distinguished from the Priests Garments, nay are agreed by Interpreters to signify the Cloths mentioned Num. iv. 6, &c. and in Chap. xxxi. 10. yet Patrick here expounds them to be the Cloaths the Priests wore when they ministered in their Office; so confounding them with their priestly Garments, even when he himself expounded them to be what the Ark, Table, Candlestick and golden Altar were covered with, on Chap. xxxi. 10. the Proof of which see in the Lexicons of Pagninus and Buxtorf. As for what is added to minister in the holy Place, though it may seem at the first Glance to denote the Priests Apparel; by observing that distinguished from executing the Priesthood, Ver. 41. & Chap. xxxv. 19. it appears quite otherwise, and the whole unanimous.

Ver. 8. Breast-plate] See Chap. xxviii. 15.

18. As they did the two Ends of those Chains into the two Sockets; which they put upon the Shoulders of the Ephod, towards the Face of it.

19. Moreover they made two Rings of Gold, and put on the two Ends of the Breast-plate, on the Edge of it, which was at the inside of the Ephod.

20. They likewise made two Rings of Gold, and put them upon the two Sides of the Ephod, below over against its Face, by the joining of it, above the Girdle of the Ephod.

21. And they tied the Breast-plate by its Rings, to those of the Ephod, with a blue Lace, to be above the Girdle of that, as it was not lifted up from off the Ephod; according as the Lord had commanded Moses.

22. He further made a Cloak to the Ephod of woven Work, wholly blue.

23. And the Hole of the Cloak in the midst of it, was like that of a Habergeon; which had a Hem round about, that it might not be torn.

24. And upon the Skirts of the Cloak they made Pomegranates of blue, purple and scarlet Thread, twisted.

25. As they did also Bells of pure Gold; which they put in the midst of the Pomegranates, upon the Skirts of the Cloak round about amongst them.

26. A Bell and a Pomegranate, a Bell and a Pomegranate, were there upon the Skirts of the Cloak round about; to minister with, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

27. They likewise made Coats of fine Linen of woven Work, for Aaron and his Sons,

28. With the Mitre of fine Linen, comely Caps of the same, and linen Drawers of fine twisted Linen,

29. The Belt too of fine twisted Linen, blue, purple and scarlet Thread, embroidered Work; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

30. And they made the Plate of the holy Crown of pure Gold; and wrote upon it a Writing with the Engravings of a Seal, Holiness to the Lord.

31. They also put to it a blue Lace, to put upon the Mitre above; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

32. Now was all the Service of the Tabernacle of the publick Tent finished: thus the Israelites did, doing entirely as the Lord had commanded Moses.

33. And they brought the Tabernacle to Moses, the Tent, and all its Instruments; its Clasps, Boards, Rails, and Pillars, and Sockets,

34. And the Covering of Rams Skins dyed red, the Covering of Badgers Skins, and the Veil of Covering,

35. The Ark of the Testimony with its Poles, and the Atonement-covering,

36. The Table, all its Instruments, and the Presence-bread,

37. The pure Candlestick, the Lamps of it, those that are put in order, and all its Instruments, with the Oil for Light,

38. As likewise the Altar of Gold, the Oil for anointing, the Incense of Odours, and the Covering of the Door of the Tent,

39. The brazen Altar, and the Grate of Brass which belonged to it, its Poles, and all its Instruments, the Washing-veffel and its Base,

40. The Tapestry of the Court, the Pillars and Sockets of it, and the Covering for the Gate of the Court, its Cords and Pins, and all the Instruments of the Service of the Tabernacle, for the publick Tent.

41. The Cloths of Ministry to minister in the Holy Place, the holy Garments for Aaron the Priest, with his Sons Garments, to execute the Priesthood.

42. Entirely as the Lord had commanded Moses, so the Israelites did the whole Service.

43. And Moses saw plainly that they had made all the Work, even according as the Lord commanded; whereupon he blessed them.

C H A P. XL.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

2. On the first Day of the first Month, shalt thou set up the Tabernacle of the publick Tent.

3. Where thou shalt put the Ark of the Testimony, and cover it over with the Hanging.

4. As also put in the Table, set in order what is to be in order of it, put in the Candlestick, and make its Lamps burn up.

5. And the Altar of Gold shalt thou put for Incense, before the Ark of the Testimony, and put the Covering of the Door to the Tabernacle.

6. Moreover thou shalt put the Altar of Burnt-offering, before the Door of the Tabernacle of the publick Tent.

7. And shalt put the Washing-veffel between the publick Tent and the Altar, putting Water there.

Ver. 21. tied] Tynd. strayed.

Ver. 31. put to it] See Chap. xxviii. 37.

Ver. 4. is to be] What it was, see Ver. 23.

8. Besides

8. Besides thou shalt set the Court round about, and put the Covering of the Gate of it.

9. And shalt take the Oil for anointing, and anoint the Tabernacle, with all which is in it; consecrating it, and all its Instruments, that it may be holy.

10. And thou shalt anoint the Altar of Burnt-offering, with all its Instruments; and consecrate the Altar, that it may be very holy.

11. Shalt likewise anoint the Washing-vessel, and its Base; and consecrate it.

12. Thou shalt also bring near Aaron and his Sons, to the Door of the publick Tent, and wash them with Water.

13. When thou shalt cloath Aaron with the holy Garments; and anoint him, consecrating him, that he may execute the Priesthood to me.

14. So having brought his Sons near, thou shalt cloath them with the Coats.

15. And shalt anoint them as thou didst their Father, that they may execute the Priesthood to me: whose anointing shall be, that they may have a lasting Priesthood in their Generations.

16. Thus Moses did, doing entirely as the Lord commanded him.

17. And on the first of the first Month, in the second Year, was the Tabernacle set up.

18. For Moses set it up, put its Sockets, set the Boards of it, put its Rails, and set up its Pillars.

19. Next he spread the Tent upon the Tabernacle, and put the Covering of the Tent over it above; as the Lord had commanded him.

20. And he took, and put the Testimony into the Ark, putting the Poles upon the Ark, as he did the Atonement-covering over it above.

21. He also had the Ark into the Tabernacle, and put the Hanging of the Covering, and covered over the Ark of the Testimony; as the Lord had commanded him.

22. And he put the Table into the publick Tent, upon the Side of the Tabernacle northward, without the Hanging.

23. Nay he set in order upon it the Bread that was to be so before the Lord; as he had commanded him.

24. He put the Candlestick too into the publick Tent, over against the Table, upon the Side of the Tabernacle southward:

25. Making the Lamps burn up before the Lord; as he had commanded him.

26. And the golden Altar he put into the publick Tent, before the Hanging:

27. Upon which he burnt Incense of Odours; as the Lord had commanded him.

28. And he put the Covering of the Door to the Tabernacle.

29. As he did the Altar of Burnt-offering at the Door of the Tabernacle of the publick Tent; and offered up on it the Burnt-offering and Oblation, as the Lord had commanded him.

30. He further set the Washing-vessel between the publick Tent and the Altar; and put in Water there, to wash.

31. Out of which Moses, with Aaron and his Sons, washed their Hands and Feet.

32. When they went into the publick Tent, and when they went near to the Altar, they washed; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

33. And he set up the Court round about the Tabernacle and Altar, and put the Covering of the Gate of the Court: thus Moses finished the Work.

34. Then a Cloud covered the publick Tent, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle:

35. Insomuch that Moses could not enter into the publick Tent, because the Cloud remained upon it, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle.

36. And when the Cloud ascended from off the Tabernacle, the Israelites marched, in all their Journeys.

37. But if the Cloud did not ascend, they marched not till the Day it did.

38. For the Cloud of the Lord was upon the Tabernacle by Day, and the Fire was on it by Night, in the Sight of the whole Family of Israel in all their Journeys.

3176	2492	827										45	42	14	Caleb born, Josh. xiv. 7.
3214	2530	865										83	80	52	Israelites went from Egypt, Ex. xii. 40, 41.

The principal Point here is to find the Beginning of the 430 Years spoken of Exod. xii. 40, 41. Kobath the Son of Levi was born before Jacob and his Family went into Egypt, Gen. xli. 11. who lived 133 Years, Exod. vi. 18. Amram his Son and the Father of Moses 137, Ver. 20. and Moses was 79 at the Expiration of this Term, which all make but 349; so that we must look much further back for the Commencement of it, than the Israelites going to Joseph in Egypt. The first Account of any of that People dwelling or sojourning there, was of Abraham, Gen. xii. who seems to have gone thither soon after his going from Haran, when he was 74 Years old, Ver. 4. by his passing and going on, Ver. 6, 9. Here then I fix the Beginning of the 430 Years, which I shall strengthen or confirm by the following Observations.

1. There is a great deal of Reason to believe that by the dwelling in Exod. xii. 40. (for moshab is not sojourning) was meant the whole Time, from the Beginning to the End of their dwelling there, especially if we consider it is Moses names the Years, who wrote the whole History; which will therefore take in and begin with that of Abraham.

2. The Apostle Paul mentions these 430 Years, Gal. iii. 17. shewing it was so long from the Time of the Covenant or Promise God made to Abraham, till the giving of the Law, which was at the Israelites Departure from Egypt. He likewise tells what Covenant he meant, even God's saying to Abraham, In thee shall all Nations (or Families of the Earth) be blessed, Ver. 8. which was spoken to Abraham a little before his going into Egypt, Gen. xii. 3. and that Expression is not that we find used to him at any other Time; or if it had, Paul's Argument led him to speak of the first, which took in the longest Time; look Chap. xii. Beg.

3. God declared to Abraham, Gen. xv. 13. that his Offspring should be afflicted by the People of that Land

400 Years; this being after the above-mentioned Promise or Covenant; which pretty strongly implies that the 430 Years were begun before, as I have stated it. From the Beginning of the dwelling in Egypt was 430, of the Affliction 400, till their Deliverance. Which Affliction may well be thought to begin, when Isaac was mocked or made sport with by Ishmael, who was an Egyptian by his Mother, Gen. xxi. 9. which was a Matter of some Consequence, as the Apostle speaks of it, who says, he persecuted him, Gal. iv. 29. and so it appears to be by Ishmael and Hagar being both turned quite out of doors, which would scarce have been done for a Jest, or even once falling out. But it is probable that Ishmael, abetted by his Egyptian Mother, might do what he could against Isaac; who was five Years old by this Computation, at the Beginning of the 400 Years, which was as soon as we may well suppose Ishmael could act much against him: but how long he continued in it before Sarah got them sent off, we cannot tell. If any should yet be backward in thinking this Affliction of one Person remarkable enough to be reckoned in the 400 Years, let them consider the rest of it was but the Affliction of other Persons, of all whom Isaac was the Father, and therefore his Suffering might well be numbered with theirs; see also Tabit iii. 7, &c. Besides what was done to him, might be said to be done to them; as we find Hosea saying, Chap. xii. 4. spoke with us, when it was only with Jacob their Forefather; see Acts vii. 35, 27. This 400 Years also Stephen speaks of, Acts vii. 6. where as a Confirmation of what has been said, it is put to the being treated ill, which Isaac was. And in Egypt the Israelites were treated well a great while, and their Affliction there appears to be but a little before the Birth of Moses, as Aaron three Years older was saved; see Exod. i. 6, 8.

4. By this Calculation the Israelites were in Egypt the last Time 216 Years. Let us suppose now Kobath was born one Year before they went thither, because there was Merari after him; Gen. xvi. 11. Anram when Kobath was 69 Years old, and Moses at the same Age of Anram; which with 79, the Age of Moses when they went out of Egypt, make up the Time. Jochebed also being the Daughter of Levi, and Mother of Moses, Exod. ii. 1. & vi. 20. we may compute her Birth, which was after the going to Egypt, Numb. xxvi. 59. when her Father was 120 Years of Age, about 10 younger than Terah when Abram was born; and that she was 80 at the Birth of Moses her youngest Child, about 10 Years less than Sarah's Age when she bore Isaac (their Age, as it is said by Moses, our, Psal. xc. 10. being not shortened to 70, as it seems, till God did it for their Provocation in the Wilderness, related in Numb. xiv) this would likewise compleat the said Term of Years: and moreover Anram the Father of Moses would be dead above 10 Years before the Departure from Egypt.

I now proceed to form a rational Table of several remarkable Circumstances, to shew from thence the gross Absurdities Interpreters have run into in Point of Chronology.

The Scripture is very clear that Jacob served Laban the first 7 Years agreed on, before he was married; and was not married at the Beginning of that Term: for after they had made the Agreement, Gen. xxix. 18, 19. it is said, Jacob served seven Years for Rachel, Ver. 20. and then that he demanded her, saying, his Days were fulfilled, Ver. 21. afterwards he said, Ver. 25. Did not I serve (which is the preterite Tense in Heb.) with thee for Rachel? and yet seven other Years, Ver. 27, 30. further confirms it. So our Countryman Shuckford says: "The Place does surely prove that he served Laban seven Years, and then said give me my Wife, &c." Connest. Vol. ii. Book vii. p. 203. 2d Edit. The idle interpreting my Days are fulfilled, to signify I am old enough to be married, the Targum confutes, if it needs confuting, which has it, למלא ימי שירותי for the Days of my Service are fulfilled; and the Greek, πληρώσας τὰς ἡμέρας, for the Days are fulfilled; as likewise Ainsworth from Pirke Eliezer, Chap. 36. which in the Genev. Bib. is read, my terms is ended. It follows then that Jacob had all his Children, excepting Benjamin, born in the first seven Years of his Marriage, being the second Seven of his living with Laban, which is according to Shuckford, Connest. Lib. vii. but what wonder is that, since he had four Wives? Of these, seven were Leah's, and it is said once she staid from bearing, Ver. 35. the rest of the Time when she did not stay, she would have a Child in a Year, as by the Table: which may be counted thus more particularly; Reuben born at the End of 9 M. Simeon 1 Y. 8 M. Levi 2 Y. 7 M. Judab 3 Y. 6 M. Issachar 5 Y. 1 M. Zebulun 6 Y. Dinah 6 Y. 11 M. (though Demetrius a Greek Historian in Eusebius, Præp. Evang. Lib. ii. 21. has the Births of several of Leah's Children but ten Months apart) and if she had staid any other Time, it would have been improper to have mentioned that alone. For that staying I allow about another Year, which compleats the Time; and her staying only one Year, is less strange than if she had staid many. For a farther Proof that they were not born in the first seven Years of Jacob's being with Laban, we find him telling Esau, the Children were tender, Gen. xxxiii. 13. which shews they were not towards twenty Years old.

I come next to the Marriage of Judab and Birth of Er, which I have placed with the rest in the Order of the Sacred History; and am of Opinion that Judab being of a noble Spirit and Behaviour, by which he gained the Precedency of his Brothers next to Joseph, Gen. xlix. 1 Chron. v. 2. was so displeased with what his Brothers did to Joseph, and affected with his Father's Grief (see Gen. xxxvii. 26, 27. & xlv. 34.) that he left them, and so met with Shua's Daughter his Wife, Ch. xxxviii. 1, 2. Doubtless Moses would not have interrupted the History of Joseph with this of Judab, if the Story of Judab had been first; however he says it was at that Time, of Joseph's being sold, that Judab went from his Brothers, and took a Wife. Therefore Judab did not lie with Tamar ten Years before, as the Index of the Great Bible places it, when he was sixteen Years old: from which computing for Judab's Marriage and Er's Birth one Year, Er's Marriage and Death one Year, Onan's one Year, and Shelah's growing up three Years, there remain but ten Years to be parted between Judab and Er till the Time of their being married; the Conclusion of which will be, that Judab was married when he was five Years old, and had a Child the same Year (which was before they went from Padan-aram) as also that Er and Onan were both married, and Shelah was grown up fit for Marriage, about the same Age.

The third Point is concerning the Commencement of the seven Years of Fulness or Plenty, which I cannot find to be determinable by the Scripture, but judge it must be at least twenty Years after Joseph's Promotion, as by the Table; otherwise there is not Time sufficient for Pharez to have two Sons, before they went into Egypt; which Time cannot be allowed between the Years of Fulness and Famine, if it was only for this Reason, that the Corn laid up would have been spoiled. All other Chronologers, I think, suppose the Years of Plenty began when Joseph interpreted Pharaoh's Dreams; from whence arise such Computations as these which follow: Bedford puts both Judab and Pharez to have a Child in their fifteenth Year; and both Er and Onan after Marriage to die in their fourteenth, with that remarkable Circumstance of Virility in the latter, Gen. xxxviii. 9. and would also have Shelah grown up after Onan's Death, as Chap. xxxviii. 11, 14. Judab then lie with Tamar, and the Children be born, all in the next Year, yet puts Jacob's Marriage seven Years too soon, Script. Chron. Tab. 31. Usher in his last Result, Chron. Sacra. Cap. 10. p. 170. reckons Er to be married before he was quite fourteen Years old, Onan at but fourteen; and for the Time Onan lived after he was married, and Shelah's growing up fit for Marriage, he allows but about three Quarters of a Year; as he also computes, that Pharez had Hezron born at the Beginning of his 15th Year, and Hamul at the End, or both born Twins at the latter. Broughton calculates that Judab might beget Er at 13 Years of Age, &c. Works, p. 387. and Lightfoot counts Judab but 10 Years old or under, when he begot his eldest Son, Harm. of Old Test. on 2 Kings xviii. Now were I to count in their Way, it should be thus:

Jacob went to Syria when he was	77	} years old.
Judab born,	80
Er and Onan born,	96
Shelah born,	97
Er and Onan married, and died,	112
Pharez born,	114
Hezron and Hamul born, and they went to Egypt,	130

By which no Child might be born till his Father was sixteen Years old, &c. Yet this contains too many and great Improbabilities; and with those being so very young, Jacob himself is made vastly old, when he had so many Children. We may further take notice, that Jacob's eleven Sons had all their Children that we read of besides Jacobbed, Exod. vi. 20. Numb. xxvi. 59. before they went down to Egypt, which shews them not to be young; and Asaph had also two Grandchildren by his fourth Son, Gen. xlv. 17. nay some of those in Ver. 21. prove to be Benjamin's Grandsons, as Gera, 1 Chron. viii. 3. Naaman, 1 Chron. viii. 4. Numb. xxvi. 40. and Ard, Numb. xxvi. 40. So the Septuagint translate in Gen. xlv. 21. Ἐννέον δὲ υἱὸν Βαδὰ Ἰσάκ, καὶ Νοεμὰν, and the Sons of Bala were Gera, and Noeman, &c. which will run Chronologers into much the same Difficulties and Absurdities as before; and is a farther Confirmation that there was a considerable Space of Time after Joseph was promoted in his thirtieth Year, Gen. xli. 46. before the Israelites went into Egypt, besides the seven Years of Plenty and two of Famine. Such who would have Hezron, &c. born in Egypt, expressly contradict Holy Writ, Gen. xlv. 8, 15, 26. without so much as the Pretence of any Corruption or Mistake in the Hebrew Code. And it is the utmost Height of Stupidity to attempt to prove a Chronology from the Scripture, on the Supposition that the Scripture it self is not true. Moreover Jacobbed Levi's Daughter being left out in Gen. xlv. because born in Egypt, Numb. xxvi. 59. shews that the rest named in that Chap. were born before Jacob went thither, since Asaph's Daughter is reckoned in, Ver. 17. To this let me add, that the Increase of the Israelites was prodigiously large for 216, or as others compute but 215 Years in Egypt, and about one after, Numb. i. 1. from 70 Persons to 603550 Men that were above 19 Years old, besides the Tribe of Levi; who, with Women and Children, might probably amount to 1850000 or more. But if they were not 70 at their entering Egypt; and if the Grand-children were young, as they must have been by leaving out the 20 Years allowed above, such a vast Increase might exceed Belief; for such a Difference at the Beginning would make a great deal at the End.

If we look now to Joseph's Interpretation, Gen. xli. we find him telling Pharaoh that God would shortly bring it to pass, in the com. Transf. which shews the Time of Plenty was not begun, nor to begin presently: the like was was said to John, Rev. i. 1. of Things which were not fulfilled in twenty Years. But in Heb. it is, God will make haste to do it, a similar Expression to that which was spoken to Jeremiah, Chap. i. 12. of which it may be said as of the other. The Manner of relating it also in Acts vii. 11. does not bespeak the immediate Commencement of it, ἔπειτα δὲ ἔλπειν, But there came a Famine; as if a good while after. And Justin says of Joseph, Lib. xxxvi. 2. sterilitatem agrorum ante multos annos providit, he foreknew a Scarcity of the Ground many Years beforehand. And if Noah was 120 Years building the Ark, is it strange that Joseph should be 20 Years providing Store-houses, &c. throughout the Land of Egypt? As for Pharaoh's believing Joseph so long, the greatest Difficulty was at first, and he might often be confirmed in it afterwards, by what he heard and saw of him. Nay the like Objection might be made concerning Daniel and other Prophets, whose Declarations of future Things were received and believed.

The Chronology has already been brought to the Israelites Departure from Egypt, before which, and to the same Time, as well as in that Country, there is a List of the Kings, with their Time of reigning by Manetho, which is preserved from his Greek History in Synellus, as also in Josephus against Apion, as follows:

¶ N. B. The 16 first Dynasties are ascribed by Manetho, as it appears Synell. p. 18, 19, 41. to the Gods, &c. most of whom might reign before the Flood, and be deified; but by Africanus and Eusebius they are made up of the Kings in several Parts of Egypt, Synell. p. 56, &c.

The last being he who was drowned in the Red Sea pursuing the Israelites, (as appears by Manetho himself, and Cheremon, as cited by Josephus against Apion, Lib. i.) fixes the Time to that remarkable Period; and from hence it appears that the first King Salatis began reigning in the 2621 Year of the Jul. Per. 272 Years after the Flood, that it was Tanias who took Sarai, Gen. xii. and Mephramuthosis, in whose Time the Israelites went to Egypt. The Eng. Reader may here be cautioned of mistaking by Sir Roger L'Estrange's Translation of Josephus, which has the Reign of Apophis 60 Years and 1 Month, when it is ἄνωξις ἢ ναὶ ἑξήκοντα, three score and one Years.

These being Kings of Lower Egypt, there is also a Catalogue of those of Upper Egypt who reigned at Thebes, from Eratostratus, Library-keeper of Ptolemy Evergetes, (Successor to Manetho, above 200 Years before the Time of Christ) by whose Order it was taken out of the Records of that Country, and is likewise preserved as follows by Georg. Synellus in his Chronographia, pag. 91, &c.

Synellus relates that Apollodorus had a List of fifty three Kings, the rest of which he himself omitted. In the Table to Cumberland's Orig. Gent. Antiquissima, printed 1724 (from whence Bedford seems to have copied his Reckoning in Script. Chron. Tab. 13. printed 1730) the Reign of Cnubus Gneurus is counted twenty seven Years, making the whole 1055; but how wrong it is, may be seen by looking no further than Sir John Marsham's Canon Chronicus, Tab. 1. and his twice mentioning, ad Secul. 11. p. 313. Fræneq. Edit. that Eratostratus ascribes 1050 Years to those Kings.

To the Reign of Mares are these Words affixed, ἡ δὲ Αἰγύπτου ἐν τῷ χρόνῳ αὐτοῦ καὶ ἡ ἑσθλατοῦς Ὀνείας, With the Egyptians, (i. e. the other of Lower Egypt) was now the Dynasty in which the Thebans reigned; and Scaliger's Eusebius in Greek, pag. 18. says that the Thebans reigned in the Dynasty begun by Amosis or Tethmosis. From hence it follows, that Tethmosis King of Lower Egypt began reigning in the Time of Mares the 9th King of Upper Egypt, who reigning 26 Years, fixes the Catalogue of Eratostratus to that of Manetho, and consequently by what has been already delivered, to the Scripture Chronology, within the Compass of twenty six Years. In the next place Manetho the Egyptian Historian tells us (in a Fragment of his preserved by Josephus against Apion, Lib. i. as he says in the Author's own Words) that a strong People from the East called Hycsos, the latter Part of the Word signifying Shepherds, invaded Egypt in the Reign of Timaus, and set up Salatis King there. Now there being an Account from Plato in Phædo, p. 1240, that Βασίλειος Αἰγυπτῶν ἑαυτοῦ Θάμους, Thamus was a King of all Egypt; who by the Likeness of the Names is the same, and as Thamus is described there to be King before Thout or Thoth, it appears to be Misraim; especially as it is thought he was the Tamuz mentioned Ezek. viii. 14. for Misraim being Osiris, as shewn on Gen. x. 13. Diodorus relates his being killed by his Brother Typhon, that he was afterwards honoured as a God, and the Ceremonies performed with Mourning ing and Lamentation; Lib. i. 2. as Ezekiel saw. According to this Account, and as those Shepherds appear to have come out of the Country of Canaan, Typhon was probably Canaan the Brother of Mizraim, Gen. x. 6. and Josephus says further from Manetho, that Avaris where the Shepherds encamped was called Typhon, as seems likely from the Name of their King, who might then defeat and kill Osiris or Mizraim, and make Salatis King there. Salatis thus beginning to reign at the Death of Mizraim, fixes his Death to the Year 2621, and consequently settles the Time of the rest, as in the Catalogue. Cumberland, Orig. Gent. Ant. and Bedford, Scrip. Chron. state the Beginning of the Reign of Salatis 9 Years after the Death of Menes, and so far in the Reign of Atthotes, but seemingly with far less Reason.

The first of these Writers endeavours pretty much to shew, that Aso, Queen of Ethiopia, whom Plutarch says assisted in the War against Osiris, was Semiramis Queen of Affyria, pag. 91, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97. but if we look into the Chronological Table in the same Treatise, we see the Beginning of Semiramis's Reign put 87 Years after Salatis was made King, which, as I compute, are too few; yet Cumberland ascribes that particular Age to her Aid, pag. 96. and that the Chronological Table was of his own making, appears by his mentioning it just after this Part of the Discourse, pag. 98. nay he says expressly further, "By my Accounts the Time of Semiramis's Reign in the Affyrian Empire, falls in with the Time of Apophis's Reign in the Lower Egypt," p. 112. see after the Table of the Sicyonian Kings. Atthotes I. is plainly the same whom Sancho. calls Tbath, the Son of Misor by Contraction from Mizraim, on Chap. iv. es being the Greek Termination, and A might be arbitrarily prefixed, Cumberland's Sancho. in Prof. That Mizraim began the Kingdom of Egypt is not to be doubted, Egypt being every where called Mizraim in the Hebrew.

As at the Distribution of Mankind after the Flood, Lower Egypt must be entered by Land before the Upper, and the first being the more fruitful Country, I cannot imagine that Mizraim went and settled in Upper Egypt, and left the other; but reigned a while in the Lower, and then over the whole, till the Canaanite Shepherds, as Manetho relates, invaded it, and got the lower and nearer Part of Egypt, and then made Salatis their King; who had five Successors, as in the Catalogue, when Tethmofis the Son of Alisphragmuthofis, as Manetho calls him, expelled them thence, and had that for his Kingdom, leaving Upper Egypt to the next Heir. And Eusebius, Syncellus, and latter Writers, join the Reign of Tethmofis or Amofis to that of Affis, in their Accompts. As for Manetho's saying the Shepherds kept Lower Egypt 511 Years, it may be looked upon as the first of his Dynasties, the Years of which extend to long before the Creation, making his own Country, where he was a Heathen Priest, seem very ancient; and he does not seem able to tell any more than those six Kings. Josephus is also evidently mistaken in thinking those Canaanite Pastors were the Israelites; it being long before they were in Egypt, and very wide of Agreement otherwise: but Josephus too was endeavouring against Apion, to make his own Nation appear ancient; and perhaps to justify the Length of the Septuagint Account; and so he also seeks to discredit the true Account that Manetho gives further, as to Time, of the Israelites going out of Egypt in the Time of Amenophis, 333 Years after.

For the Time of the Egyptian Monarchy together, Constantine Manasses, whose Greek Annals in Verse are turned into Latin by John Lennelains, reckons it 1663 Years; which counted backwards from the Conquest of Egypt by Cambyfes King of Persia, in the Year of the Jul. Per. 4189, makes the Beginning in 2526, and that is 33 Years before Menes began reigning in Upper or all Egypt, as in the Table; which Space of Time he may well be thought first to have reigned in Lower Egypt, whither he must come before he got to the other, as already said; nay Syncellus, pag. 91. puts his Reign in Lower Egypt 35 Years. Diod. Siculus likewise tells us, L. i. 2. some of the Egyptians reckoned little less than twenty three thousand Years from Osiris, who as we have seen was Mizraim, to Alexander the Great, that built a City after his own Name in Egypt; between which Time of Alexander in the Year of the Jul. Per. 4382, and the Year 2526 above, are 1856 Years, being about 22955 Lunar Years or Months, by which as it seems they counted, according to Plutarch in the Life of Numa, Pliny, Nat. Hist. L. vii. 48. Macrob. Sat. L. i. 14. Lactant. Instit. ii. 12. and so is a farther Confirmation of our Chronology. The same Diodorus also informs us, Lib. i. 6. that the Egyptians assert their native Kings reigned above 4700 Years; whose Government ceasing when the Persians under Cambyfes conquered the Country in the Year of the Jul. Per. 4189, and not only Plutarch, but Solinus, Polybius, Cap. 3. and Augustine, Civitat. Dei, Lib. xii. 10. relating the Egyptians had Years of four Months, this reduces those Years to one third of their Number, viz. between 1566 and 1567. Now from that Year back to the End of the Reign of Menes, who being the first King of Egypt was not a Native, but came thither, was by the foregoing Catalogue 1568 Years; so well does it agree.

The following Words of Diodor. Sicul. may also claim Notice for the same Purpose, Lib. i. 4. "Ἀπὸ τῆς γένεως τῆς Μῆνης τῆς ἀπογονίας ἐστὶν ὡς αἰῶν τῶν καλῶν καὶ τετρακισμίων, they say the Posterity of Menes reigned above 1400 Years. Adding these Years to the Beginning of his Reign in the Table, himself being included, it arises to the Year of the Jul. Per. 3959; and as the Egyptian Line of Kings ended, and gave place to the Ethiopian at the Year 3986, according to the Catalogue on the 1 King. xii. 23. there were very agreeably 27 Years above 1400. Next as Diod. Sicul. mentions some of those Kings in Chap. 4. of his first Book, I would try how successfully I can find it quadrate with this Rank of Eratoſthenes; as I have never yet seen it done, and it may be still a farther Establishment of so material a Part, of such ancient, and as has been thought, uncertain Chronology. Myris reigning after Uchoreus and his twelve Successors, agrees with Maris and Ocaras, which the Names both resemble. Then Uchoreus being the 8th King from Busiris II. inclusive, this answers to the prior Distance of Byris, with the like Resemblance of Names; where note by the Way, that the Lat. Translator of Diodorus took the Greek Word for eighth to be a proper Name Ogdous. It follows now that the Busiris I. of Diod. Busiris II. being his 8th Descendant, was Toggar Amachus Memebiri.

The Scholiast upon the Argonautics of Apollonius, Lib. iv. Ver. 272. writes, Διζαρχὸς ὁ ἐν πρώτῳ Νίλῳ, γινόμενος ἀπὸ τῆς Νίλῳ Βασιλείας μέχρι τῆς πρώτης Ὀλυμπιάδος ἐστὶν ὡς, Dicæarchus says in Book the first, there were from the Kingdom of Nilus to the first Olympiad 436 Years. This claims the more Regard, as Dicæarchus being the Scholar of Aristotle was a very ancient Author, and of so much Authority, that his Book of Government was yearly read in publick to the Spartan or Lacedæmonian Youth; nay he is to be held, says Marſham, ad Secul. 10. among the first Fathers of Greek Chronology; and claims special Notice here, since I have observed no Chronologer who could make it suit with his Numbers. The Destruction of Troy being then in the Year of the J. P. 3530, as in the Table at Judg. iii. 8. the Death of Siphœus was three Years before, whence the Reign of Nilus might be dated, as the fourteen Years were a Sort of Interregnum, or at least without the King's Name. In the next place it is to be considered, that there are diverse Reckonings of the Space of Time from the Fall of Troy to the first Olympiad, which according to the Parian or Arundelian Marble was 433 Years; these Words being legible on it, Ἀφ' ἑΤροίας, ἐν ΙΗ.ΗΗΗΗΔΔΔΔΠ, Βασιλείῳι. Ἀθηνῶν ὡς διέπερ ἴπυς, Since Troy was taken 245 Years (viz. to the Year Diognetus was the Athenian Archon, of the Jul. Per. 4450) in the 22d Year of the Reign of Menestheus at Athens; as by the same the War began, τριοναυδὲκα ἴπυς, in his 13th Year: by which Computation it was in the Year of the Jul. Per. 3505, as the first Olympiad is agreed to be in 3938. Supposing now that Dicæarchus reckoned according to this, by adding the three Years between the Beginning of the Reign of Nilus as above, and the Destruction of Troy, (which he might know independently of the Olympiad) to the 433 so computed, the the Sum is the exact Number mentioned. Note, that the 436 Years were not counted from the End of Nilus's Reign, appears because Dicaearchus had just before related another Term of Years to the Kingdom of Nilus, which would rationally be the Beginning of it, to which he connects this, and then adds them both together.

Syncellus, p. 147. has 124 Years from the Confusion of Languages to the Reign of Menes; this Shuckford, Connec. B. xi. computes to his building Memphis, as Herodotus writes he did, Lib. ii. the Metropolis of his Kingdom; which will agree aptly with my Tables, where it is 105 Years from the Dispersion at Babylon to the Beginning of the Reign of Menes, as he might suitably build the City about twenty Years after. Since it is certain Menes is counted to begin reigning sooner, and Addition has been made to the Number, for elsewhere it is 1124, I have thought perhaps the twenty likewise might be added, which would bring it but a Year from my Tables: either Way may do.

There remains to be settled from hence, the Line of the Thinitæ, exhibited at Chap. xii. 17. Menes and Athotus I. being the same, it appears that when Athotus had reigned 57 Years, Part of the Theban Nation on one side the great River Nile divided from the other, over which Cencenes became King, while Athotus continued reigning on the eastern Side two Years longer, and afterwards it went to their Successors, till the Theban Government got the whole again.

Athotus I. the Son of Menes, whom the Egyptians call Thouth, and the Greeks Hermes, as in Euseb. Præp. Evang. L. iii. to whom, with Plato, in Phædra and Philebo, is ascribed, under the Name of Thouth, the Invention of Arithmetick, Geometry, Astronomy, Grammar, &c. is said to have Writings now extant in Gr. which Bedford, Chron. p. 132. says he saw in the Bodleian Library in Oxford; but I have them in English, translated, as there said, by that learned Divine Dr. Everard, and turned out of Arabick into Greek: wherein he speaks to his Son Tat or Thoth.

To fix those Catalogues the firmer, I will also insert that of the Kings of the Argives in Peloponnesus, in the South of Greece, according to Castor of Rhodes, who lived in the Time of Julius Cæsar, from a Piece of his Xρονικα ανωικαρα in Eusebius's Greek Chron. Lib. i. p. 19. and Lat. Col. 5. Tatianus Orat. ad Græcos, and Pausanias in Corinthiacis, C. 15, 16.

The Kingdom of the Mycenæ.

Eusebius leaves a Blank of six Years between Acrisius and Euristheus, putting the Reign of the latter two Years more, which amounts to the same.

As this ended at the Destruction of Troy, in the Year of the Jul. Per. 3530, of which see the Table at Judg. iii. Agamemnon being the Grecian General, who was slain when he got home, the Beginning would be in 2855, four Years after the Death of Shem. Now Clemens Alexandrinus in Stromat. Lib. i. Justin Martyr in Parænet. ad Græcos, To ian in Orat. contra eosdem, and Apion in Hist. of the Egyptian Affairs, Lib. iv. from Ptolemaeus Mendesium, an Egyptian Writer of their Antiquities in the Time of Augustus Cæsar, report that Amosis or Tethmosis likewise lived in the Time of Inachus; the former accordingly began reigning, by the Number in those Successions, 26 Years after the latter. It likewise being above 1100 Years from the Beginning of Inachus, to that of Romulus or the Building of Rome, by Varro, De Rebus Human. Lib. xvii. as cited by Aulus Gellius, Noct. Attic. Lib. i. 16. and Macrobii, Saturnal. Lib. i. this too agrees with the Catalogue, by which it is 1106. Manetho also in Joseph. relating that Danaus was the Brother of Sethos, who reigned the second after Amenophis, their Times are coincident. Besides Julius Africanus, on the Authority of Acusilaus and others, states the Flood of Ogyges to be 1020 Years before the first Olympiad, while Phoroneus reigned at Argos, Euseb. Præp. Evang. Lib. x. 10. The Beginning of the Olympiads being at the Year 3938 of the Jul. Per. as may be seen by the Chronological History of Helvicus, &c. by Subtraction of 1020, we come to 2918, the 13th Year of the Reign of Phoroneus as above: and that those two Kings were cotemporary is shewn in Euseb. Chron. p. 27.

The more still to settle and ascertain the latter approved Catalogue of Eratostrhenes, take moreover the Succession of the Sicyonian Kings in the Island of Peloponnesus, from Castor as before, with Apollodorus, lb. Pausanias, Africanus, and Eusebius, Χρονικ. λογ. πρωτ. p. 24. & Chron. Hier. Interp. Col. 2.

The seven last being Priests.

This Monarchy failed by the coming of the Heraclides thither, as Velleius Paterculus relates, Lib. i. Cap. 2. which was 80 Years after the Destruction of Troy, by Eratostrhenes, Diodorus Siculus in his Preface, and Thucydides, Lib. i. whom Plutarch, Clemens Alexandrinus, and Eusebius follow; Paterculus says, about that Year. From hence, by subtracting 985 from that Year of the Jul. Per. 3610, there remains 2625 for the Year when Ægialeus began reigning, 4 Years after Salatis. Now Pliny writes in his Nat. Hist. Lib. vii. 56. speaking of the Invention of Letters, Anticlidæ in Ægypto invenisse quendam nomine Menona tradit, 15 annis ante Phoroneum, antiquissimum Græciæ; idque monumentis approbare conatur: Anticlidæ relates that one Menon (or Menes) invented them, 15 Years before Phoroneus the most ancient King of Greece, which he endeavours to prove by Records. And according to Apollodorus, Lib. ii. at Beg. Phoroneus was the Brother of Ægialeus; before whose Reign Menes dying four Years, it agrees very well.

NOTES upon the Book called LEVITICUS.

CHAP. I.

AND the Lord called to Moses, and spoke to him from the publick Tent;

2. That he should tell the Israelites what follows: When a Man of you brings his Oblation to the Lord, it shall be of the Cattle, either of the Herd or Flock.

3. If it be a Burnt-offering of the Herd, he shall bring it a perfect Male, to the Gate of the publick Tent, for his Favour before the Lord.

4. And he shall lean his Hand upon the Head of the Burnt-offering; which shall be accepted of him, to make atonement for him.

5. Then the young one of the Herd shall be killed before the Lord; and Aaron's Sons the Priests shall bring the Blood, and sprinkle it round about upon the Altar, which is at the Door of the publick Tent.

6. Moreover the Burnt-offering shall be stript, and divided into its Pieces.

7. And, when they have put the Fire upon the Altar, and the Wood in order upon that;

8. Those Priests shall put in order the Pieces, the Head, and the Fat, upon the Wood, which is on the Fire upon the Altar.

9. And his Entrails and Legs being washed with Water, let the Priest burn all on the Altar, for a Burnt-offering, a Sacrifice by Fire, of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

10. If his Oblation likewise be of the Flock, either Sheep or Goats, for a Burnt-offering, he shall bring it a perfect Male.

11. Which shall be killed by the Side of the Altar northward before the Lord; and the forementioned Priests shall sprinkle his Blood upon the Altar round about.

12. And he shall be divided into his Pieces, with his Head and Fat; and the Priest shall put them in order upon the Wood, which is on the Fire upon the Altar.

13. The Entrails too and Legs being washed with Water, let the Priests bring all, and burn on the Altar: which shall be a Burnt-offering, a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

14. If his Oblation also to the Lord be a Burnt-offering of Fowls, he shall bring it of Turtle-doves or young Pigeons.

15. Which the Priest shall bring to the Altar, and pinching off his Head, burn it on the same; and his Blood shall be squeezed out by the Side of the Altar.

16. Besides his Crop, with the Filth of it, he shall take away, and cast it near the Altar eastward, at the Place of the Ashes.

Ver. 1. And the Lord] This properly begins another Book, as the Tabernacle was now just set up, and the Utensils put in order; so that the Levitical Law now commenced, which is here given.

Ver. 2. either] as Ver. 3. & 10. shew.

Ver. 3. Burnt-offering] It may be observed, that this Chapter treats of Burnt-offerings, peculiarly so called, when the whole Body was burnt, excepting the Skin of Beasts, Ver. 9, 13. Chap. vii. 8. the Crop, &c. of Birds, Ver. 15, 16, 17. the next Chap. of Meat-offerings, the following of Peace-offerings, the 4th of Sin-offerings, and the 5th, with the 6th to Ver. 8. of Trepass-offerings. Then beginning again with Burnt-offerings, there is a farther Account of them all, in relation to the Priests especially, which is summed up, Chap. vii. 37.

Ib. bring] according as the Word properly signifies, and is rendered, Ver. 2, 5, 10, 13, 14, 15. & ii. 4, 11. & xxvii. 9. Num. ix. 13. & xv. 9, 27. & xvi. 17.

Ib. bring it] the very same as in Ver. 10.

Ib. perfect] the same as so rendered, Chap. xxii. 21. see also Gell in Essay, p. 238. who takes up our Translators smartly about it.

Ib. for his Favour] or Acceptation: the like Chap. xxii. 19. & xxiii. 11. Exod. xxviii. 38. and negative, Lev. xxii. 20. Jer. vi. 20. which the Verse after this confirms, by the Verb from whence this Noun comes, and Chap. xxii. 20, 21. & xxiii. 11. by the Noun repeated; the Order of the Heb. being also here kept. And it may plainly be seen this is not restricted to Freewill-offerings. Accordingly it is rendered in the Tigurin Version, ut acceptus sit ipse, that he may be accepted; by Ainsworth, for his favourable acceptance; as the like in the Greek, Chaldee, Syriack and Arabick Translations; see likewise Gell's Essay, p. 238.

Ver. 4. lean] as Maimonides saith, with all his Might, Patrick's Comment. see Ainsw. Annot.

Ver. 5. the young one of the Herd] So the Heb. and Ainsw. a great Expounder of the Law, says, of the first years, not older; as indeed appears by Mic. vi. 6. being for a Burnt-offering; and so not old enough for a Steer, much less to be a Bullock.

Ib. shall be killed] by one of the Priests or Levites, as it appears. In the latter Edit. of Jun. and Trem. it is rendered, jugulabit Sacerdos, the Priest shall kill; agreeable to 2 Chron. xxix. 24. and perhaps to Exod. xxix. 11. so 1 Chron. xxiii. 31. 2 Chron. xxx. 17. & xxxv. 11. shew it was done by the Levites.

Ver. 6. stript] which the Levites did, 2 Chron. xxxv. 11.

Ver. 12. Fat] Gen. Transf. call.

Ver. 14. be a Burnt-offering] According to Ver. 3.

Ver. 16. Filth of it] the Gender of the Pronoun manifestly shewing that it belonged to the Crop; and thus the best of the ancient and modern Interpreters have rendered it.

17. And

17. And let the Priest cleave him with his Wings, but not asunder, and burn him on the Altar, upon the Wood that is on the Fire: which shall be a Burnt-offering, a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

CHAP. II.

AND when a Person brings an Oblation of Meat-offering to the Lord, it shall be fine Flour; upon which he shall pour Oil, and put Frankincense.

2. This being brought to Aaron's Sons the Priests, one of them shall take from thence his Handful of the fine Flour and Oil of it, with all its Frankincense; which Memorial of it let him burn on the Altar, for an Offering by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

3. And what is left of the Meat-offering shall be for Aaron and his Sons; it being very holy of the Lord's Offerings by Fire.

4. Moreover when thou bringest an Oblation of Meat-offering baked in the Oven, it shall be unleavened Cakes of fine Flour tempered with Oil, and unleavened Biscuits washed over with Oil.

5. And if thy Oblation be a Meat-offering upon a Pan; it shall be of fine Flour unleavened, tempered with Oil.

6. Thou shalt break it in Bits, and pour Oil upon it; which shall be the Meat-offering.

7. If thy Oblation also be a Meat-offering in a Pot, it shall be made of fine Flour with Oil.

8. And thou shalt bring the Meat-offering that is made of these to the Lord; which being brought to the Priest, he shall carry it to the Altar.

9. He shall take up from it too a Memorial of it, and burn on the Altar; which shall be an Offering by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

10. And what is left of it shall be for Aaron and his Sons; it being very holy of the Lord's Offerings by Fire.

11. No Meat-offering which you bring to the Lord shall be leavened: for you shall burn neither of any Leaven, nor Honey, in an Offering by Fire to him.

12. In the Oblation of the First-fruits you must bring them to the Lord, but they shall not be offered up on the Altar for a pleasant Smell.

13. And thou shalt season every Oblation of thy Meat-offering with Salt, not letting the Salt of the Covenant of thy God cease from thy Meat-offering: with all thy Oblations shalt thou bring Salt.

14. And if thou bringest a Meat-offering of thy First-fruits to the Lord, it shall be that which is ground of green Ears of Corn dried with Fire.

15. Upon which thou shalt put Oil, and Frankincense: that shall be the Meat-offering.

16. And the Priest shall burn a Memorial of it, some of that which is ground, and of the Oil, with all the Frankincense: which shall be an Offering by Fire to the Lord.

CHAP. III.

MOREOVER if his Oblation be a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, if he bring it of the Herd, whether it be Male or Female, he shall bring it perfect before the Lord.

2. And shall lean his Hand upon the Head of it, which shall be killed at the Door of the publick Tent; and Aaron's Sons the Priests shall sprinkle the Blood upon the Altar round about.

3. Besides he shall bring with the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, for an Offering by Fire to the Lord, all the Fat that lies upon the Entrails.

4. He shall also take off the two Kidneys, and the Fat which is upon them, on the Flanks, and the Caul upon the Liver, along with the Kidneys.

5. Which let the Sons of Aaron burn on the Altar, with the Burnt-offering that is on the Wood upon the Fire: it shall be a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

Ver. 1. Oblation] Omitted here by our Translators, though not in Ver. 4, 13. and his Oblation left out Ch. iv. 32.

Ver. 4. and] as Exod. xxix. 2.

Ver. 7. a Meat-offering in a Pot] Bish. a thing broyled upon the gridiron. And baked is added so absurdly by our 1st Translators.

Ver. 12. them] viz. Leaven and Honey, Ch. xxiii. 17. 2 Chron. xxxi. 5.

1b. not be offered] they being for the Priests, Num. xviii. 13.

Ver. 14. that which is ground] from the Verb rendered breaketh and broken in the com. Bib. Psa. cxix. 20. Lam. iii. 16. where only it occurs. Ainsworth translates it ground-corne; and quotes Sol. Jar. expounding it, broken whiles it is moist. Geres (saith he) meaneth breaking and grinding, broken with the mill: and just before, they dried them with the fire, in the green-ears, because else they would not be ground in the mill, for that they were moist.

Ver. 1. Peace-offerings] the Purpose of which may the better be understood, by knowing the Heb. Words for Peace comprehend Welfare or Prosperity; and it is explained, and distinguished, Chap. vii. 11, 12, 16.

1b. Herd] Gen. drove, Bish. droues.

Ver. 5. with] as rendered by Ainsworth, Jun. and Trem. una cum, the Meaning that Noldius likewise gives this, in his Concordance of the Heb. Particles; and it is the same Preposition that is thus used and englished, Chap. vii. 13.

6. And if his Oblation for a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings to the Lord, be of the Flock, Male or Female, he shall bring it perfect.

7. If he brings a Sheep for his Oblation, he shall bring it before the Lord.

8. And shall lean his Hand upon the Head of it, which shall be killed before the publick Tent; and Aaron's Sons shall sprinkle the Blood of it upon the Altar round about.

9. Besides he shall bring with the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, for an Offering by Fire to the Lord the Fat of it, the entire Rump, which he shall take away by the Back-bone, and all the Fat that lies upon the Entrails.

10. He shall also take off the two Kidneys, and the Fat which is upon them, on the Flanks, and the Caul upon the Liver, along with the Kidneys.

11. Which let the Priest burn on the Altar: it shall be the Meat of a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

12. If his Oblation likewise be a Goat, he shall bring it before the Lord.

13. And shall lean his Hand upon the Head of it, which shall be killed before the publick Tent; and Aaron's Sons shall sprinkle its Blood upon the Altar round about.

14. Besides he shall offer his Oblation of it, for a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord, all the Fat that lies upon the Entrails.

15. He shall also take off the two Kidneys, and the Fat which is upon them, on the Flanks, and the Caul upon the Liver, along with the Kidneys.

16. And let the Priest burn them on the Altar: it shall be the Meat of a Sacrifice by Fire, for a pleasant Smell; all the Fat being the Lord's.

17. By a lasting Ordinance throughout your Generations, in all your Dwellings, you shall eat no Fat, nor any Blood.

CHAP. IV.

AND the Lord bade Moses,
2. To tell the Israelites as follows:
When a Person sins by Mistake, doing contrary to any one of the Lord's Commandments, what should not be done;

3. If it be an anointed Priest who sins in the Offence of the People, he shall bring for his Sin which he has committed, a perfect young Bullock of the Herd to the Lord, for a Sin-offering.

4. And having brought it to the Door of the publick Tent, before the Lord, he shall lean his Hand upon the Head of it, and it shall be killed there.

5. Moreover the same Priest shall take some of the Bullock's Blood, and bring it into the publick Tent.

6. Where the Priest shall dip his Finger in it, and sprinkle some of it seven times before the Lord, before the Veil of the Holy Place.

7. He shall put some of the Blood too upon the Horns of the Altar of the Incense of Odours, before the Lord, which is in the publick Tent; and all the Blood of the Bullock shall he pour out at the Bottom of the Altar of Burnt-offering, which is at the Door of the publick Tent.

8. Besides he shall take up from it all the Fat of the Bullock of Sin-offering, all the Fat that lies upon the Entrails.

9. He shall also take off the two Kidneys, and the Fat which is upon them, on the Flanks, and the Caul upon the Liver, along with the Kidneys:

10. According as it is taken up from the Ox of the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings; and let the Priest burn them upon the Altar of Burnt-offering.

11. And the Skin of the Bullock, and all his Flesh, with his Head, Legs, Entrails and Dung,

12. Nay the whole Bullock let him carry forth without the Camp, to a clean Place, where the Ashes are poured out, and burn him there upon the Wood with Fire.

13. If all the Assembly of Israel likewise err, the Matter being hid from their Sight, and do Something contrary to any of the Lord's Commandments, what should not be done, and be guilty;

14. When the Sin which they have committed against it is known, the Congregation shall bring a young Bullock of the Herd for the Sin, before the publick Tent.

15. And the Elders of the Assembly shall

18. He shall further put some of the Blood upon the Horns of the Altar, which is before the Lord, that is in the publick Tent; and all of it shall he pour out at the Bottom of the Altar of Burnt-offering, which is at the Door of the publick Tent.

19. And he shall take up all his Fat from him, and burn on the Altar.

20. Just so shall he do to the Bullock, as he did to that of Sin-offering: thus shall the Priest make atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them.

21. And he shall carry forth the Bullock without the Camp, and burn him, as he did the former one: which shall be the Sin-offering of the Congregation.

22. When a Prince sins, doing Something contrary to any of the Commandments of the Lord his God, what should not be done, by Mistake, and is guilty;

23. Or when his Sin in which he has sinned is known to him, he shall bring his Oblation, a Kid of the Goats, a perfect Male.

24. And he shall lean his Hand upon the Head of the Kid, and it shall be killed in the Place where the Burnt-offering is, before the Lord: which shall be a Sin-offering.

25. After this the Priest shall take some of the Blood of the Sin-offering with his Finger, and put upon the Horns of the Altar of Burnt-offering; and shall pour out the rest at the Bottom of the same.

26. And he shall burn all the Fat of it on the Altar, like the Fat of the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings: thus shall the Priest purge him from his Sin, and it shall be forgiven him.

27. As also if a Person of the People of the Country sins by Mistake, in doing Something contrary to the Commandments of the Lord, what should not be done, and is guilty;

28. Or when his Sin in which he has sinned is known to him, he shall bring his Oblation, a Kid of the Goats, a perfect Female, for his Sin which he has committed.

29. And he shall lean his Hand upon the Head of the Sin-offering, which shall be killed in the Place of the Burnt-offering.

30. Then the Priest shall take some of its Blood with his Finger, and put upon the Horns of the Altar of Burnt-offering; and all the rest he shall pour out at the Bottom of it.

31. And he shall take off all its Fat, as it is taken off from the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, and shall burn it on the Altar for a pleasant Smell to the Lord: thus let the Priest make atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

32. Or if his Oblation which he brings, is a Lamb for a Sin-offering, he shall bring it a perfect Female.

33. And he shall lean his Hand upon the Head of the Sin-offering; for which it shall be killed, in the same Place that the Burnt-offering is.

34. Next the Priest shall take some of the Blood of it with his Finger, and put upon the Horns of the Altar of Burnt-offering; and all the rest he shall pour out at the Bottom of it.

35. And he shall take off all the Fat of it, as that of the Lamb is taken off from the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, and shall burn them on the Altar with the Lord's Sacrifices by Fire: thus let the Priest make atonement for him, for his Sin which he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

C H A P. V.

WHEN a Person also sins, by hearing an Expression of Cursing, of which he is a Witness, having either seen or known it, and does not tell it, he shall bear his Iniquity.

2. Or the Person who touches any unclean Thing, either a Carcase of an unclean Beast, Cattle, or creeping Thing; though it be hid from him, yet shall he be unclean, and guilty.

3. Or when one touches any Uncleaness of Man, in which he is unclean; whether it be hid from him, or he knows it, he shall be guilty.

4. Or when a Person swears, pronouncing with his Lips, either to do ill or well, in any thing which Man pronounces with an Oath, and it is hidden from him: when he knows that he is guilty in one of these Things,

5. Then shall he confess in what he has sinned;

6. And bring his Trespass-offering to the Lord, for his Sin which he has committed, a Female out of the Flock, a Lamb, or a Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering: thus shall the Priest purge him from his Sin.

7. But if he cannot obtain sufficient for a Lamb, he shall bring for his Trespass in which he has sinned, two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons to the Lord; one for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering.

8. These let him bring to the Priest, who shall offer that which is for the Sin-offering first; pinching off his Head at his Neck, but not dividing him asunder.

9. Next he shall sprinkle some of the Blood of the Sin-offering upon the Side of the Altar, and what is left of it shall be squeezed out at the Bottom of the same: which shall be a Sin-offering.

10. And he shall make the second a Burnt-offering according to the Manner: thus let the Priest purge him from his Sin which he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

11. But if he cannot obtain two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons, he who has sinned shall bring his Oblation, the tenth part of an Ephah of fine Flour for a Sin-offering: upon which he shall neither put Oil, nor Frankincense, because it is a Sin-offering.

12. And he shall bring it to the Priest, who shall take his Handful of the same, a Memorial of it, and burn on the Altar, with the Lord's Sacrifices by Fire: it shall be a Sin-offering.

13. Thus let the Priest make atonement for him, for his Sin which he has committed, in one of these Things, and it shall be forgiven him; the Priest too shall have as in the Meat-offering.

14. Moreover the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

15. When a Person does amiss, and sins by Mistake, contrary to the holy Things of the Lord, he shall bring to him for his Trespass, a perfect Ram of the Flock, by thy Estimation in Shekels of Silver after the holy Shekel, for a Trespass-offering.

16. And what he has sinned in contrary to the holy Thing he shall recompense, and adding the fifth part of the same to it, give it to the Priest; who shall make atonement for him with the Ram of Trespass-offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

17. So if a Person when he sins, and does Something contrary to any of the Lord's Commandments, what should not be done, does not know it; yet he shall be guilty, and bear his Iniquity.

18. Therefore shall he bring a perfect Ram of the Flock, by thy Estimation for a Trespass-offering to the Priest; who shall make atonement for him, for his Error in which he has erred, and did not know it, and it shall be forgiven him.

19. This shall be a Trespass-offering; he being quite guilty towards the Lord.

Ver. 2. touches any unclean Thing] As such a one was only to wash, and be unclean till the Evening, Ch. xi. 27, 28, 31. Something further must be implied here, since a Trespass-offering was to be brought for this, and it was reckoned a Sin, Ver. 4, 5, 6, &c. which the Hebrew Writers take to be his going into the Sanctuary, or eating of the holy Things, while he was thus unclean, Maimonides in Shegageth, Ch. 10. 1, 5.

Ver. 6. Trespass-offering] Commentators have found a great Difficulty in distinguishing the Crimes for which this and a Sin-offering were offered; of which see Gell on Chap. vii. 7. and Patrick on Ver. 15. of this Chap. To tell my own Opinion of it, which turns on a Distinction different from any of those they mention, it seems to me that a Sin-offering was for Sin and Uncleaness in general, and a Trespass-offering for some particular Offences and Uncleaness, mostly of an inferior Sort; whereby, as the Trespass was a Sin, so the Trespass-offering is called a Sin-offering, as in this Verse; and likewise both were offered for the same Thing, Chap. xiv. 10, 12, 13, 19. Num. vi. 11, 12.

1b. from] so the Heb. and not concerning; of which see Gell, Essay, p. 253, 254.

Ver. 18. Error] coming from the Verb that follows.

CHAP. VI.

AND the Lord spoke thus to Moses:

2. When a Person sins, and does amiss against the Lord, lying to his Neighbour about a Thing committed, or taking it, or concerning a Thing taken by force, or wrongs his Neighbour,

3. Or finds a Thing lost, and lyes about it, or swears falsely:

4. When a Man sins in any one of these, and is guilty, he shall restore the Thing which he has taken by force, or what he has wronged another of, or that which was committed to him, or the lost Thing which he has found,

5. Or all concerning which he has sworn falsely; the Principal of which he shall make recompence for, and add its fifth part to it, giving the same to whom it belongs, on the Day of his Trespass-offering.

6. Which he shall bring for the Lord, to the Priest, a perfect Ram of the Flock, by thy Estimation.

7. So let the Priest make atonement for him before the Lord, and it shall be forgiven him; for any one Thing which he has done, to be guilty in it.

8. The Lord further told Moses,

9. That he should command Aaron and his Sons as follows: This shall be the Law of the Burnt-offering; which is so called for the Burning upon the Altar all Night till the Morning, where the Fire of the Altar shall burn.

10. First the Priest shall put on his Linen Garment, as he shall also Linen Drawers upon his Flesh, and take up the Ashes to which the Fire consumes the Burnt-offering upon the Altar; and shall put them by the Altar.

11. Afterwards he shall pull off his Garments, and putting on others, carry forth the Ashes without the Camp, to a clean Place.

12. And the Fire upon the Altar shall be burning there, without being quenched, upon which the Priest shall burn Wood Morning by Morning; and put the Burnt-offering in order on it, and burn upon it the Fat of the Peace-offerings.

13. The Fire shall be burning continually upon the Altar, without being quenched.

14. And this is the Law of the Meat-offering: the Sons of Aaron shall offer it before the Lord, before the Altar.

15. And he shall take up from it his Handful, of the fine Flour of the Meat-offering, and of its Oil, with all the Frankincense which is upon it, and burn on the Altar, for a pleasant Smell, a Memorial of it to the Lord.

16. But what is left of it Aaron and his Sons shall eat; and that in unleavened Cakes, in the Holy Place, in the Court of the publick Tent.

17. It shall not be baked with Leaven; I give it for their Part of my Offerings by Fire: it being very holy, like both the Sin-offering, and the Trespass-offering.

18. Every Male of the Children of Aaron shall eat of it; that shall be a lasting Ordinance in your Generations, of the Lord's Offering by Fire: all that touches them shall be holy.

19. The Lord also spoke to Moses in the following manner:

20. This shall be the Oblation of Aaron and his Sons, which they shall bring to the Lord on the Day they are anointed; the tenth part of an Ephah of fine Flour for a Meat-offering continually; one half of it in the Morning, and the other in the Eveing.

21. Upon a Pan with Oil shall it be made, thou shalt bring it blistered in baking; presenting the baked Pieces of the Meat-offering for a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

22. And let the Priest who is anointed in his room, of his Sons, do it: which shall be a lasting Ordinance to the Lord, it shall be wholly burnt.

23. As every Meat-offering of the Priest shall be; it must not be eat.

24. Besides the Lord ordered Moses,

25. To tell Aaron and his Sons thus: This shall be the Law of the Sin-offering; in the Place where the Burnt-offering is killed, the Sin-offering shall be before the Lord; it being very holy.

26. The Priest who offers it for Sin shall eat it; and that in the Holy Place, in the Court of the publick Tent.

Ver. 2. taking it] This being omitted in the 4th and 5th Verses, and no Mention made of what putting the Hand, in the Heb. Idiom, is for; it seems apparent enough to me, that it belongs to the foregoing, which is otherwise imperfect in Ver. 4. and according to Exod. xxii. 7, 8. Interpreters varying in other Senses, besides the pres. Eng. Text and Margin.

Ver. 10. to which] for the Fire would not consume the Ashes; nay if it had, how were they then to be taken up? And Burnt-offering has the Sign or Article of the Accusative Case in Heb.

Ver. 16. in unleavened Cakes] or unleavened, but the Heb. Word is plural; rendered by Jun. and Trem. azymis factis, being made unleavened Cakes. There is nothing for with in the Original; and which, says Patrick, makes the Sense unaccountable: and Pool says, "disturbs the Sense; for since the Meat-offering it self was fine Flour, Lev. ii. 1. it is not likely that they eat it with unleavened bread."

Ib. in the Court] See Num. xviii. 10.

Ver. 18. all that] according to Ver. 27.

27. All that touches the Flesh of it shall be holy: and when he sprinkles some of the Blood of it upon a Garment, thou shalt wash that on which it is sprinkled, in the Holy Place.

28. Nay the earthen Vessel in which it is boiled shall be broke; whereas if it be boiled in a brazen Vessel, that shall be scoured, and rinsed in Water.

29. Every Male of the Priests shall eat of it; the same being very holy.

30. But every Sin-offering, of which any of the Blood is brought into the publick Tent, to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall not be eat; it shall be burnt with Fire.

CHAP. VII.

THIS shall likewise be the Law of the Trespass-offering; which is very holy:

2. In the Place where they kill the Burnt-offering, they shall the Trespass-offering; and the Blood of it he shall sprinkle upon the Altar round about.

3. And he shall bring of it all its Fat, the Rump, and the Fat that covers the Entrails.

4. He shall also take off the two Kidneys, and the Fat which is upon them, on the Flanks, and the Caul upon the Liver, along with the Kidneys.

5. These let the Priest burn on the Altar for a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord: it shall be a Trespass-offering.

6. Every Male of the Priests shall eat of it; and that in the Holy Place, it being very holy.

7. The Trespass-offering shall be even as the Sin-offering, there shall be the same Law for them: the Priest who makes atonement with it, shall have it.

8. And the Priest who brings a Man's Burnt-offering, shall have the Skin of that himself.

9. All the Meat-offering too which is baked in an Oven, with all that is made in a Pot, and upon a Pan, the Priest who brings it shall have.

10. But every Meat-offering tempered with Oil, or dry, shall be for all the Sons of Aaron, one as well as another.

11. And this shall be the Law of the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, which one brings to the Lord:

12. If he brings it for Thanksgiving, he shall bring with the Sacrifice of that unleavened Cakes tempered with Oil, unleavened Biscuits washed over with Oil, and fine Flour in Cakes blistered in baking, tempered with Oil.

13. Besides the Cakes, he shall bring leavened Bread for his Oblation, with the Sacrifice of Thanksgiving of his Peace-offerings.

14. And let him bring one of it out of all the Oblation, for a Lifted-offering to the Lord: which the Priest who sprinkles the Blood of the Peace-offerings shall have.

15. And the Flesh of the Sacrifice for Thanksgiving, of his Peace-offerings, shall be eat on the Day of his Oblation; he shall not leave of it till the Morning.

16. But if the Sacrifice of his Oblation be a Vow or a Free-offering, it shall be eat on the Day that he brings his Sacrifice; and on the next Day shall that which is left of it be also eat.

17. For what is left of the Flesh of the Sacrifice, shall on the third Day be burnt with Fire.

18. And if the Flesh of the Sacrifice of his Peace-offerings be at all eat of on the third Day, it shall not be accepted, nor counted to him who brings the same, it shall be abominable; and the Person who eats of it, shall bear his Iniquity.

19. Nor shall the Flesh which touches any Thing unclean be eat, it shall be burnt with Fire; otherwise every one who is clean may eat of it.

20. But that Person who eats of the Flesh of the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings which belongs to the Lord, with his Uncleanness upon him, shall be cut off from his People.

21. As in particular a Person shall, when he eats of it, having touched any Thing unclean, either Uncleanness of Man, unclean Beast, or any unclean Abomination.

22. Moreover the Lord bade Moses,

23. Speak to the Israelites as follows; You shall not eat any Fat of Ox, Sheep, or Goat.

24. However the Fat of a Carcase, and the Fat of that which is torn, may be used for any Business; but you shall not at all eat of it.

25. For what Person soever eats the Fat of a Beast, of which he brings a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord, shall be cut off from his People.

26. Neither shall you eat any Blood in all your Habitations, of Fowl, or of Beast.

27. Every individual Person who does, shall be cut off from his People.

28. And the Lord told Moses,

29. To

29. To speak thus to the Israelites: He who brings the Sacrifice of his Peace-offerings to the Lord, shall bring his Oblation to him of the same.

30. With his own Hands shall he bring the Sacrifices of the Lord by Fire, namely the Fat with the Breast, the latter to wave it for a Waved-offering before him.

31. And let the Priest burn the Fat on the Altar, but Aaron and his Sons shall have the Breast.

32. The right Shoulder you shall also give for a Lifted-offering to the Priest, of the Sacrifices of your Peace-offerings.

33. He of the Sons of Aaron who brings the Blood of the Peace-offerings, and the Fat, shall have the right Shoulder for a Share.

34. For I have taken the waved Breast, and lifted Shoulder of the Israelites, from the Sacrifices of their Peace-offerings, and given them to Aaron the Priest and his Sons, for a lasting Ordinance from the Israelites.

35. This was for the anointing both of Aaron, and his Sons, out of the Sacrifices of the Lord by Fire, on the Day he brought them to execute the Priesthood to him:

36. Which the Lord commanded to be given them, on the Day of his anointing them, by the Israelites, for a lasting Ordinance in their Generations.

37. This was the Law for the Burnt-offering, Meat-offering, Sin-offering, Trespass-offering, for filling their Hands, and for the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings;

38. Which the Lord commanded Moses on Mount Sinai, at the Time he commanded the Israelites to bring their Oblations to himself, in the Wilderness of Sinai.

CHAP. VIII.

A GAIN the Lord spoke to him as follows;

2. Take Aaron and his Sons with him, the Garments, Oil for anointing, a Bullock for a Sin-offering, two Rams, and a Basket of unleavened Cakes;

3. And gather together all the Assembly, to the Door of the publick Tent.

4. Thus Moses did as the Lord commanded him, and the Assembly was gathered together there.

5. Whereupon he said to them, This is the Thing which the Lord has commanded to be done.

6. So having brought Aaron and his Sons, he washed them with Water;

7. As also put the Coat upon him, girded him with the Belt, cloathed him with the Cloak, put the Ephod upon him, and girding him with the Girdle of the same, placed the Ephod on him with it.

8. And he put the Breast-plate upon him, putting on it the Urim and Thummim.

9. Besides he set the Mitre upon his Head, and put upon that at his Face the Plate of Gold, the holy Crown; as the Lord had commanded him.

10. Moses further took the Oil for anointing, and anointed the Tabernacle, with all that was in it, that he might consecrate them.

11. And he sprinkled some of it upon the Altar seven Times, anointing that and all its Instruments, with the Washing-vessel and its Base, to consecrate them.

12. He poured some of the Oil for anointing too upon Aaron's Head, and anointed him, to consecrate him.

13. And Aaron's Sons being brought, he cloathed them with the Coats, girded them with the Belts, and tied the Caps on them; as the Lord had commanded him.

14. Moreover he brought nigh the Bullock for the Sin-offering, and Aaron with his Sons leaned their Hands upon the Head of it.

15. Which being killed, Moses took some Blood, and put upon the Horns of the Altar round about with his Finger, and purified it; pouring out the rest at the Bottom of the Altar, and consecrating it, to make atonement upon it.

16. And he took all the Fat that was upon the Entrails, the Caul of the Liver, and the two Kidneys, with their Fat, which he burnt on the Altar.

17. But the Bullock, with his Skin, Flesh and Dung, he burnt with Fire without the Camp; as the Lord had commanded him.

18. He likewise brought the Ram for the Burnt-offering, upon whose Head Aaron and his Sons leaned their Hands.

19. This was killed, and Moses sprinkled the Blood upon the Altar round about.

20. Next he divided the Ram into his Pieces; which he burnt with the Head, and the Fat.

21. And washing the Entrails and Legs with Water, he burnt the whole Ram on the Altar: which was a Burnt-offering for a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord; as he had commanded Moses.

22. Afterwards he brought the other Ram, that for filling; when Aaron and his Sons leaned their Hands upon his Head.

23. Which being killed, Moses took some of his Blood, and put upon the Tip of Aaron's right Ear, upon the Thumb of his right Hand, and the great Toe of his right Foot.

24. As likewise bringing Aaron's Sons, he put some of it upon the Tips of their right Ears, upon the Thumbs of their right Hands, and the great Toes of their right Feet; and sprinkled the Blood upon the Altar round about.

25. He also took the Fat, the Rump, all the Fat which was upon the Entrails, the Caul of the Liver, the two Kidneys, with their Fat, and the right Shoulder;

26. And out of the Basket of unleavened Cakes, that was before the Lord, he took one unleavened Cake, one Cake of Bread with Oil, and one Biscuit; laying them on the Fat, and the right Shoulder:

27. All which he put upon the Hands of Aaron, and those of his Sons, and waved them for a Waved-offering before the Lord.

28. Moses took them off again from their Hands, and burnt them on the Altar with the Burnt-offering: they were fillings for a pleasant Smell, it was a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

29. And taking the Breast, he waved it for a Waved-offering before the Lord: which was a Part for himself of the Ram of filling, as the Lord had commanded him.

30. Besides he took some of the Oil for anointing, and of the Blood which was upon the Altar, and sprinkled upon Aaron, and his Garments, together with his Sons, and their Garments: thus were he and they, with their Garments, consecrated.

31. And Moses said to him and them: Boil the Flesh at the Door of the publick Tent, and there eat it, with the Bread which is in the Basket of filling; as I commanded, that Aaron and his Sons should eat it.

32. But what is left both of the Flesh and Bread, you shall burn with Fire.

33. Nor shall you go out of the Door of the publick Tent seven Days, till the Time of the Days of your filling is fulfilled: your Hands shall be filled seven Days.

34. As it has been done this Day, the Lord has commanded to do, to make atonement for you.

35. Therefore you shall abide at the Door of the publick Tent, Day and Night seven Days, and keep the Charge of the Lord, that you may not die: for so am I commanded.

36. And Aaron and his Sons did all Things, which the Lord commanded by the Ministry of Moses.

CHAP. IX.

WHO on the eighth Day called them, and the Elders of Israel,

2. And said to Aaron; Take thee a young Calf of the Herd for a Sin-offering, and a Ram for a Burnt-offering, of them that are perfect, and bring before the Lord.

3. Moreover thou shalt speak thus to the Israelites; Take you a Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering, with a Calf and a Lamb in their first Year, that are perfect, for a Burnt-offering,

4. As likewise an Ox and a Ram for Peace-offerings, to sacrifice before the Lord, and a Meat-offering tempered with Oil: for to Day the Lord will appear to you.

5. Accordingly they fetched what Moses commanded before the publick Tent; and all the Assembly came near, and stood before the Lord.

6. When Moses said, This is the Thing which the Lord has commanded you should do, and his Glory will appear to you.

7. He said also to Aaron, Go to the Altar, and offer thy Sin-offering and Burnt-offering; making atonement for thy self, as well as the People: for thou shalt offer their Oblation, and make atonement for them, as the Lord has commanded.

8. So Aaron went to the Altar, and killed the Calf of the Sin-offering which was for himself.

9. And his Sons bringing the Blood to him, he dipt his Finger in it, and put upon the Horns of the Altar; at the Bottom of which he poured it out.

10. But the Fat, the Kidneys, and the Caul of the Liver, of the Sin-offering, he burnt on the Altar; as the Lord had commanded Moses.

11. And the Flesh, and Skin, he burnt with Fire without the Camp.

12. He likewise killed the Burnt-offering; and his Sons getting the Blood for him, he sprinkled it upon the Altar round about.

13. And they got the Burnt-offering for him, with its Pieces, and the Head; which he burnt upon the Altar:

14. As also washed the Entrails, and Legs; and burnt with the Burnt-offering there.

15. Then he brought the Oblation of the People, taking the Goat of the Sin-offering that was for them, which he killed, and offered for Sin as the former.

16. And he brought the Burnt-offering, doing it as the Manner was.

17. He further brought the Meat-offering, and filling his Hand with it, burnt it upon the Altar; beside the Burnt-offering of the Morning.

18. And he killed the Ox and Ram, of the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings that was for the People; and his Sons got the Blood for him (which he sprinkled upon the Altar round about)

19. The Fat too of the Ox, and of the Ram the Rump, as also the Covering, with the Kidneys, and the Caul of the Liver.

20. And when they had laid the Fat upon the Breasts, he burnt it on the Altar.

21. But the Breasts and right Shoulder he waved for a Waved-offering before the Lord, as Moses commanded.

22. Afterwards Aaron lifted up his Hands to the People, and blessed them; and came down from doing the Sin-offering, Burnt-offering and Peace-offerings.

23. Next Moses and he went into the publick Tent, and coming out, blessed the People; when the Glory of the Lord appeared to them all.

24. Besides there came out a Fire from before the Lord, and consumed upon the Altar the Burnt-offering and Fat; which all the People seeing, they cried out, and fell upon their Faces.

into them, and laying Incense upon it, they offered strange Fire before the Lord, which he did not command them.

2. At this there went out Fire from before the Lord, and consumed them; so that they died before him.

3. And Moses said to Aaron; It is what the Lord thus spoke, I will be sanctified in those who come near me, and will be glorified before all the People; and Aaron was silent.

4. Then Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the Sons of Uzziel Aaron's Uncle, and said to them, Come hither, carry your Kinsmen from the Presence of the Holy Place without the Camp.

5. They approached accordingly, and carried them in their Coats thither; as he ordered.

6. He said further to Aaron, to Eleazar and Ithamar his Sons; Do not make your Heads bald, nor rent your Garments, lest you should die, and the Lord be in a Wrath with all the Assembly; yet let your Brethren, all the Family of Israel, weep for the Burning which he has made.

7. Nor shall you go out of the Door of the publick Tent, lest you should die; for the anointing Oil of the Lord is upon you. And they did as he said.

8. And the Lord spoke to Aaron as follows;

9. Do not drink Wine, nor strong Drink, thy self and Sons with thee, when you go into the publick Tent, lest you should die; which shall be a lasting Ordinance for your Generations:

10. Both to make a Separation between holy and common, and between unclean and clean;

11. And that you may teach the Israelites, all the Ordinances which the Lord has spoken to them by the Ministry of Moses.

12. And Moses said to Aaron, to Eleazar and Ithamar his Sons who were left; Take the Meat-offering that is left of the Lord's Offerings by Fire, and eat it in unleavened Cakes by the Altar: for it is very holy.

13. You shall eat it in the Holy Place, because it is thy own and thy Sons Allowance,

15. The lifted Shoulder, and waved Breast, shall they bring with the Offerings by Fire of the Fat, to wave for a Waved-offering before the Lord: which shall be thine, and thy Sons with thee, for a lasting Ordinance; as the Lord has commanded.

16. And Moses sought diligently for the Goat of the Sin-offering, and behold it was burnt; at which he was in a Wrath with Eleazar, and Ithamar, the Sons of Aaron who were left, and said;

17. Why did not you eat the Sin-offering in the Holy Place, since it is very holy? And it is given you to bear the Iniquity of the Assembly, to make atonement for them before the Lord.

18. Behold the Blood of it has not been brought in within the Holy Place: you should have wholly eat it there, as I commanded.

19. But Aaron answered him, Lo they brought their Sin-offering, and Burnt-offering before the Lord to Day; but such Things as these having befallen me, had I eat the Sin-offering now, would he have liked it?

20. Which Moses hearing, did not dislike it.

CHAP. XI.

THE Lord also spoke to him and Aaron, bidding them,

2. To say thus to the Israelites: These are the living Creatures that you may eat, of all Beasts which are upon the Earth:

3. Namely every one that divides the Hoof, having a Cleft all through, and that brings up the Cud.

4. But these you shall not eat, of them that bring up the Cud, or of such as divide the Hoof: the Camel though he brings up the Cud, yet not dividing the Hoof, is unclean to you.

5. And the Rabbit though he brings up the Cud, yet not dividing the Hoof, is unclean to you.

6. The Hare likewise though he brings up the Cud, yet not dividing the Hoof, is unclean to you.

7. On the other hand the Hog though he divides the Hoof, having a Cleft all through, yet not chewing the Cud, is unclean to you.

8. You shall neither eat of their Flesh, nor touch their Carcases; they being unclean to you.

9. These you may eat, of all which are in the Waters; all that have Fins and Scales there, in the Seas, or the Brooks.

10. But all which have no Fins nor Scales, in the Seas, or Brooks, of all that creep in the Waters, and of all living Creatures which are there; shall be abominable to you:

11. So abominable that you shall not eat any of their Flesh, but abhor their Carcases.

12. Every one that has no Fins nor Scales in the Waters, shall be abominable to you.

13. And these you shall abhor of the Fowls, which shall not be eat, being abominable: the Eagle, Ossifrage, Osprey,

Ver. 4. not eat] The Reasons given by Writers for this Prohibition are, that those unclean Creatures were unwholesome Food (especially perhaps in that Country) Maimon. More Nevoch. Pt. iii. Levi Barcelonita, Præcept. 79. or because they either then were, or would be thereafter consecrated, as divers of them were, by the Gentiles to their false gods, Origen against Celsus, B. iv. John Wagenseil Annet. on Seta. I think there may be a closer and more particular Interpretation given, which I may take room to hint at: Beasts with Claws might be forbid, as being of the carnivorous Kind, and a fierce and ravening Nature, which they might communicate to Man by being eat; and those with Hoofs not divided, as being labouring Beasts, with Flesh hard and unwholesome: such too might be prohibited as fed on Flesh, like the Birds following, because they were gross and rapacious, which did not need a Cud to turn that Food into Aliment; and those that lived on Vegetables without Chewing, for their being naturally more unclean, and their Food more crudely digested. The Application to particular Animals I leave. It has also been thought to be spoken in a spiritual Signification from the Nature of those Creatures, as of the Hog being filthy, the Birds mostly rapacious, &c. nay it has been carried so far as if that was the only Meaning, particularly in the Epistle ascribed to Barnabas, Sect. 10.

43. Make not your Persons abominable, by any creeping Thing that creeps; nor shall you make your selves unclean by them, and be defiled thereby.

44. Because I am the Lord your God, therefore shall you sanctify your selves, and be holy, for I am holy; and shall not make your Persons unclean by any creeping Thing that crawls upon the Ground.

45. For I am the Lord who brought you up from the Country of Egypt, to be a God to you; and you shall be holy, for I am holy.

46. This is the Law of Beasts, Fowls, of all living Creatures that stir in the Waters, and all Creatures that creep upon the Earth:

47. To make a separation between unclean, and clean; and between the living Creature to be eat, and that which shall not be eat.

CHAP. XII.

AND the Lord told Moses, 2. That he should speak to the Israelites as follows: When a Woman conceives Seed, and bears a Male, she shall be unclean seven Days, even according to those of the Separation for her Infirmary.

3. And on the eighth Day let the Flesh of his Foreskin be circumcised.

4. And then shall she abide thirty three Days in the Blood of Cleansing: she shall neither touch any consecrated Thing, nor go into the Sanctuary, till the Time of her Cleansing is fulfilled.

5. But if she bear a Female, she shall be unclean two Weeks, according to her Separation; and shall abide in the Blood of her Cleansing sixty six Days.

6. And when the Time of her Cleansing is fulfilled for a Son, or a Daughter, she shall bring a Lamb in his first Year for a Burnt-offering, and a young Pigeon, or a Turtle-dove for a Sin-offering; to the Door of the publick Tent, to the Priest.

7. Who shall bring it near before the Lord, and making atonement for her, she shall be cleansed from the Fountain of her Blood: this is the Law for her who bears a Male, or a Female.

8. But if she cannot get a Lamb, let her take two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons, one for a Burnt-offering, and the other for a Sin-offering; and the Priest shall make atonement for her, so she shall be clean.

CHAP. XIII.

THE Lord also spoke thus to Moses and Aaron:

2. When there is a Man, in the Skin of whose Flesh is a Swelling, Scab, or bright Spot, which is like the Sore of the Leprosy there; he shall be brought to Aaron the Priest, or to one of his Sons the Priests.

3. Who shall look at the Sore in the Skin of the Flesh, and the Hair in the Sore being turned white, and it appearing deeper than the Skin of his Flesh, it is the Sore of the Leprosy; and when the Priest sees such a one, he shall declare him unclean.

4. But if the bright Spot be white in the Skin of his Flesh, and appear no deeper than the Skin, and the Hair of it be not turned white; he shall shut up him who has the Sore seven Days.

5. And on the seventh Day shall look at him, when behold if the Sore appear to him to stand still, without spreading in the Skin; he shall shut him up seven Days again.

Ver. 4. of Cleansing] without her here, that is made in the next only by a small Point in it thus it which may be an Instance of the Usefulness of the least Heb. Points, as her or not her would be undistinguished without it. All our principal Translations have her likewise wrong in the next Verse.

Ver. 2. Sore] as in Ver. 42.

Ver. 3. Leprosy] The white Leprosy, as this is described, Pliny says in his Natural History, B. xxvi. 1. though not seen in Italy before the Time of Pompey, was peculiar and natural to the Egyptians; which agrees well with the Scripture, as the Israelites might have it from them.

Ver. 4. him who has] him or with the Sore, which therefore need not be Italick.

Ver. 5. appear to him] Heb. in his Eyes. Patrick, as it seems taking the Hint from Poole, rather than from Ainsworth, pleads for the Expression being translated, If it continues in the same Colour: but though the Heb. Word sing. for Eye sometimes signifies Colour, as in Ver. 55. yet here it is plural, and so must needs mean the Priest's Eyes, as Ver. 37. especially as the Colour of the Sore beforementioned is but one, Ver. 4. next the Original having no Conjunction for and between this and the following Member, shews they are to the same Effect, as Ver. 23, 28. where also is Place for Eyes; 3dly, it appears by Ver. 6. compared with Ver. 4. that it is spoken of as altering its Colour.

6. He shall also look at him on the next seventh Day, and behold if the Sore is darkish, without spreading in the Skin; the Priest shall declare him clean, it being a Scab; he shall wash his Cloaths, and be clean.

7. Yet if the Scab spread about in the Skin, after he has been seen by the Priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen by him again.

8. And upon his seeing plainly, that the Scab spreads in the Skin; he shall declare him unclean, it is the Leprosy.

9. When the Sore of the Leprosy is in a Man, he shall be brought to the Priest.

10. Who shall see, and behold if the Swelling is white in the Skin, and has not only turned the Hair white, but there is the Substance of proud Flesh in the Swelling;

11. It is an old Leprosy in the Skin of his Flesh, and the Priest shall declare him unclean; by reason of which he shall not shut him up.

12. And if a Leprosy breaks out abroad in the Skin, so that it covers all the Skin of him who has the Sore, from his Head to his Feet, where-ever the Priest looks with his Eyes;

13. Upon his seeing plainly that the Leprosy covers all his Flesh, he shall declare him who has the Sore clean: all of it being turned white, he is clean.

14. Nevertheless on the Day there appears proud Flesh in it, he shall be unclean.

15. Which when the Priest sees, he shall declare him unclean: proud Flesh being so, which is the Leprosy.

16. Or when the proud Flesh is restored, and turned white, he shall come to the Priest.

17. Who shall look at him, and behold the Sore being turned white, shall declare him who has the Sore clean; he being so.

18. Further when there is Flesh, in the Skin of which is a Boil, that has been healed;

19. And there be in the Place of the Boil a white Swelling, or a white reddish bright Spot, it shall be seen by the Priest.

20. At whose seeing plainly, that it appears lower than the Skin, and the Hair of it is turned white; he shall declare him unclean, it is the Sore of the Leprosy broke out in the Boil.

21. But if when he sees it, behold there is no white Hair in it, and it is not lower than the Skin, and is darkish; he shall shut him up seven Days.

22. Then if it spread about in the Skin;

the Priest shall declare him unclean, it is the Sore.

23. On the contrary if the bright Spot stand still in its Place, not spreading, it is a burning Boil; and he shall declare him clean.

24. Or when in the Skin of the Flesh there is scorching of Fire, and in the Substance of that a white bright Spot, reddish or white;

25. The Priest shall look at it, and behold the Hair being turned white in the bright Spot, and appearing deeper than the Skin, it is the Leprosy broke out in the Scorching: therefore he shall declare such a one unclean, it is the Sore of the Leprosy.

26. But if when he sees it, behold there is no white Hair in the bright Spot, and it is not lower than the Skin, and is darkish; he shall shut him up seven Days.

27. And looking at him on the seventh Day, if it be spread about in the Skin; he shall declare him unclean, it is the Sore of the Leprosy,

28. However if the bright Spot stand still in its Place, not spreading in the Skin, and is darkish, it is a Swelling of the Scorching; and the Priest shall declare him clean, for it is an Inflammation of that.

29. Besides when there is a Man or Woman in whom is a Sore, on the Head, or the Beard;

30. The Priest shall see the Sore, and behold it appearing deeper than the Skin, and there being in it yellow thin Hair; he shall declare him unclean, it is a Scurf, it is the Leprosy of the Head or Beard.

31. But when he sees the Sore of the Scurf, and behold it appears no deeper than the Skin, and there is no black Hair in it; he shall shut up him who has it seven Days.

32. And shall look at the Sore on the seventh Day, when behold the Scurf not spreading, nor yellow Hair being in it, and it appearing no deeper than the Skin;

33. He shall shave himself, but not the Scurf, and the Priest shall shut up him who has it another seven Days.

34. Again he shall see it on the seventh Day, and behold it not spreading in the Skin, and appearing no deeper than that; the Priest shall declare him clean, and he shall wash his Cloaths, and be so.

35. Whereas if the Scurf spread about in the Skin, after his cleansing;

36. He shall look at him, and behold the Scurf spreading there, the Priest need not seek for yellow Hair, he is unclean.

Ver. 24. Fire] which has burnt there, as Expositors agree.

37. But if the Scurf appear to him to stand still, and black Hair grow therein, it is healed, he is clean; and the Priest shall declare him so.

38. And when there is a Man or Woman, in the Skin of whose Flesh are bright Spots, white bright ones;

39. The Priest shall look, and behold if they are there darkish white, it is a freckled Spot broke out in the Skin, such a one is clean.

40. When there is likewise a Man whose Head is become bare, he being bald, is clean.

41. And if his Head is become bare on the Side towards his Face, he being bald before, is clean.

42. Nevertheless when there is in his Baldness, or Baldness before, a white reddish Sore, it is the Leprosy broke out in either of them.

43. Therefore the Priest shall look at him, and behold if the Swelling of the Sore be white reddish in either of these, as the Leprosy looks in the Skin of the Flesh;

44. He is a leprous Man, he is unclean: the Priest shall declare him wholly unclean, his Sore being in his Head.

45. As for the Leper in whom the Sore is, his Cloaths shall be ripped, and his Head bald, nay he shall cover over his Lip; and proclaim, Unclean, unclean.

46. All the Days that the Sore is on him he shall be defiled, being unclean: he shall dwell alone, having his Habitation without the Camp.

47. And when there is a Garment in which is the Sore of the Leprosy, either in a woolen or a linen one,

48. In the Warp, or Woof, of Linen, or Woolen, in a Skin, or any Work of Skin;

49. The Sore being greenish, or reddish, in the Garment, Skin, Warp, Woof, or any Thing of Skin, it is the Sore of the Leprosy; and shall be shewn to the Priest.

50. Who having seen the Sore, shall shut up that which has it seven Days.

51. And looking at it on the seventh Day, when it is spread in the Garment, Warp, Woof, or Skin, with any Work which is made of Skin; the Sore is a fretting Leprosy, it is unclean.

52. He shall therefore burn the Garment, Warp, or Woof, in Woolen, or Linen, or any Thing of Skin in which the Sore is: for it is a fretting Leprosy, it shall be burnt with Fire.

53. But if the Priest look, and behold the Sore is not spread in the Garment, Warp, Woof, or any Thing of Skin;

54. He shall command that they should wash that which the Sore is in, and he shall shut it up again seven Days.

55. And after it is washed the Priest shall look at the Sore, and behold it having not changed its Colour, though it be not spread, it is unclean, thou shalt burn it with Fire: it is a deep fretting in its bare Outside, or in its bare Inside.

56. If the Priest however sees plainly, that the Sore is darkish after the washing of it; he shall tear it out of the Garment, Skin, Warp, or Woof.

57. And if it appear still in the Garment, Warp, Woof, or any Thing of Skin, it is broke out: thou shalt burn that in which the Sore is with Fire.

58. But the Garment, Warp, Woof, or any Thing of Skin which thou wastest, and the Sore departs from the same; shall then be washed again, and be clean.

59. This is the Law of the Sore of the Leprosy, in a woolen or linen Garment, Warp, Woof, or any Thing of Skin; to declare it clean, or to declare it unclean.

C H A P. XIV.

THE Lord also spoke to Moses as follows:

2. This shall be the Law of the Leper on the Day of his Cleansing. First he shall be brought to the Priest.

3. Who shall go forth without the Camp, where he shall look, and behold the Sore of the Leprosy being healed of the Leprous;

4. The Priest shall command that there should be taken for him who is to be cleansed, two live clean Birds, Cedar Wood, scarlet Thread and Hyssop.

5. He shall likewise command that one Bird should be killed, in an earthen Vessel over Spring Water.

Ver. 45. bald] See Chap. x. 6.

Ver. 47. Garment] of which Petrus Cunnæus, De Republica Hebræorum, Lib. ii. Cap. ult. Cujusmodi id vitium in rebus inanimatis fuerit, Syri fortasse & Egyptii tunc intellexerunt; nos hercle ignoramus: the Syrians and Egyptians might then understand what such a Distemper was in inanimate Things; we indeed know not.

Ver. 55. Colour] See Ver. 5. to which the Case here is different in the Particulars there remarked. This Colour was greenish or reddish, Ver. 49. which becoming darkish, Ver. 56. was changed, and so the next Verse has a different Case from this.

Ib. though] according to the Sense, by comparing it with Ver. 51, 53.

Ver. 3. who shall go forth] before the Leper comes to him, having first received Notice of it; see Ch. xiii. 46.

Ver. 5. Spring Water] as we call it; in Heb. living Waters.

6. As for the live Bird, he shall take that, with the Cedar Wood, scarlet Thread and Hyssop; which he shall dip, along with the live Bird, into the Blood of the other that is killed over the Spring Water.

7. And he shall sprinkle upon him who is to be cleansed from the Leprosy seven times; then shall he declare him clean, and let the live Bird go out in the Field.

8. Moreover he who is to be cleansed shall wash his Cloaths, shave off all his Hair, and bathe in Water, that he may be clean, after which he shall come into the Camp; but shall abide without his Tent seven Days.

9. Then on the seventh Day he shall shave off all his Hair, particularly that of his Head, Beard and Eye-brows; as also wash his Cloaths, and bathe his Flesh in Water, that he may be clean.

10. And on the eighth Day he shall take two perfect Ram-lambs, one perfect Ewe-lamb in its first Year, three tenth Parts of fine Flour for a Meat-offering tempered with Oil, and one Log of Oil.

11. Them and the Man who is to be made clean, shall the Priest who cleanses place before the Lord, at the Door of the publick Tent.

12. The Priest too shall take one Ram-lamb, and offer him for a Trespass-offering, with the Log of Oil; and wave them for a Waved-offering before the Lord.

13. And he shall kill the Lamb in the Place where he kills the Sin-offering, and the Burnt-offering, in the Holy Place: for the Trespass-offering is the Priests like the Sin-offering, it being very holy.

14. Afterwards he shall take some of the Blood of the Trespass-offering, and put upon the Tip of the right Ear of him who is to be cleansed, upon the Thumb of his right Hand, and the great Toe of his right Foot.

15. The Priest shall further take some of the Log of Oil, and pour into his own left Hand:

16. Into which he shall dip his right Finger, and sprinkle some of the Oil with it, seven times before the Lord.

17. Some of the rest of the Oil also that is in his Hand, shall he put upon the Tip of the right Ear of him who is to be cleansed, upon the Thumb of his right Hand, and the great Toe of his right Foot, on the Blood of the Trespass-offering.

18. And what is left of the Oil which is in the Priest's Hand, he shall put upon the Head of him who is to be cleansed; that he may make atonement for him before the Lord.

19. For he shall offer the Sin-offering, and make atonement for him who is to be cleansed from his Uncleanness; after which he shall kill the Burnt-offering.

20. As he shall likewise offer it up, and the Meat-offering on the Altar: thus the Priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be clean.

21. But if he is poor, and cannot obtain it, he shall take one Lamb, a Trespass-offering for waving, to make an atonement for him, one tenth Part of fine Flour tempered with Oil for a Meat-offering, and a Log of Oil;

22. And two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons, which he can obtain, one being for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering.

23. These he shall bring on the eighth Day for his Cleansing to the Priest, to the Door of the publick Tent before the Lord.

24. Where the Priest shall take the Lamb for the Trespass-offering, with the Log of Oil; and shall wave them for a Waved-offering before the Lord.

25. And he shall kill the Lamb of the Trespass-offering, some of the Blood of which the Priest shall take, and put upon the Tip of the right Ear of him who is to be cleansed, upon the Thumb of his right Hand, and the great Toe of his right Foot.

26. Besides the Priest shall pour of the Oil into his own left Hand:

27. Some of which he shall sprinkle with his right Finger, seven times before the Lord.

28. Nay he shall put some of the Oil which is in his Hand, upon the Tip of the right Ear of him who is to be cleansed, upon the Thumb of his right Hand, and the great Toe of his right Foot, on the Place of the Blood of the Trespass-offering.

29. And what is left of the Oil which is in the Priest's Hand, he shall put upon the Head of him who is to be cleansed; to make atonement for him before the Lord.

30. Lastly he shall offer of the Turtle-doves, or of the young Pigeons, which he can obtain,

Ver. 9. seventh Day] after his first washing and shaving, being the last of the seven he was to abide out of his Tent, Ver. 8.

Ib. that he may be clean] which he was not yet, Ver. 20.

Ver. 17. on the Blood] See Ver. 28.

Ver. 18. that he] like Ver. 29.

Ver. 19. Sin-offering] The Jewish Rabbi Levi Barce-lonita, Præcept. 168. observing, that a Leper should not look on his Disease as a casual Thing, but consider seriously, and acknowledge some grievous Sin was the Cause of it.

31. And has procured, one for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering; with the Meat-offering: thus shall the Priest make atonement for him who is to be cleansed, before the Lord.

32. This is the Law for him in whom is the Sore of the Leprosy, who cannot procure the Things for his cleansing.

33. And the Lord spoke thus to Moses and Aaron:

34. When you are come into the Country of Canaan, which I give you for a Possession, and I put the Sore of the Leprosy into a House of the Country which you possess;

35. He to whom the House belongs shall come, and tell the Priest, that there appears to him as it were a Sore in the House.

36. Upon this the Priest shall command that they should remove the Things of it, before he goes in to see the Sore, that all which is in the House may not be made unclean; and after that he shall go in to see the House.

37. And looking at the Sore, behold if it is in the Walls of the House, with hollow Streaks greenish or reddish, appearing to be farther in than the Outside;

38. He shall go out of the House by the Door of it, and shut up the House seven Days.

39. And he shall return on the seventh Day, and seeing plainly, that the Sore is spread in the Walls of the House;

40. Shall command that they should pull out the Stones in which the Sore is, and throw them without the City, into an unclean Place.

41. Moreover he shall have the House scraped on the Inside round about; and they shall pour out the Dust which they scrape off, into a Place as before.

42. They shall also take other Stones, and put in the room of those; and other Mortar shall be taken, and the House plaistered.

43. But if the Sore come again, and break out in the House, after he has pulled out the Stones, and after the House is scraped and plaistered;

44. The Priest shall come, and look, and behold the Sore being spread in it, it is a fretting Leprosy there, it is unclean.

45. Therefore he shall break down the House, the Stones, Timber, and all the Mortar of it; which he shall carry forth without the City into an unclean Place.

46. And he who goes into the House on any of the Days that he has shut it up, shall be unclean till the Evening.

47. He likewise who lies in the House shall wash his Cloaths, as shall he who eats in it.

48. On the contrary if the Priest, when he finally comes, sees plainly, that the Sore does not spread in the House after it is plaistered; he shall declare it clean, for the Sore is healed.

49. So he shall take to cleanse the House two Birds, Cedar-wood, scarlet Thread, and Hyssop:

50. And shall kill one Bird, in an earthen Vessel over Spring Water;

51. Next he shall take the Cedar-wood, Hyssop, scarlet Thread, and the live Bird, and dipping them into the Blood of that which is killed, and into the Spring Water, shall sprinkle on the House seven times.

52. Thus shall he cleanse it with the Blood of the Bird, with the Spring Water, the live Bird, Cedar-wood, Hyssop, and scarlet Thread.

53. And he shall let the live Bird go without the City, out in the Field: so shall he make atonement for the House, and it shall be clean.

54. This is the Law, for every Sore of the Leprosy, and for a Scurf.

55. For the Leprosy of a Garment, and a House,

56. As also for a Swelling, Scab, and bright Spot;

57. To teach on what Day it is unclean, and on what Day it is clean: this is the Law of the Leprosy.

CHAP. XV.

THE Lord ordered Moses, and Aaron further,

2. That they should speak to the Israelites, and say to them: When there is any Man from whose Flesh there is a Flux, he is unclean by it.

3. And this shall be his Uncleanness in his Flux; his Flesh either running with his Flux, or stopping from it.

4. Every Bed on which he who has the Flux lies, shall be unclean; and every Thing that he sits upon, shall be the same.

5. And the Person who touches his Bed, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

Ver. 34. I put] The Author of Sepher Cosri, Part ii. Sect. 58. as quoted by Patrick, says, God inflicted this Plague of Leprosy upon Houses and Garments (see Chap.

xiii. 47.) as a Punishment for lesser Sins: and when Men continued still to multiply Transgressions, then it invaded their Bodies.

6. He too that sits upon a Thing on which he who has the Flux sate, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

7. And he that touches the Flesh of him who has the Flux, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

8. Thus when he who has the Flux spits on a clean Person, he shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

9. Any Saddle likewise, which he rides upon who has the Flux, shall be unclean.

10. And whoever touches any Thing which was under him, shall be unclean till the Evening; and he who carries it, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

11. And every one whom he that has the Flux touches, having not rinsed his Hands in Water, shall also wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

12. Besides the earthen Vessel, which he who has the Flux touches, shall be broke; but every Vessel of Wood shall be rinsed in Water.

13. And when he who had the Flux is clean from it, he shall count him seven Days for his cleansing, and wash his Cloaths, bathe his Flesh in Spring Water, and shall be clean.

14. On the eighth Day moreover he shall take him two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons; and coming before the Lord to the Door of the publick Tent, shall give them to the Priest.

15. Who shall offer them, one for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering: thus shall he purge him from his Flux before the Lord.

16. When there is a Man also from whom seminal Matter is emitted, he shall bathe all his Flesh in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

17. And every Garment, and Skin on which it is, shall be washed too in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

18. As likewise when there is a Woman with whom a Man lies carnally, they shall bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

19. Next when there is a Woman has a Flux, which is sanguinary in her Flesh, she shall be in her Separation seven Days, and every one who touches her shall be unclean till the Evening.

20. Every Thing too upon which she lies in her Separation shall be unclean, and every Thing which she sits upon shall be so.

21. And whoever touches her Bed, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

22. Whoever also touches any Thing on which she sits, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

23. And if Somewhat be upon the Bed, or upon a Thing which she sits on, when he touches it, he shall be unclean till the Evening.

24. Nay if a Man lies with her at all, and her Separation be upon him, he shall be unclean seven Days; and all the Bed on which he lies shall be unclean.

25. And when a Woman has a sanguinary Flux many Days, not in the Time of her Separation, or when she has it over her Separation; all the Days of the Flux of her Uncleanneſs shall be as those of her Separation, she shall be unclean.

26. Every Bed on which she lies all the Days of her Flux, shall be to her as that of

Ver. 11. his Hands] who has the Flux, as one might think is not doubtful; yet Patrick represents it, and Poole says it may be understood, rather of the Person touched. To take off which Uncertainty or Misunderstanding, let it be considered, that it is not who does not rinse, as would have been proper for the other Meaning; 2dly, the Verb is in the preterperfect Tense, and of what Service could be the rinsing of his Hands who was touched before the touching was? whereas by cleansing the Hands of the other, they might be prevented from giving Uncleanneſs to him whom they touched; 3dly, something else is ordered for him who was touched, viz. to wash his Cloaths, and bathe in Water; 4thly, 'I do not see, says Patrick, how washing of his Hands could cleanse him; 'when the Man that had the Issue, touched perhaps some other Part of his Body.' Which last, though it may not be the strongest Reason, because the like may be retorted on the opposite Person, who might touch with another Part of his Body, the Bishop brings as what convinced him without observing the other. Ainsworth indeed interprets Hands to be put for the whole Body, according to the Sentence of Maimonides in Mikvaoth, Ch. 1. but they seem rather put for any Part of the Body which touched another Person, the Hands being the principal

VOL. I.

Members for touching, and so more applicable to the Toucher than to the Touched.

Ver. 13. had] not bath.

Ver. 18. a Man] Poole expounds it, The Man that had such an Issue as beforementioned: but this cannot be, because he was to be seven Days in cleansing, Ver. 13. besides that the Account of such a one was finished, and two different Matters delivered since, this being the third. The Injunction here laid may not appear too troublesome, if it be considered how wholesome and agreeable Bathing might be in that warm Country; as a principal Use of it might be, to keep People from approaching the Sanctuary, or meddling with holy Things at such a Time; see Exod. xix. 15. 1 Sam. xxi. 4. So the Poet Tibullus, discedat ab aris, cui tulit hesternæ gaudia nocte Venus; let such depart from the Altars, to whom Venus brought Joys last Night, Lib. ii. Eleg. 1.

Ver. 24. lies with her] in the same Bed, not carnally, as Chap. xx. 18. which may appear by the great Disparity of the Punishments, and the Expressions suitable to each in both Places; agreeable to the Assembly's Annotations: better than expounding this to be done ignorantly, which would scarce be; or might always be pleaded, and so none found guilty of the other.

her her Separation; and every Thing which she sits upon shall be unclean, like the Unclean-ness of her Separation.

27. And whoever touches them shall be unclean, so that he shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

28. But if she is cleansed from her Flux, she shall count for her self seven Days, and after shall be clean.

29. Then on the eighth Day she shall take her two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons; and bring them to the Priest, at the Door of the publick Tent.

30. Who shall offer one for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering: thus shall the Priest purge her before the Lord, from the Flux of her Unclean-ness.

31. So shall you separate the Israelites from their Unclean-ness; that they may not die in it, by their defiling my Tabernacle which is amongst them.

32. This is the Law for him who has a Flux, and him from whom seminal Matter is emitted, to defile with it;

33. As also for her who has the Infirmary in her Separation, for such as have their Flux of Male and Female, and for the Man who lies with her that is unclean.

C H A P. XVI.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, after the Death of Aaron's two Sons, when they offered before the Lord, and died;

2. Saying to him: Speak to Aaron thy Brother, that he should not come at all Times into the Holy Place, on the Inside of the Hanging, before the Atonement-covering which is upon the Ark, lest he should die; for I shall appear in the Cloud upon the Atonement-covering.

3. Thus shall Aaron come into the Holy Place, with a young Bullock of the Herd for a Sin-offering, and a Ram for a Burnt-offering.

Ver. 2. appear] Patrick following Campegius Vitringa in Observat. Sacr. Lib. i. 11. says it may very well be rendered, I will be approached in a Cloud; though the Verb has certainly no such Meaning. However the Reason offered for it is, that the Word is used 23 Exod. xv. not for God's appearing, but the People's; which is a mere non sequitur, for there the Verb is the third perf. plur. and here the first perf. sing.

1b. Cloud] that of Incense, Ver. 13. to wit the Smoak of it.

Ver. 3. with a young Bullock] to be offered in the Court, not carried into the Holy Place. Poole understood by it the Bullock's Blood, which was carried in, Ver. 14. but as with also belongs to the Ram, that Meaning fails.

Ver. 4. linen Coat] see Exod. xxviii. 4, 39. and the Note on Ver. 2. of that Chap.

4. He shall put on the holy linen Coat, the linen Drawers shall be upon his Flesh, he shall be girded with the linen Belt, and attired with the linen Mitre: these being holy Garments, he shall bathe his Flesh in Water, when he puts them on.

5. And from the Assembly of the Israelites shall he receive two Kids of the Goats for a Sin-offering, and one Ram for a Burnt-offering.

6. Aaron shall also bring the Bullock of the Sin-offering which is for himself; that he may make atonement for himself, and his Family.

7. Next he shall take the two Kids, and place them before the Lord at the Door of the publick Tent.

8. And he shall put Lots for them, one Lot for the Lord, and the other for the departing Goat.

9. Then shall he bring the Kid for which the Lot comes up for the Lord, and do him for a Sin-offering.

10. But the Kid for which the Lot comes up to be the departing Goat, shall be placed alive before the Lord, to make atonement with him, by sending him for such a Goat into the Wilderness.

11. And Aaron shall bring the Bullock of the Sin-offering which is for himself, that he may make atonement for himself, and his Family, and shall kill the same.

12. He shall further take off a Censer full of Coals of Fire from the Altar before the Lord, with his Hands full of Incense of small Odours, and carry in on the Inside of the Hanging.

13. And shall put the Incense upon the Fire before the Lord, that the Cloud of the Incense may cover the Atonement-covering which is upon the Testimony, that he may not die.

14. As he shall also take some of the Bullock's Blood, and sprinkle with his Finger upon the Forepart of the Atonement-covering eastward; doing the same seven times before it.

Ver. 6. bring] This whole Verse is repeated in the same Words, Ver. 11. and certainly the Bullock was not to be offered, as in the present Translation, before it was brought, and killed.

Ver. 9. comes up] out of the Urn or Pot, whence it was taken; and as the Verb signifies, not fell.

Ver. 14. Forepart] Heb. Face, omitted in the Vulg. Translation.

1b. eastward] Poole says, with his face eastward; but Patrick, blaming Gregory for the same, says it could not be done without looking towards the West; and quotes Selden, De Synedr. Lib. iii. 16. that he stood eastward of the Mercy-seat, with his Face towards it. Doubtless Aaron did not turn his Back to it, and that to sprinkle the Blood upon it; but eastward seems rather to denote that Side of the Atonement-covering.

15. Afterwards

15. Afterwards he shall kill the Kid of the Sin-offering which is for the People, and carry in his Blood to the Inside of the Hanging; with which he shall do as he did with that of the Bullock, sprinkling it upon the Atonement-covering, and before it.

16. So he shall purge the Holy Place from the Pollutions of the Israelites, and from their Trespasses in all their Sins: and thus shall he do to the publick Tent remaining with them, amongst their Pollutions.

17. Nor shall there be any Man in the publick Tent, when he goes in to make atonement in the Holy Place, till he comes out; and has made atonement for himself, his Family, and all the Congregation of Israel.

18. And he shall come out to the Altar which is before the Lord, and purge it: for he shall take some of the Blood of the Bullock, and of the Kid, and put upon the Horns of it round about.

19. He shall likewise sprinkle some of the Blood upon it with his Finger seven times, cleansing and sanctifying it from the Pollutions of the Israelites.

20. And when he has made an end of purging the Holy Place, the publick Tent, and Altar, he shall bring near the live Kid.

21. Upon whose Head Aaron shall lean both his Hands, and confess upon him all the Iniquities of the Israelites, and all their Trespasses in all their Sins; putting them upon the Head of the Kid, which he shall send by the Hand of a timely Man into the Wilderness.

22. Whereby the Kid shall bear upon him all their Iniquities to separated Ground; and he shall let it go in the Wilderness.

23. Aaron shall then come into the publick Tent, and pull off the linen Garments which he put on when he went into the Holy Place, and leave them there.

24. And he shall bathe his Flesh in Water in the Holy Place, put on his Garments, and coming forth, do his Burnt-offering, and that of the People, to make atonement for himself, and them.

25. Moreover he shall burn the Fat of the Sin-offering on the Altar.

26. And he who lets the Kid go for the departing Goat, shall wash his Cloaths, and bathe his Flesh in Water; after which he shall come into the Camp.

27. The Bullock too of the Sin-offering, and the Kid of it, whose Blood is brought in to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall be had forth without the Camp; and they shall burn with Fire their Skins, Flesh and Dung.

28. Besides he who burns them shall wash his Cloaths, and bathe his Flesh in Water; after which he shall come into the Camp.

29. And it shall become a lasting Ordinance to you, that on the tenth of the seventh Month, you shall afflict your Souls, and do no Work, the Native, and the Stranger who sojourns amongst you.

30. For on that Day shall atonement be made for you, that you may be cleansed; which you shall be from all your Sins before the Lord.

31. It shall be a Sabbath of Rest to you, that you may afflict your Souls; which shall be a lasting Ordinance.

32. And the Priest whom he shall anoint, and whose Hand he shall fill, to execute the Priesthood in the room of his Father, shall make atonement; and shall put on the linen Garments, the holy ones.

33. He shall even purge the Holy Sanctuary, as he shall also the publick Tent, and the Altar; nay for the Priests, and all the People of the Assembly shall he make atonement.

34. And this shall become to you a lasting Ordinance, to purge the Israelites from all their Sins once in a Year. And he did as the Lord commanded Moses.

CHAP. XVII.

THE Lord spoke further to Moses,

2. Bidding him say to Aaron, his Sons, and all the Israelites, that this which follows was the Thing that the Lord commanded:

3. Any Man of the Family of Israel, who kills an Ox, Lamb or Goat, either in the Camp, or without it;

Ver. 16. from the Pollutions] the same as Ver. 19. and the Noun is plural.

Ver. 18. to the Altar] of Incense in the Holy Place, as Ver. 20. shews.

Ver. 20. purging] the same Verb that is elsewhere rendered thus, and make atonement in this Chap. but reconciling must needs be improper.

Ver. 27. shall be had forth] Four Men, says R. Solomon, carried them forth upon two Staves or Bars, one being not able to do it: and accordingly the LXX translate these Words ἐκείνου, they shall carry forth, Patr. Com. agreeable to the following Verb, which is plural.

Ver. 29. tenth] beginning at the Evening of the ninth Day, Chap. xxiii. 32.

Ver. 3. kills] According to my Perception of it, this was universal to those Creatures, while the Israelites were in the Wilderness, abiding nigh the Tabernacle; that all such Beasts might be killed there (being not very many, as they lived chiefly on Manna) to have their Blood sprinkled, and Fat burnt on the Altar, Ver. 6. and to

4. And does not bring it to the Door of the publick Tent, to bring the Oblation near to the Lord, before his Tabernacle; the Blood shall be counted to that Man, he having shed it, who shall be cut off from among his People:

5. To the end that the Israelites may bring their Sacrifices, which they offer out in the Field, as they should bring them, for the Lord, at the Door of the publick Tent to the Priest; and offer them for Sacrifices of Peace-offerings to the Lord.

6. And the Priest shall sprinkle the Blood upon the Lord's Altar, at the Door of the publick Tent; and burn the Fat for a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

7. So shall they no more offer their Sacrifices to Devils, after whom they have gone a whoring. This shall be a lasting Ordinance to them in their Generations.

8. Thou shalt also say to them: Any Man of the Family of Israel, or of the Strangers that sojourn among you, who offers up a Burnt-offering or a Sacrifice;

9. And does not bring it to the Door of the publick Tent, to offer it to the Lord, shall be cut off from his People.

10. As to any Man of the Family of Israel, or of the Strangers that sojourn among you, who eats any Blood, I will put my Face against him who does it, and cut him off from amongst his People.

11. For the Life of the Flesh is in the Blood, and I put it upon the Altar for you, to make atonement for your Souls: for it is the Blood makes atonement for the Soul.

12. Therefore I say to the Israelites, There shall not any Person of you eat Blood, nor shall the Stranger that sojourns among you.

13. And any Man of the Israelites, or of the Strangers that sojourn among you, who catches in hunting Beast or Fowl, which may be eat, shall pour out the Blood of it, which he shall cover with Earth.

14. For it is the Life of all Flesh, its Blood being for the Life of it: so I say to the Israelites, You shall not eat the Blood of any Flesh, because that is the Life of all Flesh; every one who eats it shall be cut off.

15. And every Person who eats any of a Carcase, or what is torn, of Natives or Strangers, shall wash his Cloaths, bathe in Water, and be unclean till the Evening, when he shall be clean.

16. But if he does not wash, nor bathe his Flesh, he shall bear his Iniquity.

C H A P. XVIII.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

2. Speak to the Israelites, and tell them; I am the Lord your God.

3. You shall not do according to the Deeds of the Country of Egypt wherein you dwelt; nor yet according to those of the Country of Canaan whither I am bringing you, nor go in their Ordinances.

4. My Rules shall you do, and observe my Ordinances, by going in them; who am the Lord your God.

5. Therefore you shall observe my Ordinances, and Rules, which let a Man do, and he shall live by them; who am the Lord.

6. You shall no Man go near to any Kindred of his own Flesh, to uncover the Nakedness; I being the Lord.

prevent either of them from being eat, Chap. iii. 17. & vii. 23. Ver. 11, 12. of this Chap. as also to hinder the sacrificing to Devils, Ver. 7. This general Prohibition seems quite confirmed by the Liberty granted afterwards, Deut. xii. 21. Annotators however expound this killing to be, not for common Eating, but Sacrifices; though when they come to the last mentioned Text, they are put to their Shifts, become dumb, or change their Note: and besides the Ineffectualness of preventing those Things above, if it had been so, it is not to be supposed the Beasts for Sacrifice were killed away from the Tabernacle, which is contrary to the plain Law, Chap. i. 5, 11. & iii. 2, 8, 13. & iv. 4, &c.

Ver. 4. does not bring] This was to prevent Idolatry at other Places, as appears by Ver. 7. and so excluding that, they might on some Occasions offer elsewhere, especially after they were come into the Country of Canaan, and did not live so near the Tabernacle, Judg. xiii. 16. 1 Sam. vii. 9. & ix. 13. & xi. 15. & xvi. 5. 2 Sam. xxiv. ult. see also Exod. xx. 24.

1b. the Blood] of the Ox, Lamb or Goat, which was shed, that should have been sprinkled on the Altar,

Ver. 6. for spilling of which he was to be culpable. Whereas to represent it like Murder, as Interpreters do, shocks instead of convinces it was so; for what Equality is there between the Life of a Man and a Beast?

Ver. 8. Sacrifices] of Peace-offerings, Ver. 5. see also Num. xv. 3.

Ver. 5. let] literal and apt, here being not if; see Ezek. xx. 11.

Ver. 6. Kindred of his own Flesh] So the Heb. is literally, not remainder of his flesh, as it is put in the Eng. Margin. In this Manner the former Word is rendered, in the com. Transl. Chap. xxi. 2. Num. xxvii. 11. and with the Addition of near, Ver. 12, 13. Chap. xx. 19. those Heb. Words also come together as here, Ch. xxv. 49. where is Nothing in that Margin, nor is it turned remainder in any other Place; for shear, not this sheer, signifies so. Jun. and Trem. with Munst. translate as I do, propinquum carnis sue, as likewise Onkelos in the Targ. It appears by Chap. xxv. 49. that it comprehends a first Cousin, and even extends further.

1b. I being the Lord] and so having Authority, and Right, to command, according to Chap. xxii. 30, 31.

7. Thy Father's Nakedness, and thy Mother's, thou shalt not uncover; she being thy Mother, thou must not do it.

8. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of thy Father's Wife; it being thy Father's own.

9. The Nakedness of thy Sister, either thy Father's or Mother's Daughter, whether the Offspring of the Family, or that which is without, is what thou shalt not uncover.

10. The Nakedness of thy Son's, or Daughter's Daughter, is what thou shalt not uncover: for theirs is thy own Nakedness.

11. The Nakedness of thy Father's Wife's Daughter, born to thy Father, is what thou shalt not uncover; she being thy Sister.

12. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of thy Father's Sister; she being one of thy Father's Kindred.

13. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of thy Mother's Sister: for she is one of thy Mother's Kindred.

14. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of thy Father's Brother, by going near to his Wife; she being thy Aunt.

15. The Nakedness of thy Daughter-in-law is what thou shalt not uncover; she being thy Son's Wife.

16. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of thy Brother's Wife; it being thy Brother's Nakedness.

17. Thou shalt not uncover the Nakedness of a Woman, and her Daughter: shalt not take her Son's or Daughter's Daughter, to uncover her Nakedness; they being her Kindred, it is Lewdness.

18. Nor shalt thou marry a Wife's Sister; to distress, to uncover her Nakedness with the other in her Life.

19. And to a Woman in the Separation of her Uncleaness, thou shalt not go near, to uncover her Nakedness.

20. Besides thou shalt not lie carnally with thy Neighbour's Wife, to be defiled by her.

21. And thou shalt not give of thy Offspring to pass through the Fire to Molech; nor profane the Name of thy God, who am the Lord.

22. Thou shalt not lie with a Male as with a Woman: it is Abomination.

23. Moreover thou shalt not lie with any Beast, to be defiled by it; nor shall a Woman stand before a Beast to engender with it: which is Confusion.

24. Be not defiled in any of these Things: because in all these the Nations are, which I will expel from your Presence.

Ver. 7. and] The same Fact being uncovering both; as both are reduced into one in the following Words, and as the Nakedness of the Mother was the Father's, according to Ver. 8, 14, 16. & xx. 11.

Ver. 9. Offspring] by lawful Marriage, or otherwise, according to the Talmudists; see Selden, De Jure Nat. & Gent. Lib. v. 11. The Difference of being born at home or abroad, shows too trifling to distinguish or mention.

Ver. 11. born to] The same Word in Heb. signifying either born or begotten, and as the Connection may be made either by to or of, for which there is Nothing in the Original; it is to be tried by the Sense of the Context. Now it is evident that by the Daughter is not meant a Man's own Sister both by Father and Mother, because she is called by Distinction the Wife's Daughter, which shews that Wife was not the Man's own Mother to whom this is spoken; and that it was not the Father's Daughter by another Mother, appears by the Prohibition being laid on such before, Ver. 9. consequently this Daughter could not be begotten of the Father, as in the com. Translation, therefore the other Meaning takes place. Notwithstanding this Article has been much sifted, and has obtained divers various Interpretations, I cannot say any of them satisfy me. Most seem to understand the Wife's Daughter by a former Husband is intended, which destroys the reading begotten of thy Father; nay the Heb. Doctors say it is lawful to marry such a one, Maimon. in Issure biab, Chap. 2. Sect. 3, 4. However it is scarce possible for any other to be meant, only these Words born to thy Father, and being thy Sister, lay a Restriction on it, which, as I suppose, points out the right Sense, and is consistent with both the other Opinions; by signifying that the Daughter here mentioned, is one born to the latter Husband after her Mother's Marriage with him, who was pregnant with this Daughter by another Man before, that either died, or divorced her; as such a Daughter would be a Sister in Marriage, to the Father's former Son here spoken to. Our great Annotator Poole, in aiming at such a Restriction, was unhappily ingenious in explaining it, "He seems to speak of the daughter of "the father's brother by his wife, whom the father here spoken of, being brother to the deceased person, married by virtue of that law, Deut. xxv. 5." Which Law was in case the first Brother died childless, and so could not have a Daughter: as was Selden, De Uxore Hebraica, Lib. i. 4. in rendering it, for she that is born of thy Father is thy Sister, which makes those Words useless, and incoherent with the rest.

Ver. 16. Wife] See Chap. xx. 21.

Ver. 18. Sister] Several or most explain this to mean any other Woman, that a Man might have but one Wife. Against which however Grotius, Patrick and some others, offer, as I suppose, unanswerable Objections: for it is consistent that Sister should be understood properly, like Brother, &c. here, and may be observed that the Lord is forbidding different Degrees of Kindred to marry; and the following Places shew that more than one Wife was then lawful, Deut. xxi. 15, 16, 17. 2 Sam. xii. 8. Judg. viii. 30. & xii. 9, 14. 1 Sam. i. 2. 1 Chron. iii. 1,—9. & xiv. 3.

Ib. to distress] as may be observed of Leah and Rachel, Gen. xxix. 31, 32. & xxx. 1, 8, 15. and as Solomon remarks concerning Brothers, Prov. xviii. 19.

Ib. her Life] Though the Prohibition of marrying a Wife's Sister may be absolute of it self, and the latter Part only particular Circumstances; as the first certainly was, since a Man must not have married thus, if he did not do it to distress his first Wife: yet it seems to be implied that then a Man after his Wife's Death might have her Sister, as a Woman might her Husband's Brother in some Case, Deut. xxv. 5. Gen. xxxviii. 8, 11. and a Man had more Privilege in Marriage than a Woman, as he might divorce his Wife, and have more than one at a Time.

Ver. 19. go near] See Chap. xx. 18. Ezek. xviii. 6. & xxii. 10.

Ver. 21. the Fire] as expressed Deut. xviii. 10. where see further. The Septuagint, without the Vowel-Points, and also by Mistake of γ for τ translate, Thou shalt not give of thy Seed to serve a Prince.

25. And the Country being defiled, I will bring the Visitation of its Iniquity upon it: for it vomits out its Inhabitants.

26. But you shall observe my Ordinances and Rules, and not do any of these Abominations; the Native, and the Stranger who sojourns among you.

27. For all these Abominations have the Men of the Country done, who were before you, and it is defiled.

28. So the Country shall not vomit you out by your defiling it, as it did the Nations that were before you.

29. For what Persons soever do any of these Abominations, shall be cut off from among their People.

30. You shall therefore observe my Charge, not to do any of the abominable Ordinances which are done before you, that you may not defile by them; I being the Lord your God.

CH A P. XIX.

THE Lord also ordered Moses,

2. To speak to the whole Assembly of the Israelites, saying to them: You shall be holy; for I the Lord your God am holy.

3. You shall each one fear his Mother and Father, and observe my Sabbaths; who am the Lord your God.

4. Turn not to Idols, nor make you molten gods; I being the Lord your God.

5. So that when you offer a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings to the Lord, you shall do it for your Favour.

6. It shall be eat in the Day you offer, and on the Morrow; and what is left till the third Day shall be burnt with Fire.

7. For if it be eat at all on the third Day, it shall be abominable, shall not be accepted.

8. Nay he who eats it shall bear his Iniquity, for he profanes the holy Thing of the Lord; and that Person shall be cut off from his People.

9. And when you reap the Harvest of your Land, thou shalt not finish reaping the Corner of thy Field; nor shalt thou gather up the Gleaning of thy Harvest.

10. As likewise thou shalt not glean thy Vineyard, nor gather the single Grapes of it: thou shalt leave them for the Poor and the Stranger; I being the Lord your God.

11. You shall not steal, lye, nor deal falsely any one with his Neighbour.

12. And you shall not swear by my Name falsely, nor shalt thou profane the Name of thy God, who am the Lord.

13. Thou shalt not wrong thy Neighbour, nor take by force: the Pay of him who is hired, shall not abide with thee all Night till the Morning.

14. Thou shalt not curse the Deaf, nor put a Stumbling-block before the Blind; but shalt fear thy God, who am the Lord.

15. You shall do no Iniquity in Judgment, thou shalt not respect the Face of the Poor, nor honour that of the Great: in Righteousness shalt thou judge thy Neighbour.

16. Thou shalt not go about backbiting among thy People, shalt not stand up against the Blood of thy Neighbour; I being the Lord.

17. Thou shalt not hate thy Brother in thy Heart: shalt fully reprove thy Neighbour, and not bear Sin for him.

18. Thou shalt not revenge, nor keep anger to those of thy People, but shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self; I being the Lord.

19. My Ordinances shall you observe, thou shalt not make thy Beast engender with diverse kinds, shalt not sow thy Field with such; nor shall a Garment mixed with diverse kinds come upon thee.

20. Next when a Man lies with a Woman carnally, who is a Servant-maid espoused to another, and not at all redeemed, or her Freedom not given her; there shall be Scourging, they shall not be put to death, because she is not free.

Ver. 3. fear his Mother] The Mother might be put first, because Children are not so apt to fear or reverence her, as the Father.

Ver. 5. for your Favour] according to Ver. 7. look Ch. i. 3.

Ver. 6. Morrow] viz. the Peace-offerings mentioned Chap. vii. 16. not that Ver. 15.

Ver. 10. single Grapes] as appears by the Chald. Word of the same Letters, this being found no where else. The Prohibition of taking every Grape would have signified little.

Ver. 13. all Night] This may be understood as general, and that in Deut. xxiv. 15. special, when the Labourer was poor, as there mentioned; so that he might want his Money to buy a Supper: which may be a better Distinction, than one Place speaking of a Labourer by Night, and the other by Day.

Ver. 17. not bear Sin for him] ' This is the usual and proper Meaning of the Hebrew Words as after in Lev. xxii. 9. Num. xviii. 32. and the Greeke and Chaldees Versions so explaine it: and Chazkuni confirmeth it by ' the like,' Ainw. To bear, which the Verb signifies, is not to suffer, but to carry.

Ver. 18. keep anger] as Psa. ciii. 9. Jer. iii. 12. Nab. i. 2. where is the same Word.

Ver. 19. diverse kinds] for which there is the same Heb. Word thrice in this Verse.

Ver. 20. espoused to another] Vulgate, nobilis, noble; by Corruption probably of nubilis, marriageable, as in the Clementine Edition.

lb. Scourging] ' viz. of them both, as the Vulgar Latin, ' with great Reason, understands it,' says Patrick.

21. Moreover he shall bring his Trespass-offering to the Lord, to the Door of the publick Tent, which shall be a Ram.

22. And the Priest shall make atonement for him with it before the Lord, for his Sin that he has committed, which shall be forgiven him.

23. When you are come also into the Country, and have planted all Trees for Food, you shall count the Fruit of it its Foreskin, that is uncircumcised; three Years it shall be so to you, not to be eat;

24. And in the fourth Year all the Fruit of it shall be holy, for Praises to the Lord;

25. But in the fifth Year you shall eat the Fruit of it, to make it add to you its Increase; I being the Lord your God.

26. You shall not eat with Blood; shall not divine, nor use Astrology:

27. Shall not cut round the Corners of your Heads; nor shalt thou spoil the Corners of thy Beard.

28. You shall not make Cuts in your Flesh for the Dead, nor shall you a Mark of Inscription on you; I being the Lord.

29. Do not profane thy Daughter, by making her commit Whoredom; lest the Country should go a whoring, and be full of Lewdness.

30. You shall observe my Sabbaths, and reverence my Sanctuary; who am the Lord.

31. Turn not to those who have familiar Spirits, nor seek to Sorcerers, to be defiled by them; I being the Lord your God.

32. Thou shalt rise up at the Face of the Aged, and honour the Face of the Elder; and shalt fear thy God, who am the Lord.

33. Besides when a Stranger sojourns with thee in your Country, you shall not oppress him.

34. As a Native of your selves, shall the Stranger be to you, who sojourns with you, and thou shalt love him as thy self, since you were Strangers in the Country of Egypt; I being the Lord your God.

35. You shall do no Injustice in Judgment, Dimension, Weight or Measure.

36. Just Balances, just Weights, a just Ephah, and a just Hin shall you have; I being the Lord your God, who brought you out of the Country of Egypt.

37. Therefore shall you observe all my Ordinances, and all my Rules, doing them; who am the Lord.

CHAP. XX.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows.

2. Thou shalt say also to the Israelites: Any Man of the Israelites, or of the Strangers that sojourn in Israel, who gives any of his Offspring to Molech, shall be quite put to death: the People of the Country shall stone him with Stones.

3. Else I will put my Face against that Man, and cut him off from among his People; because he has done so, that he may defile my Sanctuary, and to profane my holy Name.

4. Nay if the People of the Country do at all hide their Eyes from that Man, when he does thus, not to put him to death;

5. I will not only set my Face against that Man, and his Family, and cut him off, but all who go a whoring after him, that they may after Molech, from among their People.

6. As for that Person who turns to such as have familiar Spirits, or to Sorcerers, to go a whoring after them, I will likewise put my Face against him, and cut him off from among his People.

7. Therefore you shall sanctify your selves, and be holy: for I am the Lord your God.

8. And you shall observe my Ordinances, and do them; who am the Lord that sanctify you.

9. For any Man who curses his Father or Mother, shall be quite put to death: he who does so, his Blood is chargeable on himself.

10. And there being a Man who commits Adultery with another's Wife, a Neighbour of his, the Adulterer and Adulteress shall be quite put to death.

Ver. 25. to make it] By Obedience in all the foregoing, as the Pointing here instructs; not by the eating only. The Heb. being in the Conjug. Hiphil for make.

Ver. 26. with Blood] for which the Seventy render ἐν τῶν ὀρέων, upon the Mountains; mistaking τ for γ as in Gen. x. 4.

Ib. Astrology] See Buxt. Lexic. under py

Ver. 3. Else] So Jun. and Trem. have aut; as the Sense shews it should be, especially compared with Ver. 4. 5.

Ver. 9. For] * This, says Ainsworth, is inferred upon the former Precept. be holy: For otherwise Judgments 'abide you.' Jun. and Trem. to the same Purpose.

Ib. who does so] which Pope Sixtus took upon him to leave out, though it will not thus read so well.

Ver. 10. put to death] The Jewish Doctors say by Strangling, which might be to discredit the Evangelist's Account, that has it Stoning, John viii. 5. but though their Authority has betrayed Patrick, &c. into that Opinion, it appears likewise by Deut. xxii. 23, 24. that such were stoned: for however the Case there may be distinguished a little from this, yet as being stoned to death was worse than to be strangled, we are not to think that the Crime here being the greater, had a lighter Punishment, notwithstanding any trifling Pretence not worth mentioning. Besides as the Manner of putting to death was told

11. Moreover the Man who lies with his Father's Wife, he uncovering his Father's Nakedness, they shall both of them be quite put to death, their Blood is chargeable on themselves.

12. The Man too who lies with his Daughter-in-law, they shall both of them be quite put to death: they doing Confusion, their Blood is chargeable on themselves.

13. And the Man who lies with a Male as with a Woman, both of them do Abomination: they shall be quite put to death, their Blood is chargeable on themselves.

14. As for the Man who takes a Wife and her Mother, it is Lewdness: they shall burn him and them with Fire, that there may not be Lewdness among you.

15. The Man also who lies with a Beast, shall be quite put to death; and you shall kill the Beast.

16. When there is a Woman who goes near to any Beast to engender with it, thou shalt kill them both; they shall be quite put to death, their Blood is chargeable on themselves.

17. So when a Man takes his Sister, the Daughter either of his Father or Mother, and sees her Nakedness, and she his; it is a Reproach, and they shall be cut off in the Sight of those of their People: he having uncovered the Nakedness of his Sister, shall bear his Iniquity.

18. And the Man who lies with a Woman that has the Infirmary, and uncovers her Nakedness, he makes naked her Spring, and she uncovers the Spring of her Blood; therefore both of them shall be cut off from among their People.

19. Nor shalt thou uncover the Nakedness either of thy Mother's or Father's Sister: for such a one makes naked his Kindred; they shall bear their Iniquity.

20. And the Man who lies with his Aunt, uncovers his Uncle's Nakedness: they shall bear their Sin, shall die childless.

21. The Man likewise who takes his Brother's Wife, it is Separation: he uncovering his Brother's Nakedness, they shall be childless.

22. Thus shall you observe all my Ordinances and Rules, doing them; that the Country may not vomit you out, whither I am bringing you to dwell in it.

23. And you shall not go in the Ordinances of the Nations which I will expel from your Presence: for they doing all these Things, I abhor them.

24. I have said to you therefore, You shall inherit their Land, which I will give you to inherit, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey; who am the Lord your God, that have parted you from other People.

25. You shall further make a separation between clean Beasts and unclean, and between unclean Fowls and clean; that you may not make your selves abominable by Beast or Fowl, or any Thing that creeps on the Ground, which I have put apart for unclean to you.

26. And you shall be holy to me, for I the Lord am holy; and have parted you from other People, to be mine.

27. Besides a Man or Woman when there is in them a familiar Spirit, or who is a Sorcerer, shall be quite put to death: they shall stone them with Stones, their Blood being chargeable on themselves.

before to be Stoning, Ver. 2. it may well be understood here. Nay Patrick himself says on the next Verse, All the Hebrew Doctors agree that wheresoever we meet with the Phrase, that a Person's Blood shall be upon him, it is meant of stoning; which being in the foregoing Verse, might be omitted here.

Ver. 11. their Blood is chargeable on themselves] I flatter my self with Thanks to the Giver of Understanding, that this is none of the least of Knots in Scripture now thus untied. Ainsworth says, that is, they were stoned; but every one was not of whom this is said, as he in 2 Sam. i. 16. and Shimei, 1 Kings ii. 37, 46. Jun. and Trem. translate it, causa ipsorum causa est in ipsis, they are the Cause of their own Death; whereas the Children of those Jews, who made use of this Heb. Idiom in Matt. xxvii. 25. could not be the Cause of the Death of Christ. The Gr. of the Sept. is ἀποβήσαντες τὸν οὐρανὸν σὺν αὐτοῖς, they are both guilty; and the Chald. חֵיבִין קְטִילָא חֵיבִין guilty to be put to death: so the Tig. Verf. at Ver. 9. capitali pœna dignus est, he deserves capital Punishment, or as in Ver. 12. ultimo supplicio, the utmost Punishment, and in Ver. 13. morte, Death; but here differently, interque capitali pœna plectantur, let them be &c. as likewise Cast. variously, all inconsistent with the Text above; while this is justified by Deut. xix. 10. and agrees well with the rest.

Ver. 17. Reproach] as the same Word is translated, Prov. xiv. 34. and never signifies a wicked thing, but as a Reproach may be so.

Ver. 18. cut off] as Onan was, Gen. xxxviii. 9, 10. since both Actions prevented or spoiled the having of Children. And that cutting off was done by God, Ver. 3, 5. where it is distinguished from capital Punishment by Man: so Ainsworth explains it, "to weat by the Hand of God." Therefore the Exposition of Poole, &c. on Chap. xv. 24. that such Persons were by this Verse to be judicially punished with Death, is unwarrantable.

Ver. 21. Brother's Wife] except when he dies childless, Deut. xxv. 5, 6. Gen. xxxviii. 8. by which those Passages are reconciled.

CHAP. XXI.

THE Lord moreover ordered Moses to speak to the Priests, Aaron's Sons, and say to them: None shall defile himself for the Dead among his People;

2. Excepting for one of his Kindred that is near to him; for his Mother, Father, Son, Daughter or Brother;

3. As also for his Sister a Virgin that is near to him, who has not had a Husband, he shall defile himself.

4. A Husband among his People shall not be defiled, to profane himself.

5. They shall not make Baldness on their Heads, nor shave the Corners of their Beards, nor yet make Cuts in their Flesh.

6. They shall be holy to their God, and not profane his Name: for they offer the Sacrifices of the Lord by Fire, the Meat of their God; therefore they shall be holy.

7. A Wife who is a Harlot, or profane, shall they not take, nor take a Woman divorced from her Husband: for each is holy to his God.

8. And thou shalt consecrate him, because he offers the Meat of thy God: he shall be holy to thee, for I the Lord who sanctify you am holy.

9. When the Daughter of a Man also who is a Priest is profane by committing Whoredom, she profanes her Father, she shall be burnt with Fire.

10. So the chief Priest of his Brethren, upon whose Head the Oil of anointing is poured, and his Hand filled, to put on the Garments, shall not make his Head bald, nor rip his Cloaths.

11. Nor shall he go in to any dead Person; he shall not defile himself for his Father or Mother.

12. And he shall not go out of the Sanctuary, nor profane the Sanctuary of his God: for the Crown of the anointing Oil of his God is upon him; I am the Lord.

13. Moreover he shall take a Wife in her Virginity.

14. A Widow, or one divorced, or profane, a Harlot, these shall he not take; but it shall be a Virgin of his People for a Wife.

15. And he shall not profane his Offspring among his People: for I the Lord sanctify him.

16. Besides the Lord bade Moses,

17. Speak as follows to Aaron: The Man of thy Offspring in their Generations in whom there is a Blemish, shall not have Access to bring the Meat of his God.

18. For no Man in whom there is a Blemish must come near: a Man blind, lame, defective, or superfluous,

19. Or a Man who has either a Foot or Hand maimed,

20. Or one crooked, or a Dwarf, or with a Fault in his Eye, having the Scurvy, scabbed, or hurt in the Testicles.

21. No Man in whom there is a Blemish, of the Offspring of Aaron the Priest, shall come nigh to bring the Sacrifices of the Lord by Fire: there being a Blemish in him, he shall not come near to bring the Meat of his God.

22. He may eat it, as well that of the very holy as the holy.

23. But he shall not come to the Hanging, nor come nigh the Altar, because there is a Blemish in him; that he may not profane my Sanctuaries, for I the Lord sanctify them.

24. Moses spoke accordingly to Aaron, his Sons, and all the Israelites.

CHAP. XXII.

AND the Lord said to him as follows:

2. Tell Aaron, and his Sons, that they must be separated from the Israelites holy Things, that they may not profane my holy Name, in the Things which those consecrate to me, who am the Lord.

3. Say to them, Every individual Man in your Generations who goes near, of all your Offspring, to the holy Things which the Israelites consecrate to the Lord, with his Uncleaness upon him, shall be cut off from before me, who am the Lord.

Ver. 3. shall defile] See Ainsworth.

Ver. 4. A Husband] So Sol. Jar. and Jun. & Trem. with me the best Expositor and Translators: to which the Context agrees, וְאִשׁוֹ in the 2d Ver. signifying Kindred by Nature, as it were own Flesh, and Wife being left out among those for whom they might defile themselves by Mourning. The pres. Eng. Reading bears little or no Sense. As to putting it with some, for a chief Man; since there is nothing of for in the Heb. and the Word scarce signifies any higher Degree than Master, for which a Priest would not have mourned, that Meaning seems void.

lb. be defiled] for his Wife, as the Eng. Margin adds, and Husband may imply.

Ver. 6. Meat] to wit the Sacrifices just mentioned, which should not therefore be made distinct by adding and; see Patrick, Comment.

Ver. 8. thou] Moses, Ver. 1.

Ver. 10. By altering the Heb. Division a wrong Sense appears, viz. that the not making bald, &c. was meant for a Daughter being burnt; to bring in which it seems to have been altered.

Ver. 12. not go out] upon any Occasion of Death as before.

4. Any

4. Any Man of Aaron's Offspring who is leprous, or has the Flux, shall not eat of the holy Things, till he is clean; nor he who touches any Thing unclean by the Dead, or a Man from whom seminal Matter is emitted,

5. Or the Man who touches any creeping Thing, or a Man, for either of which he is unclean, in any of his Uncleanness;

6. He who does, shall not only be unclean till the Evening, but shall not eat of the holy Things, except he bathe his Flesh in Water.

7. But when the Sun is set, he shall be clean; after which he may eat of the holy Things, for it is his Food.

8. He shall not eat of a Carcase, or what is torn, to be defiled by it; I being the Lord.

9. Therefore they shall keep my Charge, that they may not bear Sin for it, and die by the same, because they profane it: I the Lord sanctify them.

10. And there shall no Stranger eat what is holy; nor shall a Sojourner of the Priest, or one hired.

11. Yet when a Priest buys a Person at the Cost of his Money, he may eat of this Meat of his, as also he who is born of his Family.

12. And when a Man who is a Stranger has a Priest's Daughter, he shall not eat of an Offering of the holy Things.

13. When a Priest's Daughter however is a Widow, or divorced, and has no Offspring, and is returned to her Father's House as in her Youth, she shall eat of his Meat; but no Stranger shall eat of it.

14. Moreover when a Man eats what is holy by Error, he shall add its fifth Part to it, and give as much as was holy to the Priest.

15. Thus they shall not profane the holy Things of the Israelites, which they offer up to the Lord;

16. Or let them bear the Iniquity of Trespas, when they eat their holy Things: for I the Lord sanctify them.

17. Next the Lord ordered Moses,

18. To speak thus to Aaron, his Sons, and all the Israelites: Any Man of the Family of Israel, or of the Strangers in Israel, who brings his Oblation, for any either of their Vows or Free-offerings, which they bring to the Lord for a Burnt-offering:

19. For your Favour, it shall be a perfect Male, of Oxen, Lambs, or Goats.

20. You shall not bring any wherein there is a Blemish; since it will not be for Favour to you.

21. When a Man likewise brings a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings to the Lord, in putting apart by a Vow, or for a Free-offering, of the Herd, or of the Flock; it shall be perfect for Favour, there shall be no Blemish in it.

22. Blind, broken, maimed, with Warts, having the Scurvy, or scabbed, these you shall not bring to the Lord; nor make of them an Offering by Fire upon the Altar to him.

23. Either a Bullock or a Sheep superfluous, or defective; thou mayest make it a Free-offering, but for a Vow it shall not be accepted.

24. For you shall not bring to the Lord the crushed, bruised, broken, or cut; nor make them ready in your Country.

25. And from a Stranger shall you not bring the Meat of your God of any of these; because their Corruption, namely a Blemish, being in them, they shall not be accepted for you.

26. The Lord told Moses too as follows:

27. When a Bullock, Sheep or Goat is brought forth, it shall be seven Days under its Dam; and from the eighth Day forward, it shall be accepted for an Oblation by Fire to the Lord.

28. And a Cow, or a Sheep, you shall not kill, with its Young in one Day.

29. Besides when you offer a Sacrifice of Thanksgiving to the Lord, you shall do it for your Favour.

30. It shall be eat on the same Day, you shall not leave of it till the Morning; I being the Lord.

31. So you shall observe my Commandments, and do them; who am the Lord.

32. And you shall not profane my holy Name, since I will be sanctified among the Israelites: I the Lord sanctify you;

33. Who brought you out of the Country of Egypt, to be a God to you: I am the Lord.

Ver. 10. Stranger] that is not of a Priest's Family, Ver. 11, 12, 13. Matt. xii. 4.

Ver. 14. as much as was holy] For he could not give that which he had eat, of before being added by the Translators.

Ver. 15. they shall] namely the Priests, as may be observed by the next Verse.

Ver. 16. let them] the Israelites, Ver. 15.

Ver. 19. for your Favour] as by Ver. 20, 25. see also Chap. i. 3.

Ver. 30. Morning] as the Word signifies, never Morrow.

C H A P. XXIII.

A GAIN the Lord spoke to Moses, 2. Bidding him say that which follows to the Israelites: The Lord's appointed Times, which you shall proclaim for holy Assemblies, are these, they being mine.

3. Six Days shall Work be done, and on the seventh Day, it being a Sabbath of Rest, for a holy Assembly, you shall not do any Work; it shall be a Sabbath to the Lord in all your Dwellings.

4. These are the Lord's appointed Times, for holy Assemblies, which you shall proclaim at their appointed Time:

5. On the fourteenth of the first Month, within the Evening, shall be the Passover to the Lord.

6. And on the fifteenth Day of that Month, shall be the Feast of unleavened Cakes to him; which you shall eat seven Days.

7. On the first Day you shall have a holy Assembly, doing no labouring Business.

8. You shall also bring an Offering by Fire to the Lord seven Days: on the seventh Day shall be a holy Assembly, you shall do no labouring Business.

9. And the Lord bade Moses,

10. Speak to the Israelites as follows: When you are come to the Country which I give you, and reap the Harvest of it, you shall bring a Sheaf of the First-fruits of your Harvest to the Priest:

11. Who shall wave the Sheaf before the Lord for your Favour: the next Day after the Sabbath shall he do it.

12. You shall offer too on the Day of your waving the Sheaf, a perfect Lamb in his first Year, for a Burnt-offering to the Lord;

13. With its Meat-offering, two tenth Parts of fine Flour tempered with Oil, an Offering by Fire to the Lord for a pleasant Smell; and its Drink-offering, the fourth Part of a Hin of Wine.

14. And you shall not eat Bread, parched Corn, or green Ears till that very Day, till you bring the Oblation of your God. It shall be a lasting Ordinance for your Generations, in all your Dwellings.

15. Afterwards you shall count up to your selves from the Day after the Sabbath, when you bring the Sheaf of the Waved-offering, to be seven entire Sabbaths;

16. To the next Day after the seventh Sabbath shall you count up fifty Days: then shall you bring a new Meat-offering to the Lord.

Ver. 2. appointed Times] I do not find the Word signifies Feasts, nor would be proper for a Day of Fasting, &c. Ver. 27.

Ver. 3. Assembly] Convocation is an Assembly by the Use of the Word, which we are to follow, if we would be understood; and the learned Cowel defines it to be an Assembly of the Clergy, which does not appear intended by the Translators who have it. Nor need our national Church be offended at my leaving a Jewish Term, when the Original has the Word also in Isai. i. 13. In the com. Transf. a day is here a convocation, which it is distinguished from in Ver. 7, 8. and feasts are convocations, Ver. 2, 4. what Idea then must an intelligent Reader, who has any Idea, have of them?

Ver. 10. Sheaf] By the Account that is given of it, this Sheaf was of Barley, as being first ripe; and was reaped after Sun-set when the 15th Day of Nisan was ended, and the 16th begun, whether it was ripe or not, by Order of the great Council, who deputed Persons to do it; then being threshed and prepared, it was offered the 16th Day as directed, Ver. 11, 12, 13. Maimonides in Talmidin, Ch. 7. Babylonian Talmud in Menachoth, Ch. 10. and that Harvest began so soon may be seen by Josh. iii. 15. & iv. 19. & v. 10. 1 Chron. xii. 15. Accordingly Rauwolff in his Travels, Pt. iii. Ch. 10. says, Their Harvest begins in the Beginning of April, and ends in May; Maundrell, that on May 11, the People were gathering their Corn, being Harvest-time; and Corten thus, They sow their Corn in November and December; in April and May all is ripe; and Dr. Russel, Their Harvest is generally over by the 20th of May.

Ver. 11. Sabbath] which signifies Rest, and is agreed to be the Day mentioned Ver. 7. viz. the 15th of the first Month, Abib or Nisan, Ver. 5, 6. the first of the seventh Month being called a Sabbath in the same Manner, Ver. 24. as also the tenth, Ver. 32. and the fifteenth, Ver. 39. which would not be 7th day Sabbaths together in any Year, reckoning the Months either 30 Days each, or 30 and 29 alternately.

Ver. 14. till you bring] So Pliny observes that the ancient Romans, ne gustabant quidem novas fruges aut vinas, antequam sacerdotes primitias libassent, would not even taste the new Corn or Wine, till the Priests had offered the First-fruits, Nat. Hist. Lib. xviii. 2. at the End.

Ver. 15. Day after] namely the 16th of the first Month, Ver. 11. and Josaphus, Antiq. Lib. iii. 10.

Ib. when] as in Ver. 11.

Ver. 16. next Day after] to wit the 6th of the third Month, Buxtorf, Synag. Judaic. Cap. 20. being fifty Days, reckoning the former Morrow, i. e. the 16th of the first Month for the first of them, and the Months being lunar, one of 30, the other of 29 Days. This was called the Feast of Weeks, Exod. xxxiv. 22. Deut. xvi. 10, 16. 2 Chron. viii. 13. from its being counted by seven (or a Week of) Weeks; and Pentecost, Acts ii. 1. & xx. 16. 1 Cor. xvi. 8. because pentecostas is Greek for fiftieth; as also the Feast of Harvest, Exod. xxiii. 16. and of the First-fruits of Wheat-harvest, Exod. xxxiv. 22. for all the Harvest being ended about this Time, the latter Part of which was Wheat-harvest, Exod. ix. 31, 32. Ruth i. 22. & ii. 23. 2 Sam. xxi. 9. an Offering was brought of the first new Wheat that was used, Ver. 17. Deut. xxvi. 2. upon which Account it is likewise called the Day of the First-fruits, Num. xxviii. 26. It is also said to be kept in Remembrance of the Law being given this Day upon Mount Sinai, Exod. xix. from whence the Jews call it יום מתן תורה the Day of giving the Law, Buxtorf, ibid. The modern Jews keep the Feast two Days, Leo de Medena, Ceremon. Jud. Pt. iii. Cap. 4. but as Buxtorf says, ubi supra, lest they should mistake the right. I have observed that several of our eminent Writers do not undertake to tell us what Day of the Month the Pentecost, or giving of the Law, was, but silently slide over it, while others put it on the 5th or 4th Day; see on Exod. xix.

Ib. Sabbath] being the Conclusion of the seventh Week, as a real Sabbath was the last Day of a Week. The same Time is ordered to be counted by Weeks, Deut. xvi. 9.

17. You

17. You shall bring from your Habitations two Loaves for Waving, two tenth Parts of fine Flour shall they be, baked with Leaven: they being First-fruits to the Lord.

18. And you shall bring with the Bread seven perfect Lambs in their first Year, one young Bullock of the Herd, and two Rams: they shall be a Burnt-offering to the Lord, with their Meat-offering, and Drink-offerings, an Offering by Fire of a pleasant Smell to him.

19. You shall further do one Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering, and two Lambs in their first Year for a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings.

20. And the Priest shall wave them with the Bread of the First-fruits, for a Waved-offering before the Lord, with the two Lambs: they shall be holy to the Lord for the Priest.

21. Moreover you shall proclaim on the very same Day, that it must be to you for a holy Assembling, for you to do no labouring Business. It shall be a lasting Ordinance in all your Dwellings, for your Generations.

22. And when you reap the Harvest of your Land, thou shalt not finish the Corners of thy Field in thy Reaping, nor gather up the Gleaning of thy Harvest: thou shalt leave them for the Poor and Stranger; I being the Lord your God.

23. The Lord also spoke to Moses as follows;

24. Tell the Israelites, that on the first of the seventh Month, they shall have a Sabbath, a Memorial of Sounding, a holy Assembling;

25. Not doing any Work of Servitude, but bringing an Offering by Fire to the Lord.

26. And the Lord continued speaking thus to Moses:

27. But the tenth of this seventh Month shall be a Day of Atonements, a holy Assembling shall there be to you, when you shall afflict your Souls, and bring an Offering by Fire to the Lord.

28. And you shall do no Work on that same Day: for it shall be a Day of Atonements, to make atonement for you before the Lord your God.

29. For every Person who is not afflicted on it, shall be cut off from his People.

30. And every Person in particular who does any Work then, will I destroy from among his People.

31. You shall do no Work: that shall be a lasting Ordinance for your Generations, in all your Dwellings.

32. It shall be a Sabbath of Rest to you, and you shall afflict your Souls: on the ninth of the Month in the Evening, from one Evening to another shall you keep your Sabbath.

33. The Lord likewise bade Moses,

34. Say to the Israelites as follows: On the fifteenth Day of this seventh Month, shall be the Feast of Booths seven Days to the Lord.

35. On the first Day shall be a holy Assembling, you shall do no labouring Business.

36. Seven Days shall you bring an Offering by Fire to the Lord: on the eighth Day you shall have a holy Assembling, and do the same; which shall be a solemn Day, you shall do no labouring Business.

37. These are the Lord's appointed Times, which you shall proclaim for holy Assemblies, to bring an Offering by Fire to the Lord, a Burnt-offering and Meat-offering, a Sacrifice and Drink-offerings, each Day's Matter the very same Day;

38. Besides the Sabbaths of the Lord; and besides your Gifts, all your Vows and Free-offerings; which you give to him.

39. But on the fifteenth Day of the seventh Month, when you have gathered the Crop of the Land, you shall keep a Feast to the Lord seven Days: on the first Day there shall be Rest, and the same on the eighth Day.

40. And you shall take you on the first Day Fruit of handsome Trees, Branches of Ver. 17. Habitations] as being a common Offering for all the People.

Ver. 18. one young Bullock and two Rams] The Account given of two young Bulls and one Ram, Num. xxviii. 27. does not contradict this, if according to Josephus both were offered, viz. three Bulls, &c. Antiq. Lib. iii. 10. those mentioned in Numbers being the Offerings for this Day (I imagine as kept in memory of the Law) and these as belonging to the two Loaves, Ver. 17. (offered in Thankfulness for the Harvest, I suppose, and as with the Bread here shews) Maimon. in Talmidin, Ch. 8. 1.

Ver. 24. Memorial] This being the Beginning of the civil Year, and is supposed also to be kept for the Creation of the World at that Time.

Ver. 27. Offering] See of it largely Chap. xvi.

Ver. 32. in the Evening] when the tenth Day began, Ver. 27. Chap. xvi. 29.

Ver. 36. a solemn Day] called the last and great Day. John vii. 37. howsoever it was that our Translators turned it solemn assembly.

Ver. 40. Fruit] So this Heb. Word signifies, as in many other Places, and never boughs; we may understand the Fruit was to be on the Branches, that being also the Time of the Year for it. Accordingly the Jews now use a Fruit they call Attrog, almost like a Citron or Lemon, with Unevenness on the Rind, which they fancy Asa made with her Teeth, and that it was the forbidden Fruit: they have it out of Greece against that Time, and sometimes a Sprig will cost a Guinea; carrying it in their Hands to the Synagogues, where it may be seen on that Festival, Univ. Hist. B. ii. Ch. 2. 4.

Palm-

Palm-trees, Boughs of thick Trees, and Willows of the Brook; and shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven Days.

41. Thus shall you keep it a Feast to the Lord seven Days in a Year: it shall be a lasting Ordinance for your Generations, to be kept in the seventh Month.

42. You shall dwell in Booths seven Days; all who are Natives of Israel shall dwell there:

43. In order for your Generations to know that I made the Israelites dwell in Booths, when I brought them out of the Country of Egypt; who am the Lord your God.

44. Accordingly Moses told the Lord's appointed Times to the Israelites.

C H A P. XXIV.

MOREOVER the Lord spoke as follows to him:

2. Command the Israelites, that they should fetch thee pure Oil of Olives beat for the Light; to make the Lamp burn up continually.

3. Without the Hanging of the Testimony, in the publick Tent, shall Aaron put it in order from Evening to Morning before the Lord continually: which shall be a lasting Ordinance for your Generations.

4. He shall put the Lamps in order upon the pure Candlestick, before the Lord continually.

5. And thou shalt take fine Flour, and bake it in twelve Cakes; there shall be two tenth Parts in one Cake.

6. Then shalt thou set them in two Ranks, six in a Rank, upon the pure Table before the Lord.

7. And thou shalt put pure Frankincense upon the Ranks; that it may be on the Bread for a Memorial, an Offering by Fire to the Lord.

8. On every Sabbath Day he shall put it in order before the Lord continually; being from the Israelites, by a lasting Covenant.

9. And it shall be for Aaron, and his Sons, who shall eat it in the Holy Place; since it is very holy for him, of the Lord's Offerings by Fire, by a lasting Ordinance.

10. Now there went forth the Son of an Israelitish Woman, but of an Egyptian Man, among the Israelites, which Man and another of Israel contended in the Camp.

11. And the former blasphemed the Divine Name, and cursed, whom they brought to Moses; the Name of his Mother being Shelomith, the Daughter of Dibri, of the Tribe of Dan,

12. They also put him in Prison, that it might be expounded to them according to the Lord's Command.

13. Who spoke to Moses as follows:

14. Bring forth him who cursed without the Camp, and let all the Hearers lean their Hands upon his Head; and let the whole Assembly stone him.

15. Thou shalt likewise speak thus to the Israelites; When any Man curses his God, he shall bear his Sin.

16. And he who blasphemeth the Name of the Lord shall be quite put to death, all the Assembly shall thoroughly stone him: as well a Stranger as a Native, when he does it, shall be put to death.

17. When a Person too destroys the Life of any Man, he shall be quite put to death.

18. Nay he who destroys the Life of a Beast shall recompense it, Life for Life.

19. And when a Man makes a Blemish in his Neighbour; as he has done, so shall it be done to him:

20. Breaking shall be for Breaking, Eye for Eye, Tooth for Tooth; as he makes a Blemish in a Man, so shall there be made in him.

21. So he who kills a Beast, shall recompense it; and he who kills a Man, be put to death.

22. There shall be the same Judgment to you, as well for a Stranger as a Native shall it be: for I am the Lord your God.

23. And Moses spoke to the Israelites, that they should bring forth the Curser without the Camp, and stone him with Stones; and they did as the Lord had commanded him.

C H A P. XXV.

BESIDES the Lord ordered Moses at Mount Sinai,

2. That he should speak to the Israelites in this manner: When you are come to the Country which I give you, it shall keep a Sabbath to the Lord.

Ver. 7. by Fire] the Frankincense being afterwards burnt.

Ver. 9. it shall be] the old Bread that was taken away.

Ver. 18. Life for Life] a live one in the room of that which is killed; the Heb. Words being the same as so rendered just before, and never signifying Beast: thus Pagnini and the best Latin Translators turn it animam pro anima.

Ver. 1. at] or by, where the Israelites then were, not in, as Expositors observe.

3. Six Years shalt thou sow thy Field, and so long prune thy Vineyard: and gather the Crop of it.

4. But on the seventh Year there shall be a Sabbath of Rest for the Country, a Sabbath to the Lord: thou shalt neither sow thy Field, nor prune thy Vineyard.

5. Thou shalt not reap that which grows of it self of thy Harvest, nor gather in thy separated Grapes: it shall be a Year of Rest for the Country.

6. And there shall be that of the Sabbath of the Country for you to eat, namely thee, thy Servant-man, Maid, hired one, and those who sojourn with thee:

7. Nay for thy Cattle, and the Beast which is in thy Country, shall all the Crop of it be to eat.

8. Thou shalt also count thee seven Sabbaths of Years, seven times seven, which Time will be to thee nine and forty Years.

9. Then shalt thou cause a Trumpet to sound, on the tenth of the seventh Month, on the Day of Atonements, even throughout all your Country.

10. And you shall consecrate the fiftieth Year, proclaiming Liberty in the Country to all the Inhabitants of it: which shall be the Jubile to you, when you shall return each one to his Possession, as you shall to your respective Families.

11. That fiftieth Year being the Jubile to you; ye shall neither sow, nor reap the Things of it which grow of themselves, nor gather in its separated Grapes.

12. For being the Jubile, it shall be holy to you: ye shall eat the Crop of it out of the Field;

13. Returning in the Year of this Jubile to your several Possessions.

14. And when thou sellest a Bargain to thy Neighbour, or buyest of him, you shall not wrong one another.

15. By the Number of Years after the Jubile, shalt thou buy of thy Neighbour: by the Number of Years of the Fruits, shall he sell to thee.

16. According to the Multitude of the Years shalt thou increase the Purchase of it, and according to the Fewness of them lessen it: for by the Number of the Fruits he sells to thee.

17. So you shall not wrong any one his Neighbour, but thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the Lord your God.

18. Thus shall you do my Ordinances, observe my Rules, and do them; then shall you dwell in the Country securely.

19. And it shall yield its Fruit, so that you shall eat to Fulness, as well as dwell securely in it.

20. Even when you say, What shall we eat in the seventh Year? Behold we must not sow, nor gather our Crop;

21. I will command my Blessing for you in the sixth Year, and it shall yield Fruit for three Years.

22. And you shall sow the eighth Year, and eat of the old Fruit; eating it until the ninth Year, till the Fruit of that comes.

23. Nor shall the Land be sold to be cut off: for it is mine; and you are Strangers and Sojourners with me.

24. Therefore in all the Country of your Possession, you shall grant a Redemption for the Land.

25. When thy Brother becomes poor, and sells any of his Possession; he that is to redeem, who is kin to him may come, and redeem what his Brother sold.

26. As likewise when a Man has none to redeem, and he obtains what is sufficient for the Redemption of it;

27. He shall count the Years of what he sold, and restore that which is over to the Man to whom he sold it; so shall he return to his Possession.

28. But if he does not get sufficient to restore to him, what he sold shall be in the Custody of him who bought it, till the Year of Jubile; and then it shall go out, and he shall return to his Possession.

29. Again when a Man sells a Dwelling-house in a walled City, the Redemption of Ver. 3. the Crop of it] viz. of each, by the Heb. Partition, and it not being fruit.

Ver. 4. to] as Ver. 2.

Ver. 5. separated] as no more belonging then to the Owner of the Ground, than to another. It neither signifies undressed, nor is there any thing for wine in the Hebrew.

Ver. 6. that of the Sabbath] like those of Jerusalem, &c. as necessary.

1b. to eat] as in the literal Version of Pagninus and Montanus, ad vescendum, and in that of Jun. and Trem. ad comedendum.

Ver. 8. will be] for mind how shall be reads.

Ver. 9. sound] not Jubile, which is quite another Word.

Ver. 10. fiftieth] The Use of the Sabbatical Years and Jubiles to us being in Chronology, that is referred to 1 Kings xii. 23.

Ver. 11. the Things] being plural as at Job xiv. 19. but there of it is left out.

Ver. 15. Years of the Fruits] The seventh Years being not such, Ver. 3, 4. and so were not to be reckoned in the Sale.

Ver. 23. mine] which the Israelites were kept to the Sense and Acknowledgment of, by not having Power to sell their Land entirely. And as God gave or entailed it to their continued Generations, and that of each Tribe separately, that the late as well as early Posterity of the Patriarchs, to whom it was promised, might enjoy it, and thereby be incited to Gratitude and Obedience, this Prohibition was proper.

Ver. 27. what he sold] Heb. his Sale; not the Sale of the Possession, according to the com. Transf. which the Gender of the Pronoun disproves.

it may be till the Year of what he sold is compleated: in which Time it shall be.

30. And if it is not redeemed till an entire Year is fulfilled to it, the House that is in a City which has a Wall, shall be confirmed to be cut off to him who bought it, for his Generations: it shall not go out in the Jubile.

31. But the Houses of the Villages, to which there is no Wall round about, shall be reckoned with the Fields of the Country: there may be Redemption for them, else they shall go out in the Jubile.

32. Nevertheless to the Levites for their Cities, the Houses of them which they possess, there may be a perpetual Redemption.

33. And whoever is of the Levites may redeem, else the Sale of the House, and the City of his Possession shall go out in the Jubile: for the Houses of their Cities are their Possession among the Israelites.

34. However the Fields of the Suburbs of their Cities shall not be sold; for they shall be a perpetual Possession to them.

35. And when thy Brother becomes poor, and cannot work with thee; thou shalt maintain him, whether a Stranger or a Sojourner, that he may live with thee.

36. Take not Usury nor Interest of him, but fear thy God; that thy Brother may live with thee.

37. Thou shalt not give him thy Money on Usury, nor give thy Food on Interest.

38. I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the Country of Egypt; to give you the Country of Canaan, that I might be a God to you.

39. Moreover when thy Brother with thee becomes poor, and is sold to thee, thou shalt not make him do the Service of a Slave.

40. Like a hired one, like a Sojourner shall he be with thee: he shall serve with thee till the Year of Jubile.

41. Then shall he go out from thee, and his Children with him; and shall return to his Family, as he shall to the Possession of his Fathers.

42. For they are my Servants, whom I brought out of the Country of Egypt; they shall not be sold with the Sale of a Slave.

43. Thou shalt not rule over him with Rigour, but fear thy God.

44. Both thy Men-slaves and Maids, whom thou shalt have, shall be of the Nations that are round about you, of them you shall buy such.

45. And also any of the Children of those who sojourn with you may you buy, and of their Families which are with you, that they beget in your Country; and they shall be for a Possession to you.

46. And you shall give them to be possessed by your Children after you, that they may inherit them for a Possession, you shall make them serve for ever; but one over another, of your Brethren the Israelites, thou shalt not rule with Rigour.

47. When a Stranger too, or Sojourner with thee, gets, and thy Brother with him becomes poor, and is sold to him, or the Stock of the Stranger's Family;

48. After he is sold there may be a Redemption for him, by one of his Relations.

49. Either his Uncle, or Uncle's Son may redeem him, or some other of the Kindred by Blood of his own Family may do it; or he getting, may redeem himself.

50. And he shall reckon with him who bought him, from the Year of his being sold to him, till that of Jubile: and the Money of his Sale shall be with him, according to the Number of the Years, as the Time of one hired.

51. If there be yet many Years, according to them shall he restore for a Redemption, out of the Money of his Purchase.

Ver. 29. Time] Heb. Days.

Ib. shall] not to be a Tautology.

Ver. 31. Houses of the Villages] as necessarily belonging to the Land of Tillage and Pasture there, which was not in Cities.

Ib. else] not and, as is clear.

Ver. 33. whoever] that is not a near Kinsman as before, Ver. 25. strangely translated if a man, being the Heb. Relative.

Ib. redeem] widely rendered purchase, especially after the like Words had been so often turned redeem, &c. just before, in the com. Translation.

Ver. 35. cannot work] Heb. his Hand is removed, as if from working; not faileth, as in the Eng. Margin.

Ib. maintain him] Heb. hold him up.

Ver. 40. Jubile] I find little or nothing to the Purpose said to conciliate this with Exod. xxi. 2. which has indeed its Difficulty: for how could Servants that were bought be released the seventh Year, supposing it either the Sabbatical Year or the seventh Year of their Service, and yet not be freed till the fiftieth Year? Excepting only when the Jubile fell in those seven Years, to which it is plain this was not restricted, Ver. 51. Patrick, on Ver. 54. makes a Distinction contradictory to this Place, that if the Master was not a Hebrew, he who was sold to him must stay with him till the Jubile, and had not the benefit of the seventh Year of Release, as Hebrew Servants had who served Hebrew Masters: whereas thy Brother, Ver. 39. shews that both the Master and Servant here spoken of were Hebrews, of whom it is said, he shall serve with thee till the Year of Jubile. But the right Distinction may be thus; those who were to be released at the seventh Year, were such as were sold by others, as shewn on Exod. xxi. 2. and they who were to continue in Servitude till the Jubile, such as sold themselves, by reason of Poverty, which is the Cause shewn in both Cases here mentioned, Ver. 39, 47. And it looks just and equivalent, that the latter doing it voluntarily, should serve longer than the others who were constrained.

Ver. 46. thou shalt] according to the frequent Change of the Heb. Verbs.

Ver. 49. Blood] For which the Heb. here uses Flesh, and sometimes Bone with it.

52. And

52. And if there be a few Years left to that of Jubile, he shall reckon with him; restoring for his Redemption according to his Years.

53. He shall be with him as a hired one Year by Year; who shall not rule him with Rigour in thy Sight.

54. Now if he is not redeemed by these, yet he shall go out in the Year of Jubile, and his Children with him.

55. For the Israelites are Servants to me, my Servants are they whom I brought out of the Country of Egypt; who am the Lord your God.

CHAP. XXVI.

YOU shall not make you Idols, or a carved Image, raise you up a Statue, nor put a Figure of Stone in your Country, to bow down to it: for I am the Lord your God.

2. You shall observe my Sabbaths, and reverence my Sanctuary; who am the Lord.

3. If you will go in my Ordinances, observe my Commandments, and do them;

4. I will give you Showers in their Time; whereby the Land shall yield its Increase, and the Trees of the Field their Fruit.

5. And the Threshing shall reach for you to the Vintage, as the Vintage shall to the Sowing; and you shall eat your Victuals to Fulness, dwelling securely in your Country.

6. And I will give Peace there, inasmuch that you shall lie down, and none make afraid; I will also make ill Beasts cease from it, and the Sword shall not pass through it.

7. Besides you shall pursue your Enemies; and they shall fall before you by the Sword.

8. Even five of you shall pursue a hundred, as a hundred of you shall ten thousand; so that your Enemies shall fall in that Manner.

9. I will further have regard to you, and make you fruitful, increasing you; and will confirm my Covenant with you.

10. And you shall not only eat that which is become old, but bring out the old because of the new.

11. Nay I will put my Tabernacle amongst you, and my Soul shall not loath you.

12. And I will go about in the midst of you, and be a God to you, as you shall a People to me.

13. I am the Lord your God who brought you out of the Country of Egypt, from being Slaves to them; when I broke the Beams of your Yoke, and made you go upright.

14. But if you will not hearken to me, nor do all these Commandments;

15. And if you reject my Ordinances, and your Souls loath my Rules, not to do all my Commandments, so that you break my Covenant;

16. I will do this to you, I will bring upon you the Visitation of Trouble, the Consumption and Fever, which shall consume the Eyes, and make the Soul sorrowful; and you shall sow your Seed in vain, for your Enemies shall eat it.

17. And I will put my Face against you, so that you shall be beat before them; and those who hate you shall rule over you, nay you shall flee, when none pursues you.

18. Moreover if yet for these Things you will not hearken to me, I will chastise you sevenfold more for your Sins.

19. For I will break the Excellency of your Strength; making your Heaven as Iron, and your Earth as Brass.

20. And your Might shall be consumed in vain; since your Land shall not yield its Increase, nor the Trees of it their Fruit.

21. If you notwithstanding go with me casually, and will not hearken to me; I will add upon you Plagues sevenfold according to your Sins.

22. For I will send wild Beasts among you, which shall deprive you of your Children, destroy your Cattle, and lessen you; and your Ways shall be desolate.

23. Next if you will not be corrected to me by these Things, but will go with me casually;

24. I will also go with you casually,

Ver. 5. Threshing] being in the Summer after their Harvest, as on Chap. xxiii. 10.

Ver. 10. bring out the old] to make room for the new.

Ver. 12. in the midst] according to the Heb. and also 2 Cor. vi. 16.

Ver. 13. upright] because a Yoke made to bend down.

Ver. 16. upon you] * causing the following Diseases to * seize upon them, as the Phrase signifies, Patrick's Annotation.

Ver. 21. casually] from the Verb, its Root signifying to happen or fall out, but not to be contrary; which Trm. and Jun. render temerè, at hap hazard, or as Buxtorf expounds it ut accidat, just as it falls out. Thus the Word is expounded by Kimbi in the Book of Heb.

Roots, and by Maimonides in Mishn. taanieth, Ch. 1. 3. in Mere Nevoch, Pt. iii. Ch. 36. It is found only in this Chapter seven times. Munster indeed in his Annotation here, pretends it has the Signification of occursum, meeting, from that of the Verb to meet; on which Supposition, meeting would but faintly shew it was contrary. But as the Heb. Preposition is עִם with, and neither בְּ unto, nor בְּ against, to walk or go with is the very opposite of meet, so that it cannot have that Meaning. Accidentally may be understood as contradistinct to constantly and designedly, to mean here their serving God only on some Occasions, or precariously at their own Wills; see also Gell's Essay, p. 329, 330.

and will smite you too sevenfold for your Sins.

25. For I will bring the Sword upon you, which shall execute the Vengeance of the Covenant, so that you shall be gathered into your Cities; then will I send the Pestilence amongst you, and you shall be delivered into the Power of the Enemy.

26. When I have broken the Staff of Bread to you, ten Women shall bake your Bread in one Oven, and restore it by Weight; thus you shall eat, and not be satisfied.

27. Lastly if for this you will not hearken to me, but will go with me casually;

28. I will go with you casually in Wrath, and I will also chastise you sevenfold for your Sins.

29. For you shall eat the Flesh of your Sons, as you shall also that of your Daughters.

30. And I will destroy your Chappels, cut off your sunny Images, and put your Carcases upon those of your filthy Idols; nay my Soul shall loath you.

31. I will too make your Cities waste, cause your Sanctuaries to be desolate; and will not smell your pleasant Smell.

32. The Country likewise will I make so desolate, that your Enemies who dwell therein shall be astonished at it.

33. And I will disperse you in the Nations, drawing forth a Sword after you; while your Country shall be Desolation, and your Cities be Wasting.

34. Then shall the Country accept its Sabbaths all the Time it is desolate, and you are in your Enemies Country; then will it rest, accepting its Sabbaths.

35. All the Time it is desolate it will rest, which it did not do in your Sabbaths, when you dwelt upon it,

36. And those who are left of you, I will also make so fainthearted in their Enemies Country, that the Sound of a driven Leaf pursuing them, they shall flee as with the Flight of a Sword, and fall when none pursues.

37. They shall even stumble one on another, as by reason of the Sword; when none pursues; and there shall be no rising up for you before your Enemies.

38. Thus shall you perish in the Nations, and your Enemies Country shall devour you.

39. And those who are left of you shall waste away in their Iniquity in your Enemies Countries, as they shall also in the Iniquities of their Fathers with them.

40. However should they confess their Iniquity and that of their Fathers, by their false Dealing wherein they have dealt falsely with me, and also wherein they have gone with me casually;

41. (Whereupon I went with them casually, and brought them into their Enemies Country) their uncircumcised Hearts being either then humbled, or they then accepting the Punishment of their Iniquity;

42. I will remember my Covenant with Jacob, and also my Covenant with Isaac, and likewise that with Abraham will I remember, as I will the Country.

43. When the Country is forsaken by them, and accepts its Sabbaths, while it is desolate from them, and they accept the Punishment of their Iniquity, forasmuch as they have rejected my Rules, and their Souls loathed my Ordinances;

44. Even for this too, when they are in their Enemies Country, I will not reject them, nor loath them, to consume them, to break my Covenant with them: for I am the Lord their God.

45. But I will remember for them the Covenant of the former ones, whom I brought out of the Country of Egypt in the Sight of the Nations, that I the Lord might be a God to them.

46. These are the Ordinances, Rules and Laws, which the Lord made between himself and the Israelites, at Mount Sinai by the Ministry of Moses.

Ver. 30. Chappels] See Num. xxxiii. 52.

Ver. 35. desolate it will rest] See 2 Chron. xxxvi. 21.

VOL. I.

39. Though some understand this for another and the Jews present Dispersion, it does not appear according to the Words; because there is no Mention of a Return between, and as the Jews kept their Sabbatical Years after the Babylonian Transmigration, as may be seen by Josephus, a Retribution on that Account was unnecessary, and shews this is partly a Repetition of what was said before, to terminate with the Chaldean Captivity; besides they shall accept is incoherent not only with Ver. 41. but with the Sense requisite here, as this accepting is the only Condition on their Part, to obtain Favour.

Ver. 45. for them] The Meaning cannot be, says Patrick, that God would be so gracious for their sakes, who were so very wicked; but as the Words in the Hebrew are, he would for them, i. e. for their good and advantage, remember the Covenant, &c. Pools to the same Purpose.

C H A P. XXVII.

AND the Lord bade Moses,
2. Speak to the Israelites, and say to them: When a Man puts apart with a Vow; by thy Estimation of the Persons, there shall be for the Lord.

3. And thy Estimation of a Male, which shall be from his twentieth to his sixtieth Year, shall be fifty Shekels of Silver, by the holy Shekel.

4. And if it is a Female, thy Estimation shall be thirty Shekels.

5. Moreover if it be from its fifth to its twentieth Year, thy Estimation of a Male shall be twenty Shekels, and for a Female ten.

6. And if he is from a Month to his fifth Year, thy Estimation of a Male shall be five Shekels of Silver; as it shall for a Female three.

7. On the other hand if he is from his sixtieth Year upward, if a Male, thy Estimation shall be fifteen Shekels, and for a Female ten.

8. But if he is poorer than thy Estimation, he shall present himself before the Priest, who shall value him; doing it according to what he who vowed can obtain.

9. And if it is a Beast some of which they bring for an Oblation to the Lord, all that any one gives of it to him shall be holy.

10. He shall neither alter, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good; and if he does at all change Beast for Beast, that and the Exchange of it shall both be holy.

11. If it is also any unclean Beast of which they do not bring an Oblation to the Lord, he shall cause the Beast to stand before the Priest.

12. Who shall value it between good and bad: according to thy Estimation, O Priest, so shall it be.

13. But if he will at all redeem it, he shall add the fifth Part of it to thy Estimation.

14. And when a Man consecrates his House to be holy to the Lord, the Priest shall value it between good and bad: according as he values it, so shall it stand.

15. Afterwards if he who has consecrated will redeem his House, he shall add the fifth Part of the Money of thy Estimation to it, and it shall be his.

16. And if a Man consecrates some of the Land of his Inheritance to the Lord, thy Estimation shall be according to the Seed of it, that of a Homer of Barley Seed at fifty Shekels of Silver.

17. If he consecrates his Land from the Year of Jubile, it shall stand according to thy Estimation.

18. But if he consecrate it after the Jubile, the Priest shall reckon the Silver for him, according to the Years which are left till that of Jubile; and it shall be abated from thy Estimation.

19. And if he at all redeem the Land who has consecrated it, he shall add the fifth Part of the Silver of thy Estimation to it, and it shall be confirmed to him.

20. Whereas if he will not redeem the Land, and if it is then sold to another Man, it shall not be redeemed any more.

21. So that when the Land goes out in the Jubile, it shall be holy to the Lord, as devoted Land; the Priest shall have the Possession of it.

Ver. 2. puts apart] Buxtorf and Montan. have it separaverit, as Munster has segragaverit, shall separate; which latter are likewise the Words of Ainsworth's Eng. Version; the Verb signifying to separate, or put apart.

1b. thy Estimation of the Persons] which not only by the Heb. Accents of a Servant and his King (as they are called) belong to one another, and according to the Remark made by Crassi, in Taybm. p. 105. Persons and Lord are disjoyned; but the Person was not to be for the Lord, as said in the com. Eng. but as much as he was valued at, according to the following Verles.

Ver. 11. they bring an Oblation] The same as in Ver. 9.

Ver. 12. between good and bad] that is at a middling Price; and what Sense does whether it be good or bad convey, when a Person vowed to give a Beast? And who ever vowed to give a bad one?

Ver. 16. Homer] Our two famous and popular Commentators, Poole and Patrick, both count this Measure for the same as that mentioned in Exod. xvi. 36. which is an Omer (the Heb. Letters being different) the tenth Part of an Ephah, as there said; whereas this Homer was ten Ephahs, Exod. xlv. 11. and consequently as much as a hundred Omers. According to which Reckoning of theirs, the latter says it was about a Pottle of our Measure, when on Exod. xvi. 36. though he here refers to it, he had said it was near three Quarts; Poole says it is not above a Pottle of our Measure: however by the Bishop of Peterborough's Computation in the Index of the great Bible, which has been thought the most correct, an Omer contained something more than three Quarts, and a Homer above 9 Bush. 3 Gall. and 5 Pints. Nevertheless I agree with them that the Consecration Money here named was not to be paid yearly, but once like the rest, the fifty Shekels being the whole Estimation from one Jubile to another, Ver. 17. as Land was then cheap, and the Estimation moderate; from which there was Abatement if the Years were fewer, Ver. 18. So Maimonides says, The Estimation of every Place, whether best or worst, that is fit to have a Homer of Barley sowed on it, is 50 Shekels for all the Years of the Jubile, in Erachin, Ch. 4. 2. Now the Heb. Maneh or Mina of sixty Shekels being in Value a little above seven Pounds, or as Prideaux has it in the Pres. of his Connexion nine Pounds; according to the first fifty Shekels were worth about six Pounds, by the latter 7½, and a Homer of Seed might sow about 2½ Acres; which is 3l. or less for an Acre.

Ver. 20. is then sold] According to the Sense, as Expositors observe, and the Conjunction may well signify and then. It is not likely the Priests might sell it without the Refusal before, as or denotes.

22. If Land too of his Purchase, which is not that of his Inheritance, he should consecrate to the Lord;

23. The Priest shall reckon for him the Sum of thy Estimation till the Year of Jubile; and he shall give thy Estimation on that Day, to be holy to the Lord.

24. In the Year of Jubile shall the Land return to him of whom it was bought, who had the Possession of the Ground.

25. And all thy Estimation shall be by the holy Shekel; that being twenty Gerahs.

26. Only a Firstling of a Beast, which being first brought forth to the Lord is his, a Man shall not consecrate, whether it be Bullock or Lamb.

27. But if it is of an unclean Beast, he shall ransom by thy Estimation, and add its fifth Part to it; and if it is not redeemed, it shall be sold by thy Estimation.

28. Only all that is devoted by a Man to the Lord, of whatever he has, of Man, Beast, or Land of his Possession, shall not be sold, nor redeemed: it is all very holy to the Lord.

29. No devoted Thing which is devoted by Men, shall be ransomed; it shall be quite put to death.

30. And all the Tenth of the Ground, that of its Seed, that of the Fruit of the Trees, shall be the Lord's; to whom it is holy.

31. However if a Man will at all redeem any of his Tenth, he shall add its fifth Part to it.

32. All the Tenth likewise of the Herd and Flock, all that passes under the Rod, shall be a Tenth holy to the Lord.

33. He shall not enquire between good and bad, nor change it: for if he at all change it, that and the Exchange of it shall be holy, it shall not be redeemed.

34. These are the Commandments which the Lord gave Moses in command for the Israelites, at Mount Sinai.

Ver. 26. not consecrate] by Vow as in this Chap. because it was the Lord's already.

Ver. 27. is of] If it be the Firstling of an unclean Beast that is consecrated by Vow, then, &c. see Exod. xiii. 13. which so does well consist with this.

Ib. ransom] another Verb here, and in Ver. 29. than that used elsewhere for it.

Ver. 28. devoted] which being confirmed with a Curse, could not be bought off like a simple Vow before.

Ib. be sold] Vulg. Lat. veniet, come; which seems to be some Blunder from vendetur, with its Termination contracted, as in the Manuscripts.

Ver. 29. Thing] The three Kinds of Things that might be devoted to the Lord being named in the foregoing Verse, and all declared to be very holy, there is here a farther particular Direction given for one of the Sorts, which did not belong to the others; hitherto Interpreters seem agreed. It is so shocking that a Man might devote his Child or Servant to death, that few understand it in such a Manner, but several expound it of the Canaanites or Criminals: whereas if those, especially the former as Num. ii. 2. might be devoted, it was not to the Lord, to be holy as in the last Verse, but to Destruction; which Distinction should have been considered. It remains therefore that a Beast was here intended, as Jun. and Trem. translate, omnis bestia, every Beast.

Ib. by Men] it following a Verb passive here, which was active in the Verse before.

NOTES upon the Book called NUMBERS.

CHAP. I.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the publick Tent, on the first of the second Month, in the second Year of their coming out of the Country of Egypt, as follows :

2. Take you the Sum of the whole Assembly of the Israelites, after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, even of all the Males after their Reckoning,

3. From their twentieth Year upward, being all who are to go out to War of Israel; those shall thou and Aaron number, throughout their Armies.

4. With whom there shall be a Man of every Tribe, each one the Head of his Father's Household.

18. They gathered together all the Assembly on the first of the second Month, who shewed their Genealogy according to their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, after their Reckoning.

19. In the Wilderness of Sinai did Moses number them, as the Lord commanded him.

20. And the Posterity of Reuben the First-born of Israel, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names after their Reckoning, even all the Males from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

21. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were forty six thousand and five hundred.

22. The Posterity of Simeon, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, that were counted by the Number of the Names after their Reckoning, even all the Males from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

28. The Posterity of Issachar, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

29. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were fifty four thousand and four hundred.

Ver. 2. by] The Eng. Translation has 3 here with, and Ver. 18, 20, &c. according to, neither of which it signifies.

Ver. 16. called] so the Word undeniably means.

30. The Posterity of Zebulun, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

31. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were fifty seven thousand and four hundred.

32. Of the Sons of Joseph: the Posterity of Ephraim, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

33. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were forty thousand and five hundred.

34. The Posterity of Manasseh, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

35. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were thirty two thousand and two hundred.

36. The Posterity of Benjamin, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

37. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were thirty five thousand and four hundred.

38. The Posterity of Dan, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

39. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were sixty two thousand and seven hundred.

40. The Posterity of Asher, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

41. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were forty one thousand and five hundred.

42. The Posterity of Naphtali, their Generations after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, by the Number of the Names, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War;

43. Who were numbered of that Tribe, were fifty three thousand and four hundred.

44. These are the Numbers of them whom Moses, and Aaron, numbered, with the Princes of Israel, being twelve Men, each one for the Household of his Fathers.

45. Thus all the Israelites that were numbered, throughout the Household of their Fathers, from their twentieth Year upward, being all that were to go out to War of Israel,

46. Even the whole Number, were six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty.

47. But the Levites, after the Tribe of their Fathers, were not numbered amongst them.

48. For the Lord had said thus to Moses:

49. However thou shalt not number the Tribe of Levi, nor take the Sum of them, among the Israelites.

50. But thou shalt set the Levites over the Tabernacle of the Testimony, over all the Instruments of it, and all that belongs to it; which they shall carry, with all its Furniture, minister to it, and encamp round about it.

51. And when the Tabernacle is to go on, they shall take it down, as likewise when it is to be pitched, they shall set it up; and the Stranger who goes near, shall be put to death.

52. Let the Israelites also encamp, each in his own Camp, and at his Standard, throughout their Armies.

53. But let the Levites encamp round about the Tabernacle of the Testimony, and take care of the Business of it, that there may not be Wrath upon the Assembly of the Israelites.

54. And the Israelites did entirely according as the Lord commanded Moses.

C H A P. II.

THE Lord spoke further to Moses, and Aaron thus:

2. Let the Israelites encamp, doing it each at his Standard, with Ensigns according to the Household of their Fathers, at a distance round about the publick Tent.

3. And those of the Standard of the Camp of Judah, throughout their Armies, shall encamp eastward towards the Sun-rising; and the Prince of his Posterity shall be Nahshon the Son of Amminadab:

Ver. 46. fix] the same Number that was counted a little while before, Exod. xxxviii. 26.

Ver. 2. at a distance] perhaps that mentioned Josh. iii. 4.

Ver. 3. Prince] by the Heb. Word, and as in Ch. vii. otherwise Colonel, as the highest of the particular Officers in an Army, and over the Captains, might be most suitable to this Station.

4. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being seventy four thousand and six hundred.

5. By him shall also encamp the Tribe of Issachar, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Nethaneel the Son of Zuar :

6. His Army, namely those who are numbered of it, being fifty four thousand and four hundred.

7. Then the Tribe of Zebulun, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Eliab the Son of Helon :

13. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being fifty nine thousand and three hundred.

14. Next the Tribe of Gad, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Eliasaph the Son of Reuel :

15. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being forty five thousand six hundred and fifty.

16. All that are numbered for the Camp of Reuben, being a hundred fifty one thousand four hundred and fifty, throughout their Armies ; who shall march second.

17. And the publick Tent shall go on with the Camp of the Levites, in the midst of the other Camps : as they encamp, so shall they march, each at his Side, according to their Standards.

18. They of the Standard of the Camp of Ephraim, throughout their Armies, shall be westward ; and the Prince of his Posterity shall be Elishama the Son of Ammihud :

19. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being forty thousand and five hundred.

20. By him too shall be the Tribe of Manasseh, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Gamaliel the Son of Pedahzur ;

21. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being thirty two thousand and two hundred.

22. Moreover the Tribe of Benjamin, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Abidan the Son of Gideoni :

23. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being thirty five thousand and four hundred.

24. All that are numbered for the Camp of Ephraim, being a hundred and eight thousand and a hundred, throughout their Armies ; who shall march third.

25. They of the Standard of the Camp of Dan shall be northward, throughout their Armies ; and the Prince of his Posterity shall be Ahiezer the Son of Ammishaddai :

26. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being sixty two thousand and seven hundred.

27. By him further shall encamp the Tribe of Asher, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Pagiel the Son of Ocran :

28. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being forty one thousand and five hundred.

29. Lastly the Tribe of Naphtali, the Prince of whose Posterity shall be Ahira the Son of Enan :

30. His Army, namely those who are numbered of them, being fifty three thousand and four hundred.

31. All that are numbered for the Camp of Dan, being a hundred fifty seven thousand and six hundred ; who shall march hindermost, according to their Standards.

32. These are the Numbers of the Israelites, after the Household of their Fathers ; all that were numbered of the Camps, throughout their Armies, being six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

33. But the Levites were not numbered amongst them, as the Lord commanded Moses.

34. And the Israelites did entirely as the Lord commanded him, encamping thus after their Standards, and marching thus each after their Families, according to the Household of their Fathers.

Ver. 4. bring] Since not only this Verse was Part of what the Lord said, which [were] destroys, but as it appears the whole extends to Ver. 32.

CHAP. III.

NOW these were the Generations of Aaron and Moses, at the Time that the Lord spoke to the latter on Mount Sinai.

2. The Names of Aaron's Sons were, Nadab the First-born, with Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

3. They were the anointed Priests; whose Hands he filled to execute the Priesthood.

4. But Nadab and Abihu died before the Lord, when they offered strange Fire before him in the Wilderness of Sinai, having no Sons; so Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Priesthood in the Presence of Aaron their Father.

5. And the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

6. Bring the Tribe of Levi near, and cause them to stand before Aaron the Priest, that they may minister to him.

7. For they shall take care of his Business, and that of the whole Assembly, before the publick Tent, in doing the Service of the Tabernacle;

8. As they shall also of all the Instruments of the publick Tent, as well as the Business of the Israelites, in doing that Service.

9. Thus shalt thou give the Levites to Aaron and his Sons, and that wholly from the Israelites.

10. And thou shalt appoint him and his Sons to take care of the Priesthood; and let the Stranger who goes near be put to death.

11. The Lord spoke further to Moses thus;

12. Behold even I take the Levites from among the Israelites, instead of all their First-born who open the Womb; therefore they are mine.

13. For on the Day I slew all the First-born in the Country of Egypt, I consecrated all those in Israel to my self, both of Man and Beast; so they became mine, who are the Lord.

14. Besides the Lord said this to him in the Wilderness of Sinai,

15. Number the Posterity of Levi, throughout the Household of their Fathers, after their Families; which thou shalt every Male of them from his Month upward.

16. Who numbered them as he was commanded by the Lord.

17. And the Sons of Levi were these by their Names, Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

18. Moreover the Names of the Sons of Gershon, after their Families, were Libni and Shimei;

19. The Sons also of Kohath, after their Families, Amram and Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel;

20. And the Sons of Merari, after theirs, Mahli and Mushi: these were the Families of the Levites, throughout the Household of their Fathers.

21. Of Gershon were the Family of the Libnites, and that of the Shimeites; these were the Families of the Gershonites.

22. Of whom were numbered, in the Number of all the Males from their Month upward, seven thousand and five hundred.

23. Those Families encamped behind the Tabernacle westward.

24. And the Prince of the Household of the Father of the Gershonites, was Eliafaph the Son of Lael.

25. Now the Charge of the Sons of Gershon at the publick Tent, was the Tabernacle, the Tent, its Covering, the Hanging of the Door of the publick Tent,

26. The Tapestry of the Court, and the Hanging of the Court-door, which was by the Tabernacle, and by the Altar round about, with the Cords of it, for all its Service.

27. Of Kohath likewise were the Family of the Amramites, with those of the Izharites, Hebronites and Uzzielites; these were the Families of the Kohathites.

28. In the Number of all whose Males from their Month upward, were eight thousand and six hundred, who looked after the Affairs of the Holy Place.

29. Those Families encamped at the Side of the Tabernacle southward.

30. And the Prince of the Household of the Father of the Families of the Kohathites, was Elizaphan the Son of Uzziel.

31. Their Charge too was the Ark, Table, Candlestick, Altars, and the Instruments of the Holy Place with which they ministered, as also the Curtain, and all the Service of it.

1b. at the Time] Nadab and Abihu being then alive, but not now.

Ver. 3. whose Hands he filled] as the Heb. is, and here look Gell's Essay, p. 368, 369.

Ver. 6. Tribe of Levi] Not only as being of the same Tribe with Aaron, to whom they were given, Ver. 9. but for their Zeal against Idolatry, Exod. xxxii. 26, 27, 28, 29. see Mal. ii. 4, 5.

Ver. 13. First-born] See Exod. xiii. 15.

Ver. 19. Izhar] The same as Exod. vi. 18, 21. 1 Chron. vi. 2.

Ver. 23. encamped] as this does not show to be spoken by the Lord. So Jun. and Trem. castrametabantur.

Ver. 24. was] as in com. Transf. Ver. 35. and as appears from Ver. 16, 17.

32. And the chief Prince of the Levites, was Eleazar the Son of Aaron the Priest, who was set over them that looked after the Affairs of the Holy Place.

33. Of Merari were the Family of the Mahlites, and that of the Mushites; these were the Families of the Merarites.

34. And of them were numbered, in the Number of all the Males from their Month upward, six thousand and two hundred.

35. Next the Prince of the Household of the Father of the Families of the Merarites, was Zuriel the Son of Abihail: they encamped at the Side of the Tabernacle northward.

36. And the Office of the Charge of Merari's Sons, was the Boards of the Tabernacle, its Bars, Pillars, Sockets, and all its Instruments, with all the Service of it,

37. As also the Pillars of the Court round about, with their Sockets, Pins and Cords.

38. And Moses, with Aaron and his Sons, encamped before the Tabernacle eastward, at the Front of the publick Tent towards the Sun-rising, looking after the Affairs of the Sanctuary in the Israelites Business; and the Stranger who went near was to be put to death.

39. All the Males that were numbered of the Levites, from their Month upward, by Moses and Aaron at the Command of the Lord, after their Families, were twenty two thousand.

40. The Lord likewise said to Moses; Number all the first-born Males of the Israelites, from their Month upward, by taking the Number of their Names;

41. Instead of whom thou shalt receive the Levites for me the Lord, and the Beasts of the Levites instead of all the Firstlings among the Beasts of the Israelites.

42. And Moses numbered, as the Lord commanded him, all the First-born among the Israelites.

43. Of which Males were numbered, in the Number of the Names, from their Month upward, twenty two thousand two hundred and seventy three.

44. Then the Lord spoke to Moses as follows;

45. Take the Levites instead of all the First-born among the Israelites, and the Beasts of the Levites instead of their Beasts; that the Levites may be mine, who am the Lord.

46. And for the Redemption of the two hundred and seventy three, who are over and above the Levites, of the First-born of the Israelites,

47. Thou shalt take five Shekels apiece for a Head, by the holy Shekel which is twenty Gerahs.

48. And thou shalt give Aaron and his Sons, the Silver of the Redemption of those, who are over and above of them.

49. Accordingly Moses received it from them, who were over and above the Redemption of the Levites:

50. From the First-born of the Israelites he received a thousand three hundred and sixty five Shekels of Silver, by the holy Shekel.

51. Which Money of Redemption he gave to Aaron and his Sons, at the Command of the Lord, as he ordered him.

C H A P. IV.

BESIDES the Lord said thus to Moses, and Aaron:

2. Take the Sum of the Kohathites from among the Levites, after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers;

3. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year, being all who are to enter into the Business, to do the Work in the publick Tent.

4. The following shall be the Service of the Kohathites in the publick Tent, about the very holy Things:

5. First Aaron and his Sons shall come

Ver. 34. two hundred] For this the Sept. has fifty.

Ver. 38. towards the Sun-rising] as Chap. ii. 3.

Ver. 39. thousand] The 300 more that the Numbers of the Levites amounted to, Ver. 22, 28, 34. are supposed to be their First-born, who being the Lord's already, Ver. 13. were not to be taken for the First-born of the other Israelites, Ver. 41, 45.

Ver. 40. all the first-born] who were born since the Lord consecrated them to be his, Ver. 13. Exod. xiii. 2. which may account for the Smallness of the Number, Ver. 43. for 600000, Exod. xii. 37. being divided by 22273, produces about 27; which Number of Men may well be supposed among that fruitful People, to have one Son born in above a Year, Ch. i. 1. and their Redemption at five Shekels apiece, Ver. 47. shews they were Children, Lev. xxvii. 6.

Ver. 41. Beasts] which probably were not counted one for one as the Persons, but altogether whether more or fewer.

Ver. 48. the Silver] It does not appear by the canon. Transf. whether it was Silver or Gold, the Shekels of which being the same Weight, would be vastly different in Value.

Ver. 3. thirtieth Year] when they were to begin doing the Service that follows, but were to enter into their Office five Years sooner, to do some Business, as well as learn this, Chap. viii. 24. see Gell's Essay, p. 431.

when the Camp is to go on, and taking down the covering Veil, cover the Ark of the Testimony with it.

6. Next they shall put upon it a Covering of Badgers Skin, spreading a Cloth all blue above, and place its Poles.

7. Moreover they shall spread a blue Cloth upon the Presence-table, and put upon it the Plates, Spoons, Cups, and the Covers for covering; the continual Bread shall also be on it.

8. And they shall spread upon them a Cloth of scarlet Thread, shall cover it with a Covering of Badgers Skin, and place the Poles of it.

9. They shall likewise take a blue Cloth, and cover the Candlestick for the Light, as also its Lamps, Tongs, Snuff-dishes, and all the Vessels for its Oil, with which they minister to it.

10. And they shall put it, with all its Vessels, into a Covering of Badgers Skin, and put it upon a Leaver.

11. Upon the Altar of Gold too shall they spread a blue Cloth, and cover it with a Covering of Badgers Skin, placing its Poles.

12. And they shall take all the Instruments of ministering, that they minister with in the Holy Place, and put into a blue Cloth; then shall they cover them with a Covering of Badgers Skin, and put it upon a Leaver.

13. They shall further take away the Ashes of the Altar, and spread upon it a purple Cloth.

14. As they shall also put on it all its Instruments, with which they minister at it, the Censers, Forks, Shovels, and Bowls, all the Instruments of the Altar; and shall spread upon it a Covering of Badgers Skin, and place the Poles of it.

15. And when Aaron and his Sons have made an end of covering the Holy Place, with all the Instruments of it, when the Camp is to go on, after that the Kohathites shall come to carry the same; but they must not touch a holy Thing, lest they should die. These Things shall be the Burden of the Kohathites at the publick Tent.

16. And the Office of Eleazar the Son of Aaron the Priest, shall be about the Oil for the Light, the Incense of Odours, the continual Meat-offering, and Oil for anointing; the Office of the whole Tabernacle, and all that is in it, both in the Holy Place, and the Vessels of it.

17. The Lord also said to Moses, and Aaron as follows;

18. You shall not cut off the Tribe of the Families of the Kohathites, from among the Levites.

19. Therefore you shall do this for them, that they may live, and not die, when they go near to the very holy Things; let Aaron and his Sons come, and put them each Man upon his Service, and to his Burden.

20. And let them not go in to see when a holy Thing is covered, lest they should die.

21. The Lord likewise spoke as follows to Moses:

22. Take the Sum of the Gershonites too, throughout the Household of their Fathers, after their Families;

23. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year shalt thou number them, being all who are to enter in to perform Business, to do the Service in the publick Tent.

24. This shall be the Service for the Families of the Gershonites to do, and for Burdens:

25. Namely they shall carry the Curtains of the Tabernacle, and the publick Tent, its Covering, and the Covering of Badgers Skin which is upon it above, as also the Hanging of the Door of the publick Tent,

26. The Tapestry of the Court, the Hanging of the Entrance at the Gate of the Court, which is by the Tabernacle, and by the Altar round about, and their Cords, with all the Instruments of their Service; nay they shall do all which is to be done to them.

27. The whole Service of the Gershonites, in all their Burdens, and other Business, shall be at the Command of Aaron and his Sons, who shall commit all their Burdens into their Charge.

28. The foregoing shall be the Service of the Families of the Gershonites in the publick Tent; whose Charge shall be in the Custody of Ithamar the Son of Aaron the Priest.

Ver. 26. by] Patrick says, the Sense would have been more plain, had it been translated upon, or over; for the Court encompassed both the Tabernacle and the Altar: but how the Court's encompassing them, was being upon or over them, I do not conceive; nor indeed the Propriety of Jun. and Trem. rendering ante—circumquaque, before—round about.

1b. nay they shall do] by the Heb. Pointing.

29. The Merarites thou shalt also number, after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers;

30. And that from their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year; being all who are to enter into the Business, to do the Service of the publick Tent.

31. The Charge of whose Burdens, with all their Service in the publick Tent, shall be the Boards of the Tabernacle, its Poles, Pillars, and Sockets,

32. With the Pillars of the Court round about, their Sockets, Pins, Cords, and all their Instruments, as also their whole Service; and you shall number the Instruments of the Charge of their Burdens by Name.

33. This shall be the Service of the Families of the Merarites, with all their Service in the publick Tent, in the Custody of Ithamar the Son of Aaron the Priest.

34. So Moses, Aaron, and the Princes of the Assembly numbered the Kohathites, after their Families, and throughout the Household of their Fathers;

35. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year; being all that entered into the Business, for the Service in the publick Tent:

36. Who were numbered after their Families, two thousand seven hundred and fifty.

37. This is the Number of the Families of the Kohathites, all that served in the publick Tent, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, at the Command of the Lord by the Ministry of Moses.

38. And those who were numbered of the Gershonites, after their Families, and throughout the Household of their Fathers;

39. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year, being all that entered into the Business, for the Service in the publick Tent;

40. Were numbered after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers, two thousand six hundred and thirty.

41. This is the Number of the Families of the Gershonites, all that served in the publick Tent, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, at the Command of the Lord.

42. And those who were numbered of the Families of the Merarites, after their Families, throughout the Household of their Fathers;

43. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year, being all that entered into the Business, for the Service in the publick Tent;

44. Were numbered after their Families, three thousand and two hundred.

45. This is the Number of the Families of the Merarites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, at the Command of the Lord by the Ministry of Moses.

46. All the Levites who were numbered by Moses, Aaron, and the Princes of Israel, after their Families, and throughout the Household of their Fathers;

47. From their thirtieth Year upward to their fiftieth Year, being all who entered in to do the Service of the Ministry, and that of the Burdens, in the publick Tent;

48. Were numbered eight thousand five hundred and eighty.

49. At the Command of the Lord by the Ministry of Moses they numbered them, each Man both for his Service, and Burden; who were those that the Lord ordered him to be numbered.

C H A P. V.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows;

2. Command the Israelites that they should send out of the Camp every Leper, every one who has the Flux, and whoever is defiled by a dead Body:

3. Whom you shall send out, both Male and Female; that they may not defile their Camps, among which I dwell.

4. This the Israelites accordingly did, without the Camp, as the Lord said to Moses.

5. Who also spoke thus to him:

6. Tell the Israelites; When a Man or Woman has committed any of the Sins of Mankind, by doing amiss against the Lord, so that he is become guilty;

7. Let such confess their Sin which they have done, and restore the Principal of the Trespas, with its fifth Part added to it, giving it to him against whom he has trespassed.

8. And if the other being dead has no Kinsman for him to restore the Trespas to, it shall be restored to the Lord for the Priest; besides the Ram of Atonements, with which he shall make atonement for him.

9. Every Lifted-offering likewise belonging to any of the holy Things of the Israelites, which they bring to the Priest, shall be his.

10. So shall a Man's consecrated Things, which he gives to the Priest, be his.

Ver. 31. with] like as in Ver. 19, 24, 27, 47, 49. Jun. and Trem. præter, besides.

Ver. 3. I dwell] Vulgate, they dwell.
Ver. 8. Ram] viz. that spoken of Lev. vi. 6.

11. Besides the Lord ordered Moses,
12. That he should speak to the Israelites in the following manner: When any Man's Wife turns away, and does amiss against him;

13. Inasmuch that a Man lies with her carnally, and she is defiled, which is hid from the Eyes of her Husband, and concealed, there being no Witness against her, nor she taken in it;

14. And a jealous Temper comes on him, so that he is jealous of his Wife, who is defiled; or the same comes on him, so that he is jealous of her, who is not defiled:

15. Then shall the Man bring his Wife to the Priest, as he shall also her Oblation for her, the tenth Part of an Ephah of Barley Meal; on which he shall pour no Oil, nor put Frankincense upon it, because it is an Offering of Jealousy, an Offering of Remembrance, bringing Iniquity to remembrance.

16. And the Priest shall bring her near, and cause her to stand before the Lord.

17. He shall further take holy Water in an earthen Vessel, and some of the Dust which is on the Floor of the Tabernacle, and put into the Water.

18. After having placed the Woman before the Lord, he shall uncover her Head, and put the Offering of Remembrance into her Hands, which is the Offering of Jealousy; and there shall be in the Priest's Hand the bitter Water that makes the Curse.

19. And he shall cause her to swear in this manner; If no Man has lain with thee, and thou hast not turned away to Uncleaness, with another instead of thy Husband, be thou quit by this bitter Water that makes the Curse.

20. But if thou hast turned away to another instead of thy Husband, and art defiled, a Man having lain with thee besides him;

21. (Thus shall the Priest go on causing her to swear with an Oath of Cursing) the Lord make thee a Curse and an Oath among thy People, by his making thy Thigh fall, and thy Belly swell;

22. And let this Water that causes the Curse go into thy Bowels, to make the Belly swell, and the Thigh fall: to which the Woman shall say, So let it be, so let it be.

23. The Priest shall write these Curses too in a Book, and blot out with the bitter Water;

24. That when he makes the Woman drink the bitter Water which causes the Curse, it may go into her with Bitterness.

25. And he shall take the Offering of Jealousy out of her Hand, which he shall wave before the Lord, and offer it on the Altar.

26. The Priest shall also take a Handful of the Offering, a Memorial of it, and burn on the Altar; and afterwards he shall make the Woman drink the Water.

27. Which when he has done, it shall come to pass if she is defiled, and has acted amiss against her Husband, that the Water which causes the Curse going into her with Bitterness, her Belly shall swell, and her Thigh fall; whereby the Woman shall become a Curse among her People.

28. And if she is not defiled, but is clean; she shall be quit, nay shall bear Issue,

29. This is the Law of Jealousies, when a Woman turns away to another instead of her Husband, and is defiled:

30. Or for a Man on whom a jealous Temper comes, so that he is jealous of his Wife; whom he shall cause to stand before the Lord, and the Priest shall perform all this Law to her.

31. So shall the Man be quit from Iniquity, and that Woman shall bear her Iniquity.

CHAP. VI.

MOREOVER the Lord spoke to Moses, 2. And bade him say thus to the Israelites: When a Man, or a Woman, is separated to the Lord, by making the Vow of a Nazirite;

3. He shall be separated from Wine and strong Drink, not drinking the Vinegar of either, nor any Liquor of Grapes; neither shall he eat green Grapes, or dried.

4. All the Days of his Separation, he shall eat Nothing which is made of the Vine, from the Kernels to the Husk.

5. That whole Time of his Vow his Head shall not be shaved: till the Days are fulfilled which he is separated to the Lord he shall be holy, the Locks of the Hair on it shall grow.

Ver. 14. a jealous Temper] being incontestably the Meaning.

Ver. 17. holy Water] This Onkelos explains by rendering it Water of the Washing-vessel, which was consecrated, Exod. xl. 11.

Ver. 18. having placed] his doing it being ordered before, Ver. 16. so that it should not be bring it, Ver. 16. as Patrick says rather: for the Pronoun is feminine in Heb.

Ver. 27. going into her] for is it not absurd to be, when he hath made her to drink the Water, then it shall enter into her?

Ib. her Belly shall swell, &c.] There appears no Necessity, that this should be presently; nor at all, if she afterwards rightly repented, as the Ninevites in Jonah.

Ver. 5. shaved] as Chap. viii. 7. in com. Trans. the Heb. being verbally there shall not a Razor pass upon or over.

6. In all which Space of his being separated, he shall not come to a dead Person.

7. He shall not be defiled for his Father, Mother, Brother or Sister, when they die; because the Separation of his God is upon his Head.

8. All the Time of his Separation he shall be holy to the Lord.

9. And when one dies by him very suddenly, so that he defiles the Head of his Separation; he shall shave his Head on the Day of his Cleansing, even the seventh Day.

10. Next on the eighth Day he shall bring two Turtle-doves, or two young Pigeons, to the Priest, at the Door of the publick Tent.

11. One of which the Priest shall offer for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering, that he may purge him from what he has sinned by the dead Body; and he shall sanctify his Head that Day.

12. Thus shall he put apart to the Lord the Time of his Separation, and bring a Lamb of the first Year for a Trespass-offering; but the former Days shall be lost, because his Separation was defiled.

13. The following is also the Law for a Nazirite: When the Days of his Separation are fulfilled, the Priest shall bring him to the Door of the publick Tent.

14. And shall bring his Oblation near to the Lord, one perfect Ram-lamb of the first Year for a Burnt-offering, one perfect Ewe-lamb of the First Year for a Sin-offering, and one perfect Ram for Peace-offerings,

15. A Basket of unleavened Bread, Cakes of fine Flour tempered with Oil, and unleavened Biscuits washed over with Oil, as likewise their Meat-offerings, and Drink-offerings.

16. Which the Priest having brought before the Lord, he shall offer his Sin-offering, and Burnt-offering;

17. As he shall the Ram for a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings to the Lord, and the Basket of unleavened Bread; the Priest too shall offer his Meat-offering, and Drink-offering.

18. Besides the Nazirite shall shave the Head of his Separation at the Door of the publick Tent, and shall take the Hair of it, and put upon the Fire, which is under the Sacrifice of the Peace-offerings.

19. Then the Priest shall take the boiled Shoulder of the Ram, one unleavened Cake out of the Basket, and one unleavened Biscuit, and put into the Hands of the Nazirite, after he has shaved himself for his Separation.

20. The Priest shall also wave them for a Waved-offering before the Lord, which shall be holy for himself, over and above the Breast of the Waved-offering, and the Shoulder of the Lifted-offering: afterwards the Nazirite may drink Wine.

21. This is the Law of a Nazirite that vows, and his Offering to the Lord for his Separation, besides what he gets; who must do according to the Manner of his Vow which he makes, over and above the Law of his Separation.

22. And the Lord said thus to Moses:

23. Bid Aaron, and his Sons, bless the Israelites in the following manner;

24. The Lord bless thee, and keep thee.

25. The Lord make his Face light to thee, and be gracious to thee.

26. The Lord lift up his Face to thee, and make thee prosperous.

27. So shall they put my Name upon the Israelites, that I may bless them.

C H A P. VII.

AND at the Time that Moses made an end of setting up the Tabernacle, as also anointed, and sanctified that, and the Altar, with all their Instruments;

2. The Princes of the Tribes of Israel, the Heads of the Household of their Fathers, who were placed over them that were numbered,

3. Brought their Oblation before the Lord at the Tabernacle, six tilted Wagons, and twelve Oxen, a Wagon for two Princes, and an Ox for one.

Ver. 7, 9. Separation] the same as at Ver. 8, 12, &c.

Ver. 13. bring him] The Pronoun in Heb. being Accusative, or the Object of the Verb, and the Verb it self Active, even in the Conjug. Hipbil; and who should do this but the Priest? So Patrick on the Eng. Transf. he shall be brought, says, By the Priest. Nay it being the same who was to bring what is mentioned in the two next Verses, that was the Priest, Ver. 16.

Ver. 14. bring] the same Verb as in Ver. 16. Besides the Priest was to offer it, and it was certainly to be offered after it was brought, not before, both of which Ver. 16. shews.

Ver. 19. boiled Shoulder] namely the left, the other in Ver. 20. being the right, Lev. vii. 32.

Ver. 21. gets] to fulfil what he has vowed further.

Ib. over and above] as in the foregoing Verse, and according to the Words before, as he might also vow more than the Law ordered to be done. Jun. and Trem. have præter, besides. If the Meaning had been after, and the Vow restricted to the Law, what need was there of mentioning the former?

Ver. 1. Time] The following Oblations being not done the same Day, and by the Order of the History this was above a Month after the Tabernacle was set up, Exod. xl. 17. Num. i. 1. especially as it was after the People were numbered, Ver. 2.

Ib. anointed] as Lev. viii. 10, 11. after which this was Ver. 88. see Ver. 10, 84.

4. Which

4. Which the Lord ordered Moses,
5. To receive of them, that they might be to do the Service of the publick Tent, and give them to the Levites, each according to his Service.

6. So Moses took the Wagons, and Oxen, and gave them to the Levites:

7. Two Wagons and four Oxen to the Gershonites, according to their Service;

8. As he did four Wagons and eight
Oxen to the Merarites, according to theirs; in the Custody of Ithamar the Son of Aaron the Priest.

9. But he gave none to the Kohathites, because they were to carry on their Shoulders what belonged to their Service of the Holy Place.

10. And the Princes brought their Oblation before the Altar, for the Dedication of it, at the Time it was anointed.

11. For the Lord said to Moses, Let them bring their Oblation, one Prince each Day, for the Dedication of the Altar.

12. Now he that brought it the first Day, was Nahshon the Son of Amminadab, of the Tribe of Judah:

13. Whose Oblation was one silver Plate, the Weight of which was a hundred and thirty Shekels, one silver Bowl of seventy

of Incense;

15. One young Bullock of the Herd, one
Ram, one Lamb of the first Year, for a Burnt-offering;

ing.

lation of Nahshon the Son of Amminadab.

of Zuar, the Prince of Issachar,

full of fine Flour tempered with Oil for a lation of Nethaneel the Son of Zuar.

24. On the third Day the Prince of the Zebulunites, Eliab the Son of Helon,

25. Brought his Oblation, one silver Plate,
the Weight of which was a hundred and thirty Shekels, one silver Bowl of seventy full of fine Flour tempered with Oil, for a Meat-offering:

26. One Spoon of ten Shekels of Gold,
full of Incense;

27. One young Bullock of the Herd, one
Ram, one Lamb of the first Year, for a
Burnt-offering;

28. One Kid of the Goats, for a Sin-
offering;

29. And for a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, two Oxen, five Rams, five He-goats, five
Lambs of the first Year. This was the Oblation of Eliab the Son of Helon.

30. On the fourth Day the Prince of the Reubenites, Elizur the Son of Shedeur,

31. Brought his Oblation, one silver Plate,
the Weight of which was a hundred and thirty Shekels, one silver Bowl of seventy Shekels by the holy Shekel, both of them
full of fine Flour tempered with Oil, for a Meat-offering;

32. One Spoon of ten Shekels of Gold, full
of Incense;

33. One young Bullock of the Herd, one
Ram, one Lamb of the first Year, for a
Burnt-offering;

34. One Kid of the Goats, for a Sin-
offering;

35. And for a Sacrifice of Peace-offerings,
two Oxen, five Rams, five He-goats, five
Lambs of the first Year. This was the Oblation of Elizur the Son of Shedeur.

36. On the fifth Day the Prince of the Simeonites, Shelumiel the Son of Zuri-shaddai,

37. Brought his Oblation, one silver Plate,
the Weight of which was a hundred and thirty Shekels, one silver Bowl of seventy Shekels by the holy Shekel, both of them
full of fine Flour tempered with Oil, for a Meat-offering;

38. One Spoon of ten Shekels of Gold,
full of Incense;

39. One young Bullock of the Herd, one

Translation.

78. On the twelfth Day the Prince of the Naphtalites, Ahira the Son of Enan,

79. Brought his Oblation, one silver Plate, the Weight of which was a hundred and thirty

89. And when Moses went into the publick Tent to speak to the Lord, he heard the Voice of him speaking to him from the Atonement-covering, which was upon the Ark of the Testimony, between the two Cherubs.

CHAP. VIII.

AND he said to Moses;

2. Tell Aaron, that when he lights up the Lamps, the seven Lamps must give light towards the Forepart of the Candlestick.

3. And Aaron did so, lighting up the Lamps towards the Forepart of the Candlestick, as the Lord commanded Moses.

4. Now this Work of the Candlestick was of solid Gold, to the very Shank, and Flowers of it; Moses having made it according to the Appearance which the Lord shewed him.

5. Moreover the Lord spoke to him as follows:

6. Take the Levites from among the Israelites, that thou mayest cleanse them.

7. In order to which thou shalt sprinkle upon them Water for Sin; and let them shave all their Flesh, and wash their Cloaths, cleansing themselves.

8. Besides they shall take a young Bullock of the Herd, and his Meat-offering, fine Flour tempered with Oil; and another such Bullock shalt thou take for a Sin-offering.

9. Then thou shalt bring the Levites before the publick Tent, and gather together all the Assembly of the Israelites.

10. So having brought the Levites before the Lord, the Israelites shall lean their Hands upon them.

11. And Aaron shall wave them for a Waved-offering, from the Israelites, before the Lord, that they may be to do his Service.

12. The Levites likewise shall lean their Hands upon the Bulls Heads; and thou shalt offer one for a Sin-offering, and the other for a Burnt-offering to the Lord, to make atonement for them.

13. Again thou shalt cause the Levites to stand before Aaron and his Sons, and wave them for a Waved-offering to the Lord.

14. Thus shalt thou part them from among the Israelites, that they may be mine.

15. And after that they shall go in to serve at the publick Tent, when thou hast cleansed them, and waved them for a Waved-offering.

16. For they are wholly given to me from among the Israelites: I have received them for my self instead of all their First-born, who open every Womb.

17. Since all the First-born of the Israelites were mine, of Man and Beast, I having consecrated them to me on the Day I smote all the First-born in the Country of Egypt:

20. And Moses, Aaron, and the whole Assembly of the Israelites did to the Levites, entirely according as the Lord commanded Moses about them.

21. They having cleansed themselves, and washed their Cloaths, Aaron waved them for a Waved-offering before the Lord, and made atonement for them, to make them clean.

22. After which the Levites went in to do their Service at the publick Tent, before Aaron and his Sons; who had done to them as the Lord commanded Moses concerning them.

23. The Lord further said as follows to Moses;

24. This also belongs to the Levites; from their twenty fifth Year upward, they shall go in to perform Business in the Service of the publick Tent.

25. And at their fiftieth Year shall they return from the Business of the Service, and serve no more.

26. Nevertheless they shall minister with their Brethren at the publick Tent, by looking after the Affairs, but shall not do the Service: thus shalt thou do concerning them in their Charge.

C H A P. IX.

AND the Lord told Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the second Year of their coming out of the Country of Egypt, in the first Month;

2. That the Israelites should keep the Passover at its appointed Time,

3. On the fourteenth Day of that Month, within the Evening, doing the same according to all the Ordinances, and Ceremonies of it.

4. Accordingly Moses spoke to the Israelites to keep it.

5. Which they did at the Time before-mentioned, in the Wilderness of Sinai; doing entirely according as the Lord commanded Moses.

6. But there being Men who were defiled by the dead Body of a Person, so that they could not keep the Passover then, they came before Moses, and Aaron the same Day,

7. And said to him, Why should we, who are defiled by the dead Body of a Person, be kept off, that we may not bring the Oblation of the Lord at its appointed Time, among the Israelites?

8. Whom Moses ordered to stand still, till he heard what the Lord commanded concerning them.

9. And the Lord bade him,

10. To tell the Israelites thus: When any Man of you, or your Generations, shall be defiled by a dead Body, or be on a Journey far off, he shall keep the Passover to the Lord,

11. On the fourteenth Day of the second Month within the Evening, eating it with unleavened Cakes and bitter Herbs.

12. They shall leave none of it till the Morning, nor break a Bone of it; but keep it according to all the Ordinances of the same.

13. As for the Man who is clean, and not on a Journey, yet refrains from keeping the Passover, that Person shall be cut off from his People, and bear his Sin; because he does not bring the Oblation of the Lord at its appointed Time.

14. When a Stranger also sojourning with you, keeps the Passover to the Lord, he shall do according to the Ordinance, and Manner of it: you shall have the same Ordinance for him, as for a Native of the Country.

Ver. 21. waved them] "It is likely some of the Levites were thus waved in the Name of all the rest," Patrick in Loc. as the Verb signifies. It might be done as they stood, without their being lifted up.

Ver. 24. twenty fifth] See Chap. iv. 3.

Ver. 2. keep the Passover] which they being at first ordered to do when they came into the Country of Canaan, Exod. xii. 25. there was Need of this particular Command; as well as of keeping it now, to settle them in the right Performance of it. After this it is thought not to have been kept in the Wilderness; for which I find a particular Reason, Exod. xii. 48. because no uncircumcised Person must eat of it, and the Israelites were not circumcised in the Wilderness, Josh. v. 5. and so when Circumcision was renewed, the Passover was kept again, Josh. v. 2, 10.

Ver. 3. Ceremonies] such as those mentioned, Exod. xii. 11. which I do not think, with Poole and Patrick, were afterwards omitted; but observed in Remembrance of the first Institution, and Occasion of it, as was now commanded for the future, Ver. 14.

Ver. 6. came] Though such were not suffered to be in the Camp, Chap. v. 2, 4. yet that was after this, Chap. i. 1. compare with Ver. 1. and the Camp was not yet put in order, Chap. ii.

Ver. 10. far off] for the Passover was to be kept only at one Place, Deut. xvi. 2, 5, 6, 7.

Ver. 14. Manner] or Ceremony as Ver. 3. being the same Word only singular, like Ordinance.

Tent

Tent of the Testimony; and there was upon it an Appearance as of Fire, from Evening till Morning.

16. So there was daily the Cloud covering it, and the Appearance of Fire at Night.

17. After the Cloud went up from the Tent, the Israelites marched; and in the Place where it remained, there they encamped.

18. They both marched and encamped at the Command of the Lord, encamping all the Time that the Cloud remained upon the Tabernacle.

19. Thus when the Cloud continued upon it many Days, the Israelites took care of the Business of the Lord, and did not march;

20. The same when it was a few Days upon the Tabernacle: they encamping as well as marching, at the Lord's Command.

21. Even when the Cloud abode but from Evening till Morning, and then went up, they marched; as they did, whether it was by Day or Night that it went up.

22. Whether it was two Days, a Month, or a Year, while the Cloud continued remaining upon the Tabernacle, they encamped, and did not march; but when it went up, they marched.

23. At the Command of the Lord they both encamped, and marched; taking care of his Business, according to his Command by the Ministry of Moses.

CHAP. X.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses as follows:

2. Make thee two Trumpets of solid Silver: which thou shalt have for the calling of the Assembly, and for the marching of the Camps.

3. And when they sound them, all the Assembly shall come together to thee, at the Door of the publick Tent.

4. But if they sound only one, the Princes, the Heads of the Thousands of Israel, shall come together to thee.

5. Moreover when you blow a changeable Sound, the Camps that pitch eastward shall march.

6. As likewise when you do it the second time, those that pitch southward shall march: they shall blow a changeable Sound for their Marchings.

7. Whereas when the Congregation is to be gathered together, you shall blow without a changeable Sound.

8. Thus shall Aaron's Sons the Priests sound the Trumpets, which shall be to you a lasting Ordinance in your Generations.

9. When you also go into a Battle in your Country, against the Adversary that opposes you, ye shall blow a changeable Sound with the Trumpets; so shall you be remembered before the Lord your God, and be saved from your Enemies.

10. On the Day too of your Rejoicing, at your appointed Times, and in the Beginnings of your Months, you shall sound the Trumpets, over your Burnt-offerings, and the Sacrifices of your Peace-offerings; which Things shall be to you for a Memorial before your God, who am the Lord your God.

11. And in the second Year, on the twentieth of the second Month, the Cloud went up from the Tabernacle of the Testimony.

12. With that the Israelites went on in their Journeys, out of the Wilderness of Sinai; and the Cloud staid in the Wilderness of Paran.

13. And they began marching according to the Command of the Lord by the Ministry of Moses.

14. For the Posterity of the Standard of the Camp of Judah marched first, throughout their Companies; over whom was Nahshon the Son of Amminadab.

15. Over the Army of the Tribe of the Issacharites, was Nethaneel the Son of Zuar;

16. And over that of the Zebulunites Eliab the Son of Helon.

17. Besides the Tabernacle was taken down; at which the Gershonites and Merarites marched, carrying the same.

18. Next they of the Standard of the Camp of Reuben marched, throughout their Companies; over whom was Elizur the Son of Shedeur.

19. Over the Army of the Tribe of the Simeonites, was Shelumiel the Son of Zuri-shaddai:

20. And over that of the Gadites Eliasaph the Son of Deuel.

21. Moreover the Kohathites marched, carrying the Holy Place; and the others set up the Tabernacle against they came.

22. Then they of the Standard of the Camp of the Ephraimites marched, throughout their Companies; over whom was Elishama the Son of Ammihud.

23. Over the Army of the Tribe of the Manassehites, was Gamliel the Son of Pedahzur;

Ver. 14. throughout their Companies] the same as Ver. 25. so Ver. 18, 22.

Ver. 21. the others] before-named, Ver. 17.

24. And over that of the Benjaminites Abidan the Son of Gideon.

25. Lastly they of the Standard of the Camp of the Danites marched, the Rear-guard of all the Camps, throughout their Companies; over whom was Ahiezer the Son of Ammishaddai.

26. Over the Army of the Tribe of the Asherites, was Pagiel the Son of Ochran;

27. And over that of the Naphtalites Ahira the Son of Enan.

28. These were the Marchings of the Israelites, throughout their Armies, when they marched.

29. And Moses said to Hobab the Son of Reuel the Midianite, his Father-in-law, We are marching to the Place of which the Lord said, that he would give it to us; go thou with us, and we will do well for thee, since the Lord has spoken well concerning Israel.

30. Who answered him; I will not go; but will go to my own Country, and Kindred.

31. To which he replied; Do not leave us, I pray: forasmuch as thou knowest we shall encamp in the Wilderness, and thou wilt be as Eyes to us.

32. And it shall really be when thou goest with us, that the same in which the Lord does well to us, we will also do well for thee.

33. At length they marched from the Mountain of the Lord three Days Journey; and the Ark of his Covenant went on in their Presence all the Way, to find out Rest for them.

34. Nay his Cloud was over them by Day, when they marched out of the Camp.

35. And when the Ark went on, Moses said, Rise up, O Lord, and let thy Enemies be dispersed; and let those who hate thee flee by thy Presence.

36. As also when it rested, he said, Return, O Lord, to the ten Thousands of the Thousands of Israel.

C H A P. XI.

BUT the People as it were bemoaning themselves, was ill for the Lord to hear; at hearing which, he was so angry, that his Fire burnt among them, and consumed in the Outside of the Camp.

2. Upon this they cried out to Moses, who prayed to the Lord, and the Fire sunk.

3. And that Place was named Taberah, because the Fire of the Lord burnt among them.

4. They also who were gathered amongst them had a longing Appetite; and even the Israelites wept again, and said; Oh that we had Flesh to eat!

5. We remember the Fish which we did eat in Egypt for nothing; with the Cucumbers, Melons, Leeks, Onions and Garlick.

6. But now we are dried up, there is Nothing at all besides Manna in our Sight.

7. Now the Manna was like Coriander Seed, but was of the Colour of Chrystal.

8. Which, the People going about, gathered up, and having ground in Mills, or pounded in a Mortar, and boiled in a Pot, made Cakes of it, and it had the Taste of thin Oil.

9. Moreover it came down by the Camp along with the Dew at Night.

10. When Moses heard the People weep, each Family at the Door of their Tent, and the Lord was very angry, he was displeased,

11. And said to the Lord; Why didst thou make it so ill to thy Servant, and why was I out of Favour with thee, to lay the Burden of this whole People upon me?

Ver. 29. Hobab] who is expressly said to be the Father-in-law of Moses; Judg. iv. 11. and Ben-Reuel, the Son of Reuel, may be looked on as a Surname to Hobab, so that Father-in-law cannot belong to Reuel: as Prideaux shews that High-Priest, Neb. xiii. 28. must belong to Joiada, not to Eliashib, Connell. An. 409. Usher too in *Annal. A. Jerus. Targ. has, Bless thou the ten Thousands, and increase the Thousands of the Israelites.

12. Did

12. Did I conceive them all, did I bear them, that thou shouldest bid me carry them in my Bosom, as a Nurse does a Sucking-child, to the Country of which thou swarest to their Forefathers?

13. From whence should I have Flesh to give all these People? For they cry to me, and say, Give us Flesh to eat.

14. I cannot bear the Burden of them all my self, because it is too heavy for me.

15. And if thou wilt deal thus with me, kill me quite, I pray, if I am in thy Favour; that I may not see my Misery.

16. Whom the Lord answered, Bring me seventy Men together of the Elders of Israel, such as thou knowest are Elders of the People, and their Magistrates; and having fetched them to the publick Tent, let them stand there with thee.

17. And I will come down, and speaking to thee there, will set apart of the Spirit which is upon thee, and put upon them; that they may bear the Burden of the People with thee, and thou mayest not bear it alone.

18. Besides say to the People; Consecrate your selves against to Morrow, and you shall eat Flesh, since you have wept in the Hearing of the Lord, and complained, Oh that we had Flesh to eat! for it was well with us in Egypt; the Lord will therefore give you Flesh, and you shall eat;

19. Not eating only one Day, nor two, five, ten, nor twenty Days;

20. But even a whole Month, till it comes out at your Nostrils, and is loathsome to you; because you have despised the Lord who is among you, and weeping before him, said, Why did we come out of Egypt?

21. To which Moses replied; The People whom I am among are six hundred thousand Footmen; and thou sayest, I will give them Flesh, and they shall eat a whole Month:

22. Shall the Flocks and Herds be killed for them, that they may have enough? Or all the Fish of the Sea be gathered for them, that they may have sufficient?

23. Nevertheless the Lord said to him, Is the Lord's Hand diminished? Now shalt thou see, whether my Word will come to pass to thee, or not.

24. So Moses came out, and told the People the Words of the Lord; and gathering together seventy Men of the Elders of the People, he set them round about the Tent.

25. At this the Lord came down in a Cloud, and speaking to him, set apart of the Spirit which was upon him, and put upon the seventy Elders; on whom when it rested, they prophesied, and made no addition.

26. Nay two of them remained in the Camp, one named Eldad and the other Medad, and when the Spirit rested upon them (they being of those who were written down, though they went not out to the Tent) they prophesied in the Camp.

27. Whereupon there ran a young Man, and told Moses, that Eldad and Medad were prophesying in the Camp.

28. And Joshua the Son of Nun, who waited on Moses, one of his young Men, made answer, Stop them, my Lord Moses.

29. But Moses answered him, Dost thou envy them for my sake? I wish all the Lord's People were Prophets, that he would put his Spirit upon them.

30. Afterwards Moses went into the Camp, and the Elders of Israel with him.

31. And there went a Wind from the Lord, which took away Quails from the Sea, and left by the Camp, about a Day's Journey on each Side round it, and about two Cubits above the Surface of the Ground.

Ver. 24. came out] of the Sanctuary, where he had been supplicating God, and God speaking to him; see Ver. 16. & Chap. vii. 89. The Heb. Verb signifies equally either went out or came out: but as the com. Transf. has the former, Patrick writes on it very ignorantly, as if that was the Original; "If he had gone to consult God in the Sanctuary, it would not have been said that he went out, but that he came out: therefore we may rather think he now went out of his own Tent."

Ver. 25. put upon] as the like Words are in Ver. 29. and as is shewn in Ver. 17.

Ib. made no addition] to what the Spirit inspired them with. The same Verb is used in the same Manner, Deut. v. 22. and signifies to add, not cease. So Pagn. and Montan. non addiderunt, Ainsw. did not add; the Septuagint, οὐκ ἐνέποιοντο, added no more.

Ver. 26. two] In the early Primitive Treatise called The Shepherd of St. Hermas it is said, "The Lord is nigh to those who turn to him, as it is written in the Books of Heldan and Medad (these two) who prophesied to the People of Israel in the Wilderness," B. i. Vis. 2. Sect. 3.

Ver. 31. about two Cubits] Shuckford, in his late Connection of the Sacred and Profane History, Vol. iii. B. xi. says, "there is no Word in the Hebrew Text for the Number two: The Hebrew Word כַּאֲמֹתָיִם signifies, as it were Cubits high, expressing no determinate Measure, but in general a considerable Height." But, 1. The Word does not signify high at all, as may be seen by that being in Italick. 2. It is in the dual Number, and so signifies two Cubits, the same as it does, Exod. xxv. 10, 17, 23. & xxx. 2. & xxxvii. 1, 6, 10, 25. where it likewise stands single without another Word for two, being something like our Eng. Twins. 3. Cubits indeterminately is כַּאֲמֹתָיִם Thus the Scripture may be rescued from such an Interpretation, while the Author has betrayed his Ignorance of the Hebrew Tongue.

Ib. two Cubits above] flying so high; as is observed in the Universal History, Book i. Chap. 7. Sect. 2. with Schindler's Lexicon; and Jarbi says, they flew as high as against a Man's Heart.

32. Then the People stood up all that Day, and all Night, with all the next Day, and gathered them, he who had least gathering ten Homers; and they spread them abroad for themselves round about the Camp.

33. However while the Flesh was between their Teeth, before it was chewed, the Lord being angry with the People, smote them with a very great Plague.

34. And that Place was named Kibroth-hattaavah, because there they buried the People who longed.

35. From thence the People marched to Hazeroth, where they stopped.

C H A P. XII.

FOR Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses, by reason of the Cushite Wife whom he took; since he had married a Woman of Cush.

2. Has the Lord, said they, spoken only and alone by Moses? Has not he also spoken by us? Which the Lord heard.

3. Now Moses was a very meek Person, above all Men who were upon the Surface of the Earth.

4. So the Lord said presently to him, with Aaron and Miriam, Come out you three towards the publick Tent; accordingly those three did.

5. And the Lord coming down in the Pillar of the Cloud, stood at the Door of the Tent, and called Aaron and Miriam, when they were both come forth.

6. And he said; Hear now my Words, If there is a Prophet among you, I the Lord make my self known to him by a Vision, I speak to him by a Dream.

7. My Servant Moses is not such, who is faithful in all my House.

8. I speak to him Mouth to Mouth in Sight, and that not with obscure Words, and he beholds the Likeness of the Lord: why were you not afraid therefore to speak against my Servant Moses?

9. And the Lord being angry with them, went away.

10. The Cloud likewise went off from the Tent, and lo Miriam became leprous as white as Snow: at whom when Aaron looked, and behold she was leprous,

11. He said to Moses; O my Lord, lay not the Sin upon us, I beseech thee, in which we have been foolish, and have sinned.

12. Let her not, I pray, be as a dead Child, whose Flesh is half consumed when it comes out of its Mother's Womb.

13. Upon which Moses cried thus to the Lord; Heal her, O God, I earnestly beseech thee.

14. And the Lord answered him, If her Father had at all spit in her Face, would she not be ashamed seven Days? Let her be shut up so long without the Camp, after which she may be brought in.

15. Accordingly Miriam was shut up without the Camp seven Days, and the People did not march till she was brought in.

16. They afterwards went on from Hazeroth, and encamped in the Wilderness of Paran.

Ver. 32. stood up] to catch them as they flew along.

Ib. spread] If they had lain two Cubits high upon the Earth, a Day's Journey round about the Camp, how were they spread there?

Ver. 33. being angry] which he was before just then, Ver. 10.

Ver. 1. For] See Ver. 15, 16.

Ib. Cush] Midian, where Jethro dwelt, whose Daughter Zipporah Moses married, being Part of Cush on the east Side of the Red Sea, Hab. iii. 7. Josephus indeed relates that Moses had Tharbis the King's Daughter of Ethiopia for his Wife, before he left Egypt, Antiq. Lib. ii. 10. but the Story turns out fabulous by the Account which is given in Ensch. Chron. ad Num. 402. that the Country of Ethiopia was first peopled from the East in the Reign of Amenophis; which being not twenty Years long, and ending at the Time of the Israelites Departure from Egypt, as on Exod. xl. by comparing it with Acts vii. 29, 30. that pretended Marriage of Moses falls above 20 Years before Ethiopia was inhabited. And to confirm this Philostratus writes, in Vita Apollon. Tyan. Lib. iii. 6. there was no such Country as Ethiopia beyond Egypt, before it was possessed as above. Against that Tale of Josephus, and for translating thus, see also Raleigh's Hist. of the World, Lib. i. 8. 10. For the Consistency of this being Zipporah, who is mentioned here, see the Note on Exod. xviii. 5.

Ver. 2. Which the Lord heard] The Vulgate, Which when the Lord heard, he was angry; as it seems from Chap. xi. 1.

Ver. 4. Come out] They being in their Tents; but probably not all in Moses his Tent, whither, as Patrick supposes, his Brother and Sister were come to utter their Complaint; since Miriam and Aaron complained of him, not to him, by Ver. 2. and so it is said, the Lord, not Moses, heard it.

Ib. towards] For it is not consistent that the Lord should bid them come whither his Presence would prevent their coming, and whither there was no need of their coming, as he declared his Mind to them before they got thither, Ver. 5.

Ver. 5. when] because they came out before, Ver. 4. and the Heb. Conjunction is thus rendered, Exod. xii. 44. Judg. ii. 21. 1 Sam. xii. 12. 2 Sam. ii. 24. Lev. xxvi. 17. Num. x. 28. Josh. ix. 22. Isa. xliii. 12. 2 Chron. xix. 8. and particularly Judg. iii. 24. besides in a Number of Places produced by Noldius in Concordant. under quum, quando. Among our learned Expositors however, Patrick ventures to interpret it according to the com. Eng. Transf. that when they were come with Moses from his Tent, they came forth from that Place, or from Moses; that is they came forth from without.

Ver. 12. I pray] omitted in the Vulg. English.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the Lord spoke thus to Moses,
2. Send Men to view the Country of Canaan, which I will give to the Israelites; let them be one of each Tribe of their Fathers, and every one a Prince among them.

3. So he sent from the Wilderness of Paran, at the Command of the Lord, such as were all of them principal Men of the Israelites.

4. Whose Names were: Shammua the Son of Zaccur, of the Tribe of Reuben;

5. Shaphat the Son of Hori, of the Tribe of Simeon;

6. Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, of the Tribe of Judah;

7. Igal the Son of Joseph, of the Tribe of Issachar;

8. Hoshea the Son of Nun, of the Tribe of Ephraim;

9. Palti the Son of Raphu, of the Tribe of Benjamin;

10. Gadiel the Son of Sodi, of the Tribe of Zebulun;

11. Gaddi the Son of Sufi, of the Tribe of Joseph, that which was of Manasseh;

12. Ammiel the Son of Gemalli, of the Tribe of Dan;

13. Sethur the Son of Michael, of the Tribe of Asher;

14. Nahbi the Son of Vophsi, of the Tribe of Naphtali;

15. Geuel the Son of Machi, of the Tribe of Gad.

16. These were the Names of the Men whom Moses sent to view the Country; but he called Hoshea the Son of Nun Joshua.

17. Which Country of Canaan he sent them to view with the following Instructions; Go up there southward, and up the Mountain.

18. And see what the Country is; and whether the People who dwell in it are strong or weak, few or many;

19. Whether it be a good or bad Country, as also whether the Cities which they reside in are Camps or Fortifications;

20. Besides whether the Ground is fat or lean, whether there be Wood in it or not: and take courage to bring some of the Fruit of the Country. For it was the Time when Grapes are first ripe.

21. They went up accordingly, and viewed the Country, from the Wilderness of Zin to Rehob, going to Hamath.

22. And in their going up southward, Caleb went to Hebron, where were Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmai, the Sons of Anak: Hebron being built seven Years before Zoan in Egypt.

23. At length they came to the Brook of Eshcol, and cut off there a Branch with a Bunch of Grapes, which they carried on a Pole between two; together with Pomegranates and Figs.

24. That Place was called the Brook of Eshcol, by reason of the Bunch which the Israelites cut off there.

25. Thus they returned from viewing the Country at the End of forty Days;

26. When arriving, they came into the Wilderness of Paran, to Moses, Aaron, and the whole Assembly of the Israelites at Kadesh, and not only brought back word to them all, but shewed them the Fruit of the Country.

27. Directing their Speech to the former, they said; We have been at the Country to which thou sentest us, that flows indeed with Milk and Honey, and this is the Fruit of it.

28. Nevertheless the People who dwell in it are strong, the Cities are fortified, nay very great, and withal we saw the Sons of Anak there.

29. The Amalekites dwell in the south Country, as the Hittites, Jebusites, and Amorites do on the Mountains, and the Canaanites by the Sea, and the Side of Jordan.

30. Caleb however kept the People silent to Moses, by saying, Let us go quite up, and possess it; for we shall entirely prevail over it.

31. On the contrary the Men who accompanied him said, We are not able to go up against the People, for they are stronger than we.

32. And they gave out this ill Report of the Country, which they had viewed, to the Israelites; The Country which we have passed through to view it, is a Country that consumes its Inhabitants, and all the People whom we saw in it were large Persons.

Ver. 1. spoke thus] upon the People's Request, Deut. i. 22.

Ver. 19. Camps] to move from one Place to another, for Conveniency of Pasturage, &c. as the Arabians did.

Ver. 22. Caleb went] By this Verb being singular, and the rest both before and after plural, it appears that but one of them went to Hebron, which was Caleb by Josh. xiv. 9, 12, 13. And this is much confirmed by Joshua's not being there, who was most likely to accompany him, and as it is thought they separated to prevent Discovery: for Caleb tells him he heard of the Anakites being there, Josh. xiv. 12. In short it is certain that Caleb was there, and uncertain at least that any of the rest were.

Ver. 30. to Moses] as the Heb. is; so that they forbore to speak against Moses while he was present, but murmured against him afterwards, Chap. xiv. 2.

Ver. 32. consumes] Some of the Jewish Writers suppose there might be then a Plague there, or other Mortality, from whence they represented the Country to be unhealthy.

lb. large] The same Word that in Jer. xxii. 14. is rendered wide in the com. Bib.

33. Nay there we saw Giants, the Sons of Anak one of the Giants; insomuch that we appeared to our selves like Grasshoppers, and so we did to them.

C H A P. XIV.

UPON this the whole Assembly of the Israelites cried out aloud, and the People wept that Night.

2. And they all murmured against Moses and Aaron, unanimously saying to them; Oh that we had died in the Country of Egypt, or else in this Wilderness!

3. For why did the Lord bring us into this Country, to fall by the Sword, for our Wives and Children to become a Prey? Is it not better for us to go back to Egypt?

4. So they proposed one to another, Let us make a Captain, and return to Egypt.

5. At which Moses and Aaron fell upon their Faces, before all the Congregation of the Israelites that were come together.

6. Of those also who viewed the Country, Joshua the Son of Nun, and Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, tore their Cloaths,

7. And said thus to them all; The Country which we passed through to view it, is an exceeding good one.

8. If the Lord delights in us, he will bring us into this Country, which flows with Milk and Honey, and give it to us.

9. Only you must not rebel against him, therefore be not afraid of the People of it, for they will be as Bread to us; their Shelter is gone off from them, and the Lord is with us, do not fear them.

10. Notwithstanding which the whole Assembly of the Israelites spoke of stoning them with Stones; but the Glory of the Lord appeared at the publick Tent to them all.

11. And he said to Moses; How long will this People contemn me? And how long will they not believe in me, for all the Signs which I have shewn among them?

12. Let me smite them with the Pestilence, and disinherit them; and I will make thee a Nation greater and stronger than they.

13. But Moses answered him: When the Egyptians hear of it (because thou broughtest up this People from among them by thy Power)

14. They will tell it to the Inhabitants of this Country, who have heard that thou Lord art among this People, how thou, O Lord, art seen Eye to Eye, and thy Cloud remains over them, and thou goest before them in a Pillar of a Cloud by Day, and of Fire by Night.

15. Then, shouldest thou kill this People as one Man, the Nations that have heard thy Fame, will say thus,

16. Because the Lord was not able to bring this People into the Country of which he sware to them, he slew them in the Wilderness.

17. Now therefore let the Power of my Lord be great, I beseech thee, as thou hast spoken in the following manner;

18. The Lord is delaying of Anger, and of great Kindness, forgiving Iniquity and Trespas; as well as not at all quitting, but punishing, for the Iniquity of the Fathers, the Children in the third and fourth Generation.

19. Vouchsafe to pardon the Iniquity of this People, according to the Greatness of thy Mercy, and as thou hast forgiven them from Egypt to this Place.

20. And the Lord replied: I pardon according to thy Request.

21. Yet surely, by my living, and the whole Earth being filled with the Glory of the Lord;

22. Because all the Men, who when they had seen my Glory, and my Signs which I shewed in Egypt, and the Wilderness, have tempted me these ten times, and not hearkened to what I said;

23. They shall not see the Country of which I sware to their Forefathers, nor any of those who have contemned me.

Ver. 33. Giants] Josephus relates that monstrous Bones of the Giants, afterwards slain by the Israelites in taking Hebron, were shewn to his Time, Antiq. Lib. v. 2. And Pausanias a Heathen in his Atticis, as observed by Cumberland in his Sanchoniathes's Phœnician History, pag. 477. makes mention of the Bones of a Son of Anax being in the Country of Milefia, whose Body was ten Cubits long; which compare with 1 Sam. xvii. 4.

Ver. 9. Shelter] Heb. Sbadew, being a Shelter from the Heat; but here used metaphorically, as Eccles. vii. 12.

Ver. 10. at] For in the Tabernacle the People could not have seen it, says Patrick.

Ver. 11. contemn] So this Verb is rendered in the same Conjugation Pihel (for in the other Conjugation Kal it is agreed to mean thus) Psa. x. 13. despise, Jer. xxiii. 17. Isai. v. 24. & lx. 14. and abhor, 1 Sam. ii. 17.

Psa. x. 3. and may be seen not to signify provokes.

Ver. 12. Let me] As by expressing it I will, a Condition must at best be implied, and since that Condition was Moses's letting it be, by not interceding for the People; how much fitter and more unexceptionable is it to have the English thus, which the Hebrew expresses as here?

Ver. 15. Then, shouldest thou kill] which Patrick unaccountably writes should rather be, But thou hast killed.

Ver. 17. let the Power—be great] in bringing them into the promised Country, Ver. 16. which would be a Favour and Blessing agreeable to the Divine Attributes following, Ver. 18.

Ver. 21. and] So it being in the Heb. as likewise Patrick expounds it.

24. But

24. But as for my Servant Caleb, because he had another Spirit, and has followed me entirely, I will bring him into the Country whither he went, and his Offspring shall possess it.

25. Since the Amalekites and Canaanites dwell in the Vale, turn you about to Morrow, and march into the Wilderness, the Way to the Red Sea.

26. The Lord thus also said to Moses and Aaron :

27. How long do I hear what this wicked Assembly murmur against me, the Murmurs which the Israelites make at my self ?

28. Tell them the Lord says ; By my living, I will do to you just as you have spoken in my Hearing.

29. Your dead Bodies shall fall in the Wilderness, all the whole Number of you who were counted from the twentieth Year upward, who have murmured against me.

30. None of you shall enter into the Country, for which I have lifted up my Hand, that I would make you dwell in, excepting Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the Son of Nun.

31. As to your little ones, who you complained would be a Prey, I will have them in, and they shall know the Country which you despise.

32. But while your own Bodies are falling in this Wilderness,

33. Your Children shall be feeding in it forty Years, and bear your Whoredoms, till your dead Bodies are there consumed.

34. According as you were viewing the Country the Number of forty Days, each Day being for a Year, you shall bear your Iniquities so many Years, and know a Rupture with me.

35. I the Lord affirm, I will do that to all this wicked Assembly, who are come together against me : they shall be consumed in this Wilderness, where they shall die.

36. As for the Men that Moses sent to view the Country, who when they came back made the whole Assembly murmur against him, by giving out an ill Report concerning the same ;

37. They who did it, died by a Plague before the Lord.

38. Whereas Joshua the Son of Nun, and Caleb the Son of Jephunneh lived, of those who went to view the Country.

39. And when Moses told those Words to all the Israelites, the People mourned exceedingly.

40. Afterwards they rose early in the Morning, that they might go up to the Top of the Mountain, saying, Here we are, and will go up to the Place which the Lord has spoken of, for we have sinned.

41. But Moses replied ; Why would you transgress the Lord's Command ? For it will not prosper.

42. Go not up, that you may not be beat before your Enemies, because the Lord will not be among you.

43. And as the Amalekites and Canaanites are before you there, you will fall by the Sword : for since you turn back from following the Lord, he will not be with you.

44. Nevertheless they resolutely attempted to go up to the Top of the Mountain, though the Ark of the Lord's Covenant and Moses did not remove out of the Camp.

45. But the Amalekites, and Canaanites who dwelt on that Mountain coming down, killed them, and beat them to Hormah.

CHAP. XV.

THE Lord afterwards told Moses as follows :

2. Speak to the Israelites, saying to them ; When you are come into the Country of your Habitations, which I will give you,

3. And prepare an Offering by Fire to the Lord, either a Burnt-offering, or a Sacrifice, in putting apart by a Vow, or for a Free-offering, or in your appointed Times ; to make a pleasant Smell to the Lord, out of the Herd, or the Flock ;

Ver. 25. Since the Amalekites—dwell] Since you are afraid to go where they dwell : or according to Patrick, They lie in wait for you, therefore do not go forward. The Latin Translators have it generally in the present Tense, as what the Lord said ; see Ver. 43.

Ver. 31. would] not should.

Ver. 33. feeding] as the Heb. Word signifies, viz. on Manna, but not wander.

Ver. 34. Rupture] There is Nothing for of promise in the Original, though it stands with the same Character as the rest in the present Translation, and the Expression seems shocking, that a Breach of Promise should be ascribed to God ; the Condition of whose Promise to the Israelites being not kept by them, the Promise was consequently void, and could not, as it certainly would not, be broke by him. Gell says the com. English must be most absurd and false, Essay, p. 494.

Ver. 35. I will] The Substance of the second Note on Gen. xxxi. 45. may serve for this, in relation to the surety of the com. Reading.

Ver. 40, 44. It appears by the 45th Ver. that they did not get up to the Top of the Mountain, and certainly were not gone up when they spoke to Moses, Ver. 40.

Ver. 44. resolutely attempted] Vulg. Lat. being blinded went up, through Mistake of expounding the Verb by went when its Root בא has a different Meaning.

Ver. 3. Sacrifice] of Peace-offerings, as Lev. vii. 15, 18, &c. Exod. xxix. 28. Num. x. 10. and as Ver. 8. & Lev. xvii. 5. shew.

4. Let

4. Let him who brings his Oblation to the Lord, bring a Meat-offering of the tenth Part of an Ephah of fine Flour, tempered with the fourth Part of a Hin of Oil;

5. And prepare for a Drink-offering the fourth Part of a Hin of Wine; with the Burnt-offering or Sacrifice of a Lamb.

6. For a Ram also prepare thou a Meat-offering of two tenth Parts of an Ephah of fine Flour, tempered with the third Part of a Hin of Oil;

7. And bring for a Drink-offering the third Part of a Hin of Wine; to be a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

8. And when thou preparest a young one of the Herd for a Burnt-offering or Sacrifice, in putting apart by a Vow, or for Peace-offerings to the Lord;

9. Let there be brought with it a Meat-offering of three tenth Parts of an Ephah of fine Flour, tempered with half a Hin of Oil;

10. And thou shalt bring for a Drink-offering half a Hin of Wine; to be an Offering by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

11. Thus shall there be prepared for a Bullock, for a Ram, for either a Lamb or Kid;

12. And so shall you do, as their Number is, for every one, according to the Number that you prepare.

13. All the Natives shall do the like, when they bring an Offering by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

14. When one likewise who sojourns with you, or shall be among you in your Generations, prepares such an Offering, let it be as you your selves do it.

15. There shall be the same Ordinance for you of the Congregation, and for him who sojourns, a perpetual one in your Generations; you shall be alike before the Lord,

16. The Law and the Manner shall be the same to both of you.

17. Again the Lord spoke thus to Moses:

18. Charge the Israelites, by saying to them; When you come into the Country whither I will bring you,

19. And then eat of the Bread of it, you shall offer up a Lifted-offering to the Lord;

20. Which shall be a Cake of the first of your Dough, and you must offer it up like a Lifted-offering out of the Flour.

21. This Offering shall you give to the Lord in your Generations.

22. And when you err in not doing all these Commandments, which the Lord expressed to Moses,

23. Whatever he has commanded you by his Ministry, ever since the Time that the Lord did it, in your Generations;

24. Then, if it be done by the Mistake of the Assembly through Ignorance, all of them shall prepare a young Bullock of the Herd for a Burnt-offering, to be a pleasant Smell to the Lord, with his Meat-offering and Drink-offering as usual, and a Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering.

25. And the Priest shall make atonement for the whole Assembly of the Israelites, that it may be forgiven them; since it was a Mistake, and they have brought their Oblation, an Offering by Fire to the Lord, and their Sin-offering before him, for their Mistake.

26. So shall they be all of them forgiven, and he who sojourns among them, when all the People are in a Mistake.

27. When a single Person too sins by Mistake, he shall bring a She-goat of the first Year for a Sin-offering.

28. And the Priest shall make atonement for him, who has erred by sinning in that Manner before the Lord; that by so doing, it may be forgiven him.

29. A Native of the Israelites, and he who sojourns among them, shall have the same Law for committing Sin by Mistake.

30. But that Person, either of the Natives or Strangers, who commits it with a high Hand, reproaches the Lord, and shall be cut off from among his People:

31. For he despising the Word of the Lord, as well as breaking his Commandment; that Person shall be utterly cut off, his Iniquity shall be upon him.

32. And while the Israelites were in the Wilderness, they found a Man gathering Wood on the Sabbath Day.

33. Whereupon those that found him doing it, brought him to Moses, Aaron, and the whole Assembly.

34. Who put him in Prison, because it was not explained what should be done to him.

Ver. 24. a Kid] The Reason of this Addition to that in Lev. iv. 14. see there.

Ver. 30. with a high Hand] as Chap. xxxiii. 3. Exod. xiv. 8. and Gell remarks the English Translators confound this Phrase and another in Exod. xxi. 14. Deut. i. 43. & xvii. 12, 13. & xviii. 22. both under one Word, which indeed answers properly to neither, Essay, p. 502.

35. And the Lord said to Moses, The Man shall be quite put to death: Let all the Assembly stone him with Stones without the Camp.

36. Accordingly they had him out thither, and stoned him till he was dead; as the Lord commanded Moses.

37. To him also spoke the Lord in the following manner;

38. Tell the Israelites, that they should make them a Fringe upon the Skirts of their Garments, in their Generations, and put a blue Lace upon that.

39. And the Fringe shall be for you to look on, that you may remember all the Commandments of the Lord, and do them; and not seek to follow your own Heart and Eyes, which you go a whoring after:

40. That by remembring and doing all my Commandments, you may be holy to your God.

41. Who am the Lord your God, that brought you out of the Country of Egypt, to be a God to you: I am the Lord your God.

C H A P. XVI.

AND Korah the Son of Izhar, the Son of Kohath, the Son of Levi, took both Dathan and Abiram the Sons of Eliab, and On the Son of Peleth, Reubenites,

2. Who rose up before Moses, with two hundred and fifty Princes of the Assembly of the Israelites, famous renowned Men of the Congregation;

3. And being gathered together against Moses and Aaron, they said to them, You take a great deal upon you; for all the Assembly are holy every one of them, and the Lord is among them: therefore why do you lift up your selves above the Congregation of the Lord?

4. At the hearing of which Moses fell down upon his Face.

5. He then spoke thus to Korah and all his Company; In the Morning the Lord will make known who is his, and is holy; and will, even he will, bring him whom he chooses near to himself.

6. Do this, take you Censers, Korah, and all his Company;

7. And put Fire into them, and lay Incense upon them, before the Lord to Morrow; who will choose the Man that is holy: it is you Levites take a great deal upon you.

8. He said further to Korah; Hear now, you Sons of Levi;

9. Is it too little for you, that the God of Israel has separated you from the Assembly of Israel, to bring you near to himself, that you may do the Service of his Tabernacle, and stand before the Assembly to minister to them?

10. When he has thus brought thee, and all thy Brethren the Levites with thee near, do you seek the Priesthood also?

11. For which reason thou and all thy Company are come together against the Lord: for what is Aaron, that you should murmur at him?

12. Next Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, the Sons of Eliab: but they said; We will not come up.

13. Was it a little Matter for thee to bring us up from a Country flowing with Milk and Honey, to cause us to die in the Wilderness, that thou hast also entirely made thy self a Prince over us?

14. Besides thou hast not brought us into a Country that flows with Milk and Honey, nor given us a Possession of Fields and Vineyards. Wouldest thou put out the Eyes of these Men? We will not come up.

15. Very angry at this, Moses prayed to the Lord, Have no regard to their Offering; I having not taken so much as an Afs from them, nor hurt one of them.

16. To Korah he said again; Do thou, and thy whole Company, be with Aaron before the Lord to Morrow;

17. And let each take his Censer, and bring it before the Lord, with Incense put into them, two hundred and fifty Censers, as likewise do thou and Aaron yours.

18. They accordingly took each his Censer, and putting Fire into them, and laying Incense upon them, stood at the Door of the publick Tent, with Moses and Aaron.

Ver. 39. Fringe shall] Patrick following Poole, according to his Custom, expounds this to be the Ribband; though they prove only their own Unskilfulness in the Hebrew Tongue.

Ver. 1. took] The Heb. Verb for it is singular, Korah being not only the chief, Ver. 5, 6, 16, 19, 32. but as he was first Cousin to Moses and Aaron, Exod. vi. 18, 20. might think himself equal to them, and it appears he laid claim to the Priesthood as well as Aaron, Ver. 10. for which reason the Rebellion was made, Ver. 11. which is therefore suitable to Korah's taking the rest; and so it is said, one Man sinned, Ver. 22. nay otherwise the Original does not tell us what was taken, men being added by the Translators; of this see Univerf. Hist. B. i. 7. 2. & Answe. Annotations.

Ver. 5. In the Morning] which must be of the next Day, and so need not be altered for to morrow.

Ver. 18. They took] the next Day, according to Ver. 5, 7, 16.

19. Whither Korah having gathered the whole Assembly against them, the Glory of the Lord appeared to them all.

20. And he spoke thus to Moses and Aaron,

21. Get apart from among this Assembly, that I may consume them in a Moment.

22. But they falling on their Faces, remonstrated, O God, the God of the Spirits of all Flesh, when one Man has sinned, wilt thou be in a Wrath against the whole Assembly?

23. The Lord then said to Moses as follows,

24. Tell them, that they should go up from about the Tabernacle of Korah, Dathan and Abiram.

25. So Moses rose up, and went to Dathan and Abiram, the Elders of Israel following him:

26. And he desired the Assembly to depart from the Tents of those wicked Men, and not touch any thing which belonged to them, lest they should be destroyed in all their Sins.

27. Therefore they went up from the Tabernacle of Korah, Dathan and Abiram all round; and the two latter came out, standing at the Doors of their Tents, with their Wives, Children, and little ones.

28. And Moses said; By this you shall know that the Lord has sent me to do all these Works, for it is not of my own Mind:

29. If these die as Men generally do, or are punished with the Punishment of others in general, the Lord has not sent me.

30. But if he performs Something new, that the Ground shall open its Mouth, and swallow them up with all that belong to them, and they go down into the Grave alive; you may know that these Men have contemned the Lord.

31. He had no sooner done speaking all these Words, but the Ground that was under them cleaved asunder.

32. And the Earth having opened its Mouth, swallowed them up, their Families, and all the Men who belonged to Korah, with the whole Substance.

33. Both they and all theirs went down alive into the Grave, and the Earth covered them over, so they perished from among the Congregation.

34. And all Israel who were round about them ran away at their Noise, lest the Earth, as they said, should swallow them up.

35. There came out Fire too from the Lord, and consumed the two hundred and fifty Men who brought Incense.

36. After which the Lord spoke as follows to Moses;

37. Bid Eleazar the Priest, Aaron's Son, take up the Censers out of the Burning, because they are consecrated, and scatter thou the Fire further.

38. As for the Censers of these who were Sinners against their own Lives, let them be made into broad Plates for a Covering to the Altar, since they have brought them before the Lord, and they are consecrated; that they may be a Sign to the Israelites.

39. Accordingly Eleazar the Priest took the Censers of Brasses, which they who were burnt had brought, and they were beat out broad for a Covering to the Altar;

40. To be a Memorial to the Israelites, that no strange Person, who is not of Aaron's Offspring, may come to offer Incense before the Lord, lest he should be like Korah and his Company; as the Lord said to him by the Ministry of Moses.

41. Nevertheless the whole Assembly of the Israelites murmured against Moses and Aaron the next Day, and said, You have killed the Lord's People.

42. But when the Assembly were gathered together against Moses and Aaron, as they looked towards the publick Tent, behold the Cloud covered it, and the Glory of the Lord appeared.

43. Then Moses and Aaron came before the publick Tent.

44. Moreover the Lord said to Moses thus,

45. Get up from among this Assembly, that I may consume them in a Moment: at which they fell on their Faces.

46. And Moses said to Aaron, Take a Censer, and put Fire into it from the Altar,

Ver. 29. in general] since all, even before with common, would comprehend themselves.

Thither, it appears, Korah and some Men belonging to him went, and his Children being left at home were saved, Chap. xxvi. 11. see Chap. xxvi. 10. Deut. xi. 6.

"Lightning sometimes doth others, by taking away their "Lives, and leaving their Bodies dead upon the Place;" but then in Contradiction, explains the Burning, Ver. 37. to be "the Cinders or Ashes."

1b. brought] as Ver. 17. the Verb being the same. And surely they brought their Censers, not offered them, Ver. 38. It is this Verb in Chap. xviii. 2. see Lev. i. 3.

and laying on Incense, go speedily to the Assembly, and make atonement for them: for there is Wrath gone out from before the Lord, the Plague is begun.

47. Thus Aaron taking such as Moses ordered, ran into the midst of the Congregation, and the Plague being indeed begun among the People, he put on the Incense, and made atonement for them;

48. And standing between the Dead and the Living, the Plague was stopped.

49. In which fourteen thousand and seven hundred died, besides those who died for Korah's Matter.

50. And Aaron went back to Moses at the Door of the publick Tent, when the Plague was stopped.

C H A P. XVII.

BESIDES the Lord said to Moses as follows;

2. Speak to the Israelites, and take of all their Princes twelve Staves, one apiece for each Household of their Fathers, writing every one's Name upon his Staff.

3. And write Aaron's Name upon the Staff of Levi; for there shall be one for the Head of a Family of their Fathers.

4. Thou shalt also put them in the publick Tent, before the Testimony, where I meet you.

5. And the Staff of the Man whom I choose shall bud out; that I may be quiet from the Murmurings of the Israelites, which they make against you.

6. This Moses told to the Israelites, and all the Princes gave him twelve Staves, each Prince one, for the Household of their Fathers, Aaron's Staff being among theirs.

7. And Moses put them before the Lord, in the Tent of the Testimony.

8. Into which going the next Day, behold the Staff of Aaron for the Family of Levi was budded out; and not only brought forth Buds, but blossomed Flowers, and yielded Almonds.

9. He then brought out all the Staves from before the Lord to all the Israelites, who saw it, and they took each his own.

10. Next the Lord said to him, Bring back Aaron's Staff before the Testimony, to be kept for a Sign to the rebellious; that thou mayest end their Murmurings to me; that they may not die.

11. Thus Moses did, doing entirely according as the Lord commanded him.

12. But the Israelites uttered themselves to Moses; Behold, we are dying! we are perishing, all of us perish!

13. Every one who goes at all near to the Tabernacle of the Lord will be killed: shall we die entirely?

C H A P. XVIII.

UPON this the Lord said to Aaron: Thou, with thy Sons, and thy Father's Family shall bear the Iniquity of the Sanctuary; thou and thy Sons your selves that of your Priesthood.

2. So bring also thy Brethren, of the Tribe of Levi, that of thy Father, with thee, and let them be joined to thee, and wait on thee; but let thy Sons be with thee before the Tent of the Testimony.

3. And the former shall take care of thy Business, and that of the whole Tent; yet must not approach to the consecrated Things, or the Altar, that both they and you may not die.

4. However they shall be joined with thee, so as to look after the Affairs belonging to all the Service of the publick Tent; and no Stranger shall come near you.

5. Thus shall you take care of the Business both of the Sanctuary, and the Altar; that there may no more be Wrath upon the Israelites.

6. Behold even I took your Brethren the Levites from among the Israelites: they are given to you a Gift for the Lord, to do the Service of the publick Tent.

7. But thou, and thy Sons with thee, shall take care of your Priesthood, about every Matter of the Altar and within the Veil, as also serve: I make your Priesthood a given Service, and the Stranger who comes near shall be put to death.

8. Lo I give to thee, and thy Sons by a lasting Ordinance, said the Lord to Aaron, the Charge of my Offerings, with all the consecrated Things of the Israelites, by reason of the Anointing.

9. The following shall be thine, and thy Sons, of the Things saved from the Fire that

Ver. 3. Aaron's Name] So that the Staff on which it was being chosen by the Lord, both made determination for the Tribe of Levi, and for Aaron himself in that Tribe.

Ver. 1. Upon this] Upon the People's complaining as before, understand the following was ordered for a Remedy to it.

1b. Father's Family] the Tribe of Levi.

are very holy; all their Oblations, of all their Meat-offerings, Sin-offerings and Trespas-offerings, which they render to me:

10. Thou and every Male shall eat them at the very Holy Place, they being holy to thee:

11. These shall likewise be thine; their given Lifted-offering, with all the Waved-offerings of the Israelites, which I give both to thy Sons and Daughters, together with thee, by a lasting Ordinance: every one of thy own Family who is clean may eat of the same.

12. I give thee all the first and best of the Oil, as also of the new Wine and Wheat, which they shall give to the Lord.

13. The First-fruits of all that is in their Country, which they bring to the Lord, shall be thine: every one of thy own Family who is clean may eat of them.

14. Thou shalt have every dedicated Thing in Israel.

15. Every one that comes first out of the Womb, of all Flesh which they bring to the Lord, whether of Man or Beast, shall be thine: however a first-born Child, shalt thou redeem, as thou shalt the Firstling of an unclean Beast.

16. And the Redemption of a Child shall be from his Month, which thou shalt value at five holy Shekels of Silver, each being twenty Gerahs.

17. But the Firstling of a Cow, with that of a Sheep or Goat, shalt thou not redeem, they being consecrated: thou shalt sprinkle their Blood upon the Altar, and burn their Fat, to be an Offering by Fire, for a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

18. And their Flesh shall belong to thee, as both the waved Breast, and the right Shoulder do.

19. All the Offerings of the consecrated Things, which the Israelites shall offer up to the Lord, do I give thee, together with thy Sons and Daughters, by a lasting Ordinance: it shall be a lasting Covenant of Salt before the Lord, both to thee, and thy Offspring with thee.

20. Thou shalt not possess any Thing in the Country of the Israelites, added the Lord to Aaron, nor have a Part among them: I will be thy Part and Possession there.

21. And behold, I give the Posterity of Levi all the Tithe in Israel for a Possession; for their Service of the publick Tent, which they do.

22. So let the Israelites no more approach the publick Tent, to die by bearing Sin.

23. For the Levites shall do the Service of it, and bear their Iniquity. It shall be a lasting Ordinance to your Generations, that they shall have no Possession among the Israelites.

24. The reason, I say of them, that they shall have no Possession among the Israelites is, because I give them their Tithe for a Possession, which the others shall offer up for an Offering to the Lord.

25. Besides the Lord said to Moses as follows:

26. Speak also to the Levites, saying to them; When you receive the Tithe of the Israelites, which I give you for your Possession from them, you shall offer up the Tithe of that, for an Offering out of it to the Lord.

27. And your Offering shall be counted to you as that of Corn out of the Floor, and of Liquor out of the Wine-press.

28. Now you must offer up such an Offering to the Lord, out of all your Tithes which you receive of the Israelites, giving it to Aaron the Priest.

29. Every Offering that you offer up to the Lord out of all your Gifts, shall be of all the best of them, which is to be their consecrated Part.

30. Say therefore to them; When you have offered up the best of them, let them be counted to the Levites as the Increase of the Floor, and that of the Wine-press.

31. Then you and your Families may eat them in any Place: for they shall be your Reward for your Service in the publick Tent.

32. And when you offer up the best of them, you shall bear no Sin concerning them, nor will you profane the Israelites consecrated Things, and so shall not die.

CHAP. XIX.

THE Lord further said thus, as well to Aaron as Moses,

2. That the following was an Ordinance of the Law which he himself commanded: Tell the Israelites, that they should fetch thee a perfect red Heifer, in which is no Blemish, and upon which there has come no Yoke.

3. And her you shall give to Eleazer the Priest, who shall have her forth without the Camp, and she shall be killed before him.

4. Then let him take some of her Blood with his Finger, and sprinkle it over against the Front of the publick Tent seven times.

5. Next the Heifer shall be burnt in his Sight, with her Skin, Flesh, Blood and Dung.

6. Moreover the Priest shall take Cedar-wood, Hyssop and scarlet Thread, and cast into the midst of her Burning.

7. As he shall also wash his Cloaths, and bathe his Flesh in Water; after which he may come into the Camp, but shall be unclean till the Evening.

8. Nay he who has burnt her, shall both wash his Cloaths and bathe his Flesh in Water, and be unclean till the Evening.

9. And a clean Person shall gather up, and lay the Ashes of the Heifer in a clean Place without the Camp; so they shall be to the Assembly of the Israelites for a Water of Separation, which shall be kept for Sin.

10. He likewise who gathers up her Ashes shall wash his Cloaths, and be unclean till the Evening. This shall be a lasting Ordinance to the Israelites, and to him who sojourns amongst them.

11. He that touches the dead Body of any Man shall be unclean seven Days.

12. On the third Day he shall purify himself with this, and on the seventh Day be clean; but if he does not purify himself on the third Day, he shall not be clean on the seventh.

13. What Person soever touches the dead Body of a Man who is deceased, and does not purify himself, will defile the Tabernacle of the Lord, and shall be cut off from Israel: when the Water of Separation is not sprinkled on him, he is unclean, with his Uncleanness still upon him.

14. This shall be the Law when a Man dies in a Tent: All who come into the Tent, and all who are in it, shall be unclean seven Days.

15. And every open Vessel, upon which there is no Cloth fastened, shall be unclean.

16. Whoever also touches abroad upon the Ground, one who is killed with a Sword, or dead, a Bone of a Man, or a Grave, shall be unclean seven Days.

17. And after they have taken for the Unclean, some of the Ashes of the Burning for Sin, and Spring Water is put into a Vessel with them;

18. Let a clean Man take Hyssop, and dip in the Water, and sprinkle upon the Tent, upon all the Vessels, and Persons who were there; upon him likewise that has touched a Bone, or one that is slain or dead, or a Grave.

19. Thus when the Clean has sprinkled upon him who is unclean, on the third Day and the seventh, he shall be purified on the seventh Day; and washing his Cloaths, and bathing in Water, be clean in the Evening.

20. Whereas that Person who is unclean, and does not purify himself, shall be cut off from among the Congregation; when he defiles the Sanctuary of the Lord, not having the Water of Separation sprinkled upon him, and being unclean.

21. It shall be a lasting Ordinance to you, that he who sprinkles the Water of Separation shall wash his Cloaths, and he who touches it, be unclean till the Evening.

22. Nay all which an unclean Person touches shall be unclean, as shall the Person who touches that, till the Evening.

Ver. 2. red Heifer] The Jewish Writers relate that Solomon, though he understood every other Mystery and Precept of the Law, owned himself ignorant of the Meaning of the red Heifer, Mishneh, Tract of the red Heif. Maimonides, More Neusch. Pt. iii. Ch. 26. But notwithstanding their Unbelief of Jesus Christ might make them blind enough to say so, one would think the Christian Writers might clearly account for it, since the Author to the Hebrews represents it as typical of Christ, Chap. ix. 13. & xiii. 11. so that the Redness of the Heifer might well prefigure his Blood, which is there particularly mentioned, Chap. ix. 14. & xiii. 12. As to their unsurmountable Difficulty, concerning those who prepared and used it being made unclean by it, when the Use of it was to make clean such as were unclean, Ver. 7, 8, 10, 12, 13, 17, 18, 19, 21. this answers to the Death of our Saviour, which brought Guilt on the Perpetrators of it, whilst it was for the absolving them to whom it should be rightly applied.

Ver. 4. over against] being without the Camp, on the east Side.

Ver. 6. cast] there being nothing for [it] in the Heb. as what would be needless, if not improper; on which however Patrick comments, "He speaks as if these three Things being bound together, became one." Mistaking the English for the Original.

Ver. 9. Sin] purification here & Ver. 17. being added in translating.

Ver. 13. will defile the Tabernacle] If he approach unto it, Patr. Comment.

Ver. 21. shall wash] It seems that he should also be unclean till the Evening, as being after this, and in many other Cases; but not that the latter should wash his Cloaths, because it is before that [he,] and the Defilement apparently less.

C H A P. XX.

AT length the whole Assembly of the Israelites came into the Wilderness of Zin, in the first Month, and the People staid at Kadesh; where Miriam died, and was buried.

2. And having no Water, they gathered together against Moses and Aaron:

3. As also quarrelled with Moses, saying thus; Oh that we had died when our Brethren did before the Lord!

4. Why did you bring the Congregation of the Lord into this Wilderness, for we and our Cattle to die here?

5. And why did you cause us to come up from Egypt, to bring us to this bad Place? Which is neither a Place of Corn, Figs, Vines, nor Pomegranates; nay there is no Water to drink.

6. Upon this Moses and Aaron went from the Presence of the Congregation, to the Door of the publick Tent, and fell on their Faces; to whom the Glory of the Lord appearing,

7. He said to Moses as follows,

8. Take the Staff, and thou with thy Brother Aaron having gathered the Assembly together, speak you to the Rock in their Sight, that it should yield its Water: so thou shalt bring them Water out of it, and make both the Assembly and their Cattle drink.

9. And Moses taking the Staff from before the Lord, as he commanded him;

10. When he and Aaron had gathered the Congregation before the Rock, he said to them; Hear now, you Rebels, can we make Water come out of this Rock for you?

11. Then lifting up his Hand, he struck the Rock twice with his Staff; whereupon there came out much Water, so that the Assembly and their Cattle drank.

12. But the Lord declared to Moses and Aaron, Because you did not believe me, to sanctify me in the Sight of the Israelites, therefore you shall not bring this Congregation into the Country which I give them.

13. This was the Water of Meribah, at which the Israelites contended with the Lord, and he was sanctified through them.

14. And from Kadesh Moses sent Ambassadors to the King of Edom, who spoke thus in the Name of his Brother Israel; Thou knowest all the Fatigue which we have met with;

15. That our Forefathers went down to Egypt, where we dwelt a long time, and the Egyptians dealt ill with us and our Fathers.

16. But when we cried to the Lord, he heard what we said, and sending an Angel, brought us out of Egypt. And behold we are at Kadesh, a City on the outside of thy Border.

17. Let us pass through thy Country, we pray: we will not go through the Fields, or the Vineyards, nor drink Water out of the Wells; but go in the King's Highway, without turning aside to the right Hand or the left, till we have passed thy Bounds.

18. To which the Edomite answered, You must not pass through what is mine, lest I should come out to meet you with the Sword.

19. And though the Israelites replied to him, We will go up in the Road, and if we or our Cattle drink of thy Water, we will give to the Worth of it; we will do nothing else but pass along on our Feet:

20. Yet he said, You shall not pass; besides he came out to meet them with numerous People, and strong Power.

21. So he refusing to give Israel leave to pass through his Bounds, they turned away from him.

22. The whole Assembly of Israel therefore marching from Kadesh, came to Mount Hor,

24. Aaron shall be taken away to his People: for he shall not enter into the Country which I give to the Israelites, because you rebelled against my Command at the Water of Meribah.

25. Take Aaron and his Son Eleazar, and have them up Mount Hor.

26. And when thou hast pulled off Aaron's Garments, and put them on Eleazar his Son, Aaron shall be taken away there by Death.

27. This Moses did as the Lord commanded; and they went up Mount Hor in the Sight of the whole Assembly.

28. On the Top of which Aaron died, after Moses had pulled off his Garments, and put them on his Son Eleazar; then Moses and Eleazar went down from the Mountain.

29. And all the Assembly, the whole Family of Israel, finding that Aaron was dead, mourned for him thirty Days.

C H A P. XXI.

NOW the Canaanite King of Arad, who dwelt in the South, having heard that Israel was coming the Way of the Spies, fought against them, and took some of them Prisoners.

2. Whereupon they made a Vow to the Lord, that if he would at all deliver those People into their Power, they would destroy their Cities.

3. And the Lord hearkening to what they said, delivered up the Canaanites, and they destroyed them as well as their Cities: hence the Place was named Hormah.

4. But as the People were marching from Mount Hor, the Way to the Red Sea, that they might go round by the Country of Edom, their Souls shrunk at the Journey.

5. And they spoke against God and Moses, Why did you bring us up from Egypt, to die in the Wilderness? For here is no Bread nor Water; and we are weary at our Hearts of this slight Food.

6. The Lord therefore sent fiery Serpents among the People, which bit them, so that many People of Israel died.

7. They then came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, because we spoke against the Lord and thee; pray to him, that he may take away the Serpents from us. Accordingly he prayed for them.

8. And the Lord said to him, Make thee a fiery Serpent, and put it on a Pole; and every one who is bit, when he looks at it, shall live.

9. So Moses made a Serpent of Brass, and having put it on a Standard, though a Serpent bit any one, yet if he looked at that, he lived.

10. And the Israelites marched on, and encamped at Oboth.

11. Marching from Oboth, they encamped at the Heaps of Abarim, in the Wilderness which is before Moab, towards the rising of the Sun.

12. Whence they marched, and encamped at the Brook of Zered:

13. As they did after their next March at the Passage of Arnon, which is in the Wilderness coming out from the Border of the Amorites; for Arnon was the Border of Moab, between that and the Amorites.

Ver. 14. Wars] Those that were before Moses wrote this, as that with Sihon which follows. For in relating how they took Sihon's Country, it was proper to take notice what the Lord did for them (which might well be by a Whirlwind, and of the Brooks of Arnon,

15. As also of the Overflowing of the Brooks, which turns to the Habitation of Ar, and leans on the Border of Moab.

16. They went from thence to Beer, a Well to which the Lord ordered Moses to gather the People, that he might give them Water.

17. Then Israel sung this Song, Spring up, O Well; sing to it:

18. The Well which the Princes have digged, the Nobles of the People by means of the Law-giver dug with their Staves. Out of the Wilderness they went on to Mat-tanah,

19. From thence to Nahaliel, thence to Bamoth;

20. And thence to the Valley which is in the Region of Moab, at the Beginning of Pisgah, which faces the Desert.

21. Moreover Israel sent Ambassadors to Sihon King of the Amorites, who said,

22. Let us pass through thy Country; we will neither turn aside into the Fields, or the Vineyards, nor drink Water out of the Wells; but go on in the King's Highway, till we have passed thy Borders.

23. Nevertheless Sihon would not grant Israel to do it; but gathering all his People together, went out to the Wilderness to meet them; and when he came to Jahaz, fought with them.

24. But they put him to the Sword; and possessed his Country from Arnon to Jabbok, even to the Ammonites: for the Border of the Ammonites was strong.

25. Thus Israel having taken all these Cities of the Amorites, dwelt in them, in Heshbon and all its Towns.

26. For Heshbon was the City of Sihon King of the Amorites; he having fought with the former King of Moab, and taken all his Country from him as far as Arnon.

27. They used to say therefore in a Proverb; Come to Heshbon, the City of Sihon will be built, and established.

28. For there is a Fire gone out of Heshbon, a Flame out of the Town of Sihon; which has consumed Ar of Moab, the Owners of the high Places of Arnon.

29. Wo is to thee, Moab; you are perished, O People of Chemosh: he has delivered up his Sons who escaped, and his Daughters, for Prisoners to Sihon King of the Amorites.

30. We shooting at them, Heshbon perished even to Dibon; and we laid them waste as far as Nophah, which reaches to Medeba.

31. Now while Israel inhabited the Country of the Amorites,

32. Moses sent to spy Jazer, the Towns of which they took, and drove away the Amorites who were there.

33. After this they turned, and went up the Way to Bashan; and Og the King of it came out with all his People, to meet them in Battle at Edrei.

34. Upon which the Lord said to Moses, Be not afraid of him: for I deliver him into thy Power, with all his People and Country; and thou shalt do to him, as thou hast done to Sihon King of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon.

Nor does Jerome reckon them among the Mansions.

C H A P. XXII.

AFTERWARDS the Israelites marched, and encamped on the Plains of Moab, at the Side of Jordan against Jericho.

2. Now Balak the Son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites.

3. And the Moabite being exceedingly afraid, and vexed by reason of the People of Israel, because they were many,

4. Said to the Elders of Midian, Now will this Company lick up all that is round about us, as an Ox does the Grass of the Field; Balak the Son of Zippor being King of Moab at that Time.

5. So he sent Messengers to Balaam the Son of Beor at Pethor, which was by the River of his People's Country, to call him as follows; Behold there are a People come out of Egypt, so they cover the Ground as far as one can see, and abide over against me.

6. Therefore come now, I beseech thee, curse them for me, because they are stronger than I; perhaps I shall be able to beat them, and drive them out of the Country: for I know that he whom thou bledest is blessed, and he that thou curdest is cursed.

7. And when the Elders of Moab and those of Midian, who went with Pay for Divination in their Custody, came to Balaam, and told him the Message of Balak;

8. He bade them lodge there that Night, and he would return them Word, as the Lord should speak to him: accordingly the Princes of Moab staid with him.

9. At which God coming to Balaam, said, Who are those Men with thee?

10. Whom he answered, that Balak the Son of Zippor King of Moab had sent him Word,

11. Behold there are a People come out of Egypt, and cover the Ground as far as one can see: come now, curse them for me; perhaps I shall be able to fight them, and drive them out.

12. But God replied to him; Do not go with them, nor curse the People; for they are blessed.

13. Upon this Balaam arose in the Morning, and said to Balak's Princes; Go to your Country, for the Lord refuses to let me go with you.

14. And the Princes of Moab getting ready, and going to Balak, told that Balaam refused to come with them.

15. Balak then sent Princes yet again, more and more honourable than those.

16. Who coming to Balaam, told him that Balak the Son of Zippor said as follows; Be not withheld, I pray, from coming to me;

17. For I will not only honour thee very highly, but do all that thou shalt say to me: come therefore, I beseech thee, curse this People for me.

18. And he made this Answer to Balak's Servants; If Balak would give me his House full of Silver and Gold, I cannot transgress the Command of the Lord my God, by doing less or more;

19. Now therefore be pleased to stay here also to Night, that I may know what the Lord will speak to me further.

20. And at Night God came to Balaam, and said to him; If the Men come to call thee, rise up, go with them; but thou must only do the Thing which I tell thee.

21. However Balaam rose in the Morning, and saddled his Ass, and went with the Princes of Moab.

22. So that God being angry because he went, an Angel of the Lord placed himself in the Way to oppose him; as he rode upon his Ass, having his two Servants with him.

What Balaam had said already, Ver. 18. joined with the Consideration of what he said before, Ver. 13. might well be taken by the Princes for a sufficient Answer: for as he was so positive, that he would not do otherwise than God ordered him, and had declared God would not permit him to go, how could they think God would alter his Mind? Besides those great Men might probably be too much affronted with Balaam's Answer, to wait on him again; and so while he was staying for them, they might have went away in the Morning, if Balaam had done as God commanded: instead of which he might go to them, if not after them; especially as he seems alone, or with the Servants only, when the Angel met him.

24. Next the Lord's Angel stood in a Lane among the Vineyards, where there was a Fence on each Side.

25. Whom the As^s seeing, pressed to the Wall, and squeezed Balaam's Foot against it; who beat her again.

26. Hereupon the Angel of the Lord went further, and stood in a narrow Place, in which there was no Way to turn aside, to the right Hand nor the left.

27. And when the As^s saw him, she lay down under Balaam; incensed at which, he beat her with a Staff.

28. But the Lord opened her Mouth to say to him; What have I done to thee, that thou hast beat me these three times?

29. It was because thou madest sport with me, he answered her; I wish I had a Sword in my Hand, that I might now kill thee.

30. Whereas she replied to him, Am not I thy As^s whom thou hast rode upon ever since I was thine to this Day? Have I been at all used to do so to thee? And he said, No.

31. Then the Lord uncovered Balaam's Eyes, who seeing his Angel stand in the Way, with his Sword drawn forth in his Hand, bowed down on his Face.

32. And the Angel of the Lord said to him; Why didst thou beat thy As^s these three times? Behold I came out to oppose thee, because the Journey is wrong before me.

33. Thus the As^s seeing me, turned aside from my Face each time; unless she had, I should now also have killed thee, and let her live.

34. And Balaam answered him; I have sinned, because I did not know that thou stoodest in the Way to meet me; and now if thou art displeased, I will get me back again.

35. The Angel of the Lord notwithstanding replied to him; Go with the Men, however speak only that which I shall to thee. And Balaam went with the Princes of Balak.

36. When Balak also heard that he was coming, he went out to meet him to a City of Moab, which is upon the Border of Arnon, at the End of the Border.

37. And he said to Balaam, Why wouldest not thou come to me, when I sent to thee so earnestly to call thee? Cannot I indeed dignify thee?

38. But Balaam answered him, Lo can I say any thing of my self now I am come? I must speak the Words which God puts into my Mouth.

39. Nevertheless going with Balak, they came to Kirjath-huzoth.

40. Where Balak killed Oxen and Sheep, and sent for Balaam, and the Princes who were with him.

41. Besides in the Morning he took Balaam, and had him up the high Places of Baal, from whence he might see the Outside of the People.

C H A P. XXIII.

AND Balaam said to him, Build me here seven Altars, and prepare here for me seven Bullocks, and so many Rams.

2. Balak having done as he ordered, they two offered up a Bullock and a Ram on each Altar.

3. Next Balaam said to him, Stand by thy Burnt-offering while I go; perhaps the Lord will meet me, then will I tell thee what he shews me. So he went to a high Place;

4. Reciting to God when he met him, that he had put in order seven Altars, and offered up a Bullock and a Ram on each of them.

5. And the Lord put Words into Balaam's Mouth, bidding him return to Balak, and speak them.

6. At his returning to him, behold he stood by his Burnt-offering, with all the Princes of Moab.

7. And he uttered his Speech as follows; From Syria has Balak the King of Moab brought me, from the Mountains of the East; Come, curse Jacob for me, and come, disdain Israel.

Ver. 30. thine] Noldins in Heb. Concordan. Annot. 2667. from some Jewish Writers, and comparing it with the like Words, Gen. xlviii. 15. as likewise Patrick in Com. would have it ever since thou wast (supplying) a Rider; but as the latter observes, Balaam being now no young Man, it is not likely the As^s had carried him so long, and instead of it my Master may be supplied, which brings it to the same as here rendered; which it may also literally signify.

Ver. 33. should have killed] which the As^s perceived.

Ver. 41. Baal] It seems likely that the Worship of this Idol was taken from the neighbouring Assyrians, who had deified their first King Belus; as Cedrenus writes, pag. 15. οι Ασσυριοι Βααλ δειον ησαν Βηλ μετονομαζοντες, και εωανηδωσαντες οςεσαν, that is the Assyrians call Baal or Bel a god, and worship an Image which they set up.

Ver. 3. high Place] according as the Word is rendered every where else, particularly Jer. iii. 2. and as the Root shews it signifies; notwithstanding Patrick writes "rather, into a Valley."

Ver. 7. uttered] Heb. took up in his Mouth or Lips, Psa. i. 16. & xvi. 4. that is uttered, or pronounced.

8. How shall I curse, whom God has not cursed? And how shall I disdain, the Lord having not disdained?

9. When I see them from the Top of the Rocks, and observe them from the Hills, behold the People dwell alone, and are not reckoned among the Nations.

10. Who can count up the Dust of Jacob, and the Number of the fourth Part of Israel? Let me die the Death of the Upright, and may my End be like his.

11. Upon this Balak said to Balaam; What dost thou do to me? I fetched thee to curse my Enemies, whom behold thou entirely blestest.

12. Must not I, answered he, observe to speak what the Lord puts into my Mouth?

13. Then said Balak to him; Vouchsafe to go with me to another Place, whence thou mayest see them, which thou shalt only their Outside, and not see them all; and curse them for me from thence.

14. So bringing him into the Field of Zophim, to the Beginning of Pisgah, he built seven Altars, and offered up a Bullock and a Ram on each of them.

15. He again said to Balak, Stand here by thy Burnt-offering, while I meet yonder.

16. And the Lord met Balaam, and put Words into his Mouth, bidding him return to Balak, and speak them;

17. To whom when he came, behold he stood by his Burnt-offering, having the Princes of Moab with him, and asked him, what the Lord had spoken?

18. At which he uttered his Speech as follows: Rise up, Balak, and hear, listen to me, thou Son of Zippor.

19. God is not a Man who may lye, or a Son of Man who may repent: Will not he do as he has said? And will not he confirm what he has spoken?

20. Behold I am ordered to bless; and he having blessed, I cannot turn it back.

21. He does not behold Iniquity in Jacob, nor see Perverseness in Israel: the Lord his God is with him; and the Shouting of a King in him.

22. God brought them out of Egypt: he has Strength like an Unicorn.

23. For there is no Soothsaying against Jacob, nor Divination against Israel: what God has done for Jacob and Israel, will be declared according to the Time.

24. Lo the People will get up like a stout Lion, and like a Lion rouse themselves up; not lying down till they have eat the Prey, and drunk the Blood of the Slain.

25. Balak therefore said to Balaam, Neither curse, nor yet bless, them at all.

26. But he made answer to Balak, Did not I tell thee, that I must do all which the Lord speaks?

27. Who replied to him, Come, I pray, let me take thee to another Place: perhaps God will not be displeased, that thou shouldest curse them for me from thence.

28. Thus he had Balaam to the Top of Peor, that faces the Desert.

29. And Balaam said to him, Build me here seven Altars, and prepare here for me seven Bullocks, and so many Rams.

30. Accordingly Balak did as he ordered, and offered up a Bullock and a Ram on each Altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

NOW Balaam seeing that the Lord was pleased he should bless Israel, did not go as the Times before, to meet with Soothsayings; but set his Face towards the Wilderness.

Ver. 9. When] The com. Transf. has For; whereas the Reason of Balaam's not cursing Israel was shewn before, and does not appear to be his seeing them, which was done with a contrary Intent. So Trem. and Jun. with Coslat. quum.

1b. dwell] as Trem. and Jun. have habitat in the present Tense, which the Heb. Verbs wanting is frequently made by the future Form. The Sense may speak for it self.

Ver. 10. Let me die] So Aristippus, who was in several Respects like Balaam, being a Philosopher and wise Man of the best Education, but ingratiated himself with the Tyrant Dionysius for Gain and Honour, wished he might die like his Master Socrates, Diog. Laert. in his Life.

1b. of the Upright] but he died the Death of the Wicked, Ch. xxxi. 8. such as he himself was. Mancini's Advice is therefore good in his Poem of the Cardinal Virtues, viz. Learn to live well, that thou may'st die so too;

To live and die is all we have to do,

Denham's Transf.

Ver. 14. to the Beginning] ad initium, Jun. and Trem. as Chap. xxi. 20. and only the Outside of the Camp was now to be seen, Ver. 13. which does not seem to agree with looking from the Top of Pisgah, Deut. iii. 27. & xxxiv. 1, 2, 3.

Ver. 15. I meet] It being with Soothsayings, Ch. xxiv. 1. and God met him, Ver. 4.

Ver. 21. does not] at that present Time; their former Iniquities having been pardoned, and they punished for them.

Ver. 22. he] Israel, from the preceding Verse, as Ch. xxiv. 8.

Ver. 28. Top of Peor] which might be on the Side of Pisgah towards the Desert, to agree with Ch. xxi. 20.

Ver. 1. Soothsayings] which formerly was the same as Sayings of Truth, and now according to Johnson, Predictions or Telling of Things beforehand, which is suitable here, and as in the com. Transf. Josh. xiii. 22. but enchantments far otherwise, and not belonging to the Lord, whom Balaam consulted, and our Translators add in at Ch. xxiii. 15; which make such another shocking Contradiction as the Lord and Satan doing the same in 2 Sam. ult. & 1 Chron. xxi. so Chap. xxiii. 23.

2. And after he had looked up, and seen Israel remain according to their Tribes, the Spirit of God was upon him,

3. When he uttered his Speech as follows: Balaam the Son of Beor says, even the Man whose Eye is opened does;

4. He that has heard the Sayings of God, who has seen a Vision of the Almighty, falling down with the Eyes uncovered, says;

5. How good are thy Tents, O Jacob! thy Tabernacles, O Israel!

6. They are extended like the Valleys, like Gardens by a River: the Lord has planted them as Aloes, as Cedars by the Waters.

7. The Water will flow out of his Buckets, and his Seed will be in plenty of Water: his King will be exalted above Agag, and his Kingdom be lifted up.

8. God brought him out of Egypt; he has Strength like an Unicorn: he will consume the Nations that are his Adversaries, break their Bones, and smite them with his Arrows.

9. He crouches, he lies down like a Lion, nay like a stout Lion; Who shall rouse him up? He who blesses thee, is blessed; and he that curses thee, cursed.

10. Upon which Balak was incensed at Balaam, and striking his Hands together, said to him; I called thee to curse my Enemies, whom behold thou hast entirely blessed these three times.

11. Therefore get thee gone now speedily to thy Place: I said I would highly dignify thee, but lo the Lord with-holds thee from Dignity.

12. Did not I also tell thy Messengers, replied Balaam to him, when thou sentest to me,

13. That if Balak would give me his House full of Silver and Gold, I could not transgress the Command of the Lord, by doing Good or Bad of my own Mind, I must speak that which the Lord said?

14. And now behold I am going to my People, come, let me advise thee by what this People will do to thine in the latter Days.

15. So he uttered his Speech as follows: Balaam the Son of Beor says, even the Man whose Eye is opened does;

16. He that has heard the Sayings of God, and been acquainted with the Knowledge of the Supreme Being, who has seen a Vision of the Almighty, falling down with the Eyes uncovered, says;

17. I see it, though not now, I observe it, though not near; a Star will come from Jacob, and a Scepter rise from Israel, which will smite the Corners of Moab, and lay waste all the Posterity of Seth.

18. Edom and Seir will both be the Possession of their Enemies, and Israel will do valiantly.

19. One from Jacob will rule, and destroy the Remainder from the City.

20. Next looking at Amalek, he uttered the following Speech; Amalek was the first of the Nations, but its End will be Destruction for ever.

Ver. 3. says] both said when besides now?

Ib. Eye] of his Mind or Understanding perhaps, in Contradistinction to those of the Body, Ver. 4.

Ver. 4. heard] He seems to describe the Manner of his Revelation, to shew the Certainty of it: for his having divine Illuminations, see also Patrick's Append. to Job.

Ib. falling down] at the Sight of the Vision, yet looking to see it.

Ver. 6. planted them] Thus Jun. and Trem. plantavit eos. And the Lord may rather be said to have planted the Israelites, or their Tents in the Camp, as Chap. ii. than those Trees, and not the Cedars, especially as which is added in translating, though not marked.

Ver. 7. The Water will] So in the Vulg. and Tigur. Versions, with those of Munst. Castal. Pagn. and Montan. it is aqua the Subject, not aquam the Object of the Verb, nor is there the Article of the latter in Heb. Our Commentators Pool and Patrick expound as usual from the Eng. Translation, He to be God, as if it was not spoken of the same that the rest of the Verse is.

Ver. 11. said] as Chap. xxii. 17. and the Verb usually signifies.

Ver. 14. advise] His Advice is supposed to be what is mentioned Chap. xxxi. 16. and omitted here. 'The Heb. Word Yaatz constantly signifies to give counsel,' Patrick; see Rev. ii. 14. and Ainsw. Annot.

Ib. by what] q. d. since the Israelites will molest you, I will advise thee how to be beforehand with them.

Ver. 17. I see it] as represented in the Vision.

Ib. not now] not as being now, but to be hereafter: thus Patrick.

Ib. lay waste] The Observation of Prideaux is, that it should not be translated destroy. 'For if the Messiah, says he (who is understood to be meant) were to destroy all the Sons of Men (as those of Seth were after the Flood) where would then his Scepter be?' Correction, Part ii. B. viii. But I must do the Original Text Justice, against the Interpretation he puts upon it from the Jews, shall bear rule over: for קרקר properly signifies to break down Walls, as Isai. xxii. 5. from קיר a Wall, or as Abarbanel says to unwall, in Maschniah Jesnah, f. 7. and so metaphorically lay waste, agreeable to the ancient Latin vastabit. And whereas Prideaux cites the Targum for his Exposition, which has שחית he might have known that Verb sometimes signifies to rush or fall upon, as in the Targum of Judg. viii. 21. 1 Sam. xxii. 17, 18. 2 Sam. i. 15, &c. 'His Place being understood of Christ the spiritual King, his laying waste might be with respect to the Idolatry and Superstition of Mankind, or breaking down the Wall of Partition between Jews and Gentiles, Eph. ii. 14. Nevertheless in the Sense that this Text is restricted to Moab, it seems to be a Prophecy of David, 2 Sam. viii. 2. and the People of that Country might be called the Posterity of Seth, because they were so before the Flood. If our Translators put it shall to make it seem another, it was a very poor Shift.

Ver. 20. first] This seems weakly expounded that Amalek first made war against Israel, especially since Agag is spoken of as such a great King, Ver. 7. who appears to be King of Amalek, by that being the common Name of its Kings, 1 Sam. xv. 8.

21. And looking at the Kenites, he continued his Speech thus; Your Habitation is strong, by making your Nest in a Rock;

22. Yet you will be taken away, till the Assyrians have carried you away captive.

23. He concluded his Speech too with this; Alas, who will live when God does it?

24. Afterwards Ships from the Coast of Chittim, will afflict both Assyria and Eber; and that too will perish for ever.

25. And Balaam getting ready, went back to his Place, and Balak also went his Way.

CHAP. XXV.

THEN Israel staying at Shittim, the People began to commit Fornication with the Women of Moab.

2. Who invited them to the Sacrifices of their gods, and the People eat, and bowed down to them.

3. Israel being thus joined to Baal-peor, the Lord was angry with them:

4. Inasmuch that he said to Moses, Take all the chief of those People, and hang them up to the Lord before the Sun, that the Lord's fervent Anger may be turned away from Israel.

5. So Moses bade the Judges of Israel, each one slay his Men who were joined to Baal-peor.

6. And behold there came a Man of the Israelites, and brought a Woman of Midian near his Brethren, in the Sight both of Moses and the whole Assembly of the Israelites, who were weeping at the Door of the public Tent:

7. Which Phinehas, the Son of Eleazar, the Son of Aaron the Priest, seeing, he rose up from among the Assembly, and took a Spear in his Hand;

8. And going into her Brothel-house after the Man of Israel, he ran both him and the Woman through there. Then was the Plague stopped from the Israelites:

9. In which there died four and twenty thousand.

10. Whereupon the Lord spoke as follows to Moses;

11. Phinehas, the Son of Eleazar, the Son of Aaron the Priest, has turned away my Wrath from the Israelites, so that I have not consumed them in my Zeal, by his being zealous with the same among them.

12. Therefore declare that I give him my Covenant of Peace;

13. Even that of the lasting Priesthood, which he and his Offspring after him shall have; forasmuch as he has been zealous for his God, and made atonement for the Israelites.

14. Now the Name of that Man of Israel, who was slain with the Woman of Midian, was Zimri, the Son of Salu, a Prince of a Father's Household belonging to the Simeonites:

15. And her Name was Cozbi, the Daughter of Zur; he was the Head of one of the Nations, of a Father's Household in Midian.

16. The Lord said further to Moses thus;

17. Assault the Midianites, that you may slay them;

Ver. 22. taken away] according as the Verb is rendered in the same Conjugation, 2 Chron. xix. 3. 1 Kings xiv. 10. & xxi. 21. & xxii. 46. 2 Kings xxiii. 24. Deut. xiii. 5, &c. &c. & xxvi. 13, 14. 2 Sam. iv. 11. and seldom signifies to eat or feed on, then not metaphorically as our Translators took it. Pagn. removendum.

Ib. till &c.] till quite taken away.

Ver. 24. Chittim] Italy or the Roman Empire, as Dan. xi. 30.

Ib. Assyria] being finally subdued, and made a Roman Province by the Emperor Trajan, as Dio relates, Lib. lxxviii.

Ib. Eber] the Hebrews, which was done also by the Romans, as in Josephus, Bel. Jud.

Ib. that too] the Roman Empire it self.

Ver. 1. Shittim] called Abel-shittim Chap. xxxiii. 49. their last Station before they entered Canaan.

Ib. commit] That this was brought to pass through Balaam's Advice, we may learn by Chap. xxxi. 16. Rev. ii. 14. and Josephus has given, or rather framed, his Speech to Balak and the Midianites on this Occasion, Antiq. Lib. iv. 6.

Ver. 4. those] who committed Idolatry: for which the Heb. has the demonstrative ה as Jer. xxiii. 21. Jun. and Trem. have translated, istius populi, of that People.

Ver. 8. her] there being the Pronoun so signifying to the latter Word.

Ib. Brothel-house] It may seem something strange to have two Nouns both alike in the same Verse, one signifying tent and the other belly, as in the com. Trans. whereas Jun. and Trem. have rendered it each Time by lupanar, as the Vulg. Lat. Trans. and Montan. have the former. The Heb. Root may denote it to be an execrable place, which does not appear in the other Words; see Leigh's Crit. Sacr. and Gell's Essay, p. 558.

Ver. 9. four and twenty thousand] a thousand less are meant; as 1 Cor. x. 8. who either might not die the same Day, or be slain as Ver. 4, 5. not by the Plague; see Chap. xxvi. 14.

Ver. 11. with the same] Heb. with my Zeal, my Zeal being the same as just before; not for my sake.

Ver. 13. the lasting Priesthood] that which was given to Aaron's Family, which was called so; not another distinct Priesthood; see of this largely in Shuckford's Connell. Book ii. However as the Priesthood belonged to Phinehas by Birth, this seems to be the high Priesthood, which he should have from among his Brothers, 1 Chron. xxiv. 3, 4. but the Posterity of Ithamar having it some Time, his had not an everlasting Priesthood, but the &c. as above.

Ver. 14, 15. a Father's Household] By such a Father seems to be meant one of the Sons of the first Founder, as Midian had five Sons, Gen. xxv. 4. and five Kings or Heads, Num. xxxi. 8. of which Zur was one.

Ver. 15. Nations] he being a King, Chap. xxxi. 8.

Ver. 17. Assault] use hostility or act like enemies, as the Verb signifies, and the following Words may shew.

M m m

18. Because

18. Because they assault you, with their Contrivances which they made against you in the Affair of Peor, and that of Cozbi their Sister, one of their Prince's Daughters, who was killed on the Day of the Plague that was for the Matter of Peor.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND after the Plague, the Lord ordered Moses, and Eleazar the Son of Aaron the Priest,

2. To take the Sum of the whole Assembly of the Israelites, from their twentieth Year upward, after the Household of their Fathers, being all that were to go out to War of Israel.

3. Accordingly they gave them order in the Plains of Moab, at Jordan against Jericho,

4. That it should be at that Age; as the Lord commanded Moses, and the Israelites who came out of the Country of Egypt.

5. Of the Sons of Reuben the First-born of Israel were, of Enoch the Family of the Enochites, of Phallu the Family of the Phalluites,

6. Of Hezron the Family of the Hezronites, of Carmi that of the Carmites:

7. These being the Families of the Reubenites, and of them there were numbered forty three thousand seven hundred and thirty.

8. And the Sons of Phallu Eliab:

9. Whose Sons were Nemuel, Dathan and Abiram: they being the Dathan and Abiram that were famous in the Assembly, who contended with Moses and Aaron among the Company of Korah, when they contended with the Lord.

10. Upon which the Earth opened its Mouth, and swallowed them up with Korah, when that Company was killed, when the Fire consumed the two hundred and fifty Men, so that they became a Sign.

11. Nevertheless the Children of Korah were not killed.

12. Of the Sons of Simeon after their Families were, of Nemuel the Family of the Nemuelites, of Jamin the Family of the Jaminites, of Jachin the Family of the Jachinites,

13. Of Zerah the Family of the Zarhites, of Saul that of the Saulites:

14. These being the Families of the Simeonites, who were twenty two thousand and two hundred.

15. Of the Sons of Gad after their Families were, of Zephon the Family of the Zephonites, of Haggi the Family of the Haggites, of Shuni the Family of the Shunites,

16. Of Ozni the Family of the Oznites, of Eri the Family of the Erites,

17. Of Arod the Family of the Arodites, of Areli that of the Arelites:

18. These being the Families of the Sons of Gad, of whom were numbered forty thousand and five hundred.

19. Er and Onan, who were the Sons of Judah, dying in the Country of Canaan;

20. Of his Sons after their Families there were of Shelah, the Family of the Shelanites, of Pharez the Family of the Pharezites, of Zerah that of the Zarhites;

21. And of the Sons of Pharez were, of Hezron the Family of the Hezronites, of Hamul that of the Hamulites:

22. These being the Families of Judah, of whom were numbered seventy six thousand and five hundred.

23. Of the Sons of Issachar after their Families were, of Tola the Family of the Tolaites, of Phuvah the Family of the Phunites,

24. Of Jashub the Family of the Jashubites, of Shimron that of the Shimronites:

25. These being the Families of Issachar, of whom were numbered sixty four thousand and three hundred.

26. Of the Sons of Zebulun after their Families were, of Sered the Family of the Sardites, of Elon the Family of the Elonites, of Jahleel that of the Jahleelites:

27. These being the Families of the Zebulunites, of whom were numbered sixty thousand and five hundred.

Ver. 18. the Matter] or Affair, to wit of committing Idolatry with Baal-peor, Ver. 3. proper both to the Heb. and in English.

Ver. 2. take the Sum] this being the third Time of doing it, Exod. xxxviii. 26. Nam. i. 2, 3.

Ver. 5. Enoch] of this and other Names see Gen. xlv.

Ver. 10. with Korah] or and Korah: notwithstanding which Annotators pretend he was burnt, as being with the 250 Men who opposed Aaron in burning Incense; but that Contest seems to have been determined by the Glory of the Lord appearing, &c. Chap. xvi. 19, 20, 21, compared with Ver. 5, 7. before the Earthquake; upon which Korah might go to Dathan and Abiram, and so be swallowed up with them. What can be plainer, when the Scripture tells he was swallowed up, and mentions only 250 Men that were burnt, Chap. xvi. 35. as well as here, of whom he was not one, Chap. xvi. 1, 2, 16, 17? And it is likely that when Moses went to Dathan and Abiram, Chap. xvi. 25. Korah would likewise, to encourage them against him, agreeable to Chap. xvi. 1. there being most Need of his Presence; see Carpzou's Defence of the Heb. Bib. against Whiston, Objec. 16.

Ver. 14. thousand] The great Decrease in this Tribe of 37100, Chap. i. 23. might be partly owing to the Slaughter, perhaps mostly made there, for being like their Prince Zimri, Chap. xxv. 9, 14.

28. Joseph's Sons after their Families being Manasseh and Ephraim;

29. Of Machir the Son of Manasseh was the Family of the Machirites; and Machir begetting Gilead, of him was the Family of the Gileadites.

30. Of these Sons of Gilead were, of Jezer the Family of the Jezerites, of Helek the Family of the Helekites,

31. And of Asriel the Family of the Asrielites, of Shechem too the Family of the Shichmites,

32. As also of Shemida the Family of the Shemidaites, and of Hephher that of the Hephrites.

33. And Zelophehad the Son of Hephher had no Sons, but Daughters, whose Names were, Mahlah and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah.

34. These were the Families of Manasseh, of whom were numbered fifty two thousand and seven hundred.

35. Of the Sons of Ephraim after their Families were these, of Shuthelah the Family of the Shuthalhites, of Becher the Family of the Bachrites, of Tahan that of the Tahanites;

36. Moreover of Eran the Son of Shuthelah was the Family of the Eranites:

37. These being the Families of the Sons of Ephraim, of whom were numbered thirty two thousand and five hundred. The foregoing were the Sons of Joseph after their Families.

38. Of the Sons of Benjamin after their Families were, of Bela the Family of the Balites, of Ashbel the Family of the Ashbelites, of Ahiham the Family of the Ahihamites,

39. Of Shephupham the Family of the Shuphamites, of Hupham that of the Huphamites;

40. And of the Sons of Bela, Ard and Naaman, there were the Family of the Ardites, and of Naaman that of the Naamites.

41. These were the Sons of Benjamin after their Families, and of them were numbered forty five thousand and six hundred.

42. Of the Sons of Dan after their Families were these, of Shuham the Family of the Shuhamites: these being the Families of Dan according to what they were.

43. They who were numbered of the whole Family of the Shuhamites, were sixty four thousand and four hundred.

44. Of the Sons of Asher after their Families were, of Imnah the Family of Imnah, of Ishvi the Family of the Ishvites, of Beriah that of the Beriites;

45. Of the Sons of Beriah were, of Heber the Family of the Hebrites, of Malchiel that of the Malchielites.

46. And the Name of Asher's Daughter was Serah.

47. These were the Families of the Sons of Asher, of whom were numbered fifty three thousand and four hundred.

48. Of the Sons of Naphtali after their Families were, of Jahzeel the Family of the Jahzeelites, of Guni the Family of the Gunites,

49. Of Jezer the Family of the Jizrites, of Shillem that of the Shillemites:

50. These being the Families of Naphtali according to what they were, and of them were numbered forty five thousand and four hundred.

51. The foregoing who were numbered of the Israelites, were six hundred and one Thousand seven hundred and thirty.

52. Then the Lord said to Moses as follows:

53. To these shall the Country be divided for a Possession, by the Number of the Names.

54. The Possession for many shall be made much, and for few little; each one's Possession shall be given according to those who are numbered of him.

55. However the Country shall be divided by Lot, they shall have possession after the Names of the Tribes of their Fathers.

56. According to the Lot shall the Possession of it be divided, betwixt many and few.

57. And these are they who were numbered of the Levites after their Families; of Gershon the Family of the Gershonites, of Kohath the Family of the Kohathites, of Merari that of the Merarites.

58. The Families of the Levites being, the Family of the Libnites, those of the Hebronites, Mahlites, Mushites, and Korehites. Now Kohath begot Amram.

59. And the Name of Amram's Wife was

60. To Aaron also were born, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

61. But Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered strange Fire before the Lord.

62. And those who were numbered of them were twenty three thousand, all the Males from their Month upward: for they were not numbered among the Israelites, because they had a Possession given among them.

63. These are the Numbers of the Israelites, whom Moses and Eleazar the Priest numbered in the Plains of Moab, at Jordan against Jericho.

64. Among whom there was not a Man of those that were numbered by Moses and Aaron the Priest, when they numbered the Israelites in the Wilderness of Sinai.

65. For the Lord said of them, they should quite die in the Wilderness: accordingly there was not a Man of them left, excepting Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the Son of Nun.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND there came the Daughters of Zelophehad, the Son of Hopher, the Son of Gilcad, the Son of Machir, the Son of Manasseh, of the Families of Manasseh the Son of Joseph, whose Names were Mahlah, Nohah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah;

2. And standing before Moses, Eleazar the Priest, the Princes, and the whole Assembly, at the Door of the publick Tent, they said;

3. Our Father died in the Wilderness, and was not among those who came together against the Lord in the Company of Korah; but died in his own Sin, and had no Sons.

4. Why should our Father's Name be taken away from among his Family, because he has no Son? Give us an Inheritance among his Brethren.

5. So Moses brought the Judgment of them before the Lord.

6. Who gave him the following Answer:

7. The Daughters of Zelophehad speak right; give them entirely an Inheritance to possess among their Father's Brethren, and make his Possession pass to them.

8. And thou shalt tell the Israelites thus; When a Man dies having no Son, you shall make his Possession devolve to his Daughter;

9. If he has no Daughter, you shall give it to his Brothers;

10. If he has none, to his Father's Brothers;

11. And if his Father has none, to his Kinsman that is nearest to him of his Family, who shall inherit it: which shall be a Statute of Judgment to the Israelites, as the Lord commanded Moses.

12. And the Lord said to him; Go up on this Mount Abarim, and see the Country that I give to the Israelites;

13. Which when thou hast seen, thou shalt also be gathered to thy People, as thy Brother Aaron was:

14. Since you rebelled in the Wilderness of Zin, in the Strife of the Assembly, against my Command, that you should sanctify me at the Water in their Sight; namely the Water of Meribah at Kadesh, in the Wilderness of Zin.

15. Moses then said to the Lord as follows;

16. Let the Lord God of the Spirits of all Flesh set a Man over the Assembly,

17. Who shall go out and come in before them, having them out, and bringing them in; that the Lord's Assembly may not be like Sheep which have no Shepherd.

18. At this the Lord replied to him; Take thee Joshua the Son of Nun, a Man in whom the Spirit is, and lean thy Hand upon him.

19. Next causing him to stand before Eleazar the Priest, and the whole Assembly, give him command in their Sight.

20. Thou shalt further put some of thy Dignity upon him, that all the Assembly of the Israelites may hearken to him.

21. He shall also stand before Eleazar the Priest, that he may ask for him by the Judgment of Urim before the Lord; at whose Command he shall both go out and come in, and the whole Assembly of the Israelites with him.

22. And Moses did as the Lord commanded him; taking Joshua, and causing him to stand before Eleazar the Priest, and the whole Assembly,

23. Then leaning his Hands upon him, and giving him command; as the Lord ordered by the Ministry of Moses.

Ver. 62. for they] Vulg. qui, who; not unlikely by Corruption of quia, because, which some few Copies have.

Ver. 7. give them] as if they were Sons, the Hebrew Pronoun being masculine.

Ver. 12. Go up] not just now, so that the Command is given again at the Time, Deut. xxxii. 49.

Ver. 20. Dignity] by giving him Authority to govern, and as it seems by Deut. xxxiv. 9. transmitting to him some Capacity for it, with which he was doubtless pretty well endued before.

TO whom he further spoke as follows:

2. Command the Israelites, that they should observe to bring to me in its appointed Time, my Oblation, my Food, for my Sacrifices by Fire of a pleasant Smell to me.

3. And say to them: This is the Sacrifice by Fire which you shall bring to the Lord, two perfect Lambs of the first Year daily, for a continual Burnt-offering.

4. Thou shalt offer one Lamb in the Morning, and the other within the Evening;

5. With the tenth Part of an Ephah of fine Flour for a Meat-offering, tempered with the fourth Part of a Hin of beaten Oil.

6. Which is the continual Burnt-offering that was made at Mount Sinai, for a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

7. Moreover its Drink-offering shall be the fourth Part of a Hin of strong Liquor for one Lamb, which thou shalt pour out to the Lord in the Holy Place.

8. And when thou offerest the other Lamb within the Evening, let it be with a Meat-offering and Drink-offering as in the Morning, for a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord.

9. On the Sabbath Day also there shall be two perfect Lambs of the first Year, and two tenth Parts of fine Flour for a Meat-offering tempered with Oil, and the Drink-offering of the same,

10. This shall be the Burnt-offering of each Sabbath, over and above the continual Burnt-offering, and its Drink-offering.

11. In the Beginnings of your Months also shall you bring for a Burnt-offering to the Lord, two young Bullocks of the Herd, one Ram, seven perfect Lambs of the first Year;

12. With a Meat-offering of three tenth Parts of an Ephah of fine Flour tempered with Oil for a Bullock, one of two tenth Parts of the same for the Ram,

13. And another of a single tenth Part of it for one Lamb: which shall be a Burnt-offering of a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

14. Their Drink-offerings too shall be half a Hin of Wine to a Bullock, the third Part of it to the Ram, and its fourth Part to a Lamb. This shall be the Burnt-offering of each Month throughout the Months of the Year.

15. And there shall be offered a Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering to the Lord, with its Drink-offering, over and above the continual Burnt-offering.

16. Besides on the fourteenth Day of the first Month shall be the Lord's Passover;

17. And the Feast on the fifteenth Day of the same Month; unleavened Bread being eat seven Days.

18. There shall be a holy Assembling on the first Day, you shall do no labouring Business.

19. But you shall bring for a Sacrifice by Fire, a Burnt-offering to the Lord, two young Bullocks, one Ram, and seven Lambs of the first Year, which you shall have perfect;

20. With their Meat-offering of fine Flour tempered with Oil: three tenth Parts of an Ephah you shall offer for a Bullock, two for a Ram;

21. A single one shalt thou for each of the seven Lambs,

22. And one Kid for a Sin-offering, to make atonement for you.

23. These you shall offer, besides the Burnt-offering of the Morning, which is for a continual one.

24. After this manner shall you offer on each of the seven Days, the Food of the Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord, over and above the continual Burnt-offering, and its Drink-offering.

25. And on the seventh Day you shall have a holy Assembling, and do no labouring Business.

26. As also the very same shall you have on the Day of the First-fruits, when you bring a new Meat-offering to the Lord, at the End of your Weeks.

27. You shall likewise bring for a Burnt-offering for a pleasant Smell to the Lord, two young Bullocks, one Ram, seven Lambs of the first Year;

Ver. 2. Food] as Ver. 24. Lev. iii. 11. this seems to be the same with the Oblation, since there is no Conjunction between in the Hebrew, which had they been different, would have been proper to denote it; so that each may comprehend both the Sacrifice by Fire and the Meat-offering, Ver. 3, 5. as the Burnt-offering also does, Ver. 6. and may be called Oblation as offered by Man, and Food as received by God.

Ver. 6. made] as the Word signifies, and not ordained: so Ainsworth renders it; Pagn. factum est, was made; which Montan. only alters into facta, made; in the Tigur. Transl. with those of Munst. and Castal. is quale factum est, such as was made; as in the Targ. of Jonathan, such as was offered; Jun. and Trem. have paratum fuerat, had been prepared; the old Lat. Bib. obtulistis, you offered.

Ib. at] where it was first done.

Ver. 7. strong Liquor] the Word signifying so in general, though here it was Wine, Ver. 14. Exod. xxix. 40.

Ver. 8. with] for so the Lamb was offered, Ver. 5. not as the other Offerings.

Ver. 26. Day of the First-fruits] Look back to Lev. xxiii. 16.

Ib. at the End] as a scarce signifies after, and then would be indeterminate.

Ver. 27. bring] The same Verb as in the Verse before.

28. With their Meat-offering of fine Flour tempered with Oil, three tenth Parts of an Ephab for one Bullock, two for the Ram,

29. A single one for each of the seven Lambs,

30. And one Kid of the Goats, to make atonement for you.

31. Which you shall offer, besides the continual Burnt-offering, and its Meat-offering; you shall have them perfect, with their Drink-offerings.

C H A P. XXIX.

ON the first of the seventh Month also you shall have a holy Assembling, and do no labouring Business; it shall be a Day of the Sounding of Trumpets to you.

2. And you shall offer for a Burnt-offering for a pleasant Smell to the Lord, one young Bullock of the Herd, one Ram, seven perfect Lambs of the first Year;

3. With their Meat-offering of fine Flour tempered with Oil, three tenth Parts of an Ephab for the Bullock, two for the Ram,

4. Moreover one for each of the seven Lambs,

5. And one Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering, to make atonement for you;

6. Besides the Burnt-offering of the Month, with its Meat-offering, and the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and their Drink-offerings, according to the Manner of them, for a pleasant Smell, a Sacrifice by Fire to the Lord.

7. So on the tenth of this seventh Month you shall have a holy Assembling, and afflict your Souls, doing no Business.

8. But you shall bring for a Burnt-offering to the Lord of a pleasant Smell, one young Bullock of the Herd, one Ram, seven Lambs of the first Year, which you shall have perfect;

9. With their Meat-offering of fine Flour tempered with Oil, three tenth Parts of an Ephab for the Bullock, two for the Ram,

10. A single one for each of the seven Lambs,

11. And one Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering; besides the Sin-offering of Atone-ments, and the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and their Drink-offerings.

12. On the fifteenth Day too of the seventh Month you shall have a holy Assembling, and do no labouring Business (but you shall keep a Feast to the Lord seven Days)

13. And you shall bring for a Burnt-offering, a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord, thirteen young Bulls of the Herd, two Rams; fourteen Lambs of the first Year, which shall be perfect;

14. With their Meat-offering of fine Flour tempered with Oil, three tenth Parts of an Ephab for each of the thirteen Bulls, two for each of the two Rams,

15. Moreover a single one for each of the fourteen Lambs;

16. And one Kid of the Goats for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering;

17. Nay on the second Day twelve young Bulls of the Herd, two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

18. With their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bulls, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

19. As also one Kid of the Goats, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and their Drink-offerings;

20. And on the third Day eleven Bulls, two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

21. With their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bulls, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

22. As also one Kid, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering;

23. And on the fourth Day ten Bulls, two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

24. Their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bulls, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

25. As also one Kid of the Goats, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering;

26. And on the fifth Day nine Bulls, two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

27. With their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bulls, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

28. As also one Kid, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering;

29. And on the sixth Day eight Bulls, two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

30. With their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bulls, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

31. As also one Kid, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, its Meat-

Meat-offering, and the Drink-offerings of the same:

32. And on the seventh Day seven Bullocks; two Rams, fourteen perfect Lambs of the first Year;

33. With their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bullocks, Rams and Lambs, by their Number, according to their Manner;

34. As also one Kid, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering.

35. On the eighth Day you shall have a solemn one, doing no labouring Business.

36. And you shall bring a Burnt-offering, a Sacrifice by Fire of a pleasant Smell to the Lord, one Bullock, one Ram, seven perfect Lambs of the first Year;

37. Their Meat-offering and Drink-offerings, for the Bullock, Ram and Lambs, by their Number, according to the Manner;

38. As also one Kid, for a Sin-offering; besides the continual Burnt-offering, with its Meat-offering, and its Drink-offering.

39. These shall you offer to the Lord in your appointed Times; besides your Vows, and Free-offerings of your Burnt-offerings, Meat-offerings, Drink-offerings, and Peace-offerings.

40. And Moses told the Israelites entirely as the Lord commanded him.

CHAP. XXX.

MOSES also spoke to the Heads of the Tribes, for the Israelites, as follows: This is the Thing which the Lord has commanded.

2. When a Man makes a Vow to the Lord, or swears an Oath, to bind his Soul with a Bond, let him not profane his Word; he must do according to all that comes out of his Mouth:

3. And when a Woman makes a Vow to the Lord, and binds her Soul with a Bond in her Father's House, in her Youth;

4. Which her Father hears, and holds his peace at her; then all her Vows, and every Bond with which she binds her Soul, shall be confirmed.

5. But if her Father disallows her on the Day that he hears, none of them shall be confirmed; and the Lord will forgive her, because her Father disallows her.

6. If she has at all a Husband likewise, when her Vows are upon her, or what she pronounces with her Lips, which she binds her Soul with;

7. And her Husband hearing, holds his peace at her on that Day; then her Vows, and her Bond with which she binds her Soul, shall be confirmed.

8. But if her Husband disallows her on the Day that he hears, he shall make void her Vow that is upon her, and what she pronounces with her Lips, which she binds her Soul with; and the Lord will forgive her.

9. Whereas every Vow of a Widow, or of her who is divorced, with which she binds her Soul, shall be confirmed upon her.

10. Nay if she vowed in her Husband's House, or bound her Soul with a Bond by an Oath;

11. And her Husband hearing, held his peace at her, not disallowing her; then all her Vows, and every Bond with which she bound her Soul, shall be confirmed.

12. But if her Husband at all made them void on the Day that he heard, none of that which came out of her Lips, of her Vows, or the Bond of her Soul, shall be confirmed; her Husband having made them void, the Lord will forgive her.

Ver. 31. Drink-offerings] The Word being here plural, as quoted in Buxtorf's Lexicon, as it is in the Concordance, and the Form of it demonstrates. So Pagn. and Montan. libamina; see Ver. 19.

1b. the same] both the Sin-offering and Burnt-offering, which the Hebrew Pronoun may denote though singular, in the Manner of that Tongue especially; and so it might be properly Drink-offerings.

Ver. 33. their Manner] So it is in the Original.

Ver. 35. solemn one] See Lev. xxiii. 36.

Ver. 1. for] Jam. and Trem. ut dicere, that they should tell.

Ver. 2. profane] as the Verb signifies, and as falsifying his Word, especially when it was a Vow, would certainly be; see Gell in Essay, p. 574.

Ver. 6. has] I do not see what our Translators intended by had; or why should this of the Husband be rendered in the past Time, and that of the Father in the present? Had the Women Husbands before they were in their Father's House in their Youth, Ver. 3? And fond is the Conceit of Pools to interpret this, when she was in her Father's House, because there is Mention of being in the Husband's House, Ver. 10. which is of other Sort of Women out of Marriage, Ver. 9. yet Bishop Patrick will follow him, though he would not discredit his Work by quoting a Presbyterian Author.

Ver. 10. in her Husband's House] when they lived together, and the Vow was not performed then.

Ver. 11, 12. These Verses thus in a Manuscript Bible several hundred Years old, If her Husband hearth it, and is still, and gainsaith not her behest, she shall yield whatever thing she becheight; sothely, if the Husband gainsaid her anon, she shall not be holden guilty of the behest: For her Husband againsaid it anon, and the Lord shall be merciful to her; see James's Corruption of the Scripture, &c. by the Prelate, p. 276, 277. But both of them left out of the famous Bible of Pope Sixtus, though restored since.

Ver. 12. at all] according to the com. Transf. Ver. 6. 15. which see explicitly on 1 Kings ix. 6. by which utterly here, and altogether Ver. 14. are wrong, and disagreeable with the other two Verses.

13. Every Vow, and every binding Oath, to afflict the Soul; may be confirmed, or made void, by her Husband.

14. For if he at all holds his peace at her from Day to Day, he confirms all her Vows, or all her Bonds which are upon her; which he does, because he holds his peace at her on the Day that he hears:

15. So that if he at all makes them void afterwards, he shall bear her Iniquity.

16. These are the Ordinances which the Lord commanded Moses, between a Man and his Wife, between a Father and his Daughter in her Youth, being in his House.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND the Lord spoke thus to Moses,
2. Take the Vengeance of the Men of Israel on the Midianites; after which thou shalt be gathered to thy People.

3. Upon this he ordered the People, that some of them should be ready for War, who might be against Midian, to render the Vengeance of the Lord upon it;

4. Sending a thousand of each Tribe to the War, throughout all the Tribes of Israel.

5. Accordingly there were a thousand of a Tribe delivered out of the Thousands of Israel, twelve thousand made ready for War.

6. Whom Moses sent to it, and Phinehas the Son of Eleazar the Priest, with the holy Instruments, and the sounding Trumpets in his Hand.

7. And they going to war against Midian, as the Lord commanded Moses, killed all the Males;

8. As they did along with the rest of them, five Kings of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba: Balaam also the Son of Beor they killed with the Sword.

9. Besides the Israelites took the Women of Midian and their Children prisoners; and all their Cattle, with all that they possessed, even their whole Wealth, they took for plunder.

10. Nay all their Cities in their Habitations, and all their Palaces, they burnt with Fire;

11. Taking the whole Spoil, even all that was to be taken, both of Man and Beast.

12. And they brought the Prisoners, and what was taken, with the Spoil to Moses, Eleazar the Priest, and the Assembly of the Israelites, at the Camp, on the Plains of Moab which are at Jordan against Jericho.

13. But Moses, Eleazar the Priest, and all the Princes of the Assembly, going forth to meet them without the Camp;

14. Moses was in a Wrath with the Officers of the Army, the Captains of Thousands and Hundreds, who came from the Battle of the War;

15. And said to them: Have you let all the Females live?

16. Behold they were to the Israelites, by the Words of Balaam, the means of doing amiss against the Lord in the Matter of Peor; and there was a Plague among the Lord's Assembly.

17. Now therefore kill every Male among the Children, and every Woman who has had the knowledge of a Man by lying with him.

18. But all the Female-children, who have not known lying with a Male, keep alive for your selves.

19. And encamp you without the Camp seven Days; on the third and the seventh Day you shall purify your selves, every one who has killed a Person, or touched the Slain, with your Prisoners,

20. As likewise every Garment, and Thing of Skin, all Work of the Goat, and every wooden Thing.

21. Eleazar the Priest said further to the Men of War, who went to the Battle: This is the Ordinance of the Law which the Lord has commanded Moses;

22. That however the Gold, Silver, Brass, Iron, Tin and Lead,

23. Every Thing which will come through the Fire, you shall make pass through it,

Ver. 2. Midianites] For though the Moabites were in the Guilt, Chap. xxv. 1, 2. Balaam and the Midianites appear to be the Contrivers of it, and so deserved most to be punished, Chap. xxv. 17, 18.

Ver. 5. made ready] So Trem. and Jun. expeditis; which is the Meaning Buxtorf gives the Verb both in his Lexicon and Concordance, but never armed. And in the pres. Bib. it is rendered prepared, Jesh. iv. 13. and ready prepared, 2 Chron. xvii. 18.

Ver. 6. the holy Instruments] which may be deemed most probably to be the Ark and its Utensils, as Jun. and Trem. annotate, arca foederis cum iis quæ ad eam pertinebant; see Chap. xiv. 44. Jesh. vi. 9. 1 Sam. iv. 4. & xiv. 18. since the Urim and Tumim belonged to Elea- zar now the high Priest, who went to meet them, Ver. 13. and that they were the same with the Trumpets is unlikely to me, even though there may be such Expression in some other Places, where the Meaning is plainly so, and therefore that Liberty of Language might be safely taken, which here could not.

Ver. 9. that they possessed] from its Root to possess; and though it is sometimes put for Cattle, as being what was a principal Part of the Possession, in those Ages and Countries, yet never I suppose restricted to Flocks. So Cast. has facultatibus, Montan. acquisitionem.

Ib. Wealth] being a Word of a general, not particular Meaning.

Ver. 14. of the War] omitted in the com. Transf.

that

that it may be clean; yet it must be purified with the Water of Separation; and all which will not come through the Fire, you shall make pass through the Water.

24. You shall wash your Cloaths too on the seventh Day, and be clean, and afterwards come into the Camp.

25. The Lord also said to Moses as follows:

26. Take the Sum of those that are taken Prisoners, both of Man and Beast, thou, and Eleazar the Priest, with the chief Fathers of the Assembly.

27. Then part what is taken equally between those that were engaged in the Battle, who went out to War, and the whole Assembly.

28. And take up a Number for the Lord from the former, one out of five hundred, of the Persons, Herds, Asses and Flocks;

29. Which having taken out of their half give to Eleazar the Priest for the Lord's Lifted-offering.

30. Next from the half of the Israelites thou shalt take one Portion out of fifty, of the Persons, Herds, Asses and Flocks, of all the Cattle, and give them to the Levites who look after the Business of the Lord's Tabernacle.

31. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest did as the Lord commanded the former.

32. Now what was left of the Prey which was taken by the Soldiers, was six hundred and seventy five thousand of the Flocks,

33. Seventy two thousand of the Herds,

34. Sixty one thousand Asses;

35. And all the Persons, namely Females who had not known lying with a Male, were two and thirty thousand.

36. The Sum of half of which, being the Part of those who went out to the War, was three hundred thirty seven Thousand and five hundred of the Flock,

37. Out of which the Lord's Number was six hundred and seventy five;

38. Six and thirty thousand of the Herds, of which the Lord's Number was seventy two;

39. Thirty thousand five hundred Asses, of which the Lord's Number was sixty one;

40. And sixteen thousand Persons, of which the Lord's Number was two and thirty.

41. These Numbers Moses gave for the Lord's Lifted-offering to Eleazar the Priest, as the Lord commanded him.

42. The Israelites half likewise, which he parted from the Men who went to War,

43. Being three hundred thirty seven Thousand and five hundred of the Flocks,

44. Six and thirty thousand of the Herds,

45. Thirty thousand and five hundred Asses,

46. And sixteen thousand Persons;

47. Moses took of it one Portion out of fifty, both of Man and Beast, and gave them to the Levites who looked after the Business of the Lord's Tabernacle, as the Lord commanded him.

48. And those who were Officers to the Thousands of the Army, the Captains of Thousands and Hundreds, came to Moses,

49. And said to him; Thy Servants have taken the Sum of the Men of War who are in our Charge, and there is not a Man of us wanting.

50. We have therefore brought an Offering for the Lord, each what golden Things he has got, Jewels, Bracelets, Rings, Ear-rings, or Girdles, to make atonement for our Souls before the Lord.

51. So Moses and Eleazar the Priest took the Gold of them, all the Things being made.

52. And all the Gold of the Lifted-offering which they offered up to the Lord, of the Captains of Thousands and Hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty Shekels:

53. The Men of War having plundered respectively for themselves.

54. And Moses and Eleazar the Priest, having taken the Gold of the Captains of Thousands and Hundreds, brought it into the publick Tent, for a Memorial for the Israelites before the Lord.

CHAP. XXXII.

NOW the Reubenites and Gadites having a very numerous Multitude of Cattle, and seeing plainly that the Country of Jazer and Gilead, was a Place for Cattle;

2. They came and spoke to Moses, Eleazar the Priest, and the Princes of the Assembly as follows;

Ver. 28. Number] from the Verb to number or sum up, Exod. xii. 4. where a like Noun is also rendered Number; none of those Words having any Signification of Tribute; see Buxt. Lexic. So Ver. 40.

1b. Flocks] as Ver. 30. and as comprehending Goats with the Sheep.

Ver. 32. what was left] being not killed of the Cattle for the Soldiers Provision, nor of the Persons in the Battle and Slaughter, Ver. 17.

Ver. 50. Girdles] as Exod. xxxv. 22.

3. Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elaleh, Shebam, Nebo and Beon,

4. The Country that the Lord smote before the Assembly of Israel, is a Country for Cattle, which thy Servants have;

5. If we are then in thy Favour, said they, let it be given to thy Servants for a Possession; make us not pass over Jordan.

6. Whom Moses answered: Shall your Brethren go to War, and you abide here?

7. And why will you discourage the Hearts of the Israelites, from passing over into the Country which the Lord has given them?

8. Your Fathers did thus, when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to see it.

9. Who went up to the Brook of Eshcol, and having seen the Country, disheartened the Israelites from going into it, which the Lord gave them.

10. Upon which the Lord was angry at that Time, and sware,

11. That the Men who came up from Egypt, from their twentieth Year upward, should not see the Country of which he had sworn to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, because they did not follow him fully;

12. Besides Caleb the Son of Jephunneh the Kenizite, and Joshua the Son of Nun, because they did.

13. And the Lord being angry with Israel, made them wander in the Wilderness forty Years, till all the Generation who had done that which displeased him were consumed.

14. And behold you are risen up in the room of your Fathers, an Increase of sinful Men, to make a farther Addition to the fervent Anger of the Lord against Israel.

15. For should you turn back from following him, he might yet again leave them in the Wilderness; so would you destroy all this People.

16. But they going nigh to him, said; We will build Folds for our Cattle here, and Cities for our Children.

17. Nevertheless we will be ready speedily to be before the Israelites, till we have brought them to their Place; and our Children shall abide in fortified Cities, by reason of the Inhabitants of the Country.

18. We will not come back to our Homes, till the Israelites have had their several Possessions.

19. Though we will have none with them any where beyond Jordan, because our Possession is come to us on this Side of it eastward.

20. With that Moses replied to them; If you will do this Thing, if you will be ready for War before the Lord,

21. And will all of you pass over Jordan so, till he has driven away his Enemies from his Face,

22. And the Country is subdued before him; you may afterwards return, and shall be blameless both with the Lord and Israel, and this Country shall be your Possession before the Lord.

23. But if you will not do so, behold you sin against the Lord; therefore acknowledge your Sin, which will find you out.

24. Build you Cities for your Children, and Folds for your Flocks; but do what has come out of your Mouth.

25. And the Gadites and Reubenites said thus to Moses; Thy Servants will do as our Lord commands.

26. Our Children, our Wives, what we possess, with all our Cattle, shall abide there in the Cities of Gilead.

27. But thy Servants will pass over every one ready for War, before the Lord to Battle, as our Lord says.

28. So Moses commanded Eleazar the Priest, Joshua the Son of Nun, and the chief Fathers of the Tribes of the Israelites, concerning them,

29. To whom he said, If the Gadites and Reubenites will pass over Jordan with you, every one ready for Battle before the Lord, and the Country shall be subdued before you, then shall you give them the Province of Gilead for a Possession:

30. But if they will not, they shall be Possessors among you in the Country of Canaan.

31. The Gadites and Reubenites too made answer; We will do according to what the Lord has spoken concerning thy Servants:

32. We will go on ready before the Lord into the Country of Canaan, that we may have the Inheritance of our Possession on this side Jordan.

33. Moses then gave to the Gadites, Reubenites, and to the half Tribe of Manasseh, the Son of Joseph, the Kingdom of Sihon

King of the Amorites, and that of Og King of Bashan, the Country with the Cities of the same in the Borders round about.

34. And the Gadites built Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer,

35. Atroth, Shopan, Jazer, Jogbehah,

36. Beth-nimrah and Beth-haran, fortified Cities, with Folds for Flocks.

37. Moreover the Reubenites built Heshbon, Elale, Kirjathaim,

38. Nebo, Baal-meon, the Names being altered, and Shibmah; for they gave other Names to the Cities which they built.

39. The Posterity of Machir also the Son of Manasseh went to Gilead, and took it, and drove away the Amorites who were in it.

40. Therefore Moses gave Gilead to Machir the Son of Manasseh, and he dwelt in it.

41. And Jair the Descendant of Manasseh, went, and took their Towns, which he called The Towns of Jair.

42. Nobah went likewise, and took Kenath, with its Villages, and called it by his own Name Nobah.

C H A P. XXXIII.

THESE are the Journeys of the Israelites which they went out of the Country of Egypt by their Armies, in the Charge of Moses and Aaron.

2. Which Journeys of theirs Moses wrote down at the Command of the Lord, according as they went on, and those were as follow:

3. First they marched from Rameses on the fifteenth Day of the first Month, the next Day after the Passover, going out with a high Hand in the Sight of all the Egyptians;

4. Who buried all the First-born, that the Lord slew among them, and he executed Judgments on their gods.

5. And the Israelites marching from Rameses, encamped at Succoth,

6. And marching from Succoth, they encamped at Etham, which is at the End of the Wilderness.

7. Then they marched from Etham, and turning back by the Mouth of Hiroth, which is over against Baal-zephon, they encamped before Migdol.

8. They also marched from before Hiroth, and passing through the midst of the Sea into the Wilderness, went three Days Journey in that of Etham, and encamped at Marah.

9. Next they marched from Marah, and coming to Elim, where were twelve Fountains of Water, and seventy Palm-trees, they encamped there.

10. And marching from Elim, they encamped by the Red Sea.

11. And marching from the Red Sea, they encamped in the Wilderness of Sin.

12. And marching from the Wilderness of Sin, they encamped at Dophkah.

13. And marching from Dophkah, they encamped at Alush.

14. And marching from Alush, they encamped at Rephidim; where there was not Water for the People to drink.

15. And marching from Rephidim, they encamped at the Wilderness of Sinai.

16. And marching from the Wilderness of Sinai, they encamped at Kibroth-hattaavah.

17. And marching from Kibroth-hattaavah, they encamped at Hazeroth.

18. And marching from Hazeroth, they encamped at Rithmah.

19. And marching from Rithmah, they encamped at Rimmon-parez.

20. And marching from Rimmon-parez, they encamped at Libnah.

21. And marching from Libnah, they encamped at Rissah.

22. And marching from Rissah, they encamped at Kehelathah.

23. And marching from Kehelathah, they encamped at Mount Shapher.

24. And marching from Mount Shapher, they encamped at Haradah.

25. And marching from Haradah, they encamped at Makheloth.

Ver. 1. which they] The Antecedent to the Relative being most probably the Journeys, as they are the Subject of the Relation, and particularly mentioned in the next Verse, besides that the referring which to the People makes a Sort of Redundancy or Superfluity in the Account. So Castalis renders, Sequitur jam de itineribus quae Israelitae fecerunt, Now there follows concerning the Journeys which the Israelites made.

29. And marching from Mithkah, they encamped at Hashmonah.

30. And marching from Hashmonah, they encamped at Moseroth.

31. And marching from Moseroth, they encamped with the Jaakanites.

32. And marching from the Jaakanites, they encamped at Hor-hagidgad.

33. And marching from Hor-hagidgad, they encamped at Jotbathah.

34. And marching from Jotbathah, they encamped at Abronah.

35. And marching from Abronah, they encamped at Ezion-geber.

36. And marching from Ezion-geber, they encamped in the Wilderness of Zin, which is that of Kadesh.

37. And marching from Kadesh, they encamped at Mount Hor, at the End of the Country of Edom.

38. On which Mount Aaron the Priest went up at the Command of the Lord, and died there, in the fortieth Year of the Israelites coming out of the Country of Egypt, on the first of the fifth Month;

39. Aaron being in his hundred and twenty third Year when he died on Mount Hor.

40. And the Canaanite King of Arad, who dwelt in the South of the Country of Canaan, heard of the coming of the Israelites.

41. Who marched from Mount Hor, and encamped at Zalmonah.

42. And marching from Zalmonah, they encamped at Punon.

43. And marching from Punon, they encamped at Oboth.

44. And marching from Oboth, they encamped at the Heaps of Abarim, in the Border of Moab.

45. And marching from the Heaps, they encamped at Dibon-gad.

46. And marching from Dibon-gad, they encamped at Almon-diblathaim.

47. And marching from Almon-diblathaim, they encamped at the Mountains of Abarim, before Nebo.

48. And marching from the Mountains of Abarim, they encamped on the Plains of Moab, at Jordan against Jericho,

49. Even from Beth-jeshimoth to Abel-shittim.

50. Where the Lord bade Moses,

51. To speak to the Israelites, and say to them: When you are passed over Jordan into the Country of Canaan,

52. You shall drive away all the Inhabitants of it from your Presence, and cause all their Effigies to perish, as you shall all their molten Images, and destroy all their Chapels.

53. And when you have driven them out of the Country, you shall dwell in it: for I give it you to inherit it.

54. You shall possess it by Lot after your Families, and the Tribes of your Fathers, making the Possession for many much, and for few little, the Lot for each being where it comes out for him.

55. But if you drive not away the Inhabitants of the Country from your Presence, those whom you leave of them will be Thorns in your Eyes, and pricking Goads in your Sides, and will distress you in the Country where you dwell.

56. Nay I my self will do to you, as I thought to do to them.

Ib. Chapels] They could not throw down the Mountains, says Patrick; and Poole, the Hills themselves could not be destroyed by them. The Assemblies Annotation explains it thus, That is, Idolatrous Chapels. And Castal. renders it facella, Chapels; Munst. arat, Altars; as Buxt. in his Lexic. gives the Meaning of the Heb. Word, Sacellum, Ara idolorum; and according to Job. Mercer in Pagnin. Thesaur. significat Sacellum seu Altare, it signifies a Chapel or Altar. Besides we read of building or making the same, 2 Kings xxi. 3. & xxiii. 15. 2 Chron. xxxiii. 3, 19. Jer. xix. 5. even on a Hill or Hills, 1 Kings xi. 7. & xiv. 23. and in the Cities, 2 Kings xvii. 9, 29. & xxiii. 5, 19. nay in a Valley, Jer. vii. 31. & xxxii. 35. and of their being removed and taken away, 1 Kings xv. 14. 2 Kings xii. 3. & xiv. 4. & xv. 4, 35. 2 Chron. xv. 17. & xvii. 6. & xx. 33. destroyed, Ezek. vi. 3. broke down, 2 Kings xxiii. 8, 15. and burnt, 2 Kings xxiii. 15. with making a House of them, 1 Kings xii. 31. 2 Kings xxiii. 19. which are quite inconsistent with their being Hills. C H A P. XXXIV.

AND the Lord told Moses,

2. That he should give the Israelites these Directions: When you are come into the Country of Canaan, the same which shall fall to you for a Possession, with the Confines of it;

3. Your south Side shall be at the Wilderness of Zin, by the Bounds of Edom, and at the End of the Salt Sea eastward.

4. And your Border shall turn about on the South to the Ascent of Akrabbim, and pass on to Zin, and the going out of it on the South shall be at Kadesh-barnea; then going forth to Hazar-addar, it shall pass on to Azmon;

5. From thence it shall turn about to the River of Egypt, and its going out shall be at the Sea.

6. Moreover your west Border shall be the great Sea.

7. From whence you shall make your north Border to Mount Hor,

8. Thence to the Entrance of Hamath, and the going out of it shall be at Zedad;

9. Next it shall go along to Ziphron, and its going forth shall be at Hazar-enan.

10. Besides you shall make your east Border from thence to Shepham;

11. From thence it shall go down to Riblah on the East of Ain, and reach down to the Side of the Sea of Cinnereth eastward;

12. So it shall go down to Jordan, and the going out of it shall be at the Salt Sea. This shall be your Country, with the Frontiers of it round about.

13. And Moses ordered the Israelites as follows; This is the Country which you shall possess by Lot, which the Lord commanded to be given to the nine Tribes and the half:

14. Since the Tribes of the Reubenites and Gadites, throughout the Households of their Fathers, and half the Tribe of Manasseh have received their Possession;

15. Which they did on this side Jordan against Jericho, eastward towards the Sun-rising.

16. The Lord further said thus to Moses:

17. These are the Names of the Men who shall appoint the Possession of the Country for you; Eleazar the Priest, and Joshua the Son of Nun.

18. You shall likewise take one Prince of each Tribe to do it;

19. Whose Names are these: Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, of the Tribe of Judah;

20. And Shemuel the Son of Ammihud, of the Tribe of the Simeonites;

21. Elidad the Son of Chislon, of the Tribe of Benjamin;

22. And Bukki the Son of Jogli, Prince of the Tribe of the Danites;

23. Of the Posterity of Joseph, Hanniel the Son of Ephod, Prince of the Tribe of the Manassehites;

24. And Kemuel the Son of Shiptan, Prince of the Tribe of the Ephraimites;

25. Elizaphan also the Son of Parnach, Prince of the Tribe of the Zebulunites;

26. And Paltiel the Son of Azzan, Prince of the Tribe of the Issacharites;

27. With Ahihud the Son of Shelomi, Prince of the Tribe of the Asherites;

28. And Pedahel the Son of Ammihud, Prince of the Tribe of the Naphtalites.

29. These were they whom the Lord commanded, to appoint the Possession for the Israelites in the Country of Canaan.

C H A P. XXXV.

BESIDES the Lord spoke to Moses on the Plains of Moab, at Jordan against Jericho, as follows:

2. Command the Israelites that they should give the Levites Cities out of the Possession of their Inheritance to dwell in, and Suburbs to the same round about them.

3. The Cities being for them to dwell in, whose Suburbs shall be for their Cattle, Substance, and all their Beasts.

4. Now the Suburbs of the Cities which you shall give them, shall be a thousand Cubits outward from the Wall of the City round about.

5. You shall also measure without the City two thousand Cubits on each Side, East, South, West and North, and the City shall be in the Middle: this shall be the Suburbs of the Cities for them.

6. And among the Cities which you give to the Levites, there shall be six for Refuge, that the Man-slayer may flee thither; to which you shall put two and forty others.

7. All the Cities which you shall give them shall be eight and forty, with their Suburbs.

8. And the same shall be of the Inheritance of the Israelites; out of many you shall give many, and few out of few: each shall give them of his Cities, according to his Possession which he has.

9. Moreover the Lord ordered Moses,

Ver. 4. on] this and the two contiguous Verses describing the south Side.

Ver. 5. without the City] The Suburbs being counted

VOL. I.

Part of the City, so that the Extent was 3000 Cubits without the Wall; see Maimon. as quoted by Ainsw.

10. To speak to the Israelites in the following manner: When you are passed over Jordan into the Country of Canaan,

11. You shall bring it to pass that you may have Cities of Refuge, whither the Man-slayer may flee who kills a Person by Mistake.

12. Which shall be such Cities to you from the Revenger, that the Man-slayer may not die, till he stand before the Assembly for Judgment.

13. And there shall be six of them for you, of these which you give.

14. Of which three shall be on this side Jordan, and three in the Country of Canaan.

15. These six Cities shall be for Refuge to the Israelites, and to the Stranger and Sojourner among them, that any one who kills a Person by Mistake may flee thither.

16. Yet if he strike him with an Instrument of Iron, so that he dies, he is a Murderer, who shall be quite put to death:

17. And the same shall he, if he strikes him with a Stone,

18. Or an Instrument of Wood, with the Hand, by which he may, and does die.

19. The Revenger of Blood himself may kill the Murderer, when he meets with him.

20. So he may him who thrusts one down in Hatred, or throws at him designedly,

21. Or strikes him with his Hand in Enmity, so that he dies: for the Striker shall be quite put to death, being a Murderer.

22. But if he thrusts him down on a sudden without Enmity, or throws any Thing upon him not designedly;

23. Or should it be any Stone that falls upon him, by which he may, and does die, the other neither seeing him, being his Enemy, nor seeking his Hurt;

24. Then the Assembly shall judge between the Striker and Revenger of Blood, by these Judgments.

25. And they shall deliver the Man-slayer out of the Power of the Revenger of Blood, and restore him to the City of his Refuge whither he fled; in which he shall abide till the Death of the high Priest, who is anointed with the holy Oil.

26. However if he does at all come out of the Bounds of that City,

27. And the Revenger of Blood finds him there, and slays him, no Blood shall be chargeable to him;

28. Because the other should abide in the City of his Refuge till the high Priest's Death, after which he may return to the Country of his Possession.

29. And these Things shall be a Statute of Judgment to you throughout your Generations, in all your Dwellings.

30. Every Murderer who kills a Person, shall be slain by the Evidence of the Witnesses; but one Witness shall not testify against a Person, so as to put him to death.

31. You shall take no Ransom for the Life of a Murderer, who is so wicked that he must die; for he shall be quite put to death;

32. Nor shall you for him, who flees to the City of his Refuge, to dwell again in the Country, till the Death of the Priest:

33. That you may not pollute the Country which you are in, for Blood will do it; nor can the Country be purged of the Blood which is shed in it, but by him who sheds it.

34. And thou shalt not defile the Country that you inhabit, within which I dwell: for I the Lord dwell amongst the Israelites.

C H A P. XXXVI.

AND the chief Fathers belonging to the Families of the Posterity of Gilead, the Son of Machir, Manasseh's Son, of the Families of Joseph's Posterity, came near, and spoke before Moses, and the Princes, the chief Fathers of the Israelites,

2. And said; The Lord having commanded our Lord to give the Country for a Possession by Lot to the Israelites, he was commanded by the Lord to give the Estate of Zelophehad our Brother to his Daughters.

3. Now should they be Wives to some of the Men of the other Tribes of the Israelites, their Estate would be taken away from that of the Tribe of our Fathers, and the Lot of our Possession, and be added to the Estate of the Tribe to which they belong.

4. Nay even when the Jubile of the Israelites is, it will be the very same.

5. And Moses told the Israelites at the Command of the Lord, that the Tribe of the Posterity of Joseph spoke right:

Ver. 17. strikes him] No throwing in the Original.

Ver. 20. So] But in the com. Transf. being quite contrary, as the Cases are parallel.

Ver. 31. wicked] so the Heb. and not guilty.

1b. die] a Verb, not a Noun.

Ver. 34. thou shalt not] So the Heb. with the Liberties and Turns of that Language, as in other Places.

Ver. 3. to which they belong] So the Original is rightly and properly translated, having no Signification of received.

6. What follows being the Matter which the Lord ordered concerning the Daughters of Zelophehad; Let them be Wives to whom they please, so it be in the Family of the Tribe of their Father.

7. For the Possession of the Israelites will not go about from Tribe to Tribe, when each of them cleaves to that of the Tribe of his Fathers.

8. Every Daughter therefore who inherits an Estate of the Tribes of the Israelites, shall be Wife to one of the Family of her Father's Tribe; that the Israelites may respectively inherit the Possession of their Fathers.

9. So an Estate will not go about from one

Tribe to another, when the several Tribes of the Israelites cleave to their own.

10. As the Lord commanded Moses, so the Daughters of Zelophehad did.

11. For Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah and Nohah, his Daughters, became Wives to their Uncle's Sons;

12. Of the Families of the Posterity of Manasseh, Joseph's Son, by which their Estate remained in the Tribe of their Father's Family.

13. These are the Commandments and Rules, which the Lord gave the Israelites in charge by the Ministry of Moses, on the Plains of Moab, at Jordan against Jericho.

Ver. 6. Family] that Branch of the Tribe to which they belonged, as Ver. 8. and as was done, Ver. 11.

Ver. 8. Every Daughter] that was an Heiress or Co-heiress; for this Law was to prevent Estates being transferred to another Family or Tribe.

Ver. 12. Tribe of] Patrick says, it may be rightly translated Tribe, and; but besides that there is no Partition, nor any thing for [and] in Heb. the Word is in the constructed Form for the Genitive Case. And the Sense is good, being the Tribe of Manasseh to which their Father's Family belonged, Ver. 1. from which the Estate was not taken away, agreeable to Ver. 3, 7.

NOTES upon the Book called DEUTERONOMY.

C H A P. I.

TH E S E are the Words which Moses spoke to all Israel, on this side Jordan in the Wilderness, on the Plain over against Suph, between Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth and Di-zahab ;

2. There being eleven Days Journey from Horeb, by the Way of Mount Seir, to Kadesh-barnea.

3. Even in the fortieth Year, on the first of the eleventh Month, did Moses speak to the Israelites, entirely as the Lord commanded him for them ;

4. After he had slain Sihon King of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and Og King of Bashan, who dwelt in Ashtaroth, at Edrei.

5. On this side Jordan in the Country of Moab, was Moses pleased to declare this Law as follows.

6. The Lord our God spoke to us thus in Horeb ; You have dwelt a great deal on this Mountain :

7. Turn about, take your journey, and go to the Mountain of the Amorites, and to all its neighbouring Places, on the Plain, on the Mountain, and in the Vale, as also in the South, and at the Harbour of the Sea ; the Country of the Canaanites, and Lebanon, as far as the great River, the River Euphrates.

8. See, I have put the Country before you ; go in, and possess the same which the Lord swore to your Forefathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that he would give them, and their future Offspring.

9. And I spoke thus to you at that Time ; I am not able to bear you alone :

10. The Lord your God having multiplied you, so that behold you are this Day as the Stars of Heaven for Multitude ;

11. (The Lord God of your Fathers add to you a thousand times as many as you are, and bless you according as he has told you)

12. How can I alone bear the Fatigue of you, your Burden and Strife ?

13. Provide you wise Men, even such as understand and know of your Tribes, that I may put them for the chief of you.

14. And upon your making me this answer, The Matter which thou speakest to be done is good ;

15. I took the chief of your Tribes, wise and knowing Men, whom I made the chief over you, Captains of Thousands, with those of Hundreds, Fifties and Tens, as well as Magistrates of your Tribes.

16. Besides I gave your Judges at the same Time the following Charge ; Hear between your Brethren, and judge righteously between one Man and another, as also his Sojourner.

17. You shall not acknowledge Faces in Judgment, shall hear the little the same as the great, not be afraid of any one's Face, since the Judgment is God's ; and the Matter which is too hard for you, bring to me, that I may hear it.

18. And at that Time I commanded you all the Things which you should do.

19. After this we marched from Horeb, and went through all that great and terrible Wilderness which you saw, by the Way of the Mountain of the Amorites, as the Lord our God commanded us ; and we came to Kadesh-barnea.

20. When I said to you ; You are come to the Mountain of the Amorites, which the Lord our God gives us.

21. See, the Lord thy God has put the Country before thee : go up, inherit, as the Lord God of thy Fathers has spoken to thee ; do not fear, nor be daunted.

22. And all of you came near to me, and proposed, Let us send Men before us, that they may search the Country for us, and bring us back Word in what Way we should go up, and into what Cities we should enter.

23. Which Thing pleasing me, I took twelve Men from you, one Person of a Tribe ;

24. Who turned, and ascended the Mountain, and went to the Brook of Eshcol, spying it.

Ver. 1. Suph] This is quite unlikely to be the Red Sea, which was a vast Way off, and there is not Sea in Heb. Ver. 40. and elsewhere for it. Of the same Opinion see Lightfoot, Poole and Patrick ; and so the original Word is given in the Version of Pagn. and Montan. with that of Jun. and Trem. latter Edit.

Ver. 5. pleased] So is this Verb rendered 1 Sam. xli. 22. 1 Chron. xvii. 27. 2 Sam. vii. 29. having never any Signification like began.

Ver. 24. Brook] As Num. xiii. 23, 24. being the same Hebrew Word.

25. And they took some of the Fruit of the Country with them, and brought down to us, as also brought us back Word, that the Country is good which the Lord our God gives us.

26. Nevertheless you would not go up, but rebelled against the Command of the Lord your God;

27. And murmuring in your Tents, said; Through the Lord's Hatred to us, he has brought us out of the Country of Egypt, to deliver us into the Power of the Amorites, to destroy us.

28. Whither should we go up? Our Brethren having made our Hearts faint, by saying, The People are greater and taller than we, the Cities great and fortified to Heaven, and we also saw the Sons of the Anakites there.

29. However I encouraged you; Be in no dread nor fear of them.

30. The Lord your God who goes before you will fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your Eyes;

31. As likewise what thou hast seen in the Wilderness, how the Lord thy God carried thee as a Man does his Child, all the Way which you went, till you came to this Place.

32. Yet in this Thing you did not believe in the Lord your God;

33. Who went before you in the Way, to find out a Place for you to encamp in, with Fire at Night to shew you in what Way you should go, and with a Cloud by Day.

34. And the Lord hearing your Words pronounced, was in a Wrath, and sware thus;

35. Not a Person among these Men of this evil Generation shall see the good Country, which I sware to your Forefathers I would give:

36. Excepting Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, who shall see it, and to him will I give the Country which he has trod on, and to his Posterity, because he follows the Lord entirely.

37. The Lord was likewise angry with me for your sakes, and said; Thou also shalt not enter in there.

38. Joshua the Son of Nun, who stands before thee; shall enter in thither: strengthen him, for it is he shall make Israel possess it.

39. As to your little ones, who you complained would be a Prey, even your Children who now know not either Good or Evil, they shall go in thither, and to them will I give it, that they may inherit it.

40. But do you turn your selves about, and march into the Wilderness, the Way to the Red Sea.

41. Then you made me this answer, We have sinned against the Lord, we will go up and fight, entirely as the Lord our God has commanded us; and girding on each his Weapons of War, you were ready to go up the Mountain.

42. Upon which the Lord said to me; Bid them not go up, nor fight, since I am not among you, that you may not be smitten before your Enemies.

43. Accordingly I spoke to you, yet you would not hearken, but rebelling against the Lord's Command, you behaved proudly, and went up on the Mountain.

44. Whereas the Amorites who dwelt on that Mountain coming forth to meet you, pursued you as Bees do, and beat you in Scir to Hormah.

45. So you returned, and wept before the Lord; but he would not hearken to what you said, nor give ear to you.

46. Afterwards you abode at Kadesh many Days, as those which you staid were.

CHAP. II.

WE then turned about, and marched into the Wilderness, the Way to the Red Sea, as the Lord ordered me; and compassed Mount Scir many Days.

2. At length the Lord said to me as follows:

3. You have compassed this Mountain a great deal; turn your selves about northward.

4. And command thou the People thus; You are about to pass at the Bounds of your Brethren the Posterity of Esau, who dwell in Scir, and as they will be afraid of you, take great heed,

5. Not to make war with them: for I will

Ver. 39. now] for this was what the Lord said; and the Words of the com. Transf. in that day had spoil the Sense.

Ver. 42. Bid them not] For according to the presf. Eng. it may be seen that I am is Moses, which none that I know of pretends to be so.

Ver. 46. as those—were] For what Sense is our com. Reading?

Ver. 1. Mount Scir] Which was so near as to be within Sight where Jerusalem stood, as shewn on Psa. cxxv. 2.

Ver. 3. a great deal] I do not find that בְּרַב signifies enough, much less long enough. In a Specimen of Ambrrose Usher's Transf. in MS. made before the present, is inogh, he being Archbishop Usher's elder Brother, Lewis's Hist. of the Transf. p. 340.

Ver. 4. at] 'They did not pass through the Coast of Edom, as we translate it,' writes Patrick; see Num. xx. 21. where the Noun for Bounds is the same.

not give you any of their Country, so far as to tread the Sole of the Foot on, because I have given Mount Seir an Inheritance to Esau.

6. You shall buy Food of them for Money, that you may eat; and also purchase Water of them for Money, that you may drink.

7. For the Lord thy God has blessed thee in all the Work of thy Hand, he has known thy going through this great Wilderness: these forty Years the Lord thy God having been with thee, thou hast wanted Nothing.

8. And when we passed from our Brethren the Posterity of Esau who dwelt in Seir, from the Way of the Plain, from Elath and Eziongeber, we turned about, and passed the Way of the Wilderness of Moab.

9. The Lord likewise said to me; Thou shalt not distress the Moabites, nor make war with them: for I will not give thee an Inheritance of their Country, because I have given Ar an Inheritance to the Posterity of Lot.

10. Wherein the Emmites dwelt heretofore, a People great, many and tall, like the Anakites.

11. They were also counted Giants like the Anakites, and the Moabites called them Emmites.

12. The Horites too dwelt in Seir heretofore, but the Posterity of Esau succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from their Presence, and dwelt in their room; as Israel has done to the Country of his Inheritance, which the Lord gave them.

13. Now get ready, pass you over the Brook Zered: which we did accordingly.

14. And the Time which we were going from Kadesh-barnea, until we passed over the Brook Zered, was thirty eight Years; till the whole Generation of the Warriors was consumed from within the Camp, as the Lord sware to them.

15. For even the Hand of the Lord was against them, to rout them from within the Camp, till they were consumed.

16. And when all the Warriors were consumed, by dying from among the People,

17. Then the Lord spoke to me as follows:

18. Thou art passing to Day by Ar, the Bounds of Moab.

19. When thou comest near over against the Ammonites, do not distress them, nor make war with them: for I will not give thee an Inheritance of the Ammonites Country, because I have given it an Inheritance to the Posterity of Lot.

20. A Country of Giants that was likewise counted, Giants dwelling in it heretofore, whom the Ammonites called Zamzummites;

21. A People great, many and tall, like the Anakites; but the Lord destroyed them from their Presence, so that they succeeded them, and dwelt in their room.

22. As he did for the Posterity of Esau that dwell in Seir, from whose Presence he destroyed the Horites, so that they succeeded them, and have dwelt in their room to this Day.

23. As for the Avites, that dwelt in Hazerim as far as Gaza, the Caphtorites who came out of Caphtor destroyed them, and dwelt in their room.

24. Get ready, march, and pass over the River Arnon; see, I deliver into thy Power Sihon the Amorite King of Heshbon, and his Country: begin to inherit, and make war with him.

25. This Day will I begin to put the Dread and Fear of thee, upon the Persons of the People under the whole Heaven, who hearing the News of thee, shall tremble, and be in anguish by reason of thee.

26. And I sent Messengers from the Wilderness of Kedemoth, to Sihon King of Heshbon, with these peaceable Words;

27. Let me pass through thy Country; I will go all along in the Way, neither turning aside to the right Hand, nor the left.

28. Thou shalt sell me Food for Money, that I may eat; and give me Water for Money, that I may drink: only let me pass through on my Feet;

29. (As the Posterity of Esau who dwell in Seir, and the Moabites who dwell in Ar,

Ver. 7. For] God will provide Necessaries for you, as it is he who has done it all along: in which Manner I also find it expounded by Jun. and Trem. in Annot. The Exposition of Poole and Patrick, that the Israelites were able or had wherewith to buy, falls short of what is expressed that they wanted nothing, nor does it appear that they got Money in the Wilderness. But Patrick asserts another Meaning, that they should not molest the Edomites, because they were in no Need: which if it had been a Reason, would have been of a general Kind against their molesting any People; and [for] must so be referred to the 5th Verse, where as there is another Reason given, this would likely have been put if it had belonged to that.

Ver. 13. get ready] Not said I, but said the Lord is to be understood from Ver. 9. however our Translators have made no such Addition, Ver. 24. where it is to be understood from Ver. 19. after a longer Digression.

Ver. 18. by] The Heb. Particle here is different from that in Ver. 4. and Judg. xi. 18. shews the Israelites did not pass through any Part of Moab, which Ar was, Ver. 9.

did to me) till I shall pass over Jordan, into the Country which the Lord our God gives us.

30. But that King would not let us pass through what was his: for the Lord thy God let his Spirit be stubborn, and his Heart be stout, that he might deliver him into thy Power, as it is this Day.

31. And the Lord said to me, See, I have begun to deliver up Sihon and his Country before thee; begin to inherit, that thou mayest do it.

32. So Sihon and all his People came out to meet us, in Battle at Jahaz.

33. And the Lord our God delivered him up before us, so that we killed him, his Children, and all his People.

34. We also took all his Cities at the same Time, and utterly destroyed of every City the Men, Women and Children, we left none remaining.

35. Only we made the Beasts our prey, and the Spoil of the Cities which we took.

36. From Aroer which is upon the Bank of the River Arnon, and the City that is in the River, even to Gilead, there was not a Town which was superior to us: the Lord our God delivered up all before us.

37. Only thou didst not approach the Country of the Ammonites, any Place of the River Jabbok, or the Cities of the Mountain, or where-ever the Lord our God forbade us.

CHAP. III.

NEXT we turned about, and went up the Way to Bashan; and Og King of it, with all his People, came out to meet us in War, at Edrei.

2. But the Lord said to me, Do not fear him: for I will deliver him, with all his People, and Country into thy Power; to whom thou shalt do, as thou didst to Sihon King of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon.

3. Accordingly the Lord our God delivered also into our Power Og King of Bashan, and all his People; whom we killed, till there was none left remaining to him.

4. And we took all his Cities at the same Time, there was not a Town which we did not take away from them; being sixty Cities, the whole Region of Argob, the Kingdom of Og in Bashan.

5. All these Cities were fortified with a high Wall, Gates and Bars, besides very many Towns.

6. And we utterly destroyed them, according to what we did to Sihon King of Heshbon, namely the Men, Women, and Children of every City.

7. However we made all the Beasts, and the Spoil of the Cities our prey.

8. Thus we took away at that Time out of the Power of the two Kings of the Amorites, the Country which is on this side Jordan, from the River Arnon to Mount Hermon;

9. (The Zidonians calling Hermon Shiron, and the Amorites calling it Shenir)

10. All the Cities of the Plain, with all Gilead, and all Bashan, to Salchah and Edrei, Cities of the Kingdom of Og in Bashan.

11. For only Og King of Bashan was left of the Residue of the Giants; behold his Bedstead was an iron one, is it not in Rubbah of the Ammonites? It being nine Cubits long, and four wide, by a Man's Cubit.

12. And this Country which we inherited at that Time, from Aroer which is by the River Arnon, and half Mount Gilead, with its Cities, I gave to the Reubenites and Gadites.

13. The rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, the Kingdom of Og, I likewise gave to half the Tribe of Manasseh; the whole Region of Argob in all Bashan, which was called The Country of Giants.

14. Jair the Descendant of Manasseh took the whole Region of Argob, to the Bounds of the Geshurites and Maachathites; and has called them by his own Name The Bashan-Towns of Jair to this Day.

15. And on Machir I bestowed Gilead:

16. As I did on the Reubenites and Gadites, from Gilead to the River Arnon, the middle of the River, being the Bounds, and to Jabbok a River the Bounds of the Ammonites;

17. With the Plain, and Jordan which was the Bounds, from Cinnereth to the Sea of the Plain, the Salt Sea, under the Streams of Pisgah eastward.

18. Whom I commanded at that Time as follows; The Lord your God having given you this Country to inherit it, you shall pass over armed before your Brethren the Israelites, all who are able Persons.

19. Only your Wives, Children and Cattle, of which last I know that you have many, shall abide in your Cities which I have given you;

20. Till the Lord has made your Brethren rest like your selves, and they likewise inherit the Country which the Lord your God gives them beyond Jordan; when you shall return to your respective Inheritances, which I have conferred upon you.

21. Besides I commanded Joshua thus at that Time; Thy Eyes having seen all which the Lord your God did to these two Kings, so will the Lord do to all the Kingdoms whither thou art passing.

22. Do you not fear them: for the Lord your God himself will fight for you.

23. I also made the following supplication to the Lord at that Time;

24. O Sovereign Lord, thou hast begun to shew thy Servant thy Greatness and strong Hand; on which Account who is God in Heaven or Earth, that can do according to thy Works and Power?

25. Let me pass over, I beseech thee, and see the good Country which is beyond Jordan, that good Mountain, and Lebanon.

26. Nevertheless the Lord being in a Wrath with me by reason of you, would not hearken to me, but said to me; It is a great deal for thee, speak no more to me of this Matter.

27. Ascend to the Top of Pisgah, and look up westward, northward, southward and eastward, and see with thy Eyes; but thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

28. However command Joshua, nay encourage and strengthen him: for he shall pass over before this People, and he shall make them possess the Country which thou shalt see.

29. So we abode in the Valley over against Beth-peor.

NOW therefore, Israel, hearken to the Ordinances and Rules, which I teach you to do, in order that you may live, go in, and inherit the Country which the Lord God of your Fathers gives you.

2. You shall neither add to the Word which I command you, nor diminish from it; that you may observe the Commandments of the Lord your God, which I command you.

3. You saw with your own Eyes what the Lord did by reason of Baal-peor: for every Man who went after Baal-peor, him the Lord thy God destroyed from among you.

4. Whereas you who cleaved to the Lord your God, are all of you alive this Day.

5. See, I have taught you Ordinances and Rules, as the Lord my God commanded me; that you may do so within the Country, whither you are going in to inherit it.

6. Observe then, and do them, since it will be your Wisdom and Understanding in the Sight of the People, who upon hearing all these Ordinances, will say, This great Nation only is a wise and understanding People.

7. For what great Nation is there that has a god so near to it, as the Lord our God is, in all that we call upon him for?

8. And what great Nation is there that has such righteous Ordinances and Rules, as this whole Law which I put before you to Day?

9. Only take heed to thy self, and keep thy Soul thoroughly, lest thou shouldest forget the Things which thy Eyes have seen, and lest they should depart from thy Mind any of the Days of thy Life; but cause thy Children and Grandchildren to know them;

10. Particularly the Day that thou stoodest before the Lord thy God at Horeb, when the Lord said to me, Gather me the People together, and I will let them hear my Words, that they may learn to fear me all the Days which they live upon the Earth, and may teach their Children.

11. So you came near, and stood under the Mountain; and it burnt with Fire to the midst of Heaven, with Darkness, Clouds and Mist.

Ver. 17. which was the Bounds] as the River Jordan was from the Sea of Cinnereth, Josh. xiii. 27. whence it ran, to the Salt Sea.

Ver. 7. a god] or gods, as in Gell's Essay, p. 628. but I prefer this, because not with Nations, but Nation, that might have only one (however owned but one supreme) god: it may plainly appear not to be spoken of the following true God.

Ver. 9. any] as it could not be all, consistent with what is before.

12. And the Lord spoke to you from within the Fire, you hearing the Words pronounced, but saw no Likeness along with it.

13. And he declared to you his Covenant, which he commanded you to perform, the ten Commandments, and wrote them upon two Tables of Stone.

14. Besides the Lord commanded me at that Time, to teach you Ordinances and Rules, that you might do them in the Country, whither you pass over to inherit it.

15. Therefore take great heed to your Souls, since you saw no Likeness on the Day the Lord spoke to you at Horeb, from within the Fire:

16. Lest you should be corrupted, and make you a carved Image, the Likeness of any Image, the Shape of Male or Female,

17. The Shape of any Beast which is on the Earth, the Shape of any winged Fowl which flies in the Air,

18. The Shape of any Thing that creeps on the Ground, the Shape of any Fish which is in the Water under the Earth;

19. And lest thou shouldest look up to Heaven, and seeing the Sun, Moon and Stars, the whole Army of it, shouldest be driven to bow down to them, and serve them; which the Lord thy God has distributed to all the People under the whole Heaven.

20. Whereas the Lord took you, and brought you out from the iron Furnace, out of Egypt, that you might be a People possessed by him, as it is this Day.

21. Moreover the Lord was angry with me upon your account, and sware that I should not pass over Jordan, nor enter into the good Country which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession.

22. Though I must die in this Country, not passing over Jordan; yet you are to pass over, and inherit that good Country.

23. Take heed to your selves, lest you should forget the Covenant of the Lord your God, which he made with you, and make you a carved Image, the Likeness of any Thing that the Lord thy God has forbid thee.

24. For the Lord thy God is a consuming Fire, a zealous God.

25. When thou hast begot Children and Grandchildren, and you are become old in the Country, and are corrupt, making a carved Image, the Likeness of any Thing, and doing what the Lord thy God is displeased with, to provoke him;

26. I call to Day Heaven and Earth to give Evidence against you, that you shall speedily quite perish from the Country whither you pass over Jordan to inherit it; you shall not have a long Time in it, but be utterly destroyed.

27. The Lord will also disperse you among the People, and you will be left a few Persons in the Nations, whither he will lead you.

28. And there you will serve gods the Work of Men's Hands, Wood and Stone, that neither see, hear, eat, nor smell.

29. However upon thy enquiring for the Lord thy God from thence, thou shalt find him, when thou seekest him with thy whole Heart and Soul.

30. When thou art distressed, and all these Things meet with thee in the latter Days, and thou returnest to the Lord thy God, hearkening to what he says;

31. As the Lord thy God is a merciful God, he will not neglect thee, nor destroy thee; neither forget the Covenant of thy Forefathers, which he sware to them.

32. For ask now of the former Days which were before thee, since the Day that God created Man upon the Earth, and from one End of the Heaven to the other, whether there has been the like of this great Thing, or been heard comparable to it.

33. Has a People heard the Voice of God speaking from within the Fire, as thou hast, and lived?

34. Or has God tried to come, to fetch him one Nation out of the midst of another, by Trials, Signs, Miracles, War, a strong Hand, an Arm stretched out, and great Terrors, according to all which the Lord your God did for you in Egypt before your Eyes?

35. It was shewn to thee, that thou mightest know that the Lord himself is God, there being none else besides him.

36. He made thee hear his Voice from Heaven, that he might instruct thee; and shewed thee his great Fire upon the Earth, from within which thou heardest his Words.

37. And forasmuch as he loved thy Forefathers, he chose their Offspring after them, and brought thee out of Egypt in his own Presence, by his great Power :

38. To expel Nations, greater and stronger than thou, from thy Presence ; that he may bring thee in, to give thee their Country for a Possession, as it is this Day.

39. So know to Day, and recall to thy Mind, that the Lord himself is God in Heaven above, and upon the Earth below, there being none else.

40. Do thou therefore observe his Ordinances and Commandments, which I command thee to Day, that it may be well with thee, and thy Children after thee, and in order that thy Time may be long in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee, continually.

41. Then Moses put apart three Cities on this side Jordan, towards the Sun-rising ;

42. For the Man-slayer to flee thither, who should kill his Neighbour unawares, when he did not hate him in time past, that fleeing to one of them, he might live ;

43. Namely Bezer in the Wilderness, in the Country of the Plain belonging to the Reubenites, Ramoth in Gilead belonging to the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan to the Manassites.

44. And this is the Law which Moses put before the Israelites :

45. These are the Testimonies, Ordinances and Rules, which he spoke to them, when they were come out of Egypt ;

46. On this side Jordan, in the Valley over against Beth-peor, in the Country of Sihon King of the Amorites who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the Israelites conquered, when they were come out of Egypt.

47. And they inherited his Country, with that of Og King of Bashan, the two Kings of the Amorites, who were on this side Jordan, at the Sun-rising ;

48. From Aroer which is upon the Bank of the River Arnon, to Mount Sion, that is Hermon ;

49. And the whole Plain on this side Jordan eastward, to the Sea of the Plain, under the Streams of Pisgah.

FOR Moses called all Israel, and said to them : Hear, O Israel, the Ordinances and Rules, which I speak in your Hearing to Day ; that you may learn them, and observe to do them.

2. The Lord our God made a Covenant with us at Horeb.

3. The Lord did not make this Covenant with our Forefathers, but with us, all these of our own selves who are alive here to Day.

4. The Lord spoke with you Face to Face on the Mountain, from within the Fire

5. (I standing between the Lord and you at that Time, to declare his Word to you, because you were afraid by reason of the Fire, and did not go up on the Mountain) as follows :

6. I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves.

7. Thou shalt have no other gods in my Presence.

8. Thou shalt not make thee a carved Image, any Likeness either of what is in the Heaven above, on the Earth below, or in the Water under it ;

9. Thou shalt neither bow down to them, nor serve them : for I am the Lord thy God, a zealous God, who punish Children for the Iniquity of the Parents, even to the third and fourth Generation of them that hate me ;

10. But shew Kindness to Thousands, of those who love me, and keep my Commandments.

11. Thou shalt not take up the Name of the Lord thy God vainly ; for the Lord will not let him be quit who does so.

12. Keep the Sabbath Day holy, as the Lord thy God has commanded thee.

13. Six Days shalt thou work, and do all thy Business.

14. But the seventh Day being the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, neither shalt thou, thy Son, Daughter, Servant-man, Maid, Ox, Ass, any of thy Cattle, nor Sojourner who is within thy Gates, do any Business ; that thy Servant-man and Maid may rest as well as thy self.

Transl.* conveys no better Meaning, than that those who were present were all then alive, which is too trifling to be what Moses intended ; but it intimates another Meaning, far from being true, as if all whom the Lord made the Covenant with almost forty Years before, were alive there when Moses spoke this.

Ver. 9. even] being here, though not in Exod. xx. 5.

15. And remember that thou wast a Servant in the Country of Egypt, and the Lord thy God brought thee out from thence, by a strong Hand, and an Arm stretched out; therefore he commands thee to keep the Sabbath Day.

16. Honour thy Father and Mother, as the Lord thy God commands thee; that thy Time may be long, and that it may be well for thee, in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

17. Thou shalt not murder.

18. Nor shalt thou commit Adultery.

19. Nor shalt thou steal.

20. Nor shalt thou give Evidence against thy Neighbour falsely.

21. Nor shalt thou covet thy Neighbour's Wife; neither shalt thou covet his House, Land, Servant-man, Maid, Ox, Ass, or any Thing that he has.

22. These Words the Lord spoke to your whole Congregation on the Mountain, from within the Fire, Cloud and Darkness, with a loud Voice, and made no Addition; he also wrote them upon two Tables of Stone, and gave them to me.

23. And when you heard the Voice from within the Darkness, the Mountain burning with Fire, you came near to me, all the Heads of your Tribes, and your Elders,

24. And said; Lo the Lord our God has shewn us his Glory and Greatness, and we have heard his Voice from within the Fire: this Day we have seen that God speaks to Man, and he lives.

25. Why therefore should we now die? For this great Fire will consume us: if we hear the Voice of the Lord our God any more, we shall die.

26. For who is there of all Flesh that has heard the Voice of the living God, speaking from within the Fire, like us, and has lived?

27. Go thou near, and hear all that the Lord our God shall say; then do thou speak to us all which he does to thee, that we may hear and do it.

28. And the Lord hearkening to the Voice of your Words, when you spoke to me, said to me; I have heard the Voice of this People's Words that they have spoken to thee, in all which they have done well.

29. Oh that they would have this Mind, to fear me, and observe all my Commandments at all Times; that it may be well for them, and their Children for ever.

30. Go, say to them, Return to your Tents.

31. But do thou stand here with me, that I may speak to thee all the Commandments, the Ordinances and Rules, which thou shalt teach them, and they shall do in the Country that I give them to inherit it.

32. You must therefore observe to do as the Lord your God has commanded you, neither turning aside to the right Hand, nor the left.

33. In all the Way which he has commanded you must ye go; that ye may live, and it may be well for you, and the Time may be long in the Country which you shall inherit.

CHAP. VI.

AND these are the Commandments, Ordinances and Rules, which the Lord your God commanded to teach you, to do in the Country whither you pass to inherit it:

2. That thou mayest fear the Lord thy God, to observe all his Ordinances, and his Commandments, which I command thee, thy Son and Grandson, all the Days of thy Life; and that thy Time may be long.

3. So thou must hear, O Israel, and observe to do; by which it will be well for thee, and by which thou wilt increase exceedingly: as the Lord God of thy Fathers promised thee, in a Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

4. Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord,

5. And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, with all thy Soul, and all thy Might.

6. Moreover these Things which I command thee to Day shall be in thy Heart.

7. Besides thou shalt teach them strictly to thy Children, and speak of them, when thou art sitting in thy House, walking in the Way, lying down, and getting up.

8. As also tie them for a Sign upon thy Hand, and they shall be for Frontlets between thy Eyes.

9. Nay thou shalt write them upon the Posts of thy House, and on thy Gates.

10. And when the Lord thy God has brought thee into the Country, which he swore to thy Forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that he would give thee, great and good Cities which thou hast not built,

11. As likewise Houses full of every good Thing which thou hast not filled, and Cisterns hewn out which thou hast not hewed, Vine-

Ver. 11. Cisterns hewn out] in the Rocks to hold Water; the Noun and Verb being both the same, as in Jer. ii. 13.

yards and Olive-yards which thou hast not planted, so that thou eatest, and art satisfied;

12. Take heed to thy self, lest thou shouldest forget the Lord, who brought thee out of the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves.

13. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, serve him, and swear by his Name.

14. You shall not go after other gods, any of those of the People who are round about you :

15. Since the Lord thy God is a zealous God among you, lest he should be angry with thee, and destroy thee from the Surface of the Ground.

16. You shall not tempt the Lord your God, as you did at Massah.

17. You shall diligently observe the Commandments of the Lord your God, with his Testimonies and Ordinances which he has commanded thee.

18. And thou shalt do what the Lord approves of and likes ; that it may be well for thee, and thou mayest go in, and inherit the good Country of which he sware to thy Forefathers ;

19. That he would drive away all thy Enemies from thy Presence, as he himself spoke.

20. When thy Son asks thee thus hereafter, For what are the Testimonies, Ordinances and Rules, which the Lord our God commanded you ?

21. Thou shalt say to him ; We were Slaves to Pharaoh in Egypt, and the Lord brought us out from thence by a strong Hand.

22. He also shewed great and grievous Signs and Miracles against Egypt, against Pharaoh and all his Family, in our Sight ;

23. As well as brought us out thence, that he might have us in, to give us the Country of which he sware to our Forefathers.

24. Thus the Lord commanded us to do all these Ordinances, to fear the Lord our God ; for our Good at all Times, that he may keep us alive, as at this Day.

25. And it will be Righteousness to us, when we observe to do all this Commandment before the Lord our God, as he has commanded us.

WHEN the Lord thy God has brought thee into the Country, whither thou art going in to inherit it, and has cast out many Nations from thy Presence, the Hittites, Girgashites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, seven Nations greater and stronger than thou ;

2. Whom when the Lord thy God has delivered up before thee, that thou mayest smite them ; thou shalt quite destroy them, shalt make no Agreement with them, nor be favourable to them.

3. Neither shalt thou be joined to them by Marriage, thou shalt not give thy Daughter to his Son, nor take his Daughter for thy Son.

4. For it will turn aside thy Son from following me, that they may serve other gods ; so the Lord will be angry with you, and destroy thee quickly.

5. But thus shall you do to them, you shall break down their Altars, break their Statues in Pieces, cut down their Groves, and burn their carved Images in the Fire.

6. For thou art a holy People to the Lord thy God : he has chosen thee to be a peculiar People to himself, above any other that are upon the Surface of the Ground.

7. The Lord neither had a love for you, nor chose you, for the Multitude of you more than any other, since you were the fewest of all People.

8. But for his mere Love to you, and because he would observe the Oath which he sware to your Forefathers, the Lord brought you out with a strong Hand, and redeemed you from the Place of Slaves, from the Power of Pharaoh King of Egypt.

9. Do thou know then, that the Lord thy God is God himself, a faithful God, keeping Covenant and Kindness, with those who love him, and keep his Commandments, to a thousand Generations ;

10. But recompensing such as hate him, to their Face, to destroy them : he will not delay to recompense such a one to his Face.

11. Thou shalt therefore keep the Commandments, Ordinances and Rules, which I command thee this Day to do.

12. And because you hearken to these Rules, keep and do them, the Lord thy God

Ver. 12. Take heed to thy self] as in Chap. iv. 9, 23. & xi. 16. & xii. 13, 19, &c. Exod. xxxiv. 12. so Chap. viii. 11. & xv. 9.

Ver. 18. mayest go in] which Disobedience might yet have hindered, or deferred ; so Chap. viii. 1.

will keep with thee the Covenant and Kindness, which he sware to thy Forefathers.

13. Nay he will love, bless, and multiply thee, as also bless the Fruit of thy Womb and that of thy Ground, thy Corn, Wine and Oil, the Young of thy Cows, and the Flocks of thy Sheep, in the Country which he sware to thy Forefathers that he would give thee.

14. Thou wilt be blessed the most of all People: there will not be among you Male or Female barren, nor among thy Cattle.

15. And the Lord will take away all Sickness from thee, and will not lay any of the bad Diseases of Egypt, which thou knowest, on thee; but will put them on all who hate thee.

16. And thou shalt consume all the People whom the Lord thy God delivers to thee, thy Eye shall have no compassion upon them; nor shalt thou serve their gods, for it will be a Snare to thee.

17. Though thou mayest say in thy Heart, These Nations are greater than I, how can I expel them?

18. Thou shalt not be afraid of them, remembering well what the Lord thy God did to Pharaoh and all Egypt;

19. The great Trials which thy Eyes saw, with the Signs, Miracles, the strong Hand, and Arm stretched out, by which the Lord thy God brought thee out: so will he do to all the People, of whose Presence thou art afraid.

20. And the Lord thy God will also send the Hornet among them, till those who are left, and hide from thy Face, perish.

21. Thou shalt not be in dread of their Presence: for the Lord thy God is in the midst of thee, a great and awful God.

22. And he will cast out those Nations from thy Presence by little and little: thou shalt not be able to consume them quickly, lest the wild Beasts should multiply against thee.

23. However the Lord thy God will deliver them up before thee, and vex them with great Vexation, till they are destroyed.

24. He will even deliver their Kings into thy Power, and thou shalt make their Name perish from under the Heaven: there shall not a Man stand before thee, till thou hast destroyed them.

25. The carved Images of their gods shall you burn in the Fire: thou shalt not desire the Silver or Gold that is upon them, and take for thy self, lest thou shouldest be ensnared by it; because it is an Abomination to the Lord thy God.

26. Nor shalt thou bring an Abomination into thy House, lest thou shouldest be accursed like it: thou shalt utterly detest it, and utterly abhor it, because it is accursed.

CHAP. VIII.

ALL the Commandments which I enjoin thee to Day, you shall observe to do; that you may live, multiply, go in, and inherit the Country of which the Lord sware to your Forefathers.

2. And thou shalt remember the whole Way, wherein the Lord thy God has made thee go these forty Years in the Wilderness; in order to afflict thee, to try thee, that it might be known what was in thy Heart, whether thou wouldest observe his Commandments, or not:

3. When he afflicted thee, and making thee hungry, caused thee to eat Manna, which thou didst not know, nor did thy Fathers; that he might let thee know that Man does not live upon Bread alone, for he lives upon all that proceeds out of the Lord's Mouth.

4. Thy Cloaths did not wear out upon thee, nor thy Foot swell, these forty Years.

5. So thou mayest know with thy Heart, that as a Man chastises his Son, the Lord thy God chastises thee.

6. Therefore thou shalt observe the Commandments of the Lord thy God, to go in his Ways, and to fear him.

7. For he is bringing thee into a good Country, one of Brooks of Water, Fountains and Lakes, that come out both of the Vallies and Mountains;

8. A Country of Wheat, Barley, Vines, Figs and Pomegranates; a Country of Olives for Oil, and Honey;

9. A Country wherein thou shalt eat Victuals without Scarcity, not wanting any Thing in it; a Country whose Stones are Iron, and out of whose Mountains thou shalt dig Brass.

10. And when thou hast eat, and art satisfied, thou shalt bless the Lord thy God, for the good Country which he has given thee.

11. Take heed to thy self, lest thou shouldest forget the Lord thy God, not to observe his Commandments, Rules and Ordinances, which I command thee to Day:

12. Lest when thou hast eat, and art satisfied, as also hast built and dwellest in good Houses,

13. When thy Herds and Flocks are multiplied, thy Silver and Gold is multiplied to thee, and all that thou hast is so;

14. Thy Heart should be exalted, and thou shouldest forget the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves;

15. Who made thee go in the great and terrible Wilderness, of fiery Serpents, Scorpions and Drought, wherein there was no Water; who brought Water for thee out of the Rock of Flint;

16. Who made thee eat Manna in the Wilderness, which thy Fathers did not know, that he might afflict thee, and that he might try thee, to do well for thee at thy End:

17. And shouldest say in thy Heart, My Power, and the Strength of my Hand has got me this Wealth.

18. Whereas thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is he gives thee Power to get Wealth; that he may confirm his Covenant which he sware to thy Forefathers, as it is this Day.

19. And if thou dost at all forget the Lord thy God, go after other gods, serve them, and bow down to them; I testify against you to Day, that you will utterly perish.

20. As the Nations that the Lord causes to perish from your Presence, so will you perish, because you do not hearken to what the Lord your God says.

C H A P. IX.

HEAR, O Israel, thou art now about to pass over Jordan, that thou mayest go in to inherit Nations greater and stronger than thy self, Cities great and fortified to Heaven;

2. A People great and tall, the Sons of the Anakites, whom thou knowest, and hast heard say, Who can stand before the Sons of Anak?

3. Know therefore now, that the Lord thy God, he who passes on before thee, is a consuming Fire, he will destroy them, and he will bring them down before thee; so that thou shalt expel them, and make them perish quickly, as the Lord has spoken to thee.

4. Do not say thus in thy Heart, when the Lord thy God has driven them away from before thee, For my Virtue the Lord has brought me in to inherit this Country; whereas for the Wickedness of these Nations the Lord expels them from thy Presence.

5. Neither for thy Virtue, nor the Uprightness of thy Heart, dost thou go in to inherit their Country; but for the Wickedness of these Nations the Lord thy God expels them from thy Presence, and that he may confirm the Matter which the Lord sware to thy Forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

6. So know that the Lord thy God does not give thee this good Country, to inherit it, for thy Virtue; since thou art a People of a stiff Neck.

7. Remember without forgetting, how thou didst provoke the Lord thy God to wrath in the Wilderness: even from the Time that thou camest out of the Country of Egypt, till you arrived at this Place, you have been rebellious against the Lord.

8. At Horeb especially you provoked the Lord to wrath, insomuch that he was angry with you, to destroy you.

9. When I went up the Mountain to receive the Tables of Stone, those of the Covenant which the Lord made with you, I staid there forty Days and forty Nights, neither eating nor drinking any Thing.

10. And the Lord gave me two Tables of Stone written with the Finger of God, upon which was according to all the Words that the Lord spoke to you on the Mountain, from within the Fire, on the Day of the Congregation.

11. And at the End of forty Days and forty Nights, the Lord giving me the two Tables of Stone, those of the Covenant;

Ver. 16. afflict thee] by keeping thee in such a Wilderness, as Ver. 2.

Ver. 1. now] at that Time, but not that present Day, Chap. i. 3. Josh. iv. 19.

Ver. 8. especially] this Heb. Conjunction so denoting sometimes, which the Sense may shew it does here: such a Meaning, with Examples of it, see in Naldius Concord. sub 1 signif. 20.

12. He said to me, Get ready, go down quickly from hence; for thy People whom thou hast brought out of Egypt are corrupted: they are quickly turned aside from the Way which I commanded them, having made them a molten Image.

13. Besides the Lord said to me as follows; I see plainly that this People are those of a stiff Neck:

14. Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and blot out their Name from under Heaven; and I will make thee a Nation stronger and greater than they.

15. Accordingly I turned, and came down from the Mountain, which was burning with Fire, and the two Tables of the Covenant were in both my Hands.

16. And I saw plainly that you had sinned against the Lord your God, having made you a molten Calf: you had quickly turned aside from the Way which the Lord commanded you.

17. Upon this I took the two Tables, and throwing them out of both my Hands, broke them in your Sight.

18. Then I fell down before the Lord, as at first forty Days and forty Nights, neither eating nor drinking any Thing; for all your Sins which you had committed, by doing what the Lord was displeased with, to provoke him.

19. For I was afraid by reason of the Anger and Wrath, with which the Lord was enraged against you, to destroy you; however he hearkened to me also at that Time.

20. The Lord was likewise very angry with Aaron, to destroy him; but I prayed also for him at the same Time.

21. And I took your Sin, the Calf which you had made, and burning it in the Fire, pounded it, ground it well, till it was made small into Dust; then I threw the Dust of it into the Brook that comes down from the Mountain.

22. Moreover at Taberah, Massah and Kibroth-hattaavah, you were provoking the Lord to wrath.

23. Nay when the Lord sent you from Kadesh-barnea, to go up, and inherit the Country which I have given you; ye rebelled against the Command of the Lord your God, neither believing him, nor hearkening to what he said.

24. You have been rebellious against the Lord, ever since I knew you.

25. When I fell down before the Lord the forty Days and forty Nights which I did, because he spoke of destroying you;

26. I prayed to the Lord in this manner; O Sovereign Lord, do not slay thy People and Possession, that thou hast redeemed by thy Greatness, that thou hast brought out of Egypt by a strong Hand.

27. Remember thy Servants, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; do not look at the Stubbornness of this People, at their Wickedness, or Sin:

28. Lest those of the Country from whence thou broughtest us out should say, By reason the Lord was not able to bring them into the Country which he promised them, and for his Hatred to them, he had them out to kill them in the Wilderness.

29. Whereas they are thy People and Possession, that thou hast brought out by thy great Power, and Arm stretched out.

CHAP. X.

AT that Time the Lord said to me; Carve thee out two Tables of Stone like the former, and come up the Mountain to me; make thee also an Ark of Wood.

2. And I will write upon the Tables the Words that were upon the former ones, which thou hast broke, and thou shalt put them in the Ark.

3. So I made an Ark of Shittim-wood, and carving out two Tables of Stone like the former, went up the Mountain, with the two Tables in my Hand.

4. And he wrote upon them, according to the former Writing, the ten Commandments, which the Lord spoke to you on the Mountain, from within the Fire, on the Day of the Congregation, and the Lord gave them to me.

5. Then I turned, and came down from the Mountain, putting the Tables in the Ark which I had made; where they are, as the Lord commanded me.

6. And the Israelites marched from the

Ver. 25. the forty] the same that are mentioned Ver. 18. and again Chap. x. 10.

Ver. 3. I made] Moses having set Betzaleel to make it, Exod. xxxvi. 2. & xxxvii. 1. as it appears to be the same by Ver. 5. Exod. xxv. 21. and the Wood it was made of, with no Mention elsewhere of any other.

Ver. 6. And the] This and the next Verse being a Digression from what Moses was speaking of, it may be accounted for, that it was to shew God's farther Reconciliation to the People, after they had sinned by the Calf; since he led them on their Journey, and Eleazar was made to supply the Room of Aaron when he died; besides on this Occasion a more particular Account is given of those Places, than was before, or perhaps could have conveniently been, in Num. xxxiii.

Wells of the Jaakanites to Moserah: there Aaron died, and was buried there, whose Son Eleazar executed the Priesthood in his room.

7. From thence they marched to Gudgodah, and thence to Jotbathah, a Country with Rivers of Water.

8. At that Time the Lord put apart the Tribe of Levi, to carry the Ark of his own Covenant, to stand before himself to minister to him, and to bless in his Name, to this Day.

9. Therefore Levi has no Share nor Possession with his Brethren: the Lord himself is his Possession, as the Lord thy God spoke to him.

10. And I staid on the Mountain according to the former Days, forty Days and forty Nights; when the Lord hearkening to me also at that Time, would not slay thee.

11. On the contrary he said to me, Get ready, go to march before the People, that they may go in, and inherit the Country, which I sware to their Forefathers that I would give them.

12. And now, O Israel, what does the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear himself, to go in all his Ways, as also to love him, and serve himself, with thy whole Heart and Soul,

13. To observe the Commandments of the Lord, and his Ordinances, which I command thee to Day, for thy own Good?

14. Lo the Heaven and Heaven of Heavens belong to the Lord thy God, the Earth and all that is in it:

15. However the Lord had affection for thy Fathers to love them; and chose their Offspring after them, even you the most of all People, as it is this Day.

16. Circumcise therefore the Foreskin of your Heart, and make your Neck stiff no more.

17. For the Lord your God himself is the God of gods, and Lord of lords, a great, powerful and awful God, who will not respect Faces, nor take a Bribe.

18. He does Justice to the Fatherless and Widow, and loves a Stranger, to give him Food and Raiment.

19. So do you love a Stranger, since you were such in the Country of Egypt.

20. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, serve him, as also cleave to him, and swear by his Name.

21. He is thy Praise, and he thy God, who has done for thee these great and awful Things, which thou hast seen with thy Eyes.

22. Thy Forefathers went down to Egypt, being seventy Persons; and now the Lord thy God has made thee as the Stars of Heaven for Multitude.

C H A P. XI.

THOU shalt therefore love the Lord thy God, and keep his Charge, Ordinances, Rules and Commandments, at all Times.

2. And know ye to Day: for it is not your Children, who have not known, and who have not seen the Chastisement of the Lord your God, his Greatness, strong Hand, and Arm stretched out;

3. As likewise his Signs and Deeds which he did within Egypt, to Pharaoh King of it, and his whole Country;

4. And what he did to the Egyptian Army, their Horses and Chariots, how he made the Water of the Red Sea flow over their Heads, when they pursued after you, and the Lord has made them perish to this Day;

5. Moreover what he has done for you in the Wilderness, till you arrived at this Place;

Ib. Wells] Being dissatisfied with what Interpreters say to reconcile this Verse with Num. xxxiii. 31. I observe those Wells are there omitted, as the Owners of them are named at the Place where they lived, some of whose Wells for their Flocks might be come to before Mosera or Mosereth; so that the Israelites might go from the Wells of the Jaakanites to Mosera as here, and from thence to Jaakan, as in Num. and one of these two, as they belonged to each other, might be sufficient to mention in one Place. Jotbathah in the following Verse being the same as in Num. and the other so much alike, it is incredible that they should be all different Places. And if they had went back from one Place to the other, of which it is pretended one of the Accounts is, they must of course have returned to the Place they went back from, because the Journey afterwards is the same. Nor is the Device of Jun. and Trem. allowable, to add and before Mosera, for it makes both Absurdity and Tautology; and to is here denoted the same as at the two Names in the next Verse by final n

Ib. there] in that Country, on Mount Her, Num. xx. 28. & xxxiii. 38. which may well enough consist together, especially as Mount Her might be within the Bounds of Mosera. They might travel round to the same Parts, so that Aaron might die there, though not then. This Her-bagidgad, Num. xxxiii. 32. makes the more likely, which was probably not far from that Mountain, and therefore so distinguished: for the Opinions of others, especially Jews, on this Verse, consult Buxtorf, Vindic. p. 933, &c.

Ver. 8. At that Time] after Moses was come down from the Mountain, Ver. 5.

Ver. 15. However] So Castal. has turned it tamen, Munst. verumtamen; which Meaning Noldius gives to this Heb. Particle under Signif. 8. & 9. even in this very Text, and it may be left to the Sense to justify it.

Ver. 2. know you] for you have seen with your own Eyes, &c. Ver. 7.

6. What he did also to Dathan and Abiram, the Sons of Eliab, the Son of Reuben, how the Earth opened its Mouth, and swallowed them up, together with their Families, Tents, and all living Substance that accompanied them, in the midst of all Israel.

7. For you have seen with your own Eyes every great Deed of the Lord, which he has done.

8. So you shall keep all the Commandments, which I command thee to Day: that you may be strong, go in, and inherit the Country, whither you are passing to inherit it;

9. And that you may have the Time long in the Country which the Lord swore to your Forefathers, that he would give them and their Offspring, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

10. For the Country whither thou art going in to inherit it, is not like that of Egypt, from whence you came out; in which thou didst sow thy Seed, and water with thy Foot, like a Garden of Herbs.

11. But this whither you are passing to inherit it, is a Country of Mountains and Valleys, drinking Water of the Rain of Heaven;

12. A Country which is of the Lord thy God's seeking, whose Eyes are continually on it, from the Beginning of the Year to the End of it.

13. And if you at all hearken to my Commandments which I enjoin you to Day, to love the Lord your God, and to serve him with your whole Heart and Soul;

14. Then will I give Rain for your Land in its Season, the first and latter Rain; that thou mayest gather thy Corn, Wine and Oil.

15. I will give Grass too in thy Field for thy Cattle; and thou shalt eat, and be satisfied.

16. Take heed to your selves, lest your Heart should be enticed, and you should turn aside, serve other gods, and bow down to them.

17. When the Lord would be angry with you, and shut up the Heaven, so that there should be no Rain, and the Ground would not yield its Increase: thus would you perish quickly from the good Country which the Lord gives you.

18. Therefore you shall put these Words of mine in your Heart and Soul, as also tie them for a Sign upon your Hand, and they shall be for Frontlets between your Eyes.

19. Besides you shall teach them to your Children, by speaking of them, when thou art sitting at home, walking in the Way, lying down, and getting up.

20. Nay thou shalt write them upon the Posts of thy House, and on thy Gates:

21. That your own Days and your Children's may be multiplied, in the Country which the Lord swore to your Forefathers, that he would give them, as the Days of Heaven upon the Earth.

22. For if you will at all observe all these Commandments, which I order you to do, to love the Lord your God, to go in all his Ways, and to cleave to him;

23. Then will the Lord disinherit all these Nations from your Presence, and you shall inherit Nations greater and stronger than your selves.

24. Every Place which the Sole of your Foot shall tread on shall be yours: from the Wilderness and Lebanon, from that

Ver. 6. living Substance] This Hebrew Word is but twice more in the Scripture, viz. Gen. vii. 4, 23. where it is so rendered.

Ib. accompanied them] Heb. was at their Feet. Chald. and Greek, with them; Tun. and Trem. sequebantur eos, followed them, as this Heb. Expression usually signifies, and so may denote Korah (otherwise omitted here) and those with him, who followed Dathan and Abiram to their Tents, Num. xvi. 32. it being strange for Feet to mean Possession.

Ver. 8. command thee] not you.

Ver. 10. Feet] by digging Trenches with the Spade. Dr. Shaw explains this Passage well from the present Practice of the Egyptian Gardeners; who, when their Pulse, Melons, Sugar-canes, &c. (all which are commonly planted in Rills) require to be refreshed, strike out a Plug, that is fixed in the Bottom of a Cistern; and then the Water gushing out, is conducted from one Rill to another by the Gardener; who is always ready, as Occasion requires, to stop and divert the Torrent, by turning the Earth against it with his Foot, and opening at the same time, with his Mattock, a new Trench to receive it. Travels, p. 431.

Ver. 11. Mountains] not a plain Country like Egypt, which being pretty much so, was watered by the overflowing of the Nile.

Ib. Rain] Whereas Egypt was watered from the River by the Labour of Man, Canaan did not admit of it, nor want it, but was watered with Rain by God himself, Ver. 12, 14.

Ver. 12. seeking] for the Israelites; so Zion is called Sought out, Isa. lxii. ult. and the like is said of God, 1 Sam. xiii. 14. Ezek. xxii. 30. It does not appear this Heb. Verb ever signifies careth for, and as the next Words denote that, would be Tautology here.

Ver. 13. at all] See on 1 Kings ix. 6.

Ver. 14. the first] of which Pridcaux writes in Not. 25. to Maimonides, Cap. 1. Of the Law of the Poor and Stranger, Prima descendebat tempore Autumni post jactam sementem, the first Rain fell in Autumn after the Sowing of the Seed; but Corten travelling in those Parts says, The first Rain ordinarily begins in the Middle or End of October, and they sow their Corn in November and December, Compendious Library, Vol. ii. p. 119, 121. which agrees too with Amos ix. 13. Lev. xxvi. 5. & Isa. xxx. 23. and not the other. The latter Rain was in the Spring in the first Month, Joel ii. 23. and of these Rains is also Mention together, Jer. v. 24. Hos. vi. 3.

25. No Man shall stand in your Presence: the Lord your God will put the Dread of you, and the Fear of you, upon the Surface of the whole Country which you shall tread on, as he has spoken to you.

26. See, I put before you to Day, a Blessing and a Curse:

27. A Blessing, when you hearken to the Commandments of the Lord your God, which I give you in charge to Day;

28. And a Curse, if you do not, but turn aside out of the Way which I command you to Day, to go after other gods, that you do not know.

29. And when the Lord thy God has brought thee into the Country, whither thou art going in to inherit it, thou shalt put the Blessing upon Mount Gerizzim, and the Curse upon Mount Ebal.

30. Are they not beyond Jordan, behind the Way of the Sun's setting, in the Country of the Canaanites who dwell in the Plain, over against Gilgal, by the Oaks of Moreh?

31. For you shall pass over Jordan, to go in to inherit the Country that the Lord your God gives you; which you shall inherit, and dwell in.

32. And you shall observe to do all the Ordinances and Rules, which I put before you to Day.

C H A P. XII.

TH E S E are they which you shall observe to do, in the Country which the Lord God of thy Fathers gives thee, to inherit it, all the Days that you live upon the Earth.

2. You shall quite destroy all the Places, where the Nations that you shall inherit served their gods, upon the high Mountains, upon the Hills, and under every green Tree.

3. And you shall demolish their Altars, break their Statues, burn their Groves with Fire, cut down the carved Images of their gods, and destroy the Name of them from that Place.

4. You shall not do so to the Lord your God.

5. But to the Place which he shall choose out of all your Tribes, to put his Name there, being his Habitation, shall you seek, and thither thou shalt come.

6. Thither too shall you bring your Burnt-offerings, Sacrifices and Tithes, and the Lifted-offering that you have, as also what you vow, and your Free-offerings, with the Firstlings of your Herds and Flocks.

7. And you shall eat there before the Lord your God, and be glad in all that you, and your Families, take in Hand, wherein he has blessed thee.

8. You shall not do according to all that we do here now, each one whatsoever he approves of.

9. For hitherto you are not come to the Rest and Possession, which the Lord thy God gives thee.

10. But you shall pass over Jordan, and dwell in the Country which the Lord your God makes you possess; who will give you rest from all your Enemies round about, and you shall dwell securely.

11. And there will be a Place which the Lord your God will choose, to make his Name remain there; thither shall you bring all that I command you, your Burnt-offerings and Sacrifices, your Tithes, and the Lifted-offering that you have, with every choice Thing of your Vows which you make to the Lord.

12. And you shall be glad before the Lord your God, with your Sons, Daughters, Servant-men and Maids; as also the Levite who is within your Gates, because he has no Part or Possession with you.

13. Take heed to thy self, that thou dost not offer up thy Burnt-offerings in every Place which thou seest.

14. But in the Place that the Lord will choose in one of thy Tribes, there shalt thou offer up thy Burnt-offerings, and there do all which I command thee.

15. However thou mayest kill and eat Flesh, whatever thy Mind desires, according to the Blessing of the Lord thy God which he has given thee, within any of thy Gates:

Ver. 29. Gerizzim] See Chap. xxvii. 12.

Ver. 30. behind] as the Heb. is, i. e. beyond where the Sun set, at the Place in which Moses and the Israelites then were.

Ib. Gilgal] Moses himself setting the Name to the Place where the Israelites should be circumcised, Josh. v. 9. and so might say and write this; without the Shift of answering as in Biblioth. Biblic. Introd. to Obj. 18. that the whole Verse seems inserted by some Reviser of the Pentateuch after Moses.

Ib. Oaks] as Gen. xii. 6.

Ver. 4. not do so] not worship God, as the Gentiles did their gods, upon Mountains, under green Trees,

&c. but in the Place alone that God should choose; as both Peale and Patrick expound it, and the next Verse beginning with a manifest Opposition in Heb. shews; see also Ver. 13, 14.

Ver. 6. Lifted-offering] to wit the First-fruits, Num. xviii. 11, 12, 13. Deut. xxvi. 2.

Ver. 9. thy God gives thee] the Heb.

Ver. 11. choice Thing] for choice is not an Adjective to Things, being singular, and put first, as a Heb. Adjective is not before its Substantive, Buxt. Thes. Lib. ii. Cap. 1. and it was the Thing that was vowed which was to be brought.

the unclean and clean may eat it, like the Deer and Hart.

16. Only you shall not eat the Blood, you shall pour it out upon the Ground like Water.

17. Thou must not eat within thy Gates, the Tithe of thy Corn, Wine or Oil, the Firstlings of thy Herd or Flock, any Thing of thy Vows which thou makest, thy Free-offerings, or the Lifted-offering that thou hast.

18. But thou shalt eat them before the Lord thy God, in the Place which he shall choose, with thy Son, Daughter, Servant-man, Maid, and the Levite who is within thy Gates: and thou shalt be glad before the Lord thy God, in all that thou takest in Hand.

19. Take heed to thy self, that thou dost not forsake the Levite, all the Time thou hast upon the Earth.

20. When the Lord thy God shall make thy Bounds large, as he has promised thee, and thou thinkest, I will eat Flesh, because thy Mind desires to do it; thou mayest eat Flesh whatever thy Mind does desire.

21. If the Place where the Lord thy God shall choose to put his Name is far off from thee, thou shalt kill of thy Herd and Flock, which the Lord has given thee, as I have commanded thee; and shalt eat within thy Gates whatever thy Mind desires.

22. Even as the Deer and Hart are eat, so shalt thou eat it: the unclean and clean may eat it together.

23. Only be resolved not to eat Blood, because the Blood is the Life; and thou shalt not eat the Life with the Flesh.

24. Instead of eating it, thou shalt shed it upon the Ground like Water.

25. Thou shalt not eat it, that it may be well for thee and thy Children after thee, when thou doest what the Lord approves of.

26. Only thy holy Things which thou hast, and those of thy Vows, shalt thou take, and go to the Place that the Lord shall choose.

27. And shalt offer thy Burnt-offerings, the Flesh and Blood, upon the Altar of the Lord thy God; on which the Blood of thy Sacrifices shall be poured out, and thou shalt eat the Flesh.

28. Observe, as well as hear, all these Things which I command thee; that it may be well for thee and thy Children after thee forever, when thou doest what the Lord thy God likes, and approves of.

29. When he has cut off the Nations, whither thou art going to inherit them, from thy Presence, and thou succeedest them, dwelling in their Country;

30. Take heed to thy self, that thou art not insnared by following them, after they are destroyed from thy Presence, and that thou dost not seek to their gods, saying, How did these Nations serve their gods, that I may also do so?

31. Thou shalt not do so to the Lord thy God: for every Thing that is abominable to the Lord, which he hates, they do to their gods; for they even burn their Sons and Daughters in the Fire, to them.

32. Every Thing which I command you, observe to do it: thou shalt neither add to it, nor diminish from it.

CHAP. XIII.

WHEN there rises up among you a Prophet, or a Dreamer of Dreams, and gives thee a Sign or Miracle,

2. And it comes to pass for what he speaks to thee thus, Let us go after other gods (whom thou dost not know) and serve them;

3. Thou shalt not hearken to the Words of that Prophet, or that Dreamer of Dreams: for the Lord your God tries you, that it may be known whether you love him, with your whole Heart and Soul.

4. You shall go after the Lord your God, fear him, observe his Commandments, hearken to what he says, serve him, and cleave to him.

5. And that Prophet, or that Dreamer of Dreams, shall be put to death, because he has spoken Apostasy against the Lord your God, who brought you out of the Country of Egypt, and redeemed you from the Place of Slaves, to thrust thee out of the Way which the Lord thy God commanded thee to go in: thus shalt thou take away the Evil from amongst you.

6. When thy Brother the Son of thy Mother, or thy own Son or Daughter, or the Wife of thy Bosom, or thy Friend who is as thy self, entices thee secretly, for you to go, and serve other gods; whom neither thou nor thy Fathers knew,

9. But shalt kill him quite, thy own Hand being on him first to put him to death, and afterwards that of all the People.

10. Thou shalt even stone him with Stones, that he may die; because he has attempted to thrust thee away from the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves:

11. That all Israel may hear, and fear, and no more do such an evil Thing as this among you.

12. When thou hearest say in one of thy Cities, which the Lord thy God gives thee to dwell there;

13. There are some ungodly Men gone out from among you, and have thrust away the Inhabitants of their City, by saying, Let us go, and serve other gods; whom thou dost not know:

14. Then shalt thou enquire, search, and ask well, and behold it being Truth, a confirmed Thing, that this Abomination is done among you;

15. Thou shalt quite put the Inhabitants of that City to the Sword, destroying it utterly, and all that are therein, with its Cattle, in the same manner.

16. Besides thou shalt gather all the Spoil of it into the midst of its Street, and burn it entirely, as likewise the City, with Fire, to the Lord thy God; nay it shall be an everlasting Heap, be no more built.

17. Thus shall there not cleave aught of the cursed Thing to thy Hand; that the Lord may turn back from his fervent Anger, and grant thee Mercies, having mercy upon thee, and may multiply thee, as he sware to thy Forefathers:

18. When thou hearkenest to what the Lord thy God says, by observing all his Commandments which I bid thee to Day, by doing what he approves of.

2. For thou art a holy People to the Lord thy God; and the Lord has chosen thee to be a peculiar People to himself, above any other that are upon the Surface of the Ground.

3. Thou shalt eat no abominable Thing.

4. These are the Beasts which you may eat; the Ox, such as belong either to the Sheep or Goats.

5. The Hart, Roe-buck, Fallow-deer, wild Goat, Stag, wild Bull, and wild Roe:

6. As you may every Beast that divides the Hoof, having it with a Cleft all through in two, that brings up the Cud of them.

7. But these you shall not eat, of them that bring up the Cud, or of such as divide the cloven Hoof; the Camel, Hare and Rabbit, though they bring up the Cud, yet not dividing the Hoof, are unclean to you.

8. On the other hand the Hog though he divides the Hoof, yet not chewing the Cud, is unclean to you: you shall neither eat of their Flesh, nor touch their Carcases.

9. These you may eat of all which are in the Waters; all that have Fins and Scales.

10. But all which have no Fins nor Scales you shall not eat, it being unclean to you.

11. All clean Birds you may eat.

12. But these are they of which you shall not eat; the Eagle, Ossifrage, Osprey,

13. Glede, Vulture, and the Kite of each Kind,

14. And all Sorts of Ravens,

15. The Brood of the Ostrich, the Night-hawk, Cuckow, and the Hawk of each Sort.

16. The Owl, Night-owl, Daw,

17. Pelican, Magpie, Cormorant,

18. Stork, the Heron of each Kind, the Lapwing and Bat.

19. And every creeping flying Thing, shall be unclean to you, it shall not be eat.

20. All clean Fowls you may eat.

21. You shall not eat any Carcase, thou shalt give it to the Stranger who is within thy Gates, that he may eat it, or sell it to a Foreigner; because thou art a holy People to the Lord thy God: thou shalt not boil a Kid in the Milk of his Dam.

22. Thou shalt thoroughly give the Tithe of all the Increase of thy Seed, that the Field brings forth Year by Year.

Ver. 5. wild Bull] rather a Bull than Ox, as being mild.

23. And thou shalt eat before the Lord thy God, in the Place where he shall choose to make his Name dwell, the Tithe of thy Corn, Wine and Oil, with the Firstlings of thy Herd and Flock; that thou mayest learn to fear the Lord thy God at all Times.

24. However when the Way is too much for thee, so as thou canst not carry it; because the Place where the Lord thy God shall choose to put his Name is far from thee, when he blesses thee;

25. Thou shalt make it into Money, and tying up that with thee, go to the Place which the Lord thy God shall choose.

26. And thou mayest give the Money for any Thing which thy Mind desires, for Oxen, Sheep, Wine, strong Drink, or whatever thy Mind requires; and thou shalt eat there before the Lord thy God, being glad, as likewise thy Family:

27. Not forsaking the Levite who is within thy Gates, because he has no Part or Possession with thee.

28. At the Term of three Years thou shalt bring out the whole Tithe of thy Increase in that Year, and lay it up within thy Gates.

29. And the Levite, because he has no Part or Possession with thee, the Stranger, Fatherless and Widow, who are within thy Gates, shall come, eat, and be satisfied; that the Lord thy God may bless thee, in all the Work of thy Hand which thou doest.

CHAP. XV.

AT the Term of seven Years thou shalt make a Release,

2. And this is the Manner of it: every one who has a Debt in his Power, who lends to his Neighbour, shall release, shall not exact of his Neighbour or Brother, because it is called the Lord's Release.

3. Thou mayest exact of a Foreigner; but what is thine with thy Brother, thy Hand shall release:

4. Only when there is none poor among you; for the Lord will thoroughly bless thee, in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession to inherit it:

5. But it will be if thou dost at all hearken to what he says, by observing to do all these Commandments which I enjoin thee to Day.

6. For the Lord thy God blesses thee, as he promised thee: so that thou shalt take in pledge of many Nations; but not give in pledge; and rule over many Nations, but they shall not rule over thee.

7. When there is a poor Man among you, one of thy Brethren, within one of thy Gates in thy Country which the Lord thy God gives thee; thou shalt not make thy Heart stout, nor shut up thy Hand from thy poor Brother:

8. But shalt open thy Hand wide to him, and thoroughly lend him on pledge sufficient for his Want, in what there is wanting to him.

9. Take heed to thy self, that there be Nothing in thy ungodly Heart to say, The seventh Year, that of Release approaches; upon which thy Eye is evil to thy poor Brother, so that thou wilt not give to him; and when he calls to the Lord against thee, it will be Sin in thee.

10. Thou shalt wholly give to him, and it shall not be ill to thy Heart when thou dost: for by reason of this Thing the Lord thy God will bless thee in all thy Work, and in all that thou takest in Hand.

11. For the Poor will not cease from within the Country: therefore I command thee, that thou shalt open thy Hand wide to thy afflicted and poor Brother there.

12. When thy Brother, a Hebrew Man or Woman, is sold to thee, and has served thee six Years, in the seventh thou shalt let him go free from thee.

13. And when thou dost, thou shalt not let him go empty.

14. Thou shalt furnish him liberally from thy Flock, Floor and Wine-press; giving him of what the Lord thy God has blessed thee with.

15. As thou shalt remember that thou wast a Slave in the Country of Egypt, and

Ver. 1. Term] for it was in the seventh Year, not at the End of it, Ver. 9, 12. see 2 Kings xviii. 10.

Ver. 2. not exact] in that Year only as it seems, and as Ainsworth and Pease expound it: for besides the Reasons which the latter gives, great Inconveniencies must needs attend a perpetual Release from Debts, such as the Debtor not paying when he might, to be quit so, People refusing to lend to others in Necessity, using severe Methods to get in their Debts, &c.

the Lord thy God redeemed thee; therefore I command thee this Thing to Day.

16. However if he says to thee, I will not go out from thee, because he loves thee and thy Family, since it is well for him with thee;

17. Then shalt thou take an Awl, and thrust through his Ear, at the Door, and he shall be a Servant to thee for ever; and to thy Servant-maid also thou shalt do so.

18. Thou shalt not think it hard, when thou lettest him go free from thee, because he has served thee in six Years double what one who is hired does: so the Lord thy God will bless thee in all that thou doest.

19. Every Firstling that is a Male, which is brought forth of thy Herd or Flock, shalt thou consecrate to the Lord thy God: thou shalt not work with the Firstling of thy Cow, nor shear the Firstling of thy Sheep.

20. Before the Lord thy God shalt thou eat it Year by Year, in the Place which the Lord shall choose, as likewise thy Family.

21. But when there is a Blemish in it, it being either lame or blind, or having any ill Blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it to the Lord thy God.

22. Thou shalt eat it within thy Gates, the unclean and clean together, like the Deer and Hart.

23. Only thou shalt not eat the Blood of it, thou shalt shed it upon the Ground like Water.

OBSEERVE the Month of Abib, and keep the Passover to the Lord thy God:

Ver. 18. double] Servants as it seems being then hired for three Years, Isa. xvi. 14. half the Time from one Sabbatical Year to another.

Ver. 19. Firstling of] being Females, in Contradistinction to that before, and because the Firstlings which were Males were given to be sacrificed the 8th Day, Exod. xiii. 15. & xxii. 30.

Ib. Cow] Bullock being a young Bull, from which a Firstling does not come.

Ver. 20. thou] whereas the Males belonged to the Priests, Num. xviii. 8, 17, 18. in which Manner Patrick expounds it: and consequently Ainsworth very wrong, 'this is not meant of the Owner, but spoken to the Priest;' which Ver. 19, 22. alone may disprove, where thou is plainly the same.

Ver. 2. Flock and Herd] on the seven Days of unleavened Bread belonging to the Passover, Ver. 3. Num. xxviii. 16, 17, 19, 24.

Ver. 6. is going down] according as on Exod. xii. 6. and at the going down of the Sun the next Day began.

Ib. at the appointed Time] namely of the Month Abib, in the Night after the 14th Day, Ver. 1. not the appointed Time of the Day, since the Israelites did not begin for in that Month he brought thee out of Egypt at Night.

2. So thou shalt sacrifice the Passover to the Lord thy God of the Flock and Herd, in the Place where the Lord shall choose to make his Name dwell.

3. Thou shalt not eat leavened Bread with it, but seven Days unleavened Cakes, the Bread of Affliction; because thou camest out of the Country of Egypt in Haste, that thou mayest remember the Day of thy coming out thence all the Days of thy Life.

4. Nay thou shalt have no Leaven seen in all thy Bounds seven Days; nor shall there abide all Night till the Morning, any of the Flesh which thou sacrificest in the Evening on the first Day.

5. Thou must not sacrifice the Passover, within one of thy Gates which the Lord thy God gives thee.

6. But at the Place where the Lord thy God shall choose to make his Name dwell, shalt thou do it in the Evening, as the Sun is going down, at the appointed Time that thou camest out of Egypt.

7. Which thou shalt boil, and eat there; then turn in the Morning, and go to thy Tents.

8. Six Days shalt thou eat unleavened Cakes; and on the seventh it shall be a solemn Day to the Lord thy God, thou shalt do no Business.

9. Seven Weeks shalt thou count up for thy self, and begin it from the Hook's first being in the standing Corn.

10. Thou shalt also keep the Feast of Weeks to the Lord thy God, with the Tribute of a Free-offering that thou hast, which thou shalt give; according as he blesses thee.

going from Egypt, till the next Morning or latter Part of the Night, Exod. xii. 22, 29, &c.

Ver. 7. boil] Since the Heb. Word signifies boil, and not roast, and the Lamb for the Passover was not to be boiled at all, but roasted, Exod. xii. 9. this may mean what was dressed the following Days, as in Ver. 2. especially as here is nothing of [it] in the Original; to which Purpose Ainsworth also remarks on it; see Ezek. xvi. 24. 1 Sam. ii. 13. nay it being the same Verb doubled in Exod. xii. 9. what it signifies was not to be done at all to the Paschal Lamb.

Ver. 8. solemn Day] See Lev. xxiii. 36.

Ver. 9. Seven Weeks] in which Time was their Harvest; see Exod. ix. 32. Lev. xxiii. 16.

Ib. first being] This might seem precarious and uncertain, were it not for fuller Information, which see Lev. xxiii. 10.

Ver. 10. give] Notwithstanding the Lord thy God is so very frequent, so near together, and twice in this Verse; after the Hebrew Manner sometimes in that Age, when the great Convenience of Pronouns was less adopted into Language than now; our Translators have needlessly made an Addition of it here with unto, instead of which him would have been sufficient, and better.

C H A P. XVII.

11. And thou shalt be glad before the Lord thy God, with thy Son, Daughter, Servant-man, Maid, the Levite who is within thy Gates, the Stranger, Fatherless and Widow, who are among you, in the Place where he shall choose to make his Name dwell.

12. For thou shalt remember, that thou wast a Slave in Egypt; so shalt observe, and do these Ordinances.

13. Thou shalt keep thee the Feast of Tabernacles seven Days, when thou hast gathered in what is of thy Floor and Winepress.

14. And shalt be glad at thy Feast, with thy Son, Daughter, Servant-man, Maid, the Levite, Stranger, Fatherless and Widow, who are within thy Gates.

15. Seven Days shalt thou feast to the Lord thy God, in the Place which the Lord shall choose; because he blesses thee in all thy Increase, and the Work of thy Hands, and shalt really be glad.

16. Three Times in a Year shall every Male of thine appear in the Presence of the Lord thy God, at the Place which he shall choose; in the Feast of unleavened Cakes, the Feast of Weeks, and that of Tabernacles: and they shall not appear in the Lord's Presence empty.

17. Each one shall give according to the Gift that he has, according to the Blessing which the Lord thy God has given thee.

18. Judges and Magistrates shalt thou appoint thee within all thy Gates, which the Lord thy God gives thee, throughout thy Tribes; and they shall judge the People with righteous Judgment.

19. Thou shalt not turn aside Judgment, nor acknowledge Faces: nor shalt thou take a Bribe; because that blinds the Eyes of the Wise, and perverts the Words of the Righteous.

20. Righteousness it self shalt thou follow; that thou mayest live, and inherit the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

21. Thou shalt not plant thee a Grove of any Wood near the Altar of the Lord thy God, which thou shalt make thee;

22. Nor shalt thou set thee up a Statue, which he hates.

THOU shalt not sacrifice to the Lord thy God, a Bullock or Sheep in which there is a Blemish, any Thing ill: for it is Abomination to him.

2. When there is found among you, within one of thy Gates which the Lord thy God gives thee, a Man or Woman who has done what he is displeased with, by transgressing his Covenant;

3. Having gone, and served other gods, and bowed down to them, whether the Sun, Moon, or any of the Army of Heaven, which I have not commanded;

4. And it is told thee, who upon hearing it, enquirest well, and behold it is Truth, a confirmed Thing, that this Abomination is done in Israel:

5. Then shalt thou bring out that Man, or that Woman, who has done this evil Thing, which of them soever it is, to thy Gate; and stone them with Stones, that they may die.

6. Upon the Evidence of two or three Witnesses shall he who deserves to die be put to death, he shall not upon the Evidence of one Witness.

7. The Hand of the Witnesses shall be on him first to put him to death, and afterwards the Hand of all the People: thus shalt thou take away the Evil from among you.

8. When a Matter for Judgment is too mysterious for thee, between different Sorts of Blood, between one Cause and the other, or between one Blow and another, Matters of Controversy within thy Gates; thou shalt get ready, and go up to the Place which the Lord thy God shall choose;

9. And coming to the Priests, Levites, and to the Judge who shall be in those Days, thou shalt enquire, and they shall tell thee the Manner of Judgment.

10. So thou shalt do according to the Sentence of the Matter, which they tell thee of that Place which the Lord shall choose; even observe to do entirely as they teach thee.

11. According to the Sentence of the Law which they teach thee, and the Judgment that they speak to thee, shalt thou do, Ver. 17. be has] in Heb. of his Hand.

Ver. 19. nor] The second Part of the Verse begins here, as pointed in the Heb. and not as in the Eng. Bible: for the two Reasons that conclude it, belong only to the taking a Bribe or Gift; which Cress has well observed, in Tag. Art. p. 192, 193.

Ver. 8. mysterious] as nearer to wonderful the Heb. than hard.

Ib. different Sorts of Blood] Murder and Man-slaughter.

not turning aside from the Matter which they tell thee, to the right Hand or left.

12. And that Man who does proudly, not hearkening to the Priest who stands to minister there to the Lord thy God, or to the Judge, shall die; so thou shalt take away the Evil from Israel.

13. Thus all the People shall hear, and fear, and behave proudly no more.

14. When thou art come into the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee, dost inherit it, and dwell therein, and shalt say, I will put a King over me, like all the Nations that are round about me;

15. Thou shalt solely put the King over thee whom the Lord thy God shall choose: from among thy Brethren shalt thou put one; thou must not set a strange Man over thee who is not thy Brother.

16. However he shall not have many Horses, nor make the People return to Egypt, in order to get many; because the Lord has enjoined you, to return that Way again no more.

17. Neither shall he have many Wives, that his Mind may not turn aside; nor shall he have very much Silver and Gold.

18. And when he sits upon the Throne of his Kingdom, he shall write him a Copy of this Law in a Book, from that which is before the Priests, the Levites.

19. Which shall be with him, and he shall read in it all the Days of his Life; in order that he may learn to fear the Lord his God, to observe all the Words of this Law and these Ordinances, to do them.

20. That his Mind may not be lifted up above his Brethren, and he turn aside from the Commandment to the right Hand or left; in order that he and his Children may have a long Time, in his Kingdom within Israel.

THE Priests, the Levites, being the whole Tribe of Levi, shall have no Share nor Possession with Israel; they shall eat the Lord's Offerings by Fire, and what he possesses.

2. So he shall have no Possession among his Brethren: the Lord himself being his Possession, as he said to him.

3. And this shall be the Due of the Priests from the People, from those who offer Sacrifices, whether Bullock or Sheep; there shall be given to the Priest the Shoulder, the two Cheeks and Maw.

4. The first of thy Corn, Wine and Oil, as also the first of the Fleece of thy Flock shalt thou give him.

5. For the Lord thy God has chosen him out of all thy Tribes, that he may stand to minister in the Name of the Lord, and his Sons at all Times.

6. And when a Levite comes from one of thy Gates out of all Israel, where he sojourned, and comes with the whole Desire of his Soul, to the Place which the Lord shall choose;

7. He shall minister in the Name of the Lord his God, like all his Brethren the Levites, who stand there before the Lord.

8. They shall have Shares alike to eat, besides each one's Sales from his Ancestors.

9. When thou art come into the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee, thou shalt not learn to do according to the Abominations of those Nations.

10. There shall not be found among you he who makes his Son or Daughter pass through the Fire, uses Divinations, is an Astrologer, Soothsayer, Wizard,

11. Uses Enchantment, enquires of a familiar Spirit, is a Sorcerer, or seeks to the Dead.

Ver. 14. shalt say] which shews God only permitted, not commanded them to have a King; agreeable likewise to 1 Sam. viii. 7, 9, 22. & xii. 13, 17. and Josephus, Antiq. Lib. i. 8.

Ver. 1. being] for they were the whole Tribe.

1b. by Fire] See Num. xviii. 9.

1b. what he possesses] other Things besides such Offerings.

Ver. 2. he] Levi, as a Tribe, the Heb. being thus.

Ver. 3. to the Priest] him who offers the Sacrifice, Lev. vii. 32, 33. so the Breast is omitted, as being given to the Priests in common, Lev. vii. 31. which shews the Breast is here rightly left out, notwithstanding Expositors have found it an insuperable Difficulty.

1b. two Cheeks and Maw] being added as they were now about to enjoy the promised Country, and so a larger Share might be afforded to the Priests: which also makes this as rational, as the Commentators had left it before unmeaning.

Ver. 10. pass through the Fire] When expressed thus, as it commonly is in Scripture, it is supposed by some not to be burning to death, as in Jer. vii. 31. or at least sometimes not; but Ezek. xvi. 21. & xx. 26. & xxiii. 37, 39. and its being called an Abomination, Jer. xxxii. 35. make it appear otherwise, and Jer. 7. 31. may be explanatory of this, especially as it is allowed Children were burned to Molech; and clear enough it seems, that 2 Kings xxiii. 10. means the same as Jer. vii. 31. and that it was done otherwise than to Molech, Jer. xix. 5. Psa. cvi. 38. nay 2 Chron. xxviii. 3. thus shews the Meaning of this Expression in 2 Kings xvi. 3. Accordingly our learned Selden says, Non modo traductos, sed etiam crematos in idoli sacrificium pueros illos esse vultus adfirmo: I firmly assert the Boys were not only led through, but also burnt in Sacrifice to the Idol, De Diis Syris Syntag. i. 6. where he proceeds to prove it by divers both profane and sacred Testimonies.

1b. Wizard] the Word being masculine.

Ver. 11. seeks to the Dead] in distinct Heb. Words, and as Isa. viii. 19.

12. For every one who does these Things is abominable to the Lord; and by reason of these Abominations the Lord thy God expels them from thy Presence.

13. Thou shalt be perfect with the Lord thy God.

14. For those Nations whom thou shalt succeed, hearkened to Astrologers and Diviners; but the Lord thy God does not so permit thee.

15. The Lord thy God will raise thee up a Prophet, from among you, of thy Brethren, like me; to whom you shall hearken.

16. According to all that thou didst thus request of him at Horeb, on the Day of the Congregation, Let me no more hear the Voice of the Lord my God, nor let me see this great Fire again, that I may not die.

17. And the Lord said to me; They have done well in what they have spoken.

18. I will raise them up a Prophet, from among their Brethren, like thee; will put my Words in his Mouth, and he shall speak to them all that I command him.

19. Nay the Man who will not hearken to my Words which he shall declare in my Name, I will require it of him.

20. But that Prophet who shall presumptuously speak a Matter in my Name, which I do not command him to speak, or who shall speak in the Name of other gods, shall die.

21. And if thou shalt say in thy Heart, How shall we know what Matter the Lord does not speak?

22. What a Prophet speaks in the Name of the Lord, and the Matter does not fall out, nor come to pass, that is a Matter which the Lord has not spoken: the Prophet has done it presumptuously, thou shalt not be afraid of him.

C H A P. XIX.

WHEN the Lord thy God has cut off the Nations, whose Country he gives thee, and thou succeedest them, dwelling in their Cities and Houses;

2. Thou shalt set thee apart three Cities within thy Country, which the Lord thy God gives thee to inherit it:

3. Preparing thee a Way, and dividing the Bounds of thy Country into three Parts, which he makes thee possess, that it may be for every Man-slayer to flee thither.

4. And this is the Case of a Man-slayer who shall flee thither, that he may live: He who kills his Neighbour unawares, when he did not hate him in time past;

5. For instance, one who goes with his Neighbour into a Wood to fell Trees, and striking his Hand with the Ax to cut down a Tree, the Iron comes off from the Wood, and hits his Neighbour, so that he dies; he shall flee to one of these Cities, that he may live:

6. Lest the Revenger of Blood should pursue after the Man-slayer when his Heart is hot, and overtaking him when the Way is long, should destroy the Life of him; whereas he does not deserve Death, because he did not hate him in time past.

7. Therefore I command thee, that thou shalt set thee apart three Cities.

8. And when the Lord thy God shall enlarge thy Bounds, as he sware to thy Forefathers, and shall give thee all the Country which he promised them he would;

9. If thou observe this whole Commandment to do it, which I command thee to Day, to love the Lord thy God, and go in his Ways at all Times; thou shalt add thee three Cities more, to those three:

10. That there may not be innocent Blood shed within thy Country, which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession, and Blood be charged upon thee.

11. But when a Man hates his Neighbour, and lying in wait for him, rises up against him, and destroys the Life of him, so that he dies, and flees to one of these Cities;

12. The Elders of his City shall send, and fetching him from thence, deliver him into the Power of the Revenger of Blood, that he may die.

13. Thy Eye shall have no compassion upon him, but thou shalt take away the Guilt of innocent Blood from Israel, that it may be well for thee.

14. Thou shalt not remove thy Neighbour's Bounds, which they have formerly made, in thy Possession that thou shalt possess, in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee to inherit it.

15. One Witness shall not rise up against a Person, for any Iniquity or Sin, through any Sin which he commits: upon the Evidence of two Witnesses, or that of three, shall a Matter be confirmed.

16. When an injurious Witness rises up against a Person, to testify an unjust Thing against him;

17. Both the Men who have the Controversy shall stand before the Lord, before the Priests and Judges who shall be in those Days.

18. And the Judges shall enquire well, and behold if the Witness is a false one, who has given Evidence against his Brother falsely;

19. Then shall you do to him, as he intended to do to his Brother; so shalt thou take away the Evil from among you.

20. And those who are left shall hear, fear, and do again no more such an evil Thing as this among you.

21. Thus shall thy Eye have no compassion: there shall be Life for Life, Eye for Eye, Tooth for Tooth, Hand for Hand, Foot for Foot.

C H A P. XX.

WHEN thou goest out to a Battle against thy Enemies, and seest Horses and Chariots, more People than you, be not afraid of them: for the Lord thy God is with thee, who brought thee up from the Country of Egypt.

2. And as you get near to the Battle, the Priest shall approach, and speak to the People,

3. Saying to them; Hear, O Israel, you are got near now to Battle against your Enemies; let not your Heart be cowardly, be not afraid, neither tremble for fear, nor be in dread by reason of them.

4. For the Lord your God goes with you, to fight for you with your Enemies, to save you.

5. The Officers shall also speak to the People as follows; What Man soever has built a new House, and not dedicated it, let him go back to his House; lest he should die in the Battle, and another Man dedicate it.

6. And what Man soever has planted a Vineyard, and not made use of it, let him go back home; lest he should die in the Battle, and another Man make use of it.

7. What Man soever too has espoused a Woman, and not taken her, let him go back home; lest he should die in the Battle, and another Man take her.

8. Nay the Officers shall speak further to the People thus, What Man is fearful, and of a cowardly Heart, let him go back home; that his Brethren's Heart may not be faint like his own.

9. And as soon as the Officers have done speaking to them, they shall appoint Captains of the Army, for Heads of the People.

10. When thou art come near to a City to fight against it, thou shalt proclaim Peace to it.

11. And if it answers thee with Peace, and opens to thee; all the People who are found in it shall be tributary to thee, and serve thee.

12. And if it will not make peace with thee, but will make war with thee, thou shalt lay siege against it.

13. And when the Lord thy God delivers it into thy Power, thou shalt put every Male of it to the Sword.

14. However the Women, Children, Cattle, and all that is in the City, the whole Spoil of it, shalt thou make thee a prey of, and eat the Spoil of thy Enemies which the Lord thy God gives thee.

15. So shalt thou do to all the Cities that are very far off from thee, which are not some of the Cities themselves of these Nations.

16. Only of the Cities of these People, which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession, thou shalt not keep alive any that breathes;

17. But shalt quite destroy them, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, as the Lord thy God has commanded thee:

18. In order that they may not teach you to do according to all their Abominations, which they do to their gods, whereby you will sin against the Lord your God.

Ver. 5. dedicated it] Not a Question, but as in Judg. vii. 3.

Ver. 6. make use of] or make common for the Use of the Owner, which was in the fifth Year, Lev. xix. 23, 24,

25. but the Word does not signify to eat of, nor gather the grapes of, as rendered Chap. xxviii. 30.

Ver. 9. for Heads] being a Preposition and Noun in Hebrew.

19. When thou besiegest a City a long Time, by fighting against it to take it, thou shalt not destroy the Trees of it, by striking an Ax against them, when thou mayest eat of them; so shalt not cut them down (because the Trees of the Field are for Man) to go from before thee into the Siege.

20. However the Trees which thou knowest that they are not Trees of Food, thou mayest destroy, and cut them down, building Fortifications against that City which makes war with thee, till it is subdued.

C H A P. XXI.

WHEN there is one found slain in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee to inherit it, having fallen in the Field, it being not known who killed him;

2. The Elders and Judges shall go out, and measure to the Cities which are round about him who is slain.

3. Next the Elders of that very City which is nearest to the Slain, shall take a Heifer of the Herd that has not been worked with, which has not drawn in a Yoke;

4. And they shall have it down into a rugged Valley, which has not been tilled nor sown, and shall cut off its Head there in the Valley.

5. Then the Priests the Sons of Levi shall go nigh (since the Lord thy God has chosen them to minister to him, and bless in the Name of the Lord, according to whose Command both every Controversy and Blow shall be)

6. All the Elders of that City in the mean time who are nearest to the Slain, washing their Hands over the Heifer, the Head of which is cut off in the Valley;

7. And they shall speak in this manner, Our Hands did not shed this Blood, nor our Eyes see it:

8. Purge it from thy People Israel whom thou hast redeemed, O Lord, and let not innocent Blood be put among thy People Israel. So the Blood shall be purged from them.

9. Thus wilt thou take away the Guilt of innocent Blood from among you, when thou doest what the Lord approves of.

10. When thou goest out to a Battle against thy Enemies, and the Lord thy God delivers them into thy Power, so that thou takest them prisoners;

11. And seeing among the Prisoners a Woman of beautiful Features, thou art so in love with her, that thou wouldest take her for thy Wife;

12. Thou shalt bring her home to thy House, and she shall shave her Head, and cut her Nails.

13. She shall also put away the Raiment of her Captivity from her, and abide in thy House, weeping for her Father and Mother the Space of a Month; and after that thou shalt go in to her, when thou hast married her to be thy Wife.

14. Afterwards if thou art not pleased with her, thou mayest send her away at her own Mind, but shalt not sell her at all for Money, not make Merchandise of her, forasmuch as thou hast humbled her.

Ver. 19. Trees of the Field] It is plain they were such as bore Fruit, because they might eat of them, and for the Distinction that follows of others not bearing Fruit, which the adverbative or disjunctive Conjunction וְ how- ever clearly shews; yet Pool interprets these to be un- fruitful Trees, and the same with those in the next Verse, which requires no farther Answer. Besides it is strange so many, but that they follow one another as usual, translate after this crude Manner, Is the Tree of the Field a Man, that it should come against thee in the Siege? as in Josephus, the Greek, Chaldee, Arabick and Vulgar Trans- lations, by Patrick from Selden de Jure Nat. & Gent. Lib. vi. 12. especially since it does not appear the Heb. Word signifies against: therefore Ainsworth (to omit others) renders, * is the tree of the field a man, to go  in from before thee* (which he interprets see from thee) * into the bulwarke? But this is still more jejune and insignificant; either of which would belong to other Trees as well as Fruit-trees, unless they only were supposed capable of fighting or running away. Nay some venture to add [not] only to make the same Meaning stronger in this Fashion, the Tree of the Field is not a Man, Patrick, &c.

Ib. to go] or be carried, as they might when they were cut down; but the Heb. does not at all signify employ.

Ver. 2. measure] if it be not certain without it.

Ver. 3. which has not drawn] for that was working, so that and should not be added in translating.

Ver. 7. they] both the Priests and Elders; or rather the former on Behalf of the latter, these answering, as the Hebrew may denote, in Concord to the Affirmation and Supplication.

Ver. 8. Purge] and shall be purged, the same Verb passive; which I do not find ever signifies either to be merciful, or to forgive.

Ver. 12. shave] by Way of Purification, to join her with the Israelites.

Ib. cut] Heb. do, as there is the same Verb for dressed, 2 Sam. xix. 24.

Ver. 13. Captivity] be not like a Captive in her intended Husband's House.

Ib. go in to her] lie with her, as this means, Gen. xvi. 2, 4. & xix. 31, 32. & xxix. 23, 30. so not before they were married.

Ver. 14. Afterwards] for I cannot agree with some, that this was before Marriage.

Ib. humbled her] * It must be acknowledged, says Patrick, that this is an usual Phrase, for having had carnal * Knowledge of a Woman; * adding, * from which I * see no Reason why we should depart in this Place: * yet presently explains it of her being kept a Month, &c. in Hope of Marriage, and rejected at last. Ainsworth

15. When

15. When a Man has two Wives, one beloved and the other slighted, who both bear him Children, and she who is slighted has the first-born Son;

16. At the Time that he makes his Sons possess what he has, he must not appoint the Son of the beloved for the first-born, before the Son of the slighted who is so.

17. But he shall acknowledge the latter to be the First-born, by giving him a double Portion of all that it is found he has; because he being the Beginning of his Power, the Right of the First-born belongs to him.

18. When a Man has an unruly and rebellious Son, who will not hearken to what his Father or Mother says, not even though they correct him;

19. They shall then take hold of him, and have him out to the Elders of his City, at the Gate of his Place,

20. And shall say to the Elders of his City, This our Son is unruly and rebellious, he will not hearken to what we say, is a Glutton and a Drunkard.

21. Upon which all the Men of it shall stone him with Stones, so that he may die, thus shalt thou take away the Evil from among you; and all Israel shall hear, and fear.

22. Besides when there is in a Man a Sin deserving Death, and he is put to death, thou hanging him upon a Tree;

23. His dead Body shall not abide all Night upon it, but thou shalt wholly bury him the same Day, because he who is hanged is cursed of God, that thy Country may not be defiled, which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession.

C H A P. XXII.

THOU shalt not see thy Brother's Ox or his Sheep driven away, and hide thy self from them; thou shalt thoroughly bring them back to him.

2. But if thy Brother is not near thee, or thou dost not know him; thou shalt take it into thy House, and it shall be with thee till he seeks for it, when thou shalt restore it to him.

3. And so shalt thou do with his Ass, so also shalt thou do with his Raiment, nay thou shalt do so with any lost Thing of thy Brother, which being lost from him, thou findest it; thou must not hide thy self.

4. Thou shalt not see thy Brother's Ass or his Ox fall in the Way, and hide thy self from them; thou shalt thoroughly help up with him.

5. A Woman shall not have on a Man's Things, nor shall a Man put on the Raiment of a Woman: for every one who does these Things is abominable to the Lord thy God.

6. When a Bird's Nest happens to be before thee in the Way, in any Tree, or upon the Ground, with young ones or Eggs, and the Dam sitting upon either of them; thou shalt not take the Dam together with the Brood.

7. Thou shalt quite let the Dam go, and take the Brood to thy self; that it may be well for thee, and thou mayest have the Time long.

8. When thou buildest a new House, thou shalt make a Breast-work to thy Roof; that thou mayest not cause Blood to be on thy House, when any one falls from it.

9. Thou shalt not sow thy Vineyard with diverse Kinds; that the Product of thy Seed which thou sowest, may not be consecrated with the Increase of thy Vineyard.

10. Thou shalt not plough with an Ox and an Ass together.

11. Thou shalt not wear a Thing mixed of Woolen and Linen together.

gives a very different Sense, but with the same Design, to shew it was not after Marriage, that is he would have this Verb used for unlawful Copulations; which may be granted, not excluding the lawful, as certainly it cannot be proved but it might have been used for the latter, especially with the Circumstance here attending it of being put away by the Husband, in which Case I believe the Scripture yields no Occasion of using it elsewhere; but has it however for a married Woman, Judg. xix. 24. Lam. v. 11. and probably a Man's own Wife, Ezek. xxii. 10. (see Lev. xx. 18.) if not Ver. 11. To conclude, does the Holy Scripture represent unlawful Things, even Fornication, to be lawful? And did the Israelites ravish all the Women they took captive? May I never so interpret.

Ver. 15. who both bear him Children] The Vulg. Lat. on the contrary, and he has begot of them Children; but adverse to the Heb. and possibly through Change of generint and so, into genuerit and eis, in the Lat.

Ver. 1. driven away] as the Heb. means, by a wild

Beast, Dog, &c. which might be more usual than to go astray of it self, from the Herd or Flock.

Ver. 2. into] Heb. to the middle or midst of, i. e. quite within the Outhouse, Stall or Fold.

Ver. 3. hide thy self] get away from it, pretending not to see it, Ver. 1, 4.

Ver. 7. let the Dam go] Diogenes Laertius writes in the Life of Xenocrates, that a Sparrow being pursued by a Hawk, fled into his Bosom, which he secured, saying he ought not to betray a Suppliant.

Ver. 8. Breast-work] a Fence at the Outside.

Ver. 9. that—not] Concerning this see Gen. iii. 3.

Ib. consecrated] or sanctified, which the Verb signifies frequently, but never to be defiled throughout the Scripture, according to Buxtorf's Concordance, &c. So Castal. has consecres, Munst. and the Tigur. Verf. sanctifices, Pagnin. and Montan. sanctificetur, the Vulg. Lat. sanctificentur, the Septuag. ἁγιασθήναι, Jun. and Trem. sanctus sit, should be holy. It seems to denote such as should be set apart for Tithes or First-fruits, which must not be several

12. Thou

12. Thou shalt make thee Fringes upon the four Skirts of thy Covering which thou art covered with.

13. When a Man takes a Wife, and having gone in to her, hates her;

14. So that he makes Occasions of Words against her, and puts out an ill Name upon her, saying, I took this Woman, and when I approached her, found her not a Virgin;

15. The Father and Mother of the young Woman shall take, and bring out that of her Virginity, to the Elders of the City at the Gate.

16. And her Father shall say to them; I gave my Daughter to this Man for a Wife, and he hates her;

17. So that behold he makes Occasions of Words, saying, I found thy Daughter not a Virgin; and yet this is that of my Daughter's Virginity; and they shall spread the Cloth before the Elders of that City.

18. Who upon this shall take the Man, and chastise him.

19. Besides they shall fine him a hundred Shekels of Silver, and give to the young Woman's Father, because he has put out an ill Name upon a Virgin of Israel; and she shall be his Wife, he must not send her away all his Days.

20. But if this Matter is true, that of Virginity being not found for the young Woman;

21. They shall bring her out to the Door of her Father's House, and the Men of her City shall stone her with Stones, that she may die; because she has done Vileness in Israel, by committing Whoredom at her Father's House: so shalt thou take away the Evil from among you.

22. When a Man is found lying with a Woman who is married to a Husband, they shall be put to death both of them; the Man who lies with the Woman, and she her self: so shalt thou take away the Evil from Israel.

23. When a young Woman who is a Virgin is espoused to a Man, and a Man meeting with her in the City, lies with her;

24. You shall bring them both out to the Gate of that City, and stone them with Stones, that they may die; the young Woman by reason that she did not cry out being in the City, and the Man by reason that he humbled his Neighbour's Wife: so shalt thou take away the Evil from among you.

25. But if a Man finds an espoused young Woman in the Field, and forcing her, lies with her; the Man alone who lay with her shall die.

26. Whereas thou shalt do Nothing to the young Woman, who has no Sin for Death: since as a Man rises up against his Neighbour, and kills him dead, so is this Matter;

27. Because he found her in the Field, the espoused young Woman cried out, and none saved her.

28. When a Man finds a young Woman that is a Virgin, who is not espoused, and taking hold of her, lies with her, and they are found;

29. The Man who lay with her shall give her Father fifty Shekels of Silver; and she shall be his Wife, forasmuch as he has humbled her, he must not send her away all his Days.

30. A Man shall not take his Father's Wife, nor uncover his Father's Skirt.

C H A P. XXIII.

HE whose secret Part is wounded, bruised or cut off, shall not come into the Congregation of the Lord.

Things mixed together. Of which however the Commentators have written obscurely and dissatisfactorily, as if they did not know how it was sanctified.

[ib. with] Vulg. Lat. pariter, together.

Ver. 17. this] The Word being plural in the Heb. only because its Substantive Virginity is, which is there never singular.

[ib. that of] as comprehended in the Heb. Nouns, and here was to pass for a full Proof or Demonstration, more than mere tokens.

[ib. Cloth] As what she either wore or lay in on the Wedding-night, where the sanguinary Mark was; especially in those who were young, as the Israelites married their Daughters for the sake of Increase. Of which other Commentators have said too much, considering the Subject; and that to the Discredit of the Scripture, as if this Law was never used; though besides what others relate, Dr. Perry gives a recent Instance of that Kind practised at Grand Caire, and Pists of Exon that it is still the Custom among the Turks or Moors: or as if it was not to be understood literally, but denoted the Proof of other Witnesses; though this must be the only one that could be brought, and as such the Insertion of it in the Law is justifiable, besides it being a great Means of keeping Women honest; and certainly the Law-giver would not have chosen to express other more expressible Things in such a Manner.

Ver. 28. taking hold] This being by Force, and that in Exod. xxii. 16, 17. by Persuasion, no wonder if the Penalties are not the same.

Ver. 1. bruised] This Heb. Word coming from a Verb that signifies to bruise, and is rendered contrite in the com. Transf. Isa. lvii. 15. Psa. xxxiv. 18. and in the other only Place where it is, viz. Psa. xc. 3. destruction; can scarce, one may think, be supposed to signify as now it stands the stones, for which there appears no other Proof than mere Imagination.

Ver. 1, 2, 3. not come into the Congregation] not be married to an Israelite, as the Jewish Doctors generally expound it, Selden, De Jure Nat. & Gent. Lib. v. 16. & De Successione in Pentif. Lib. ii. 2. and as may seem by Neb. xiii. 1, 3, 23, 25, 27, 30. besides the Difficulty of applying it otherwise.

2. A Bastard shall not come into the Congregation of the Lord, even to the tenth Generation shall not he who is of him come into it.

3. An Ammonite and Moabite shall not come into the Congregation of the Lord, even to the tenth Generation shall not he who is of them come into it for ever :

4. By reason that they did not meet you with Victuals and Drink, in the Way when you came out of Egypt; and because they hired against thee Balaam the Son of Beor, from Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse thee.

5. Nevertheless the Lord thy God would not hearken to Balaam, but did himself turn the Curse into a Blessing for thee; because the Lord thy God loved thee.

6. Thou shalt never seek their Peace, nor Welfare all thy Days.

7. Thou shalt not abhor an Edomite, because he is thy Brother: thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, because thou wast a Stranger in his Country.

8. The Children who are born of them shall come into the Congregation of the Lord in their third Generation.

9. When the Army goes out against thy Enemies, thou shalt take heed of every evil Thing.

10. When there is among you a Man who is not clean by reason of what happens at Night, he shall go forth without the Camp, not coming within it.

11. But at the Appearance of the Evening he shall wash in Water, and as soon as the Sun is set come within the Camp.

12. Moreover thou shalt have a Space without the Camp, whither thou shalt go out abroad;

13. And shalt have a Paddle upon thy Weapon, so that when thou easest thy self abroad, thou shalt dig with it, and turning back, cover thy Excrements.

14. For the Lord thy God will go about within thy Camp, to deliver thee, and give up thy Enemies before thee, so thy Camp shall be holy; that he may not see a filthy Thing among you, and turn back from after thee.

15. Thou shalt not deliver up a Servant to his Master, who is got away from his Master to thee.

16. He shall dwell with thee among you, in the Place which he chooses, within one of thy Gates where it is well to him: thou shalt not oppress him.

17. There shall be no Prostitute of the Daughters of Israel, nor shall there be a Sodomite of the Sons of Israel.

18. Thou shalt not bring the Hire of a Harlot, nor the Price of a Dog, to the House of the Lord thy God for any Vow; because both of them are Abomination to him.

19. Thou shalt not lend on Usury to thy Brother, whether with Usury of Money, Food, or any Thing which is lent in that Manner.

20. To a Stranger thou mayest lend so, but shalt not to thy Brother; that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all that thou takest in Hand, in the Country whither thou art going to inherit it.

21. When thou makest a Vow to the Lord thy God, thou shalt not delay performing it: for he will fully require it of thee, and it would be Sin in thee.

22. But if thou refrainest vowing, that will not be Sin in thee.

23. What comes out of thy Lips thou shalt observe, and do; when thou vowest a Free-offering to the Lord thy God, which thou speakest with thy Mouth.

24. When thou goest into thy Neighbour's Vineyard, thou mayest eat thy fill of Grapes according to thy Appetite; but shalt not put into thy Vessel.

25. When thou goest into thy Neighbour's standing Corn, thou mayest pluck off the Ears with thy Hand; but shalt not move a Hook in it.

CHAP. XXIV.

WHEN a Man takes a Woman, and having married her, if she is not in Favour with him, because he finds Something filthy in her; he may write her a Writing of Divorce, and giving it into her Hand, send her from his House.

2. And when she is gone out thence, she may go, and be another Man's.

3. Should the latter Man then hate her, and write her a Writing of Divorce, and

ib. of him] so the Heb. יל and in the next Verse מִן־לָּהֶם of them, according to Ver. 8. and certainly a Person did not live to his tenth Generation.

Ver. 3. for ever] at any Time hereafter. But to expound it as others do, that they should never enter, makes no Sense of saying, even to the tenth Generation. To enforce that Patrick observes, there were more than ten Generations past in Nebemiah's Time; whereas I don't suppose it was to be counted from the Time Moses spoke this, but from an Ammonite or Moabite becoming a Proselyte to Israel, and so for ever consists well with even to the tenth Generation.

Ver. 10. what happens] without uncleanness.

Ver. 1. may] as in the next Verse, and as this was but a permissive Precept, Matt. xix. 8. Mark x. 4. 5. Mal. ii. 16.

giving giving it into her Hand, send her from his House, or when the latter Man dies who took her for his Wife;

4. Her former Husband who sent her away must not take her again to be his Wife, after she is defiled, for that will be Abomination before the Lord: and thou shalt not make the Country sin, which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession.

5. When a Man takes a new Wife, he shall not go out to War, nor shall any Business be imposed upon him: he shall be quit at home one Year, and cheer his Wife whom he has taken.

6. The lower or upper Millstone shall not be taken in pledge, because that is taking the Life in pledge.

7. When a Man is found stealing a Person of his Brethren the Israelites, and makes merchandise of him, selling him, that Thief shall be put to death; so shalt thou take away the Evil from among you.

8. Take heed in the Plague of Leprosy to observe exceedingly, and to do, according to all that the Priests the Levites teach you; observing to do as I commanded them.

9. Remember what the Lord thy God did to Miriam, in the Way when you were come out of Egypt.

10. When thou lendest a Loan of any Thing to thy Neighbour, thou shalt not go into his House to take his Pledge:

11. Thou shalt stand without, and the Man to whom thou lendest shall bring it out to thee abroad.

12. And if the Man is poor, thou shalt not lie down with his Pledge:

13. Thou shalt thoroughly restore it to him when the Sun sets, that he may lie down in his own Cloaths, and bless thee; so it will be Righteousness to thee before the Lord thy God.

14. Thou shalt not oppress one who is hired, poor and needy, whether of thy own Brethren, or thy Strangers who are in thy Country within thy Gates.

15. On his Day shalt thou give him his Wages, and not let the Sun set upon it, because he is poor, and lifts up his Mind to it; that he may not call to the Lord against thee, and it be Sin in thee.

16. Fathers shall not be put to death for their Children, nor shall Children for the Fathers: each one shall be put to death for his own Sin.

17. Thou shalt not turn aside the Judgment of the Stranger or Fatherless, nor take a Widow's Garment in pledge.

18. But shalt remember that thou wast a Slave in Egypt, and the Lord thy God redeemed thee from thence: therefore I command thee to do this Thing.

19. When thou reapest thy Harvest in thy Field, and forgettest a Sheaf there, thou shalt not return to fetch it; the Stranger, Fatherless, or Widow shall have it: that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all the Work of thy Hands.

20. When thou beatest off thy Olives, thou shalt not brush the Branches behind thee; the Stranger, Fatherless, or Widow shall have such.

21. When thou gatherest in thy Vineyard, thou shalt not glean the Grapes behind thee; the Stranger, Fatherless, or Widow shall have such.

22. And thou shalt remember that thou wast a Slave in the Country of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this Thing.

C H A P. XXV.

WHEN there is a Controversy between Men, and they come to Judgment, that they may be judged; he who is righteous shall be justified, and he that is wicked condemned.

2. And if the wicked one deserves to be beat, the Judge shall make him lie down, and cause him to be beat in his Presence, by Stripes in Number according to his Wickedness:

3. He may beat him with forty, not more; lest beating him more, with many above these, thy Brother should appear vile to thee.

4. Thou shalt not muzzle the Ox when he treads out the Corn.

5. When Brothers dwell together, and one of them dies, having no Child, the Wife of the Deceased shall not be a strange Man's abroad: her Husband's Brother shall go in to her, having taken her for his Wife, and do a Husband's Brother's Part to her.

6. And the First-born whom she bears shall stand up in the Name of his deceased Brother, that his Name may not be blotted out of Israel.

7. But if the Man does not like to take his Brother's Wife, she shall go up to the Elders at the Gate, and say, My Husband's Brother refuses to raise up a Name for his Brother in Israel, he is not willing to do the Part of my Husband's Brother.

8. Upon which the Elders of his City shall call him, and speak to him, who standing fast, and saying, I do not like to take her;

9. His Brother's Wife shall come to him in their Presence, and pulling off his Shoe from his Foot, shall spit in his Face, and make this Answer, Thus shall it be done to the Man who will not build up his Brother's House.

10. And his Name shall be called in Israel, The Family of him whose Shoe was pulled off.

11. When Men contend together one with another, and the Wife of one going near to deliver her Husband from the Hand of the other who beats him, puts forth her Hand, and takes hold of his secret Parts;

12. Thou shalt cut off her Hand, thy Eye shall have no compassion.

13. Thou shalt not have several Weights in thy Bag, a great and a little one.

14. Thou shalt not have several Measures in thy House, a great and a little one.

15. Thou shalt have a perfect and just Weight, thou shalt have a perfect and just Measure; that thy Time may be long in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

16. For abominable to him is every one who does these Things, doing Injustice.

17. Remember what Amalek did to thee, in the Way when you were come out of Egypt;

18. How he met thee there, and killed the hindmost of thee, all who were weak behind thee, when thou wast faint and weary; and he did not fear God.

19. Therefore when the Lord thy God makes thee rest from all thy Enemies round about, in the Country which he gives thee for a Possession to inherit it, thou shalt not forget to blot out the Remembrance of Amalek from under Heaven.

C H A P. XXVI.

AND when thou art come into the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee for a Possession, and dost inherit it, dwelling therein;

2. Thou shalt take some of the first of all the Fruit of the Ground, which thou shalt bring of thy Country that the Lord thy God gives thee, putting it into a Basket, and going to the Place which he shall choose, to make his Name dwell there.

3. And thou shalt come to the Priest who is in those Days, and say to him, I declare this Day to the Lord thy God, that I am come into the Country which the Lord swore to our Forefathers he would give us.

4. With that the Priest shall take the Basket out of thy Hand, and set it before the Altar of the Lord thy God.

5. Before whom thou shalt make the following Declaration: My Father was a Syrian perishing, and went down to Egypt, sojourning there with a few Persons; but became there a great, numerous, and large Nation.

6. At which the Egyptians dealt ill with us, afflicted us, and put hard Service upon us;

7. Yet when we cried to the Lord God of our Fathers, the Lord hearkened to what we said, and looked on our Affliction, Labour and Oppression.

8. Then he brought us out of Egypt by a strong Hand, and an Arm stretched out, as likewise by great Fear, by Signs and Miracles.

9. He further brought us to this Place, and has given us this Country, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

10. And now behold I have brought the first Fruit of the Ground, which thou hast given me, O Lord. So setting it before the Lord thy God, thou shalt worship before him.

11. Afterwards thou, with the Levite, and the Stranger who is among you, shalt be glad for all the Good, which the Lord thy God has given thee and thy Family.

12. When thou hast done taking the Tithe of all thy Crop in the third Year, the Year of Tithe, and hast given it to the Levite, Stranger, Fatherless and Widow, that they may eat within thy Gates, and be satisfied;

13. Thou shalt say before the Lord thy God; I have taken away what is consecrated from home, and also given it to the Levite, Stranger, Fatherless and Widow, according to the whole Commandment which thou didst command me; have neither transgressed nor forgot thy Commandments.

14. I have not eat of it in my Sorrow, nor taken away any of it for an unclean Thing, nor given any of it for the Dead: I have hearkened to what the Lord my God said, have done entirely as thou didst command me.

15. Look from Heaven thy holy Habitation, and bless thy People Israel, with the Ground which thou hast given us, as thou didst swear to our Forefathers, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

16. This Day the Lord thy God commands thee to do these Ordinances and Rules; thou shalt therefore observe and do them, with thy whole Heart and Soul.

17. Thou hast affirmed to Day the Lord is a God to thee, that thou wilt go in his Ways, observe his Ordinances, Commandments and Rules, and hearken to what he says.

18. And the Lord has affirmed to Day thou art a peculiar People to him, as he spoke to thee, and must observe all his Commandments.

19. That he may put thee the highest of all Nations which he has made, in Praise, Name and Glory; and that thou mayest be a holy People to the Lord thy God, as he has spoken.

C H A P. XXVII.

AND Moses, with the Elders of Israel, commanded the People as follows: Observe all the Commandments which I order you to Day.

2. And at the Time that you pass over Jordan, to the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee, thou shalt set thee up great Stones, and plaister them with Lime.

3. Upon these thou shalt write all the Words of this Law, when thou art passed over; in order that thou mayest go into the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey, as the Lord God of thy Fathers has spoken to thee.

4. So when you are passed over Jordan, you shall set up these Stones which I command you to Day at Mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaister them with Lime.

5. And shalt build there to the Lord thy God an Altar of Stones, moving no Iron upon them.

6. With whole Stones shalt thou build it, and offer up Burnt-offerings upon it to the Lord thy God.

7. Thou shalt also sacrifice Peace-offerings, and eat there, being glad before him.

8. Moreover thou shalt write upon the Stones all the Words of this Law, expressing them well.

9. Besides Moses, and the Priests the Levites, spoke as follows to all Israel; Attend, and hearken, O Israel, this Day thou art become a People to the Lord thy God.

10. Therefore shalt thou hearken to what he says, doing his Commandments and Ordinances, which I command thee to Day.

11. Moses further commanded the People thus on that Day:

12. These shall stand upon Mount Gerizzim to bless the People, when you are passed over Jordan, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph and Benjamin:

13. As these shall on Mount Ebal for cursing, Reuben, Gad and Asher, with Zebulun, Dan and Naphtali.

14. And the Levites shall speak, and say to all the Men of Israel with an exalted Voice:

15. The Man is cursed who makes a carved or molten Image, an Abomination to the Lord, the Work of the Artificer's Hands, and puts it into a secret Place; and all the People shall make answer, So let it be.

16. He is cursed who makes his Father or Mother base; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

17. He is cursed who removes his Neighbour's Bounds; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

Ver. 12. upon] The Valley between these two Mounts being not above a Furlong broad, as in Maundrell's Journey from Aleppo to Jerusalem, so that the People between might hear. That Author further informs us, that Gerizzim is on the South, and Ebal on the North, and the first is the more fertile: which I observe agrees with the Description of Benjamin the Jew of Tudela, who says, 'בְּהַר גִּרְזִימַי מְעִינֹת וּפְרָדִים וְהָרַק עֵבֶל יֵשׁ כְּאֶבֶן,' On Mount Gerizzim are Fountains and Orchards, but Mount Ebal is dry like Stones and Rocks; see Josh. viii. 33.

19. He is cursed who turns aside the Judgment of the Stranger, Fatherless or Widow; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

20. He is cursed who lies with his Father's Wife, because he uncovers his Father's Skirt; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

21. He is cursed who lies with any Beast; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

22. He is cursed who lies with his Sister, either his Father's or Mother's Daughter; and all the People shall say, So let it be.

C H A P. XXVIII.

AND if thou wilt at all hearken to what the Lord thy God says, to observe to do all his Commandments which I enjoin thee to Day, he will make thee the highest of all Nations of the Earth.

2. Nay all these Blessings will come to thee, overtaking thee, when thou hearkenest to what the Lord thy God says.

3. Thou shalt be blessed in the City, as thou shalt also in the Field.

4. The Fruit of thy Body shall be blessed, the Fruit of thy Land, and that of thy Cattle, the Young of thy Cows, and the Flocks of thy Sheep.

5. Thy Basket and Kneading-vessel shall be blessed.

6. Thou shalt be blessed when thou comest in, as thou shalt when thou goest out.

7. The Lord will make thy Enemies, who rise up against thee, be smitten before thee: coming out against thee one Way, they will flee seven Ways before thee.

8. The Lord will command a Blessing to be with thee in thy Barns, and in all that thou takest in Hand, blessing thee in the Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

9. The Lord will establish thee for a holy People to himself, as he has sworn to thee, when thou observest the Commandments of the Lord thy God, and goest in his Ways.

10. And all the People of the Earth, seeing that thou art called by the Name of the Lord, will be afraid of thee.

11. And the Lord will make thee abound in what is good; in the Fruit of thy Body, the Fruit of thy Cattle, and that of thy Ground, in the Country which the Lord swore to thy Forefathers that he would give thee.

12. The Lord will open his good Treasury to thee, the Heaven to give thy Land Rain in its Season, and to bless all the Work of thy Hand; so that thou shalt lend to many Nations, but shalt not borrow.

13. Besides the Lord will make thee the Head, and not the Tail, as thou shalt be only above, and not below; when thou hearkenest to the Commandments of the Lord thy God, which I give thee in charge to Day, to observe and do them;

14. And dost not turn aside from any of the Things which I command you to Day, to the right Hand or left, to go after other gods to serve them.

15. But if thou wilt not hearken to what the Lord thy God says, to observe to do all his Commandments and Ordinances, which I command thee to Day; all these Curses will come to thee, overtaking thee.

16. Thou shalt be cursed in the City, as thou shalt also in the Field.

17. Thy Basket and Kneading-vessel shall be cursed.

18. The Fruit of thy Body shall be cursed, and that of thy Land, the Young of thy Cows, and the Flocks of thy Sheep.

19. Thou shalt be cursed when thou comest in, as thou shalt when thou goest out.

20. The Lord will send on thee Cursing, Vexation and Rebuke, in all that thou takest in Hand and doest; till thou art destroyed, and till thou perishest quickly, by reason of the Evil of thy Deeds, by which thou forsakest me.

21. The Lord will make the Pestilence cleave to thee, till he has consumed thee from the Country, whither thou art going in to inherit it.

22. The Lord will smite thee with the Consumption, Fever, Inflammation, violent Burning, Sword, Blasting and Mildew; and they shall pursue thee till thou perishest.

23. Thy Heaven also which is over thy Head will be like Brass, and the Earth which is under thee like Iron.

24. The Lord will make the Rain of thy Country Dust and Powder; it shall come down from Heaven upon thee, till thou art destroyed.

25. The Lord will make thee be smitten before thy Enemies: going out against them one Way, thou wilt flee seven Ways before them; and wilt be disturbed in all the Kingdoms of the Earth.

26. Thy dead Body too will become Food to all the Fowls of the Air, and to the Beasts of the Earth, none frightening them away.

27. The Lord will smite thee with the Boil of Egypt, the Piles, Scurvy and Itch, of which thou canst not be cured.

28. The Lord will smite thee with Distraction, Blindness, and Astonishment of Heart.

29. So that thou wilt feel about at Noon, as the Blind does in Darkness, and not make thy Ways prosperous: nay thou wilt be only oppressed, and spoiled at all Times, none saving.

30. Thou wilt espouse a Wife, and another Man will lie with her; wilt build a House, and not dwell in it; plant a Vineyard, and not make use of it.

31. Thy Ox will be killed in thy Sight, and thou wilt eat none of it; thy Ass will be taken by force from before thee, and not be restored to thee; thy Sheep will be given to thy Enemies, none saving them for thee.

32. Thy Sons and Daughters will be given to another People, for whom thy Eyes will look and fail every Day, and there will be Nothing in the Power of thy Hand.

33. A People whom thou dost not know will eat the Fruit of thy Ground, and all that thou labourest for; whereas thou wilt be only oppressed, and crushed at all Times.

34. Inasmuch that thou wilt be distracted, for what thou seest with thy Eyes.

35. The Lord will smite thee with a grievous Boil, upon the Knees and Legs, nay from the Sole of thy Foot to thy Crown, of which thou canst not be cured.

36. The Lord will cause thee, and thy King whom thou settest up over thee, to go to a Nation which neither thou nor thy Fathers have known; where thou mayest serve other gods, Wood and Stone.

37. And thou wilt become an Astonishment, Proverb and Taunt, among all the People whither the Lord leads thee.

38. Thou wilt carry out much Seed into the Field, and gather in little; for the Locusts will consume it.

39. Thou wilt plant and dress Vineyards, and not drink the Wine, nor gather: for the Worms will eat what there is.

40. Thou wilt have Olive-trees in all thy Borders, and not anoint thee with Oil: for thy Olive-tree will cast off.

41. Thou wilt beget Sons and Daughters, and not have them: for they will go into Captivity.

42. All the Wood and Fruit of thy Ground, will the Locusts inherit.

43. The Stranger who is among you, will get up very high above thee, and thou wilt come down very low.

44. He will lend to thee, and thou wilt not to him: he will be the Head, and thou wilt be the Tail.

45. Thus will all these Curses come to thee, pursuing thee, and overtaking thee, till thou art destroyed; because thou dost not hearken to what the Lord thy God says, to observe his Commandments and Ordinances, which he enjoins thee.

46. And they shall be on thee for a Sign and Token, and on thy Offspring for ever:

47. Forasmuch as thou dost not serve the Lord thy God, with Gladness and Chearfulness of Heart, for the Abundance of all Things.

48. And thou wilt serve thy Enemies, whom the Lord will send against thee, in Hunger, Thirst, Nakedness, and Want of all Things; nay he will put an iron Yoke upon thy Neck, till he has destroyed thee.

49. The Lord will bring up a Nation against thee from far, from the End of the Earth, as an Eagle that flies swiftly, a Na-

51. It will also eat the Fruit of thy Cattle, and that of thy Ground, till thou art destroyed: one which will not leave thee Corn, Wine or Oil, the Young of thy Cows, or Flocks of thy Sheep, till it has made thee perish.

52. Besides it will besiege thee at all thy Gates, till thy high and fortified Walls come down, wherein thou trustest in all thy Country: it will even besiege thee at all thy Gates, in thy whole Country which the Lord thy God gives thee.

53. Nay thou wilt eat the Fruit of thy Body, the Flesh of thy Sons and Daughters, whom the Lord thy God gives thee, in the Siege and Streightness, with which the Enemy will streighten thee.

54. The Man who is tender among you, and very delicate, will have an evil Eye towards his Brother, the Wife of his Bosom, and the rest of his Children whom he has left;

55. Not to give one of them any of the Flesh of his Children, that he will eat, without leaving him any; in the Siege and Streightness, with which thy Enemy will streighten thee at all thy Gates.

56. The tender and delicate Woman among you, who will not try to set the Sole of her Foot upon the Ground, for Delicateness and Tenderneſs, will have an evil Eye towards the Husband of her Bosom, her Son and Daughter;

57. As also towards her Infant who comes out from between her Feet, and her Children whom she bears: for she will eat them secretly, through the Want of all Things, in the Siege and Streightness, with which thy Enemy will streighten thee at thy Gates.

58. If thou wilt not observe to do all the Things of this Law, written in this Book, to fear this glorious and fearful Name The Lord thy God;

59. The Lord will make thy own Plagues and those of thy Offspring wonderful, great and confirmed ones, with grievous and confirmed Distempers.

60. Moreover he will bring on thee again all the Diseases of Egypt, by reason of which thou art afraid, and they will cleave to thee.

61. Every Sickness and Plague likewise which is not written in the Book of this Law, will the Lord bring them upon thee, till thou art destroyed.

62. And you will be left few Persons, whereas you were as the Stars of Heaven for Multitude; because thou dost not hearken to what the Lord thy God says.

63. As the Lord too was joyful concerning you, to do well for you, and multiply you; so will he be joyful concerning you, to make you perish, and destroy you: and you will be plucked away from the Country, whither thou art going to inherit it.

64. And the Lord will disperse thee among all People, from one End of the Earth to the other; where thou mayest serve other gods, that neither thou nor thy Fathers knew, Wood and Stone.

65. Among which Nations thou wilt not be quiet, nor will the Sole of thy Foot have rest; but the Lord will give thee there a trembling Heart, Failing of Eyes, and Sorrow of Mind.

66. Inſomuch that thy Life will as it were hang at a distance from thee, and thou wilt be in dread Night and Day, believing thou shalt not live.

67. In the Morning thou wilt say, Oh that it was Evening! as thou wilt in the Evening, Oh that it was Morning! for the Dread of thy Heart which thou wilt have, and the Sight of thy Eyes which thou wilt see.

68. To conclude, the Lord will have thee back the Way to Egypt in Ships, of which I said to thee, Thou shalt see it again no more; where you will be put to sale to your Enemies, for Servant-men and Maids, and none will buy.

C H A P. XXIX.

THESE are the Words of the Covenant, which the Lord commanded Moses to make with the Israelites, in the Country of Moab, besides the Covenant which he made with them at Horeb.

2. And Moses called all Israel, and said to them: You have seen all that the Lord did in your Sight in the Country of Egypt, to Pharaoh, all his Servants, and his whole Country;

3. The great Trials which thy Eyes saw, those great Signs and Miracles.

4. Yet the Lord has not caused your Heart to know, Eyes to see, nor Ears to hear, to this Day.

5. And I having conducted you forty Years in the Wilderness, your Garments did not decay from you, nor thy Shoe decay from thy Foot.

6. You neither eat Bread, nor drank Wine or strong Drink; in order for you to know that I am the Lord your God.

7. Upon your coming also to this Place, Sihon King of Heshbon, and Og King of Bashan, came out to meet us in Battle, and we beat them:

8. Whose Country we took, and gave it for a Possession to the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the Tribe of Manasseh.

9. So observe the Things of this Covenant, and do them; that you may have success in all which you do.

10. You stand to Day all of you before the Lord your God, your chief ones of your Tribes, your Elders and Magistrates, with all the Men of Israel,

11. Your Children, Wives, and thy Stranger who is within thy Camp, whether a Hewer of thy Wood, or a Drawer of thy Water;

12. To come into the Covenant of the Lord thy God, and into his Oath, which the Lord thy God makes with thee to Day:

13. That he may establish thee to Day a People to himself, and he may be a God to thee, as he promised thee, and as he sware to thy Forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

14. Neither with you alone, do I make this Covenant and Oath:

15. For it is both with him who stands here with us to Day, before the Lord our God, and with him who is not here with us to Day;

16. Because you know how we dwelt in the Country of Egypt, and how we passed within the Nations, through which you passed.

17. And you saw their Abominations and filthy Idols, Wood and Stone, Silver and Gold, which were with them:

18. Lest there should be among you Man, Woman, Family, or Tribe, whose Heart turns away to Day from the Lord our God, to go to serve the gods of those Nations; lest there should be a Root among you, that bears Fruit of Hemlock and Wormwood:

19. Who upon his hearing the Words of this Curse, blesses himself in his Heart thus, I shall have Peace, though I go in the Imagination of my own Heart, to add Drunkenness to Thirst.

20. The Lord will not pardon him, but then his Anger and Zeal will smother against that Man, every Curse that is written in this Book will lie on him, and the Lord will blot out his Name from under Heaven.

21. Even the Lord will separate him to what is ill, from all the Tribes of Israel, according to all the Curses of the Covenant that are written in this Book of the Law.

22. And the following Generation of your Children will say, who shall rise up after you, and the Foreigner who shall come from a Country far off, when they see the Plagues of that Country, and the Diseases with which the Lord makes it sick;

23. All the Land of it being burnt with Brimstone and Salt, not sown, nor sprouting forth, nor any Grass coming up on it, like the Overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which the Lord overthrew in his Anger and Wrath;

24. Nay all Nations will say, Wherefore has the Lord done thus to this Country? Why is the Heat of this great Anger?

25. To which it will be answered: Because they have forsaken the Covenant of the Lord God of their Fathers, which he made with them, when he brought them out of the Country of Egypt.

26. As they have gone, and served other gods, and bowed down to them, gods that that they did not know, nor he distribute to them.

27. Therefore was the Lord angry with that Country, to bring upon it every Curse which is written in this Book.

28. And the Lord has rooted them out from their own Ground, in Anger, Wrath, and great Fury: throwing them out into another Country, as at this Time.

29. Secret Things belong to the Lord our God, but those which are revealed to us and our Children for ever, that we may perform all the Things of this Law.

C H A P. XXX.

HOWEVER when all these Things come to thee, the Blessing and the Curse which I put before thee, and thou recallest them to thy Mind, in all the Nations whither the Lord thy God has driven thee;

2. So that thou returnest to him, and hearkenest to what he says, entirely as I command thee to Day, and thy Children, with thy whole Heart and Soul;

3. Then will the Lord thy God turn back thy Captivity, having compassion upon thee, and gather thee again from all the People, whither he has dispersed thee.

4. If there is any of thine driven to the End of the Heaven, from thence will the Lord thy God gather thee, and from thence fetch thee;

5. And he will bring thee into the Country which thy Fathers inherited, and thou shalt inherit it; nay he will do so well for thee, that he will multiply thee more than thy Fathers.

6. The Lord thy God will also circumcise thy Heart, and that of thy Offspring, to love himself with thy whole Heart and Soul, that thou mayest live.

7. Besides the Lord thy God will put all these Curses upon thy Enemies, and upon the Haters of thee who persecute thee;

8. As thou returnest, and hearkenest to what the Lord says, and doest all his Commandments which I order thee to Day.

9. Nay the Lord thy God will make thee abound in all the Work of thy Hand, in the Fruit of thy Body, in that of thy Cattle, and that of thy Ground for Good: for the Lord will again be joyful concerning thee for Good, as he was concerning thy Fathers;

10. When thou hearkenest to what the Lord thy God says, to observe his Commandments and Ordinances, that are written in this Book of the Law; when thou returnest to him, with thy whole Heart and Soul.

11. For this Commandment which I enjoin thee to Day, is not hid from thee, nor is it far off.

12. It is not in Heaven, for thee to say, Who shall go up to Heaven for us, fetch it to us, and let us hear it, that we may do it?

13. Nor is it beyond the Sea, for thee to say, Who shall pass over the Sea for us, fetch it to us, and let us hear it, that we may do it?

14. But the Word is very near thee, in thy Mouth and Heart, for thee to perform the same.

15. See I have put before thee to Day, Life, and what is good; as also Death, and what is ill:

16. Since I command thee to Day to love the Lord thy God, to go in his Ways, and to observe his Commandments, Ordinances and Rules; that thou mayest live, and multiply, and the Lord thy God may bless thee in the Country, whither thou art going in to inherit it.

17. On the contrary if thy Heart turns away, and thou wilt not hearken, but art driven away, so that thou worshippest other gods, and serveest them;

18. I declare to you to Day, that you will utterly perish, will not have the Time long in the Country whither thou art passing over Jordan to go in to inherit it.

19. I call Heaven and Earth to bear witness against you to Day, that I have put Life and Death before thee, Blessing and Cursing: so choose Life, that thou and thy Offspring may live;

20. By loving the Lord thy God, by hearkening to what he says, and cleaving to

Ver. 28. rooted them out from their own Ground—throwing them, &c.] How fine and natural the Image! And how clear in the Original, by Ground and Country being from different Words there! But confounded, and so obscured, in our Translation.

Ver. 29. Tyndal translating and publishing the Books of the New Test. and the Pentateuch, concluded his Prologue to Deut. with Reference to this Verse in these Words, him (for of him is thy Life, and the Length of thy Time) that thou mayest dwell in the Country which the Lord sware to thy Forefathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that he would give them.

C H A P. XXXI.

AND Moses went, and spoke these Words to all Israel,

2. Saying to them; I being now in my hundred and twentieth Year, can no more go out and come in, the Lord having said to me, Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

3. The Lord thy God himself will pass over before thee, he will destroy these Nations from before thee, and thou shalt inherit them: Joshua himself shall pass over before thee, as the Lord has spoken.

4. And the Lord will do to them, as he did to Sihon and Og Kings of the Amorites, and to their Country, whom he destroyed.

5. For the Lord will deliver them up before you, that you may do to them, according to every Commandment which I have bid you.

6. Be you courageous, and valiant, do not fear, nor be afraid by reason of them: for the Lord thy God himself goes with thee, he will not neglect thee, nor forsake thee.

7. Besides Moses called to Joshua, and said to him in the Sight of all Israel; Be courageous, and valiant: for thou shalt go with this People into the Country which the Lord sware to their Forefathers that he would give them, and thou shalt make them possess it.

8. And the Lord himself will go before thee, he will be with thee, will not neglect thee, nor forsake thee: do not fear, nor be daunted.

9. Moses also wrote this Law, and gave it to the Priests, the Sons of Levi, who carried the Ark of the Lord's Covenant, and to all the Elders of Israel.

10. Whom he commanded as follows; At the Term of seven Years, in the Solemnity of the Year of Release, in the Feast of Tabernacles,

11. When all Israel come to appear in the Presence of the Lord thy God, in the Place which he shall choose, thou shalt read this Law before them in their Hearing.

12. Gather the People together, Men, Women and Children, with thy Stranger who is within thy Gates: that they may hear, and that they may learn, as also fear the Lord your God, and observe to do all the Things of this Law;

13. And that their Posterity who do not know may hear, and learn to fear the Lord your God, all the Days that you live in the Country, whither you are passing over Jordan to inherit it.

14. And the Lord said to Moses, Lo thy Time draws near for thee to die; call Joshua, and present your selves in the publick Tent, that I may command him. Accordingly Moses and Joshua went, and presenting themselves in the publick Tent,

15. The Lord appeared there in the Pillar of a Cloud, which stood at the Tent-door.

16. And he said to Moses: Behold when thou art laid down with thy Fathers, this People will rise up, and go a whoring after the gods of the Strangers of the Country, whither they are going in among them, and forsake me, breaking my Covenant which I have made with them.

17. Upon which I shall be angry with them at that Time, when I will not only forsake them, and hide my Face from them, but they shall be consumed, many Evils and Distresses coming on them; so that they will say at that Time, Are not these Evils come on us, because our God is not among us?

18. I will even wholly hide my Face at that Time, for every Evil which they have done, because they are turned away to other gods.

19. Now therefore write this Poem for your selves, and teach it to the Israelites, putting it in their Mouths; that it may be a Witness for me against them.

20. For when I have brought them into the Country, of which I sware to their Fathers, that flows with Milk and Honey, and they have eat, are satisfied, and become fat; they will turn away to other gods, and serve them, contemning me, and breaking my Covenant.

21. So that when many Evils and Distresses come on them, this Poem will testify for a Witness to their Face, since it shall not be forgot out of the Mouths of their Offspring: for I know their Imagination which they practise at this Time, before I have had them into the Country of which I swear.

22. Accordingly Moses wrote this Poem that Day, and taught it to the Israelites.

23. He also commanded Joshua the Son of Nun as follows: Be courageous, and valiant: for thou shalt have the Israelites into the Country of which I swear to them, and I will be with thee.

24. And when Moses had done, having written the Words of this Law in a Book till they were finished,

25. He commanded the Levites who carried the Ark of the Lord's Covenant thus;

26. Take this Book of the Law, and put it at the Side of the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a Witness against thee.

27. For I know thy Rebellion and stiff Neck: lo while I am yet alive with you to Day, you are rebellious against the Lord, and much more after my Death.

28. Gather together to me all the Elders of your Tribes, and your Magistrates; that I may speak these Words in their Hearing, and call Heaven and Earth to bear witness against them.

29. For I know that after my Death you will become quite corrupt, and turn aside from the Way which I have commanded you; so that Evil will befall you in the latter Days, because you do what the Lord is displeased with, by provoking him with the Work of your Hands.

30. So Moses spoke in the Hearing of the whole Congregation of Israel, the Words of this Poem, till they were finished.

GIVE ear, high Heaven, while I shall speak; and hear, thou Earth, the Matters of my Mouth.

2. My Doctrine shall drop as drops the Rain, my Speech distil as does the Dew: now mild like Mists to tender Herbs, now sharp like Showers on noxious Weeds.

3. For it is the Name of the Lord that I proclaim: ascribe you Greatness to our God;

4. To him firm with the Rock, but beyond Compare, whose Work is perfect, for all his Ways are right: the true God, and in Nothing amiss, most righteous and unerring is he.

5. Whereas these corrupt themselves, unlike his Children they have Stains, they are a perverse and froward Generation.

6. Is this your requiting the Lord, O People, both ungrateful and unwise? Is not he thy Parent, a Parent who purchased thee, promoted thee, and settled thee?

7. Call to mind the ancient Days, consider over the Years of Ages; ask thy own Father, for he will inform his Son, thy Elders, and they will say the same:

8. When the Highest gave the Nations Inheritance, when he made the Separation among Mankind; he set the Bounds of such and such People by the Sum of the Posterity of Israel.

9. For the Lord's Part is his own People, Jacob is the Parcel of his own Possession.

10. Him he sufficed in the Wilds of the Wilderness, in the waste and dreary Desert: he had him about, instructed him, kept him as safe as the Apple of his Eye.

hovers over its Young, expands its Pinions, takes them, carries them upon its Wings;

12. The Lord alone led him, when there was no strange god with him.

13. He made him ride upon the high Places of the Earth, so that he eat the Fruit of the Field; nay caused him to suck forth Honey from the Rock, and out of the flinty Rock have Oil.

14. There was Butter of the Herd, and Milk of the Flock, with the Fat of Lambs, and Rams of the Breed of Bashan, not excepting even Goats, with the Fat of Kidneys of Corn the Wheat; and thou didst drink red Wine, the Blood of the Grape.

15. But Jeshurun become fat, now kicks; thou art fattened, grown thick, covered over: so he has forsaken God his Maker, and slightly valued the Rock of his Salvation.

16. They make him jealous with strange gods, provoke him with Abominations.

17. They sacrifice to Devils, not to God, to gods that they did not know: to new ones lately come, whom your Forefathers were not afraid of.

18. Thou hast forgotten the Rock that begat thee, and art unmindful of God who formed thee.

19. Which the Lord seeing, is irritated; for the Indignation of it to be by his Sons and Daughters,

20. And declares: I will hide my Face from them, I shall see what their End will be; as they are a Generation perverse, Persons in whom there is no Faith at all.

21. They make me jealous with what is not God, provoke me with their very Vanities: so will I make them jealous with those who are not a People, will provoke them by a Nation very vile.

22. For a Fire is lighted in my Anger, which shall burn to the Bottom of Hell, consume the Earth it self with its Crop, and set on fire the Foundations of the mighty Hills.

23. Calamity to Calamity will I add against them, I will shoot out all my Arrows at them.

24. They shall be parched with corroding Famine, the inflammatory Fever shall feed upon them, and nameless direful Diseases; nay commissioned by me the tearing Teeth of Beasts shall attack them, with the rankling Venom of lurking Serpents.

25. War from without, and dreadful Danger from within, shall deprive both of young Man and Maid, sucking Child with aged Person.

26. I say; I would drive them into distant Corners, would make the Remembrance of them perish among Men;

27. But that I fear the Fury of the Foe, lest their Enemies should behave with strange Extravagance, lest they should vaunt, Our own high Hand, and no offended Deity has done all this.

28. For these are a Nation void of Advice, and no Understanding dwells within them.

29. Oh that they were wise, would consider this, would understand what will be their End!

30. How should one pursue a thousand, nay two make ten thousand flee; if it was not because their Rock had sold them, and the Lord delivered them up?

31. For their Rock is not like ours, though our Enemies should be Judges.

Ver. 13. He made] This being a Poem for Futurity.

1b. ride upon the high Places of the Earth] What does this mean? The Commentators will tell you prevail over the fenced Cities, for which Isa. lviii. 14. is produced; where the Expression being alike, is doubtless to be allowed the like Sense. But I utterly disallow that to be it: let the Context of both together tell, that it is to enjoy the plentiful Product of the Hills of Canaan; see also Chap. viii. 7, 8, 9. & xi. 11, 12. Ezek. xxxvi. 1, 2. and Munsh. here.

Ver. 14. Kidneys] Corns of Wheat being like Kidneys.

1b. them] not you, a Sign of his high Displeasure in not speaking to them.

Ver. 24. parched] This Verb mazab, which is nowhere else in the Scripture, appears to come from the Chald. aza, or that from this; which, though it has no other, may sufficiently ascertain its Meaning.

Ver. 25. deprive of] as at Gen. xxvii. 45. not destroy, which is also differently applied.

Ver. 28. For these] namely the Israelites, whom God would punish as before, because they would not be advised and understand, which he wishes they would in the following Verse.

Ver. 29. End]

One Eye on Death, and one full fix'd on Heaven,

Becomes a Mortal and Immortal Man, says the Author of the late Poem called Night-Thoughts, Night 5.

Ver. 30. one pursue] How should the Israelites be beat so badly, as in the Time of the Judges, when this Poem was to be of particular Use; since their Rock here determines this to them, though it is expounded contrarily: for surely the Heathen might be defeated, without their Idols (which too would not be one Rock) selling, and delivering them up as to the Buyer.

1b. delivered] which Meaning of the Word must needs be here, because but up is inconsistent with their being pursued and fleeing, but very agreeable to fold; it is not the same as Ver. 36.

Ver. 31. ours] What the Lord says being ended with the preceding Verse.

32. For their Vine is from that of Sodom, and from the Fields of Gomorrah: their Grapes are those of Gall, the Bunches they bear are bitter.

33. Their Wine is the Venom of Dragons, and the desperate Poison of Asps.

34. Is not this laid up with me, sealed up among my Stores?

35. To me belongs Vengeance, and to render it where due: their Foot so firm must remove at the Time; for the Day of their Calamity draws near to come, and of the Things prepared for them each hastens on.

36. Since the Lord will judge for his People, and be sorry for his Servants; when he sees that their Power is gone, and there is none shut up or left.

37. Then will he say: Where are their gods, the Rock on which they relied;

38. Who do eat the Fat of their Sacrifices, drink the Wine of their Offerings? Let them get ready, and help you, let them keep you secure.

39. See now that I my self am God, and there is no other with me: I put to death, and bring to life, make ill and well again; and none can rescue from my Power.

40. When I lift up my Hand to Heaven, and swear By my living for ever;

41. If I whet my flaming Sword, and my Hand take hold of Judgment: I will render Vengeance to my Adversaries, and recompense my spiteful Foes;

42. I will make my Arrows drunk with Blood (since my Sword shall consume Flesh) with the Blood of the Slain from the first Revenge on the Enemy, and of those yet confined.

43. Sing, O Nations, you his People:

for he will avenge the Slaughter of his Servants, and be vindictive to his Adversaries; but will be pacified with his Country, his own People.

44. Thus Moses went, and spoke all the Words of this Poem in the Audience of the People, with Hoshea the Son of Nun.

45. And when Moses had made an end of speaking all these Words to all Israel,

46. He said to them; Take notice of all the Things that I testify among you to Day, which you shall command your Children to observe to do, all the Things of this Law.

47. For it is not a Matter too vain for you, since it is your Life; as by this Matter you will have the Time long, in the Country whither you are passing over Jordan to inherit it.

48. The Lord also spoke to Moses that same Day as follows;

49. Go up Mount Nebo at this Mountain of Abarim, that is in the Country of Moab before Jericho, and see the Country of Canaan which I give to the Israelites for a Possession.

50. Then thou shalt die on the Mount whither thou goest up, and be gathered to thy People; as Aaron thy Brother died on Mount Hor, and was gathered to his People.

51. Because you did amiss against me among the Israelites, at the Water of Meribah-kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin; because you did not sanctify me among the Israelites.

52. For thou shalt see the Country at a distance, but shalt not go thither, into that which I give to the Israelites.

Ver. 32. their Vine] Either ours, or the Enemies, in the Verse before; therefore clearly the latter, whatever Interpreters pretend. Moses having used Menaces, to keep and turn his People from Wickedness; may be understood now to prepare Comfort for them when in deep Distress, by the Consideration that their Enemies were worse than themselves, and so that God would render Vengeance to them, and Compassion to Israel, as follows.

Ib. Vine] This to Wine inclusive, may denote their principal Manners or Production.

Ver. 34. this] their ripening Wickedness, according to Gen. xv. 16.

Ver. 36. shut up] look for at 1 Kings xiv. 10.

Ver. 38. eat the Fat] by the Fire consuming it.

Ver. 40. When] suitable to If in the following Verse.

Ib. By my living] Being the Manner of beginning an Oath, as in Jer. xxii. 24. Ezek. v. 11. & xiv. 16. &c. and this such both by the Greek and Chaldee. And what Idea of Connection with the Context does I live convey?

Ver. 42. confined] to be slain, whose Blood should make the Sword as it were drunk, when added to the Quantity before.

Ver. 43. his People:] The Relative may be easily understood, to be who are his People; which the Expression as it lies seems literally and properly to signify, as also to agree well with what is before and after: otherwise and or with may be supplied before this, which is used Rom. xv. 10. from the Translation of the Septuag. but that Translation is very incorrect and superfluous here; and this may seem not to agree so well to the Context, which sets forth that God would favour his People, and punish their Adversaries: the Apostle might notwithstanding quote it best as he did, since it was a Testimony to the People out of their common received Bible; see on Gen. xlvii. ult. The Septuagint do not begin the Verse with this Expression, but have before it, Rejoice, O Heavens, with him, and let all the Angels of God worship him; which latter, as Patrick observes, is exactly cited in the Greek from hence, Heb. i. 6. and not from Psa. xcvi. 7. or any where else. Now as these Words are not to be added here because quoted in Heb. i. 6. neither is [with] because quoted Rom. xv. 10.

Ver. 47. too] as is properly signifies.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND this is the Blessing with which Moses the Man of God blessed the Israelites before his Death.

2. The Lord, said he, came from Sinai, and rose from Seir to them, shined from Mount Paran, and arrived with tens of thousands of holy ones: from his right Hand there was a fiery Law for them.

3. He also loved the People, all the Saints of it being in thy Hand; and they were between thy Feet, each shall receive of thy Words, saying;

4. Moses commanded a Law for us, what the Congregation of Jacob inherit.

5. And he was King in Jeshurun, when the Heads of the People, the Tribes of Israel, were gathered together.

6. Reuben will live, and not die, nor his Men be few.

7. And this was for Judah, Hear, O Lord, said he, the Voice of Judah, and bring him to his People: let his Hands be enough for him, and be thou a Help from his Adversaries.

8. Of Levi also he said; Let thy pious Man have thy Thummim and Urim, whom thou didst try in Massah, with whom thou didst strive at the Water of Meribah:

9. Who could say of his Father and Mother, I do not mind them; he neither knew his Brothers, nor was acquainted with his Children; because they observed thy Sayings, and kept thy Covenant.

10. They will teach Jacob thy Rules, and Israel thy Law: will put Incense in thy Presence, and the whole Burnt-offering upon thy Altar.

11. Bless his Ability, O Lord, and accept the Work of his Hands: strike the Loins of those who rise up against him, and such as hate him, that they may not rise up.

12. Of Benjamin he said, The Beloved of the Lord will dwell securely by him; who will cover him over every Day, and dwell between his Shoulders.

13. And of Joseph he said; His Country is blessed of the Lord, by the precious Things of Heaven, by the Dew, and the Deep that lies below,

14. By the precious Increase of the Sun, by the precious Things put forth of the Moons,

Ver. 2. Seir] This and Paran being not far from Sinai, or according to Hyde, in his Notes on Abraham Perisot's Itinera Mundi, p. 73. Parts of the same Ridge of Mountains, there might be Signs of the Divine Presence when the Law was given from Sinai; see Hab. iii. 3.

Ib. with tens of thousands of holy ones] which the Author of the present State of the printed Heb. would make from Meribah-Kadesh, by altering ב into ו without any Similitude, and by adding מ both without any Copy or Version, p. 425, 426, 427.

Ib. tens of thousands] several ten thousands.

Ib. holy ones] Angels, Psa. lxxviii. 17. Acts vii. 53.

Ib. right Hand] with which the ten Commandments were written.

Ib. fiery] being delivered in Fire, Chap. xix. 18.

Ib. a fiery Law] Heb. a Fire of Law. This the Author of the present State, &c. after the Samaritan, is for having to be a fire shone forth, and would have the present דת Law made from אורח p. 430. by leaving out the ו he knows not how nor why, and mistaking ד for ת yet of the other two at Beginning and End to be mistaken for ד at the Beginning he is silent, though this was as needful to be accounted for as they. But what if I suppose the Samaritan Translator (for it is not so even in the Sam. Text) not understanding דת rendered it as a Verb suitable to Fire? and the whole is easily done.

Ver. 3. the People] plural, viz. the Tribes of Israel, as Judg. v. 14. Fun.

Ib. is] the People as one, or each of them as in Tribes; otherwise Israel from Ver. 1. as the first them in Ver. 2. is from Sons of Israel.

Ib. being in thy Hand] But the Author of the present State, &c. wants it to be he blessed, according as the Syr. Translator has it, and probably mistook by taking ד for ר since to take the Heb. from the Sam. must be more, with also adding another Letter, and that to make what this admired Writer counts so remarkably unintelligible; which then is most rational to suppose? He ridicules the Hebrew with asking, Whose Saints? from the Eng. Transf. which he himself makes no other. The two following thys he would likewise turn into his, supposing י has been changed to ד which is not only unlikely for the Dissimilitude, but very unlikely to be done twice together, when that too would not have been designedly, because of making a harder Sense; but it is easy to think how thy might be altered to his, viz. to make the Passage plainer. N. B. This Book is so remarkable for Change of Persons, that our Translators have altered several, as specified in these Notes.

Ib. in the midst] being a Verb made from a Noun signifying the midst. Thus it may mean as Scholars learning, to which the People might well be compared when the Law was given, but did not sit down, Exod. xix. 17. & xx. 21. as the Word also has no such Meaning.

Ib. saying] as the following requires, and as elsewhere; not for Moses to say, as the Author of the present State &c. well observes, Moses commanded me and you, i. e. Moses commanded Moses and you; but he would throw out Moses for it.

Ver. 6. will live] it being a Prophecy, not a Wish only, much less a Command.

Ver. 9. say of] as what is mentioned to be said shews; so Fun. &c.

Ib. I do not mind] It is monstrous for Levi to say he had not seen his Father, and that to the Father himself.

Ver. 12. Beloved] Benjamin called so, perhaps in Allusion to his being the Beloved of his Father Jacob, as he is called little, Psa. lxxviii. 27.

Ib. by him] by the Temple, the peculiar Place of God's Presence, where the Tribe of Benjamin was situate.

Ib. and dwell] the Lot of Benjamin being on both Sides of the Temple, compared to a Man's Shoulders with the Head between, covering the Body. Our Translators by putting he seem to mean Benjamin shall dwell between; which appears inconsistent with dwelling by, and being covered, besides making no good Sense.

Ver. 14. Moons] in the different Lunations or Months of the Year.

15. By the chief Things of the ancient Mountains, by the precious ones of the lasting Hills,

16. As also by those of the Earth and what it is full of, and through the Favour of him who dwelt in the Bush; let it come on the Head of Joseph, and on the Crown of him who was separated from his Brothers.

17. He has Comeliness like the Firstling of his Cow, and his Horns are as those of an Unicorn, with them will he push the People together to the Limits of the Earth; they being the tens of thousands of Ephraim, and they the thousands of Manassch.

18. Of Zebulun he likewise said; Be glad, O Zebulun, in thy going abroad; and thou Issachar, in thy staying at home.

19. They will invite the People to the Mountain, there will they offer righteous Sacrifices: for they will suck the Abundance of the Seas, and the hidden Things covered with the Sand.

20. And of Gad he said; Blessed is he who enlarges Gad: he dwells like a stout Lion, and tears the Arm, nay the Crown of the Head.

21. He also looks the first for himself, because he is covered there at the Part of the Law-giver, and comes with the Heads of the People, performs the Righteousness of the Lord, and his Rules with Israel.

22. Moreover of Dan he said, Dan will have the Intrepidity of a young Lion, that comes bounding down from Bashan.

23. As he did of Naphtali, O Naphtali, satisfied with Favour, and filled with the Blessing of the Lord, inherit thou the West and the South.

24. And of Asher he said: Asher will be blessed with Children, he will be acceptable to his Brothers, and dip his Foot in Oil.

25. Thy Shoes will be Iron and Brass, and thy Strength like thy Days.

26. There is none like the God of Jeshurun, who rides on the Heaven for thy Help, and in his Excellency on the Sky.

27. The eternal God is the Habitation, and the everlasting Arms are under: he will also drive away the Enemy from thy Presence, and say, Destroy.

28. Thus will Israel dwell securely alone, the Fountain of Jacob; on a Country of Corn and Wine: his Heaven too will drop Dew.

29. O Israel, thou art happy; who is like thee, a People saved by the Lord, the Shield of thy Help, and who is thy excellent Sword? So that thy Enemies will submit to thee, and thou wilt tread upon their high Places.

C H A P. XXXIV.

AFTERWARDS Moses went up from the Plains of Moab, to Mount Nebo at the Beginning of Pisgah, which is before Jericho; and the Lord shewed him the whole Country of Gilead, as far as Dan,

2. With all Naphtali, the Country of Ephraim and Manassch, and all that of Judah, to the hindermost Sea,

3. As likewise the South and Plain of the Vale of Jericho, the City of Palm-trees, as far as Zoar.

4. And the Lord said to him, This is the Country of which I sware thus to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, I will give it to thy Offspring: I have let thee see it with thy Eyes, but thou shalt not pass thither.

5. Then Moses the Lord's Servant died there in the Country of Moab, according to the Saying of the Lord.

6. And he buried him in a Valley in that Country, over against Beth-peor; but no Man knows of his Grave to this Day.

7. Now Moses was in his hundred and twentieth Year when he died; his Eye was not dim, nor his Vigour gone away.

8. And the Israelites wept for him in the Plains of Moab thirty Days; then the Days of Weeping, of Mourning for Moses were ended.

9. However Joshua the Son of Nun was filled with the Spirit of Wisdom, for Moses

Ver. 18. abroad—home] agreeable to Gen. xlix. 13, 14, 15.

Ver. 20. is he] namely God.

Ib. the Crown] not only the Arm that fights with him.

Ver. 21. the first] God having his Lot already on that side Jordan.

Ib. covered] being in a safe Place.

Ib. the Law-giver] Moses who distributed their Part there to them.

Ib. comes] as the Gadites went with the foremost of the Army, to conquer Canaan.

Ver. 22. will have] as it is prophetic, like that of others.

Ib. that comes] for Dan did not inhabit Bashan. This leaping might be mentioned to foreshew the Expedition of the Danites from their own Country to Laish, Judg. xviii. of which Jacob foretold the sudden Surprise, Gen. xlix. 17. and Moses here the Boldness.

Ver. 23. the West and the South] of Dan beforementioned.

Ver. 27. God is the Habitation] in whose peculiar Presence and Protection Israel dwelt; see Acts xvii. 28. 1 Thess. i. 1. I know no such Meaning of the Heb. Word as Refuge for Habitation.

Ver. 28. Fountain] the Offspring, as Psa. lxxviii. 26. and here the Heb. Pointing is followed.

Ib. drop Dew] Gr. be cloudy, and Vulg. misty, with Dew; perhaps by reducing ערר to ערב Evening.

Ver. 29. submit] so the same Verb is translated, 2 Sam. xxii. 45. Psa. xviii. 44.

Ver. 2. Judah] So Rautwolff says one may see the high Hills Abarim and Nebo plainly at Jerusalem, Trav. Part iii. Ch. 3. see Chap. xxxii. 49.

Ver. 5. Country of Moab] anciently so, Num. xxi. 25, 26.

Ver. 9. for] See Num. xxvii. 20, 23.

had laid his Hands upon him: so the Israelites hearkened to him, doing as the Lord commanded Moses.

10. And there no more rose up such a Prophet in Israel as Moses, whom the Lord knew Face to Face;

11. In all the Signs and Miracles, which the Lord sent him to do in the Country of Egypt, to Pharaoh, all his Servants, and his whole Country;

12. As well as with all the strong Hand, and all the great Fear, which Moses shewed in the Sight of all Israel.

Ver. 10. such a Prophet] In Mem. B. Israel's Reconciler of Scripture, are related seventy six Miracles of and concerning Moses, against seventy four only of and for all the other Prophets.

Being arrived at the End of the Pentateuch, here may most properly be subjoined an Account of such Things as the Scripture affords us the Day of, concerning the Israelites going from Egypt to Canaan, in the following Order:

Year	Mo.	Day
1	1	14	The first Passover kept, Exod. xii. 6, 28.
		15	The tenth Plague sent, and Israel began to go from Egypt , Exod. xii. 29—37. Num. xxxiii. 3.

	2	1	The Israelites numbered, Num. i. 1, 18.

		11	The ninth, Chap. x. 19, 22.
		14	The tenth Plague threatened, Chap. xi. 1, 4.
		21	Israel went through the Sea and the Egyptians were drowned in the Night, upon which the Day of it was kept solemn, as the last of unleavened Bread, Chap. xii. 16, 18. & xiii. 6.
		25	Came to Marah , Chap. xv. 22, 23. Num. xxxiii. 8.

Usher in his Annals, An. Mun. 2513, and Bedford in his Scripture Chronology, p. 423. computing the first Plague, &c. one Day sooner, by supposing the 7th was so, three Days before the 8th, seem neither concurrent with the Scripture, nor their own Reckoning: for first it may be observed, that Moses used to go to Pharaoh, when not sent for, in the Morning, Exod. vii. 15. & viii. 20. & ix. 13. and consequently brought the Plagues at that Time of the Day, however the 7th of the Hail was early in the Morning, Chap. ix. 13, 18. which might very well do the Execution ascribed to it, in an Hour or two, as may be observed by Hail-stones; besides upon Pharaoh's sending for Moses and Aaron, Ver. 27. which he would doubtless soon do after such a violent Devastation began, that Plague ceased when Moses got out of the City, Ver. 29, 33. which must needs be the same Day; and not the next, as Usher and Bedford say. Nay both these Authors count the 3d and 4th Plague, as likewise the 6th and 7th but two Days apart, though Moses went to Pharaoh the Days after the 3d and 6th Plagues, and threatened him with another on the Morrow, Chap. viii. 20, 23. & ix. 13, 18. so that it is to be supposed the 3d and 6th Plagues were removed the same Days they came, with less Certainty or Probability than we have seen it to be of the 7th Plague, which they deny it to.

Usher likewise, but not Bedford, does in my Opinion err in two more Calculations, which I would clear up, as the latter has not, and as the mere Authority of the former is so powerful. The first is his reckoning the 6th Plague, to be brought the next Day after the 5th: whereas the Cattle dying throughout the Country of Egypt, then the People sending News of it to the King, and he afterwards sending and having Word brought back concerning the Israelites Cattle, may well be allowed to take up more than one Day; besides which the Plague was probably also removed before Pharaoh hardened his Heart that Time, Chap. ix. 6, 7. the 6th Plague too seems to be inflicted in the Morning, Ver. 8. compared with Chap. vii. 15. & viii. 20. The other that I mean is Usher's counting the 9th Plague to be three Days after the 8th, for which there seems no Reason, but the Institution of the Passover and taking the Lambs on the 10th Day: but what should hinder that the 8th Plague might not be removed from the Egyptians the same Day, especially as it is likely Moses was with Pharaoh, and prayed for the Removal of it the Day or Evening before? On the other hand it appears unlikely there was a vacant Day, between the taking away the 8th and bringing the 9th Plague, since Moses did not go to the King to threaten the 9th Plague on the Morrow, as he did the 5th that was three Days after the foregoing, Chap. ix. 1, 5.

I shall spare the uncertain fruitless Labour, of carrying the Computation into another Month: 1. by reason of the uncertain Lengths of the particular Months, of the new regulated Year, beginning from the first visible new Moons, and the Years made up, no Body knows in what Manner, to agree with the Sun's Revolution, by intercalary Months or Days, which the Feasts annexed to certain Seasons of the Year made necessary; 2. because the Writings of Moses fix no Sabbath, that I remember, to any determinate Day of any Month, which might have been of great Help; 3. the general Want of other Circumstances for such a Purpose, may convince that the particular Days of several remarkable Things, were not designed to be conveyed to our Knowledge. And if the Days of the Israelitish Months are not to be known, much less are the Days of our Months when those Things were done. And we cannot, says Prideaux in Connets. Pref. when we find the Day of any Jewish Month, mentioned either in the Scriptures or in Josephus, reduce it exactly to its Time in the Julian Year, or there fix it any nearer, than within the Compass of a Month sooner or later.

This Book is perhaps the easiest of all those of the Old Test. according to the Length of it, to be translated; notwithstanding the peculiar Length of its Periods, and its being so much a Speech or Oration, both which in the Classics are particularly hard; but here the sublime Compositions in Chap. xxxii. & xxxiii. are to be excepted.

NOTES

NOTES upon the BOOK of JOSHUA.

CHAP. I.

NOW after the Death of his Servant Moses, the Lord said to Joshua the Son of Nun, who had waited on him, as follows:

2. Moses my Servant being dead, get ready now, pass over this Jordan, with all this People, into the Country that I give to the Israelites;

3. Which is every Place there that the Soles of your Feet shall tread on, as I told him:

4. From the Wilderness, and that Lebanon, to the great River, that of Euphrates, all the Country of the Hittites, and to the great Sea at the setting of the Sun, shall be your Bounds.

5. No Man shall stand before thee all the Days of thy Life: I will be with thee, as I was with Moses; I will not neglect thee, nor forsake thee.

6. Be courageous, and valiant: for thou shalt make this People possess the Country, which I swear to their Forefathers that I would give them.

7. Only thou must be very courageous and valiant, in observing to do according to all the Law which my Servant Moses commanded thee; turn not aside from it, to the right Hand nor the left; that thou mayest have success whithersoever thou goest.

8. Let not this Book of the Law depart from thy Mouth, but meditate in it Day and Night; that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written there: for then shalt thou make thy Way prosperous, and then have success.

9. Do not I command thee? Be courageous, and valiant; be not afraid, nor daunted: for the Lord thy God will be with thee whithersoever thou goest.

10. So Joshua ordered the Officers of the People,

11. To go through the midst of the Camp, and command them thus, Prepare Provision for your selves; for within three Days you must pass over this Jordan, that you may go in to inherit the Country, which the Lord your God gives you to inherit.

12. Moreover to the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh, said Joshua as follows;

13. Remember the Matter which Moses the Servant of the Lord commanded you; that the Lord your God having made you rest, and given you this Country;

14. Your Wives, Children, and Cattle should remain in it, which Moses gave you on this side Jordan, but that all you, who are valiant Men, should go on in military Order before your Brethren, and help them;

15. Till the Lord has made them rest as well as you, and they have also inherited the Country which the Lord your God gives them: when you shall return to the Country of your Inheritance, which Moses the Lord's Servant gave you on this side Jordan, at the rising of the Sun, and inherit it.

16. And they made answer to Joshua; We will do all that thou commandest us, and go whithersoever thou sendest us.

17. As we hearkened to Moses in all Things, so we will to thee: only the Lord thy God be with thee, as he was with him.

18. Any Man who rebels against thy Command, and does not hearken to thy Words, in all that thou commandest him, shall be put to death: only be thou courageous, and valiant.

CHAP. II.

AND Joshua the Son of Nun had sent two Men from Shittim, for Spies secretly, with Orders, to go see the Country, in particular Jericho: accordingly they went, and entered into a Harlot's House, whose Name was Rahab, where they lay.

Ver. 2. give to the Israelites] In the Arabick, as Simon notes, have promised to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

Ver. 4. From] The Arabick Translator, mistaking is for and and joining the two Verses together, has, as I said to Moses in the Wilderness.

Ver. 11. three Days] as was performed, Chap. iii. 2, 7, 17. so that it appears the Spies went away before this, Chap. ii. 1, 22.

Ver. 14. in military Order] as shewn on Exod. xiii. 18. or, according to the English Margin, by five in a Rank.

Ver. 1. had sent] See Chap. i. 11. to both Peale and Patrick comment; Jun. and Trem. translate, miserat prius, had sent before.

2. However it was told the King of Jericho: thus, Behold there are Men of the Israelites come hither to Night; to search the Country.

3. Upon this he sent to Rahab, ordering her to bring out the Men who were come to her into her House, because they were come to search all the Country.

4. But the Woman having taken them both, and hid them, said thus; There came Men to me, but I did not know from whence;

5. And when the Gate was to be shut, it being dark, they went out, but I know not whither it was; pursue after them quickly, for you may overtake them.

6. Whereas she had brought them up on the Roof, and concealed them in the Stalks of Flax, which were put in order for her there.

7. So the Men pursued after them in the Way to Jordan, as far as the Passages, and after they were gone out, the Gate was shut.

8. At length before those lay down, she went up to them on the Roof,

9. And said to them; I am sensible that the Lord has given you the Country, that we are in dread of you, and that all the Inhabitants of it are quite discouraged by reason of you.

10. For we have been informed how the Lord dried up the Water of the Red Sea at your Presence, when you came out of Egypt; and what you did to the two Kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you destroyed.

11. And as soon as we heard, our Hearts fainted, so that no Man had Courage any more by reason of you: for the Lord your God is God both in Heaven above, and on Earth below.

12. Now therefore swear to me, I pray, by the Lord, since I have shewn you Kindness; that you will do the same to my Father's Family, and give me a certain Sign;

13. That you will let my Father, Mother,

Brothers, and Sisters live, with all who belong to them, and deliver us from being put to death.

14. And the Men said to her; We our selves will be put to death instead of you, if you do not tell this our Matter; and when the Lord has given us the Country, we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

15. Then she let them down by a Cord through the Window: for her House was at the Inside of the Wall, where she dwelt.

16. And she said to them; Go to the Mountain, that the Pursuers may not meet you, and hide your selves there three Days, till they are returned, after which you may go on your Way.

17. They said to her further; That we may be blameless in this Oath of thine, which thou hast made us swear;

18. Behold when we come into the Country, thou shalt tie this Line of scarlet Thread, which thou lettest us down by, to the Window, and get thy Father, Mother, Brothers, and all thy Father's Family together at thy House with thee:

19. And whoever goes abroad without the Doors of it, his Blood shall be chargeable on his own Head, and we will be quit; but as for every one who is with thee there, his Blood shall be chargeable on our Heads, if there is a Hand upon him.

20. Nevertheless if thou tellest this Matter of ours, we will be quit of thy Oath, which thou hast made us swear.

21. Let it be, said she, according to your Words; and sent them away: who being gone, she tied the scarlet Line to the Window.

22. And they went on, and got to the Mountain, where they staid three Days, till the Pursuers were gone back; who sought all along the Way, but could not find them.

23. Next the two Men returned, going down from the Mountain, and passing on, till they came to Joshua the Son of Nun; to whom they rehearsed all which they had met with.

Ver. 6. bad brought] Patrick comments on the com. Transf. with so little Attention as to quote it, she brought, and then writes, * or rather, she bad brought.

Ver. 8. before] The Bishops Transf. has yet ever, after the Geneva with before, and Tyndal first or ever, as our pres. Bible sometimes; as though theirs, and by many other Instances, was purposely obsolete and uncouth.

CHAP. III.

SO Joshua rose up early in the Morning, and marching with all the Israelites from Shittim, came to Jordan, where they lodged before they passed over.

2. And at the Term of three Days, the Officers going through the middle of the Camp,

3. Commanded the People thus; When you see the Priests, the Levites carry the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord your God, do you march out of your Place, and go after it.

4. But let there be the Distance of about two thousand Cubits by Measure, between you and that: come not near it, that you may know what Way you must go, since you have never gone there before.

5. Besides Joshua had said to the People, Consecrate your selves; for to Morrow the Lord will do Wonders among you.

6. He also ordered the Priests, to take up the Ark of the Covenant, and go on before the People; which they did.

7. And the Lord said to him; This Day I will begin to magnify thee in the Sight of all Israel; by which they shall know, that I will be with thee, as I was with Moses.

8. Command the Priests who carry the Ark of the Covenant, that when they come to the Brink of the Water of Jordan, they should stand still there.

9. Joshua then bidding the Israelites come thither, that they might hear the Words of the Lord their God;

10. By this shall you know, said he, that the living God is among you, and will drive quite away the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, Perizzites, Girgashites, Amorites, and Jebusites from your Presence:

11. Behold the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord of the whole Earth, is about to pass over Jordan before you;

12. Now therefore take you twelve Men out of the Tribes of Israel, one of each Tribe:

13. And when the Soles of the Priests Feet, who carry the Ark of the Sovereign Lord of the whole Earth, rest in the Water of Jordan, it shall be parted from the Water that comes down from above, which shall stand on a Heap.

14. So when the People had marched from their Tents, to pass over Jordan, and the Priests, who carried the Ark of the Covenant before them,

15. Were come thither, and their Feet were dipt in the Edge of the Water (Jordan being full over all its Banks the whole Time of Harvest)

16. The Water which came down from above stood still, rising up on a Heap very far, to the City of Adam that is at the Side of Zarethan, and that which went down to the Sea of the Plain, the Salt Sea, was quite parted off; so that the People passed through against Jericho.

17. And the Priests who carried the Ark of the Lord's Covenant, stood firm in the middle of Jordan, on dry Ground, while all Israel passed through on the same, till every one had done.

CHAP. IV.

AND when they had finished doing it, the Lord said thus to Joshua;

2. Take you the twelve Men of the People, one out of each Tribe;

Ver. 2. at the Term] As these three Days were doubtless the same mentioned Chap. i. 11. or else would be insignificant; see the like, 2 Kings xviii. 10.

Ib. middle] so the Hebrew.

Ver. 5. had said] the Day before, Ver. 2. which to Morrow here mentioned shews.

Ver. 6. Covenant] The Bishops have covenante the first Time, testaments the last.

Ver. 11. over Jordan] for what did it pass over, into Jordan?

Ver. 15. Edge] brim, an Icelandic Word, signifying the upper Edge of a Thing, as of a Cup or Vessel, and of a Hat because turned up; and brink, a Danish Word, in the Geneva Verf. was something better.

Ver. 16. Adam] The Syriack Translator has mistaken the Letter γ d for γ r, as the Arabick one has ا a for the Pronoun them.

Ib. against Jericho] Vulgate, against Jordan, with little or no Sense.

Ver. 17. Jordan] Which Maundrell found with a small Descent along about a Furlong from the Water, and so far he supposed it might overflow; but the River it self was two Yards below the Brink of its proper Channel, hid with Bushes and Trees, such as Tamarisk, Willows, Oleanders, &c. and its Breadth, he says, might be about twenty Yards over, and in Depth far exceeded his Height, the Stream being turbid, and too rapid to be swum against, Journey from Aleppo to Jerusalem, p. 80, 81, 82. so that there was Need of helping the Israelites through with a Miracle, especially as it then overflowed, and may be supposed, with our Author, to have lost its ancient Greatness, running so far below the Bank: of which I fancy however, that the Channel may be only worn down by so long and swift a Current, and probably may therefore overflow but little if at all now, though it may increase as much as then; even as he found it, it was a considerable River, and not fordable; see of its Rise on Psa. lxxviii. 15.

3. And

3. And command them, that they should take them up twelve Stones from hence, out of the middle of Jordan, just where the Priests Feet stood firm, which they must carry along with them, and put at the Place where they lodge to Night.

4. Accordingly Joshua called the twelve Men whom he had prepared, one out of each Tribe of the Israelites,

5. And said to them; Go on before the Ark of the Lord your God at the middle of Jordan, having taken you up each Man a Stone upon his Shoulder, according to the Number of the Tribes of the Israelites:

6. That this may be a Sign among you, when your Children ask hereafter, what you have these Stones for?

7. To whom you shall tell, how the Water of Jordan was parted off at the Presence of the Ark of the Lord's Covenant, being while it passed through Jordan, and that these Stones are for a Memorial to the Israelites for ever.

8. And the Israelites did so as Joshua commanded, taking up twelve Stones out of the middle of Jordan, according as the Lord spoke to him, after the Number of their Tribes, and carried them along with them to their Lodging-place, and put them there.

9. Joshua likewise set up twelve Stones in the middle of Jordan, just where the Priests Feet who carried the Ark of the Covenant stood, which are there to this Day:

10. Those Priests standing in the middle of Jordan, till every Thing was finished, which the Lord commanded Joshua to speak to the People, according to all that Moses had ordered him; and the People passed through speedily.

11. This when they had all done, the Ark of the Lord and the Priests too passed through in their Sight:

12. As the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh, also did in military Order before the Israelites, as Moses said to them;

13. About forty thousand made ready for War, passing on before the Lord to fight, into the Plains of Jericho.

14. That Day the Lord magnified Joshua in the Sight of all Israel, so that they stood in awe of him, as they had done of Moses, all the Days of his Life.

15. And upon the Lord's ordering him,

16. To bid the Priests, who carried the Ark of the Testimony, go up out of Jordan;

17. Which Joshua accordingly bade them do;

18. The Priests who carried the Ark of the Lord's Covenant were no sooner come up out of the middle of Jordan, the Soles of their Feet being got on the dry Ground, but the Water of Jordan returned to its Place, and ran over all its Banks as before.

19. And the People went up from thence on the tenth of the first Month, and encamped at Gilgal, in the east Border of Jericho.

20. Where Joshua having set up those twelve Stones which they had taken out of Jordan,

21. Said thus to the Israelites; When your Children hereafter ask their Fathers, what those Stones are for?

22. You shall inform them, that Israel passed through this Jordan on dry Ground.

23. For the Lord your God dried up the Water of it at your Presence, till you were got through, as he did the Red Sea at ours, till we were;

24. In order to let all the People of the Earth know, that the Hand of the Lord is strong, for you to fear the Lord your God continually.

C H A P. V.

AND when all the Kings of the Amorites who were on this side Jordan westward, with all those of the Canaanites, who were by the Sea, heard how the Lord had dried up the Water of Jordan at the Presence of the Israelites, till we were passed through; their Hearts fainted, and there was no Courage in them any more by reason of us.

2. At the same Time the Lord ordered Joshua to make him sharp Knives, and circumcise the Israelites again the second time;

3. Which he did at the Hill of the Fore-skins.

4. The Reason of it too was this: all the Males of the People that came out of Egypt, who were Warriors, died in the Wilderness, in the Way as they came along from thence;

Ver. 3. put] as Ver. 8.

Ver. 5. Go on] For the People were passed over already, Ver. 1. & Chap. iii. 17. only those who attended the Ark were in the middle of Jordan.

1b. at the middle] whether they were come already, and were now to go from thence.

Ver. 6. what] See Exod. xii. 26.

Ver. 12. military] so Chap. i. 14.

Ver. 19. Jericho] that being two Hours Travel from Jordan, Maundrell.

Ver. 1. on this side] the same as in Ch. ix. 1. & xii. 7.

Ver. 2. circumcise again] Bish. goe to agayne, and circumcise.

5. And though all those People were circumcised, yet they had circumcised none of them who were born in the Wilderness, in their Journey out of Egypt.

6. For the Israelites walked forty Years in the Wilderness, till all the People that came out of Egypt, who were Warriors, were consumed, because they did not hearken to what the Lord said; to whom he swore that he would not shew them the Country, which he had sworn to their Forefathers that he would give us, a Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

7. And their Sons whom he had raised up in their room Joshua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they did not do it in the Way.

8. So when the circumcising of all the People was finished, they staid where they were in the Camp, till they became well.

9. And the Lord said to Joshua, To Day I have rolled off the Reproach of Egypt from you; therefore the Name of that Place is called Gilgal to this Time.

10. Now while the Israelites encamped there in the Plains of Jericho, they kept the Passover on the fourteenth Day of the Month, in the Evening.

11. And the very next Day after the Passover they eat of the Provision of the Country, unleavened Cakes, and parched Corn.

12. The Manna also ceased the next Day, when they had eat that Provision, and the Israelites had it no more, but did eat of the Crop of the Country of Canaan the same Year.

13. Moreover as Joshua looked up, while he was by Jericho, he saw plainly a Man standing over against him, with his Sword drawn out in his Hand; to whom he went, and asked, Dost thou belong to us, or our Enemies?

14. To neither, answered he, for I am come now a Captain of the Lord's Army; then Joshua falling on his Face to the Ground, reverenced, and said to him, What has my Lord to speak to his Servant?

15. Who gave him this Reply, Pull off thy Shoe from thy Foot, for the Place which thou standest upon is holy; and Joshua did so.

C H A P. VI.

NOW Jericho was shut up close by reason of the Israelites; none came out, nor went in.

2. And the Lord said to Joshua; See, I have delivered Jericho into thy Power, with the King of it, and the valiant Men.

3. And all you Warriors shall go round about the City once a Day, six Days:

4. With seven Priests blowing so many Trumpets of Rams Horns, which they shall carry before the Ark: and on the seventh Day you shall go round it seven times.

5. Then at a long Sound made with the Rams-horn Trumpets, and all the People's shouting aloud when they hear it, the Wall of the City shall fall directly down, so that each of them may go up straightforward.

6. Upon this Joshua the Son of Nun called the Priests, and bade them carry on the Ark of the Covenant, and seven others so many Trumpets of Rams Horns before the Lord's Ark.

7. He likewise said to the People, Pass on before the Ark of the Lord, you who are armed, and go round the City.

8. And when Joshua had spoken to the People, the seven Priests went on blowing those Trumpets which they carried before the Lord, the Ark of whose Covenant followed them.

9. Before whom went those who were armed, and the Rear-guard followed the Ark.

10. Besides Joshua ordered the People as follows, You shall not shout, nor let your Voice be heard, nay not let a Word come out of your Mouth, till the Day I bid you shout, when you shall.

Ver. 5. born] for as Circumcising was confined to the 8th Day, and Travelling dangerous or hurtful in it, and as divers Instances of the former in such a great Multitude must have been at the Time of the latter, it seems not to have been then required on that Account.

Ver. 9. Reproach of Egypt] The Egyptians, who might receive Circumcision from Joseph, or as on Gen. xvii. 26. seems to have counted it a Reproach to be uncircumcised.

Ver. 10. Passover] See on Num. ix. 2.

Ver. 4. Rams Horns] The Author of the Universal History assures us he has seen such, used by Shepherds and Swincherds in the south Parts of Germany, Book i.

Ver. 7. said] This Word having also a Marginal Reading, the Author of the State of the printed Heb. Text takes the Opportunity to ridicule Leusden, who was a Favourer of the Hebrew Scripture, for his saying there might be intended in it A DOUBLE LITERAL SENSE: Had he liv'd in these days, quoth he (i. e. wherein the H. Bible is so mangled and degraded by such as himself) he had been a celebrated Maker out of many Meanings, State &c. p. 438. but then he would have exceeded even this great Author, who does not make out this one, that two Meanings are many. For why should the Vindicators of our sacred Writings be overborn with an Air of Derision, as the Author of State &c. also deals with another in Introd. p. 9, 10. and no Return be made to it? And will he deny, with all his Boldness, that Hos. xi. 1. has a double literal Sense? Were not Israel and Jesus both literally called out of Egypt, as well as Sons of God, and loved by him, according to Exod. iv. 22, 23. & Mat. ii. 15?

11. So the Ark of the Lord went round about the City once; then they came into the Camp, and lodged there.

12. Joshua next rose early in the Morning, and the Priests carried the Ark of the Lord along;

13. With the other seven going on still, and blowing the seven Trumpets of Rams Horns, which they carried before it, those who were armed going before them, and the Rear-guard after the Lord's Ark.

14. Thus they went round the City once the second Day, and returned to the Camp, doing so six Days.

15. Moreover on the seventh, getting up at Break of Day, they went round it in this Manner seven times, which they did only that Day.

16. And at the seventh time, when the Priests were to blow the Trumpets long, Joshua said to the People; Shout, for the Lord has given you the City;

17. Which is accursed to him, with all that is in it: only Rahab the Harlot shall live, and all who are in the House with her, because she hid the Messengers whom we sent.

18. However do you take heed of what is accursed, lest when you take any of it, you should make the Camp of Israel accursed, and trouble it.

19. But all the Silver and Gold, with the Things of Brass and Iron, being consecrated for the Lord, shall be brought to his Treasure.

20. And as soon as the People shouted aloud, at their hearing the Sound of the Trumpets which were blown, the Wall fell directly down; so that they went up each of them straightforward, into the City, and took it;

21. Destroying all who were there, Men and Women, young and old, Oxen, Sheep and Asses, with the Edge of the Sword.

22. In the mean time Joshua bade the two young Men who spied the Country, go into the Harlot's House, and bring out the Woman from thence, with all whom she had, as they had sworn to her.

23. They accordingly went in, and brought out Rahab, her Father, Mother, Brethren, and all whom she had, with all her Families and put them without the Camp of Israel.

24. Whereas they burnt the City with Fire, and all that was in it: only they put the Silver and Gold, with the Things of Brass and Iron, to the Treasure of the Lord's House.

25. And Joshua let Rahab the Harlot live, her Father's family, and all whom she had, and she dwells among Israel to this Day; because she hid the Messengers whom he sent to spy Jericho.

26. At that Time too Joshua made the following Oath, Let the Man be cursed before the Lord, who shall get ready, and build this City of Jericho; let him lay its Foundation with the Loss of his eldest Son, and set up the Gates of it with that of his youngest.

27. Thus the Lord was with Joshua, and his Fame was in all the Country.

C H A P. VII.

THE Israelites however committed a Fault in that which was accursed: for Achan the Son of Carmi, the Son of Zabdi, the Son of Zerah, of the Tribe of Judah, took some of it; so that the Lord was angry with them.

2. And Joshua sending Men from Jericho to Ai, which was by Beth-aven, on the east Side of Beth-el, with Orders to go up and spy the Country; when they had been up, and spied Ai,

3. They said to him at their Return, Let about two or three thousand Men go up, and conquer Ai; and do not make all the People labour up thither, for they are but few.

4. So there went up thither about three thousand of them, but they fled before the Men of Ai;

6. Joshua also tore his Cloaths, and fell to the Ground on his Face before the Ark of the Lord, together with the Elders of Israel, where they were till the Evening, with Earth put upon their Heads.

7. And he said; Alas, Lord God, why didst thou make this People pass on through Jordan, to deliver us into the Power of the Amorites, for them to destroy us? And oh that we had been contented, and dwelt on the other Side of it!

8. O Lord, what shall I say, after Israel have turned back before their Enemies?

9. For the Canaanites, and all the Inhabitants of the Country will hear of it, and compassing us about, cut off our Name from the Earth: what then wilt thou do for thy own great Name?

10. Rise up, said the Lord to him; what is this for, that thou art fallen on thy Face?

11. Israel has sinned, and they have likewise transgressed my Covenant which I commanded them: for they have even taken of what was accursed, nay also stolen, and lyed too, and besides have put it among their own Things.

12. And because they are become accursed, they cannot stand before their Enemies, but turn the Back before them; nor will I be with you any more, if ye do not destroy what is accursed from among you.

13. Get ready, sanctify the People, saying; Sanctify your selves against to Morrow, for thus says the Lord God of Israel, There is that which is accursed among thee, Israel, thou canst not stand before thy Enemies, till you take it away from among you.

14. Come therefore in the Morning by your Tribes, and let the Tribe that the Lord takes come by Families, the Family that he takes by Households, and the Household that he takes Man by Man.

15. And he who is taken with that which is accursed shall be burnt with Fire, and all that he has; because he has transgressed the Lord's Covenant, and done Vileness in Israel.

16. Then Joshua rising early in the Morning, brought Israel by their Tribes, and the Tribe of Judah was taken;

17. Who being brought, he took the Family of the Zarahites; and upon bringing that Man by Man, Zabdi was taken;

18. The Men of whose Household were brought single, and there was taken Achan the Son of Carmi, the Son of Zabdi, the Son of Zerah, of the Tribe of Judah.

19. To whom Joshua said, My Son, render Glory, I pray, to the Lord God of Israel, making confession to him; and tell me, I beseech thee, what thou hast done, do not conceal it from me.

20. And he made him answer; Indeed I have sinned against the Lord God of Israel, and done after this manner;

21. Seeing among the Spoil a good Babylonian Cloak, two hundred Shekels of Silver, and a Wedge of Gold whose Weight was fifty Shekels, which I desired, I took them; and behold they are hid in the Ground within my Tent, the Silver being under the rest.

22. At this Joshua sent Messengers, who ran to the Tent, and they were hid there indeed, with the Silver undermost.

23. Which they took out thence, and brought to Joshua and all the Israelites; who spread them out before the Lord.

24. Next taking Achan the Descendant of Zerah, with the Silver, Cloak, and Wedge of Gold, as also his Sons, Daughters, Oxen, Asses, Sheep, Tent, and all that was his, they had them up to the Vale of Achor:

25. Joshua saying, Why didst thou trouble us? The Lord will trouble thee this Day. And all Israel stoned him and them with Stones, and after that burnt them in a Fire.

C H A P. VIII.

AFTER this the Lord said to Joshua; Be not afraid, nor daunted; taking all the People of War with thee, get ready, go up to Ai; see, I deliver the King of it into thy Power, with his People, City and Country.

2. And thou shalt do to Ai and the King of it, as thou didst to Jericho and its King; only you shall take the Spoil, and Cattle of it for your Plunder: put thee some to lie in wait against the City behind it.

3. Accordingly he, and they, got ready to go up thither; he having chosen out thirty thousand valiant Men, whom he sent away by Night,

4. With the following Orders; See that you lie in wait against the City behind it, not very far off; and be all of you prepared.

5. And I will approach it with all the rest; and when they come out to meet us as at first, we will flee before them.

6. Then let them follow us, till we have drawn them away from the City: for they will think when we flee before them, that we do it as at first.

7. Upon this do you rise up from the Ambuscade, and seize the City: for the Lord your God will deliver it into your Power.

8. Which as soon as you have taken, you shall set it on fire; see I bid you do according to the Word of the Lord.

9. They being thus sent by Joshua, went to lie in wait, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the west Side of the latter. And he lodging that Night among the People,

10. Rose early in the Morning, and when he had mustered them, went up before them with the Elders of Israel towards Ai.

11. So all the People of War who were with him going up, till they came nigh before the City, encamped on the north Side of it, there being a Valley betwixt them and that.

12. And he taking about five thousand Men put them to lie in wait between Beth-el and Ai, on the west Side of the City.

13. The People being placed, as well the farther Part of them there, as the whole Camp which was on the north Side of the City; Joshua went that Night into the middle of the Vale.

14. This the King of Ai seeing, he and all his People, the Men of the City, got up early in haste, and came out to meet Israel in Battle, at a set Time before the Plain; not knowing that there was an Ambuscade against him behind the City.

15. Now as Joshua and all Israel were beat before them, and fled the way to the Wilderness;

16. All the People who were in the City were called to pursue after them: by doing which they were drawn away from the City.

17. Nor was there a Man remained in Ai or Beth-el, who did not come out after Israel; leaving the City open, while they pursued after them.

Ib. Joshua went] with his Army, to encourage and provoke the Enemy, to come down against them with Advantage; that their fleeing back might seem real, not feigned; in order to be pursued, and so to draw the other from the City.

Ver. 16. in the City] is the textual Reading, in Ai marginal.

Ver. 17. Beth-el] whose Inhabitants may be supposed to have been gone for Assistance to Ai, before they who lay in wait went between those Places, Ver. 9, 12.

18. The Lord then ordered Joshua to stretch out his Hand, with the Spear that was in it, towards Ai, for he would deliver it up to him; which he had no sooner done,

19. But those who lay in wait rose up speedily out of their Place, and running, got into the City, and took it, and quickly set it on fire.

20. So that when the Men of Ai looked behind them, and saw plainly the Smoak of it going up to Heaven, they had not Power to flee one Way nor another; since the People whom they had been pursuing towards the Wilderness turned against them.

21. For as soon as Joshua and all Israel saw that they who lay in wait had taken the City, and that the Smoak of it went up, they turned back, and smote the Men of Ai.

22. And the other coming out of the City to meet them, they were in the midst of Israel, some being on this Side, and some on that: who smote them till there was none of them left that remained, or escaped.

23. The King of Ai also they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24. When Israel too had made an end of killing all the Inhabitants of Ai in the Field, at the Wilderness where they pursued them, and all of them were fallen by the Sword, till they were consumed; they all returned thither, and put those to the Sword.

25. And all who fell that Day, both Men and Women, were twelve thousand, being all the People of Ai.

26. For Joshua did not draw back his Hand, which he stretched out with the Spear, till he had destroyed all the Inhabitants of Ai.

27. Only Israel took the Cattle, and Spoil of the City for their Plunder; according to what the Lord commanded Joshua.

28. Thus Joshua burnt Ai, making it a perpetual desolate Heap to this Day.

29. And he hanged the King of it on a Tree, till the Time of Evening; and as the Sun was setting he ordered his Corpse to be taken down from thence, and thrown at the Entrance of the Gate of the City, with a great Heap of Stones made up on it, as to this Day.

30. Moreover he built an Altar to the Lord God of Israel on Mount Ebal,

31. With whole Stones upon which no Iron had been used, according as Moses the Servant of the Lord commanded the Israelites, as it is written in the Book of his Law; and they offered up Burnt-offerings to the Lord upon it, and sacrificed Peace-offerings,

32. He further wrote there upon the Stones a Copy of the Law of Moses, which he writ in the Presence of the Israelites.

33. And all Israel, their Elders, Officers, and their Judges standing on both Sides of the Ark of the Lord's Covenant, before the Priests, the Levites who carried it, as well the Strangers as those that were born among them, half of them over against the Mount of Gerizzim, and the other half over against that of Ebal, as Moses the Servant of the Lord commanded the People of Israel to be blessed at first;

34. He afterwards read all the Words of the Law, the Blessings and Curses, entirely as it was written in the Book of it.

35. There was Nothing of all that Moses ordered, which Joshua did not read before all the Congregation of Israel, the Women, Children, and the Strangers who were conversant among them.

UPON hearing of these Things all the Kings who were on this side Jordan, on the Mountains, in the Vales, and in all the Harbours of the great Sea, over against Lebanon, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites,

2. Gathered themselves together, to fight against Joshua and Israel, with one Consent.

3. However when the Inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho, and Ai;

4. They acted craftily, for they went and made themselves as Ambassadors, taking old Sacks on their Asses, old Wine-bottles that were broke, and bound up,

5. Old Shoes that were pieced on their Feet, and old Garments upon them; as likewise all the Bread for their Provision was dry, and mouldy.

6. Going thus to Joshua, to the Camp at Gilgal, they said to him, and the Men of Israel, We are come from a Country far off; and now make a Treaty with us.

7. Whereas the latter answered the Hivites, How can we do that, when perhaps you dwell among us?

8. But they said to Joshua, We are thy Servants. And at his asking them who they were? And from whence they came?

9. They replied to him; Thy Servants are come from a Country very far off, for the Name of the Lord thy God; because we heard his Fame, and all which he did in Egypt,

10. As well as all that he has done to the two Kings of the Amorites, who were beyond Jordan, Sihon King of Heshbon, and Og King of Bashan, who was at Ashtaroth.

11. Therefore our Elders, with all the Inhabitants of our Country, bade us take Provision with us for the Journey, and come to meet you, and say to you, We are your Servants, and now make a Treaty with us.

12. This Bread of ours we took for Provision warm out of our Houses, on the Day we came forth to come to you; yet now behold it is dry and mouldy:

13. And lo these Wine-bottles are broke, which we filled new; nay our very Garments and Shoes are worn out, by reason of the very great Journey.

14. So the Men taking some of their Provision without asking the Lord's Consent;

15. Joshua made Peace, and a Treaty with them to let them live, and the Princes of the Assembly swore to them.

16. Three Days after which they heard that they were their Neighbours, dwelling among them.

17. For as the Israelites marched on, they came to their Cities on the third Day, which were Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth and Kirjath-jearim.

18. Yet they did not kill them, because their Princes had sworn to them by the Lord God of Israel; but the whole Assembly murmured at the Princes.

19. Who all said to them; Since we have sworn to them by the Lord God of Israel, now we must not meddle with them.

20. This we will do to them, and let them live, as we promised them; that there may not be Wrath upon us, for the Oath which we have sworn to them:

21. They shall cut Wood, said they, and draw Water for all the Assembly.

22. Accordingly Joshua called them, and said thus to them; Why did you deceive us, by saying you were very far off from us, when you dwell among us?

23. Now therefore you are cursed, and none of you shall fail of being Servants, cutting Wood and drawing Water for the House of my God.

24. Their Answer to him was thus; Because it was fully told thy Servants, what the Lord thy God commanded his Servant Moses, that he should give you all the Country, and destroy all the Inhabitants of it out of your Sight; therefore we were very much afraid of our Lives by reason of you, and did this Thing.

25. And now behold we are in thy Power; do as thou pleasest, and approvest of, to do to us.

26. Thus having delivered them out of the Israelites Power, that they might not slay them;

27. Joshua made them that Day Cutters of Wood, and Drawers of Water for the Assembly, and for the Altar of the Lord, at the Place that he should choose, which they are to this Time.

BUT when Adoni-zedek King of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had taken Ai, and destroyed it, doing the same to that and its King, as he had done to Jericho and its King, and that the Inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them;

2. He and his were exceedingly afraid, because Gibeon was a great City, like one of the royal Cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and the Men of it valiant in general.

3. Therefore he sent to Hoham King of Hebron, Piram King of Jarmuth, Japhia King of Lachish, and Debir King of Eglon;

4. That those should come up to him, and help him, that they might smite Gibeon, because it had made peace with Joshua and the Israelites.

5. So the five Kings of the Amorites above-mentioned came together, and going up with all their Armies, both encamped, and fought against Gibeon.

6. Whereupon the Men of Gibeon sent Word to Joshua, to the Camp at Gilgal, Do not let thy Hand be negligent towards thy Servants; come up to us speedily, save us, and help us: for all the Kings of the Amorites, who dwell on the Mountains, are gathered together against us.

7. Accordingly Joshua went up from Gilgal, with all the People of War, and valiant Men.

8. The Lord saying to him, Do not fear them: for I deliver them into thy Power; no Man of them shall stand in thy Sight.

9. Moreover going up from thence all Night, he came upon them suddenly.

10. And the Lord routed them before Israel, who not only slew them with a great Slaughter at Gibeon, but pursued them in the Way that went up to Beth-horon, and slew them even to Azekah and Makkedah.

11. Besides as they were running away from the Presence of Israel, down to Beth-horon, the Lord threw great Hailstones upon them from Heaven as far as Azekah; by which more of them died, than the Israelites killed with the Sword.

12. Then Joshua said to the Lord, in the Sight of the Israelites, on the Day that he delivered up the Amorites before them, Let the Sun stand still against Gibeon, and the Moon against the Vale of Aijalon.

13. This they both did, till the People were revenged on their Enemies; is it not written in the Book of the Upright? Thus the Sun staid in the middle of the Sky, and did not hasten to go down about a whole Day.

14. Inasmuch that there has not been such

Ver. 10. who] for God's Work, as Peale observes, is described Ver. 11.

Ver. 12. Let] The Heb. Word is either imperative or Infinitive; according to the latter it might be rendered, Joshua spoke to the Lord—for the Sun to stand still: for both by this and the 14th Verse it appears he spoke it to the Lord.

1b. stand still] or abide.

1b. against] to wit in the same Position to the Earth.

Ver. 13. they both did] Reckoning this a Year after the Israelites entered Canaan, it amounts by my Tables to 556 Years after the Death of Noah. Now the Chinese History has a Tradition, that the Sun did not set in ten Days, while the Emperor Yao reigned. Days may be thought a Mistake for Hours, and both Miracles to be the same, especially as the Computation agrees: for after the Decease of Fohi their first Emperor, who is counted to be Noah, the Time is recorded thus;

	Y.	Am.
Xinnum reigned	140	140
Hoamti	100	240
Xaohao	84	324
Chuenbio	78	402
Tico	70	472
Chi	8	480
Yao	100	580

So that this concurs with the Scripture, and may be justly esteemed a Testimony for it. Besides China is so far eastward, that the Time of the Day there may be reckoned upwards of four Hours later than in Canaan; which answers better still, as the Chinese Report seems to intimate that the Sun was towards its setting there. And according to the Scripture it was not just an artificial Day or twelve Hours, so may rather be thought less than more, which that Day it self is in the Winter Part of the Year; the Chinese Relation on the other hand having ten, might arise from this, that the Sun was not there observed to stand still till an Hour or more, which might easily be the Case, especially if it was cloudy, and that may seem likely too, because they have no Mention made of the Moon: however Dials would not inform them how long it was, and they had scarce other Instruments for it besides such as Hour-glasses. Thus if we particularly examine and compare the Accounts, they appear the more agreeable.

The Copernican System of Astronomy being now received and demonstrated, by it the Moon's standing still may be accounted for, as that was useless with the Sun: for the diurnal Rotation of the Earth, by which it turns round like a Wheel, being stopped, if the Moon continued its Course, the Position of it to the Earth, which it is about a Month going round, would be altered but little; nay the Moon being a Satellite of the Earth, might stand still with it, as an Effect of the Earth's Cessation, or that their mutual Relation to one another and the other heavenly Bodies might not be destroyed, not for any Benefit it would be then to the Israelites. Thus the modern System of the Universe and the Scripture Account agree together, and mutually confirm each other. As it will be allowed the Notion then was that the Sun went round the Earth, if this Piece of History had been fictitious, would not the Author, in consequence of that Notion, have represented the Sun only standing still, since there was no Need of the Moon? Whereas that the Sun might seem to stand still (in like manner as the Moon seemed a Light, Gen. i. 16.) the Earth really must, and so the Moon would seem to stand likewise; this shows that the Fact was true, since it could not be invented, and that Joshua did it by divine Direction.

The pitiful Objections to this noble Miracle, viz. of Maimonides, that God only enabled Joshua and his Army to do as much Execution in one Day as would have taken up two, More Nevech. Part ii. Cap. 39. of Spinosa, that it was Nothing but a Refraction of the Sun's Rays by the Sky, Traet. Theolog. Politic. Cap. 2. of Gretius, that it is omitted in Heb. viii. put for xi. (though mentioned Hab. iii. 11.) not to mention others more ridiculous, can really deserve no Answer. Peirerius, as a Person of extraordinary Skill for making the Miracles of Scripture natural, supposes it was the Twilight after Sun-set, which Joshua mistook for the Sun, Præadamit. Lib. iv. 6. Whereas, without insisting on the Sun's being in the middle of the Sky, his staying under the Earth to make the Twilight longer than usual, would be as much a Miracle as to stay above it, and to create a new Light might be a greater. Besides the Israelites pursued their Enemies, then returned to Makkedah, took it, and slaying the five Kings, hanged them up some time before Sun-set, Ver. 19,—28. To conclude, Le Clerc, who seems to have laboured it most, objects further, among other wretched trifling Shifts, that Joshua would more probably pray for a longer Day at Sun-set than at Noon: which would not invalidate the Miracle if it had been so; but the Israelites might not have had Faith enough, upon Joshua's speaking for the Sun to stand still at Sun-set, then to have dispersed, and pursued their Enemies to their several Cities, for fear of Dangers in the Night. To the Pretence that the same Slaughter might have been made in two Days as in that one, may be opposed what is said by the Jews, that it was the Day before the Sabbath, as in Pirke Eliez. 52. however two Days would not do instead of that one, for supposing the Amorites had been beat the first Day, the second would not have a Day as that, before it nor since, for the Lord to hearken to what a Man said; because he fought for Israel.

15. Joshua afterwards returned with all Israel, to the Camp at Gilgal.

16. Now those five Kings fled, and hid themselves in a Cave at Makkedah.

17. And when it was told Joshua, that they were found hid there,

18. He said; Roll great Stones on the Cave's Mouth, and set Men by it to keep them.

19. But do not you stay, pursue after your Enemies, and kill the hindermost of them; suffer them not to enter into their Cities, since the Lord your God has delivered them into your Power.

20. At length when Joshua and the Israelites had done slaying them with a very great Slaughter, till they were consumed, the rest who remained of them being got into fortified Cities;

21. All the People returned to him, at the Camp of Makkedah, in Peace, no Man moving his Tongue against one of the Israelites.

22. Next Joshua bade them open the Mouth of the Cave, and bring out thence those five Kings to him;

23. Which they did, namely, the Kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish and Eglon.

24. As soon too as this was done, and Joshua had called all the Men of Israel, the Captains of the Warriors who went with him, came at his commanding them, and put their Feet upon the Necks of those Kings.

25. To whom Joshua said, Do not fear, nor be daunted; be courageous and valiant: for the Lord will do thus to all your Enemies, whom you shall fight with.

26. After which he put them to death, hanging them on five Trees, where they hung till the Evening.

27. And at the Time of Sun-set he commanded, and they were taken down from thence, and thrown into the Cave where they had been hid; great Stones were also put upon the Mouth of it, as to this very Day.

28. Nay the same Day he took Makkedah, which he conquered with the Edge of the Sword, and destroyed the King of it, as well as all the Persons who were there, without letting any remain; doing to him, as he had done to the King of Jericho.

29. From thence moreover Joshua, and all Israel with him, passed to Libnah; and assaulted it.

30. And the Lord also delivered that, and its King, into their Power, so that he conquered it with the Edge of the Sword, and all the Persons who were there, without letting any remain in it; doing to the King of it, as he had done to that of Jericho.

31. As likewise from Libnah he passed in the same manner to Lachish, encamping, and fighting against it.

32. Which the Lord delivered into their Power, and he took it on the second Day, conquering it with the Edge of the Sword, and all the Persons who were there, entirely as he did to Libnah.

33. Then Horain King of Gezer came up to help Lachish; but Joshua smote him and his People, till he left him none remaining.

34. He further passed from thence, attended with all Israel, to Eglon, against which they encamped, and fought;

35. Taking it, and conquering it with the Edge of the Sword that Day; and on the same he destroyed all the Persons who were there, entirely as he did to Lachish.

36. From whence he went up, and all Israel with him, to Hebron, and fought against that.

37. And having taken, and conquered it by the Edge of the Sword, with its King, and all its Cities, as well as all the Persons who were there; he let none remain, entirely as he had done to Eglon, but destroyed it and all of them.

38. In the next place he turned back, accompanied with all Israel, to Debir, and fighting against it;

39. Took it, with its King, and all its Cities, which he conquered by the Edge of the Sword, and destroyed all the Persons who were there, without letting any remain; doing to that, and the King of it, the same as he had done to Hebron, and to Libnah with its King.

40. Thus did Joshua conquer all the Country of the Mountains, the South, the Vales, and the Streams, with all their Kings, served for pursuing them, since they might have got away in the Night between; moreover the Terror of such a wonderful Thing might be of great Use to discourage the yet numerous Enemies, according to what had been before, Chap. ii. 9, 10, 11. & v. 1. as well as encourage the Lord's People, and engage them to Thankfulness and Obedience; besides gloriously displaying the Power and Providence of God, to future and perpetual Ages.

43. Lastly he returned, and all Israel with him, to the Camp at Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

BUT when Jabin King of Hazor heard of these Things, he sent to Jobab King of Madon, to the King of Shimron, and of Achshaph,

2. To the Kings also who were northward, on the Mountains, and the Plains at the South-side of Cinneroth, and in the Vales, with the Regions of Dor westward,

3. To the Canaanites both in the East and West, the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, and Jebusites on the Mountains, and the Hivites under Hermon, in the Country of Mizpeh.

4. Who came forth with all their Armies, being many People, like the Sand that is on the Sea-shoar for Multitude, with very many Horses and Chariots.

5. All these Kings being met together, came and encamped together at the Water of Merom, to fight with Israel.

6. Upon which the Lord said to Joshua, Be not afraid by reason of them, for to Morrow about this Time, I will deliver them up all slain before Israel; thou shalt hough their Horses, and burn their Chariots in the Fire.

7. So he went thither to them, with all the People of War, suddenly, and falling upon them;

8. The Lord delivered them into the Power of Israel, so that pursuing them to great Zidon, Misrephoth-maim, and the Valley of Mizpeh eastward, they slew them, till they left them none of them remaining.

9. And Joshua did to them as the Lord ordered him, he hamstringed their Horses, and burnt their Chariots in the Fire.

10. At the same time he also turned back, and took Hazor, that being in time past the Head of all those Kingdoms, whose King he slew with the Sword;

11. As they did all the Persons who were there, without leaving any alive from being destroyed; and he burnt Hazor with Fire.

12. He likewise took all the other Cities, and their Kings, whom he put to the Sword, destroying them, as Moses the Servant of the Lord commanded.

13. However the Israelites burnt none of the Cities that remained in their Places, besides Hazor only, which Joshua had burnt.

14. Yet taking the Spoil of them all, and the Cattle, for their Plunder, they put all the People to the Sword, till they were destroyed, without leaving any who breathed.

15. As the Lord commanded his Servant Moses, and he Joshua; so Joshua did, not omitting any Thing of it.

16. And he took all this Country, the Mountains, all the South, the whole Country of Goshen, the Vales, and the Plains, with the Mountain of Israel, and the Vale of it.

17. From Mount Halak going up to Scir, even to Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon under Mount Hermon, he took all their Kings, and put them to death:

18. He making war with them a great while,

19. There was no City that made peace with the Israelites, besides the Hivites who dwelt at Gibeon; they took all the rest by War.

20. For it was of the Lord to let their Hearts be stout, to meet Israel in War, in order that they might be utterly destroyed by them, without having any Favour; as the Lord commanded Moses.

21. Joshua also went at that Time, and exterminated the Anakites from the Mountains, from Hebron, Debir, Anab, and all the Mountains both of Judah and Israel, with their Cities.

22. None of them were left remaining in the Israelites Country, excepting in Gaza, Gath and Ashdod.

23. Thus Joshua took the whole Country, entirely as the Lord spoke to Moses, and gave it to Israel for a Possession, according

C H A P. XII.

NOW these are the Kings of the Country whom the Israelites slew, and possessed their Land on the other side Jordan, at the rising of the Sun, from the River Arnon to Mount Hermon, and all the Plain eastward :

2. Sihon King of the Amorites who dwelt at Heshbon, ruling from Aroer which was upon the Bank of the River Arnon, the middle of the River, and half Gilead, to Jabbok a River the Bounds of the Ammonites ;

3. And from the Plain to the Sea of Cinneroth, and that of the Plain, the Salt Sea at the Way to Beth-jeshimoth, both eastward ; and from the South under the Streams of Pisgah :

4. With the Bounds of Og King of Bashan, one of the Remnant of the Giants, who dwelt at Ashtaroth and Edrei ;

5. And ruled over Mount Hermon, Salcah, and all Bashan, to the Border of the Geshurites and Maachathites, and half Gilead, the Border of Sihon King of Heshbon :

6. Them Moses the Servant of the Lord and the Israelites slew, and he gave it for an Inheritance to the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh.

7. And these are the Kings of the Country whom Joshua and the Israelites slew, on this side Jordan westward, from Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon, to Mount Halak going up to Seir ; which he gave to the Tribes of Israel for an Inheritance, according to their Divisions ;

8. On the Mountains, in the Vales, and Plains, at the Streams, in the Wilderness, and the South, the Country of the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites :

9. The King of Jericho one, the King of Ai which was at the Side of Beth-el another,

10. The King of Jerusalem another, the King of Hebron another,

11. The King of Jarmuth another, the King of Lachish another,

12. The King of Eglon another, the King of Gezer another,

16. The King of Makkedah another, the King of Beth-el another,

17. The King of Tappuah another, the King of Hopher another,

18. The King of Aphek another, the King of Lasharon another,

19. The King of Madon another, the King of Hazor another,

20. The King of Shimron-meron another, the King of Achshaph another,

21. The King of Taanach another, the King of Megiddo another,

22. The King of Kedesh another, the King of Jokneam belonging to Carmel another,

23. The King of Dor belonging to the Region of Dor another, the King of the Nations belonging to Gilgal another, 24. The King of Tirzah another ; all the Kings being thirty one.

C H A P. XIII.

AT length Joshua being old, advanced in Age, the Lord said to him : Since thou art become old, advanced in Age, and there is left very much Land to possess :

2. Namely all the Borders of the Philistines, and all Geshuri ;

3. From Shihor that is before Egypt, to the Bounds of Ekron northward, which is reckoned to the Canaanites ; the five Lordships of the Philistines, of the Gazathites,

Ver. 2. and half] Poole and Patrick observe the Heb. has here Nothing for from (though the com. Transf. has it in the Roman Character) from whence they make inference that the Sense is, Sihon ruled half Gilead ; and, says the former, this doth not seem to denote the term or bound from which his Dominion begun, for so indeed it was not : but neither has the Hebrew any Thing for from before the middle of the River, yet both those Authors particularly remark Sihon's Kingdom was bounded by that ; and Ver. 5. expresses that half Gilead was the Border of Sihon : for one half of Gilead belonging to Sihon, and the other half to Og, the Bounds of their Kingdoms must go between, and be the Outside of each half there ; so that from before Aroer belongs also to the middle of the River and half Gilead, and that very properly, as likewise in Ver. 5. to before Border belongs to half Gilead.

Ver. 8. On the Mountains, in the Vales] Tynd. in the upper lands, and nether lands.

Ver. 9. one] is omitted in Tyndal's Transf. throughout, only to gather put for it after Kynge in the last Verse.

lb. Gazathites, &c.] being the several Sorts of the Philistines.

Ashdodites, Eshkelonites, Gittites, and Ekronites, as also the Avites;

4. All the Country of the Canaanites from the South, with Mearah that belongs to the Zidonians, to Aphek, and the Bounds of the Amorites;

5. The Country too of the Giblites, and all Lebanon at the Sun-rising, from Baal-gad under Mount Hermon, to the Entrance of Hamath;

6. That of all the Inhabitants of the Mountains from Lebanon to Misrephoth-maim, of all the Zidonians: whom I will expel from the Presence of the Israelites; only do thou part the same to Israel for a Possession, as I have commanded thee.

7. So now divide this Country for a Possession to the nine Tribes, and the half Tribe of Manasseh.

8. With the other half of which the Reubenites and Gadites received their Possession, that Moses the Lord's Servant gave them on the other side Jordan eastward, according as he did it;

9. From Aroer which is upon the Bank of the River Arnon, the City that is in the middle of the River, and all the Plain of Medeba, to Dibon;

10. And all the Cities of Sihon King of the Amorites, who reigned at Heshbon, to the Bounds of the Ammonites;

11. Gilead also, and the Border of the Geshurites and Maachathites, with all Mount Hermon, as well as all Bashan, to Salcah;

12. The whole Kingdom of Og at Bashan, who reigned at Ashtaroth and Edrei, being left of the Remnant of the Giants: for them Moses slew, and expelled.

13. Yet the Israelites did not drive out the Geshurites, nor Maachathites, who dwell among them to this Day.

14. However he gave no Possession to the Tribe of Levi; the Sacrifices by Fire of the Lord God of Israel are their Possession, as he said to them.

15. Now to the Tribe of the Reubenites Moses gave by their Families;

16. (Their Border being from Aroer which is on the Bank of the River Arnon, the City that is in the middle of the River, and all the Plain by Medeba)

17. Heshbon, and all its Cities which are on the Plain, Dibon, Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon,

18. Jahazah, Kedemoth, Mephaath,

19. Kirjathaim, Sibmah, Zereth-shahar on the Mount of the Vale,

20. Beth-peor, Ashdodh-pisgah, Beth-jeshimoth,

21. And all the Cities of the Plain, as also the Kingdom of Sihon in general, King of the Amorites, who reigned at Heshbon; whom Moses slew, with the Princes of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, Governors of Sihon, who dwelt in the Country:

22. Balaam the Son of Beor the Diviner likewise did the Israelites kill with the Sword, among those who were slain by them.

23. Besides Jordan, and its Bounds were the Bounds of the Reubenites: of whom this was the Possession by their Families, these Cities with their Villages.

24. To the Tribe of the Gadites next Moses gave thus by their Families:

25. Their Border was Jazer, all the Cities of Gilead, and half the Country of the Ammonites, to Aroer that is before Rabbah;

26. And from Heshbon to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, from Mahanaim also to the Border of Debir;

27. Moreover in the Vale Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth and Zaphon, the rest of the Kingdom of Sihon King of Heshbon, Jordan and its Bounds, to the Brink of the Sea of Cinnereth, on the other side Jordan eastward.

28. This was the Possession of the Gadites by their Families, these Cities with their Villages.

29. And Moses gave to the half Tribe of the Manassehites by their Families what follows:

30. Their Border was from Mahanaim, containing all Bashan, the whole Kingdom of Og who was King there, and all the Towns of Jair which are in it, being sixty;

31. Half Gilead likewise, with Ashtaroth and Edrei, Cities of the Kingdom of Og in Bashan, belonging to half the Posterity of Machir the Son of Manasseh by their Families.

32. This is what Moses gave for Possession on the Plains of Moab, at the other side Jordan, against Jericho eastward.

33. But he gave no Possession to the Tribe of Levi, the Lord God of Israel being theirs, as he said to them.

C H A P. XIV.

AND this is what the Israelites possessed in the Country of Canaan, which Eleazar the Priest, Joshua the Son of Nun, and the chief Fathers of the Tribes gave them to possess :

2. Which was by Lot for the nine Tribes and the half, as the Lord commanded by the Ministry of Moses.

3. For he gave the Possession of the two Tribes and the half on the other side Jordan, but gave the Levites none among them ;

4. And the Posterity of Joseph being two Tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim, they gave the Levites no Part in the Country, excepting Cities to dwell in, and the Suburbs of them for their Cattle, and what they had got.

5. As the Lord commanded Moses, so the Israelites did, and they divided the Country.

6. And the Men of Judah going to Joshua at Gilgal, Caleb the Son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite said to him : Thou knowest what the Lord spoke to Moses the Man of God, concerning me and thee, at Kadesh-barnea.

7. I was forty years old when that Servant of the Lord sent me from thence, to spy the Country, and I brought him back Word as my Mind was.

8. Though my Brethren who went up with me disheartened the People, yet I followed the Lord my God entirely.

9. By reason of which Moses swore at that Time, that the Land which my Feet had trod on, should be a Possession to me and my Posterity for ever.

10. And now behold the Lord has kept me alive, as he said, these five and forty Years since he spoke these Words to Moses, when Israel was walking in the Wilderness ; so that I am now indeed at this Time eighty five Years old.

11. I am yet as strong at this Time, as I was when Moses sent me : my Strength now is such as it was then, for War, both to go out, and come in.

12. Now therefore give me this Mountain, which the Lord spoke of at that Time ; though thou heardest then that the Anakites were there, and the Cities great and fortified : perhaps the Lord will be with me, that I may drive them out, as he said.

13. So Joshua blessing him, gave to Caleb the Son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, Hebron for a Possession.

14. Therefore it has been his to this Day, because he followed the Lord God of Israel entirely.

15. The Name of Hebron before being The City of Arba, who was a great Man among the Anakites. Thus the Country rested from War.

Ver. 15. before] The Name appears to have been originally Hebron, as it is called so before it is The City of Arba, Gen. xiii. 18. & xxiii. 2. It must have a Name when it was first built, and since there is Mention made of the building it, Num. xiii. 22. if Arba had done it, probably it would have been said so, as of other Places which had particular Founders, especially when it is told at the same time that his Posterity were there. Besides that Hebron signifying a Company or Society, may intimate the Name to come from no particular Master.

The Sons of Anak being there when he took it, Judg. i. 20. whose Father Arba is said to be, Josh. xv. 13. and it being a noted Place, not very far either from Egypt or the Wilderness, Moses might hear of it, and so call it by both Names, as the latter might begin in his Time, and the former be still used however in other Countries, Gen. xxiii. 2. & xxxv. 27. Prideaux pretends Exra altered the Name to Hebron in Genesis & Numbers, Connect. Part is B. v. but he especially seems an unlikely Person to do it so long after, when the Israelites had kept it a thousand Years as Moses wrote it. And as to his saying, Caleb called it Hebron after the Name of Hebron one of his Sons, that Hebron appears to be the Grandson of another Caleb, 1 Chron. ii. 42. the Son of Hexron, Ver. 9, 18. as the Genealogy also before the English Bible has it ; and Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, who had the City of Hebron, Josh. xiv. 14. has no Son of that Name, 1 Chron. iv. 15.

Ib. The City of Arba] as at Ch. xv. 13. & xxi. 11.

3. And went out on the South to the Ascent of Akkrabbim, passing on to Zin, and going up at the South to Kadesh-barnea, then passed on to Hezron, went up to Ad-dar, and round about to Karkaa ;

4. Next passing to Azmon, it went forth to the River of Egypt, and the going out of the Border was at the Sea : this, said the Lord, shall be your south Bounds.

5. The Border also eastward was the Salt Sea, to the End of Jordan. And the Border on the north Side was from thence, at the Bay of the Sea ;

6. And it going up to Beth-hoglah, passed along on the North of Beth-arabah, and went up to the Stone of Bohan the Reubenite ;

7. Then to Debir from the Vale of Achor, and northward turning to Gilgal, which is over against the Ascent of Adummim that is on the South of the River, it passed on to the Water of En-shemesh, and the going out of it was at En-rogel ;

8. Moreover the Border went up to the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to the south Side of Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, and to the Top of the Mountain that is before the Valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the End of the Giant's Vale northward ;

9. And it was marked out from the Top of the Mountain, to the Fountain of Water at Nephtoah, going forth to the Cities of Mount Ephron, and was marked out to Baalah, which is Kirjath-jearim ;

10. From thence too it went round westward to Mount Seir, and passed along to the Side of Mount Jearim on the North, which is Chesalon, going down to Beth-shemesh, and passing on to Timnah ;

11. The Border next went forth to the Side of Ekron northward, was marked out to Shicron, and passing on to Mount Baalah, went forth to Jabneel, and the going out of it was at the Sea.

12. Lastly the Border westward was the great Sea, and its Coast. This was the Border of the People of Judah round about by their Families.

13. And to Caleb the Son of Jephunneh did Joshua give for a Part among them, at the Lord's Command, the City of Arba the Father of Anak, which is Hebron.

14. From whence he expelled the three Sons of Anak, Shefai, Ahiman, and Talmi, his Children.

15. Besides he went up from thence against the Inhabitants of Debir, the Name of which before was Kirjath-sepher.

16. And Caleb said, To him who conquers Kirjath-sepher, and takes it, I will give my Daughter Achsah for a Wife.

17. Which he did to Othniel, the Son of his Brother Kenaz, who took it.

18. And when she came, she persuaded him to ask her Father for Land ; and she alighting from the Ass, Caleb said to her, What wouldest thou have ?

19. Who answered, Give me a Blessing : for as thou hast given me Land in the South, thou shouldest also some Springs of Water. So he gave her Springs both above and below.

20. The Possession of the Tribe of the People of Judah, by their Families, was as follows :

21. Their Cities on the Outside, at the Border of Edom in the South, were, Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur,

22. Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah,

23. Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan,

Ver. 17. his Brother Kenaz] For as Othniel is constantly called the Son of Kenaz, Judg. i. 13. & iii. 9, 11. 1-Chron. iv. 13. so is Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, Ver. 13.

52. Arab, Dumah, Eshean,
53. Janum, Beth-tappuah, Aphekah,
54. Humtah, the Town of Arba, that is Hebron, and Zior: nine Cities, with their Villages:

58. Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor,

61. In the Wilderness Beth-arabah, Mid-din, Sechachah,

62. Nibshan, the City of Salt and Engedi; six Cities, with their Villages.

63. As for the Jebusites who dwelt at Jerusalem, the People of Judah could not expel them, and the Jebusites dwell there with them to this Day.

NEXT the Lot came out for the Posterity of Joseph, from Jordan by Jericho, to the Water of Jericho at the East, and along the Wilderness that goes up from Jericho over Mount Beth-el;

2. Then it went out from Beth-el to Luz, passing on to the Border of Archi to Ataroth;

3. And went down westward to the Border of Japhleti, to that of the lower Beth-horon, and to Gezer; and the going out of it was at the Sea.

4. Thus the Posterity of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, had their Possession.

5. The Border of the Possession of the Ephraimites by their Families, being from Ataroth-addar on the East, to the upper Beth-horon;

6. And went out westward to Michmethah on the North: as it did round on the East to Taanah-shiloh, and passed by it the same Way to Janoah;

7. From whence it went down to Ataroth, and Naarah; and going on to Jericho, went out at Jordan;

8. The Border went from Tappuah westward to the River Kanah, and the going out of it was at the Sea. This was the Possession of the Tribe of the Ephraimites by their Families.

9. However all their separate Cities, with the Villages of them, were among the Possession of the Manasschites.

10. But they did not expel the Canaanites that dwelt at Gezer, who dwell among the Ephraimites to this Day, serving with Tribute.

C H A P. XVII.

AND there was a Lot for the Tribe of Manasseh, since he was the First-born of Joseph; for Machir his First-born, the Father of Gilead, who because he was a Warrior, had Gilead and Bashan.

2. The rest likewise of Manasseh's Posterity had according to their Families, the Sons of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, He-

Ib. it did] Here the Description of the Border seems to begin again from Beth-horon, at the north-east Corner, and to go on again more particularly to Ataroth, at the south-east Corner, which seems the same with Ataroth-addar, as Tappuah and En-tappuah, Ver. 8. & Chap. xvii. 7. for that Ataroth-addar was at the south Side of Ephraim is plain from Chap. xviii. 13. because it was in the Border of Benjamin. This Description also begins a third Time from Tappuah, Ver. 8.

Ver. 1. since he was the First-born] so had a Lot here as well as on the other side Jordan.

pher and Shemida; these being his Male-children.

3. But Zelophehad, the Son of Hephher, the Son of Gilead, the Son of Machir, the Son of Manasseh, had no Sons, but Daughters, whose Names were, Mahlah, and No-hah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah;

4. So they came before Eleazar the Priest, Joshua the Son of Nun, and the Princes, saying, that the Lord commanded Moses to give them a Possession among their Father's Brethren; which was done as the Lord ordered.

5. And there fell ten Parcels to Manasseh, besides the Country of Gilead and Bashan, which was on the other side Jordan;

6. Because his Daughters had Possession among his Sons, after the rest of his Sons had that Country.

7. Now the Border of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, which is before Shechem, and went along at the right Hand to the Inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8. Manasseh had the Land of Tappuah, but the Town it self on the Border of Manasseh belonged to the Ephraimites.

9. And the Border went down to the River Kanah, at the south Side of it, the Cities of Ephraim there being among those of Manasseh; then the Border of Manasseh was on the North of the River, and the going out of it was at the Sea.

10. At the south Side it was Ephraim's, at the North Manasseh's, and the Sea was the Bounds of it; thus they met together, with Asher on the North, and Issachar on the East.

11. Besides in Issachar and Asher Manasseh had Beth-shean, Ibleam, the Inhabitants of Dor, of En-dor, of Taanach, and of Megiddo, with their Towns, three Regions.

12. However the Posterity of Manasseh could not drive the Canaanites out of those Cities, but they would dwell in that Country.

13. Yet when the Israelites became strong, they put them under Tribute, though they did not at all expel them.

14. And the Posterity of Joseph spoke thus to Joshua, Why didst thou give us a Possession of one Lot and Parcel, since we are many People, whom the Lord has blessed hitherto.

15. If you are many People, said he to them, get you up to the Wood; and cut down for your selves there, in the Country of the Perizzites and Giants, since Mount Ephraim is too streight for you.

16. They then replied, The Mountain will not be sufficient for us, and all the Canaanites who dwell in the Vale-country have iron Chariots, those who are at Beth-shean and its Towns, and those who are in the Vale of Izreel.

17. And Joshua said to the Family of Joseph, to Ephraim and Manasseh as follows; You being many People, and having great Power, shall not have a single Lot:

18. For the Mountain shall be yours, since it is a Wood, and you shall cut it down, and have the goings out of it; for you will expel the Canaanites, though they have iron Chariots, and they are strong.

C H A P. XVIII.

AND the whole Assembly of the Israelites gathered together at Shiloh, and placed the publick Tent there, when the Country was subdued before them.

2. Now there were seven Tribes left among them, whose Possession was not parted.

3. Therefore Joshua said to the Israelites; How long you are slack to go in to inherit the Country, which the Lord God of your Fathers has given you!

4. Give you three Men of a Tribe, whom I will send, and they shall get ready, and going through the Country, describe it according to their Possession, and come to me:

5. Which shall be divided into seven Parts, Judah remaining in his Bounds on the South, and the Family of Joseph in theirs on the North.

6. And when you have delineated the Land in seven Parts, and brought it hither to me, I will cast Lots for you here before the Lord your God.

7. For the Levites have no Part among you, because the Lord's Priesthood is their Possession; and Gad, Reuben, and the half Tribe of Manasseh have received theirs beyond Jordan on the East, which Moses the Servant of the Lord gave them.

Ver. 5. ten] Manasseh having six Sons, Ver. 2. and what belonged to one of them being parted between his five Daughters, Ver. 3.

Ver. 10. with Asher] Manasseh being between that and Ephraim; and Patrick observes from Conradus Pellicanus, that both the Tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh could not touch these other Tribes. I will only add, that the Lot of Manasseh reaching to the Mediterranean Sea on the West, Ver. 9. seems quite to prevent Ephraim's on the South of it touching Asher's on the North; and the Distinction in the Text shews it was not done at the east Side.

Ver. 13. at all] See Gen. iii. 4.

Ver. 16. Mountain] where the Wood was, Ver. 15, 18. Ib. Izreel] beginning as Israel; see the like Chap. xix. 14.

Ver. 18. goings out] namely in the Vale by the Mountain, Ver. 16.

8. Joshua also commanded the Men who got ready to go, and make a Description of the Country, that they should go about through it, and write it down, and return, that he might cast Lots for them there before the Lord in Shiloh.

9. Accordingly they went, and passed through the Country, and having written it down by Cities in seven Parts in a Book, they came to him, to the Camp at Shiloh.

10. Who cast Lots for them there before the Lord, and divided the Country to the Israelites according to their Divisions.

11. And the Lot of the Tribe of the Benjaminites by their Families came up, so that the Border of it went out between the Posterity of Judah and that of Joseph.

12. Thus at the north Side their Border was from Jordan, and went up to the Side of Jericho on the North, and over the Mountain westward, and the going out of it was at the Wilderness of Beth-aven;

13. From whence it passed to Luz, at the south Side of it, which is Beth-el, and went down to Ataroth-addar, by the Mountain which is on the South of the lower Beth-horon.

14. Next the Border was marked out, so that it went round from that Mountain at the west Side southward, and the going out of it was at Kirjath-baal, which is Kirjath-jearim, a City of the People of Judah: this was the west Side.

15. And the south Side was from the End of Kirjath-jearim, the Border going forth at the West to the Fountain of Water at Nephtoah;

16. Then it went down to the End of the Mountain which is before the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, that is at the Giants Vale northward, going down at the south Side of Jebusi, to the Valley of Hinnom, and to En-rogel;

17. So it was marked out from the North, and went forth to En-shemesh, and to Gellioth, which is over against the Ascent of Adummim, and went down to the Stone of Bohan the Reubenite;

18. As likewise passed along before Arabah at the north Side, going down to the Plain;

19. It passed further at the north Side of Beth-hoglah, and the going out of it was at the north Bay of the Salt Sea, at the south End of Jordan: this was the south Border.

20. Moreover Jordan bounded it at the east Side. This is the Possession of the Benjaminites in their Borders round about, by their Families.

21. The Cities of whose Tribe, by their Families, were, Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz,

22. Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Beth-el,

23. Avim, Parah, Ophrah,

24. Chephar-ammonai, Ophni and Geba; twelve Cities, with their Villages:

25. Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth,

26. Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah,

27. Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah,

28. Zelah, Eleph, Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, Gibeath, Kirjath; fourteen Cities, with their Villages. This is the Possession of the Benjaminites, by their Families.

C H A P. XIX.

THE second Lot also came out for the Tribe of the Simeonites, by their Families, whose Possession was within that of the People of Judah.

2. And they had in it, Beer-sheba or Sheba, Moladah,

3. Hazar-shual, Balah, Azem,

4. Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah,

5. Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah,

6. Beth-lebaoth and Sharuhon; thirteen Cities, with their Villages:

7. Ain, Rimmon, Ether and Ashan; four Cities, with their Villages:

8. And all the Villages that were round about these Cities, as far as Baalath-beer, and South Ramath. This is the Possession of the Tribe of the Simeonites, by their Families.

9. They had it out of the Parcel belonging to the People of Judah, within which it

Ver. 11. between] Patrick, following Poole, makes this a fulfilling of the Prophecy in Deut. xxxiii. 12. as if Judah and Joseph were the Lord's Shoulders; which besides the Oddness of it, stands confuted in the Note there.

Ver. 14. west] The Heb. Word is the same in both Places of this Verse, as is the other for Side; nor, as Patrick says, did it come near the Sea; the Tribe of Dan being also between, as Fuller observes, Pisgab-Sight, B. ii. Ch. 12.

Ver. 18. to the Plain] Arabah signifying a Plain, called elsewhere Beth-arabah, the Plain-House, from its Situation by or at the Plain, was not in the very Border between Judah and Benjamin, as Chap. xv. 6. further manifests.

Ver. 21. Emek-keziz] it being the Name of a City, Ver. 24. of which he speaks, says Patrick, not of a Valley.

Ver. 24. ammonai] ba being an Article, as before arabah, Ver. 22.

Ver. 2. or] not and, which would make more than thirteen, Ver. 6. and is omitted 1 Chron. iv. 28. thus Poole and Patrick explain it. The LXX, instead of Sheba have Saman, mistaking z for s though the same as in the Word before, and putting a for y was, because their Part was too much for them.

10. Moreover the third Lot came up for the Zebulunites, by their Families. The Border of whose Possession was as far as Sarid,

11. And went up towards the West, even to Maralah, going on to Dabbasheth, and to the River which is before Jokneam;

12. And from Sarid it turned back eastward, at the Sun-rising, to the Border of Chisloth-tabor, went out to Daberath, and up to Japhia;

13. Passing along from thence the same Way to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, and went out to Rimmon-methoar, to Neah;

14. Round which it went on the North to Hannathon, and the going out of it was at the Valley of Iphtah-el.

15. It contained too Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah and Beth-lehem: twelve Cities, and their Villages:

16. Which are the Possession of the Zebulunites, by their Families.

17. The fourth Lot came out for the People of Issachar, by their Families.

18. Whose Border was at Izreel, containing likewise Chesulloth, Shunem,

19. Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath,

20. Rabbith, Kishion, Abez,

21. Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah and Beth-pazzez.

22. The Border also passed on to Thabor, Shahazimah and Beth-shemesh, and the going out of it was at Jordan; being sixteen Cities, with their Villages:

23. Which are the Possession of the Tribe of the Issacharites, by their Families.

24. And for the Tribe of the Asherites, by their Families, came forth the fifth Lot.

25. In whose Border were Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph,

26. Alaimmalech, Amad and Misheal; and it passed on to Carmel westward, and to Shihor-libnath;

27. Besides it turned back at the Sun-rising to Beth-dagon, passing on to Zebulun, and to the Valley of Iphtah-el northward, Beth-emek, and Neiel, and went out to Cabul on the left Hand,

28. Hebron, Rehob, Hammon and Kannah, as far as great Zidon;

29. Then the Border turned again to Ramah, and to the fortified City Tyre, and again to Hofah, and the going out of it was at the Sea, from the Parcel at Achzib.

30. Containing further Ummah, Aphek and Rehob; twenty two Cities, with their Villages:

31. Which are the Possession of the Tribe of the Asherites, by their Families.

32. The sixth Lot came out for the People of Naphtali, by their Families.

33. Whose Border was from Heleph, from Allon in Zaanannim, Adami, Nikeb, and Jabneel, to Lakkum, and the going out of it was at Jordan;

34. Next it turned back westward to Aznoth-tabor, from whence it went out to Hukkok, passing on to Zebulun at the South, as it did to Asher at the West, and to Judah in Jordan, at the Sun-rising.

35. And the fortified Cities are Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth,

36. Adamah, Ramah, Hazor,

37. Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor,

38. Iron, Migdal-el, Horem, Beth-anath and Beth-shemesh; nineteen Cities, with their Villages;

39. Which are the Possession of the Tribe of the Naphtalites, by their Families.

40. The seventh Lot came out for the Tribe of the Danites, by their Families.

41. In the Border of whose Possession were Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir-shemesh,

42. Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah,

43. Elon, Thimnathah, Ekron,

44. Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath,

45. Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon,

46. Me-jarkan and Rakkon, with the Border over against Joppa.

47. But the Border of the Danites went out too little for them; therefore they went up, and fought against Leshem, which they took,

took, and conquered with the Edge of the Sword, possessed, and dwelt in it, calling it Dan according to the Name of their Father.

48. These Cities, and their Villages, are the Possession of the Tribe of the Danites, by their Families.

49. Having thus made an end of appointing the Possession of the Country, by its Borders, the Israelites gave Joshua the Son of Nun a Possession among them,

50. At the Command of the Lord, even Timnah-serah on Mount Ephraim, the City that he asked for, which he built up, and dwelt in it.

51. These are the Possessions which Eleazar the Priest, Joshua the Son of Nun, and the chief Fathers of the Tribes of the Israelites appointed by Lot, in Shiloh before the Lord, at the Door of the publick Tent: so they made an end of dividing the Country.

C H A P. XX.

AFTERWARDS the Lord spoke to Joshua, 2. That he should tell the Israelites as follows; Give the Cities of Refuge for your selves, which I spoke of to you by the Ministry of Moses;

3. For the Slayer to flee thither, who kills a Person by Mistake unknowingly, and they shall be a Refuge to you from the Revenger of Blood.

4. And when he who flees to one of these Cities has stood at the Entrance of its Gate, and told his Matter in the Hearing of the Elders of the same, they shall take him into the City to them, and give him a Place, that he may dwell with them.

5. Nay though the Revenger of Blood pursues after him, they shall not deliver up the Slayer into his Power; since he killed his Neighbour unknowingly, and did not hate him in time past.

6. In which City he shall dwell, till he stands before the Assembly for Judgment, and till the Death of the high Priest who is at that Time; then the Slayer shall return, and go to his own House, at the City from whence he fled.

7. So they prepared Kedesh in Galilee on the Mountain of Naphtali, Shechem on that of Ephraim, and the Town of Arba, which is Hebron, on the Mountain of Judah.

8. And on the other side Jordan against Jericho at the East, they gave Bezer in the Wilderness on the Plain out of the Tribe of Reuben, Ramoth in Gilead out of the Tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan out of that of Manasseh.

9. These Cities were appointed for all the Israelites, and for the Strangers sojourning among them, that whoever killed a Person by Mistake might flee thither, and not be killed by the Hand of the Revenger of Blood, till he stood before the Assembly.

C H A P. XXI.

AND the chief Fathers of the Levites came to Eleazar the Priest, to Joshua the Son of Nun, and the chief Fathers of the Tribes of the Israelites,

2. And spoke to them as follows, at Shiloh in the Country of Canaan, The Lord commanded by the Ministry of Moses, to give us Cities to dwell in, with their Suburbs for our Cattle.

3. Accordingly the Israelites gave them out of their Possession, at the Lord's Command, these Cities with their Suburbs,

4. The Lot coming out for the Families of the Kohathites; and the Posterity of Aaron the Priest, as being Levites, had out of the Tribes of Judah, Simeon and Benjamin, by Lot, thirteen Cities.

5. And the rest of the Posterity of Kohath had out of the Families of the Tribe of Ephraim, of that of Dan, and of the half Tribe of Manasseh, by Lot, ten Cities.

6. The Gershonites also had out of the Families of the Tribes of Issachar, Asher and Naphtali, and out of the half Tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, by Lot, thirteen Cities.

7. The Merarites by their Families, had out of the Tribes of Reuben, Gad and Zebulun, twelve Cities.

8. Now these Cities with their Suburbs did the Israelites give to the Levites, by Lot, as the Lord commanded by the Ministry of Moses.

9. They giving out of the Tribes of the People of Judah and Simeon, these Cities that are thus called by Name;

10. Which the Posterity of Aaron, of the Families of the Kohathites, of the Posterity of Levi, had; for the first Lot was theirs:

11. To whom they gave the City of Arba the Father of Anak, which is Hebron, on the Mountain of Judah, with its Suburbs round about it;

12. But the Fields and Villages of it, they gave to Caleb the Son of Jephunneh, for his Inheritance:

13. So they gave to the Posterity of Aaron the Priest, Hebron with its Suburbs, for a City of Refuge to the Slayer, and Libnah,

14. Jattir, Eshtemoa,

15. Holon, Debir,

16. Ain, Juttah, Beth-shemesh, with their respective Suburbs; nine Cities out of these two Tribes:

17. And

17. And out of the Tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon, Geba,

18. Anathoth and Almon, with their several Suburbs; four Cities.

19. All the Cities of the Posterity of Aaron, the Priests, were thirteen, with their Suburbs.

20. And the rest of the Posterity likewise of Kohath, the Families of the Levites, had the Cities of their Lot out of the Tribe of Ephraim.

21. For they gave them Shechem with its Suburbs on Mount Ephraim, for a City of Refuge to the Slayer, and Gezer,

22. Kibzaim and Beth-horon, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

23. Besides out of the Tribe of Dan, Elteke, Gibbethon,

24. Aijalon, Gath-rimmon, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

25. And out of the half Tribe of Manasseh, Taanach and Gath-rimmon, with theirs; two Cities.

26. All the Cities, for the Families of the rest of the Kohathites, were ten with their Suburbs.

27. And the Gershonites, of the Families of the Levites, had out of the half Tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan with its Suburbs, for a City of Refuge to the Slayer, and Be-eshterah with its Suburbs, two Cities.

28. And out of the Tribe of Issachar, Kisshion, Daberath,

29. Jarmuth, En-gannim, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

30. As also out of the Tribe of Asher, Mishal, Abdon,

31. Helkath and Rehob, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

32. And out of the Tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee with its Suburbs, for a City of Refuge to the Slayer, Hammoth-dor also, and Kartan, with both their Suburbs; three Cities.

33. All the Cities of the Gershonites, by their Families, were thirteen, with their Suburbs.

34. The Families too of the Merarites, the rest of the Levites, had out of the Tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam, Kartah,

35. Dimnah, Nahalal, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

36. And out of the Tribe of Reuben, Bezer, Jahezah,

37. Kedemoth and Mephaath, with their several Suburbs; four Cities:

Ver. 28. Daberath] The same as in Chap. xix. 12. 1 Chron. vi. 72. not Dabareh, altered from Dabereh in the former English Translations, and might then as well have been altered right, as worse.

Ver. 36, 37. It appears by the Masorah, Targum, &c. that these two Verses were not in the ancient Hebrew, but were probably taken from 1 Chron. vi. 78, 79. into the Greek and so the Latin Translation, and from thence put into some later Hebrew Copies, to make up the Number of twelve in Ver. 7, 40. and of forty eight in Ver. 41. But it is not said those twelve and forty eight are named here, and the So in our Bible, Ver. 40. is of the Translators adding; nor is there any Necessity that they should be named, and other such Things are not inserted in some other Places, as Ezr. ii. 64. &c. nay perhaps these four particular Cities were not appointed at this Time, only the Number of them; see further in Buxtorf's Vind. Hebr. p. 102—110. so the Septuagint have two Verses added after Chap. xv. 59. and have here, And beyond Jordan against Jericho out of the Tribe of Reuben, the City (Vulg. Cities) of Refuge for the Slayer (the last not in Vulg.) Bezer in the Wilderness, Miso (Vulg. Misor) and its Suburbs (not in the Vulg. till together at the End) and Jazer and its Suburbs, and Decmon (in Compl. Edit. Kedson, being also without Wilderness and Miso, Vulg. Jethson) and its Suburbs, and Mapba (Vulg. Mephaath) and its Suburbs, four Cities (Vulg. now with their Suburbs.) The Author of the present State of the printed Heb. Text says, They are universally read in Chron. which seems a clear proof, that they were originally read also in Joshua, p. 444. Yet is not the contrary much clearer from thence? for they might not unlikely be added into Josh. because they are in Chron. but were unlikely indeed to be taken out of the former, because they are in the latter; nay that Writer would have more than is in our English to be in here, and to be genuine, viz. of Bezer, to be a city of refuge for the slayer, though not in Chron. and that on the Authority of one MS. which he himself reflects on, and ridicules, p. 323, 324. Here being far the greatest proper Various Reading in the whole Hebrew Bible, if even this may be called proper, because the Addition seems taken into the Heb. from Translations; I would take a little Notice of the forementioned Author's remarkable and mature Opinion, that Wherever in two Copies of the same Writing the one differs from the other in Word or Letter, or in the Position of them, every such Difference is properly a Various Reading, p. 272. If he means Writing in general, as he makes no Distinction; and with what Reason or Sense could he distinguish between that by the Pen and Press? if, I say, Printing be included, then all the Errors of the Proof-Sheets would be properly Various Readings, and otherwise all the Slips of the Pen, which a Writer should look back on, and correct, as I see here I have inadvertently writ would for would: behold what a Various Reading it would be, the t being one Copy, and the d another, or if t remained, and it was transcribed by d! What a Heap of Confusion will such a Notion, if admitted, bury the Holy Scripture in! However he brings his laboured Sentiment to an undeniable Conclusion, viz. If all Various Readings must be owing either to Chance or Design; we may certainly conclude, that where neither of these Causes are admitted, there can be no such thing as a Various Reading at all: that is, if all must be so, we may (as though some would or do not) certainly conclude there can be none otherwise; yet not conclude thus universally, by his Words (while Nothing can be more certain than that) but only conditionally, or locally where. If such Reasonings as these from so great a Master of the Arts of Reason and the new Hebrew Literature will not convince the pertinacious Adherers to the Hebrew Text, they are like to be left in their Obstinacy. And what bad MS. Copies he would alter the printed ones by, may be abundantly seen in his own Book, particularly in p. 395, 396.

His reckoning these two Verses a certain true Reading, p. 567, 568. does not however, to do him Justice, appear to be from his Partiality to the common English, but against the common Hebrew, in the Text of which latter he presumes, that They (himself for one) to whose Care (not to that of all Christians, as formerly to the Jews, Rom.

38. Moreover

38. Moreover out of the Tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead, a City of Refuge for the Slayer, with its Suburbs, and Mahanaim,

39. Heshbon, Jazer, with their respective Suburbs; all being four Cities.

40. Therefore all the Cities for the Merarites by their Families, the rest of the Families of the Levites, were twelve by their Lot.

41. All the Cities of the Levites, being within the Inheritance of the Israelites, were forty eight, with their Suburbs.

42. Which Cities every one in particular, were with their Suburbs round about them.

43. Thus the Lord gave Israel all the Country which he had sworn to give their Fathers; and they possessed the same, and dwelt in it.

44. He further gave them rest round about, entirely as he had sworn to their Fathers; and there stood not a Man of all their Enemies before them, the Lord delivered them all into their Power.

45. There failed Nothing of all the good Things which the Lord spoke of to the Family of Israel; all came to pass.

C H A P. XXII.

THEN Joshua calling the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh,

2. Said to them; Ye have observed all that Moses the Servant of the Lord did command you, as likewise hearkened to what I said in all which I commanded you;

3. Having not left your Brethren for this great while to this Time, but observed the Charge of the Lord your God's Commandment.

4. Who has now given your Brethren rest, as he told them: therefore now turn about, and get you to your Tents at the Country of your Inheritance, which Moses the Lord's Servant gave you beyond Jordan.

5. Only be very careful to do the Commandments, and Laws, which he commanded you, to love the Lord your God, to go in all his Ways, observe his Commandments, cleave to him, and serve him with your whole Heart and Soul.

6. Joshua next blessed them, and sent them away; and they went to their Tents.

7. Now Moses had given to half the Tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, and Joshua gave to the other half of it with their Brethren, on this side Jordan westward; who also when he sent them away, blessed them,

8. Saying to them as follows; Return to your Tents with much Substance, with very many Cattle, with Silver, Gold, Brasses, Iron, and very much Apparel; divide the Spoil of your Enemies with your Brethren.

9. So the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh; went back from the Israelites at Shiloh, which is in the Country of Canaan, to go to that of Gilead, the Country of their Inheritance, which they were possessed of, at the Command of the Lord by the Ministry of Moses.

10. And when they were come to the Borders of Jordan that are at the Country of Canaan, they built an Altar there by Jordan, a great one to look at.

11. But the Israelites hearing it was said, that behold they had built an Altar there, over against the Country of Canaan, at the Israelites Passage;

12. Their whole Assembly gathered together at Shiloh, to go up to War against them.

13. To whom they sent, into the Country of Gilead, Phinehas the Son of Eleazar the Priest,

14. And ten Princes with him, each one for a Father's Family throughout all the Tribes of Israel, they being the chief Men of the same among their Thousands;

15. These being got thither to the Reubenites, Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh, spoke to them as follows:

16. Thus says the whole Assembly of the Lord, What Fault is this that you have committed against the God of Israel, to turn back now from following the Lord, by your building you an Altar for you to rebel now against him?

17. Was the Iniquity of Peor too little for us, which we are not cleansed from to this Day, although there was a Plague among the Assembly of the Lord, iii. 2.) are committed the Oracles of God, have full Powers to re-establish all such Readings, as seem to them certainly true, that are not in the present printed Copies, and the present textual Readings may be continued, he says, in the Margin; where, he also says, not only such Readings as are probably, but no more than possibly true, have a Right to be admitted, p. 567, 569. What a monstrous confused Margin that, and what a Bible should we have at this Rate! He finds fault indeed, towards the End of his Book, with the noted Belingbroke, for his mentioning

Things to the Discredit of the Old Testament, which are the wild Whims of Jewish Rabbies; but as if himself had forgot how often he had done the like in his own Book, which it would not be worth while to read over for the sake of numbering up the Instances.

Ver. 41. forty eight] as ordered Num. xxxv. 7.

Ver. 10. at] For the Altar was not built in the Country of Canaan, Ver. 11, 25, 26, 32. much less before they got out of it.

18. That you turn back now from following the Lord? Against whom you rebelling to Day, to Morrow he will be in a Wrath with the whole Assembly of Israel.

19. But yet if the Country of your Inheritance is unclean, come you to that of the Lord's, where his Tabernacle remains, and inherit among us; and do not rebel both against the Lord and us, by building you an Altar besides that of the Lord our God.

20. Did not Achan the Son of Zerah commit a Fault by the accursed Things, and Wrath was upon the whole Assembly of Israel, and that Man did not die alone in his Iniquity?

21. Whereupon the Reubenites, Gadites, and half Tribe of Manasseh made answer, to the Heads of the Thousands of Israel:

22. The Lord God of gods, the Lord God of gods he knows, and let Israel it self know, if it is in Rebellion or Fault against the Lord, do not save us this Day,

23. That we have built us an Altar, to turn back from following him; or if it is to offer up Burnt-offerings, Meat-offerings, or Sacrifices of Peace-offerings upon it, let the Lord himself require it:

24. And if we have not done this by reason of our Care about the Matter, that your Posterity should say to ours hereafter; What have you to do with the Lord God of Israel?

25. For he has made Jordan the Border between us and you, the Reubenites and Gadites, you have no Part in the Lord. Thus will your Posterity make ours cease from fearing him.

26. Therefore we said, Let us now make ready that we may build an Altar, not for Burnt-offering, nor Sacrifice;

27. But it shall be a Witness betwixt us and you, and our Generations after us, that we may do the Service of the Lord before him, with our Burnt-offerings, Sacrifices and Peace-offerings; that your Posterity may not tell ours hereafter, they have no Part in him.

28. Which when they shall say, said we, to us, or our Generations hereafter, we may answer; See the Pattern of the Lord's Altar which our Fathers made, not for Burnt-offering, nor Sacrifice, but it is a Witness betwixt us and you.

29. Far be it from us to rebel against the Lord, and turn back now from following him, by building an Altar for Burnt-offering, Meat-offering, or Sacrifice, besides the Altar of the Lord our God that is before his Tabernacle.

30. And when Phinehas the Priest, the Princes of the Assembly, and Heads of the Thousands of Israel, who were with him, heard the Words which the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassehites spoke, they were pleased.

31. Phinehas the Son of Eleazar the Priest also said to them; We know to Day that the Lord is among us, because you did not commit this Fault against him; then you delivered the Israelites out of his Hand.

32. So he, and the Princes, returned from the Reubenites, and Gadites, out of the Country of Gilead, into that of Canaan to the Israelites, and brought them back Word.

33. Whom the Matter did not displease, so that they blessed God, and spoke no more of going up against them to War, to destroy the Country which they dwelt in.

34. And the Reubenites and Gadites gave a name to the Altar, For it is a Witness between us, said they, that the Lord is God.

C H A P. XXIII.

NOW a great while after the Lord had given Israel rest from all their Enemies round about, Joshua being old, advanced in Age,

2. Called all Israel, their Elders, Heads, Judges and Officers, to whom he said: I am got to be ancient;

3. And you have seen all that the Lord your God has done to all these Nations, by reason of you; since it was he who fought for you.

4. See, I have caused these Nations that are left, to fall by Lot to you for a Possession to your Tribes, from Jordan, with all those that I have exterminated, those also of the great Sea at the Sun-setting.

5. And the Lord your God himself will drive them away from your Presence, and expel them from before you; so that you shall inherit their Country, as he promised you.

6. Be very courageous therefore, to observe, and do all which is written in the Book of the Law of Moses; that you may not turn aside from it, to the right Hand, or the left:

7. That you may not enter among these Nations which are left with you; the Names of whose gods you shall neither make mention of, require to swear by them, serve them, nor bow down to them.

8. But shall keep close to the Lord your God, as you have done to this Day.

9. For the Lord has expelled great and strong Nations, by reason of you: and as for you, no Man has stood in your Presence to this Day.

10. One Man of you shall pursue a thousand: for the Lord your God himself fights for you, as he promised you.

11. Be very careful therefore of yourselves, to love the Lord your God.

12. For if you do at all turn back, and cleave to the rest of these Nations that are left with you, and join with them by Marriage, going in to them, and they to you;

13. Know thoroughly that the Lord your God will no more expel them from your Presence, but they will be Gins and Snares to you, Whips on your Sides, and Prickles in your Eyes, till you perish from this good Land which the Lord your God has given you.

14. And behold I am now going the Way of all the Earth; and you know with your whole Hearts and Souls, that not a single Thing has failed of all the good ones which the Lord your God spoke concerning you; all are come to pass to you, without one of them failing.

15. On the other hand as all good Things are come to pass to you, of which the Lord your God spoke to you; so will the Lord bring all ill Things upon you, till he has destroyed you from this good Land which he himself gave you;

16. When you transgress the Covenant of the Lord your God which he commanded you, and go, and serve other gods, bowing down to them: for the Lord will be angry with you, so that you will quickly perish from the good Land which he has given you.

C H A P. XXIV.

AND Joshua gathered all the Tribes of Israel to Shechem, calling their Elders, Heads, Judges and Officers, who presented themselves before God.

2. And he said to all the People: Thus says the Lord God of Israel; your Forefathers dwelt beyond the River of old time, Terah the Father both of Abraham and Nahor, and they served other gods.

3. But I took your Father Abraham from thence, and had him through all the Country of Canaan, increasing his Offspring, and giving him Isaac:

4. To whom I gave Jacob and Esau, as I did to Esau Mount Seir to inherit; but Jacob and his Posterity went down to Egypt.

5. I also sent Moses and Aaron, and smote Egypt, according as I did within it, and afterwards brought you out.

6. And when I had brought your Fathers out of Egypt, you came to the Red Sea, whither the Egyptians pursued after them with Chariots and Horsemen.

7. Yet they crying to the Lord, he put Darkness between you and the Egyptians, brought the Sea over them, and covered them, and when you had seen with your Eyes what I did in Egypt, you dwelt in the Wilderness a great while.

8. Then I brought you into the Country of the Amorites, that dwelt beyond Jordan, who fought with you; and I delivered them into your Power, and you inherited their Country, when I had destroyed them from your Presence.

9. And Balak the Son of Zippor, King of Moab, got ready, that he might fight with Israel, and sent for Balaam the Son of Beor to curse you.

10. But I would not hearken to Balaam, so he blessed you still, and I delivered you out of his Power.

11. Moreover when you were passed through Jordan, and come to Jericho, the Men belonging to it fought with you, the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hittites, Girgashites, Hivites and Jebusites, whom I delivered into your Power.

12. Nay I sent the Hornet before you, which drove away from your Presence, the two Kings of the Amorites, not with your Sword nor Bow.

13. And I have given you a Country, for which you did not labour, Cities that you built not, which you dwell in: you eat of Vineyards and Olive-yards, which you did not plant.

14. Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in Integrity and Truth, and put away the gods which your Fathers served beyond the River and in Egypt, and serve the Lord.

15. However, if you do not like to serve him, choose for your selves to Day whom you will serve; whether the gods that your Forefathers served, who were beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose Country you dwell: but I and my Family will serve the Lord.

Ver. 9. that he might fight] since he did not actually make war: so Jun. and Trem. ut certaret.

16. To which the People made answer ; Far be it from us to forsake the Lord, to serve other gods.

17. For the Lord our God is he who brought us and our Fathers up from the Country of Egypt, from the Place of Slaves, who did those great Signs in our Sight, and kept us in all the Way where we went, and among all the People whom we passed through.

18. Besides the Lord drove out all the People, particularly the Amorites who dwelt in the Country, from our Presence : we will also serve the Lord, for he is our God.

19. And Joshua replied to the People ; You cannot serve the Lord ; as he is a holy God, a zealous one, who will not forgive your Trespases, nor Sins ;

20. When you forsake him, and serve strange gods : nay he will turn back, and do you hurt, and consume you, after he has done you good.

21. No, said they to Joshua, but we will serve the Lord.

22. To which he rejoined, You are Witnesses for your selves, that ye have chosen you the Lord, to serve him. Who answered, We are.

23. Therefore now, added be, put away the strange gods that are among you, and incline your Hearts to the Lord God of Israel.

24. And the People said to him, We will serve the Lord our God, and hearken to what he says.

25. So Joshua made a Covenant with the People that Day, and set them an Ordinance and Rule at Shechem.

26. He further wrote these Words in the Book of the Law of God ; and taking a great Stone, set it up there under an Oak, that was by the Sanctuary of the Lord ;

27. Saying to all the People, Behold this Stone shall be a Witness to us, since it has been at the Hearing of all the Words which the Lord spoke to us : it shall even be a Witness to you, lest you should deny your God.

28. At length he sent away the People to their several Possessions.

29. And after these Things Joshua the Son of Nun, the Servant of the Lord, died, being in his hundred and tenth Year.

30. Whom they buried in the Border of his Possession at Timnath-erah, which is on the Mountain of Ephraim, at the north Side of Mount Gaash.

31. And Israel served the Lord all the Days both of Joshua, and of the Elders whose Time was prolonged after him, and who had known all the Works which the Lord did for Israel.

32. Joseph's Bones too which the Israelites brought up from Egypt, they buried at Shechem, in a Piece of Land which Jacob bought of the Posterity of Hamor the Father of Shechem, for a hundred Lambs ; and it became the Possession of the Posterity of Joseph.

33. And when Eleazar the Son of Aaron died, they buried him on a Hill of Phinehas his Son, which was given him on the Mountain of Ephraim.

Ver. 20. nay] When, as the Hebrew is at the Beginning of the Verse, plainly belonging to that before, to make out cannot.

Ver. 27. it has been at the Hearing of] which being meant, and the Original allowing, must be preferable to the common ; to avoid the Hardness of which the vulg. Lat. is, you have heard.

NOTES upon the BOOK of the JUDGES.

CHAP. I.

NOW after Joshua's Death, the Israelites enquired thus of the Lord, Which of us shall go up to the Canaanites first, to fight with them?

2. And the Lord said, Let Judah go up; behold I give up the Country into his Power.

3. With that Judah said to his Brother Simeon, Go up with me into my Lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites, and I will also go with thee into thine: accordingly Simeon went with him.

4. Thus Judah went up, and the Lord gave up the Canaanites and Perizzites into their Power; who slew of them in Bezek ten thousand Men.

5. For finding the Lord of Bezek there, they fought with him, and slew the Canaanites and Perizzites.

6. And the Lord of Bezek fleeing, they pursued after him; whom they caught, and cut off his Thumbs and great Toes.

7. Who said, Seventy Kings, with their Thumbs and great Toes cut off, have picked up under my Table; as I did, so God has recompensed me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, where he died.

8. For the People of Judah fought against Jerusalem, which they took, and smote it with the Edge of the Sword, setting the City on Fire.

9. And afterwards they went down to fight against the Canaanites, who inhabited the Mountain, the South and Vale.

10. Judah likewise went against the Canaanites who dwelt in Hebron, the Name of which before was The Town of Arba; and they slew Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmai.

11. Besides he went from thence against the Inhabitants of Debir, the Name of which before was Kirjath-sepher.

12. And Caleb said, To him who conquers Kirjath-sepher, and takes it, I will give my Daughter Achsah for a Wife.

13. Which he did to Othniel, the Son of his younger Brother Kenaz, who took it.

Book] As several Things are said to be done in it when there was no King in Israel, Chap. xvii. 6. & xviii. 1. & xix. 1. & xxi. 25. we may conclude with Newton in his Observations upon the Prophecies of Daniel, Chap. i. that it was written after the Beginning of Saul's Reign; and as the Jebusites dwelt then at Jerusalem, Chap. i. 21. that it was done before the 8th Year of the Reign of David, 2 Sam. v. 8. 1 Chron. xi. 6. consequently this Book seems penned by Samuel, whose Death before David reigned limits the latest Time. I judge still further, that as the History of Ruth fell out in the Time of the Judges, Chap. i. 1. this Book was made after that, or else it would have taken in such a remarkable Narrative; and so by the Account of that Book, the Time of writing this will be limited to the soonest, and into a little Compais towards the End of Samuel's Life, when he was gone into Retirement from Saul, 1 Sam. xv. 34, 35. and here Chap. xx. 27. agrees with the Ark's being absent at Kirjath-jearim, 1 Sam. vii. 2.

the Judges] like The Acts of the Apostles; for it is not concerning Judges in general.

Ver. 1. Which of us] as the Sense may determine it to be, since they could not expect any other to do it for them. So Jun. and Tren. have quis ex nobis, Castal. quoniam suorum.

Ver. 5. Lord of Bezek] So the Margins of the interlinear and Tigurin Bibles expound it: the Letter jod, says Munster, being added over and above; therefore he interprets it, Dominus loci Bezek, the Lord of the Place Bezek. This further appears in his not being called by any other Title, as King, &c. which Adoni-zedek was, Josh. x. 1, 3. and the Words not joined by makkaph (-) like the other, besides that zedek is Righteousness, not the Name of a Place.

VOL. I.

Ver. 6. Thumbs and great Toes] Gen. thumbes of his handes and of his feete, after the Welch Manner of speaking.

Ver. 8. fought] This, and what follows to the 19th Verse, must needs be done now after Joshua's Decease, when there is so much Mention of who did it, as the People of Judah, Ver. 8, 9. Judah, Ver. 10, 18, 19. he, Ver. 11. Judah with Simeon, Ver. 17. not all the Israelites with Joshua, Josh. x. 36, 38. Some of those Cities, as Hebron and Debir, destroyed and not burnt, Josh. x. 37, 39. might be peopled again by the Natives; and so we find that Hebron, given to Caleb afterwards, must have its Inhabitants driven out before he could possess it, Josh. xiv. 12. nay Hazer that was burnt, Josh. xi. 11. became a Metropolis, Chap. iv. 2. Therefore the Account of Caleb in the 15th Chapter of Joshua, &c. is to be referred hither, like Chap. xix. 47. that Book being written as it appears a considerable Time after, Chap. iv. 9. & vii. 26. & viii. 29. & ix. 27. & x. 27. And returning to the Place here commented on, we may observe, that they brought him to Jerusalem does not well agree with the City being burnt before. Nay we may find the Israelites had not got it, or taken it, when the Levite passed by, Chap. xix. 10, 11, 12. Moreover our Translators should have related the rest in the preterpluperfect Tense by had, if they would have made it consistent with this. To conclude, Patrick writes on Ver. 12. 'that all Things here mentioned were not done till after the Death of Joshua, is so evident as to leave no Doubt of it;' and Lightsfoot, The 8 Verse should be read, not as if it had been done before, now the children of Judah had, Harmony of the Old Testament.

14. And

14. And when she came, she persuaded him to ask her Father for Land; and she alighting from the Ass, Caleb said to her, What wouldest thou have?

15. Who answered him, Bestow on me a Blessing: for as thou hast given me Land in the South, thou shouldest also some Springs of Water. So Caleb gave her Springs both above and below.

16. The Posterity also of the Kenite, the Father-in-law of Moses, went up from the City of Palm-trees, with the Posterity of Judah, to the Wilderness of Judah, which is in the South of Arad; where being arrived, they dwelt with those People.

17. Judah too went with Simeon his Brother, and they slew the Canaanites who inhabited Zephath, as also destroyed it; the Name of the City being called Hormah.

18. Moreover Judah took Gaza, Ashkelon and Ekron, with their respective Borders.

19. For the Lord was with him, so that he expelled those of the Mountain; though he was not to expel the Inhabitants of the Vale, because they had iron Chariots.

20. And they gave to Caleb Hebron, as Moses had spoken; who expelled from thence the three Sons of Anak.

21. Whereas the People of Benjamin did not expel the Jebusites who dwelt at Jerusalem, but the Jebusites dwell there with them to this Day.

22. As for the Family of Joseph, they also went up to Beth-el; and the Lord was with them.

23. For when they caused Beth-el to be searched, the Name of the City before being Luz;

24. The Spies saw a Man coming out of it, to whom they said, Shew us, we pray, an Entrance to the City, and we will deal kindly with thee.

25. So he shewed them one, and they conquered the City with the Edge of the Sword; but they let the Man go, and all his Family.

26. Upon this he went to the Country of the Hittites, and built a City, whose Name he called Luz, which is the Name of it to this Day.

27. But Manasseh did not expel those of Beth-shean, of Taanach, the Inhabitants of Dor, Ibleam, nor Megiddo, with the Towns of each: for the Canaanites would dwell in that Country.

28. Yet when Israel became strong, they made them tributary; but did not expel them utterly.

29. And Ephraim did not expel the Canaanites who dwelt in Gezer; but they dwelt there among them.

30. Zebulun did not expel the Inhabitants of Kitron, nor those of Nahalol; but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributary.

31. Asher did not expel the Inhabitants of Acco, those of Zidon, Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, nor of Rehob.

32. But the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites, the Inhabitants of the Country; because they did not expel them.

33. Naphtali did not expel the Inhabitants of Beth-sheMesh, nor those of Beth-anath; but dwelt among the Canaanites, the Inhabitants of the Country: yet the Inhabitants of Beth-sheMesh and Beth-anath became tributary to them.

34. However the Amorites pressed the People of Dan to the Mountain; since they did not permit them to come down to the Vale.

35. For the Amorites would dwell on Mount Heres, at Aijalon and Shaalbim; yet the Power of the Family of Joseph was so weighty, that they became tributary.

36. And the Bounds of the Amorites was from the Ascent of Akrabbim, from the Rock upward.

Ib. was not to expel] Because Judah had too little Faith and Obedience, for the Lord to be with him in doing such a greater Work, agreeable to Mat. ix. 28, 29. & xvii. 19, 20, 21, 22. & xiii. 58. Acts xiv. 9. Heb. iii. 19. Deut. i. 42, 43, 44. with Chap. ii. 2, 3. here; and would

C H A P. II.

NOW there went up a Messenger of the Lord from Gilgal to Bochim, and he declared; I caused you to come out of Egypt, and brought you to the Country of which I swore to your Fathers; nay I said, I will never break my Covenant with you.

2. But you shall make no Treaty with the Inhabitants of this Country, you shall break down their Altars; yet you have not hearkened to what I said; why did you do this?

3. So I also say, I will not drive them out from your Presence; but they shall be at your Sides, and their gods be a Snare to you.

4. Now as the Messenger of the Lord spoke these Words to all the Israelites, the People burst out a crying.

5. Whereupon they called the Name of that Place Bochim, and sacrificed there to the Lord.

6. And when Joshua had sent away the People of the Israelites, and they were gone to their respective Possessions, to inherit the Country;

7. They served the Lord all the Time of Joshua, and all that of the Elders whose Time was prolonged after him, who saw all the great Works which the Lord did for Israel.

8. But Joshua the Son of Nun, the Servant of the Lord, dying, in his hundred and tenth Year;

9. Whom they buried in the Border of his Possession, at Timnath-heres on the Mountain of Ephraim, at the north Side of Mount Gaash;

10. And also that whole Generation being gathered to their Fathers; there rose up another Generation after them, who did not know the Lord, nor yet the Works that he had done for Israel.

11. Then the Israelites did what the Lord was displeased with: for they served Baalim,

12. And forsook the Lord God of their Fathers, who brought them out of the Country of Egypt, going after other gods, some of those of the People that were round about them, and bowing down to them; whereby they provoked the Lord.

13. Therefore when they forsook him, and served Baal and Ashtarothe;

14. The Lord was angry with Israel, and gave them up into the Power of Spoilers, who spoiled them, and delivered them up into the Power of their Enemies round about, so that they could no longer stand before them.

15. Whithersoever they went out the Hand of the Lord was against them for Harm, as the Lord had spoken, and as he had sworn to them; insomuch that they were exceedingly distressed.

16. However the Lord raised up Judges, who saved them from the Power of those who spoiled them.

17. But yet they would not hearken to their Judges; for they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed down to them: they departed speedily from the Way wherein their Fathers walked, by hearkening to the Commandments of the Lord; they not doing so.

18. For when the Lord raised them up Judges, and was himself with the Judge, saving them from the Power of their Enemies all his Time; because the Lord was sorry for their Groaning, by reason of those who oppressed them, and streightened them:

19. Yet when the Judge was dead, they again corrupted themselves more than their

Ver. 1. Bochim] Weepers, or Men weeping.

Jar. quotes the Book סדר עולם saying, This was Phinchan. In the Targum it is וסליק נביא בשליחות מן קדם. And there went up a Prophet with a Message from before the Lord; and Levi Ben Gershom writes, זה חסילא דהיה נביא This Messenger was a Prophet; a little consulting of whom might have helped our Translators. It is improbable it would be said of an Angel thus, that he went up from Gilgal to Bochim; and Angels did not use to deliver their Message to all the People.

Ver. 9. heres] The Author of the present State of the printed Heb. Text thought he had done something, we may suppose, when he had shewn that 2 letters here have exchanged their places from Josh. xxiv. 30. against Nobody, yet designedly against the Scripture, to shew it thus corrupted; for which it is requisite he should have proved the Letters were not so transposed at first, and that is not improbable they were: for Timnath-serah signifying the Reckoning of Abundance, as in Greg. Greg. Frank's Sacred Lexicon, expounding the Scripture Names, Sect. 587. might be the old Name of the Place, changed to Timnath-heres, the Reckoning of the Sun, when Joshua had it, Josh. xix. 50. in Commemoration of his bringing the Sun to another Reckoning on that celebrated Day, recorded in Josh. x. 12, 13, 14. as there was an Opportunity for it, by turning סדר backward into חרם. And what does the above Author's pretended parallel Instance of Blenheim and Blenheim amount to? Is Blenheim by Corruption often, and to use his Term, universally printed in any Passage of History? And have not the Editors of the Scripture been as careful as those of other Books?

Ver. 14. delivered them up] Like a Thing which is sold, as Interpreters write, All Lexicons which I have perused put this Meaning to the Verb, and several so translate it here.

Fathers,

Fathers, by going after other gods to serve them, and bow down to them: they fell not from their Doings, nor from their stiff Way.

20. At which incensed against Israel, the Lord said; Forasmuch as this Nation have transgressed my Covenant which I commanded their Fathers, and have not hearkened to what I said;

21. I will even no more expel a Man from their Presence, of the Nations which Joshua left, when he died:

22. That I may try Israel by them, whether they will observe the Way of the Lord to go therein, as their Fathers did, or not.

23. Thus the Lord left these Nations without expelling them speedily, and did not give them up into the Power of Joshua.

C H A P. III.

AND these are the Nations that the Lord left to try all those of Israel by, who did not know all the Wars of Canaan;

2. That however the Generations of the Israelites might know how to teach those War at least, who knew them not before:

3. Five Lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, with the Zidonians, and the Hivites who dwelt on Mount Lebanon, from that of Baal-hermon to the Entrance of Hamath.

4. By whom Israel were to be tried, to know whether they would hearken to the Commandments of the Lord, which he enjoined their Fathers by the Ministry of Moses.

5. But the Israelites dwelling among the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites;

6. They not only took them their Daughters for Wives, and gave their own Daughters to their Sons, but served their gods.

7. Therefore when they did what the Lord was displeased with, and forgot the Lord their God, serving Baalim and the Groves;

8. The Lord was so angry with them, that he delivered them up into the Power of Cushan-rishathaim King of Mesopotamia; whom they served eight Years.

9. But they crying to the Lord, he raised up for them a Saviour, who saved them, Othniel the Son of Kenaz Caleb's younger Brother.

10. For the Spirit of the Lord was upon him, and he judged Israel, and going out to War, the Lord gave up Cushan-rishathaim King of Syria into his Power, so that it became strong over him.

11. Afterwards the Country rested out forty Years, and Othniel the Son of Kenaz died.

12. Moreover the Israelites did again what the Lord was displeased with; who made Eglon the King of Moab strong over them, because they did so.

13. And he gathering to him the Ammonites and Amalekites, went and beat Israel, and possessed the City of Palm-trees.

14. Whereupon the Israelites served Eglon King of Moab eighteen Years.

15. But they crying to the Lord, he raised them up a Saviour, Ehud the Son of Gera, the Son of a Benjaminite, a Man lame of his right Hand; by whom the Israelites sent a Present to Eglon King of Moab.

16. For Ehud made him a Sword which had two Edges, a Cubit long; and girded it under his Garments upon his right Thigh.

17. So he brought the Present to Eglon King of Moab, who was a very fat Man.

18. And when he had finished doing it, he sent away the People who carried the Present:

19. Whereas he returned from the carved Images which were at Gilgal, and said, I have a secret Matter to thee, O King; who answered, Keep silence; and all who stood by him went out from him.

20. Then Ehud went to him, as he was sitting in a cooling Chamber which he had for himself alone, and said, I have a Matter from God for thee; at which he rose up from the Seat.

21. And Ehud putting forth his left Hand, took off the Sword from his right Thigh, and stuck it into his Belly:

Ver. 13. City of Palm-trees] Jericho, as Chap. i. 16.

Ver. 15. the Son of a Benjaminite] Compare the Heb. here and in 1 Sam. ix. 1. together.

Ver. 19. carved Images] It is usually turned graven images in the present Bible, but there is no Proof that it signifies quarries. Castal. and Leo Juda have simulachris, images; Musl. loco sculptilium, the place of carved images; the old Lat. and English Transl. idols. But the Syriack Translator keeping the original Word pesilim, the Arabick rendering from him, has ridiculously made it Pulstine.

Ver. 20. Chamber] From חֲבַי to go up. In 2 Kings i. 2. called upper chamber.

22. Infomuch

22. Infomuch that even the Hilt went in after the Blade, and the Fat closed up about the Blade, for he could not draw the Sword out of his Belly; and the Dung came forth.

23. Next Ehud went out at the Gallery, and shut the Doors of the Chamber about him, and locked them.

24. At length when he was gone out, Eglon's Servants came, and seeing plainly that the Chamber-doors were locked, they said, Verily he is covering his Feet in the cool Parlour.

25. And they staid a good while, but behold he did not open the Chamber-door; which at last taking a Key, they did themselves, and their Lord indeed was fallen on the Ground dead.

26. So Ehud escaped whilst they delayed, which, passing by the carved Images, he did to Seirath.

27. And as soon as he was come, he blew a Trumpet on Mount Ephraim, that the Israelites might go down from the Mountain with him, and he before them.

28. To whom he said, Follow after me; for the Lord has given up your Enemies, the Moabites, into your Power: accordingly they went down after him, and took the Passages of Jordan to Moab, and did not suffer a Man to pass over.

29. They also killed of the Moabites at that Time about ten thousand Men, all lusty, and all Men of Strength; and there was not a Man escaped.

30. Thus Moab was brought down that Day under the Power of Israel; and the Country rested out eighty Years.

31. After him too there was Shamgar the Son of Anath, who killed six hundred Men of the Philistines with an Ox-goad; and he also saved Israel.

C H A P. IV.

HOWEVER the Israelites did again what the Lord was displeased with, when Ehud was dead.

2. And he delivered them up into the Power of Jabin King of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor; the Captain of whose Army was Sisera, that dwelt in Harosheth of the Nations.

3. Upon which they cried to the Lord: for he had nine hundred iron Chariots, and oppressed them powerfully twenty Years.

4. And Deborah a Prophetess, the Wife of Lapidoth, judged Israel at that Time.

5. Who dwelt under the Palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el, on Mount Ephraim; and to her they went up for Judgment.

6. So she sent for Barak the Son of Abinoam, from Kedesh-naphtali; and said to him; Has not the Lord God of Israel commanded, Go, and draw to Mount Tabor, taking with thee ten thousand Men, of the Naphtalites and Zebulunites?

7. And I will draw to thee, at the River Kishon, Sisera the Captain of Jabin's Army, with his Chariots and Multitude; and will give him up into thy Power.

8. To whom Barak said, If thou wilt go with me, then will I go; but if thou wilt not, I will not go.

9. And she replied, I will go throughout with thee; nevertheless the Reputation will not be thine in the Expedition that thou goest on, because the Lord will deliver up Sisera into the Power of a Woman: so she got ready, and went with him to Kedesh.

10. Moreover he called Zebulun and Naphtali thither, and went up accompanied by ten thousand Men; she going up with him.

11. Now Heber the Kenite, of the Sons of Hobab the Father-in-law of Moses, was parted from the Kenites; and had extended his Habitation to the Oak of Zaanaïm, which is at Kedesh.

12. And when they told Sisera, that Barak the Son of Abinoam was gone up Mount Tabor;

13. He called for all his Chariots, nine hundred iron ones, and all the People who

Ver. 22. Dung] I know not where our Translators had the dirt from, since there is no more of it in the Original, nor in any Translation that I have of the learned Tongues, than there is in a Man's Belly.

Ver. 23. Gallery] or Anti-chamber; but the first is more consonant to the Hebrew Radix, signifying a Rank.

Ver. 24. Chamber] As this must signify by being high. Ib. covering his Feet] in lying down to sleep, as the Manner was, Ruth iii. 7. see 1 Sam. xxiv. 3. but Tynd. has a daying of his easement, and so the Gen. with the last Margin.

Ver. 25. a good while] Heb. to a delaying. Trem. and Jun. turn it as here, dudum; in which Manner Pagnin. and Castal. have it translated; and so Kimbi. Sol. Jar. and Buxtorf in his Dictionary, interpret it.

Ver. 29. lusty] Gen. fed men, others fat.

Ver. 31. six hundred] Though not only Samson killed a thousand with a far more unfit Instrument, but a Worthy of David eight hundred at one Time, 2 Sam. xxiii. 8. yet lately our Countrymen Bedford. Scrip. Chron. B. v. 3. 16. and Stackhouse. Hist. Bib. B. v. 2. relate those six hundred to be killed in about twenty Years by the Assistance of his Servants. The Mention of which seems Refutation enough. And as Maunderell tells us, the People still use Goads of an extraordinary Size in that Country, and that upon measuring several, he found them about eight Feet long, and at the bigger End six Inches about, with a small Spade or Paddle of Iron there, strong and massy for cleansing the Plough, Journey from Aleppo to Jerusalem; which surely might do great Execution.

Ver. 2. Hazor] that was rebuilt by the Canaanites, Josh. xi. 11.

Ver. 11. the Oak] as Ver. 5. of the Palm-tree; see Gen. xii. 6.

Ver. 12. Tabor] about a Day's Journey due West from were with him, from Harosheth of the Nations to the Brook Kishon.

14. Then Deborah said to Barak, Get ready, for this is the Day on which the Lord gives up Sisera into thy Power; Is not he gone out before thee? Accordingly Barak went down from Mount Tabor, and the ten thousand Men after him.

15. With that the Lord routed Sisera, all the Chariots, and the whole Army, with the Edge of the Sword before Barak; so that Sisera got down from his Chariot, and fled away on his Feet.

16. Barak too pursued after the Chariots and the Army, to Harosheth of the Nations: thus all the Army of Sisera fell by the Edge of the Sword, there being not even one left.

17. Now he fled as before mentioned to the Tent of Jael, the Wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was Peace between Jabin King of Hazor, and his Family.

18. And Jael going out to meet Sisera, said to him, Turn aside, my Lord, turn aside to me, do not fear. So he turned aside to her into the Tent, that she might cover him with a Blanket.

19. Besides he said to her, Give me, I pray, a little Water to drink, for I am thirsty; who opening a Bottle of Milk, gave him drink, and covered him.

20. He said to her further; Stand at the Door of the Tent; and if any one comes, and enquires of thee, Is there any Man here? Thou shalt answer, No.

21. But Jael the Wife of Heber took a Nail of the Tent, and putting a Hammer in her Hand, went to him secretly, and stuck the Nail so into his Temples, that it fastened in the Ground: for he was fast asleep, and weary; thus he died.

22. And behold as Barak pursued Sisera, she went out to meet him, and said to him, Come, and I will shew thee the Man whom thou seekest. Accordingly he went in to her, and behold Sisera was fallen down dead, and the Nail was in his Temples.

23. Thus God brought down on that Day, Jabin King of Canaan, before the Israelites.

24. Nay their Hands went on more and more in being hard against him, till they had destroyed him.

CHAP. V.

AND Deborah sung, with Barak the Son of Abinoam, on that Day, as follows:

2. For the taking Vengeance on behalf of Israel, for the People's offering themselves Volunteers, for both bless the Lord.

3. Hearken, O Kings; give ear, you Princes: I my self will sing to the Lord, will sing melodiously to the Lord God of Israel.

the Sea of Tiberias, and standing by it self in the Plain of Galilee; being round, high and beautiful, with a plain Area at the Top, about two Furlongs long and one broad, very fertile and delightful; now inclosed with Trees on all Parts, excepting southward, and having Cisterns of good Water; from whence also may be seen the Mediterranean Sea one Way, and that of Tiberias another, the whole Breadth of the Country of Canaan; to all which and more, with a curious View of it, Maundrell adds, It is impossible for Man's Eyes to behold a higher Gratification of this Nature. As likewise Corten says, If Nature has formed any Thing more delightful than ordinary, it is this Mountain; which he further describes, to appear like a Sugar-loaf from East to West, and oval, as it is, from South to North, having a Way only on the West to ride up, of an Hour long, and is encompassed on all Sides with pleasant Trees, Shrubs and Grass, there being the Ruins of a compleat Fortification, Castle, &c. on the Top; from which may be seen towards the North the Mountains of Lebanon and Bashan, eastwards the Sea of Galilee or Tiberias, and the Mountains beyond, on the South-east the Districts of Samarita and Mountains about it, on the South the Mountains of Gilboa, South-west those of Carmel, and westwards the Mountains of Nazareth, and beyond them into the Mediterranean Sea; the Plains of Galilee lying at the North-east of it, and the inimitable Valley of Esdraelon at the South-west, beyond which latter one also views Mount Hermen, and at the Foot of it a Village where the City of Nain (read of Luke vii. 11.) is said to have stood; by which their several Situations may also be known: and this Author's Account is to be doubly valued, being taken as lately as in the Year 1738, and not from any other Author, since he says he did not remember to have seen an Account of it in any other.

Ver. 15. routed Sisera] If Descriptions of Battles are so entertaining, as it seems, I can perhaps give a probable one of this in brief, as follows: Sisera, who seems to be a young General, by his Mother instead of a Wife, Chap. v. 28. and especially by his trusting himself alone to his Feet, Ch. iv. 15. might likely surround the Mountain, that Barak and his Men, whom he might be imposed on to think much fewer than they were, might not escape; and having a little of the Coward, by his Flight, might be himself against the River, where it was least probable Barak's Men would attempt breaking through; but where it appears they made the Charge, because Sisera was there, and drove him, as related, to that Streight, and others into the River, Chap. v. 21. And to the Mountain they could have retreated, or might keep there a Reserve to charge afresh, whither the dreaded iron Chariots could not ascend, Ver. 3. Thus by their compassing Mount Tabor, Barak would have but a small Part of his Enemies to engage, if when their Commander was lost, as likely, they betook themselves likewise to Flight.

Ver. 16. by the Edge] The same as in the preceding Verse, and upon is very unapt; see Nam. xiv. 3, 43. Isa. xiii. 15. &c.

Ver. 18. a Blanket] It is rendered a Blanket, Quilt, Covering, &c. but a Mantle would have been unfit either for him to hide or rest under.

Ver. 21. secretly] The Root of it being to hide or wrap up; and so this Word is rendered in the prof. Translation, Chap. xviii. 22. and privily, 1 Sam. xxiv. 4.

lb. was fast asleep] Bish. slumbered for.

Ver. 22. fallen down] See Chap. v. 27.

Ver. 24. more and more] See the like Gen. xxvi. 13. So Castal. translates it.

Ver. 2. bless] It is the same Ver. 9.

4. O Lord,

4. O Lord, when thou camest forth from Seir, when thou didst march out of the Country of Edom; the Earth shook, and the Heavens showered, even the Clouds poured out Water:

5. The Mountains flowed down at the Presence of the Lord, that Sinai at the Presence of the Lord God of Israel.

6. In the Time of Shamgar the Son of Anath, in the Time of Jael, the Ways were out of use, even such as walked on Foot went in crooked Ways.

7. The Towns were become desolate, thus in Israel were they become; till I Deborah arose, I rose up a Mother in Israel.

8. They had chosen them new gods, then was War at the Gates; yet was there to be seen a Shield, or a Spear, among forty thousand of those Israelites?

9. My Heart is inclined to the Scribes of Israel, who freely offered themselves among others: blessed for it be the Lord.

10. Ye who ride the fine Asses, who sit in Judgment, or walk along the Way, discourse together:

11. Away from the Noise of Archers, among the Drawing of Water, there let them talk over the righteous Things of the Lord, the righteous Things for his Towns in Israel; then may the Lord's People go down to the Gates.

12. Awake, awake, Deborah; awake, awake, speak out a Poem: rise up, Barak, and take away thy Prisoners captive, O Son of Abinoam.

13. Then he made the Remainder rule, the People for the stately ones; the Lord made them rule for me among the Powerful.

14. Out of Ephraim was their Root against Amalek, afterwards shalt thou be, Benjamin, among thy People: out of Machir came down the Law-givers, and out of Zebulun those who write with the Pen of a Scribe.

15. Nay the Princes in Issachar were with Deborah; as Issachar, so Barak; who was sent into the Valley on his Feet; while in the Parts of Reuben were great Determinations of Mind.

16. Why didst thou stay between the two Packs, to hear the Bleatings of folded Flocks; while at the Parts of Reuben were great Things, Consultations of Mind?

17. Gilead abode beyond Jordan; and why did Dan lodge in the Ships? Asher resided at the Harbour of the Seas, and dwelt in his ruinous Breaches.

Ver. 5. flowed down] Why not with Torrents of Rain?

Ver. 7. Towns] which being unfortified, the People could not live safe there, in such Times of Devastation and Robbery.

Ver. 9. Pythagoras, as in his Life by Diog. Laertius, exhorted to sing the Praises of God and good Men, for the Benefits received from them.

Ib. Scribes] viz. the Zebulunites who went to the Battle, Ver. 14. So Arias Montan, literally turns it.

Ver. 10. fine] or bright. So in the Translations of Jun. and Trem. with Castal. is nitidas, in Leo Juda's nitidis, in the vidg. Lat. nitentes, and in Coverdale's sayre.

Ib. sit in Judgment] Gen. and Bish. dwell by Middin, though Tynd. had as we now.

Ver. 11. among] or between.

Ib. go down to the Gates] where the principal Business of Cities was transacted.

Ver. 13. the Remainder] who were left of the Israelites, Ver. 7.

Ib. the People] of Israel, in the singular Number by Way of Eminence, and used in Distinction from others in the Scripture (as observed elsewhere) and even here, Ver. 2, 9, 11. the Enemies being also several, Ver. 19. However it is not in Heb. among the people, as in our common Engl. here being Nothing for among, as there is Ver. 9, 14. nor does the Heb. allow it to be genitive, of the People; but it is in Apposition to Remainder, a Noun used for more than one Person, and the Heb. Stop between shews the Repetition of the Verb to be understood, he made the People rule: thus Sebast. Schmidt and the French Transf. have it.

Ib. for the stately] not over, which the Heb. Preposition scarcely signifies; and then it should be over me, that having the same, and being governed by the very same Verb: but the over after is another Preposition.

Ib. stately ones] the Nobility of Israel, answerable to me.

Ib. the Lord] where is another Heb. Stop, and thus it makes out the [he] also before. Let this Translation be compared with others, and the Original.

Ib. shalt thou be, Benjamin] Saul of that Tribe. A remarkable Prophecy! I see not how it may be otherwise well interpreted, 1 Sam. xv.

Ver. 15. sent] In two Editions of the Gen. set. but it seems a Mistake for this.

Ib. while] or there being, only the Verb-substantive, so often understood.

Ib. in the Parts] So Jun. and Trem. have in partibus, as Ver. 16. and accordingly Buxt. in Lex.

Ib. Determinations] not impressions, as in the English Margin; and it seems satirical, and so is very beautiful, for the Reubenites telling what they were purposing and resolving to do, had there been Occasion for it.

Ver. 16. between the two Packs] The Words of Jacob concerning Issachar, Gen. xlix. 14. who appears to be meant here. Thus Trem. and Jun. render it, inter sacinas; and Seb. Cast. inter sacinas.

Ib. folded Flocks] to which Bleating especially belongs.

Ib. while] Thus having praised the Princes of Issachar in Comparison of Reuben, they reproach the common People of Issachar in Comparison of the same. A beautiful Contrast! not observed by the Commentators that I know of.

Ib. great Things] ironically, to be consulting, when they should have been acting.

Ib. Consultations] Heb. bikre, answering to hikre, Determinations, which Similitude of Sound that Language is so fond of.

18. Zebulun and Naphtali, noted by Name, exposed themselves to die, upon the Heights of the Field.

19. The Kings came, they fought; the Kings of Canaan fatally fought, in Taanach then at watery Megiddo: their Wages the Spoil, but never received.

20. For from Heaven there fought, the Stars from their Courses fought with Sisera.

21. The Waves of Kishon washed them away, that noted River of old Times, the River Kishon: O my Mind, what Power hast thou overpowered!

22. Then were the Heels of the Horses battered; by the Prancings, the Prancings of their several courageous Steeds.

23. Curse Meroz, says the Angel of the Lord, curse throughly the Inhabitants of it; because they came not to the Help of the Lord, to the Help of the Lord among the Powerful.

24. The most blessed of Women is Jael the Wife of Heber the Kenite, thus blessed in a Tent.

25. He asking for Water, she gave Milk: she presented Butter-milk in a stately Dish.

26. She put forth her Hand to the Nail, and her right Hand to the working Hammer; so struck Sisera, she struck into his Head, and continuing the Strokes, pierced through his Temples.

27. Between her Feet he bended, he fell, he lay along: between her Feet bending, falling; where he bended, there he fell down bereaved of all.

28. The Mother of Sisera looked out at the Window, and cried out at the Casement, Why does his Chariot delay coming? Why are the Paces of his Chariots retarded?

29. Her wise Ladies were answering, when forsooth she made her Reply to her self,

30. Have not they found them? Yes, divided the Spoil, a young Woman or two for each Man; a Spoil of divers Colours, to wit of Embroidery, for Sisera; of a Colour of double Embroidery for the Necks of those belonging to the Spoil.

31. So let all thy Enemies perish, O Lord, but may those who love him go forth in Power, like the unclouded morning Sun. Then the Country rested out forty Years.

Ver. 21. Kishon] Which Maundrell being at, describes to run through the middle of the Plain of Esdraclon, and then close by Mount Carmel, falling into the (Mediterranean) Sea at a Place (now) called Caypha; its Waters then, he says, were low and inconsiderable, but there were the Tracks of many Torrents falling into it from the Mountains; which, adds he, must needs make it swell exceedingly upon sudden Rains, as doubtless it did at the Destruction of Sisera's Host, Journey from Aleppo to Jerusalem; wherein the Divine Assistance would more appear, than if the River was always large.

Ib. noted of old Times] Merely ancient seems too common to Rivers to be here intended.

Ver. 23. among] It is needless to seek for more than Gell has produced, that have it so rendered, Essay, p. 364. and this I think the Heb. favours, by not having by for against, as well as that the Sense is more noble.

Ver. 24. blessed in] Not first blessed above all, then above some.

Ver. 26. so struck] Here may be an Instance of the Carelessness of King James's Translators, who were employed so pompously to amend the Geneva Bible, and have here put as there was before, with the hammer; though there is no Noun, and the Verb is to knock, strike or beat in general.

Ib. struck into] 'There is not the least Indication,' says Patrick, of her cutting off his Head: but as to his saying, 'The Word machak, which is commonly translated cut off, cannot have that Signification here;' it is used no where else throughout the Heb. Bible, and I find but one Transf. that has it cut off here.

Ver. 27. bended] by the first Blow, then bounding up by the awaking and Anguish, fell down.

with

with their Tents, nay came as Locusts for Multitude, themselves and their Camels being out of Number; and they came into the Country, to destroy it.

6. Thus Israel was much impoverished by reason of the Midianites; and they cried to the Lord.

7. And when they did, upon account of the Midianites;

8. The Lord sent a Man that was a Prophet to the Israelites, who said to them: Thus says the Lord God of Israel; I brought you up from Egypt, and out of the Place of Slaves;

9. I also delivered you from the Power of the Egyptians, and of all who oppressed you, whom I drove out from your Presence, and gave you their Country;

10. Moreover I declared to you, I am the Lord your God, do not fear the gods of the Amorites in whose Country you dwell: yet you have not hearkened to what I said.

11. There likewise came an Angel of the Lord, and sate under an Oak which was at Ophrah, that belonged to Joash the Abiezrite; whose Son Gideon was beating out Wheat at a Wine-press, to hide it from the Sight of the Midianites.

12. To whom the Angel of the Lord appearing, said to him. The Lord is with thee, O valiant Man.

13. But Gideon said to him; Oh my Lord, if the Lord is with us, why is all this come upon us? And where are all his Wonders that our Fathers have thus rehearsed to us, Did not the Lord bring us up from Egypt? Since he has now forsaken us, and given us up into the Power of the Midianites.

14. Then the Lord turning to him, said, Go in this thy Might, and thou shalt save Israel from their Power: Do not I send thee?

15. And he answered him, Oh my Lord, whereby shall I save Israel? Behold my Thousand is impoverished in Manassah, and I am small in my Father's Family.

16. But to him the Lord replied, I will be with thee, and thou shalt beat the Midianites as one Man.

17. Whereupon he said to him; If now I am in Favour with thee, shew me a Sign what thou art who talkest with me.

18. Depart not, I pray, from hence, till I come to thee, and bring forth my Present, and set before thee. Who said, I will stay till thou returnest.

19. So Gideon went in, and made ready a Kid of the Goats, with an Ephah of Flour in unleavened Cakes; putting the Flesh in a Basket, as he did the Broth in a Pot: which he brought out to him under the Oak, and put nigh.

20. And the Angel of God said to him, Take the Flesh and unleavened Cakes, and set on this Rock, pouring out the Broth; and he did so.

21. Next the Angel of the Lord reached out the End of the Staff that was in his Hand, and touching the Flesh and unleavened Cakes, there came up Fire out of the Rock, which consumed them both; he also went away out of his Sight.

22. And when Gideon saw what he was, he said, Alas, O Sovereign Lord, because of this, that I have seen an Angel of the Lord Face to Face.

23. But the Lord said to him, There is Peace for thee, do not fear: thou shalt not die.

24. Upon this Gideon built there an Altar to the Lord, and called it The Lord of Peace's: to this Day it is still in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

25. And in that Night the Lord said to him; Take the Ox that was a Bull which thy Father has, and the other Ox of seven Years; and thou shalt throw down the Altar of Baal that thy Father has, and cut down the Grove which is by it.

26. Thou shalt also build an Altar to the Lord thy God, upon the Top of this Fortress in a Place put in order; and shalt take the other Ox, and offer up a Burnt-offering

Ver. 9. also delivered you] At the Red Sea.

Ver. 11. beating out] privately and quietly, as at a Wine-press also denotes; which threshing, that the Heb. Word does not signify, would not have been.

Ver. 13. Did not] Being a strong Affirmation in Heb. so in the next Verse.

Ver. 17. what] as a Prophet, Judge or Magistrate, who had Power to commission him; since he did not take him for an Angel. It is the Heb. Relative contracted; and surely Gideon knew the other talked with him, without a Sign to shew it.

Ver. 24. The Lord of Peace's] See Gen. xxxiii. 20. Of this Walt. Cross in his Taghm. Art. p. 101, says, 'Our Translation favours Photinians and Secinians, who invalidate the Argument for Christ's Deity, from the * proper Name of God Jehovah being ascribed to him, * since it is to other Things, as here to the Altar; but, * adds he, falsely.'

Ver. 25. was a Bull] that is lately cut: so far the Heb. from young; and young bullock, the second of seven years old, is a plain Sign the Prophet Amos did not translate it.

1b. other Ox] this or second shews it not to be the same, but rather he that went in the Yoke with the first; which Oxen might draw down what was wanted. The Tigurin Version and Munster's have, et alium, and another, which are the Words of former English Translations; the Vulgate, et alterum; Castal. et item altero, and also the other; the Septuagint and others keep to the Heb. and.

with the Wood of the Grove which thou cuttest down.

27. Accordingly Gideon taking ten Men of his Servants, did as the Lord spoke to him; however as he was afraid of his Father's Family and the Men of the City to do it by Day, he did it at Night.

28. So that when the Men of the City rose early in the Morning, behold the Altar of Baal was broke down, and the Grove cut down which was by it; as also the other Ox offered up on an Altar that was built.

29. At which they said to one another, Who has done this Thing? And having fought, and enquired, some said Gideon the Son of Joash had done it.

30. They then said to Joash, Bring out thy Son, that he may die; because he has broke down the Altar of Baal, and because he has cut down the Grove which was by it.

31. But Joash said to all who stood by him, Will you contend for Baal? Will you save him? Let him who will contend for him, be put to death whilst it is Morning: if he is a god, let him contend for himself, because Gideon broke down his Altar.

32. Therefore he called him at that Time Jerub-baal, saying, Let Baal contend against him, because he broke down his Altar.

33. Now all the Midianites, Amalekites, and People of the East being gathered together, passed over, and encamped in the Vale of Jezreel.

34. Whereupon the Spirit of the Lord clothed Gideon, and he blew a Trumpet, by which the Abiezrites were called after him.

35. Besides he sent Messengers to all Manassch, who was also called after him; as he did likewise to Asher, Zebulun and Naphthali, and they came up to meet them.

36. And Gideon said to God; If thou wilt save Israel by me, as thou hast spoken;

37. Behold I shall know it, by my placing a Fleece of Wool in the Floor, if the Dew is upon that alone, and upon all the Ground it is dry.

38. And it was so, for when he rose early the next Day, and squeezed the Fleece, he wrung the Dew out of it, a Dish full of Water.

39. He said further to God, Be not angry with me, and I will speak only this Time: let me try now once more with the Fleece; let it now be dry on that alone, and upon all the Ground let there be Dew.

40. And God did so that Night: for it was dry on the Fleece alone, and upon all the Ground there was Dew.

C H A P. VII.

THEN Jerub-baal, who was Gideon, rising early, and all the People who were with him, encamped at the Fountain of Harod: and the Camp of the Midianites was to the North of him, towards the Hill of Moreh in the Vale.

2. But the Lord said to Gideon; The People who are with thee are too many for me to give up the Midianites into their Power, lest Israel should boast it self against me, that his own Hand has saved him.

3. Now therefore do proclaim in the Hearing of the People thus, Whoever is fearful and afraid, let him go away back betimes from Mount Gilcad; upon which there went back twenty two thousand of the People, and ten thousand were left.

4. The Lord notwithstanding said to him, The People are yet many; bring them down to the Water, that I may try them for thee there: and he of whom I say to thee, This shall go with thee, shall go; and all of whom I say to thee, This shall not go with thee, he shall not.

5. So he brought the People down to the Water; and the Lord ordered him, Every one who laps some of the Water with his Tongue, as a Dog does, thou shalt place alone, as likewise every one who bends down upon his Knees to drink.

6. And the Number of those who lapped with their Hand to their Mouth, was three hundred Men; whereas all the rest of the People bended down upon their Knees to drink Water.

7. The Lord then said to Gideon, By the three hundred Men who lapped will I save you, and give up the Midianites into thy Power; so let all the rest of the People go to their respective Places.

8. Upon which these taking Provision in their Hands, and their Trumpets, he sent all the other Men of Israel to their several Tents, and retained the three hundred Men; the Camp of the Midianites being below him in the Vale.

9. And that Night the Lord said to him;

Ver. 37. Floor] which was abroad, Hof. xiii. 3. Dan. ii. 35.

Ver. 39. now] na in Heb. both times, and in the common Translation is put I pray to that which will not bear it.

Ver. 3. do] denoting some Intreaty; but go to, besides being intolerably obsolete, is by Johnson's Definition a scornful exhortation.

Ver. 4. many] not too many here, as in Ver. 2.

Ver. 8. their Trumpets] which they might be furnished with from the rest of the People.

Arise, go down to the Camp: for I give it up into thy Power.

10. However if thou art afraid to do it, go thither with Phurah thy young Man.

11. Whereby thou wilt hear what they say, and afterwards thou wilt be strengthened to go thither. Accordingly he went down with Phurah his young Man, to the Border of the Men who were in military Order at the Camp.

12. Now the Midianites, Amalekites, and all the People of the East, lay along in the Vale as Locusts for Multitude; their Camels likewise were innumerable, as the Sand which is upon the Sea-shoar for Multitude.

13. Whither Gideon being come, behold a Man told the following Dream to his Companion, Lo I have dreamed a Dream plainly, that a Cake of barley Bread tumbled along into the Camp of the Midianites, and coming to a Tent, and striking it, that it might fall, overturned it, so that the Tent fell down.

14. And his Companion made answer, This is nothing besides the Sword of Gideon the Son of Joash, a Man of Israel: God has given up into his Power the Midianites, and all the Camp.

15. As soon as Gideon therefore heard the telling of the Dream, and the Explanation of it, he worshipped; and returning to the Camp of Israel, said, Get ready, for the Lord has given up the Camp of Midian into your Power.

16. Next he parted the three hundred Men into three Companies; and gave Trumpets into the Hands of them all, with empty Pitchers, which had Lamps within.

17. And he ordered them; Take notice of me, and do so; particularly indeed when I come to the Border of the Camp, according as I do, so shall you.

18. For I, and all who are with me, will blow the Trumpet; and you shall also blow round about all the Camp, and say, This of the Lord, and of Gideon.

19. So Gideon, and the hundred Men who were with him, went to the Border of the Camp, at the Beginning of the middle Watch, when the Watchmen were but just roused up; and they blew the Trumpets, and dashed to pieces the Pitchers which were in their Hands.

20. Nay the three Companies blew the Trumpets, and broke the Pitchers, holding fast the Lamps in their left Hands, and the Trumpets in their right to blow; and they cried out, The Sword of the Lord, and of Gideon.

21. And as they stood in their several Places round about the Camp, all who were in it ran, screamed out, and fled.

22. Besides when the three hundred blew the Trumpets, the Lord set the Sword of each one against another, throughout the whole Camp; and those of the Camp fled to Beth-shittah in Zererath, to the Frontier of Abel-meholah by Tabbath.

23. With that the Men of Israel were called out of Naphtali, Asher, and all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

24. Gideon further sent Messengers through all Mount Ephraim, to say, Go down to meet the Midianites, and take against them the Water in the Way to Beth-barah and Jordan: accordingly all the Men of Ephraim were called out, and took it.

25. They took likewise two Princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb; and killed Oreb at the Rock Oreb, as they did Zeeb at the Wine-press Zeeb, when they pursued the Midianites; whose Heads they brought to Gideon beyond Jordan.

C H A P. VIII.

NEVERTHELESS the Men of Ephraim said to him, Why didst thou do this Thing to us, not to call us, when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? And they contended with him strongly.

2. To whom he said; What have I done now like you? Are not the Gleaning-grapes of Ephraim better than the Vintage of Abiezer?

3. God has given up into your Power the Princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb; and what could I do like you? Then their Resentment ceased from him, upon his speaking that Thing.

4. Moreover Gideon got to Jordan; passing over, and the three hundred Men who were with him, faint as they were, pursuing.

5. And he said to the Men of Succoth, Pray give the People who accompany me a Piece of Victuals: for they are faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna Kings of Midian.

6. But the Princes of Succoth said, Hast thou got hold of Zebah and Zalmunna already by the Hand, that we should give Victuals to thy Army?

7. For this reason, said Gideon, when the Lord has given them up into my Power, I will thresh your Flesh with Thorns of the Wilderness, and Briers.

8. And going up from thence to Penuel, he spoke to the Men of it in like manner; and they answered him as those of Succoth had.

9. So he made reply also to them, When I return in Peace, I will break down this Tower.

10. Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their Armies with them, about fifteen thousand, all that were left of the whole Army of the eastern People: for there were fallen a hundred and twenty thousand Men who drew forth the Sword.

11. And Gideon went up the Way of those who dwelt in Tents, at the East of Nobah and Jogbehah; and beat the Army, when it was secure.

12. But Zebah and Zalmunna fleeing, he pursued after them; and taking these two Kings of Midian, made all the Army afraid.

13. Gideon the Son of Joash also returned from the Battle, before the getting up of the Sun.

14. And he took a Youth of the Men of Succoth, and asked him; who wrote down for him the Princes and Elders of it, seventy seven Men.

15. Then he came to the Men of it, and said; Here are Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom you thus reproached me, Hast thou got hold of Zebah and Zalmunna already by the Hand, that we should give Victuals to thy Men who are faint?

16. And he took those Elders, with Thorns of the Wilderness, and Briers, and made the Men of Succoth know by them.

17. He further broke down the Tower of Penuel, and slew the Citizens.

18. Afterwards he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, What sort of Men were those that you killed on Tabor? Who answered, They were just as thou art, looking each one like the Sons of a King.

19. And he replied, They were my own Brothers, the Sons of my Mother: by the Lord's living, if you had kept them alive, I would not kill you.

20. He said then to Jether his First-born, Get ready, kill them; but the Youth did not draw forth his Sword, because he was afraid, as he was yet a Boy.

21. Whereas Zebah and Zalmunna said, Do thou get ready, and fall on us, for like a Man is his Strength; so Gideon getting ready, killed them, and took the Studs which were on their Camels Necks.

22. The Men of Israel moreover said to Gideon, Do thou rule over us, and even thy Son, and Grandson; because thou hast saved us from the Power of the Midianites.

23. Whom he answered, I will not rule over you, nor shall my Son: let the Lord rule over you.

24. However he said to them, I ask a Petition of you, that you will give me each one the Ear-rings of his Spoil: for they had golden ones, as those were Ishmeelites.

C H A P. IX.

FOR Abimelech the Son of Jerubbaal going to Shechem, to his Mother's Brothers, spoke to them, and to all the Family of the House of his Mother's Father, as follows;

2. Speak, I pray, in the Hearing of all the Owners of Shechem, What is best for you, that seventy Men, all the Sons of Jerubbaal, should rule over you, or one Man should? And remember, that I am your Bone and Flesh.

3. And his Mother's Brothers spoke of him, in their Hearing, all these Words; upon which their Hearts inclined after Abimelech, he being, as they said, their Brother.

4. Nay they gave him seventy Pieces of Silver, out of the House of Baal-berith; with which Abimelech hired vain and unstable Men, to go after him.

5. So he went into his Father's House at Ophrah, and killed his Brothers the Sons of Jerubbaal, seventy Men, upon one Stone; excepting Jotham his youngest Son, who was left, because he was hid.

6. Moreover all the Owners of Shechem, and the whole Family of the Fortrefs, getting together, went and made Abimelech King, at the Oak set up which was in Shechem.

7. And when some told Jotham, he went, and stood on the Top of Mount Gerizzim, and with an exalted Voice called, and thus harangued them: Harken to me, ye Owners of Shechem, that God may hearken to you.

8. The Trees unanimously went to anoint a King over them, and said to the Olive-tree, Do thou reign over us.

9. But he said to them, Shall I leave off my Fatness, by whom they honour God and Men, that I may go to be removed to reign over the Trees?

10. They also said to the Fig-tree, Come thou, reign over us.

11. But

11. But he said to them, Shall I leave off my Sweetness and good Fruit, that I may go to be removed to reign over the Trees?

12. Then they said to the Vine, Come thou, reign over us.

13. But he said to them, Shall I leave off my Wine, which makes God and Men glad, that I may go to be removed to reign over the Trees?

14. At last all the Trees said to the Bramble, Come thou, reign over us.

15. If you truly anoint me for a King over you, quoth he to them, come, trust in my Shadow; and if not let Fire come out of the Bramble, and consume the Cedars of Lebanon.

16. Now therefore if you have acted in Truth and Integrity, by making Abimelech King, and if you have done well to Jerubbaal and his Family, nay if you have done to him according to the Desert of his Hands;

17. Wherein my Father fought for you, and exposed his Life at a distance, that he might deliver you from the Power of the Midianites;

18. Yet you are risen up against my Father's Family to Day, and have killed his Sons, seventy Men, upon one Stone, and made Abimelech, the Son of his Servant-maid, King over the Owners of Shechem, because forsooth he is your Brother:

19. I say if you have acted in Truth and Integrity, with Jerubbaal and his Family this Day; be glad of Abimelech, and let him also be glad of you:

20. But if not; let Fire come out of him, and consume the Owners of Shechem, and the Family of the Fortrefs; let Fire likewise come out of them, and consume Abimelech.

21. Jotham then fled, and running away, went to Beer; where he dwelt, because of his Brother Abimelech.

22. And Abimelech had the principality over Israel three Years.

23. At length God sent an ill Mind between him and the Owners of Shechem, so that they were treacherous to him:

24. That the Violence to the seventy Sons of Jerubbaal might come, and that their Blood might be laid upon their Brother Abimelech who killed them, and upon the Owners of Shechem who strengthened him to do it.

25. For they put some that lay in wait for him upon the Tops of the Mountains, who robbed all that passed by them along the Road; which was told Abimelech.

26. Gaal too the Son of Ebed came, with his Brethren, and passing on to Shechem, the Owners of it trusted in him.

27. Next they went out into the Field, and gathering in their Vineyards, trod, and made Praises; as also went into the House of their god, and eat, drank, and cursed Abimelech.

28. Besides Gaal the Son of Ebed said, Who is Abimelech, and what is Shechem, that we should serve him? Is not he the Son of Jerubbaal, and Zebul his Officer? Serve the Men of Hamor the Father of Shechem; for why should we serve him?

29. And oh that this People were in my Power! then would I put away Abimelech. Nay he said to Abimelech, Make thy Army great, and come out.

30. But Zebul the chief of the City was angry at hearing his Words,

31. And sent Messengers deceitfully to tell Abimelech; Behold Gaal the Son of Ebed, and his Brethren, are come to Shechem, and lo they fortify the City against thee.

32. Now therefore do thou get ready by Night, and the People who are with thee, and lie in wait in the Field.

33. And in the Morning as the Sun rises, being got up early, thou mayest rush on against the City; and behold when he, and the People who are with him, come out to thee, thou mayest do to him according as thou findest to be done.

34. With that Abimelech gets ready, and all the People who were with him, by Night, and they lie in wait against Shechem in four Companies.

35. And Gaal the Son of Ebed going out, and standing at the Entrance of the Gate of the City; Abimelech rose up, and the People who were with him, from lying in wait.

Ver. 13. makes God—glad] This Expression is easily accounted for, by considering that Wine was offered to God, Lev. xxiii. 13. Num. xxviii. 7. and that he was pleased People did their Duty by offering it. Without this Consideration what Absurdities have Interpreters run into? Ours have rendered it cheereth God, as if it was by his drinking the Wine; Stackhouse expounds God to be Princes, Hist. Bib. Lib. v. 2.

Ver. 15. trust in my Shadow] as if for Preservation from scorching Heat. And the Shadow of a Bramble over the Trees, is a very witty and keen Sarcaſm.

Ver. 31. deceitfully] That this is the Meaning of the Word, by its Affinity with others, whereby Yarhi and Kimhi expound it, there is no Dispute: ſo Pagn. and Munſt. render, in dole; and in the Genev. Marg. is Ebr. craftily. Privily came not from the Original, but from the old paraphractical Translators.

Ver. 33. rush on againſt] For he did not, nor does it appear he was to, ſet upon the city, to uſe the preſent Reading, before Gaal went out to him.

36. Upon

36. Upon Gaal's seeing them, he said to Zebul, Behold People are coming down from the Tops of the Mountains; whom Zebul answered, Thou seest the Shade of the Mountains like Men.

37. However Gaal asserted yet again, that there were People coming down from the middle of the Country, and that one Company came from the Way of the Oak of the Soothsayers.

38. Then Zebul said to him, Where is thy Mouth now, with which thou didst vaunt, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? Is not this the People whom thou hast despised? Go out, I pray now, and fight with him.

39. Accordingly Gaal went out before the Owners of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40. But Abimelech pursued him, and he fled from his Face; many falling down wounded to the Entrance of the Gate.

41. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah; Zebul also drove out Gaal and his Brethren, from dwelling at Shechem.

42. Nevertheless the People went out the next Day into the Field, which having been told Abimelech,

43. He took his, and parting them into three Companies, lay in wait in the Field; and when he saw plainly that the other were come out of the City, he rose up against them, and killed them.

44. For Abimelech, and the Company that were with him, rushed on, and stood at the Entrance of the Gate of the City; while the two Companies rushed upon all who were in the Field, and killed them.

45. He further fought against the City all that Day, and took it, as also killed the People who were therein; and having broke it down, he sowed it with Salt.

46. Which when all the Owners of the Tower of Shechem heard, they went into a Castle of the House of the god Berith.

47. Again it was told Abimelech, that they had all gathered themselves together.

48. At this he went up Mount Zalmon, and all the People who were with him; and taking an Ax in his Hand, he cut off a Bough from the Trees, which he took up, and put upon his Shoulder; then he said to the People who were with him, What you have seen me do, make haste to do the like.

49. And all the People too cut them off a Bough apiece, and went after Abimelech; which putting against the Castle, they burnt it upon them with Fire; infomuch that all the Persons of the Tower of Shechem died likewise, about a thousand Men and Women.

50. Afterwards Abimelech went to Thebez; against which encamping, he took it.

51. But there being a strong Tower within the City, all the Men and Women, including all the Owners of the City, fled thither, and shut it about them; going up on the Roof of the Tower.

52. He notwithstanding went to the Tower, and fought against it; nay went nigh to the Entrance of it, to burn it with Fire.

53. When a certain Woman threw down a Piece of a Millstone upon his Head, and broke his Scull.

54. Upon which he called speedily to the young Man who carried his Arms, and said to him, Draw out thy Sword, and kill me, lest they should say of me, A Woman slew him. Accordingly his young Man ran him through, and he died.

55. And when the Men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they went to their respective Places.

56. Thus God requited the Wickedness of Abimelech which he did to his Father, by killing his seventy Brothers.

57. All the Wickedness likewise of the Men of Shechem did God requite on their Heads; and the Curse of Jotham the Son of Jerubbaal came upon them.

Ver. 52. to set it on fire] left out of the Genev. Bible, black Letter, 1599; but is in another with the Roman Letter printed the same Year, both by the Deputies of Christopher Barker.

Ver. 53. broke] The all to brake in the common English was so obsolete and unintelligible a hundred Years ago, that the great and skilful Linguist William Walker did not understand it: for in his English Particles, so fraught with Erudition, he reckons all an Expletive, though the Meaning is, brake all his scull, or brake his scull in pieces; as in Tyndal's and the Bishops Translations, from whence this was taken, all to dashed the enemy, Exod. xv. 6. to being only an Augment or Expletive like be—as when we say, such a one is all bedaubed, &c. according to the Saxon; for which see Hicks's Gram. p. 85. and brake cannot be infinitive: but how unfit is such Translation for the common People, which very few of the Learned understand!

C H A P. X.

AND there rose up after Abimelech, to save Israel, Tola the Son of Puah, the Son of Dodo, a Man of Issachar; and he dwelt at Shamir, on Mount Ephraim.

2. He also judged Israel twenty three Years, and dying, was buried at Shamir.

3. And there rose up after him Jair the Gileadite, who judged Israel twenty two Years.

4. Moreover he had thirty Sons who rode upon thirty Ass-colts, and they had thirty Cities: these they call the Towns of Jair to this Day, which are in the Province of Gilead.

5. Jair likewise died, and was buried at Kamon.

6. And the Israelites did again what the Lord was displeased with; for they served Baalim, Ashtaroth, the gods of Syria, Zidon, Moab; the Ammonites, and Philistines: whereas they forsook the Lord, and did not serve him:

7. Incensed therefore at Israel, the Lord delivered them up into the Power, both of the Philistines and Ammonites,

8. Who broke, and bruised them that Year; as they had eighteen Years all the Israelites who were beyond Jordan, in the Country of the Amorites, which is in Gilead.

9. For the Ammonites were passed over Jordan, to fight also with Judah, Benjamin, and the Family of Ephraim; so that Israel was much distressed.

10. Then they cried thus to the Lord, We have sinned against thee, both because we have forsaken our God, and served Baalim.

11. But he said to them; Did not some of the Egyptians, Amorites, Ammonites, and Philistines,

12. With the Zidonians, Amalekites, and Maonites oppress you? And when you cried to me, I saved you from their Power.

13. Nevertheless you forsook me, and served other gods; therefore I may not save you again.

14. Go, and cry to the gods whom you have made choice of: let them save you in the Time of your Distress.

15. And the Israelites replied to the Lord, We have sinned, do to us entirely as thou likest; only deliver us, we beseech thee, at this Time.

16. Besides they put away the gods of the Strangers from among them, and served the Lord; whose Soul was grieved for the Trouble of Israel.

17. Now the Ammonites were called together, and encamped in Gilead: the Israelites were likewise gathered up, and encamped in Mizpeh.

18. And the People, the Princes of Gilead, said one to another, What Man soever will begin to fight with the Ammonites, shall be the Head of all the Inhabitants of Gilead.

C H A P. XI.

AND Jephthah the Gileadite was a valiant Man, but the Son of a Woman that was a Harlot; Gilead begetting him.

2. The Wife of Gilead also bore him Sons, who, when they grew up, thrust out Jephthah, saying to him, Thou shalt not have possession in our Father's House, because thou art the Son of a different Woman.

3. Whereupon he fled from the Presence of his Brothers, and dwelt in the Country of Tob; and vain Men gathering themselves to Jephthah, went out with him.

4. And in a while the Ammonites made War with Israel.

5. Which as they were doing, the Elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah from that Country.

Ver. 1. save] So the Hebrew.

Ver. 4. Ass-colts—Cities] These Words are alike in Hebrew to the very Points; which several, both Jews and Christians, have counted an Elegancy.

Ib. the Towns of Jair] See the same 1 Kings iv. 13. 1 Chron. ii. 23. twenty three of which, as it seems, were called so before from Jair the Descendant of Manassah, 1 Chron. ii. 22. Num. xxxii. 41. Deut. iii. 14.

Ver. 8. broke] Bish. pilled, as Tynd. pild.

Ib. broke, and bruised] Which literal Sense may be better than any comparative made from it, in a Translation, especially as it has some similar Sound, like the Hebrew, I suppose designedly, yirgnatzu and yerotzetzu.

Ib. them] those who were in the Country of Canaan, according to Ver. 9. in Contradistinction to the other beyond Jordan, as here follows.

Ib. that Year] in which Jair died, Ver. 5.

Ver. 9. distressed] Tynd. combred, with the Bish. but the Gen. have tormented.

Ver. 11. some of] which in signifies as well as from; and thus the whole Construction of these two Verses is quite proper and regular, without any Defect or Redundancy: in which Manner the learned Lewis De Dieu observes likewise it may be rendered.

Ib. Ammonites] This Article is omitted in the Bishops Bible, 1575, folio.

Ver. 13. may] which the Hebrew signifies as well as will, the Verb being as well potential as indicative; and he did save them again.

Ver. 1. Gilead begetting him] The Gen. Translators put this first, with Advantage indeed if it was to be with and as in the present English; but it stands better as in the Hebrew thus, for the History to begin with what is more pertinent to the Subject.

Ver. 4. a while] Heb. Days, without after, though in the English Margin.

6. To whom they said, Come, and thou shalt be a Captain to us, that we may fight with the Ammonites.

7. But he answered them, Did not you hate me, and thrust me out of my Father's House; Why then do you come to me now, when you are distressed?

8. And they replied to him, Therefore now we return to thee, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the Ammonites; so thou shalt be the chief of all us, the Inhabitants of Gilead.

9. Upon this he said to them, If you have me back to fight against the Ammonites, and the Lord give them up before me, let me be the chief of you.

10. As they did again to him, The Lord hear between us, if we do not thus according to thy Words.

11. So Jephthah went with the Elders of Gilead, and the People made him the chief and Captain over them; he also spoke all his Words before the Lord in Mizpeh.

12. Then Jephthah sent Ambassadors to say to the King of the Ammonites, What hast thou to do with me, that thou comest to me to fight in my own Country?

13. Who answered them, It is because Israel took away my Country, when they came up from Egypt, from Arnon even to Jabbok and Jordan; now therefore restore these Places in Peace.

14. But he sent Ambassadors to him yet again,

15. To tell him; Thus saith Jephthah; The Israelites did not take away the Country of Moab, nor that of the Ammonites.

16. For when they came up from Egypt, they went through the Wilderness of the Red Sea, and came to Kadesh.

17. When they sent Ambassadors to intreat the King of Edom, to let them pass through his Country, but he would not hearken; and they likewise sent to the King of Moab, who did not consent: so they abode in Kadesh.

18. Afterwards they went through the Wilderness, and round by the Countries of Edom and Moab, and coming to the Sun-rising of that of Moab, encamped beyond Arnon; but they came not into the Bounds of Moab, for that Arnon was.

19. They also sent Ambassadors to Sihon King of the Amorites, the King of Heshbon; whom they intreated to let them go through his Country to their Place.

20. Whereas he, far from trusting them to pass through his Bounds, gathered up all his People, and encamping in Jahaz, fought with them.

21. The Lord God of Israel however gave up him, and all his People, into their Power, so that they smote them: thus the Israelites possessed all the Country of the Amorites, who dwelt there.

22. They even possessed all their Bounds, from Arnon to Jabbok, and from the Wilderness to Jordan.

23. Now therefore thou wouldest possess, what the Lord God of Israel dispossessed the Amorites of, because of this his People.

24. Wilt not thou possess that which Chemosh thy god causes thee to possess? So will we that which the Lord our God has dispossessed any of, because of us.

25. And now art thou at all better than Balak the Son of Zippor King of Moab? Did he at all contend with the Israelites, or at all fight against them;

26. When they dwelt in Heshbon and Aroer, with their Towns, and in all the Cities which are upon the Side of Arnon, three hundred Years? And why did not you regain them in that Time?

27. Therefore I have not done amiss against thee, but thou dealest ill with me to fight against me: the Lord the Judge judge now between the Israelites and the Ammonites.

28. Nevertheless the King of the Ammonites would not hearken, to the Message which Jephthah sent him.

29. At this the Spirit of the Lord was upon Jephthah, and he passed on through Gilead and Manasseh, to Mizpeh of Gilead, as he did from thence to the Ammonites.

Ver. 9. let me] on this Condition, which shews his Nobleness of Mind. As here is Nothing in the Hebrew to shew it was a Question, so the Words of the following Verse intimate it was not; and Cassal. with Jun. and Tran. translate accordingly. So Ver. 23.

Ver. 11. spoke all his Words] i. e. This Convention between him and the Gileadites, was solemnly ratified at Mizpeh.

Ver. 13. took away my Country] which they did not, Ver. 15. but some of that which Israel took from the Amorites, Ver. 21. had belonged to the Ammonites before, Job. xiii. 25.

1b. in Peace] with saire means by Tyndal.

Ver. 23, 24. because of] which the Hebrew signifies, as well as from before; and I think the latter improper with dispossessed, it being not merely before.

Ver. 24. So will we that] non is it or that, not them, which latter in the present Bible sounds very indifferently. Schast. Cass. in freedom of translating turns it very skillfully thus, Et nos quoque, quoscunque nobis fines Jova Deus noster vacantes fecerit, eos possidebimus: and we likewise, whatsoever Limits Jove our God shall make void for us, them will we possess. Pagnin. has quidquid and illud, whatsoever and it; Coverdale, whatsoever and that.

1b. dispossessed] as in the preceding Verse, and strictly to the Hebrew.

Ver. 28. which Jephthah sent] as it seems in Writing, for it is not they said to him, Ver. 15.

Ver. 29. to the Ammonites] as it is full written, Ver. 32.

30. And he made the following Vow to the Lord; If thou wilt wholly give up the Ammonites into my Power;

31. That which comes first out of the Doors of my House to meet me, when I return in Peace from the Ammonites, shall be the Lord's, and I will offer up what is for a Burnt-offering.

32. Accordingly when he passed to the Ammonites, to fight with them, the Lord gave them up into his Power.

33. So that he smote them from Aroer, even till one comes to Minnith, twenty Cities, and to Abel of the Vineyards, with a very great Slaughter: thus the Ammonites were brought down by means of the Israelites.

34. Now Jephthah going to his House at Mizpeh, behold his Daughter came out to meet him, with Timbrels and Dances; and she was the only one, he having no Son or Daughter but her.

35. But as soon as he saw her, he tore his Cloaths, and said, Alas, my Daughter, thou bowest me quite down, and art one of those who trouble me: for I have opened my Mouth to the Lord, so that I cannot turn back.

36. And she said to him, My Father, since thou hast, do to me as there came out of thy Mouth; as it is after the Lord has taken vengeance for thee on thy Enemies the Ammonites.

37. However she requested her Father, Let this Thing be done for me; let me alone two Months, that I may go, and descend upon the Mountains, and weep for my Virginity, with my Companions.

38. Who said, Go; which he let her do so long: accordingly she went with her Companions, and wept for her Virginity upon the Mountains.

39. And at the End of the two Months, she returned to her Father, who performed his Vow to her which he made: for she had not the knowledge of a Man, it being an Ordinance in Israel.

40. From Year to Year the Daughters of Israel went to talk to the Daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, four Days in a Year.

CHAP. XII.

AND the Men of Ephraim being called together, passed northward, and said to Jephthah, Why didst thou pass on to fight with the Ammonites, and not call us to go with thee? We will burn thy House upon thee with Fire.

2. But he answered them; I and my People were those who contended with the Ammonites exceedingly; and when I called you, ye did not save me from them.

3. So seeing that you did not, I ventured my Life, and passed on to them, whom the Lord gave up into my Power; and why are you come up to me this Day, to fight with me?

4. Then Jephthah gathered together all

Ver. 31. first] as the doubling of the Verb may signify, and the Sense requires.

Ver. 33. Abel] The Word is Mourning, and plain is utterly foreign to any Meaning of the Root.

Ib. by means of] the same Hebrew as for because of, Ver. 23. so that our Translators have left out Part of it.

Ver. 34. only one] So that his Posterity would be extinct; which was a Matter of great Sorrow in those Days.

Ib. he having] The English Margin has Heb. of himself; but I know no such Thing, besides the he had which follows.

Ver. 36. as it is after] One of the Hebrew Words directly signifying after, and both are the same as in Deut. xxiv. 4. Josh. ix. 16. so Chap. xix. 23. 2 Sam. xix. 30.

Ver. 37. go, and descend] For Gilead being a Mountain, Gen. xxxi. 25. Cant. iv. 1. and Mizpeh of Gilead where Jephthah's House was, Ver. 29, 34. by the Signification of the Word, a Watch-tower on it, which were placed on the highest Mountains; it would be, that she going to other Mountains must descend. To go up and down is a Conceit of King James's Translators, unknown in the Original and other Translations.

Ver. 39. an Ordinance] That their Daughters should not so know a Man, and perhaps be confined to religious Exercise, when they were vowed or dedicated to the Lord: as Men were not to accompany with their Wives, when they had to do with holy Matters, Exod. xix. 15. 1 Sam. xxi. 4, 5. The Ordinance for his Vow seems to be in Lev. xxvii. 28. not Ver. 29. which see in this Version. The being very holy to the Lord there, might be thus understood, and practised. It also appears that she was not slain, because it is said she wept for her Virginity, not for her Life; and if a Dog had come out first, as very likely, would he have offered it for a Burnt-offering to the Lord, Ver. 31. Deut. xxiii. 18. Isa. lxvi. 3? Surely no; much less his Child: in which God only tried Abraham, and would not let him do it.

Ver. 40. went] whither, if not to her? And why four Days in a Year, but to visit her once a Quarter? The Time set apart for a Person's Birth or Death would be strange to be more than the Day of the Year it had been upon.

Ib. to talk to] which is exactly the Hebrew. The Verb is found once more in the same Conjugation, Ch. v. 11. where our Translators have turned it rehearse. Jun. and Trem. say, ad consabulandum cum filia, to talk with the Daughter; Sant. Pagn. and Ar. Mont. ad alligandum filiam, to speak to the Daughter; Leo Jud. ut dissererent cum filia, that they might discourse with the Daughter; which the Chald. Word תנורת as Grotius here observes, rightly signifies. Thus Kimbi writes on the preceding Verse, עשה לה בית והניסה שם והיתה שם פרוש מבני אדם ומדרכי העולם והיו הלכות אליה כנות ישראל He made a House for her, and put her there, where she was separated from Mankind, and from the Ways of the World; and the Daughters of Israel went to her; for more see the Essay for a new Translation, Chap. 7. at the End, and Amama, Anti-herb. Biblic.

the Men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: whom they defeated, though they said, you are Runaways of Ephraim; Gilead being within both Ephraim and Manasseh.

5. Moreover the Gileadites took the Passages of Jordan to Ephraim; and when those who were escaped of Ephraim said, Let me pass over; the Men of Gilead asked him, Art thou an Ephrathite? And he answering, No;

6. They replied to him, Say now Shibboleth; but he said Sibboleth, and could not speak so rightly: then they took him, and killed him there. And there fell at that Time of Ephraim forty two thousand.

7. Besides Jephthah the Gileadite judged Israel six Years; when dying, he was buried at one of the Cities of Gilead.

8. And after him Ibzan of Beth-lehem judged Israel,

9. Who had thirty Sons, and thirty Daughters that he sent abroad, bringing so many from abroad for his Sons; and he judged Israel seven Years.

10. Ibzan likewise died, and was buried at Beth-lehem.

11. After him too Elon the Zebulonite judged Israel, which he did ten Years.

12. He then died, and was buried at Aijalon in the Country of Zebulun.

13. And after him there judged Israel, Abdon the Son of Hillel the Pirathonite.

14. He had also forty Sons, and thirty Grandsons, who rode upon seventy Ass-colts; and he judged Israel eight Years.

15. When he died, and was buried at Pirathon in the Country of Ephraim, on the Mountain of Amalek.

C H A P. XIII.

AND the Israelites did again what the Lord was displeased with, who gave them up into the Power of the Philistines forty Years.

2. And there was a certain Man of Zorah, one of the Family of the Danites, whose Name was Manoah, and his Wife was barren, so that she did not bear.

3. But an Angel of the Lord appeared to the Woman, and said to her; Behold now thou art barren, so that thou dost not bear; yet thou shalt conceive, and bear a Son.

4. Now therefore take heed, I pray, and do not drink Wine or strong Drink, nor eat any unclean Thing.

5. For behold thou shalt conceive, and bear a Son, on whose Head there shall not a Razor come up, because the Child shall be a Nazirite of God from the Womb; and he shall begin to save Israel from the Power of the Philistines,

6. She then came, and spoke thus to her Husband; There came a Man of God to me, the Appearance of whom was like that of an Angel of God, very awful; but I did not ask him from whence he was, nor did he tell me his Name.

7. And he said to me, Behold thou shalt conceive, and bear a Son: now therefore do not drink Wine or strong Drink, nor eat any unclean Thing; because the Child shall be a Nazirite of God from the Womb, to the Day of his Death.

8. Upon this Manoah made supplication to the Lord as follows, O my Lord, let the Man of God whom thou didst send, come again to us, I beseech thee, and teach us what we shall do to the Child who shall be born.

9. And God hearkened to what he said: for the Angel of God came again to the Woman as she sat in the Field, Manoah her Husband not being with her.

10. At which she ran apace, and told him in this manner, Behold the Man has appeared to me, who came to me one Day.

11. With that Manoah got ready, and went after his Wife; and when he came to the Man, he said to him, Art thou the Man that spakest to the Woman? Who answered, I am.

12. Then he replied, Now let thy Words come to pass: what shall be the Manner of the Child, and his Work?

13. And the Angel of the Lord said to him; Of all that I said to the Woman, let her take heed:

14. Not to eat of any Thing which comes out of the Vine yielding Wine, and not

Ver. 4. with Ephraim] as after of Ephraim; Tynd. and the Bish. have the Ephraimites.

Ib. Gilead being] The Hebrew Pointing directs this Translating.

Ver. 5. Ephrathite] so the Hebrew.

Ver. 9. Daughters that he sent abroad] by Marriage, as he took others thence for his Sons; but a Point put at Daughters denotes that his Sons were also sent abroad, as in Ver. 14.

Ver. 14. Grandsons] Heb. Sons Sons.

Ver. 7. a Nazirite] with Tynd. an abstayner.

Ver. 8. I beseech thee] Omitted by the Carelessness of the King's Translators, the others before having I pray thee.

Ver. 10. one Day] Gen. and the Bish. though not Tynd. to day.

Ver. 14. yielding Wine] Heb. of Wine, left out by our last Translators, pretty apparently because they knew not how to render it, those before having of the vine tree, with the Hebrew Word for Wine turned tree, besides being of no Use; and yielding need not be in the Italick Character, but to avoid Cavilling. What further confirms the Propriety of thus rendering it, is, that there are Plants called Vines that yield no Wine; such in general are those named scandent Plants, as the Ivy, and others: out of the Vine yielding Wine, is therefore a Synonym for the Grape-vine.

to drink Wine or strong Drink, nor eat any unclean Thing; observing all that I commanded her.

15. Manoah also said to the Angel of the Lord, Vouchsafe to let us retain thee, till we have set a Kid of the Goats dressed before thee.

16. But he answered him, If thou retainest me, I will not eat of thy Victuals; and if thou makest a Burnt-offering, thou must offer it up to the Lord: for Manoah did not know that he was an Angel of the Lord.

17. So he enquired of him, What is thy Name, that we may honour thee, when thy Words come to pass?

18. To whom the Angel of the Lord said, Why dost thou ask for my Name, since it is wonderful?

19. And Manoah taking a Kid of the Goats, with a Meat-offering, offered it up on the Rock to the Lord; and he did wonderfully, while Manoah and his Wife looked on.

20. For when the Flame went up from the Altar towards Heaven, the Angel of the Lord went up in the Flame of the Altar: which Manoah and his Wife seeing, fell upon their Faces to the Ground;

21. And he appeared again no more to them: then Manoah knew that he was an Angel of the Lord.

22. He therefore said to his Wife, We shall quite die, because we have seen God.

23. But his Wife answered him, Had the Lord been pleased to make us die, he would not have received a Burnt-offering and Meat-offering from us, nor have shewn us all these Things; much less would he have let us hear such as this according to the Time.

24. Afterwards the Woman bore a Son, whose Name she called Samson; and the Child grew up, and the Lord blessed him.

25. For the Spirit of the Lord began to move him at The Camp of Dan, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

AT length Samson went down to Timnath, where he saw a Woman of the Daughters of the Philistines.

2. And being come up, he told his Father and Mother thus, I have seen a Woman at Timnath of the Daughters of the Philistines; and now get her to me for a Wife.

3. To whom they said, May there not be a Wife among the Daughters of thy Brethren, or among all our People, that thou wouldest go to take a Wife of the uncircumcised Philistines? Yet Samson said to his Father, Get her for me, because I approve of her.

4. Whereas his Father and Mother did not know that it was of the Lord, that he might seek an Occasion against the Philistines: for at that Time they ruled over Israel.

5. Accordingly Samson, with his Parents, went down to Timnath; and when they came to the Vineyards of it, there was a young Lion roared to meet him.

6. And the Spirit of the Lord coming upon him, he tore him as a Kid is torn, though there was not any Thing in his Hand; however he did not tell them what he had done.

7. Next he went down, and spoke to the Woman; whom he approved of,

8. And going again at the Time to take her, he turned aside to see the Carcase of the Lion; when behold there was a Swarm of Bees in his Body, with Honey.

9. Which he took in his Hands, and going on eating, went to his Parents, to whom he gave, and they eat; yet he did not tell them, that he took the Honey out of the Body of the Lion.

10. Moreover his Father went down to the Woman; and Samson made there an Entertainment, for so the young Men did.

11. And when they saw him, they fetched thirty Companions to be with him.

Ver. 15. set—dressed] Heb. done, which clearly enough denotes this with before, as in the English Margin.

Ib. a Kid of the Goats] As in Gen. xxvii. 9, 16.

Ver. 16. Victuals] the Kid.

Ver. 18. wonderful] An Adjective from the Verb used in the following Verse, the feminine of which, according to Buxtorf, is in Psa. cxxxix. 6. Montan. Castal. and the Vulgate have it rendered mirabile; Jun. and Trem. mirificus; the Septuag. θαυμαστόν; the Targ. מופלא, all being wonderful or admirable: which his Name was, too much for mortal Man to know, Rev. ii. 17. His Action of ascending shews, that he did not want to keep it secret, for thereby he made himself known. Coverdale also has it as here.

Ver. 21. then] when the Angel so went up.

Ver. 23. according to the Time] when he prayed for it, Ver. 8, 9.

Ver. 25. began &c.] Tynd. quite out of the Way, and so not followed, thus, beganne fyrste to be wyth the banys of Dan.

Ib. to move him] So the Hebrew Word only is; besides that it would not have begun to do so after the first Time. It appears to relate to what follows by Ver. 4. of the next Chap. as Jun. and Trem. also put it. So the Motions of the Spirit are prayed for in the Collect for the first Sunday in Lent.

Ib. The Camp of Dan] a Place so called as related Chap. xviii. 12. for it is not likely the Philistines would suffer the Danites to keep a Camp at this Time, Ver. 1. Chap. xiv. 4. & xv. 10. nor would Samson then have acted alone against the Philistines.

Ver. 4. ruled] Tynd. raygned.

Ver. 8. Body] not the same Word as before.

12. Upon this Samson said to them; I will propose now a Riddle to you: which if you at all tell me in the seven Days of the Entertainment, of your own finding out, I will give you thirty Sheets, and so many Suits of Cloaths;

13. But if you cannot tell me, you shall give me thirty Sheets, and so many Suits of Cloaths. And they said to him, Propose thy Riddle, that we may hear it.

14. He then said to them, There came Meat out of the Eater, and Sweetness out of the Strong. And they could not tell the Riddle in three Days.

15. However on the seventh Day they said to Samson's Wife, Entice thy Husband, that he may tell us the Riddle, lest we should burn thee and thy Father's Family with Fire: you called us to get what we have, did not you?

16. Therefore Samson's Wife wept before him, and said, Thou only slightest me, and dost not love me; having proposed a Riddle to the Sons of my People, and not informed me. And he answered her, Lo I have not told my Father nor Mother, and should I tell thee?

17. Nevertheless she having wept before him the seven Days, on which they had the Entertainment; on the seventh Day he told her, because she pressed him, and she told the Riddle to the Sons of her People..

18. So the Men of the City said to him on the seventh Day, before the Sun set, What is sweeter than Honey? And what is stronger than a Lion? To whom he said, Unless you had ploughed with my Heifer, you would not have found out my Riddle.

19. And the Spirit of the Lord coming upon him, he went down to Ashkelon, and killed thirty Men of them, whose Plunder he took, and gave Suits to those who told the Riddle; afterwards being angry, he went up to his Father's House.

20. Whereupon Samson's Wife became his Companion's, who had been a Friend to him.

C H A P. XV.

YET after some Time, in the Days of Wheat-harvest, Samson visited his Wife with a Kid of the Goats, and said, Let me go in to my Wife, into the Chamber; but her Father would not suffer him to go in.

2. For he pleaded, I fully concluded that thou didst utterly slight her, so I gave her to thy Companion: Is not her younger Sister better than she? Have her, I pray, instead of this.

3. At which Samson pronounced of them, I shall be innocent this Time from the Philistines, though I do them hurt.

4. So he went and caught three hundred Foxes; he next took Torches, and turning one Tail to another, put a Torch in the middle between them.

5. Then setting the Torches on fire, he sent them into the standing Corn of the Philistines; and burnt up as well the Shocks as standing Corn, with the Vineyards and Olives.

6. And upon the Philistines asking, Who has done this? Some said, Samson the Son-in-law of the Timnite, because he took his Wife, and gave her to his Companion: therefore the Philistines went up, and burnt her and her Father with Fire.

7. But Samson denounced to them, Though you have done thus, yet I will be revenged on you, and afterwards I will cease.

8. Accordingly he smote them on the Hip and Thigh with a great Slaughter; and going down, dwelt on the Crag of the Rock Etam.

9. With that the Philistines went up, and encamped in Judah, spreading abroad in Lehi.

Ver. 12. of your own finding out] or when you have found it out. This, for aught I see, has been a Riddle to all our Expositors, which the Veil of Translation has hid from their Sight. Behold it is not for Nothing, or to be preposterous, that this Hebrew Verb is put after that for tell or declare! and see here the Occasion mentioned Ver. 4. by which Samson picked a Quarrel with the Philistines, Ver. 18. and was revenged on them for their cheating him, Ver. 19.

Ver. 14. in three Days] Understand that they then gave over seeking for the Solution, as a Thing too difficult for them; till the seventh Day, when Self-interest put them on fraudulent and violent Measures.

Ver. 15. you called &c.] Tynd. have ye called us to make us beggars or not? by the Gen. — to possess us?

Ver. 17. having wept] It seems she had wept to get the Secret every Day, either for the Philistines, or her own Curiosity.

Ib. pressed] Gen. was importunate upon.

Ver. 18. the Sun set] when the Day ended.

Ver. 19. And] If Quarrels has any Thing worth quoting for Poetry in his History of Samson, it may be here,

*When the next day had beav'd his golden head
From the soft pillow of his Sea-green bed,
And with his rising glory had possess'd
The spacious Borders of th' enlighten'd East.*

Ib. Suits] of Cloaths or Garments not here, as in Ver. 12, 13.

Ver. 20. who had been a Friend to him] The Bish. singularly that he had taken unto him.

Ver. 3. from the Philistines] from dealing wrongfully with them; so Jun. and Trem. have a Pelischthæis.

Ver. 8. on the Hip and Thigh] with the Construction as in Gen. iii. 15. and it being proverbial from a Translation, does not affect the Sense in the Original. Might it not be done with a long Weapon, forcibly swung forward and backward, by changing his Hands, to keep them off from him, of the Height to wound them there; as their Arms would be an Obstruction and Defence higher, and they might also then push in under to him? However it seems more eligible than what I see since by Jun. and Trem. that he did this with his Feet.

Ib. Hip] Tynd. leggs, with the Bishops.

10. And the Men of Judah said, Why are you come up against us? And they answered, To bind Samson we are come up, to do to him as he has done to us.

11. Three thousand Men of Judah therefore went down to the Crag of the Rock Etam, and said to Samson, Wast thou insensible that the Philistines ruled over us? Why then didst thou do this to us? Whom he answered, As they did to me, so did I to them.

12. They however said to him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may give thee up into the Power of the Philistines. And he again to them, Swear to me, that you may not fall on me.

13. To whom they made reply, No, though we will bind thee fast, and give thee up into their Power, yet will we not put thee to death at all. So they bound him with two new Cords, and brought him up from the Rock.

14. When he came to Lehi, the Philistines shouted to meet him; but the Spirit of the Lord coming upon him, the Cords that were on his Arms became like Flax which is burnt with Fire, and his Bonds were dissolved from his Hands.

15. And finding a moist Jaw-bone of an Ass, he reached out his Hand, and took it, with which he killed a thousand Men.

16. Therefore Samson said, With the Jaw-bone of an Ass, a Heap, two Heaps, with the Jaw-bone of an Ass I have killed a thousand Men.

17. And when he had done speaking, he threw the Jaw-bone out of his Hand, and called the Place Ramath-lehi.

18. Being then very thirsty, he called thus on the Lord, Thou hast given this great Preservation into the Hand of thy Servant; yet shall I now die with Thirst, and fall into the Power of the Uncircumcised?

19. But God cleaved a hollow Place that was in Lehi, out of which there came Water, and he drank, so that his Vigour came again, and he revived; therefore he named it The Fountain of Calling, which is in Lehi to this Day.

20. Moreover he judged Israel in the Time of the Philistines twenty Years.

CHAP. XVI.

SAMSON likewise went to Gaza, and seeing there a Woman who was a Harlot, he went in to her.

2. It being told the Gazites, Samson is come hither; they surrounded, and lay in wait for him all Night at the Gate of the City; and kept themselves silent so long, as they said, till the Light of the Morning, when they said they would kill him.

3. But he lying till Midnight, rose up then, and took the Doors belonging to the Gate of the City, and the two Posts, which he pulled off, with the Bar, and put upon his Shoulders; and carried them up to the Top of a Mountain which is before Hebron.

4. Again after this he loved a Woman in the Valley of Sorek, whose Name was Delilah.

5. At this the Lords of the Philistines went up to her, and said to her, Entice

Ver. 11. went down] so the Heb. is, which might very well be from the upper Part of the Rock, to a Crag at the Side of it.

Ib. Crag] If it had been the Top of the Rock, as in the common Translation, they must have brought him down from it, Ver. 13.

Ib. Wast] the present Tense being incoherent, as knowest before hast done in Time must.

Ib. Why then] The King's Translators here lost a significant Conjunction, which is in the Original, and was in the English Versions before.

Ver. 12. that—may not] Pen is a Particle of Doubting or Uncertainty, commonly rendered lest.

Ver. 17. Ramath-lehi] viz. the throwing away of the Jaw-bone.

Ver. 19. cleaved a hollow Place] Tynd. brake a great toth, Gen. — the cheektooth; imaginary.

Ib. that was in Lehi] Lehi being the Name of the Place, as well as Hebrew for a Jaw-bone, Ver. 9, 14, 17. Kimhi in his Annotations writes, והיה חסלע עשוי כמו מכתש ליהי, and the Rock was made like a Cavity; Levi Ben Gershom, שהיה שן סלע דומ' למכתש Which was the Crag of a Rock like a Cavity; and Josephus, that there gushed Water out of a Rock there, which Rock bears the Name of the Jaw to this very Day, Antiq. Lib. v. 10. Usher likewise, In quo loco, a maxilla illa Lechi nomen adepto, Deus fisso cave quodam terræ fontem produxit: in which Place, that had the Name Lehi from the Jaw-bone, God made a Fountain in a certain hollow Place cleaved in the Earth, Annal. ad A. M. 2868. It seems absurd that Samson should put a Name to a hollow Place in the Jaw-bone, a very improper one too, and that the Historian should say it was there to this Day; but still worse, that this hollow Place was in Lehi to this Day: or rather the latter is a Confutation of the former, as it is in the present Translation, and shews that the hollow Place was in Lehi the first Time, as it was the last.

Ver. 3. pulled off] Tynd. rente of, the Gen. lift away; and went away with them is idiomatical for carried them away, which does not suit very well with put them upon his shoulders after.

Ib. with the Bar] and all is an old vulgar Idiom from Tyndal, as at Chap. ix. 53. or all an Expletive as Walker lays in his English Particles.

Ver. 4. in the Valley] Gen. and Bish. by the river. him, him, and see by what his great Strength is, and how we may prevail against him, and bind him to afflict him: then will we each one give thee eleven hundred Shekels of Silver.

6. Accordingly she intreated Samson, Tell me, I pray, by what thy great Strength is, and how thou mayest be bound to afflict thee.

7. Whom he answered, If they bind me with seven green Withes, which are not dried, I shall be weak, and become like another Man.

8. So the Lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green Withes, which were not dried; and she bound him with them.

9. Now there was one who lay in wait abiding with her in the Chamber, and she said to him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. With that he broke the Withes afunder, as a Thread of Tow is broken when it has the Scent of the Fire; so his Strength was not known.

10. Therefore Delilah solicited him, Behold thou having deluded me, and spoken Lyes to me; now tell me, I pray, with what thou mayest be bound.

11. And he said to her, If they bind me fast with new Cords, that no Business has been done with, I shall be weak, and become like another Man.

12. So she took new Cords, and bound him with them, and said to him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson; there being one who lay in wait abiding in the Chamber. Whereupon he broke them afunder from his Arms like a String.

13. Upon which Delilah importuned him, Hitherto thou having deluded me, and spoken Lyes to me; tell me with what thou mayest be bound. And he said to her, If thou weavest seven Locks of my Head with a Web.

14. And having fixed it with the Pin, she said to him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. At this he awaked from his Sleep, and went away with the Pin of the Shuttle, and the Web.

15. She therefore upbraided him; How canst thou say, I love thee; when thy Heart is not with me? These three Times thou hast deluded me, and not told me in what thy great Strength is.

16. At last when she teased him with her Words every Day, and urged him, so that his Soul was shrinking to Death;

17. He told her all his Mind, saying to her, There has not come up a Razor on my Head, because I have been a Nazirite of God from my Mother's Womb: if I should be shaved, my Strength would depart from me, and I should be weak, and become like any other Man.

18. Thus Delilah seeing that he told her all his Mind, she sent for the Lords of the Philistines as follows, Come up this Time, for he has told me all his Mind. Accordingly they came up to her, and brought up the Silver with them.

19. And she made him sleep upon her Knees, and calling a Man, caused him to shave off seven Locks of his Head; thus she began to afflict him, and his Strength departed from him.

20. Then she said, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. And he awaking from his Sleep, said, I will go forth as at other Times, and shake my self. For he did not know that the Lord was departed from him.

21. Whereas the Philistines took him, and put out his Eyes; as also brought him down to Gaza, binding him with two Chains, and he ground in the Prison.

22. However the Hair of his Head began to grow, as it was when he was shaved.

23. At length the Lords of the Philistines were gathered together, to offer a great Sacrifice to Dagon their god, and to be merry: for they said, Our god has given up Samson our Enemy into our Power.

24. Whom the People seeing, praised their god: for they said, Our god has given up into our Power our Enemy, the Waster of our Country, and him who made our Slain many.

Ver. 5. by what his great Strength is] It seems he had told it was in some particular Thing, and so exposed himself to be betrayed.

Ib. eleven hundred] The Syriack and Arabick Translations have 1300.

Ib. Shekels] This being the Hebrews original Weight, is frequently omitted, as well understood; see Annot. on Gen. xxiv. 22. Our Translators add the same in the next Chapter.

Ver. 7. green Withes] the Gen. greene cords oddly.

Ver. 9. one who lay in wait abiding] both the Hebrew Words being singular, and it does not seem likely that several were concealed in the Chamber, when one also might more conveniently slip out, and call in others.

Ib. has the Scent of] In the Eng. Marg. is Heb. smelleth, without of; which being absurd, toucheth was put for it in the Text.

Ver. 13. a Web] or as the Gen. and Bish. render with more Liberty, the threedes of the woof; by Tynd. an hearre lace.

Ver. 14. Shuttle] So it is rendered Job vii. 6. A Shuttle has a little iron Pin like a knitting Needle in it, on which the Quill is put; but the Pin of a Weaver's Beam is a great Stick, and very unfit to fasten the Hair.

Ver. 16. shrinking] Heb. shortening.

Ver. 18. the Silver] Ver. 5.

Ver. 21. Prison] Heb. House of Prisoners.

Ver. 22. as it was when] For it may be supposed he did not recover his Strength till then, as this too seems the Meaning of the Hebrew, and is so rendered by Jun. and Trem.

25. Nay when their Minds were merry, they said, Call Samson, that he may make us laugh. Accordingly they called him out of the Prison, that he might make sport before them, and they set him between the Pillars.

26. But he said to the Youth who held him by the Hand, Suffer me to feel the Pillars on which the House is fixed, that I may lean upon them.

27. Now the House was full of Men and Women, and all the Lords of the Philistines were there; upon the Roof likewise were about three thousand Men and Women, looking while Samson made sport.

28. But he called thus on the Lord, O Sovereign Lord, remember me, I pray, and strengthen me, I beseech thee, only this Time, O God, that I may once be thoroughly revenged on the Philistines for my two Eyes.

29. Next he stooped down to the two middle Pillars, on which the House was fixed, and supported, one being in his right Hand, and the other in his left.

30. And he said, Let me die my self with the Philistines. Then bending with Might, the House fell upon the Lords, and all the People who were in it: thus the Dead that he killed when he died, were more than those whom he killed in his Life.

31. Lastly his Brothers, and all his Father's Family, went down, and taking him, brought him up, and buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the Grave of Manoah his Father; he having judged Israel twenty Years.

C H A P. XVII.

MOREOVER there was a Man of Mount Ephraim, whose Name was Micah.

2. And he said to his Mother, The eleven hundred Shekels of Silver of thine which were taken, so that thou didst curse, and even speak in my Hearing, behold that is with me, I took it. Whereupon she said, Thou art blessed of the Lord, my Son.

3. So he restored the eleven hundred Shekels of Silver to his Mother: but she said, I have wholly consecrated the Silver to the Lord from my Hand, for my Son to make a carved Image and a molten one; now therefore let me give it thee again.

4. However when he had restored the Silver to his Mother, she took two hundred Shekels of it, and gave them to a Founder, who made of them a carved Image, and a molten one, and they were in Micah's House.

5. Thus the Man Micah had a House of gods; he also made an Ephod and a Teraph, and filled the Hand of one of his Sons, that he might be a Priest to him.

6. At that Time there being no King in Israel, each one did what he thought fit.

7. And there was a young Man from Beth-lehem-judah, from a Family of Judah; who was a Levite, and sojourned there.

8. Which Man went from the City of Beth-lehem-judah, to sojourn in the Place which he should find; and making his Journey, came to Mount Ephraim, to Micah's House.

9. To whom Micah said, From whence comest thou? And he answered him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and am going to sojourn in the Place which I shall find.

10. And Micah replied to him, Dwell with me; and be to me a Father and a Priest, and I will give thee ten Shekels of Silver for a Year, with a Suit of Cloaths, and thy Victuals. So the Levite went.

11. Nay he liked to dwell with the Man, and the young Man was to him as one of his Sons.

12. Micah also filled the Hand of the Levite, that the young Man might be a Priest to him: thus he was in Micah's House.

13. Then Micah said, Now I know that the Lord will do well for me, because I have a Levite for a Priest.

C H A P. XVIII.

AT the very same Time there being no King in Israel, the Tribe of the Danites sought them Possession to dwell in; because there had not sufficient fallen to them to that Time, among the Tribes of Israel.

Ver. 29. stooped down] Thus Montanus's literal Version and the Lexicons have it, viz. inclinavit; and so Kimbi expounds it. The present Bible in the other two Places where the Word is found, viz. Ruth iii. 8. Job vi. 18. has turned.

Ver. 2. From Stealing and Cursing sprung Superstition. Ib. so that] or Heb. and, being the common Conjunction.

Ver. 3. So he restored the eleven hundred Shekels of Silver to his Mother: but she said] left out of the Bible according to Pope Sixtus.

Ver. 4. However when] It is in the common Bible as if he restored it twice to her.

Ver. 1. to that Time] which may shew it not to be very long after Joshua's Decease; and as the Place was

2. Therefore the People of Dan sent five Men of their Family from their Borders, out of Zorah and Eshtaol, such as were Persons of Ability, to spy the Country, and search it out; whom they bid, Go, search out the Country. So they went to Mount Ephraim, to Micah's House, and lodged there.

3. When they were by it, knowing the Voice of the young Levite, they turned aside thither, and said to him, Who brought thee hither? And what doest thou in this Place? And what hast thou here?

4. Whom he answered, Thus and thus does Micah to me, having hired me, that I might be a Priest to him.

5. Upon which they said to him, Ask, we pray, of God, that we may know whether our Journey which we are going will be prosperous.

6. And the Priest replied to them, Go in Peace: your Journey which you shall go is before the Lord.

7. So the five Men went on, and came to Laish; and saw the People who were within it dwelling quiet and very secure, after the Manner of the Zidonians, and there was none possessing Rule who exposed them to shame for any Thing in the Country; they were also far from the Zidonians, and had no Business with other Men.

8. And when they came to their Brethren, at Zorah and Eshtaol, their Brethren said to them, What is there with you?

9. Who said; Get ready, and let us go up against them; for we have seen plainly that the Country is very good; and you have been silent: be not slothful in going to enter in, to possess it.

10. When you come, you will come to a People secure, and a Country of large Extent; for God has given it up into your Power: a Place where there is no Want of any Thing that is on the Earth.

11. Accordingly there marched from thence of the Family of the Danites, out of Zorah and Eshtaol, six hundred Men girded with Weapons of War.

12. And they went up, and encamped at Kirjath-jearim in Judah; therefore they call that Place The Camp of Dan to this Day, being there behind Kirjath-jearim.

13. Next they passed from thence to Mount Ephraim, and came to Micah's House.

14. And the five Men who went to spy the Country of Laish spoke thus to their Brethren; Do ye know that there are in these Houses an Ephod, Teraph, carved Image, and molten one? Now therefore understand what you may do.

15. They also turned aside thither, and went into the young Levite's House, that of Micah; and asked him of his Welfare.

16. In the mean time the six hundred Men, who were of the People of Dan, stood at the Entrance of the Gate, girded with their Weapons of War.

17. And the foregoing five Men went up, entered in thither, took the carved Image, Ephod, Teraph, and molten Image; while the Priest stood at the Entrance of the Gate, with the others above mentioned.

18. However when these had gone into the House of Micah, and taken the said Things, the Priest demanded of them, What are you doing?

19. But they answered him, Hold thy Peace, put thy Hand upon thy Mouth, and go with us, that thou mayest be to us a Father and Priest: which is best for thee, to be a Priest to the Family of one Man, or to be so to a Tribe and Family in Israel?

20. Glad at his Heart of this, the Priest took the Ephod, Teraph, and carved Image; and went into the midst of the People.

21. Then they turned and went away; putting the Children, Cattle, and Carriage before them.

22. When they were far off from Micah's House, the Men who were in the Houses by his were called together, and overtook the People of Dan;

23. And called to them; who turned about their Faces, and said to Micah, What is the matter with thee, that you are called together?

now called The Camp of Dan, Ver. 12. this Piece of History also seems earlier than it is placed, because we meet with the Name before, Chap. xiii. 25.

Ver. 7. very secure] The Heb. Word which we have translated careless, being the same with that which is secure.

Ib. secure] by the Bishops and Tyndal without casting of perils, Gen. sure.

Ver. 11. girded] If the last Translators of this Book had not been negligent, they would scarce have kept the appointed here and Ver. 16, 17. of the former translating, since the Hebrew Word has no such Meaning.

Ver. 12. at] in contradicts behind.

Ver. 17. five Men] After the Priest and they had went out to the Gate to the others, who might retain him there.

Ib. went up] Suppose to the Chamber, where these Things were kept.

Ver. 19. best] as well as better, which does not accord with or.

Ver. 20. took the Ephod, &c.] as lighter Things, I suppose, than the Image of Metal, which he let them carry.

Ib. went into the midst] To hide and secure himself. This Verb when it does not signify came or went to, is entered or went into, not barely went; yet after the Manner of the Hebrew Tongue, it may be constructed with a Preposition signifying into.

Ver. 23. them] so in Tyndal's and the Bishops Bibles; and also it for the name of the city, Ver. 29. in both.

24. Ye have taken my gods, said he, that I made, with the Priest, and are gone; and what have I more? Why then do ye ask me, What is the matter with thee?

25. Whereas they replied to him, Let not thy Voice be heard with us; lest Men of a bitter Mind should fall on you, and thou shouldest have thy Life taken away, with those of thy Family.

26. And they went on their Way; Micah likewise seeing that they were stronger than he, turned, and went back to his House.

27. Thus having taken what Micah made, and the Priest whom he had, they came to Laish, to a People quiet and secure, whom they put to the Sword, and burnt the City with Fire.

28. For there was none who delivered, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no Business with other Men; it being in the Vale which is at the House of Rehob: afterwards they rebuilt the City, and dwelt therein;

29. The Name of which they called Dan, by that of Dan their Father, who was born to Israel; although the Name of the City was Laish at first.

30. Now the People of Dan set them up the carved Image; and Jonathan the Son of Gershom, the Son of Manasseh, and his Sons, were Priests to the Tribe of the Danites, till the Time of the Captivity of the Country.

31. And they put up for themselves Micah's carved Image which he made, all the Time the House of God was at Shiloh.

C H A P. XIX.

AND at that Time, when there was no King in Israel, there was a certain Levite who sojourned on the Side of Mount Ephraim, and took him a Concubine from Beth-lehem-judah.

2. But his Concubine committing Fornication against him, went away from him to her Father's House, at Beth-lehem-judah, and was there the Space of four Months.

3. Whereupon her Husband got ready, and went after her, to speak kindly to her, that he might bring her back again; having his young Man with him, and a Couple of Asses: and she brought him into her Father's House; whom when the Father of the young Woman saw, he was glad to meet him.

4. He his Father-in-law also held him so fast, that he staid with him three Days; during which they eat, drank, and lodged there.

5. And on the fourth Day they rose early in the Morning, he getting ready to go away; but the young Woman's Father said to his Son-in-law, Support thy Heart with a Bit of Victuals, and afterwards you may go.

6. So they sat down eating and drinking both of them together; then the former said to the Man, be content, I pray, to abide all Night, and let thy Heart be chearful.

7. Nevertheless he rose up to go; but his Father-in-law was so pressing on him, that he lodged there again.

8. He likewise rose early in the Morning on the fifth Day, to go away; but the young Woman's Father said, Support thy Heart, I pray: so they staid till the Day declined, and dined both of them.

9. Again the Man rose up to go, with his Concubine and young Man; whereas the other said to him, Behold now the Day is declining to be Evening, I beg you would stay all Night; so it is the concluding of the Day, lodge here, and let thy Heart be chearful; then you may rise early to Morrow for

Ver. 24. Why] as at Gen. xxvii. 20.

Ver. 25. you] The Heb. has you, and the old. Lat. thee; therefore our English Translations were here manifestly made from the latter.

Ver. 30. them] This the King's Translators left out, though it was in the foregoing English Bibles.

Ib. Manasseh] This is taken to be Moses, because he had a Son Gershom, for which the Jews set up one of the Letters out of its Place, that the rest may be capable of being Moses, and accordingly the old Lat. has it so; but as there was Gershom too, the Son of Levi, there might also be another, rather than Manasseh, either the Son or Brother of this, as some others put it; and a Grandson of Moses would scarce be so put to his Shifts as at Chap. xvii. 8, 10. Of the Posterity of Moses see 1 Chron. xxiii. 15, 16, 17.

Ver. 31. put] different from that in the Verse before.

Ver. 5. Support] See Gen. xviii. 5.

Ver. 6. For a short Instance how Commentators can trifle, the Gen. Version has here in the Margin to young woman's father for Explanation, "That is, his concubine's father;" but what did the Readers do for Want of it in the three Verses before?

Ver. 9. be Evening] the Hebrew Word for which being arab, the ingenious Criticism of our learned Hyde, in his first Note on the 2d Chapter of the Hebrew Treatise ארבת אורחת עולם may well be received, that from this Verb came the Name of Europe; to which this particular Text, not noted by him, may give farther Light and Confirmation.

your Journey, and thou mayest go to thy Tent.

10. However the Man would not abide all Night, but rising up, went away, and came over against Jebus, which is Jerusalem; there being with him the Couple of Asses saddled, as also his Concubine.

11. When they were by Jebus, the Day was much gone down; so that the young Man said to his Master, Come, please to let us turn aside to this City of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12. Whom his Master answered, We will not turn aside thither to a strange City, which is not of the Israelites; but will pass on to Gibeah.

13. Come, added he to him, let us however draw near to one of the Places, and lodge either at Gibeah or Ramah.

14. Accordingly they passed on, and as they were going, the Sun set to them by Gibeah, which is of Benjamin.

15. Therefore they turned aside thither, to go in to lodge there; and being gone in, he sat down in a Street of the City, because there was no Man who took them to a House to lodge.

16. At length behold an old Man came from his Work, out of the Field in the Evening, who was of Mount Ephraim, and sojourned in Gibeah; but the Men of the Place were Benjaminites.

17. And when he looked up, and saw a Man that was a Passenger in the Street of the City, he said, Whither art thou going? And from whence dost thou come?

18. We are passing, said he to him, from Beth-lehem-judah, to the Side of Mount Ephraim, whence I am; and having been at Beth-lehem-judah, am going to the House of the Lord, but no Man takes me to a House.

19. Yet there is both Straw and Provender for our Asses, and there is also Bread and Wine for me and my Handmaid, as likewise for the young Man with thy Servants: there being no Want of any Thing.

20. But the old Man said, Peace be to thee, let all thy Want be alone upon me, only lodge not in the Street.

21. Thus he brought him to his House, and gave the Asses Provender; and the Persons washing their Feet, did eat and drink.

22. When they were making their Hearts chearful, behold some Men of the City, such as were ungodly Persons, surrounded the House, knocking at the Door; and spoke thus to the old Man the Master of the House, Bring out the Man who came into thy House, that we may have knowledge of him.

23. To whom he going out, said; Do not, my Brethren, do not wickedly, I pray: as it is after this Man is come into my House, do not this Vileness.

24. Here is my Daughter a Virgin, and his Concubine, whom I would now bring out, and humble you them, nay do to them what you like; but to this Man do not a Thing of this Vileness.

25. At last when they would not hearken to him, the Man took hold of his Concubine, and brought out to them abroad: who had knowledge of her, and made sport with her all Night till the Morning; and when that dawned, they let her go.

26. And the Woman came at the Appearance of the Morning, and fell down at the Gate of the Man's House, where her Lord was, till it was light.

27. So that when he got up in the Morning, and opening the Doors of the House, went out to go on his Way, behold his Concubine was fallen down at the Gate of the House, with her Hands upon the Threshold.

CHAP. XX.

WITH that all the Israelites went out, and the Assembly was gathered together as one Man, from Dan to Beer-sheba, with the Province of Gilead, to the Lord at Mizpeh.

2. And the uttermost of all the People, of all the Tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the Congregation of the People of God, four hundred thousand Footmen who drew a Sword.

3. The Benjaminites hearing that the Israelites were gone thither; who said, Do you tell how this Wickedness was.

4. To which the Man that was the Levite, the Husband of the Woman who was murdered, made answer; To Gibeah which is of Benjamin, came I and my Concubine to lodge.

5. And the Owners of it getting ready, surrounded the House, against me at Night: me they intended to kill, and my Concubine they humbled, so that she died.

6. Therefore I took hold of her, and dividing her in Pieces, sent her into all the Country of the Possession of Israel; because they had done heinously and vilely in Israel.

7. Behold all of you are Israelites; give a Word and Counsel in this Case.

8. At this all the People rose up as one Man, and said; Let not any one of us go to his Tent, nor any one depart to his House.

9. But now let this Thing which we shall do to Gibeah, be done by Lot against it.

10. For let us take ten Men of a hundred from all the Tribes of Israel, a hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, to fetch Provision for the People; that they may do at their coming to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the Vileness which it has done in Israel.

11. Thus all the Men of Israel were gathered against the City, joined together as one Man.

12. However the Tribes of Israel sent Men into all those of Benjamin to say; What is this Wickedness which has been among you?

13. Now therefore give up the Men, the ungodly Persons, who are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and take away Wickedness from Israel. But those of Benjamin would not hearken to what their Brethren the Israelites said.

14. On the contrary the Benjaminites got together from the Cities to Gibeah, to go out to Battle with them.

15. And they numbered themselves at that Time from the Cities, twenty six thousand Men who drew a Sword; besides the Inhabitants of Gibeah, who numbered themselves seven hundred chosen Men.

16. Out of all this People were seven hundred chosen Men that could not use their right Hand; all of whom could sling a Stone to a Hair, and not miss.

17. The Men of Israel likewise numbered themselves, besides Benjamin, four hundred thousand Men that drew a Sword; all of whom were Warriors.

18. Moreover the Israelites getting ready, went up to the House of God, and asked of him in this manner, Which of us shall go up first to the Battle with the Benjaminites? And the Lord said, Judah first.

19. After which the Israelites rose up in the Morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20. The Men of Israel also went out to Battle with Benjamin, with whom they set the Battle in order at Gibeah.

21. But the Benjaminites came out thence, and destroyed of Israel that Day twenty two thousand Men to the Ground.

22. Nevertheless their People strengthened themselves, and set the Battle again in order, in the Place where they did the first Day.

23. For the Israelites went up, and wept before the Lord till the Evening, and asked of him as follows, Shall I draw nigh again to Battle with the People of Benjamin my Brother? And the Lord said, Go up against him.

24. So they went near to the Benjaminites on the second Day.

25. Who came out of Gibeah to meet them the same Day, and destroyed of them again eighteen thousand Men to the Ground, all of whom drew a Sword.

26. Upon which all the Israelites, even the whole People, went up, and came to the House of God, and fasted weeping there before the Lord, and fasted that Day till the Evening; when they offered up Burnt-offerings and Peace-offerings before the Lord.

27. They also asked of him, the Ark of the Covenant of God being there at that Time;

28. When Phinehas the Son of Eleazer, the Son of Aaron, stood before it, and said, Shall I again any more go out to Battle with the People of Benjamin my Brother, or shall I cease? And the Lord answered, Go up, for to Morrow I will give him up into thy Power.

29. Accordingly after having set some who lay in wait at Gibeah round about;

30. They went up against the Benjaminites on the third Day, and set the Army in order at Gibeah as at other Times.

31. Who coming out to meet the People, were drawn away from the City, and began to smite of them; there being slain as at other Times in the Highways, of which one went up to the House of God, and one to Gibeah in the Field, about thirty Men of Israel:

32. Insomuch that the Benjaminites said, They are defeated before us as at the Beginning. But the Israelites had concluded, We will flee, that we may draw them away from the City to the Highways.

33. Next all the Men of Israel getting ready from their Place, set the Army in order at Baaltamar; and those who lay in wait of Israel came out of their Place from the naked Side of Gibeah.

34. For there were gone at a distance from Gibeah, ten thousand Men chosen out of all Israel, so that the Battle was grievous; however they did not know what Harm there was coming upon them.

35. But the Lord defeated Benjamin before Israel, so that the Israelites destroyed of them on that Day, twenty five thousand and a hundred Men; all of whom drew a Sword.

36. The Benjaminites too foresaw that they should be defeated: for the Men of Israel gave place to them, because they trusted to those that lay in wait, whom they had set against Gibeah.

37. And those making haste, rushed on Gibeah; nay spreading out, smote all the City with the Edge of the Sword.

38. Besides the Men of Israel had an appointed Time with those, for them to make a Smoak ascend on high from the City.

39. Then they turned about in the Battle, when Benjamin had begun to smite, there being slain of them about thirty Men; for they said, Verily they are quite defeated before us as at the former Battle.

40. But when the Pillar of Smoak began to mount up from the City, those of Benjamin looked behind them, and behold the whole Burning of the City went up towards Heaven.

41. The Men of Israel also turning about, they were troubled; for they saw that there was Harm come upon them.

42. They therefore turned away before the Men of Israel to the Way of the Wilderness, but the Battle followed them close; and such as were from the Cities they destroyed among them.

43. They inclosed those of Benjamin, pursued them, trod them down with Ease, over against Gibeah, towards the Sun-rising.

44. Thus there fell of them eighteen thousand Men, all these being valiant ones.

45. And when they turned away, and were fleeing towards the Wilderness to the Rock Rimmon, they gleaned of them in the Highways five thousand Men; nay followed close after them to Gidom, and killed two thousand more of them.

46. So that all of Benjamin who fell on that Day, were twenty five thousand Men who drew the Sword, all these being valiant Men.

47. But six hundred Men turned away, and fled towards the Wilderness to the Rock Rimmon, where they abode four Months.

48. Nay the Men of Israel turned back to the Benjaminites, and put of them to the Sword, not only the Citizens but the Beasts, and all that were found; all the Cities too which were in their Way they set on fire.

C H A P. XXI.

NOW the Men of Israel had sworn thus at Mizpeh, There shall no Man of us give those of Benjamin his Daughter for a Wife.

2. The People therefore went to the House of God, and abiding there till the Evening before God, made great and loud Lamentation,

3. And said, Why, O Lord God of Israel, is this come to pass in Israel, that one Tribe of it is now wanting?

4. As also on the next Day they rose early, and building there an Altar, offered Burnt-offerings and Peace-offerings.

5. And the Israelites said, Who is there that did not come up among the Congregation of all the Tribes of Israel, to the Lord? For there was a great Oath concerning him who came not up to the Lord at Mizpeh, that he should be quite put to death.

6. Thus repenting for Benjamin their Brother, they said, There is one Tribe cut off now from Israel.

7. What shall we do for Wives for those who are left, since we have sworn by the Lord, that we will give them none of our Daughters for Wives?

8. But they said, What one is there of the Tribes of Israel that did not come to the Lord at Mizpeh? And lo there did not come up a Man, to the Congregation of the Camp, from Jabesh-gilead.

9. For the People numbered themselves, and behold no Man of its Inhabitants was there.

10. Whereupon the Assembly sent thither twelve thousand Men of the valiant ones, whom they commanded as follows; Go, and put the Inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead to the Sword, with the Women and Children.

11. For this is the Thing that you shall do, Every Male, and every Woman who has known lying with one, you shall destroy.

12. And they found of its Inhabitants four hundred young Women that were Virgins, who did not know a Man by lying with him; whom they brought to the Camp at Shiloh, which is in the Country of Canaan.

13. Then all the Assembly sent, that they might speak to the Benjaminites who were Israelites turned themselves to the Battle; when the Benjaminites had begun. But it was before in their Version, taking in the foregoing Verse, And when the appointed Time was to the Israelites with those who lay in wait—the Israelites turned themselves to the Battle; but the Benjaminites had begun. The verbal Transf. of Santes and Ar. Mont. is, vertit se vir Israel in praelium, the Man of Israel turned himself into the Battle. Castalis has, Israelitas praelium instaurarent, the Israelites renewed the Fight.

Ver. 40. Our Translators were hard put to it for Words, or remiss in what they were doing, to render two different Hebrew Words flame in one Verse, neither of which has such a Meaning.

Ver. 42. followed—close] The same Verb is in Ver. 45. overtook is unsuitable, because they were together before.

Ver. 43. pursued them, trod them down] How much more elegant without the Conjunctions, as in the Hebrew, notwithstanding our Translators putting in and to each!

1b. with Ease] Tynd. to Menuah, Bish. at Menuah, putting it, as the Gen. also do to the foregoing Verb, by striding over the Hebrew Point.

Ver. 45. were fleeing] Not fled unto the rock, since only 600 got thither, Ver. 47. and the far greater Part were killed in attempting it.

Ver. 48. of them] While them being without of, belongs in a certain Translation to children before, and to beast after.

Ver. 3. is wanting] by the Gen. ill expressed should want.

at the Rock Rimmon, calling them peaceably.

14. Accordingly those of Benjamin returned at that Time, and they gave them the Women whom they had kept alive of those of Jabesh-gilead; but there were not sufficient for them so.

15. And People repented for Benjamin, because the Lord had made a Breach in the Tribes of Israel.

16. Moreover the Elders of the Assembly said, What shall we do for Wives for those who are left, since the Women are destroyed from Benjamin?

17. They reasoned further; The Inheritance is for such as are escaped of Benjamin, that there may not be a Tribe blotted out of Israel.

18. However we cannot give them Wives of our Daughters, because the Israelites have sworn thus, Let him be cursed who gives those of Benjamin a Wife.

19. At last they concluded, Behold there is a Feast of the Lord at Shiloh from Year to Year, which is kept on the North of the House of God, towards the Sun-rising, at the Highway that goes up from the House of God to Shechem; and on the South of Lebanon.

20. Therefore they commanded the Benjaminites as follows; Go, and lie in wait in the Vineyards.

21. Where look, and behold if the Daughters of Shiloh come out to Dancing; you shall go forth thence, and seize you each one his Wife of them, and go to the Country of Benjamin.

22. Afterwards when their Fathers or Brothers come to contend with us, we will say to them, Favour us concerning them; since we did not take for each his Wife in the War; and you did not give to them, as at the Time you might have been guilty.

23. And the Benjaminites did so; for they took Wives after their Number, of those that danced, whom they took by Force: then they went back to their Possession, and rebuilding the Cities, dwelt in them.

24. The Israelites also went from thence at that Time, each to his Tribe and Family; going out thence to their respective Possessions.

25. In those Days there being no King in Israel, each one did what he thought fit.

Ver. 15. Breach] Tynd. gappe.

Ver. 17. The Inheritance] that before belonged to Benjamin.

Ver. 19. kept] added for Clearness, as celebrator by Jun. and Trem. to shew that this belongs to the Feast, not to Shiloh. And though our Translators seem of another Mind, by putting the Feast in Shiloh; is it not too ridiculous for the People thus to describe the Situation of the City where they were, Ver. 12? but not at all to speak so of an annual Feast and Recreation by it.

Ib. the House of God] So Jun. and Trem. whose Version, answerable to their great Diligence, may be valued as much as that of half a Dozen others at least, and therefore fit to afford more frequent Quotation, and greater Authority. This House, which was the Tabernacle, or publick Tent, might be at some Distance from Shiloh, though belonging to it, as at Exod. xxxiii. 7. And would not they have much likelier said, the festival Place was on the East of Shiloh, than on the North of Beth-el?

Ib. towards the Sun-rising] From Shiloh where they were. Our English Translation disagrees with the Hebrew Pointing.

Ver. 22. to contend with us] or against us. The same Verb is constructed with the same Preposition, Job xxxiii. 13. Jer. ii. 29. & xii. 1. Jun. and Trem. have apud us, Munst. and Les Jud. nobiscum, with us; as likewise Coverdale has, with us; the old Lat. adversum vos, against you; Pagn. ante nos, before us. The Verb does not signify to complain, which is the old Lat. queri. And the Preposition is joined with contend, not with come.

Ib. concerning them] or with them. The Hebrew lies as here translated, and not as in the English Bible, which has it backward; but the Bishops, Have pity on us for their sakes.

NOTES upon the BOOK of RUTH.

CHAP. I.

AND in the Time that the Judges governed, a Famine being in the Country, there was a Man of Beth-lehem-judah went to sojourn in the Region of Moab, with his Wife and two Sons :

2. Who were Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah, he was named Elimelech, his Wife Naomi, and his two Sons Mahlon and Chilion : and when they were come thither, they settled there.

3. But Elimelech the Husband of Naomi dying, she was left with her two Sons.

4. Who married Women of Moab, the Name of one being Orpah, and that of the other Ruth ; and they dwelt there about ten Years.

5. Mahlon and Chilion also both of them died ; so that the Woman was left without her two Sons and her Husband.

6. After which she got ready with her Daughters-in-law, to go back from thence : for she heard there, that the Lord had visited his People by giving them Bread.

7. But as she was going with them both from the Place where she had been, in the Way back to the Country of Judah,

8. She said to them ; Go again each to your Mother's House : the Lord shew Kindness to you, as you have shewn both to the Dead and me.

9. The Lord grant you, that each may find Rest at your Husband's House. Then she kissed them ; but they burst out a crying, 10. And said to her, No, for we will return with thee to thy People.

11. Naomi however replied, Turn back, my Daughters, why would you go with me ? Shall I have Sons any more within me, to be Husbands for you ?

12. Go back again, my Daughters ; for I am too old to have a Husband : nay though I should think there is Hope for me, should even have a Husband to Night, and also bear Sons ;

13. Would you wait for them till they grew up ? Would you stay for them without having Husbands ? No, my Daughters ; for it is very grievous to me for your sakes, that the Hand of the Lord has come forth against me.

14. Whereupon they burst out a crying again ; and Orpah kissed her Mother-in-law, but Ruth cleaved to her.

15. Nay when she said, Behold thy Sister-in-law is gone back to her People, and to her gods ; return thou after her.

16. Ruth answered ; Do not intreat me to leave thee, by going back from thee : for I will go whither thou goest, and lodge where thou dost ; thy People shall be mine, and thy God my God.

17. Where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried : by the Lord's doing to me so and so besides, Death only shall make a separation between me and thee.

18. And when Naomi saw that she was re-

The Case might be, that this first Chap. if not the Book, was a Memoir made by Naomi her self, who was so illiterate, or forgetful in her Language through Disuse of it for several Years, that she might mistake by putting the Masc. for the Fem. especially as it is here all the same, and the Sound so near alike as m and n ; and it might be thought best to preserve her own Words. Here will now be no Need of answering this Writer's Scoffs at the Jews. And his objecting so often against the Hebrew Text, when the Margin rectifies it, without mentioning the latter, is very disingenuous. As the Margin shews where the Text has been corrupted, that is an Argument against its being corrupted elsewhere.

19. So they both went on till they got to Beth-lehem; and being entered into it, all the City was in a Commotion about them, and they said, Is this Naomi?

20. Whom she answered; Do not call me Naomi; call me Mara, because the Almighty has made it very bitter to me.

21. I went away full, and the Lord has brought me back empty: why do you call me Naomi, when the Lord has testified against me, and the Almighty has afflicted me?

22. Thus she returned, accompanied with Ruth the Moabitess her Daughter-in-law, from the Country of Moab, and they came to Beth-lehem at the Beginning of Barley-harvest.

C H A P. II.

NOW Naomi had a Kinsman of her Husband Elimelech's Family, a very wealthy Man, whose Name was Boaz.

2. And Ruth the Moabitess said to her, Let me go, I pray, to the Field, and glean Corn after him whom I shall get in Favour with; who answered her, Go, my Daughter.

3. Accordingly she went, and being come, gleaned in the Field after the Reapers; and her Lot fell out to be in a Part of it belonging to this Boaz:

4. Who behold coming out of Beth-lehem, said to the Reapers, The Lord be with you; and they answered him, The Lord bless thee.

5. Then he said to his Servant that was set over the Reapers, Whose young Woman is this?

6. And he made answer; It is the young Woman of Moab, who came back with Naomi out of that Country,

7. And she said, Be pleased to let me glean about among the Sheaves, after the Reapers. So she went, and has remained since the Morning, till now she has staid this little while in the House.

8. Upon this Boaz accosted Ruth; Dost not thou hear, my Daughter? Go not to glean in another Field, nor pass from hence; but keep close here with my Maids.

9. Let thy Eyes be on the Field in which they reap, that thou mayest follow them; have not I charged the young Men not to meddle with thee? Nay when thou art thirsty, go to the Vessels, and drink of what they have drawn.

10. At which she fell on her Face, bowing down to the Ground, and said to him, Why am I in favour with thee, that thou shouldest take notice of me, since I am a Stranger?

11. To whom Boaz made answer; All which thou didst with thy Mother-in-law after thy Husband's Death, has been fully told me, that thou ledest thy own Father and Mother, with thy native Country, and wast come to a People whom thou knewest not before.

12. The Lord recompense thy Work, and let a Reward be rendered to thee from the Lord God of Israel, under whose Wings thou art come to be sheltered.

13. And she replied, Let me be in Favour with thee, my Lord; since thou hast comforted me, and since thou hast spoken kindly to thy Handmaid; though I am not comparable to one of thy own.

14. Boaz also said to her, At Meal-time approach hither, and eat of the Victuals, and dip thy Bit in the Vinegar. Nay as she was sitting at one Side of the Reapers, he held out parched Corn to her, of which she eat, till she was satisfied, and left.

15. Besides when she got up to glean, he thus commanded his young Men; Let her glean even between the Sheaves, and do not reproach her.

16. And make also a good Booty for her out of the Handfuls; which leave, that she may glean, and do not chide her.

17. So she gleaned in the Field till the Evening; and beating out what she had gleaned, it was about an Ephah of Barley.

18. This she took up, and going into the City, when her Mother-in-law saw what it was, and she had taken out, and given her that which she had left more than satisfied her self;

Ver. 20. Naomi, pleasant; Mara, bitter.

Ver. 12. recompense] Tynd. quyte, and the Bish.

Ib. to be sheltered] Which is the primary Signification of the Verb according to Buxtorf, who has turned this, ad recipiendum te. Jun. and Trem. render, ut te abegeres, that thou mayest cover or hide thee; Munster, latitare, to hide; Leo Jude, quæ venisti ut sub alas ejus confugeris, who art come that thou mightst flee for shelter under his Wings; the Author of the vulg. Lat. ad quem venisti, et sub ejus confugisti alas, to whom thou art come, and under whose Wings thou art fled for shelter; Castal. sub ejus alarum præsidium tu te receperis, under the Protection or Shelter of whose Wings thou mayest get thee.

Ver. 16. make—a good Booty] Heb. by spoiling spoil; and it does not signify of purpose, which is the old Lat. de industria; whence also the Bish. render for the nonce. But Tynd. has, And therto pul out of the sheaves for her and let it lie, Gen. the like.

Ib. Handfuls] or Griper, as the Husbandmen call them, before they are bound up in Sheaves.

Ver. 17. about] Tynd. and Bish. upon.

Ver. 18. had left] that is of the parched Corn which Boaz gave her, Ver. 14.

19. Her Mother-in-law said to her, Where hast thou gleaned to Day? And where been at work? Let him be blessed who took notice of thee. And she told her that the Man's Name with whom she wrought that Day was Boaz.

20. The Lord bless him, replied Naomi to her, who has not forsaken his Benevolence both to the Living and the Dead. To which she added, The Man is near to us, he is one of our Kinsmen.

21. Ruth the Moabitess further related, that he likewise said to her, Keep close with my young Men, till they have finished all my Harvest.

22. Naomi answered her again, It will be well, my Daughter, to go out with his Maids; for they may not meet with thee in another Field.

23. She accordingly kept close to the Maids of Boaz in gleaning, till Barley-harvest and Wheat-harvest were ended; and dwelt with her Mother-in-law.

C H A P. III.

AFTER which she said to her; My Daughter, should not I seek for thee Rest? Which will be good for thee.

2. And now is not Boaz our Kinsman, whose Maids thou wast with? Behold he winnows Barley to Night in the Floor.

3. So wash and anoint thy self, and putting on thy Cloaths, go down thither; without being known to the Man, till he has done eating and drinking.

4. And when he is lain down, thou knowing where the Place is, shalt go in, and uncover his Feet, and lie down; then he will tell thee, what thou shalt do.

5. Whereupon she answered her, I will do all that thou hast said to me.

6. Accordingly she went down to the Floor, and did entirely as her Mother-in-law ordered her.

7. For when Boaz had eat and drunk, so that his Heart was chearful, and was gone in to lie down at the End of the Heap of Corn; she went in secretly, and uncovering his Feet, lay down.

8. Frightened therefore at Midnight, the Man bending down, there was a Woman lay at his Feet.

9. Then he said, Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thy Handmaid; so spread thy Skirt over her, for thou art a Kinsman.

10. To which he replied: The Lord bless thee, my Daughter, who hast made the latter Kindness better than the former, in not going after young Men, whether poor or rich.

11. Now therefore, my Daughter, do not fear; I will do for thee whatever thou shalt say: for all those of the Gate of my People are sensible that thou art a worthy Woman.

12. And now though it be true that I am a Kinsman, yet there is one nearer than I.

13. Stay all Night, and in the Morning if he will redeem for thee, it is well, let him; but if he is not willing to do it, by the Lord's living, I will redeem for thee: lie down till the Morning.

14. Which she did at his Feet, but rose up before one could know another: for he said, Let it not be known that a Woman came to the Floor.

15. He also said, Bring the Apron that thou hast on, and hold it. Which she holding, he measured six Measures of Barley, and put upon her; then he went into the City.

16. Upon her coming to her Mother-in-law, she said, Who art thou? My Daughter? To whom she told all that the Man did for her.

Ver. 20. be] which the Hebrew has: this last Part is omitted by the Vulgate.

Ib. Kinsmen] Gen. and Bish. affinitie; though Tynd. had next kin.

Ver. 22. may not meet] as you did in this Field. But what Sense does that they meet thee not make, since Naomi is not persuading Ruth to shun them, but the contrary.

Ib. another Field] whither they would go, when Harvest was done in this.

Ver. 7. Heap] of corn is not in the Hebrew, though our Translators have added it without Distinction.

Ib. secretly] Jun. and Trem. with Munst. and the Tigurin Bib. have clam; the vulg. Lat. and Pagnin. abscondite; Mont. in silentio; the Septuag. ἡ σιγή: which agree with the Radix; see Judg. iv. 21.

Ver. 8. bending down] Tynd. groped, Gen. and Bish. caught bolde.

Ver. 11. those of the Gate] the Magistrates who met there, for it is not city.

Ver. 13. redeem] See Chap. iv. 4.

Ver. 15. Apron] The Word is found only here and in Isa. iii. 22. Several render it cloak or mantle, but that is reckoned up by Isaiab besides, and so is vail. It is generally understood to be some linen Thing, or some Cloth; and the two famous Translators Jun. and Trem. turned it ventrale, Apron, which was the most proper Thing for Boaz to bid her bring; and so the Septuagint of the Septuagint is to be understood, being Something girded about her by the Derivation of the Word, and which would hold Corn. The Gen. turn it sheet.

Ib. he went] as the Hebrew is, and to do what follows, Chap. iv. 1. so Jun. and Trem. have ingressus est, as likewise Munst. and the Tigurin Bib. say the Targum has יָצָא בֹאֵז.

Ver. 16. Who] If she had known her to be her Daughter, she needed not to have asked who she was. But this Absurdity is removed, by considering it as two distinct Questions; which might be asked when she knocked at the Door for Entrance, or because it was not light enough for Naomi to know her perfectly.

17. She

17. She said withal; he gave me these six Measures of Barley: for he said to me, Go not empty to thy Mother-in-law.

18. And she replied, Sit still, my Daughter, till thou knowest how the Matter will fall: for the Man will not rest, but finish it to Day.

CHAP. IV.

NEXT Boaz went up to the Gate, and sitting down there, behold the Kinsman of whom he spoke passed along; so calling him by his Name, he said, Turn aside, sit down here: Which he did accordingly.

2. He likewise took ten Men of the Elders of the City, who sat down there, at his Request.

3. Then he said to the Kinsman: Naomi who is come back out of the Country of Moab, has Part of a Field to sell that was our Brother Elimelech's.

4. Which I thought I would inform thee of, that thou mightest buy it before the Inhabitants, and the Elders of my People: if thou wilt redeem it, do; but if thou wilt not, let me know; for there is none besides thee to do it, and I am next to thee. And he said, he would redeem it.

5. But when Boaz replied, At the Time thou buyest the Field from Naomi, thou must buy also of Ruth the Moabitess the Wife of the Dead, to raise up his Name upon his Estate;

6. The Kinsman answered, I cannot redeem it for my self, lest I should spoil my own Estate: redeem my Right for thy self, since I cannot do it.

7. Formerly in Israel upon Redemption and Exchange, to confirm every Thing, one pulled off his Shoe, and gave to another; and this was an Evidence among them.

8. Accordingly the Kinsman bidding Boaz buy it for himself, pulled off his Shoe.

9. At this Boaz said to the Elders, and all the People; Ye are Witnesses to Day, that I buy all which was Elimelech's, and all which was Chilion's and Mahlon's, from Naomi;

10. And that I also purchase Ruth the Moabitess, the Wife of Mahlon, to be my Wife, to raise up the Name of the Dead upon his Estate, that it may not be destroyed from his Brethren, and the Gate of his Place: ye are Witnesses to Day.

11. We are, said all the People who were at the Gate, and the Elders: the Lord make the Woman who is coming into thy House, like Rachel and Leah, those two that built up the Family of Israel; and do thou valiantly in Ephratah, and have a Name famous in Beth-lehem.

12. Let thy Family too be like that of Pharez, whom Tamar bore to Judah, from the Offspring which the Lord shall give thee of this young Woman.

13. Thus Boaz married Ruth, and going in to her, the Lord gave her Conception, and she bore a Son.

14. With that the Woman said to Naomi; Blessed be the Lord who has not let thee fail of a Kinsman to Day, whose Name shall be famous in Israel.

15. Nay he will be a Restorer of Life to thee, and a Sustainer of thy old Age; because thy Daughter-in-law who loves thee has born him, she who is better to thee than seven Sons.

16. So Naomi took the Child, and putting him in her Bosom, was his Nurse.

17. And the Women who were Neighbours gave him a Name, saying there was a Son born to Naomi, which Name was Obed: he was the Father of Jesse, the Father of David.

18. Now these were the Generations of Pharez: he begot Hezron,

19. And he Ram, and he Amminadab,

20. And he Nahshon, and he Salmah,

21. And he Boaz, and he Obed,

22. And he Jesse, and he David.

Ver. 1. he said] The Heb. has not unto whom, nor the former English Translations; so reminds were those whom King James employed: however the old Lat. has, ad eum.

Ver. 4. inform thee of] Tynd. do the to wete, the Bish. differently spelled, doe thee to wit.

Ib. Inhabitants] Gen. assistants.

Ver. 5. buy also] not it, but her to be his Wife understood, as Ver. 10. Deut. xxv. 5, 6. which made the Kinsman refuse to buy the Land, when he had consented to do it before; and simply buying the Land would not raise up the Name of the deceased Husband: the Chald. and vulg. Lat. express here the taking her; see Buxt. Vindic. p. 761.

Ib. raise] Tynd. stare, so Gen. and Bish.

Ver. 8. the Kinsman] But the vulg. Lat. contrary to the Heb. Boaz said to his Kinsman, Take off thy Shoe.

Ver. 11. do—valiantly] The like Words are together in Psa. cxviii. 15, 16. and the Noun is Strength, Valour, &c. Accordingly Sebast. Mun. renders it, in age strenue, and Leo Jud. tu strenue age.

Ib. a Name] as Ver. 14.

Ver. 13. gave her Conception] In our former Translations, gave that she conceived.

Ver. 15. thy Daughter-in-law who loves thee has born him] But the com. Lat. of thy Daughter-in-law is he born who will love thee.

Ver. 20. Salmah] Why Salmen by the English Translators from the Greek?

NOTES upon the FIRST BOOK of SAMUEL.

C H A P. I.

AND there was a certain Man of Ramathaim-zophim, of Mount Ephraim, whose Name was Elkanah, the Son of Jeroham, the Son of Elihu, the Son of Tehu, the Son of Zuph, an Ephrathite;

2. Who had two Wives, the Name of one was Hannah, and that of the other Peninnah; and the latter had Children, but Hannah none.

3. Now that Man went up out of his City from Year to Year, to worship and sacrifice to the Lord of Armies at Shiloh; where the two Sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the Priests of the Lord were.

4. Moreover on the Day when Elkanah sacrificed, he gave Peninnah his Wife, with all her Sons and Daughters, Parts.

5. And to Hannah he gave one Part with a sorrowful Look; because he loved Hannah, and the Lord had shut up her Womb.

6. And because of that, her Adversary also provoked her to Indignation, that she might make her fret.

7. He likewise doing so Year by Year, at her going up to the House of the Lord, she thus provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat.

8. Elkanah her Husband then would say to her, Hannah, Why weepest thou? And why dost not thou eat? And why is thy Heart sad? Am I not better to thee than ten Children?

9. At last Hannah rose up after the eating and drinking at Shiloh, when Eli the Priest was sitting upon a Seat, against a Post of the Temple of the Lord;

10. And she being in bitterness of Soul, prayed to the Lord, and wept grievously.

11. She also made this Vow, O Lord of Armies, If thou wilt at all look on the Affliction of thy Handmaid, and remember me, not forgetting thy Handmaid, so that thou wilt give her male Issue, I will give him to the Lord all the Days of his Life, and a Razor shall not come up on his Head.

12. And as she prayed much before the Lord, Eli observed her Mouth.

13. However Hannah spoke in her Heart, only her Lips moved, without her Voice being heard; therefore Eli thought she was drunk.

14. Whereupon he said to her, How long wilt thou be drunk? Put away thy Wine from thee.

15. But Hannah made answer; No, my Lord: I am a Woman oppressed in Mind, and have not drunk either Wine or strong Drink; but have poured out my Soul before the Lord.

16. Do not represent thy Handmaid to have the Look of an ungodly Woman: for I have spoken hitherto, from the Abundance of my Meditation and Displeasure.

17. Then Eli made reply, Go in Peace; and the God of Israel grant thy Petition which thou hast asked him for.

18. Who rejoined, Let thy Handmaid be in favour with thee. So the Woman went her Way, and eat, having her sorrowful Countenance no more.

19. And they rose early in the Morning, and worshipping before the Lord, went back to their House at Ramah; and Elkanah had the knowledge of Hannah his Wife, whom the Lord remembered.

20. For when the Time was come about, after Hannah had conceived, she bore a Son; and called his Name Samuel, Because, said she, I asked the Lord for him.

21. Afterwards when the Man Elkanah went up with all his Family, to offer to the Lord the yearly Sacrifice, and his Vow;

22. Hannah did not go up: for she said to her Husband, Not till the Child is weaned; then I will have him, that he may appear before the Lord, and abide there for ever.

23. To whom Elkanah her Husband said, Do what thou likest, abide till thou hast weaned him, only the Lord confirm his Word. Accordingly the Woman abode, and gave her Son suck, till she weaned him.

24. And she carried him up with her when she had done that, with three Bullocks, one Ephah of Flour, and a Bottle of Wine, and had him to the House of the Lord at Shiloh; the Boy being a Child.

25. They also killed a Bullock, and brought the Child to Eli.

26. When she said; O my Lord, by thy Soul's living, my Lord, I am the Woman who stood with thee here praying to the Lord.

27. For this Child I prayed, and the Lord has given me my Petition which I asked him for.

28. Therefore I also give him that was asked, all his Days to the Lord, who was petitioned for him. At which he worshipped the Lord there.
